Stormy meeting marks Walton's sale discussion

By LYNN JOFFE
The Springfield Board of Education approved the specifications for the sale of the Walton School property and staffing assignments for 1983-84 at Monday night's meeting amidst a host of spectators and board members alike. Residents and several members of the board harassed each other in such actions as name-calling and challenging each other to meet outside after the meeting.

Majority approval was granted to put the 12.24 acres of the Walton School property up for sale on the grounds that it "has ceased to be suitable or convenient for the use for which it was acquired and is no longer needed for school purposes." Bids for the property will be awarded at 8 p.m. Aug. 24 in the Gaudineer School.

According to Board Vice President Liz Simpson-Fritzen, "There is no bid minimum at this time." Member Ken Faigenbaum argued it was "imperative" that the board receives a "fair value of the property." He urged board members learn of all options regarding alternate uses and zoning for the property.

The matter is to be heard by a Newark administrative law judge Wednesday for a pre-trial status conference at which time a trial date for the appeal is expected to be scheduled.

CAUSE members stormed out of the room, calling a recess, after board member Stuart Applebaum passed out a letter signed by the four school principals and superintendent concerning the disputed staffing plans. A second letter, signed by Gaudineer Principal Helene Kozlowski, also was concerned with faculty staffing, as was a letter signed by Board President George Gomes. Board members Faigenbaum and Applebaum each addressed letters to Gomes calling for a meeting of the Administrative Council.

The letters, dated June 30, July 7, 8, 9 and 11, were ruled out of order by Division of Superior Court.

Blanda devoted to helping kids

By LYNN JOFFE
Supervisor for the Springfield playgrounds and English teacher at Gaudineer School, Joe Blanda spends much of his time listening and helping township youngsters. Blanda offered the Springfield Leader his feelings and insights into today's youths.

In his 22nd year of teaching and his 21st year of playground activities, Blanda spends year-round time with children.

"I don't think we listen to them enough — sometimes we hear them but we aren't really listening. It perpetuates itself to the kids."

"We need to teach the children tolerance and understanding. We're always afraid of what we don't know — maybe that's what educators are all about. There's an additional pressure on them of the instability of the world."

In the celluloid world filled with horrible movie-made deaths, Blanda said he was concerned with the effect such horror movies may have. The reactions to brutal slayings and maulings youngsters seem to enjoy, Blanda called "unhealthy."

"A lot of kids today seem to be learning through their eyes — through computer games and television — rather than from within. I want them to be thinking human beings — varying and sensitive. Kids emulate what they see — we as adults must set the examples. We have no heroes anymore — we have to be our own heroes."

Shoplifting among the elderly is becoming all too prevalent

By LYNN JOFFE
An elderly woman walks through a food store. Eyes shifting back and forth against onlookers, she quickly hides a can of tuna in her purse. Soon a security guard takes her by the arm and registers a complaint against her.

Through the mall she is summoned to court — and to police headquarters to be booked as a shoplifter. Why should this happen in a nice town like Springfield?

According to one Springfield detective many of these shoplifters are, in fact, senior citizens and many are women. Perhaps, he said, this is a sign of the economic times.

"I used to be they shoplifted for baby clothes to relieve their pasts — now they shoplift for food."

"There are all kinds of shoplifters. Some are sick people — or kleptomaniacs. Others feel the stores are too rich. Back in the 40s and 50s, some of the bigger stores wouldn't sign complaints against shoplifters. They just took their names and didn't want them back in the store. Unfortunately, under the new law, it is mandatory to process them because after three incidents it is mandatory they go to jail."

The detective said, "Today the new thing in stores is people change price tags — they do this because they feel they have to get away with something. Most of the ones today steal from food stores like ShopRite or Acme. Sometimes it's packaged meat, sometimes canned stuff."

$99 promotion by 'Dodgeland' no bargain for some customers

By LYNN JOFFE
What began as an advertising campaign turned into a mob scene after nearly 500 persons swarmed Dodgeland, Route 22, in search of the perfect car deal and broke down the showroom front door early Saturday.

A Newark man was treated and released from Overlook Hospital, Summit, after minor hand injuries he sustained when the door broke. Several other persons were reportedly struck with flying glass.

"The situation arose after the management of Dodgeland launched the limited campaign to sell 28 used cars for $99 on a first come first serve basis. According to reports, all promotion cars were sold in 12 minutes."

A $540 fine for motorist

A Summit man was fined $540 and several others were sentenced on charges of driving while intoxicated when they appeared in municipal court before Judge Malcolm N. Bohrod earlier this week.

Roger L. Dentman of Division Avenue was fined a total of $540 after he was found guilty of a charge of driving while suspended.

George E. Scott of Berkley Terrace, Irvington, was fined a total of $515 after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while suspended.

Arm wrestling gets big following at playground

VALERY PETERSON

SPRINGFIELD—The kids at Chatham found arm wrestling to be fun and competitive. The boys participating were Nick and DeJohn Cataldo, Chris Calabrese, Leo Gravina, Lenny Sala, and Sean Weinerman. The girls participating were Tracy Calabrese, Suzanne Sala, Dana Williams and a visiting friend, Gravinia. Sala was the strongest boy, while Sala was the strongest girl.

A shurpee party was given to celebrate Chatham Park's strong showing during the track and field meet. Gravinia, DeJohn and Nick Cataldo, and Park leader Valery Peterson enjoyed the icy drink.

Other activities enjoyed this week included badminton, Trouble, Stratego, Monopoly, card games, chess and checkers, and Old Maid.

ALVIN PARK

MARIANN BOOGAR

A bicycle decorating contest was held and Caroline Guerrero captured first place for the most beautiful bicycle. Tara McNair, Joshua Autenreith and Jeff Autenreith won other prizes.

Many members attended a clinic run by Bill Jones, Joshua, and Jeff Autenreith, Caroline and Dennis Guerrero, Joe Pasolo, Freddy Talschick, Ryan Pesley, David Wickham, Tommy Pasolo and Brian and Dennis Costello all participated. Many children demonstrated a lot of talent.

The rock hockey tournament continues as Joshua Autenreith, Dennis Guerrero, Brian and Dennis Costello and Tommy Pasolo offer one another stiff competition. Tara McNair, Samantha Martin, and Caroline Guerrero are all practicing their checkers skills. Steven Greenwood, Tommy Pasolo and Joe Pasolo are champion Stratego players.

