 *TESTS BASED ON REAR DRIVE VEHICLES

WINTER HAZARDS—Pointing out the extreme hazard of driving on glare ice, tests by the National Safety Council at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, show that stopping on glare ice may take as much as nine times the normal, dry pavement distance. The tests also disclose that conventional snow tires are of no help in stopping on ice, while studded tires reduce braking distance by 19 percent, and reinforced tire chains by 50 percent.

Driver's awareness critical on icy roads

A driver's ability to cope with winter weather conditions is directly related to the motorist's determination to reduce the risks. This is the contention of a nationally recognized accident investigator and authority on accident reconstruction, Archie Easton. He is director of the University of Wisconsin's Motor Vehicle Research Laboratory for 30 years and chairman of the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards for 15 years. Easton is serving as consulting engineer for Safety Engineering Associates, a Madison, Wis., firm specializing in automotive accident investigation and product liability.

When they do, the driver delicate touch on the steering wheel reduces the car's ability to maneuver with a and the brake pedal. On glare ice, the car's ability to stop is reduced by about 19 percent. Conventional snow tires without studs show little or no improvement in stopping ability on ice when compared with studded tires. However, as their research suggests, snow tires do not improve stopping ability on ice when compared with studded tires. In fact, snow tires on loose packed snow where they are used on a regular basis.

Some new models, down-sized and front-wheel drive, require limited clearance chains (type PL chains). Another caution Easton emphasizes is the fact that snow tires must be radials. The other tires on the non-drive wheels are radial. Otherwise, a dangerous fish-tailing or other instability can result, causing the driver to lose control of the vehicle. "Regardless of the type of traction aid used, Easton warned, at no time on snow or ice will the resulting traction be near that of conventional tires on dry pavement. As an example of the difference, Easton said that a car on an icy street can produce a stopping distance, equal to that resulting from a speed of 60 mph under normal dry pavement conditions. Getting the feel of the road is recommended by gently trying the brakes or using short bursts of acceleration to find out if and when the tires slip or spin.

By J.W. BURNETT. The regional high school system's adult educator school is "holding its own," according to Harry Litkin, director of Adult and Continuing Education, who reported to the board during its meeting Tuesday night.

Litkin presented the board with a chart of adult-school enrollment which showed a total of 2,412 students enrolled in 1980 and 2,444 students enrolled in 1981.

"So you could see," Litkin told the board, "the registration seems to be holding up, despite what I would call a soft economy."

Litkin said he had only two concerns about the future of the school. The first is based on the economy and the second is on classroom space devoted to the adult education program.

On the economy, Litkin said, "As it appears to be tightening, I'm not sure if there is enough recreational money." By recreational money, Litkin said, he meant the money people were willing to spend on pursuits such as furthering their education.

On his second concern, the room problem, Litkin said the school could not increase its number of daytime classes if empty classrooms could be found.

David Hart, board member, suggested that since enrollment is dropping, some classrooms might be developed for several years, however, said Dr. Donald Merachuk, superintendent of schools.

The adult education program, Litkin says, covers a wide span of ages and there is "no pattern" among the students. He added, "There are no students only David Bradley's has taken on one age group or another."

Litkin's report comes just as the adult education program is about to publish its 1982 course catalog. In other business, the board discussed what had been feared was a structural defect in the David Bradley building. By recreational money, Litkin said, he meant the money people were willing to spend on pursuits such as furthering their education.

RESIDENTS SHIVER IN COLD AND ICE—Township volunteer fireman Jerry Blaboi, left in top photo, John Beyer and Jim Anagnos wait in the snow outside the Edward Walton School at a fire alarm during last week's storm that caused children to be let out from school early on Wednesday. An "usual" order in the school turned out to be a handball stuck in a light fixture. An unidentified woman, left, slides her way across ice at the intersection of Morris and Mountain avenues, while township Patrolman Pete Fico braces a breath of steam, demonstrating how really cold it was. Severe cold, heavy snow cause no serious problems for town

Record subzero temperatures, heavy snowfalls and icy road conditions thus far have not caused any serious problems for Springfield residents, according to public safety officials.

"We've had several calls of pipes freezing and cars have been breaking down all over," said police Sgt. Peter Hammer.

"It's been bad, but nothing outrageous," he continued, there have been "no major problems—no major accidents, but a lot of stalled and mired vehicles."

Hammer added that the roads on the top of Ballou Mountain have been frozen white-out and there have been several complaints about roads needing to be salted.

