Injunction issued to halt rent rollback

By LYNN JOFFE
Superior Court Judge Alfred Wolin issued an injunction Friday blocking the Township Committee from amending Springfield's rent control ordinance.

The injunction, returnable in Superior Court in Elizabeth at 10:30 a.m. next Thursday, was obtained by East Coast Condo Tech, Inc., and Troy Ltd., who are seeking to stop a rollback of tax surcharges to a 1972 base. They are charging Township Committee Republicans with amending the rent ordinance to fulfill "campaign pledges."

The amendment, which was unanimously approved by the town fathers on June 14, called for a rollback of tenants' tax surcharges to the 1972 base. Landlords objected to the amended ordinance on the grounds that such action might result in "handshakes and might force them to seek tax appeals."

Troy is the former owner of the Troy Hills garden apartments, which were converted to condominiums in 1980. It sold the complex to East Coast Tech, Inc., and Troy Ltd., who are seeking to stop a rollback of tax surcharges to a 1972 base. They are charging Township Committee Republicans with amending the rent ordinance to fulfill "campaign pledges."

In the application for the injunction, the plaintiffs charge members of the Township Committee "were affected by the personal interest of fulfilling their campaign pledges," and further charge those pledges were initially made "to gain support of tenants' groups, knowing and aware that the amendment violated the rights, privileges and immunities of the United States Constitution."

That count holds the Township Committee members "liable to the plaintiffs."

According to Feintuch, "The suit is spurious. I don't think there is a basis for the suit. However, we must defend it."

"We gave no promises to anybody in our campaign. What we stated was that there unequivocally would be a rent control ordinance kept in place. The suit is the most convoluted approach to a situation that I have ever seen. Because we promised and delivered, we are being held accountable," Feintuch said. He added he found it "remarkably strange that only three Republicans were named when the Township Committee took a vote unanimously."

In one count of the complaint, Morris M. Schnitzer, attorney for East Coast

Town may face law suit in hiring of firefighter

By LYNN JOFFE
The Township Committee may be faced with a law suit by six volunteer firemen protesting Tuesday night's decision to hire an out-of-town resident to fill one of the two vacant paid-Fire Department positions.

The Township Committee voted 3-1, with a negative vote by Committeeman Philip Feintuch and an abstention by Committeewoman Joanne Tedesco, to approve the hiring of a new firefighter to the paid Fire Department.

The possible legal action was reported by a spokesman for the Volunteer Fire Department. He said Mayor Bill Ruocco said that state law dealing with hiring and residency requirements for paid firemen are not mandatory. One of the statutes calls for preference to be given first to residents of the municipality, then to county residents, then to residents of the state and finally to all other qualified applicants.

In addition, the spokesman stressed a second statute which calls for preference to be given to volunteer firefighters of two years — "...any appointment to such part-paid fire department shall be made from the members of the volunteer fire company or force, who shall have served as active firemen for at least two years," the statute reads.

According to Ruocco, those statutes are not mandatory and no comparable resolution has been adopted by the town fathers. "We talked about it and we would prefer to hire residents but we didn't take a vote on it. So those statutes were never formally adopted," Ruocco said.

Tempers flared after a Township Committee majority decided to hire a local volunteer firefighter for one of two vacancies in the paid department and a resident of Essex County for the second spot. The Essex County man was chosen over Springfield applicants who had the qualifications including six who are currently in the volunteer department.

According to Fire Chief Ted Johnson, Wayne Masiello of Maplewood "was the top person overall who took the exam and physical. He did remarkably well. Masiello scored a total of 129 points in tests administered to the applicants. "The deputy chief (Gerard Richelo) and I thought he did so well that he should be brought in and interviewed," Johnson said.

"Initially, we chose the two highest point scorers," Johnson said. When he learned about the Maplewood resident's score, "I was very surprised. Masiello's name" from the recommendations to the Township Committee and instead offered the names of two volunteers "who were high on my list. They (the committee) took the name and bypassed the other for Wayne," Johnson said.

According to reports, Masiello, who has lived outside the township for the past three years, is in the process of returning to take up residence in Springfield. However, the law says the candidate must be a resident at the time the application is filed, volunteer firemen claim.

GRADUATION—Some of the 261 members of the graduating class at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School wait for their names to be called during ceremonies held last Thursday night. Proposed park draws protests

By LYNN JOFFE
The Springfield Township Committee heard protests Tuesday night from several residents of the Marion Avenue area who object to plans for a park near the Morris/Marion avenues Villa Tract.

According to Mayor Bill Ruocco, plans for the park were initiated in lieu of a "rather large office complex." Included in the plans, Ruocco said, is a softball field at one end and a small asphalt parking lot at the other end. Additionally, plans call for a fitness track. No seating accommodations are planned.

But one Marion Avenue resident charged that Alvin Playground, a park nearby, has already contributed to an amount of delinquency. The woman pointed to an incident of higher fluid set off in a child's face and drug use. "I've found little bottles of acid on the grounds," she said.

She said she has been forced to call police "almost daily" because of firecrackers being lit in the park area. "This is directly behind my home. I'm worried about vandalism ... and the firecrackers."

"We are homeowners. We put a lot of investments in our homes. Someday we will want to sell — what are we going to get? Nothing!" she said.