Joe Pasolo, Heather and Megan

Smith, Tara McNair, Caroline Guerrero, Tommy Pasolo and Samantha Martin are fine drawers. An art contest will soon be held to determine Alvin Park's most promising artist.

Future events will include a surprise party and a "Mystery Day."

IRWIN PARK

JOE'S BLANNA

A special kickball game was held for the younger participants. Joey Sarno and Victor Prignano competed against Jimmy and Joey Porter in a three-inning game of kickball. Joey Porter kicked two singles, Joey Sarno and Victor each kicked a pair of doubles, but Jimmy Porter's triple was too much for Joey and Victor to handle, so Jimmy and Joey Porter went on to win.

A friendly game of Around the World was a way to see who was the best basketball shooter at Irwin Park. The following children participated: Amy and Victor Prignano, Joey Sarno, Anthony Cohen, and Mark Nadan. Anthony Cohen was one of eight students enrolled in Jean Matton's television production class at Kean College during the spring semester. She helped prepare several three-minute television segments that will appear in the United Way of Union County's cable television program when it is shown on Suburban Cablevision in September.

During the spring semester, the eight students taped the segments with the video cameras, prepared title slides, served as directors and crew and held cue cards for the actors.

All of the programs deal with the United Way and its agencies.

Miss Pre-Teen slated Sunday

SPRINGFIELD—A "Miss Pre-Teen" contest has been scheduled for Sunday at the municipal pool, and an end-of-the-season dance has been set for the adults on Sept. 3 from 9 p.m. to midnight.

In recent pool events, Estee Kurtzman won first place in the "Little Miss Springfield Contest" held at the municipal pool. Placing second was Lauren Young; third place went to Alyssa Stullin.

Fire department warns of thunderstorms

SPRINGFIELD—Caught in an electrical storm? The Springfield Fire Department in cooperation with the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) offers some sound advice for safe-keeping.

Electrical storms are most common during the warm weather months—whether on land or water, warns NFPA President Charles S. Morgan.

Outdoors, leave billboards and open spaces. Avoid standing under open and fields; avoid standing under isolated trees or next to wire fences. If swimming, leave the water as soon as a storm starts your way. Indoors, if the building is not lightning-protected, avoid contact with metallic heating and plumbing fixtures, the telephone, and metal contact electrical appliances. "Seek shelter from an electrical storm in a building equipped with lightning rods, in an enclosed car, or any good-sized structure," Morgan suggests. "If caught outdoors, get into a low area—a ditch or cave—or thick woods. Whatever you do, don't let the tallest thing around be you."

Closer to home, even the friendly barbecue can be dangerous. Word accidents are likely to happen when the backyard chef "freshens" a going fire with kerosene or one of the liquid kind as aids to starting a charcoal fire. The "backlash" when these liquids hit a live coal can instantly envelop flames in the arms and face of anyone nearby.

Play it safe, cautions the NFPA president, by never adding flammable liquid to a fire already under way and never using gasoline, paint thinners, alcohol or similar liquids as a starter. Solid starters—chemicals in tablet form—are safest, with the least chance of flare-up.

Library schedules 'E.T.' raffle

SPRINGFIELD—As a spectacular closing for the E.T. summer activities, the Children's Department of the Springfield Public Library will have an E.T. raffle.

The E.T. Summer Reading Club will continue through the end of the summer, enabling any summer vacationers who would like certificates to complete the program.

The prizes will be a watercolor poster of E.T. painted by Ann Kitzing of the library staff and an E.T. bank donated by Arthur Theibberger. Any child who borrows books may enter the drawing which will be held Wednesday, Sept. 7. Children who are enrolled in the E.T. Summer Reading Program and have read to or more books are eligible for reading certificates. The certificates will be ready during the week of Aug.

It's a puzzle

The mystery is insoluble. That is what we have decided after months of trying to find the explanation for the traffic jams which crop up repeatedly, without rhyme or reason, on the Garden State Parkway section in the Essex-Union County area.

We can understand traffic tie-ups during the rush hours; we can understand them on Saturday mornings, when thousands of people head for the shore; we can understand them on Sunday nights, when all those people head for home.

But we can't understand them when they occur in the middle of the day, for no apparent reason, on scattered sections here and there along the Parkway.

This is an experience that every motorist who spends any appreciable time traveling on the Parkway has had.

You drive along at somewhere near the speed limit, then suddenly have to slow down to a crawl as traffic in front of you becomes bunched up; for a half mile or so, you creep along at five miles an hour; then, suddenly, traffic starts moving at a normal speed again.

You look around for the cause of the slowdown. An accident. No sign of one. Construction. No sign of that, either. Some hapless driver getting a ticket from a state trooper who has pulled him off to the shoulder of the road? Not even that.

The sudden slow-down of traffic remains a mystery. We challenge anyone to solve it. Send us your answer - if you have one.

Scene around the towns

This doorway in Union (top) leads to a special place. If you can identify it, let us know by 9 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3109, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

Last week's Scene is "the Shrine to Our Lady located at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Linden Council 2659, corner Park Avenue and Elizabeth Avenue," as Richard Czech of Linden pointed out.

He wasn't the only one to recognize it. Thirteen-year-old Nick Stanco of Linden had the correct answer, writing that the scene is the shrine "on the corner of Elizabeth Avenue and Park Avenue. I always pass there when I go to my aunt's house or go bowling."

The scene can be found on the grounds of Linden's Knights of Columbus Hall, wrote Joseph V. Insogna Jr. of Linden. "If this answer is correct, it will be my fourth one." "Wow! That was an easy one," said

Catherine Brodowski of Linden as she identified the statue. "I saw it many times when I take walks," she explained.

Michael Edward Korab of Linden, who reported that he attends programs at the Knights of Columbus occasionally, was another who had the right answer. "Hurrah, you made my day," he wrote. "What a great surprise!"

Other Lindenites who recognized the photo included Mary Donoracki, Kim Pilewski and Alice Stasiak. Mildred E. Kendig of Kenilworth addressed her answer to the man who took the picture. "Oh, yes, Dave Allison," she wrote. "I recognized this little Catholic shrine at the corner of Elizabeth and Park Avenue in Linden. I've seen it many times as I came over the Park Avenue bridge near the Knights of Columbus. It usually has pretty flowers at the base."