Fire officials also said they received no calls over the past week related to the snow and temperature, although an alarm was called Thursday from the Edward Walton School, just after classes let out early because of the heavy snowfall. A spokesman for the Fire Department said it turned out to be a false alarm, when a handball was found smoldering while stuck in a light fixture.

While the Police and Fire departments found a relatively easy fix with the bone chilling weather, officials in the emergency room at Overlook Hospital in Summit encountered an increased number of people reporting broken bones after taking spills on ice.

Officials there also warned of possible frostbite and hypothermia. Several cases of frostbite were reported last week at the hospital, according to a spokeswoman in the emergency room.

Frostbite symptoms are a numbness in exterior parts of the body, a paleness or white looking skin, and affected areas "might feel like pieces of wood," the spokeswoman said.

The key to treating frostbite is a gradually warming of the affected area with warm water, according to the spokeswoman, who stressed that hot water could do damage. An affected area also can be placed near a warm body part and it is helpful not to smoke because it slows the circulation of blood.

Hypothermia symptoms are more difficult to recognize and victims are usually found unconscious by someone else.

The elderly, infants and those who are most susceptible to hypothermia, which occurs when the body temperature drops below 96 degrees.

School board OKs 1982-83 calendar

By PHIL HARTMAN
 The Board of Education approved a 1982-83 school-year calendar Tuesday that is in conjunction with other regional school districts in the county, according to Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools.

The calendar allows for the state-required 180 school days, and Baruchin added that there are a total of 183 class days, which is one more than this year. Students report for a half-day on Sept. 8 and full-day classes begin on Sept. 9, while teachers report on Sept. 7 for orientation and preparation, Baruchin said.

Classes will end with three half-days on June 20, 21 and 22. The last day for teachers is June 24.

Sunny for the holiday periods in the calendar are: a New Jersey Education Association convention in November; Christmas vacation, beginning after a half-day on Dec. 23; midwinter recess, beginning on Feb. 21; Good Friday and Memorial Day. Baruchin explained the administration decision that the school would not have off for Columbus Day because "we feel we can be of more help by offering instructional assistance."

Included in the calendar are four half-days for in-service professional development for teachers, Baruchin said.

After approval of school dates for next year, the board took care of other December business that was postponed because of the budget meetings and the recent cancellation of meetings due to weather. One of those items was approval of the annual plan for the education of handicapped children, which is required by state law.

That item was turned down, 6-2, by the board because some members said they had not received the plan for review. It will be re-voted upon at the February meeting.

In other December business, the board authorized the receipt of bids for lighting changes at the Florence Gaudinier School. Capital outlay funds of $15,000 remaining from this year's budget will go toward those improvements.

The board also approved transferring $20,000 to special education from the general fund. The transfer was approved by a 6-2 vote.

Proposed $4.3-million budget passed in emergency session

The Board of Education approved the proposed $4.3 million for expenses next year in an emergency session on Jan. 14, just before the deadline of this past Monday for submission of a tentative school district budget to the County Superintendent's Office. The session was called after the previous night's budget meeting was canceled due to heavy snows and treacherous traveling conditions, Baruchin added.

The board unanimously passed the 1982-83 expenditures with two minor revisions, made in executive session last week following a meeting held for public comment on the budget.

The board modified the amount of unemployment insurance for the school district, allocating additional funds for that item.

A fresh look at John Donne

By ROBERT BROWN

John Donne (1572-1631) and his work have been the subject of a new book, "John Donne: A Study in Contradictions," by John Carey. The book is a fresh look at the poet and his work, and it is a study in contradictions. Carey's work is a study in contradictions because it is a study of a man who was both a poet and a preacher, a man who was both a Catholic and a Protestant, a man who was both a man of letters and a man of action. Carey's work is a study in contradictions because it is a study of a man who was both a man of letters and a man of action. Views On Dental Health

By SEAN T. FENTON, D.M.D.

ELECTRIC TOOTHBRUSHES.

Electric toothbrushes are the 20th century's answer to "toothbrusher's elbow." But you can do just as well manually. Their main advantage is that all you have to do is apply the brush to your teeth and the brush does all the work.

Another advantage of the electric toothbrush is its novelty value. It is a mechanical device and children are more likely to develop regular brushing habits because of their fascination with its novelty value. If an electric toothbrush encourages the habit of brushing teeth on a regular schedule, it is well worth the investment.

The electric toothbrush is definitely a boon to handicapped persons who cannot brush their teeth easily with a regular hand brush.

