Local returnee from Grenada happy to be home

By VICKI VREELAND

It usually takes a crisis to strike close to home before potential danger is fully realized, and so was the case when one of Springfield's own was rescued from Grenada in the recent American military raid on the Caribbean island.

Marc Kesselhaut, a 23-year-old second year medical student at St. George's University Medical Center, returned to his home on Mohawk Drive Saturday after spending five terror-ridden days under martial law in Grenada.

At his home Tuesday, Marc told of his experiences in Grenada. One of the biggest worries the students on the island had before the raid was not knowing what military action would occur and therefore not knowing if they should continue their medical studies or leave the island. Kesselhaut said that the students were afraid if they all deserted the school it would fold up.

Kesselhaut had planned to finish his studies in Grenada in May and then apply to an American medical school or to one in England for his third year studies. His fourth year clinical work will be done in an American hospital.

Martial law was imposed on the island at 9 p.m. on Oct. 19 following the assassination of the prime minister. Kesselhaut said the announcement, "Anyone seen on the street will be shot on sight" was kind of "unnerving." "None of us had ever experienced anything like that," he said.

Kesselhaut lived off the campus in a house on top of a hill. For the five days they were under martial law the students stayed inside without any electrical power. At night they stayed on the floor keeping their conversations to a minimum and not getting much sleep. When the curfew was lifted the following Monday for three hours, Kesselhaut and his roommate went into town for food and supplies.

Some Grenadian friends advised Kesselhaut and his roommate to get off the island as soon as they could. They had planned to fly to Barbados until things blew over but the invasion occurred the following day, Tuesday, Oct. 25.

At their vantage point in the hilltop house, Kesselhaut saw the unmarked planes dropping bombs and paratroopers falling from the sky. Marc said they didn't know if the planes were "Cuban, Soviet or American. I never saw the military in action." Finally he saw a U.S. helicopter fly by and knew the troops were on their side.

The group of about 25 in his house were one of the last groups to be evacuated. The two campuses were evacuated Wednesday morning and afternoon. Kesselhaut said an administrator at the school told his group couldn't be evacuated for a few days because the military was meeting "pockets of resistance." The group packed, and waited.

Friday morning the word came that they were "going." The students were only allowed to carry a knapsack with them. A helicopter flew them from the house to the Grenada air strip. From there, a U.S. Air Force plane flew them to an Air Force base in Charleston, S.C. Kesselhaut said that by the time the helicopter reached the air strip, the military had the area secured and surrounded and guarded them as they boarded the Air Force plane.

Kesselhaut said he was impressed by the professionalism of the young (18-19 year-old) marines who gave them instructions. "They were very friendly and helpful," he said. The military also aided the students when they reached South Carolina by getting them reservations for flights home.

As soon as he reached Charleston, Marc telephoned his parents, Beverly and Arthur, who until that point had no knowledge of where Marc was or when he would be arriving home. At the onset of the invasion, the Kesselhauts had contacted various Congressmen but received little information about Marc. From there they turned to the media for help where they learned a little more information.

Kesselhaut arrived at Newark Air-Port Saturday morning. He was met by a jubilant and relieved family. Marc's parents threw a party for him Saturday night and neighbors have been dropping by to welcome him home. He said he never expected such an elaborate reaction from the media. He has been interviewed by various newspapers and television stations.

Like many of the other 600 American medical students on the island, Kesselhaut went to St. George's because he did not get into medical schools in the U.S. "About 35,000 students apply to American medical schools each year and only about 16,000 get in," Marc said, "and St. George's is one of the best foreign schools in the world."

Right now he is waiting to hear a decision from the school about what arrangements are going to be made for the students to continue their education. "I will go anywhere," Marc said, "but preferably somewhere warm."

Kesselhaut and some of the other students met with Bergen County Congressman Frank Guarini in Jersey

City Monday to discuss some of their options. Guarini told them he would do the best he could in guaranteeing the completion of their education. He plans to go to Washington to meet with the American Medical Association and the Department of Higher Education. Marc said "The key thing is that something has to be done fast." There may be some type of temporary facility set up so the students can finish their classes.