Another Kenilworth resident, Lisa Ballito, scored her 15th correct answer when she wrote: "This week's Scene is a statue of the Blessed Mother. It is on the Knights of Columbus site... It was erected a little over 20 years ago by the Knights of Columbus. The motto was made by a mason, the late John Novello."

Other answers came from far afield as Cranford, where Jacqueline

Public vote urged on gambling law change

By ASSEMBLYMAN CHUCK HARDY (R-21st District)

For the first time, the state Legislature - and the voters - has approved a dramatic expansion of gambling. I opposed the measure for a number of reasons. First, because I believe it would lead to a path to even more forms of gambling, none of which I have ever employed, nor in my opinion, should employ.

The present proposal is called "simulating" of horse racing, and is designed to increase gambling at the tracks. It would allow live horse races to be shown on television at one track to be shown on cable television at another track with no live race, so patrons could place bets.

I believe the voting public should have the right to choose whether it has the right to have such an expansion of gambling. It is likely to have widespread and irreversible impact on the quality of life in New Jersey.

More research required on dioxin effects

By DAVID F. MOORE

Dioxin. If you live in New Jersey, you've found out about it by now. It's the latest in an ongoing parade of glamorous poisons with which the media ferociously insist that we should be concerned.

The media's doing its job, in bringing us the news about dioxin or anything else. It's just that we get bombarded with so much information nowadays that we all tend to become numb. Let's take a careful look at dioxin and fit it into our consciousness along with all the other bad news.

According to laboratory testing of animals with purified dioxin, it is apparently one of the deadliest chemicals yet found. But that's about all science has been able to tell us as yet. Naturally, nobody has tested dioxin on people, and much more research will have to be done on the health and ultimate fates of those persons who have been exposed to sizable quantities of dioxin before true perspectives will emerge. Those persons obviously are the ones involved in its incidental manufacture.

I say incidental, because dioxin is an unwanted impurity in a number of products, such as certain herbicides, pesticides, and flame-retardant materials. It is also a by-product of the chlorination of hydrocarbons. The one we are talking about now is TCDD, probably the worst of the bunch.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has set one part per billion (1 ppb) as the "action level" for dioxin in our environment. That only happened a year or so ago, and it pertains to constant exposure over a period of many, many years. In one's home, for example.

Now that the reporters are digging into the dioxin problem, we'll be learning about other potential dioxin sources around us all. It has already turned up in preservatives for wood, in some paints and dyes, in fabric slizing and even in connection with some gasoline additives. Always as an impurity, mind you.

The history of fictional heroines

by ROSE P. SIMON

SPRINGFIELD—Here are reviews of some of the more popular books for summer reading at the Springfield Public Library.

FICTION AND REALITY
"Becoming a Heroine," by Rachel M. Brownstein.

The author has observed that the innumerable women have been reading novels, which in turn have influenced their lives. Many have gone to fiction to learn about personal relationships; to escape uninteresting, limited, or chaotic lives; and in so doing, identify with the heroines who are usually attractive, powerful and significant.

The novels discussed here (written by English men and women) have as their centers heroines, each of whom is different in character. Brownstein's claim is that "just as realistic novels depend on real life, life may depend on novels."

Richardson's "Pamela" (1740) inspired the maids of England with fantasies of upward mobility. In "Clarissa" he tries to create the perfect woman - "the ideal of a man's ideal of society based on the preservation of private property through monogamy."

Jane Austen, in her novels acknowledges that women are interesting only in the brief time that they are marriageable, marriage being the most significant factor, after which there is no more story.

The writer continues with Charlotte Brontë's heroines: "virtuous but passionate, ambitious, enterprising, flexible and strong. Her heroines are developing individuals, not creatures 'made at puberty for a man.' Their problem is to find a place for themselves in a foreign world.

A DISSIDENT POET
"Poems," by Anna Akhmatova.

Joseph Brodsky, poet and longtime friend of the popular, well-loved Anna Akhmatova (1897-1980) introduces her and her poems to us. He writes us on her lineage, her persona, and her art.

Her poems are characterized by nobility and restraint. Unlike most Soviet literature, hers is classical, simple, clear and coherent. Her "verse always gravitates to the vernacular, to the idiom of the folk song, could identify with the people."

For many years Akhmatova was not published, except for a small collection permitted by the Soviet government, which was politically opposed to her. Her family, and her closest friends are mentioned in her poems. Her "poems are characterized by nobility and restraint. Unlike most Soviet literature, hers is classical, simple, clear and coherent. Her "verse always gravitates to the vernacular, to the idiom of the folk song, could identify with the people."

Going to the dogs

We all know what can happen to good intentions. It is just what is likely to happen with a new law, now in effect, whose apparent intention is to provide help for people who cannot afford to get their dogs spayed or neutered.

The law establishes a state pilot spaying/neutering program. To finance this, license costs for dogs that have been sterilized will be increased by 20 cents; license fees for dogs that have not been sterilized will be increased by an additional $3, for a total of $3.20.

But those who pay the extra $3.20 will have no guarantee that they will benefit from it. First, the state spay/neutering clinic will be available only to those taking part in specified programs, such as food stamps, welfare, pharmaceutical assistance to the aged and a few others; for those not in these programs, who are struggling to make ends meet, it will be just an added expense. Second, only one pilot clinic is planned, at a site that has not yet been chosen; even among those who qualify, many are bound to live too far away to take advantage of it.

One obvious result of all this will be that, by boosting the cost of a license for animals that have not been sterilized, the new law will tempt many people to ignore the licensing requirement altogether.

It is a law that will be self-defeating, and it should be repealed.

Remembering 'Grandma'

On Aug. 17 a very special person would have celebrated her 100th birthday. Mrs. Blanche Chisholm, affectionately known by many persons as "Grandma," missed the century mark when she passed away last month.

During her 80-plus years, "Grandma" played a part in the lives of many town folks. She had been a teacher for many years, the faithful housekeeper for the Methodist Church for a good long time, a frequent visitor to the town library, an active member of the senior citizens, an avid Mets fan and an all-around good friend to numerous people she met each day.