Another Marion Avenue resident raised the issue of safety regarding ingress and egress to the property. He said the traffic flow on Morris Avenue lends itself to problems. Those problems, coupled with the traffic and bicycles used by youngsters, might compound an "already bad" traffic situation, he said.

Five playgrounds open

Five township playgrounds opened Monday for a season of varied activities and events for children aged five to 15.

Children have a choice of attending the Irwin Playground, Donham Playground, Alvin Playground or Chisholm Playground weekdays from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. The Charles M. Cohn Playground, Baltusrol Way, will be open only during morning hours. All playgrounds will be closed at 2 p.m. on Fridays to allow time for staff meetings.

Manning the parks this year will be: Joe Blanda at Irwin; Kathy Drummond at Denham; Maryann Boogar at Alvin; Valery Peterson and Anthony Bachus at Chisholm, and Joell Ruff at Cohn. The arts and crafts playground supervisor is Karen Telfaher.

This year's featured activities will include a variety of games, athletic events and inter-playground competitions, as well as arts and crafts, songs and surprise special events.

To register for the summer playground program, sponsored by the Recreation Department, children must return a parent-signed registration form to the director of the playground of their choice. Playground closing day has been set for Aug. 19.

Rinaldo hails high court ruling on redistricting

The U.S. Supreme Court decision which struck down New Jersey's congressional redistricting plan is being hailed as "a major victory" by Rep. Matthew Rinaldo, whose district until last year included Springfield.

The Republican congressman was one of the leaders in the court fight to overturn the plan.

Drawn up by a Democratic-controlled Legislature and signed into law by a Democratic governor, Brendan Byrne, just before he left office, the redistricting moved a section of Union County from the 12th District into the 7th.

Stretching from Elizabeth to Princeton and covering 30 municipalities in parts of Union, Somerset, Middlesex, Monmouth and Mercer counties, the new 7th District was — because of its shape — referred to as the "Fishhook."

It was one of several districts which critics cited as evidence of gerrymandering — defined by Webster as dividing an area into political units that give one group a special advantage. Among the others were the 3rd, a long thin stretch of land along the shoreline, and the 5th, which curves around the northern perimeter of the state.

In the opinion of many political observers, the 12th was created expressly for Adam Levin, the Democrat who ran against Rinaldo last November. However, Rinaldo, who had been considered virtually unbeatable in his old 12th District, beat back the challenge from Levin, even though Levin spent a reported $2.3 million in an effort to win the seat.

The remainder of Union County remained in the new 12th District, which is now represented by Rep. James Courter of Hackensack. The Warren County Republican moved into the 12th because the redistricting had landed him in the same district as Rep. Marge Roukema of Bergen County. Courter won election in November after defeating Rodney Frelinghuysen of Morris County in the primary.

Courter established a Union County district office in Summit. But Rinaldo, expressing confidence that the new plan would be overturned, kept his main district office in his hometown of Union Township — even though that community was in the 12th District, not in the 7th.

"One of the most important goals in the congressional redistricting fight was to have most of Union County in a congressional district that includes Union Township, my hometown," he said. "That was our battle cry when the State Legislature started drawing up new congressional districts and it remains our goal. Union Township belongs in a Union County congressional district, and not in Newark, as some members of the State Legislature attempted to do."

He predicted an "entirely different" map for the 1984 election. "This time," he said, "the Democratic Legislature will not have Brendan Byrne signing a blank check. It will have to work out a compromise with Governor Thomas Kean, and abide by the constraints laid down by the Supreme Court. This means that the new districts are bound to be more fairly drawn than the last ones."

In its 5-4 decision last week, the Supreme Court ruled the redistricting unconstitutional because of population variations among the 14 districts.

Writing for the majority, Justice William Brennan Jr. said these differences "could have been avoided or significantly reduced with a good faith effort to achieve population equality."

Even though the variations are less than 1 percent, Brennan wrote, "Adopting any standard other than population equality ... would subtly erode the Constitution's ideal of equal representation."

The charge of gerrymandering was addressed in a dissenting opinion by Justice Lewis Powell Jr., who wrote, "In this case, one cannot rationally believe that the New Jersey Legislature considered factors other than the most partisan political goals and population equality. It hardly could be suggested, for example, that the contorted

Tips are issued on fire safety: stop, drop, roll

SPRINGFIELD—The Springfield Fire Department, in cooperation with the National Fire Protection Association, has issued a warning to residents that summer fun can be thwarted by burn injuries.

Sunburn, scalding-hot tap water, splashed hot oil or food, "freshening" an open fire, smoking in bed, ignition of gasoline vapors, children playing with matches or candles—these are only some of the common causes of burn injuries.

"Stop, drop and roll" to put out flames, advise experts at the National Fire Protection Association, the nation's center of fire safety information.

Any time fire ignites a person's clothing, hair or skin, the best thing is to drop on the spot and roll over and over until the flames are out.

Don't let the victim run: this only fans the fire, sweeps flames toward the face and lungs, and makes the situation worse, firemen warn.

Burn treatment starts with cooling the burned area, in order to stop the thermal injury that continues after flame and external heat are removed. Cooling also reduces the swelling and scarring, and helps numb the pain.

The recommendations from the National Fire Protection Association continue: "Use cold tap water—not ice—for the cool-down process, and avoid the old-time home remedies of butter and ointments."

Treat burns immediately, as delay only worsens the injury. To avoid infection and possible permanent damage, get professional medical help for anything more than a first-degree burn which, by definition is red and sore but not blistered.