Although the educational process has been interrupted and the students had to leave behind many expensive medical books and equipment, Marc said, "He is 100 per cent behind Reagan's decision."

In the meantime, Kesselhaut is going to try and relax and catch up with friends. He said he has missed, "the U.S. in general." The food quality in Grenada is poor and limited. There are many times when he has been without power or water and there is little cultural activity. "Nightlife in Grenada is not very exciting. I miss New York City."

Regional BOE prexy resigns in surprise

By VICKI VREELAND

In an unexpected move, Stephen Marcinak, president of the Regional Board of Education District 1, read his letter of resignation at a board meeting Tuesday night and then turned his seat over to Joseph Vaughn, vice president, for the remainder of the meeting.

In his letter, Marcinak said that after serving 1½ years as president, his schedule no longer permitted him the necessary time the position required. He said he felt "very guilty" that he could not attend all the functions he was invited to; functions he thought a board president should attend. "Rather than feel guilty, I would rather step down and let someone who has the time take over the position," Marcinak said.

John Conlin, board member, commented, "This comes as quite a shock. I'm sure I speak for the entire board when I say we appreciate your service and sacrifices over the past 1½ years."

Frank Skok, board attorney, said that Marcinak's resignation was perfectly legal. Once a board member resigns from a position there is nothing other board members can do, accepting the resignation is a formality. Marcinak's term as president was due to expire in April.

The board has 30 days to name a new president or the county superintendent steps into the job. Members said that they were too shocked to make nominations for a new president and decided to wait.

In other business, the board was informed of a revised state plan for hiring athletic coaches. The new plan relaxes former restrictions that mandated schools to only hire coaches on their faculty, explained Charles Bauman, assistant superintendent.

The new procedure allows schools to advertise and hire coaches from other districts providing that the school's faculty has first crack at the job. It also provides that a coach qualifies for a position after he has 60 college credits. Bauman said, "This is a very serious problem. There is a critical shortage of coaching personnel."

The board also approved the installation of a permanent six-foot fence at Governor's Park and a four-foot fence to surround the bleachers at a cost of $7300. The fences were proposed to discourage persons and or vehicles from getting into the landfill area.

Library offers moth brochure

Planning to move from a state infested with the gypsy moth to one not infested? If so, you need to know about a new regulation to help prevent the interstate spread of this leaf-eating pest.

"Don't Move Gypsy Moth" is the title of an illustrated brochure that explains the new regulation" said Cynthia Josephs, director of the Springfield Public Library. "Anyone planning to move can come by the Library and check it out to make sure they don't take an old pest to a new neighborhood."

The regulation, effective Oct. 3, requires that all outdoor household articles be free of gypsy moth life stages — eggs, caterpillars, cocoons and adults.

State and federal agricultural officials will be checking interstate moves in transit or at destination to make sure they are gypsy moth free.

"People moving from the high risk areas will have to inspect their outdoor household articles before they move, or hire a USDA trained commercial expert to do the inspection for them," said Josephs.

"The brochure explains how to inspect for gypsy moth life stages, how to dispose of them and provides a record of the do-it-yourself inspection."

Speeding charge for S.C. motorist

Police arrested a South Carolina man about 4 a.m. Monday for speeding on Route 22, Springfield. Police said Robert Anthony, 39, was charged with speeding and then found to be driving while on the revoked list. Bail was set at $250.

Alexander Joseph, 31, of Michigan was arrested on Mountain Avenue about 4 a.m. Friday. Police said Joseph was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence and consuming an alcoholic beverage in a motor vehicle.

Walk-a-thon proves rousing success for youth group

Danny Berg was so intent on getting from his home in Deal Park to Springfield in time for the recent B'nai B'rith Youth Organization walk-a-thon that he forgot something—his shoes.

But no matter. Berg still joined 75 other members of the Greater Jersey Region in completing the 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) course and raising more than $3,000 for the statewide Jewish youth organization, even though he made the trek barefoot.