We shall all miss "Grandma" in our own way but shall remember the many ways she touched each one of us who knew her during her lifetime.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. on Monday, August 14, at the Springfield Funeral Home, 2nd and 4th Streets, Springfield, N.J. 07081. Burial will be in the Springfield Cemetery, 3rd and 4th Streets, Springfield, N.J. 07081.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 1000 Morris Ave., Springfield, N.J. 07081.

Senior Center

A former chief accountant and controller for the Union County Park Commission, she stepped down from that post five years ago. "I retired young," she says, "and that was not quite 52 years old at the time."

Retirement, for her, has not meant staying at home; she has been active in a far-flung variety of programs.

A member of the Roselle Park Shade Tree Commission, Ducker also is active in St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Elizabeth, where she sings in the choir and serves as assistant treasurer. In addition, she sings with and is treasurer of the Chansonettes of Westfield, a non-profit choral group.

WHERE SHOULD YOU GO FOR 24-HOUR BANKING?

Ask your waitress.

She works the night shift. And when payday comes at 2 a.m., she grabs her Howard MAC card and heads for the nearest MAC machine. They're located throughout New Jersey, and they never close. Thanks to MAC, she does almost all her banking after the late shift.

Ask why she selected the Howard, and you'll probably hear words like "security," "convenience," "friendliness," and "expertise." She'll probably also say, "take a tip from me: their service is tops."

Those are the strengths that have made the Howard what it is for New Jerseyans—a trusted advisor, a financial friend, a place to turn to for all your banking needs.

That's why the Howard is the leader in banking for real people whose lives require convenience and financial security.

Ask your waitress. She'll tell you that she feels better off, Howard Powered. And you will, too.

Shane Connell, Joe Grande, Matthew Miller, Rob O'Neill, Jim Ray, Greg Torborg, and Mike Wood, Jack Clifford and Graham Miller coached the team.

The Little League All Stars also went out of state during their season, venturing to New York City for several games. The team consisted of Pat Attanasio, Jim Barrett, Greg Barlock, Jeff Debbio, Jamie Downey, Tom Logio, Glen Miska, Grayson Murray, Eric Raushenberger, Mike Rinaldo, Peter Rosenbauer, Matt Ventura, Rich Ventura, Mark Zacharek, and Tom Kelly. Coach Bernard Friedman of the team, assisted by Dick Murray and Joe Downey.

Masco Sports captures title in softball

Through a valiant effort, Masco Sports' lineup proved too much as it captured the best-of-three league championship in the Springfield Minor League. After Masco had taken the opener, Ehrhardt had evened the series at one game apiece with a 9-7 win. Ehrhardt scored three times in the first, third and fourth innings to open up an early 8-2 advantage.

The Springfield Recreation Department sponsored its sixth annual summer track and field meet recently at Metel Field under the direction of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track coach Bill Jones and playground director Joe Blanda.

In the league's single elimination tournament, in quarter final action, Masco stopped M & M Automotive 11-4. Ehrhardt beat the Spirit of '76 Bombers 5-2. Mill Spring Liquors edged the Knights of Columbus in extra innings and Custom Floors eliminated Shallicross/Creative.

At P.A.W.S., they are all waiting

By ADA BRUNNER

The small black and white paw comes out of the cage and gently, with claws furred, tries to wrap itself around the visitor's finger. Insistently, it pulls the finger closer. The message is clear: "I want to play."

The paw belongs to one of the cats who are the newest residents at P.A.W.S., an animal shelter on Range Road, off Lower Road in Linden.

P.A.W.S. stands for Pets Adoption Waiting Station, and the word "waiting" in the name is significant. The dogs and cats who are housed there are waiting for homes; none is ever destroyed, according to Joanne Astalos, president of the all-volunteer organization which runs the shelter.

"We don't euthanize," she emphasized. No matter how long it takes, the animals are kept at P.A.W.S. until they are adopted. If no home can be found for them, they are allowed to live out their lives at the shelter.

Finding homes can be difficult in some cases. For animals like Faith, one of the first dogs to arrive at P.A.W.S. when it opened two years ago, it is probably impossible. No longer young, and not in good health, she has become a part of the shelter, following Astalos around and welcoming visitors with wagging tail.

Cats are even more difficult to place, Astalos pointed out.

As a matter of fact, P.A.W.S. at first dealt only with dogs. It was not until this summer, as it celebrated its second anniversary, that the shelter began to take in cats as well.

This was made possible by a new trailer which, like almost all the facilities, was donated by friends. Speaking of those who give of both their time and money, Astalos said, "Without these people, we would never be able to carry on."

The trailer was intended to serve as an office for the volunteers.

It will still serve that purpose. An epoxy floor has been put down by Michael Jablon of Elizabeth, a former Lindenite and a volunteer, whose wife Michelle also is a P.A.W.S. worker. A refrigerator has been installed along with other furnishings. But one section has been set aside for the cages which house the cats, among them a mother whose own litter has been adopted and who is now nursing four abandoned kittens.

P.A.W.S. began taking in cats "because the problem became so acute," Astalos explained.

With the shelter becoming known throughout the area, she began receiving calls from people who told her what amounted to the same story, with just minor variations, over and over again: "I found a stray cat, and it has just given birth in my back yard."

The problem of strays even worse with cats than with dogs, Astalos noted.

"People bring animals from all over," she said. "If they've found an animal, I tell them to advertise for the owner." If the ad doesn't work, P.A.W.S. tries to take the animal in, "but we've got a waiting list you wouldn't believe," Astalos said.

With 15 dogs and a dozen cats, all the cages are filled. Some dogs even have to be doubled up, Astalos said. And while two dogs are put together only if they're compatible, "I still don't like to do it," she said. The problem is that if one of the animals becomes sick, the other is bound to catch the same illness, she pointed out.

It's not only strays and abandoned animals for whom P.A.W.S. is trying to find homes. Pet owners have to give up their cats and dogs for a variety of

National group honors county for programs

Union County tied for fourth place in the nation in the number of awards it won for innovative and cost-effective programs at the National Association of Counties Conference held in Milwaukee, Wis.