The late president, Lyndon Johnson was sold on electric toothbrushes. He used to present them engraved with the presidential seal as gifts. "I give these toothbrushes to friends," LBJ told his biographer, Doris Keans. "Then I know they will think of me every morning, and every night."

The growing scarcity of housing in the United States affects all classes of people, but none as severely as the poor and the elderly. Many large cities, even so-called "suburban" housing is in short supply.

The nation's builders, gripped by the worst energy price depression, can't afford to construct housing for the elderly or middle income buyers at prices they can afford. As a result, the housing industry is losing far more than meeting the national goal of producing 2.6 million housing units annually as a replacement of the aging, substandard dwellings and to meet the demands of a growing population of young families.

The housing industry has been battered by sharp increases in the cost of borrowing money and a resulting depletion of the savings and loan institutions which are the chief source of credit for home builders and buyers.

The resulting scarcity of financing is causing a severe decline in new construction and is adding to the high costs encountered by families looking for homes of their own.

According to the National Association of Home Builders, nearly 3 1/2 million potential buyers are removed from the housing market each year. In 1979, the rate of new construction rose 1 percent. Even before the credit crunch developed in the housing market, home buying costs were soaring. The result is a real estate market for Americans. For the poor and middle income citizens, the only hope seemed to be government-assisted housing.

For the middle income Americans, it rests on a sharp decline in interest rates, and that may take some time to achieve.

The situation is much worse than in 1979, the last year of the housing industry was in a serious recession. At that stage, President Ford directed the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to release $2 billion in funds to assist in the purchase of home mortgages and to build subsidized housing, particularly projects for the elderly.

These funds were intended to help the depressed housing market, but they failed to overcome fundamental difficulties such as inflation in the price of land and high cost of credit.

There appears to be no housing policy worthy of that title now except to wait for interest rates and inflation to abate. Recently, the Office of Management and Budget proposed ending

Know Your Government

From the New Jersey Taxpayers Association

Legislative action on an unusually large number of bills at the end of the second year session of the 1980th Legislature resulted in questions about the necessity, timing and value of such activity, particularly by a lame-duck legislature and prior to a change in government.

Questions include the reason for so much legislation being introduced and considered in the last two months of a two-year session; applicability of the constitutional amendment approved by voters in November which established a new timetable for consideration of legislation by the government; and the number of bills that can be introduced late in the second year of a session.

More than 400 bills and resolutions were introduced between November and the January adjournment. One reason for that number was that there was no legislative meeting between late June and the November election. Some of the legislation was considered necessary to take care of business needing attention late in the calendar year.

The flurry of legislative action on long lists of bills in the last three or four months, also, brought queries about the wisdom of the constitutional amendment approved by the voters in November to prevent the governor from delaying action on bills passed by the legislature. Since approval of the amendment at all levels following the November election, the governor on the same day or within 24 hours of passage. The governor had up to 45th day of the 100-day session to sign or veto the legislative year, if not signed, because law automatically if not vetoed by the deadline date—the day before the end of the session.

The amendment would require the legislature meet as soon as possible after the election to consider bills passed by the legislature in the last 24 hours of the session. Any bills passed by the legislature in the last 24 hours of the session, to become law had to be signed by the governor by noon of the last session day which was Jan. 12, or returned by him with his objections to pass them as amended by the legislature before the deadline. Otherwise the bill was considered to be pocket vetoed.

The passage of numerous bills in the last few days of the session can create a volume for action by the governor in a limited time that may sign some bills without a proper review or must pocket veto some legislation which, because of inadequate time to consider desirable modifications, must wait for the new legislative session.

Proposals are occasionally made to limit bill introduction by legislative rules which either fix a maximum number per legislator or establish a cut-off date for introduction in the second session year, after which special permission or committee action is required. Such limitations have not been seriously considered the New Jersey legislators although some states have such restrictions.

Gov. Byrne in his 1979 annual message expressed concern over the volume of laws passed. He announced his goal was to reduce the number of laws on the books, and he encouraged the legislature to repeal a law for every one passed. The next year he declared, "There is no reason to continue introducing thousands of pieces of legislation every year. Although I have every conceivable issue." The record will show he approved more laws than any New Jersey governor, including Gov. Byrne and act accordingly.

Hopefully, the new governor and the 200th legislature will agree with Gov. Byrne and act accordingly.

Prime Time

Protect yourself against the cold

By CYRIL BRICKFIELD

Two days before Thanksgiving, there was snow in the Washington, D.C., area for the first time this winter. Although it was only a light flurry, it was an ominous reminder of winters past, bringing to mind memories of older people freezing to death in their homes.

