Judge to hear plea for retrial on I-78

By PHILIP HARTMAN

A federal judge will hear a request next month to renege a suit made by opponents to the highway Feb. 8 on whether the state Department of Transportation asked for approval of the highway's route. This is the only issue on which the judge has not ruled. If the highway opponents lose this issue and their motion for reargument, their next step is to appeal to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

Whether the township will support an appeal if Lacey rejects the coalition's request for a reargument depends upon "the availability of money and the chances of being successful in an appeal," according to Committeeman William Cieri.

Lacey also may decide to renege only some of the charges made by the opponents, according to Edward Fanning, the township attorney.

"If there is an issue that requires additional testimony he (Lacey) may request an additional hearing," Fanning said. "But that's only conjecture. Fanning added.

Another issue still undecided is whether the environmental impact statement filed by the DOT was "time-consuming" to prepare, according to opponents to the highway. Lacey has charged that it was finished too late.

Raisch said the coalition was supported by local residents with environmental lawyers Monday, but due to inclement weather the meeting was canceled, and the township's position remains undecided on what, if any, legal action will be sought against DOT's presentation of the statement.

He said a meeting with the environmental lawyers will be rescheduled.

Members of the committee also said they have received no official word whether the state Attorney General's Office will conduct an investigation into the sale of the Houdaille Quarry to the DOT. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating that sale.

The unfinished link of Route 78 has been planned for nearly 30 years and is now estimated to cost $100 million. Barring a court order against it, construction is expected to begin this summer.

Engert taming enzymes to make an alcohol fuel

By PHILIP HARTMAN

Many of the students at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield take with them a small bottle of their latest research project. "How's the still going?" is the most common-quip he encounters. "Very well," is his usual reply, Engert explains.

Engert, a 17-year-old junior from Mountaintide, for the past year has been researching a way to convert paper and wood products (cellulose material) into alcohol for use as an automobile fuel. This month he received a $100 grant for his efforts from the Center for Coastal and Environmental Development at Rutgers University in New Brunswick.

Although brewing alcohol is not new, the enzyme that Engert is using to convert the material into fermentable sugar was recently discovered. Developed by the army, it is only in 550-pound drums by a company in Connecticut, according to Engert. Engert was willing to send him the small sample, just enough for him to carry on his research.

"I think it is one of the first enzymes that are trademarked," he commented, although he said he thinks there is a question of the enzyme's being patented because it could be considered a living animal.

His science research project is being conducted under the jurisdiction of the Gifted and Talented program, which is headed at the regional high school by Dennis Fox, the program's director.

Engert's equipment for the research is a range of tubes, pipes, bankers, glasses and vials that go in a way resembling a real still. What makes his project original, or different from others, Engert remarked, is his use of the enzyme in attempting to convert wood products into fermentable fuel.

"The enzyme is a 'cellulose-eating enzyme,'" Engert explained. After it is used to change the wood products into fermentable sugar, the sugar is brewed with yeast. "Just like beer," Engert said. "Then the alcohol is distilled through heating and is released as a vapor which is condensed into a liquid."

After perfecting the process, Engert estimates, with his small distillery he will be able to produce only a few gallons of alcohol during the school year, but he is already thinking about possible uses for his product.

"Even a videotape presentation and retreatments will be offered by the Parents Guild."

Also, Sister Marie Anna, the principal of the school which serves both Springfield and Union townships, announced that every child in the school scored at the national norm or above in recently administered national tests.

She also announced due to demand the preschool program will be expanded to include afternoon sessions in addition to morning classes. Registration for all grades will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Jan. 31 through Feb. 6.

Bond ordinance to pay for work on flood detention area sewers

In an session that lasted about 20 minutes Tuesday the Township Committee introduced a bond ordinance for sewer sewer improvement and passed a traffic control ordinance for Mountain Avenue.

The bond ordinance was for $25,000, which will be used for additional work discovered needed on sewers in the township flood detention basin, according to Committeeman William Cieri.