The county took 17 awards, topped only by Suffolk County, New York, with 34 awards; Los Angeles County, California, 28 awards; and Chester County, Pennsylvania, 21 awards. Dade County, Florida, was tied with Union at 17.

Programs for which Union County won awards are: Coordinated Home Care, Fingerprints on File, Flag Guardians, Police Training Academy, Pro Se Litigants, Project Joint Venture, Respite Care Training, Self-Help Academic Rebound, Senior Citizens Commissary, SWIM Program: water therapy for patients, Countywide Communication, Service, Hospital Team Police Unit, Prosecutor's Speakers Bureau, Recreation for All, Restructuring Community, College System, Special Response Unit and Theater of Universal Images.

Union was one of only four counties from throughout the nation which set up and manned a display booth on the conference floor.

Attending from the county were Frank H. Lehr, chairman of the Board of Freeholders; Freeholders Walter Boright and Charlotte DeFilippo; County Manager Arthur Grisi; Vincent Campasano, director of general services, and Laura Kolonski, public information officer.

County seeks agencies to administer programs

The Union County Department of Human Resources announced this week that it is still seeking public and non-profit agencies interested in administering food and shelter programs for needy county residents.

Union County has been chosen to receive $7,075 in federal funds through the Federal Emergency Management Agency. The money is to be used to supplement emergency food and shelter services, according to Lisa Montana of the Division of Planning in the Department of Human Services.

Agencies interested in administering these funds for the period from Sept. 30 of this year until Feb. 28, 1984, must submit their program proposals by Aug. 19, she said.

Under terms of the grant, the participating organizations must be non-profit, have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, practice non-discrimination and have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and shelter services, Montana said.

Additional information is available from her at 527-4944.

Catholic school principal named to Middle States advisory group

Sister Percylee Hanz, RSM, principal of Union Catholic Regional High School in Scotch Plains, has been appointed to a three-year term as member of the State Advisory Committee of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.

Sister Percylee's appointment was recommended by Dr. Frederick Aho, acting executive director of the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Middle States Association, and confirmed by Clay E. Givler, chairman of the commission.

Each state advisory committee includes a representative of the Secondary Division of the State Department of Education, principals and/or teachers of accredited public and church-related secondary schools, and heads and/or teachers of accredited independent schools.

The state advisory committees work with the Commission on Secondary Schools to reach decisions relating to school evaluations and accreditation.

Sister Percylee serves as a consulting advisor to the executive director and executive committee of the National Catholic Education Association. She is also a member of the Controversies Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association and the Principals' Advisory Committee to the Newark Archdiocesan superintendent of schools.

P.A.W.S.

reasons: sometimes they move and can't take the pets with them; sometimes someone in the family becomes allergic; sometimes there is a divorce, and the pet, like a child, falls victim.

Astalos believes she knows one reason why pet owners turn to P.A.W.S. so frequently: "The minute they know we don't euthanize, they call us," she said.

"Basically, people are good," she added. It's ignorance that often is responsible for their failure to have their pets spayed or neutered.

When P.A.W.S. puts out a dog or cat for adoption, that animal is already spayed or neutered — or if it isn't, the person taking the animal must sign an adoption form promising to have it done.

All animals, without exception, have all their shots before they are given up for adoption, Astalos added.

Prospective owners can see the cats and dogs from about 9 a.m. to noon seven days a week. The shelter also is open evenings — from 6 to 9 p.m. weekdays and 3 to 7:30 p.m. weekends. But since P.A.W.S. is staffed solely by volunteers, whose hours are flexible, "I tell people, if you're going to come, call first," Astalos said. The phone number is 499-9300, and a recording device takes messages when no one is there.

Homes for the pets are, of course, the pressing need.

"But P.A.W.S. also has other needs. It needs donors who are willing to give money to help support the work of the shelter. With its growing facilities and increased number of animals, it desperately needs more volunteers. And, said Astalos, who holds down a full-time job in the Linden city tax collector's office in addition to what has turned into another full-time job at P.A.W.S., "I need a 48-hour day."

SPECIALIST—Ann Marie Griffin, enterostomal therapist on the staff of the Visiting Nurse and Health Services, Elizabeth, checks over reports after returning from a four-day national conference on her specialized field of nursing in Kansas City. Enterostomal therapy deals with care of patients with colostomies and related surgeries for intestinal and bladder diseases. The Visiting Nurse and Health Services, a United Way agency, serves 16 communities in Union County, including Kenilworth, Linden, Mountainside, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield and Union.

Training class will be held for probation volunteers

A new training class for the Union County Volunteers in Probation will get under way on Sept. 13.

The program gives volunteers a brief but intensive training to prepare them for counseling, tutoring and other work with juveniles who, in the opinion of the courts, need a "special touch," according to Dr. Faye L. Cranberry, director.

Training classes, directed by Cranberry, will be held in the sixth floor conference room of the Union County Administration Building, Elizabethtown Plaza, Elizabeth.

Scheduled for 7:30 to 10 p.m. on five successive Tuesdays, they will cover the following areas:

- Sept. 13 — Getting acquainted: introduction by Robert L. Woodward, assistant chief probation officer; film, "Claphin in the Snow"; discussion of film; role playing: the process of a complaint.
- Sept. 20 — Film, "Listening Beyond Words"; counseling and listening techniques; role playing.
- Sept. 27 — Film, "Second Chance"; role playing; record-keeping and monthly reports.
- Oct. 4 — Active volunteers return to speak about their experiences.
- Oct. 11 — Graduation.

Trainees must attend all five sessions in order to graduate with the class.

Anyone over 18 can join, she said. She urged those interested to get in touch with her at the Union County Probation Office, 32 Winfield Scott Plaza, Elizabeth 07201, 333-0500.

Chairman appointed for anniversary event

Linda Leifer of Cranford has been named executive director of Union County College's 50th anniversary celebration, according to Dr. Saul Orkin, college president.

Leifer, who is also director of alumni affairs at Union County College, will oversee the activities planned for a year-long golden jubilee celebration which will begin on Oct. 16, marking the founding of the college on that date in 1933.

Union County College was established on Aug. 16, 1932, through a consolidation of Union College, which was founded in Roselle in 1923 as Union County Junior College, and Union County Technical Institute, which was founded in 1960.