Two teachers are honored

SPRINGFIELD—Jonathan Dayton and the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 Board of Education last week feted two English teachers with 25 years of service to the district at an annual dedication dinner held at the Clinton Manor in Union.

Joseph Trinity and Martin Tuglietti were presented with gold pins and plaques by board representative Natalie Walk.

In remarks commending the faculty members, district superintendent Dr. Donald Merachnik said, "The role of the teacher must include concern for the student's physical and mental health as well as being competent in content and curricular areas."

"The board desires a continuation of quality educational services so that our students will not lose the benefit of your expertise and counsel in the years ahead."

Twenty-two other district employees were cited as retirees or for 25 years of service.

Preschooler classes scheduled at YMCA for summer months

A variety of programs will be available this summer for preschool children at the Summit Area YMCA. Open to boys and girls ages 3-6, Kinderklub, offered at the Summit YMCA, 67 Maple Street, is a half-day morning program held Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon in one-week sessions continuing to Aug. 19.

Besides receiving daily swim instruction, children develop other physical skills including tumbling and trampolining. Simple craft projects, storytelling, music, quiet games, outdoor projects, nature study and hiking also are offered. A field trip is planned every Tuesday, and a weekly theme is adopted and activities are coordinated around it.

Kinderklub is directed by Edna Caparaso, who has over 20 years of YMCA leadership experience. She will be assisted by other counselors.

Also assisting will be YMCA staff instructor Elizabeth Craig, who will give the children an introduction to the Spanish language through related crafts, music and cooking.

Another option for preschool children, ages 3-6, is a new six-week class called Summer Crafts, Gym-Swim, held Monday through Thursdays at the Summit YMCA, 9:30 to 5 p.m. Classes will feature half an hour each of crafts, gymnastics and recreational swimming.

Additionally, children will be given an introduction to the Spanish language through related crafts, music, games, and foods. Children may enroll in only one or as many as four classes per week. Instructing the class will be Elizabeth Craig, a member of the staff.

Also available this summer will be swimming instruction for 3 to 6-year-olds in Tadpole classes three days a week, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays from 9 to 9:30 a.m.

Suspect in hold-up caught after chase

SPRINGFIELD—Township police arrested a Glen Gardner man in connection with the hold-up of the Hillside Burger King last week, according to Police Chief George E. Parrulli.

Leroy Simmons of 325 C. Buffalo Road was charged with armed robbery and two motor vehicle counts, careless driving and failure to maintain rear lights. He was arrested about 9:45 p.m. June 21 after Springfield Patrolman Ernest Vardellis spotted his car, chased it, caught the suspect and discovered more than $500 and a "gun-like" object on the car's front seat.

The arrest took place after Vardellis observed a car speeding along Route 22 which fit the description given in a radio report. Police officers from Springfield, Mountaintop and Newark joined in the chase in response to the Academy reports, when the chase reached Route 22 in Mountaintop, the car crashed into two waiting Mountain patrol cars and Simmons was arrested by Vardellis on the spot. Simmons was turned over to Hillside police for further action.

In a second incident, Daniel Joseph Blottli of 41 Wood Ave., Sinter Island, was arrested Friday at about 1:30 a.m. in connection with the theft of more than $200 worth of patio furniture allegedly stolen from The City, Route 22, police said.

Blottli was charged with theft of movable property after Patrolmen Peter Fico and John Triangler found him hiding under a truck in the store's parking lot, police said. On further investigation, four patio chairs and a patio table were discovered in the truck. Blottli also was found to be in possession of a New York City police badge, according to police.

'We shall ... never fully leave'

Following is the text of the talk given by David Gold, valedictorian of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Class of 1983, at commencement exercises last week.

By DAVID GOLD We've all waited a long time for this moment, this stepping out of childhood and into adult responsibility, into the so-called "real world." Tonight, this ceremony is a formal separation from an important part of all our lives. It marks a beginning and, let us not forget, an end. No longer will we look at Jonathan Dayton in the same light. It is no longer a common job, a common activity, but from this moment on, a common past, a common accomplishment. Whether or not we want to admit it, this school has trained, changed and shaped each and everyone of us. From the time we were freshmen, nervous and getting lost between classes, to this year as seniors, still late for the same classes, we have grown. Dayton has been different things to each member of this graduating class. But there is one common denominator in each case: as seniors as it always has been. All that we once knew is now in the past. But, it is time. After four years, we are well prepared and trained to move on. We shall move on, but never fully leave.

Town facing law suit

(Continued from page 1) municipal workers should be corrected. There is nothing to stop a hired person from moving out of town. We are looking to change those regulations," Johnson said.

According to the attorney representing the six volunteers, Richard Thuring, of Spangoli and Thuring in Elizabeth, "A letter exists from the township attorney (Jay L. Kloud) to the fire chief which states the hiring procedure would be conducted by way of the residency statute. It must be decided whether that letter (dated March 17) is binding or not."

In addition, several members of the volunteer department charged "political favors" resulted in the hiring of the out-of-town resident. "It's ridiculous," Ruocco said. "Now I'm being accused of owing favors because I belong to the same club as the father of the man (Masello)."

Included in the volunteer department's recruitment literature is a statement that "service in the Volunteer Division of the Fire Department can lead to a permanent appointment in the paid division. Under existing state law in a combination paid/volunteer department, preference for appointment is given to the volunteer."