In most cases, their deaths were not avoidable, and it is quite likely that they would still be alive if only the proper precautions had been taken. Now, while there's still time, let's take a moment to think about what we can do to protect ourselves during these next few months.

When going to the grocery store or to the doctor—even when it snows—remember that cold weather itself, without any physical exertion, puts an extra strain on the heart. If you add to this strain the heavy physical activity such as shoveling snow, cleaning snow off your car, or just walking too far or too fast, you may be asking for trouble.

Consequently, you should dress warmly, using the layered-look method again. Wear a wool hat, protect your face and cover your mouth to protect your lungs from the very cold air. If you wear mittens instead of gloves, your hands will stay warmer.

As soon as you get back home, get out of your wet clothes to prevent loss of heat. When you get your clothes wet, they lose all insulating value.

One word about using alcohol when you are going out into the cold: Don't. Even though you may feel warmer, alcohol causes your body to lose heat more rapidly. It also dehydrates your body and acts as a depressant to your nervous system.

Learn how to recognize signs of cold weather exposure so you can know what to look for in your friends and yourself. Remember, however, that it's easier to spot the signs in others than yourself. When the body begins to lose heat faster than it can produce it, a condition called hypothermia begins to develop.

The only sure way to detect hypothermia is with a special thermometer available in most hospitals, but there are signs you can look for. They include any unusual change in appearance or behavior in cold weather. Be on the lookout for unusually vague, slow or slurred speech; abnormal memory lapses; incoherence or fumbling hands; drowsiness; apparent exhaustion or inability to get up after a rest. Again, remember that many people cannot spot hypothermia in themselves.

If a person shows any signs of overexposure to cold or to wet and windy weather, you can help. Sometimes he or she will not be able to recognize the seriousness of the situation. Get the person into dry clothing and into a warm bed or blanket with a hot water bottle or heating pad. Give him warm drinks (non-alcoholic) and keep him quiet. If the symptoms seem extreme to you, don't hesitate to get emergency help immediately.

"Everybody talks about the weather," observed a Hartford Courant editorial in 1977, "but nobody does anything about it." We still can't change the weather, but today you have a chance to do something to stay ahead of winter!

Cyril P. "Cy" Brickfield is the executive director of the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association in Washington, D.C.

Severe weather causes few serious problems

can cause an irregular heartbeat which, if not treated, can lead to death.

The spokesman warned that senior citizens who lower their heat to save in fuel costs are asking for trouble because the lowered temperature may not be enough to stave off hypothermia.

Should a person exhibit signs of hypothermia, the spokesman said, they should be wrapped in a warm blanket and given medical attention immediately.

Hardwick bill benefitting Bible school is enacted

In the final hours of the 1980 session of the New Jersey Legislature, Gov. Byrne signed legislation introduced by Assemblyman Chuck Hardwick (R-Union) which will benefit vacation Bible schools. Hardwick's bill, A2064, was designed to exclude vacation Bible schools from youth camp regulations which had imposed such severe restrictions on vacation Bible schools that some were subjected to substantial fines which threatened their continu-

Brooklyn man hurt in one-car accident

SPRINGFIELD—A Brooklyn man was in satisfactory condition earlier this week at Overlook Hospital in Summit after his car hit a pole last week on Route 22, according to police.

Harry M. Elshieff of 326 47th St. was on Route 22 traveling east Jan. 14 when his car was cut off on the left lane and skidded into a utility pole in front of the Sandler and Worth parking lot, police reported. Police said he was "incapacitated" when they arrived.

Hirsh remains head of Israel bonds unit

SPRINGFIELD—Alan K. Bloom, general chairman, Metropolitan New Jersey State of Israel Bonds, announced that Charles Hirsh of Springfield will serve a third consecutive term as chairman of the Israel Bond Executive Committee.

CHARLES HIRSH

In accepting this post again, Hirsh stated, "The record-shattering increase of 35 percent in Israel Bond investments registered in 1981 is a direct and graphic reflection of the dedication on the part of both our leadership and volunteer workers."

"The awesome problems which confront Israel make it more apparent than ever before that the nation's industrial development had to go forward and this is the prime and crucial role of investments in State of Israel Bonds. We of the Israel Bond Organization share a mutual goal—to perpetuate, in 1982, our record of ever-increasing sales of Israel Bonds. Israel's aspirations for peace are linked directly with a strong economy, and I am confident, therefore, that we will see a dramatic increase in Israel Bonds investments during the crucial months that lie ahead."