Several other BBO'ers completed the route in novel fashion. A quartet, all high school cross country runners, ran all the way and finished the distance in about 45 minutes, while a pair of walkers tied their legs together and reached the finish line in three-legged style.

All in all, according to participants and staff members alike, it was an enjoyable outing.

"This was great," said Robyn Lifschultz of Springfield, a Jonathan Dayton Regional High School student and the vice president of the region's central area. "The weather was just super and all the participants were very enthusiastic."

"I was very pleased with the turnout," added Steve Alexander, the executive regional director. "It represented a commitment that was really widespread. Some kids had to travel very far—from Wayne, Freehold and the shore area—to get here, and they did so at their own expense."

"But it was well worth the effort, according to Springfield's Mark Miller, a Dayton Regional student and one of the organization's youth leaders.

"It was very important for us to raise this money," he explained, "because it indicated our commitment to this organization. And besides, we all had a lot of fun."

The 76 walkers, representing 22 chapters from around the state, began gathering at Meisel Field around 10 a.m., and they were off and walking—and running—by 11:30 a.m.

The 10-kilometer course took participants all the way around Springfield and back to Meisel Field. There were three rest stops along the way—at the homes of Springfield chapter members Lifschultz, Miller and Ellen Lehner.

When the walking and running was over, and the more than $3,000 in pledges was counted, participants and staff members settled down to a barbecue and football game at Meisel.

"The funds will go to our auxiliary budget for operating expenses," said Alexander, the regional director, "as well as to our continuing efforts to subsidize the cost of youth activities. It was basically a self-help project."

"And a very good project," he added, "because it gave the youth a sense of pride in their organization and in themselves."

Raichle served on 'faculty' for UCC event

Dr. Donald Raichle of Springfield, a history professor at Kean College, Union, was among 16 persons who served on the "faculty" for the Union County College Alumni Association's "Back-to-College Day" last Saturday at the Cranford Campus.

"Back-to-College Day" was the third major event in Union County College's year-long 50th Anniversary Celebration.

The "faculty" for "Back-to-College Day" included UCC alumni and members of the faculty and staff of the college. The "faculty" included a world-famous geologist, an expert on terrorism, a Superior Court judge, a codiscoverer of streptomyacin, a dentist, and two officials of the U.S. State Department.

The "courses" available ranged from "Engineering Education Today" to "Successful Aging" and from "Voices of Contemporary Female Poets" to "Writing." Other topics will include "Human Health and Environmental Hazards," "Project Management Systems — An Overview,"

"Periodontal Disease — A Real Adult Program," "Interpreting for the Deaf," and "Personal Computing — A Business Perspective."

"Back-to-College Day" also featured lectures on "New Jersey's Union College," a history of the college written by Raichle, and showing of

Seniors hear candidates speak

Local township committee candidates conducted a repeat performance of Candidates Night for senior citizens at the Sara Bailey Civic Center Friday. The four candidates, incumbent Democrats William Cleri and Stanley Kalsh and Republicans Ronald Citron and Greg Druker, were on hand to answer questions from seniors.

The seniors main concern was "affordable housing." They asked each of the candidates to define their position on the issue. The four agreed that they supported special living arrangements for Springfield seniors who could no longer afford their monthly rents.

Seniors, and all registered Springfield residents, will vote at seven polling locations this Tuesday. The locations with their respective districts are listed as follows: Presbyterian Parish House, Church Mall, Districts 1 and 4; American Legion Building, N. Trivett Ave., Districts 2 and 3; James Caldwell School Gym, Districts 5 and 6; Florence Gaudinier School Gym, S. Springfield Ave., Districts 7 and 8; Raymond Chisholm School Gym, S. Springfield Ave., Districts 9 and 10; Thelma Sandmeier School Gym, S. Springfield Ave., District 11 and Edward Walton School Gym, Mountain Ave., Districts 12 and 13.

GOP blasts 'do-nothing' opponents

SPRINGFIELD—"All the cliches on 'do-nothing' government are summed up in Bill Cieri and Stan Kalsh," according to Ron Citron and Greg Druker, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee.