But according to the mayor, "there is a misconception that the volunteer firemen get the only preference. That's not true. They get a bonus of 10 points on their total exam score if they are volunteer firemen."

"Masello had the highest total score because he did not receive those 10 bonus points," Ruocco said.

The Supreme Court decision that struck down the congressional redistricting plan adopted by New Jersey last year is both good news and bad news.

It's good news because it does away with districts that, in many cases, make no sense at all, throwing together communities that are miles apart in both distance and character.

It's bad news, however, because of the emphasis which the majority decision written by Justice William Brennan Jr. placed on numbers — that is, on the population variations from one district to another.

Brennan cited as an example the difference between Congressman Bernard Dwyer's 6th District, with a 1980 population of 523,798, and Congressman Christopher Smith's 4th District, with a population of 527,472.

That figures out to 0.6984 percent. The average variation is 0.1384 percent.

To a layman's eyes, that flaw in the redistricting plan seems minor in comparison to the blatant gerrymandering which resulted in districts that look as if they were designed by Dali.

True, some of the other justices, in separate opinions, tackled the problem of the strange shape of New Jersey's congressional districts. But Brennan's emphasis was on numbers. "Adopting any standard other than population equality... would subtly erode the Constitution's ideal of equal representation," he wrote.

Some Democrats already have interpreted this to mean that a little minor tinkering will solve the problem. That's about as far as saying that removal of a hangeal will cure a cancer.

At the other end of the scale, the state Republican chairman, Philip Kaltenbacher, has called for waiting until next year — when he hopes the state will have a Republican legislature — to begin redistricting. Unlike the plan that was adopted by a Democratic legislature and signed into law by a Democratic governor, Brendan Byrne, this one would be "fair," he insisted. It's an argument that will appeal to everyone who believes in Santa Claus.

We like best Gov. Thomas Kean's proposal for a bipartisan commission. With all the difficulties facing those doing the redistricting, and the very likely prospect that any plan that's drafted will run into bitter opposition from someone, the state has no time to lose if it is to meet the court mandate of having new districts in place in time for the 1984 election.

Keep it safe

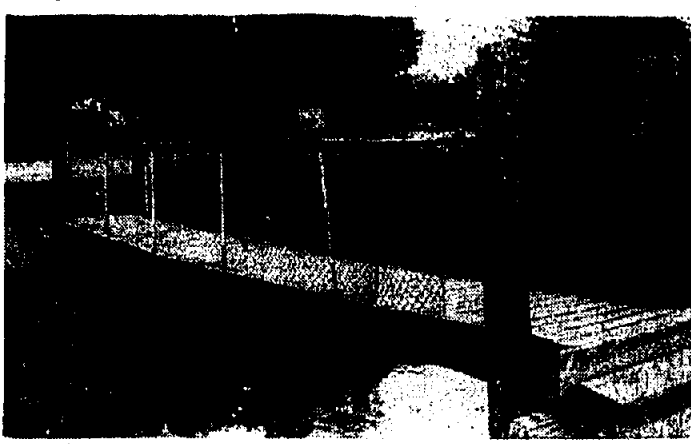

- A two-year-old runs into an ignited "hand fountain" held by his sister and receives burns to the eye.
 - A 12-year-old tries to extinguish the fuse of an M-100 and loses a part of his hand.
 - A 40-year-old man steps back, startled, when a friend throws a firecracker and loses a foot.
- Year after year, accidents like these happen on the Fourth of July.
- While fireworks are prohibited in New Jersey, some always find their way into the hands of curious youngsters and thoughtless adults.
- The results can be tragic: blindings, amputations, burns and lacerations are very real hazards associated with fireworks. Last year, 9,000 people across the nation were treated for such injuries; half of them were under 15 years of age.

Fireworks are not toys. Sparklers, which some adults mistakenly believe to be safe, burn at a very high temperature and can easily ignite clothing. Cherry bombs, torpedoes and M-80s have enough explosive power to blow off a finger or hand. Even the small one-and-a-half-inch firecrackers can cause injuries. They are particularly dangerous because they may not go off immediately; a curious youngster going close to check what has happened can receive serious burns when they explode in his face.