The most dramatic and significant project undertaken by Israel in the Mediterranean-to-Red Sea Canal, the hydroelectric project which will provide up to 13 percent of Israel's total energy needs in the 1990's. The financing of this canal is of top priority for the Israel Bond Organization.

Hirsh, who served as a member of the U.S. Foreign Affairs Committee in the 1977 campaign, previously served as chairman of the U.S.A.'s cash mobilization drive. He was co-chairman of the Special Gifts Division in the Metropolitan New Jersey area and, also, co-chairman of their campaign in Berkeley Heights, and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Jewish Community Federation of Metropolitan New Jersey and is a member of Green Rock Country Club.

He was recipient of the "Man of the Year" award presented by the Springfield Lodge of B'nai B'rith and is a former member of the board of trustees of the Jewish Education Association.

Hirsh is a member of Temple Sha'arei Shalom, and served as an officer of the congregation's board of trustees.

The State We're In

By David F. Moore, North Jersey Conservation Foundation

"Take a close look at your 1981 state income tax form and you'll see a line item which permits you to strike a tangible blow for our state's endangered wildlife species. If you put a check mark in the appropriate box, you will have donated $5 or $10 of your pending refund to a special endangered species fund."

This income tax checkoff program was signed into law by Gov. Brendan Byrne last June as the Nongame and Endangered Species Conservation Fund Act. Thirteen other states already had similar programs.

Recently I wrote in this space about growing recognition of people's need for survival because so many thousands of life forms are becoming extinct. Admittedly, it is the kind of problem few will take seriously until it's too late. The gist of it is, however, that all existing life forms, including people, evolved over billions of years through a process of cross-pollination of species. Without enough species to cross-pollinate this process, life can wind down on this little planet.

I wrote also that some state governments are showing more interest in preserving vanishing species than is our federal government, which has its own Endangered Species Act, but which too often fails to be used as a scapgoat against silly federal projects.

Unfortunately, government's inability to support park-land policies has allowed the continued proliferation of wild, uncontrolled and otherwise ill-advised, special-interest projects such as the Tully Dam in Tennessee.

In that case, the act was bent out of shape, desperate attempts to kill the project against which many other valid social and economic arguments should have been used. The result, a fish, was victimized by Tellico. All that this really accomplished was to make the concept of preserving the planet's variety of species the butt of crude

Past tense

ONE YEAR AGO WILLIAM KENZIE becomes the first baby of the New Year in Springfield. WILLIAM arrived on January 5 at 8:53 a.m. The actual budget was 7.9% this year. Although I will have to go to vote, the Springfield Board of Education approved the increase by a margin of 7-5. CYNTHIA JOSEPH is selected as the new director of the Springfield Public Library. Opposition to the Interstate Route 78 still stands by their objections to the road. Their reasons are that air pollution and noise levels will increase in Springfield. Also, they say that property values will depreciate.

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO All three present members of the school board are running for reelection. They are ROBERT SMITH, EDWIN DAVENPORT and S. BRYANT HAAS. The Springfield Board of Education okayed an increase of $80,000 in the school budget. $50,000 of that money will be used to pay increases in salaries. CHARLES HEARD of Springfield is up for another term on the Board of Trustees at Overlook Hospital.

FORTY FIVE YEARS AGO GABRIEL FARSE is named as Bank President of the First National Bank of Springfield. The State Highway Department plans to widen Route 29, a road which has the distinction of being nicknamed "The Valley of Death."

Correction

It was not included last week in a front-page caption "PTA Fund raises money to help" that the money was presented to the Children's Hospital. It was from a collector made during Halloween by children in the district's elementary schools.

Stier looks at 20 years at Kean

A man who admitted that thousands of students at Kean College during his growth from a teachers' training institution to a multi-purpose college will retire Jan. 31.

Dr. E. Theodore Stier became director of admissions at Kean College in 1960. Before that, he served as guidance director at Bordentown's William MacFarland High School and Highland Park High School, and as a coordinator and consultant for the State Department of Education.

When he joined the state college staff, he was the only admissions director visiting area high schools and speaking at career programs. Now he has five assistant directors.

Dr. Stier finds far more competition for potential students today than when he became admissions director.

"The private colleges have had to attract students through marketing techniques for many years," he observed. "The public colleges must use those same techniques. Instead of being a buyer's market, college has become a seller's market."

Despite the strong competition for students, applications for Kean College's freshman class increased 18 percent above average a year ago and are running 35 percent above average this year.