"We've just concluded a very hard fought election campaign," states Citron. "We have put before you a detailed, imaginative platform containing 15 points."

"While we've been highlighting the 15-point platform which we'd implement immediately upon taking office, Cieri and Kalsh have been taking cracks at Republican accomplishments during the first nine months of Phil Feintuch's and Joanne Tedesco's first term," says Druker.

"Over the past nine months, imaginative steps have been taken to improve life in Springfield for all of us. Outstanding among them, of course, was the acquisition of the Chisholm School, and an accountability program which has been put in place. Just as you and we have to be accountable for our work effort, so should all the employees of Springfield be accountable for all of theirs. We would build on these previous successes."

"On the other hand, Cieri and Kalsh, following their own lead, would continue to tear down anything they hadn't initiated themselves. As we've said before, since they haven't initiated anything, they're safe from anyone attacking them on that ground," continues Druker.

"They've had six years to grab the brass ring as we have, and come up with some forward progress for Springfield," states Citron, "but so far, all of their campaign literature and press releases brandish catch-phrases and drone on old issues and stale ideas. Not only have Cieri and Kalsh failed to put forth a platform as we have done, but they've consistently attacked personalities."

"On the other hand, we're presenting new ideas: We've opposed the amphitheater as they have, but we've refused to rest upon the cry to the public for a 'clamor of opposition,' as have Cieri and Kalsh," says Druker. "Not only are we unalterably opposed to the construction of an amphitheater on the quarry site, but we have officially registered our opposition with the Democratic Freeholder Board. We have advised them of our demands that they accept Springfield's autonomy in determining the use of land within our borders."

"We can only urge tenants and Walton people to take a clear look at what is being told to them, as well as the motives behind it. We also urge the voters of Springfield to turn out in big numbers Tuesday so the outcome of the local election reflects the broad base of opinion, and not that of a few narrow interests. There are many difficult issues facing Springfield in the years just ahead. Keep experienced, concerned elected officials in town hall to address them."

"The annual Springfield township budget is $5.5 million, and the Township employs a staff of over 100. Thus, we have also taken the position that there may very well be a need for a manager for business administration," Citron points out. "Additionally, in our investigation of the Township operation, we have discovered that here, in 1983, we don't even have a computer in town hall, nor do we have a purchasing agent."

"We've shown our concern for safety, especially that of senior citizens, by calling for a light at S. Springfield and Independence Way, and a blinker at Shunpike and Mt. View Road."

Druker continues, "While our opponents have been distorting the positive action of Mayor Ruccione and Councilpersons Feintuch and Tedesco, we've been asking, 'What have you done?'"

According to their statement, Citron and Druker "want to take Republican action beyond the purchase of Chisholm School for an expanded free recreation program, with the preservation of 'Y' activities. Citron and Druker will secure a home field for the Mid-Jersey Soccer League and will establish recognition for the Township's hundreds of volunteers."

"It should be evident to the voter that from the Democrats' repeated references to the amphitheater situation, that they have no other issues, nor have they projected any programs," says Druker.

Cieri, Kalsh cry foul over tactics of 'lies'

SPRINGFIELD—Bill Cieri and Stanley Kalsh, Democratic candidates for re-election to Springfield's Township Committee, cried foul over the tactics used against them.

"It has come to our attention," Cieri and Kalsh stated, "that lies are being told about us to Springfield's tenants and to the Walton School parents, in an effort to defeat us on election day. We are so concerned about this that we are using our last newspaper article before election day to address the issue."

"Springfield's tenants are being told by their leadership that (1) we will not be re-elected and (2) for tenants there is no other issue."

"Springfield's Walton School neighborhood is being told that somehow or other we are responsible for the sale of the Walton School."

"Both are lies that defy logic. Nevertheless they may fall on receptive ears because they are addressed to frightened, angry, frustrated people."

"If we wanted to eliminate rent control, we had two years to do it after our last election during which we were in the majority on the Township Committee. At no time was it considered. We didn't do it then and we certainly won't do it now."