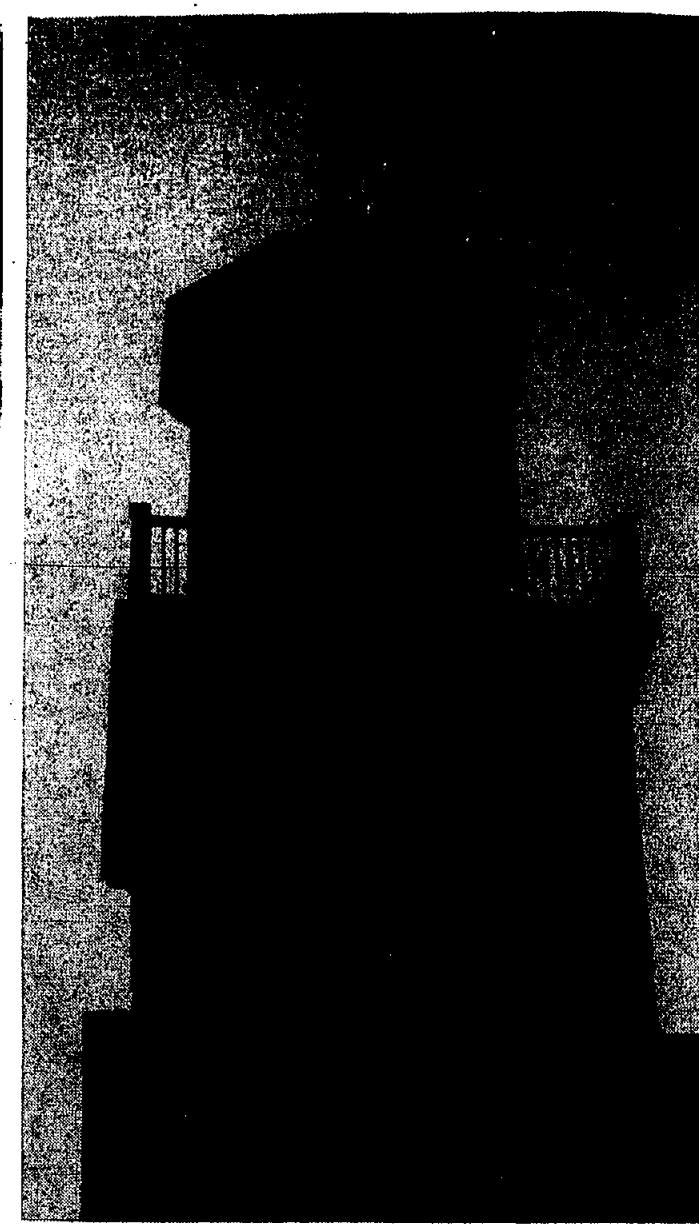

The only fireworks permitted in New Jersey are paper caps that contain less than 25/100th of a grain of explosive content per cap, or auto flares that are used in car breakdowns.

Flouting the law is not only illegal, it's dangerous. That's something that parents in particular should remember as the Fourth of July approaches.

Scene around the towns

Workmen are busy installing a new bridge over the Passaic River in Springfield Township.

As a Fourth of July treat, we've got an easy Scene this week. It should be especially easy for those who know Union. If you recognize it, let us know by 9 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3109, 1291 Sluyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

A correct answer to last week's Scene made it number three for Joseph V. Insoigna Jr. of Linden, who recognized it as the bridge leading to Roselle Catholic High School. "I've often driven by this bridge enroute to Kean College," he explained.

It was number 10 for Lisa Battito of Kenilworth, who also recognized the picture. Tom Parrish of Union was another who spotted it, pointing out that it leads to the main parking lot at the school. Jim Dyson of Roselle pointed out that it is just past the railroad tracks.

Correct answers also came in from Sid and Betty Olsonand William Parish of Roselle, a student at Abraham Clark High School in Roselle.

More than 55 years ago, Mead published his report on adolescent (and adult) behavior in far-away Samoa. A protégé of Professor Franz Boas, professor of anthropology at Columbia University, she was encouraged to pursue her study of this comparatively primitive society. Her conclusions, documented in her book, "Coming of Age in Samoa" (1928) was welcomed by the cultural determinists and environmentalists of the day. Her conclusions were accepted uncritically.

But Professor Freeman (anthropology emeritus, Australian National University), in a well-documented book, declares Mead's conclusions as erroneous, and proceeds to refute them. First, she was ill-prepared, knowing nothing of the language, living with a non-Samoan family, and observing only girls, who may not have been honest with her. They acquired "a relaxed dependence on reliable social forms," they have made "a perfect adjustment" to adolescence is the age of maximum ease.

Mead assessed Samoan society as emotionally free, kindly, with a minimum interest in competition or warfare. Her book, "Coming of Age in Samoa" (1928) was welcomed by the cultural determinists and environmentalists of the day. Her conclusions were accepted uncritically.

Freeman tried to be fair to Mead. He accepts the fact that there are two camps in this field, he points to the advance of the theories of evolution, and submits that "both nature and nurture" are responsible for shaping human behavior and institutions.

Another Plan For Peace — "A Palestine State," by Mark A. Heller.

No matter what happens to the PLO, Israel "will have to contend with some other manifestation of Palestinian collective consciousness." The senior research associate at the Center for Strategic Studies, Tel Aviv University, whose primary concern is Israel's security and well-being, has made several proposals to help normalize Israel's relations with the Arab world. He makes it clear, however, that any alternative he has indicated "is contingent on a marked shift in the position of the major powers."

Realizing the uncertainties of the social, economic, demographic and political conditions of Israel, he has suggested that it be considered as a political entity.

Both planners and participants have just about had time enough to catch their breath.

Now the folks at the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey on Northfield Avenue in West Orange are going ahead full steam again, making plans for the second annual Senior Olympics.

The first one, held over the Memorial Day weekend, was a "tremendous success" despite the dreary weather, according to Martha Cohen, publicity chairman. Most of the events went on as scheduled, outdoors at Newark Academy in Livingston or indoors at the Essex Health and Racquet Club in West Orange. Only the tennis tournament had to be moved to new quarters; it was held at the Center Court in Chatham.

Adding up the points — a time-consuming effort — sponsors found that men and women from throughout the area scored among the top athletes in the various events. Among them were:

- Harold Mayland of Union, participating in the 70-74 age group, who took first place in shotput, first in softball distance throw and fourth in basketball free throw.

- William Neupstein of Irvington, in the 65-69 age group, who came in third in the one-mile walk for men.