The traffic ordinance was passed in its second reading, establishing a no parking zone on Mountain Avenue near Ashwood Road. Committee members said the amendment to the traffic ordinance was prompted by public complaints of shop customers blocking the road with their cars.

In other business the committee authorized an agreement with Gershin Associates of Trenton to serve as consultants to the Planning Board for 1982-83. The committee also authorized Americorp of Cranford to provide janitorial services for the municipal building for 1982-83. They will be paid $7,387 in fees.

Recreation personnel also were approved: Ken Palazzi of Cambridge Terrace, Dan Cirrell and Joanne Cirrell of Keeler Street; Evelyn Fanish of Pflaum Way, the senior center exercise instructor; Robert Steir, publicity; Joe Capriano, Allison Kirschbaum, girls' basketball supervisor, and Tom Wlanowski, boys' basketball supervisor.

Student councils and PSE&G sponsor energy poster contest

The contest is designed to help students who attend schools in PSE&G's electric service territory to increase their understanding of energy concepts.

Prizes will be awarded for the top three entries among the students in grades seven through nine and for the top three entries among students in grades 10 through 12. First, second and third-place winners will receive $100, $70 and $50 U.S. savings bonds respectively.

Each poster will be judged on its theme, originality, neatness and accuracy. Awards will be presented at a ceremony March 19, in PSE&G's corporate headquarters at 80 Park Plaza, Newark.

All eligible students may enter the contest on their own. Interested students should develop a poster, no larger than 17 inches by 22 inches, that is based on the theme "Energy Sources for New Jersey." A file card, three by five inches, should accompany each poster and contain a brief explanation of the illustration. On the back of the file card should be the entrant's name, home address, home telephone number and name and location of his or her school.

Each poster should deal generally with one or more of the different ways to make energy in New Jersey. The illustration on the poster should show a realistic application of the chosen energy source or sources.

The deadline for submitting all entries is Feb. 22. All entries should be mailed to PSE&G, Environmental Affairs Department, T-10C, Box 570, Newark, 07101.

Winners will be notified by phone by March 12. Each poster will become the property of PSE&G unless a self-addressed, stamped envelope is included with the entry to have it returned.

For more information about the contest, students, as well as teachers who may want to encourage their students to participate in the contest, should contact regional coordinators through school student councils, or call Diane Ruffe, the educational administrator in Environmental Affairs at PSE&G, at (201) 430-5581.

Soup labels goal set in PTA computer bid

MOUNTAINSIDE—A goal of 50,000 soup labels has been set in the savings campaign coordinated by the Mountaine PTA, according to Chairman Robert Krumholz.

If the goal is reached, the school district will receive a Texas Instruments Learning Computer free of charge. "This is the largest amount of very expensive piece of equipment—if you throw away soup labels, it's just like throwing away money that could be given for other things," says Krumholz. "So we need fantastic support from the community. This is a great opportunity to obtain for free a very expensive piece of equipment."

A friendly challenge has been issued and accepted between Beechwood Principal James Johnson and Deerfield Assistant Counselor Edwin Sionelli to see which school can turn-in more labels before the Feb. 20 deadline. Sionelli is advising the Student Council to Krumholz: "Spend many hours trimming, sorting and counting the labels."

Views On Dental Health

By SEAN T. FENTON, D.M.D.

CARE OF PARTIAL DENTURES

The component of all tooth replacements is the removable partial bridge or denture, most often called simply the "partials." When some teeth are present and some missing, the partial play be used to replace the missing teeth. Good oral hygiene habits are particularly important for wearers of partial dentures. If food residue and film are allowed to accumulate on the clasps (which are food traps) the very important abutment teeth may decay. Be especially careful in cleaning these clasps, both the inside of the clasps. Use the special denture brush to clean within the clasps so that the string, as well as the tooth itself, is preventive clean. This must be done at least once a day. Have water in the bottom of the sink whenever you clean your partials. If it should happen to drop, the water will break the fall.