"As for rent control being the only issue in which tenants should be interested, we can think of no more negative, divisive message. Springfield's tenants have a stake in the entire community. Voting on a single issue—particularly a phony one—has

Schering sales show 7.6 percent increase

KENILWORTH—Schering-Plough Corporation of Kenilworth reported recently that third quarter sales from continuing operations were $47.8 million, an increase of 7.6 percent over the $46.1 million of one year ago.

Pretax income rose 14.6 percent to $3.4 million, compared with $4.9 million in the third quarter of 1982. Net income was $3.5 million, up 6.8 percent from the $3.2 million for the 1982 third quarter and earnings per common share from continuing operations increased 14.3 percent to 72 cents, compared with 63 cents in the previous year.

Robert P. Luciano, president and chief executive officer, observed that operating income rose 18.5 percent principally as a result of net sales growth in the U.S. pharmaceutical business, reflecting significant gains in the allergy, cough/cold and dermatological product lines. In addition, he noted that the U.S. cosmetics business also turned in a good performance.

Despite this favorable showing, Luciano said that comparisons with 1982 results continue to be penalized by unfavorable year-to-year foreign exchange rates in key overseas markets. Overseas sales of pharmaceutical and consumer products, although declining in U.S. dollars, posted good gains in terms of local currencies. He also noted that 1983 results were negatively affected by a four percentage-point increase in the company's effective tax rate due primarily to changes in the

Bassano wins PACE support

UNION—Senator C. Louis Bassano has been endorsed in his bid for re-election to the State Senate in District 21 by the board of directors of Political Action for Candidate Election (PACE). Before endorsing Bassano, the group said it "looked at his responses to a series of questions concerning significant human services issues in New Jersey, as well as his record of public service."

The political arm of the National Association of Social Workers, PACE was formed in 1978. Bassano has also won the endorsement of New Jersey firefighters. The firemen's support was announced by William J. Kosakowski, president of the New Jersey State Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association.

"Lou Bassano is too valuable a representative of his constituents in the 21st District and the firefighters of this state to allow someone else to take his place," Kosakowski said.

Grossman cited for homecoming

SPRINGFIELD—David Grossman of Springfield, a Bucknell University senior, was host for the school's annual Homecoming Weekend held recently. He was recognized throughout the weekend and will represent the school at a variety of campus and alumni functions during the year.

Russo urging freeze on taxes for seniors

UNION—Anthony E. Russo, Democratic candidate for the State Senate in the 21st District, this week promised to press for enactment of a "feasible means of freezing senior citizens' property taxes at virtually no cost to other taxpayers."

Russo, who is seeking to return to the legislative body in which he served from 1978 through 1981, described his proposal as a "serious attempt to help senior citizens who wish to remain in their own homes."

Under his proposal, which he said would be completely voluntary, the property taxes on one or two-family homes occupied by senior citizens electing to take part would be frozen at their present levels, where they would remain as long as the older person occupies the dwelling as the owner.

The state would establish a fund to pay municipalities the difference between the frozen tax rate and the current rate each year the senior citizen lives in the home. A record of the amount advanced by the state would be kept and the total would be deducted from the proceeds when the house is finally sold.

"Let's assume that the increase in property taxes is $200 a year," Russo explained. "If the senior citizen participating in the program held on to his house for 10 years, the state would be owed $2,000 at the time of the sale. Since property values go up well in excess of $200 each year with inflation, the seller would still be ahead at the time of sale."

Russo said the state would have to provide the seed money at the outset until the fund is solvent as a result of reimbursements from sales. "From that point forward, the fund would be self-perpetuating," he said.

"Only those senior citizens who wish to take part in the property tax freeze system would be involved," he emphasized. "Those who would prefer to continue paying the increased taxes would be free to do so. However, from my own knowledge of the plight faced by older people, I am well aware of the desirability of a tax freeze program of this nature. There are many senior citizens who would rather remain in the familiar surroundings of the homes they have established and maintained for many years. Only the crunch of rising property taxes is forcing them to consider selling and taking apartments or moving into the homes of their married children. This program would give senior citizens the option of staying in their own homes without having to worry about rising property taxes. They would, in a sense, be secure inside the eye of a storm of rising taxes. Additionally, since the program would be financed by the proceeds of sales of homes at some future date, it would cost younger taxpayers nothing," he said.