The college draws students from all counties in New Jersey, as well as Staten Island. Most of its 15,000 undergraduate and graduate students commute from Union, Essex, Middlesex and Monmouth Counties. Kean's secondary areas include Hudson, Somerset, Morris and Ocean Counties.

About 25 percent of the current freshman class is composed of Hispanic and black students.

Shortly after Dr. Stier joined the college, he began to offer training for secondary as well as elementary teachers.

His most popular major is management science. Dr. Stier also points out that the college is the state flagship for health-related career programs. Students in the public college disciplines make up more than one-third of all undergraduates. Liberal arts majors represent another third, with education majors just under a third, he says.

Dr. Stier has been recognized for his contributions to education. He is secretary of the National Association of College Admission Counselors, a life member of the National Education Association and Phi Delta Pi and president of the Rutgers University Class of 1946. He also is a member of many professional education organizations.

Dr. Stier received his master's degree in guidance at the university and earned his doctorate in education at Yeshiva University.

His son, Richard, now a microbiologist with National Food Program in Berkeley, Calif., and his daughter, Debra, also are graduates of Rutgers University. He has a third daughter, Priscilla.

An avid landscaper, gardener and amateur carpenter, Dr. Stier has several home projects planned. He hopes to travel with his wife, Jean, a guidance counselor at Union High School, as well as golf, bowl, swim and enjoy his hobby of photography.

"Then maybe I'll write a book about some of my experiences as an admissions director, and perhaps enter some business where I'll enjoy the one-to-one relationships without the responsibilities I have here. I'm in no hurry to make a decision," he concludes.

Fashion design competition offers scholarships to winners

In its continuing effort to identify and encourage fashion design talent among young Americans, the Flemington Fur Co., one of the world's largest specialists in fine fur, has announced its 16th annual Fashion Design Scholarship Awards Program.

Open to all area high school juniors and seniors, the competition is jointly sponsored by Flemington Fur, Flemington, and the "Traphagen School" of Fashion in New York City. Winners will be awarded scholarships to Traphagen School.

Noting that the principal purpose of the annual competition is to encourage talented American youngsters to seek careers in the fashion design field, S. Rodgers Benjamin, president of Flemington Fur, commented, "It is our belief that with the fashion spotlight focused on European designers, there is little encouragement being given to young American designers. By offering these scholarships, our company hopes

Dayton to see McNeece again

By RON BRANDSDORFER
The red-hot, high-flying Bulldogs are set to see the Eastern Conference's top star again at a time and place not special enough for any particular game. But that's going to be awfully tough to do tomorrow evening when they head to Roselle Park for a 7:30 game with the Panthers.

That will be a very emotional game for both teams and especially the two coaches because it will mark the renewal of a special friendship.

Bill McNeece, who was Dayton coach Ray Yanchus' assistant for nine years, is now the head coach at Roselle Park. Both he and Yanchus realize it will be strange sitting on different benches. "My adrenaline is really up for that one," admitted McNeece, who's attending the Bulldogs' 12th annual program. "It should be a great game."

Not even old friendships are going to stop the Bulldogs from trying to make Roselle Park their fifth straight victory. A good Broad Brook team (6-5) was No. 4 on Tuesday, as the Bulldogs romped to a 74-41 victory on Tuesday.

Kyle Hudgins had his finest game of the season, as the junior forward poured in 23 points, 10 in the second quarter, and walked down 15 rebounds. Geoff Bradshaw added 15 points and Danny Cirelli chipped in with 12.

At the Bulldogs' certainly looked like contenders for the Mountain Valley Conference title last Friday night in romping all over Spotswood, 60-40, much to the dismay of the Chargers' hometown fans.

It was over early, too, as the Bulldogs raced to a 12-9 quarter lead and a big 31-17 bulge at halftime. And as Yanchus

Four big winners in Ivy League

By ROBERT STEIR
Yale, Columbia, Harvard and Penn all came up Ivy League winners in the Springfield Recreation Department's basketball league last week.

Yale used 21 points from Eric Kahn and 20 from Gregg Kahn to roll to a 44-16 victory over Dartmouth. Yale dominated the game, leading 19-8 after one quarter and 31-7 at halftime. Gregg Kahn tallied 12 of his points in the second quarter and Eric Kahn controlled the boards.

Harvard added seven points and seven assists and Jim Ruban chipped in with four points for Yale. Jon Sekella scored 16 points for Dartmouth and Jeff Ginsberg added the other two.