If a partial denture becomes damaged in any way, it should be taken at once to the dentist for repair. Attempts to repair a denture are fraught with danger. The replacement denture is high folly.

Penn, 'Bama unbeaten in b-ball league

By ROBERT STREIBER
Pennsylvania and Alabama are both unbeaten and at the top of their respective leagues in local recreation basketball action, while the Bulldogs, Columbia, Texas and Bulls all have 3-1 records and are in a wild first-place deadlock in the third and final league.

In last week's action, Alabama continued its dominance in the State League as it won its third straight game. Oklahoma and Utah are only one game behind at 2-1 after three weeks of play.

Alabama defeated Utah, 25-14, as Marcello Reyna dominated play at both ends of the court. With Reyna sitting out the entire fourth quarter, Utah managed to trim a huge deficit to six with 1:20 left. Matt Lynch then scored the next five points, including a three-point play, to tie the game for Alabama.

Reyna paced the winners with eight points, while Lynch added seven. Barry Tomlinson six and Scott Leonard two. For Utah, its fourth quarter rally was led by Roger Bassin, who converted two "steals" into baskets in the last few minutes and ended with five points.

Oklahoma edged California, 19-14, as Mike Elson and Kamuren Bayrassil keyed the winners' comeback in the second quarter. Elson scored eight points before fouling out, and Bayrassil added seven points and six rebounds. Cal was led by David Lissy and Danny Francis with six points each and Dan Lissy added the other two.

Texas played its best game this season in beating Florida, 28-21. Texas jumped to a lead of 10-0 in the first quarter, but Florida fought back. Eric Storch and Greg Graziano led the way. Florida was led by Dominick Barone with 14 points.

In the Small Fry League, the Big Five all moved into a first place tie with 2-1 records.

The first nuclear submarine, built by the Electric Boat Co. at Groton, Conn., was launched there, on the River Thames Jan. 21, 1964. It had a maximum speed of 20 knots and a displacement of 3,747 tons submerged.

Cheng (eight points) and David Williams (two) led the Rockets.

Jennifer Francis' basket with 37 seconds left in overtime gave the Jets a 24-23 win over California. The Pistons' offense was spearheaded by Claudia Reyna with 10 points, and Jewel Powell tallied six. Matt Gallardo paced the Celtics with 10 points.

The Pistons moved to a 2-1 win over the Bulldogs by not giving up a point in the second half. Rick Lissy led a balanced attack with six points, while Matt Applebaum and David Schiess added four. James Morrison and Thad Ashe scored all of the team's points.

In the Ivy League, Penn might be 3-0 and in first place, but Yale, Columbia, Harvard and Brown are all right behind at 2-1.

Penn beat Princeton, 42-50, as a 16-4 fourth quarter and foul problems by the losers contributed to the big victory. Six players scored for the winners as Joel Greenberg had 18 points and a number of assists. Tom Melnar rebounded well and tallied 11 points for the winners. Levent Bayrassil led Princeton with 19 points, followed by Rich Francis with nine points and Mark Gross with seven.

Yale dominated from beginning to end in a 47-34 victory over Cornell. Eric and Gregg Kahn combined for 42 of the winners' points as Eric dominated the boards and Gregg had five assists to go with his 20 points.

Dayton drops two meets to Middlesex, Rahway

By BOB BRUCKNER
The Dayton wrestling team dropped a pair of dual meets last week to Middlesex, 28-20, and Rahway, 30-20, and they were lost due to poor matchups, according to Coach Rick Isaacs.

Immaculate Conference powerhouses next. The Valley Division leader, will host the Bulldogs tomorrow evening, while Mountain Division leading Gov. Livingston will welcome Dayton to Berkeley Heights on Tuesday.

Income explained that this year's season is lacking the experience in the lighter weight classes. This isn't as complex as it may seem, but Isaacs' advice is all comes down to filling the proper slots.

"We are very young in those lower weight classes, and in the meantime, the sophomores, but we'll be all right. They will improve with experience."

Merit Taste Unbeaten!