Union County Junior College was the first of six Emergency Relief Administration institutions formed in New Jersey during the Great Depression. In 1936, the college changed its name to Union Junior College, becoming a private institution, and in 1967 it became known as Union College, until its consolidation as Union County College last year.

"Union County College has a most interesting history, and has been tied closely to the people and residents of this area which it has served for the past 50 years," Leifer noted. "We are planning a year-long schedule of activities to commemorate this milestone, which will be shared not only by those associated with the college, but also by those who, for the last half-century, have watched the college change and grow into a multi-purpose comprehensive community college."

Class reunion
The June 1934 class of Central High School, Newark, will hold its 50th anniversary reunion next year. Members of this class and the January 1934 and January 1935 graduating classes are being asked to call either Sylvia Stifelman Brucker at 354-0685 or Florence Jaffe Ganek at 376-8279.

Report name change, Social Security urges

Brides, and others who have had a recent name change, should contact their local Social Security office to have their names changed in Social Security records and to apply for a Social Security card showing the new name, John H. McCutcheon, Social Security district manager in Elizabeth, said recently.

Unless the bride plans to continue using her maiden name after marriage, Social Security records should be changed so that any earnings she may have are properly reported to her record, McCutcheon said.

To apply for a new Social Security card which will bear the bride's new name but the same Social Security number, she should submit evidence showing her old and new names, such as a marriage license.

Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency are acceptable. Uncertified copies are not acceptable, McCutcheon said.

It will take about two weeks to issue the new Social Security card, he added.

More information about applying for a Social Security number can be obtained at the Elizabeth Social Security office, located at 342 Westminster Ave. The telephone number is 900-272-1111.

Lesson is given by 'interpreters'

Nurses encounter many difficulties in their daily dealings with patients, but an often-overlooked problem is how to communicate effectively with a patient who is hearing-impaired or possibly even deaf. In an effort to heighten some Union County College student nurses' "deaf awareness" and provide them with advice on how to handle such patients, several students enrolled in the college's Interpreters for the Deaf program have provided a learning session for their peers.

Approximately 20 students in the program, the state's only two-year interpreters for the deaf program, which leads to an associate in applied science degree, conducted two presentations for a group of student nurses at the Elizabeth General Medical Center School of Nursing. The student nurses also attend classes at Union County College under a cooperative agreement between the Medical Center and the College. The college has a similar arrangement with Muhlenberg Hospital's School of Nursing.

The students in the interpreters program, which trains those enrolled in it to work as interpreters in social service organizations, schools, hospitals, courts, religious organizations, or in private practice, "made our student nurses very aware of the problem of dealing with a hearing-impaired patient as well as how to effectively utilize communication techniques," Patricia Castaldi of Garwood, an instructor at the EGMC School of Nursing, said.

The students in the interpreters program, which trains those enrolled in it to work as interpreters in social service organizations, schools, hospitals, courts, religious organizations, or in private practice, "made our student nurses very aware of the problem of dealing with a hearing-impaired patient as well as how to effectively utilize communication techniques," Patricia Castaldi of Garwood, an instructor at the EGMC School of Nursing, said.

"The whole focus of this presentation was on communication - being able to communicate with a person who has a basic alteration in common hearing. What our students learned will have widespread use, not only in applying it to patients with hearing problems, but in communicating with all patients," Castaldi commented.

She pointed out that communicating with hearing-impaired people also makes a person aware of body language, and noted that "body language is important in how a nurse, or anyone for that matter, communicates with another person (or patient)."

Castaldi noted that nurses often encounter patients who have hearing problems, and said the problem is great enough that there is a genuine need to inform nurses in the way the EGMC nursing students were.

UCC's Interpreters for the Deaf two-year associate degree curriculum is an option in the college's human services program. In addition to intensive training in American sign language, students learn about special problems confronted by deaf people as well as general issues confronted in the field of human services. The college also offers a 30-credit certificate program designed primarily for those already in the health and social service fields.

While New Jersey has a deaf population of about 30,000, there are only a little more than 20 certified interpreters in the state. The need for full-time interpreters has been approximated, at 100, with 120 projected as the demand by 1985, when the number of deaf in the state is expected to reach 66,000.

Students can enroll in either degree or certificate programs on either a full or part-time basis and attend days, evenings, or a combination of both.

Fahrenheit, the temperature in a car parked in the sun can rise to 192.

"Whenever possible, park in the shade," Bloom suggested. "But if you must park in the sun, cover the car seat and the child's restraint system with a towel or light-colored blanket and check the temperature before sending the youngsters."

Children do not have as much control over their body temperature as adults, she said. Therefore, youngsters more readily suffer heat stroke or exhaustion, she added.

Even during winter months, sunlight passing through the windows of a parked car can heat buckles and seats, causing discomfort, blistering and burning of the tender skin of an infant or child.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration cites cases of children being burned on metal parts and restraint systems of cars left in the sun.

"Aside from making sure that the restraint system is protected from dangerous heat, never allow your children to ride unrestrained on the regular seats of your car. And never allow them to ride while sitting on your laps," Bloom said.

"Always use a restraint system based on the child's age, weight and height. If the child is older, make sure the seat belt is properly secured.

"And remember, your pet deserves equal consideration. Never leave him locked in a heated car while you shop," she added.

More information on child restraint systems is available from the General Services Administration, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 400 Seventh St., S.W. Washington, D.C. 20590.

MCClelland's Reagan is encyclopedic gem

By BEA SMITH
Everyone talks about our President, Ronald Reagan. Interesting? Sometimes. More interesting, however, is when Hollywood talks about "our President...the actor." And when Newark-born writer Doug McClelland, now of Bradley Beach, gathers volumes of quotations in a new book called "Hollywood on Ronald Reagan: Friends and Enemies Discuss Our President, The Actor" (Faber and Faber, $11.95), it becomes an encyclopedic gem!

The lavishly illustrated recently published book (McClelland's sixth) is a significant, fair-minded, absorbing contribution to Reagan literature. Do not be misled by the Tinseltown slant; there is much invaluable, rare information here for future historians of our 40th President. It also is a delightfully entertaining "read" as McClelland uncovers an astonishing number of delicious quotes on Reagan from the fan magazines of our leader's movie star heyday. These include the following gem: When asked if he wanted to run for senator, a 1947 Screenland magazine reported that "Ronnie declined" with the explanation, "I'm a happy man just the way things are. And I believe in leaving well enough alone."