In other action, Columbia held off Princeton, 38-26, as a balanced offensive attack offset a fourth quarter rally by the losers. John Lusardi led the way with 13 points, followed by Dan DiLandro with nine. David Litzenberg had eight points in the first half, and Reyna grabbed 10 rebounds.

For the winners, Barry Tettebaum scored four points, Matt Lynch three and Eric Schobel added two. Paul Taher and Graig Graziano were tops for Texas.

Oklahoma, employing a pressing defense in the fourth quarter, defeated Florida, 21-15. Spencer Pantler led the winners' attack with nine points, followed by Mike Elson and Kymuran Bayrall with six each. Elson also had a game-high 11 rebounds. Dominick Barone led Florida with eight, while Scott Summers added three and Robert Feinberg and Stan Fedorovich added two apiece.

In the Small Fry league, the Celtics outscored the Raiders in every quarter to take a 20-11 victory. Justin Petino had 12 points, and Neil Galtara and Chris Laves added four each for the Celts, and Julie Koppkin and Mark Foisold played well.

Robbie Hamilton scored all of the Raiders points, while Greg Berman had seven rebounds and Billy Hart added four steals.

The Rockets, leading 15-1 after three quarters, had to hold off a last period charge by the Pistons to win, 19-17. Bob Sabol grabbed six rebounds, while Jimmy Chung led with seven points, followed by David Wickham with six and two each from Sabol, Greg Baroni and Ryan Feeley.

Tony Prior's five assists, Greg Aprian's three steals and Lauren Meixner's two points and four rebounds keyed the Pistons' late surge. Rick Lissi led the scorers with eight, while Matt Applebaum added six and Charles Maltzman one.

The Bulldogs, led by James Morrison and Michael Montanari's 10 points each, defeated the Lakers, 24-18. The one-two punch offset 12 points by the losers' Danny Monaco, Leo Gravina with seven rebounds, and Sean Weisner played well for the Lakers, and Bindul Turakhia added four points and Suzanne Saito two for the losers.

John Burger and Michael Rodington added a basket each for the winners.

The Bullets defeated the Jets, 10-4, on a basket by Michael Lippman with 11 rebounds. Danny Longfords scored six points and grabbed seven rebounds for the Bullets, and Maurice Palmino added the other two points. Scott Wislwa also made four steals.

For the Jets, Roger Lerner led with four points, and Claudia Reyna and Jimmy DiIullo added two each. Jennifer Francis took down seven rebounds, and Steve Marcus and Jewel Powell played well.

Dayton swimmers race to fifth straight victory

Five in a row...and counting.

That's the word from Dayton Regional swimming coach Howard Cusnir, who watched his team roll past Irvington, 47-26, and Summit, 94-77, to boost its winning streak to five meets.

Reaching eight straight victories is the goal now, but that won't be easy at all. Dayton will meet Union Catholic tomorrow, host Ridge (one of the state's top five teams) on Monday at the Union Boys and Girls' Club and take on Union on Wednesday.

But those three opponents might not be too eager to swim against Dayton, considering that seven swimmers recorded personal bests in the victory over Summit.

Robbie Hamilton scored all of the Raiders points, while Greg Berman had seven rebounds and Billy Hart added four steals.

"And since Summit won seven of the 11 events," Cusnir said, "it was a very opportune time for that to happen because we needed the points."

Bill Gier, Frank Kelly, Cheryl Pettenger, Lori Smith, Ed Chrystal, Hal Levine and George Markos all were point-getters for Dayton, while Matt Eick, Donna Keller, John Alder and the 40 freestyle relay team (Eick, Levine, Chrystal and Kelly) all earned first place finishes.

UP AND OVER—Dayton's Nino Parlavescchio loses Bayley-Ellard opponent

Mike Horns over his shoulder in a Parlavescchio loss to Bayley-Ellard opponent in Madison. Parlavescchio won this match, too, pinning Horns to hand the Bulldogs another six points.

Bulldogs crunch Bayley as Sokohl, Walsh romp

By BOB BRUCKNER
Wrestling and chess have three things in common: they are complicated, require a lot of strategy and plenty of fast thinking or advanced planning.

The Dayton wrestlers proved this true when they outsmarted, out-muscled and out-wrestled Bayley-Ellard, 47-19, last week in Madison. Roselle Catholic, the third opponent in the triangular meet, cancelled out the last minute.

After the Bishop's Mike Dellar pinned Matt Locastelli at 5:33 in the 100 pound match, Robert Sokohl, a junior competing at 107, pinned Todd Davis in 1:36.