- Leonia Bredrek of Irvington, in the 65-69 age group, third in the one-mile walk for women.

- Mary Gotthoffer of Springfield, 75 and over age group, third in the one-mile walk for women in her age category.

- Ken Schultze of Union, 65-69 age group, third in the 50-meter freestyle swim.

- Cornelius Silverstein of Union, 60-64 age group, first in the 200-meter dash, first in the running broad jump, first in the half-mile run and second in table tennis.

- Dr. Robert Frumkin of Irvington, 55-59 age group, third in table tennis.

- Shirley Lieberman of Springfield, 60-64 age group, first in tennis doubles.

Anticipating a good turnout for the second annual Senior Olympics, the committee has already started making plans for next year's event. Cohen said the members are "really excited" about the results of this year's program.

The enthusiasm of the seniors was beyond belief, she said. "They wouldn't let us get away without repeating it next year. Though cold and wet, they wouldn't let us cancel anything."

More than 100 soaked-to-the-skin seniors competed in the one-mile walk, which took them four times around the track, Cohen reported.

First in the 75-and-over age category was Sara Skwirsky of West Orange, who at 83 was the oldest participant in Senior Olympics '83. Said Skwirsky: "I would have walked faster, but my suit got so wet."

The program, first of its kind in New Jersey, was designed to encourage fitness among senior adults and to raise the consciousness of seniors and others on the importance of being in good physical condition.

It was sponsored by the Y, with financial help from the Newark Citizens of Vanxhall will visit the Newark Museum today.

than I was 10 years ago," she said. Cederlund, who was a state and national swimming champion in the 1930s, added that she has just started to play tennis and hopes to participate in that event next year.

In looking ahead to Senior Olympics '84, Iacovo and Cederlund are typical of many of the participants.

Anthropologist challenges Mead findings

Objects to condoms
Your June 9 front page article regarding the residents' protest of the Greentriar project was in error. The residents of Baltusora Way are not protesting an office building. We are protesting the construction of a five-story, multi-dwelling condominium that will be built on top of a two-story underground parking garage in a two-and-a-half-story zone.

My neighbors and I contend that there is no room for a five-story structure of any kind in Springfield and if the variance is allowed the Planning Board will be opening a veritable "Pandora's Box" by setting the precedent for the construction of additional five-story buildings in areas that will be opened to a suburb and we pay a premium price to do so.

The construction of the underground parking garage and the upgrading of the mountain will require a considerable amount of blasting into the side of the mountain that faces Route 78. From that view some of my neighbors, summit hill and others will see seven stories of structure, not five. We do not wish to have such a monstrosity built in our backyards.

Our homes have already been damaged by the blasting done by the quarry and Route 78. That mountain and our homes are all on the same rock ledge. More blasting could have a devastating effect on our homes, but the Greenbriar Corp. at an informal meeting a few months ago, showed little concern to the fact.

There will be additional objections to the proposed project at the next Planning Board meeting, but we believe that the only ones who will benefit from the construction of this project will be the Greenbriar Corp.

My neighbors and I reject this proposal and we hope that the Planning Board will maintain the integrity of our town and our homes by not allowing this variance.

Doctor gets first-hand look at Polish medicine

"Poland's emergency medical system works moderately well but is plagued by over-utilized equipment, physician shortages and inadequate technological resources," according to a first-year-emergency medicine resident, L. Scott Larsen, M.D., who visited that country recently. He conducted the first English language study of the emergency medical system in Poland.

Dr. Larsen is a member of a Columbia University-affiliated hospital residency in emergency medicine run jointly by Overlook Hospital in Summit and Morristown Memorial Hospital. The program includes a one-month period when these physicians are required to pursue either scientific studies or obtain clinical experience in the discipline of their choice. With special permission, resident physicians may pursue their studies in a foreign country.

"I saw a host of contrasts," says Dr. Larsen, noting the distinction between the medical services' excellent use of human resources and the poor financial planning of the communist government. "When I went out on the ambulances with emergency patients, I couldn't help but notice how old their buildings and equipment were. Many of the hospitals were built prior to World War II and have entrances with huge sets of stairs. Stretchers with ingoing and outgoing patients have to be carried up and down by hand."

"I found it of special interest," says Dr. Larsen, "that all of their ambulances are staffed by physicians. When the ambulance gets to the scene, the doctor may choose to treat the patient right there, or transport him to an emergency room or put him in a hospital. It works well."

The emergency medical service or "Pogotowie Ratunkowe" is responsible for civilian emergency care throughout Poland. It is run by the Ministry of Health. The communist state system utilizes a modular concept. "The heart of each module is the 'central' or main station, which has a central dispatch station, an ambulance base and an emergency treatment facility," says Dr. Larsen. "A hub of substations, supplied with treatment areas and ambulance bases, completes the system. This same modular organization is duplicated in each of the country's 49 provinces, as well as its five largest cities."

"Every 'central' has an information bureau for the entire province (or city) which keeps a record on anyone who was picked up by an ambulance, admitted to a hospital or treated as an outpatient. If a citizen is trying to locate a missing person and thinks that person may have been in an accident or needed emergency hospitalization, a toll-free number is called. The operator can then tell the citizen where the person was hospitalized, if that's the case. Imagine how well a system like that, augmented with computers, would work in the U.S.!"