MERIT low tar/good taste combination continues as proven winner over leading higher tar brands.

One low tar cigarette continues to challenge higher tar smoking—and win.

Latest research offers new evidence confirming MERIT as the proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

Higher Tars Meet Taste Match. In impartial new tests where brand identity was concealed, the overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Moreover, when tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Taste Smokers Turning To MERIT. In a second part of the same study, smokers confirm that MERIT taste is a major factor in completing their successful switch from higher tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT is an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

3 crime victims bills are law

Three bills signed into law in 1981 giving crime victims more rights than ever before, according to Robert Grayson, chairman of the New Jersey Council on Crime Victims.

Grayson, who has prepared a crime victim's legislative wrap-up for 1981, said that three pieces of legislation to help crime victims were signed into law last year.

"We're very pleased with the progress of the crime victims rights movement in New Jersey," he said. "The bills made in 1981. But there are still many critical issues that have to be addressed in 1982 and legislation passed to remedy some of the problems victims face in the criminal justice system," said Grayson, who also serves as Paterson crime victim advocate.

Grayson said action was taken on several other victim-related bills, which did not reach the governor's desk.

"We are however encouraged by the progress of these bills and the interest they generated in Trenton," Grayson said. He noted that most of the victim-related bills that did not become law would be re-introduced in the next legislative session.

Those measures include: The Crime Victim's Bill of Rights; A measure which permits the Violent Crimes Compensation Board to make applications for compensation from victims in police stations and hospital emergency rooms.

"The New Jersey Court on Crime Victims was happy to play an active role in developing two of these bills and supporting as Paterson crime victim the third," said Grayson, noting that Council Chairman Wayne Pilato, a Somerset County detective, also supported the legislation.

The three bills which became law in 1981: A measure (A-2062) which extends the amount of time a victim of a violent crime has to file for compensation from the Violent Crimes Compensation Board; A measure (A-1069) that makes applications for compensation from victims in police stations and hospital emergency rooms.

Kean College reading clinic can change a student's life

Jane is a 19-year-old girl whose school life has been changed dramatically by the reading clinic at Kean College.

The youngster was brought to the clinic with a reading problem. Difficulties were resulting in poor grades at school. Her inward disappointment became a self-fulfilling prophecy. She did not do well because she already knew she would not do well.

Enter the staff of the reading clinic. Jane joined perhaps 1,800 other children and adults who have been through Kean's program of diagnosis and remediation during the last 20 years. After 13 sessions with certified teachers enrolled in a

New refund policy rules to begin

Adam Levin, director of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs, announced that effective Feb. 1, businesses will be required to state and display their refund policies, including all terms and time limitations, at designated locations throughout their stores.

The rule, signed by former Attorney General James R. Zazzali shortly before he left office, does not apply to businesses which, for a period of not less than 20 days after purchase, provide a cash refund for a cash purchase or a cash refund or credit for a credit purchase, Levin said.

Levin said that those businesses which already provide liberal refund policies will not be affected by the new rule. "Our aim here," Levin said, "is to make these businesses with restrictive policies with restrictive or non-existent refund policies accountable to their customers. We are by no means attempting to tell stores what their refund policy should be. Rather, we are merely requiring that they make their policy, whatever it is, known to the public."

Levin said, businesses which post their refund policies are enabling shoppers to more thoroughly evaluate an item before purchasing it. "The refund policy is often a critical element in the decision to buy," he added.

Any business that violates the rule will be subject to penalties under the Consumer Fraud Act and will be required to provide consumers with either a cash refund or credit for a period of up to 20 days after purchase.

"Here's #8 of my 17 reasons why H&R Block should prepare your taxes."

REASON #8: H&R Block uncomplicates the new 1040A Short Form.

The so-called Short Form is now two pages. It calls for up to 63 entries. You may even find yourself referring to the instructions 18 times.

H&R Block tax preparers are trained to ask the right questions, make the right entries, use the right forms. All you have to do is sign your name.