Equally irresistible are the more contemporary interviews with and comments from the movie people who knew him when. Bette Davis, for instance, reveals, "We used to call him 'Little Ronnie Reagan.'" One of the big plusses of this fine work is that the quotes format makes it possible for the busy reader to open it to almost any page, any time, for a succinct Reagan reference from friend or enemy.

Reagan's first marriage, to actress Jane Wyman is particularly well documented; and indeed, it must be a prime source for all subsequent coverage on the nine-year union. Among the many film personalities author McClelland spoke to are Bob Cummings, Darnie Judith Anderson, Olivia de Havilland, Joan Fontaine, Rosemary DeCamp,

DOUGLAS MCCLELLAND

Geraldine Fitzgerald, Marguerite Chapman, Robert Horton and Marie Windsor.

Whether or not the public likes the President of the United States is a personal matter; the significance lies in the fact that everyone is fascinated by his Hollywood background; the pictures of his youth and his years in films have a stimulating catch-all — for all.

And, unquestioningly, everything you'd want to know about Reagan and the movies is right here in this book. "Hollywood on Ronald Reagan."

SUN SINGERS

Disc & Data

By Mill Hammer

Pick Of The LPs, "Let There Be Sun," by Sun (Capitol Records).

Sun took their place at the center of the funk/rock universe with its Capitol debut, "Wanna Make Love (Come Filck My Bie)." gave a boost to the energy crisis with "Sun-Power," blazed its way to gold record status with "Sunburn," charted new soul and pop territory with "Destination: Sun," further expanded the funk/rock sphere with "Over The Universe" and explored the power of the natural elements with "Sun: Force of Nature."

The members have remained on Earth long enough to release "Let There Be Sun," an album that shows Sun still at the center of the funk-rock universe, creating their own special blend of cosomfunkology.

Designated ringmaster and flight leader of this eight-member funk flagship is Byron Byrd, lead singer, multi-instrumentalist, writer of the bulk of group's material, and now its co-producer. Byrd began charting the group's course during the mid-sixties in Dayton, Ohio.

The seeds of Sun were actually planted in 1964 when they changed their name to the Overnight Low Show, and blossomed when they became Sun in 1975.

"The image of the Sun implies warmth, heat, energy and life," says Byrd, "and those are the characteristics we want to spread over the world with our music."

Tardi's, a cozy, warm restaurant located at 24 North 20th Street in Kenilworth offers homemade pasta and fresh fish daily.

Italian food prepared with loving care

By TEDDI RUSSO

Of the many restaurants which abound in this area Italian restaurants seem to outnumber the rest. Considering this to be the case, visiting Tardi's Restaurant one realizes that here is one of the better Italian food establishments. Located at 24 North 20th Street in Kenilworth, Tardi's has been there for two and one half years, catering to the particular tastes of its customers with a truly delicious assortment of homemade pasta and macaroni dishes and a large variety of fish, veal, chicken and vegetable dishes to appeal to the sommelier of authentic Italian cuisine.

My first impression upon entering Tardi's was one of cozy, warm charm; tables covered with crisp white tablecloths and blue napkins. The atmosphere is steeped in friendliness. Dining with your host and cook, Tony Tardi, a man of obvious good taste and quality. From the remarks of the clientele on the night I was there, people must keep coming back. They all call Tony by name and in response to his query, "How's everything?" I wanted to call out along with them, "Everything's great!" Tony does most of the cooking himself with the aid of three cooking assistants, but everything is made under his personal supervision and all this attention to detail shows in every single dish.

There are fifteen choices of appetizers, many of which are not your usual run-of-the-mill Italian fare. How about Spiedini alla Romana — veal with an anchovy sauce that melts in your mouth. My friend and I shared a hot antipasto which included four mussels in a fresh, sweet tomato sauce, four delicious baked clams, four stuffed mushrooms, three fried jumbo shrimp, fried mozzarella and lightly battered and sauted zucchini strips, deliciously savery!

Tardi's homemade pastas include Fettucini Alfredo or Al Filetto di Pomodoro which I sampled and found to be fabulously rich and luscious. You can also choose from homemade manicotti, ravioli, lasagna, tortellini or baked ziti. The last item was the choice of my dinner partner who reported it to be the very best she has eaten. All these pastas are cooked to order and to your taste.

Your choice of entrees seems limitless, starting with steak and pork chops, progressing to veal and chicken, not to mention seafood. Not often seen on an Italian restaurant menu is Veal Saltimbocca or Veal Roallatini which I sampled and found to be an outstanding selection. It is rolled veal, filled with mozzarella and prosciutto and covered with fresh mushrooms and a delectable wine sauce. The quality of the ingredients can be tasted in the finished product. Obviously only the best are used here.

The variety of seafood dishes is staggering, 26 in all, with the emphasis heavy on Italian specialties. Tony assured me that everything at Tardi's is prepared from all fresh ingredients, nothing frozen, and certain to appeal to the most discriminating.

Their desserts again carry through the Italian style with homemade cannoli, tortoni, spumoni or tortufa. The service was both prompt and courteous, the portions uniformly generous. The price of entrees run from $13.50 for Alaskan King Crab Legs through $8 to $12.50 for the seafood selections, an average of $9 for veal and $6.75 for half chicken broiled. The pastas run about $5.50. Tardi's does not serve liquor but you can BYOB with glasses and ice provided by your host. However, you can order authentic Espresso, by the pot.

They are open for lunch Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from 11 am to 3 pm and for dinner from 5 to 11 pm, Monday through Thursday. Friday and Saturday dinner is served from 5 to 12 pm and on Sunday from 2 to 10 pm. There is free on the street parking.

If you enjoy truly delicious Italian food cooked to perfection with loving care, you must place Tardi's at the top of your dining list!

Java eclipse is called 'total' success by AAI

For its New Jersey-based "eclipse chasers," members of the Amateur Astronomers, Inc. (AAI), the 1983 Java eclipse was a "total" success, according to Dr. Lewis Thomas of North Plainfield, past president and trustee of AAI.