Dr. Larsen's wife Anna, who is a native of Poland, was an important part of the investigation. She took a leave of absence from her clinical research position at Johnson & Johnson Research Foundation in New Brunswick to coauthor the project. In addition to translating the data, Mrs.

Larsen interviewed key people at the "Pogotowie Ratunkowe" and utilized her understanding of the Polish medical system, which she obtained when she was a medical student in Warsaw.

Poland has a system that uses different types of ambulances. For example, there is a cardiac resuscitation ambulance which is sent out to heart attack victims. If a woman is having a baby, an obstetrics ambulance staffed with a midwife or obstetrician is used.

When a patient needs to be rushed to a hospital, the physician on the scene will decide what type of hospital it will be. Poland's specialized hospitals provide optimal care in separate disciplines like pediatric surgery or internal medicine.

What did Dr. Larsen like best? "Besides the good food, it was most interesting to see the determination and ingenuity of Poland's physicians," he said. "Despite the political turmoil which increases their workload, they do an excellent job, often without regard to their own safety. Like American doctors, they make a real effort to do their best."

WHERE SHOULD YOU GO FOR 24-HOUR BANKING?

Ask your waitress.

She works the night shift. And when payday comes at 2 a.m., she grabs her Howard MAC card and heads for the nearest MAC machine. They're located throughout New Jersey, and they never close. Thanks to MAC, she does almost all her banking after the late shift.

Ask why she selected the Howard, and you'll probably hear words like "security," "convenience," "friendliness," and "expertise." She'll probably also say, "take a tip from me, their service is tops."

Those are the strengths that have made the Howard what it is for New Jerseyans—a trusted advisor, a financial friend, a place to turn to for all your banking needs.

That's why the Howard is the leader in banking for real people whose lives require convenience and financial security.

Ask your waitress. She'll tell you that she feels better off, Howard Powered. And you will, too.

Rybak installed to head Union County Legion

County delegates at the 49th annual Union County convention of the American Legion installed Joseph A. Rybak of Clark as commander for the 1983-84 year.

Rybak served in the United States Marine Corps during World War II for three and a half years and also served in the United States Navy for another three and a half years during the Korean conflict. He is married to the former Dorothy Czynewski of Linden. They have two children, Eugene, who resides in Reno, Nev., and Corinne, employed in Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming.

Rybak moved to Clark and became involved in the American Legion. He served as finance officer for many years and was active in children and youth programs, veterans' programs, Special Olympics and special social functions. During his 25 years with Post 328, he served as commander four times and was given a life membership.

Other officers for 1983-84 are vice commander, John Stanier of Connecticut Farms Post 35, Union; vice commander, Gordon Fugge of Roselle Park Post 60; vice commander, Joseph Gelys of Johnson-Jeter Post 219; adjutant, Ray Grimes of Clark Post 328; finance officer, James Bakewell of Roselle Park Post 60; chaplain, Grace Bakewell of Roselle Park Post 60; historian, Richard Furman of Linden Post 102; sergeant at arms, James Roberts of James Mackie Post 499; and service officer, Robert Wacker of Connecticut Farms Post 35.

Awards presented included coloring contest winner, Pamela Spiro of St. Michael's Catholic School, Elizabeth, presented by Charles Brame; and post history book, Roselle Park Post 60, presented to Commander Roger Hyer by Irma Terrill.

Ray Grimes, essay chairman, presented the first place award to Karen Pettesah of St. Michael's School in they experienced in their countries. "We have a whole generation of school children coming up who are learning very little about our flag and its meaning," Carmichael said.

Too few people waving the flag today

Noting that schools have "higher priorities," including language, science and math, he said it is only the very young school children who may do special projects to highlight holidays such as Independence Day. Such efforts on the part of older students have "gone by the wayside," Carmichael said.

"If people would just remember on a holiday like July Fourth why our country was founded, if they would just take five minutes to reflect or even discuss the freedoms we have in America, it would go a long way toward improving their attitude toward such holidays." Instead of appreciating the significance of these holidays, he said, too many people simply regard them "as days to spend in a shopping mall taking advantage of special sales." While there is "so much negativism" in this country, he said, "we have so much to be thankful for."

"We could live in Russia or Poland, or Nicaragua. We'll always have challenges — that's the nature of freedom. But we need to be more positive about them," he said.

Americans should look to the attitude of "the old-timers" who fought in World War II or who lived in times when war was a real threat to freedom, Carmichael suggested. That generation knows the value of freedom and is not embarrassed to "wave the flag" as many "middle generation citizens" are today, he said.

Although the nation has "mellowed" since the days of the Vietnam War, when there was a "real dichotomy" among the American people, Carmichael said, "we've still got quite a way to go before the meaning of holidays like the Fourth of July and the U.S. flag take on their proper significance for all people in this country."

Counsellors training conducted

The United Way of Union County and the Union County Labor Council, AFL-CIO, recently co-sponsored a 1983 union counsellors' training program.

Representing Local 825, I.U.O.E., AFL-CIO, were Leo Riley of Vauxhall, John Fenton of Linden, Robert Edwards of Rahway, Gene Callahan of Clark, Greg Moore of Clark and Maurice Power of Clark. Participating from Local 262 I.B.E.W., AFL-CIO, were Ernest Owens of Plainfield and Claude Sutton of Scotch Plains.