The Bulldogs then defeated Dave Anderson. Al Heckle pinned Jeff Shalcross at 1:28 to keep Dayton close. Then at 1:34, sophomore Paul Stieve got into a good, tough match with Dave Anderson.

Anderson got off to a quick start, but because of Stieve's excellent balance and endurance, the Bishop's top grappler was unable to score any takedowns.

In the second period, Stieve tied Anderson's legs in a scissors knot, and scored two for a takedown, but Anderson scored a point for Dartmouth and Jeff Greenberg in a 46-31 win over Brown. The winners capitalized on sloppy Brown play in the second half to break open a close game. Tom Meixner scored 14 points and Adam Jacobs nine for the winners.

Brian Cole tallied 11 for Brown, who played without point guard Rob Pusco. Chris Chamson added eight points, Joe Colatriglio six, Glenn Balthuch four and

Junior Minutemen romp to fifth straight victory

By ANDY ROSENTHAL
The two Springfield Minutemen basketball teams continued their success on the basketball court last week. The unbeaten Juniors managed a sweep over New Providence and South Orange, while the Seniors happily settled for a split.

The Seniors put together a 38-27 victory over a feisty New Providence team, as high scoring John Lusardi and Gregg Kahn led the way. Lusardi paced Springfield with eight points and eight rebounds, while Kahn notched eight points and two assists.

Eric Kahn contributed five points and eight rebounds, while Joel Greenberg matched Kahn's five points and added three assists. Also contributing to the victory were Joe Cieri (four points, three rebounds), Tom Kisch (four points, seven assists, five steals), Tom Meixner and Chris Petino (two points apiece) and Brian Cole, Jim Schermer and Rick Francis.

The Seniors received a boost for 10 rebounds, five steals and nine rebounds. John Sekella had eight points and dominated the backboards, while Gregg Kahn had three buckets, five steals and four assists and Mike Galardo combined for 15 boards. Gregg Walsh, Adam Miller, Chris Monaco and Kenny Garagiulo scored two points apiece.

The Juniors relied on another balanced scoring attack and made it five straight victories with an easy 38-24 decision over South Orange.

DINING GUIDE

A COMPLETE REFERENCE OF FINE RESTAURANTS

Echo Queen Diner has non-stop good eating

By TIM LEAHY
I'm forever amazed as I travel throughout Union and Essex counties with all of the first-class restaurants. Our readers have to select from within the circulation area of our nine publications. No exception is the well-known Echo Queen Diner-Restaurant, Route 22 and Mill Lane, Mountaintop.

A LITTLE SNOW doesn't stop diners from visiting the Echo Queen Diner, Restaurant, Route 22, Mountaintop, as the picture above indicates. The popular eatery is known for its wide selection of entrees at reasonable prices.

Speaking of tasty dishes, I make it a habit to pick up menus from each of the restaurants I write about to make sure I tell our readers about the type of cuisine served. In addition to what I've eaten, in this endeavor at the Echo Queen, I noticed their unique children's menu that not only offers a beautiful assortment of reasonably priced items for the kiddies, but when the "little darlings" start to get fidgety like most of them always seem to do when you take them to dinner. Mom and Dad can keep them occupied with the menu that also offers an assortment of puzzles to occupy their busy little minds. As a matter of fact, the menu is actually a 4x8 by 8-inch page booklet with five pages of "easy-to-do" puzzles designed to entertain. I'll let you in on a secret. I like to do them myself; it sort of gives me a feeling of superiority to know that I can do a puzzle as well as any 10-year-old!

Now that I've taken care of the children, how about the adults? What has the Echo Queen got for us big kids? Well, my friends, you name it and you're almost sure to find it at this first-class diner-restaurant. Let's start with the chef's specialties. There are 10 different items under this category alone, including baked short ribs of beef jardiniere, baked stuffed clams, baked macaroni and ground beef, a favorite of mine, baked spaghetti, a Greek specialty of steamed macaroni with chopped meat and tomato sauce. Let's not stop there, there's much more!

For Italian food lovers, there are such delights as shrimp Farrigiana, baked mince-fish cutlet Parmigiana, breast of chicken Parmigiana and more. In addition there are savory saute dishes of veal marsala, chicken liver saute and their famous veal a la Franchise. The menu goes on and on and offers diners robust steaks of turkey, Virginia ham and roast sirloin of beef. Seafood lovers can have a ball at the Echo Queen, where the seafood selection of the menu offers no less than 14 different entrees, including broiled and fried shrimp, scallops and combination platters. Finally, there are 10 other items from the broiler including sirloin steak, London broil and filet mignon and much, much more!