AAI is the group which jointly operates the Sperry Observatory with Union County College on the Cranford campus. Thomas and other astronomers who made up the contingent of AAI's fifth international eclipse expedition have been busy since their return compiling the data they accumulated in their observations and correlating their photographs and slides of the event.

As a group, Thomas said, they are pleased with the predictions made six months before the June eclipse as to the exact time it would reach totality.

The small difference of 11 seconds was "well within range of predictability and observational error," Thomas said, "especially considering the last minute variables that had to be considered."

From their observation point on an athletic field, about 500 feet from where they were housed on the campus of Gadjah Madah University in Jogjakarta, the eclipse-chasers stood in readiness with cameras and telephoto lenses, movie cameras and plain telescopes when an ominous cloud which covered the sun momentarily threatened to mar the spectacular celestial event they had spent three years preparing to observe. Fortunately, shortly after first contact of the sun and the moon "the cloud, not moving, conveniently dissolved in place," and the group was able to view and photograph the eclipse under almost perfect conditions, according to Dave Kuchinsky of Scotch Plains, co-chairman of the Eclipse Committee, who described the eclipse for "Sky and Telescope," national astronomy magazine.

Because the group was located about 8 degrees below the equator, Thomas said, the eclipsed sun appeared almost due north. The sun itself — at an elevation of about 59 degrees — was well-situated for viewing and measuring the eclipse. Overhead is 90 degrees, the horizon zero degrees, he pointed out.

In observing this particular eclipse, Thomas said, it was difficult to determine the precise beginning of totality because of the appearance of a brilliant "diamond ring" effect which can and did occur just as the moon was about to completely cover the sun. The ring is produced by the sun's rays shining through valleys on the moon's surface and becomes visible as a bright glow on the edge of the sun last to be covered. Predictions of the beginning of totality are based upon the average lunar surface, but because the diamond ring was particularly bright and prolonged during this eclipse, the beginning of totality was noticeably measured.

Thomas also noted the exact location of the moon in its orbit cannot be precisely calculated in advance because of the many factors affecting its position. Some of these factors are the distribution of mass within the earth as well as solar and planetary gravitational effects.

While the eclipse was the "main event," during totality members were able to detect the presence of the planet Mars a few degrees to the right of the sun, and the planet Mercury considerably to the left. Certain stars were also visible, as though "standing in the wings," Thomas said. These included Circus, Betelgeuse, Castor and Pollux.

Part of their experiments included attempts to measure "shadow bands" that frequently accompany a total eclipse. These are light and dark bands that move across the ground near the beginning and end of totality. The exact nature of this phenomenon is not completely understood, but it is believed to be the result of the light interference phenomenon and atmospheric effects of the eclipse.

"Surprisingly," Thomas said, "during this particular eclipse, no such shadow bands occurred."

It is suspected that their absence was due to the presence of the diamond ring, Thomas said.

In further describing the eclipse phases, he said, just prior to totality, the approach of the lunar shadow was clearly seen as a wedge of darkness in the clear sky descending toward the earth. When the sun reappeared after totality, the darkened shadow, which was now to the other side of the observers, allowed them to view the planet Venus for about five minutes because the sky was free of clouds.

The drama was heightened, Thomas added, by the presence of smoke from a distant volcano "clearly visible" during totality. Some members indicated they could see a dull reddish glow. Even those who could not attest to the glow itself said it was a unique combination and intensified the awesomeness of the scene.

The astronomy group will share its findings and eclipse experiences with members of the public at a date to be scheduled in November, according to Donald Kruse of West New York, president of AAI. And, he added, they're already looking forward to an annular eclipse next May which will occur in the Eastern hemisphere.

PLANNING A BALL—Members of the social committee of the Polish Cultural Foundation make plans for the 10th anniversary ball to be held Oct. 22 at the East Brunswick Chateau. From left are Mrs. Sylvester Gornka of Millburn, Mrs. Felix Rose of North Caldwell and Mrs. Caesar Giza of Maplewood. The foundation, which recently acquired the former Abraham Clark School in Clark as a cultural center, also has an office in Irvington which provides services for the community. Further information is available from Mrs. Arthur Filipowicz of Union, 667-2414.

"Getting In Shape For Back to School"

THIN Kids, The Children's Weight Loss Clinic, is now accepting enrollment for their Union, Woodbridge, Livingston and Manhattan locations. All parents of children ages 7 to 17 years (who are 10 or more pounds overweight) are welcome to receive further information about the THIN Kids program. Professionally staffed, The Children's Weight Loss Clinic, guides through a series of lessons geared just for overweight boys and girls to help them lose and maintain that weight loss.

THIN Kids, The Children's Weight Loss Clinic, located locally at 2165 Morris Avenue, Union, was created by Louis and Mandy Abramson. Mandy Abramson is a certified School Psychologist who grew up as an overweight child and knew all too well the heartache of being a fat little girl. Louis Abramson is a Physical Education Teacher (also certified to teach health and psychology) and a sports enthusiast who understands the necessity of exercise for a full vitalized, healthy body. Together, they recognized the need for an educational weight loss program to help the growing number of overweight boys and girls. As a married couple, they worked in close harmony to develop a practical method to control weight in the growing child. As parents and educators, they know that a fully rounded diet, with regulated exercise means a slimmer child with well toned muscles. This unique combination of personal factors and scientific knowledge made the THIN Kids method successful from the start. Why has the THIN Kids Method proven so successful when many weight programs are disappointing? There are several major factors woven into the fabric of the THIN Kids Method and each deserves attention. As one example, THIN Kids stresses the direct involvement of the family so that the "overweight" child and his/her parent cooperate as a team. The child benefits from the full supportiveness of the family to achieve the hoped-for weight loss and maintenance. THIN Kids has a hidden benefit: working as a unit can bring the family even closer together in many ways. Also, the child is not a small adult; his interests, motivations, and needs are different from those of an adult and are regarded as such.

For years now, the THIN Kids method has been successful in teaching many youngsters 7 to 17 how to lose and maintain weight. The program combines the efforts of the Abramsons, the children and their parents, as well as the child's physician (who recognizes the problems of carrying excess weight into adulthood). As the American Heart Association states "Diet (and exercise) habits which are formed during the developing years, may continue lifelong and may influence the severity of heart disease later in life."