Attending from Local 1095, C.W.A., AFL-CIO, were Willie J. Brice of Linden, Joseph Wallace of Plainfield and John D. Fitzmaurice of Union.

Needy in county allocated funds of over $198,000

Needy people of Union County will receive more than $198,000 beginning in July in funds to be dispersed among specific agencies in the area.

The program is part of the federal government's $4.6 billion job Stimulus Bill which is intended to provide food and shelter for those who meet specific guidelines.

"The federal government decided that the national voluntary sector would be in charge of distributing these funds," said Dell Raudelunas, executive director of the United Way of Union County. "Congress felt that the national voluntary sector would do the job quickly with the least amount of administrative cost."

"So, the United Way, together with the Salvation Army, the Council of Jewish Federations, the American Red Cross and Catholic Charities requested proposals from the agencies in the Union County area and then allocated dollars based on those proposals. Now, we are only waiting for them to be approved by the Federal government," she added.

The program is only a "one-shot thing" and was granted with the stipulation that all the funds must be spent as of March 30, 1984.

"We expect to provide 38,000 meals and 42,000 nights of shelter," Raudelunas said. "If John Doe has a fire, and his house is ruined, and his checks are lost, we will try to provide him with food and shelter. There will be no discrimination. We will try to help anyone in Union County who is in an emergency situation."

Apprentice training offered this summer

The Joint Apprenticeship Committee of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Millwrights, Local 715, is planning an apprenticeship recruitment program.

Applications will be available from July 18 to 22, from 9 to 11 a.m. daily, at the Local 715 office, 1177 East Grand St., Elizabeth.

Applicants also must be able to perform rigorous work, as evidenced by a doctor's certificate. They must bring with them a birth certificate, high school diploma or equivalency certificate, medical report and, if applicable, honorable military discharge.

They also will have to pass an aptitude test before being accepted into the apprenticeship program.

Your Guide To Summer Fun!

Grant for Warinanco Park is largest in state

The highest funding award given to any locality in New Jersey for a single recreation project will go to Warinanco Park, Elizabeth and Roselle, which has been chosen to receive $768,522 in federal and state funds for rehabilitation of facilities.

The majority of the funding, $683,513, will come from the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior.

According to Joyce Gates, legislative analyst for Union County, who wrote the grant application, six areas have been selected for renovation and/or development:

1. Three existing ballroom facilities will be renovated and made accessible to the handicapped.
2. The retaining wall of the 7.5 acre lake will be rebuilt.
3. The original cinder-running track will be resurfaced to an all-weather track.
4. Playgrounds will be rehabilitated to a wood-theme.
5. A senior citizen area will be developed to include game tables and benches.
6. Ballfields will be improved and one will be lighted for night use, becoming the first county-operated ballfield with night lights.

The funding comes from the federal jobs bill recently passed by Congress, which provided $40 million in funds for local park rehabilitation nationwide, intended for labor-intensive uses to create jobs and stimulate local economies. Warinanco Park, a 204-acre area operated by the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation, was eligible to receive the money because it is the most widely-used urban park in the county, serving thousands of area residents on summer weekends. The 59-year old facility includes the Warinanco Skating Center and a stadium and provides playing fields and courts for area athletic leagues. It is also the site of 10 clay tennis courts.

The funding breakdown for the $854,391 project is as follows:

- $683,513.00 — National Park Service, U.S. Department of Interior.
- $85,439.00 — Green Acres program, N.J. Department of Environmental Protection.
- $50,000.00 — Union County Community Development Program.
- $35,439.00 — Union County capital budget.

The grant specifies that the work must be completed by September 1984. Gates said, so work will probably begin by this fall. Overall, New Jersey received a greater percentage (10 percent) of the federal funds than any other state.

Warning issued about tennis net tightener

The Union County Division of Consumer Affairs has received a warning from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission regarding a tennis net tightener, it was announced by Ellen Bloom, director.

The commission is aware of one fatality which occurred when an 11-year-old girl was struck on the neck while adjusting the lever. Other incidents include facial and mouth injuries, Bloom said.

The product, manufactured under the brand name "Jiffy A-4," is a tennis net tightening device made of iron. The device moves up and down the net post on a track bolted to the post. The lever increases or decreases the tension in the net and can spring forward with some force when released. A person can be seriously injured if struck by the lever, Bloom said. The brand name "Jiffy A-4" appears on the hook part of the device.

The company manufactured approximately 50,000 units from 1929 until 1978. In 1978, the company issued cautionary labels and a safety pin was added to prevent small children from inadvertently pulling upon the handle. No reports of incidents or injuries have been received involving the redesigned units. The company has been out of business since November 1982.

The product was distributed through sporting goods distributors and tennis court construction firms. The tennis net tensioning device has been installed in both private and public tennis courts.

The commission is urging parents to caution children not to play with the tennis net tensioning device, but rather to request the maintenance personnel to adjust the net height, if necessary.

The commission urges operators of tennis courts in public parks and private clubs to check to determine if M.R. Lane A-4 Tennis Net Tensioning Devices are used on their courts and if they are, check to determine whether or not a safety pin has been added. If not, the handle should be tied down permanently so that a child cannot move the handle. Also, place a notice near the tension device warning children to request maintenance personnel to adjust the device.

For further information, consumers may call the CPSC's toll-free Hotline at 800-638-CPSC. A teletype-writer number for the hearing-impaired is 800-638-8270.