Russo pledged to work in Trenton for the adoption of such a program if he is returned to the State Senate on Nov. 8. "It's the type of thing I have been doing in Union."

Rajoppi planning seminars in county

UNION—Joanne Rajoppi, Democratic candidate for register of deeds and mortgages in Union County, said this week that if she is elected, she will conduct seminars in each of the 21 municipalities in the county to explain the functions of the register's office.

"I have met many people during the campaign who have no idea what this office is all about," Rajoppi said.

"I have attempted to create a greater awareness among the general public regarding what the office has to offer. I feel it is important to reach out to Strulowitz heads seminar on lens

Hatfield issues challenge on budget

UNION—Richard Hatfield, Union County register, this week challenged a budget analysis issued by his opponent, Democrat Joanne Rajoppi.

"I'm not certain where her budget analysis figures come from and am sure she doesn't know either," he said.

"At the very least, she twisted facts regarding retroactive pay raises and CETA employee salaries," he said.

"The truth is the budget request submitted by my predecessor in his last year of office for the two categories, 'salaries' and 'other expenses,' totaled $313,000. My 1983 budget request was $327,000 plus $15,000 added by the county finance department," Hatfield said.

"Ms. Rajoppi is obviously unaware a third budget category exists—central purchasing in that category, my return of the county car on my second day in office, my savings in telephone usage and changes in costly data processing time are significant," he added.

"Ms. Rajoppi should tell the taxpayers of Union County whether she will have a $2,000-a-year deputy, a post I eliminated, and whether she will use a county car, which I refused," Hatfield said.

"The Union County register's office has a well-deserved reputation, thanks in great measure to an excellent, dedicated staff."

Hardison becomes postmaster

SPRINGFIELD—Janet Hardison, a native of Springfield, was sworn in as Springfield's 26th postmaster at ceremonies conducted at the Antioch Baptist Church, South Springfield Avenue Monday. Her predecessor, Clarence Alston, who conducted the invocation stated, "This is a giant step in the black community of Springfield."

Joseph Benucci, postmaster-manager in Newark, said the position of postmaster is, "the life blood of the community." He explained that it is through the communication system that we keep in touch with loved ones and conduct our business affairs.

Hardison will be responsible for serving a population of more than 17,000, along with a business sector. The annual revenue for the Springfield Post Office is more than two million dollars.

Hardison is a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School and has a degree in Business Administration from Union College. She lived on Meeker Street for 19 years before moving to Plainfield where she currently lives.

Hardison will replace Owen Morrison, who retired after serving as Springfield's postmaster for 12 years.

EDUCATION:

"An intelligent approach to providing young people with saleable skills in the job market during this age of high technology must be adopted. We must give teachers the tools and the salaries they need—provided pay increases are linked to a merit system that truly measures classroom effectiveness. New Jersey must improve its ranking as the 48th state in per capita spending for higher education."

CRIME AND CRIMINALS

"I favor tightening the criminal code to make sure the guilty receive the punishment they deserve. The certainty of swift trials and stiff sentences for those convicted of serious crimes is people's best assurance that our system really works."

SENIOR CITIZENS:

"I will continue as a state senator to fight for more Medicaid nursing home beds, for day care centers and a fair share of the assistance senior citizens deserve for the pioneering role they have played in our society."

ENVIRONMENT:

"We must launch a relentless counter-attack against environmental predators who endanger our lives and those of our children. We must enforce existing laws and strengthen those needing reinforcement. There can be no higher priority than attacking at the source the environmental causes of the dread disease that has given New Jersey the unwelcome label of Cancer Alley."

JOBS AND THE ECONOMY

"We must encourage a positive economic climate that will attract potential employers. The job flow to the Sunbelt States must be reversed through creative economic planning, a stable and fair tax structure and an aggressive campaign to put New Jerseyans to work at meaningful and productive jobs."

Picketer at White's has his foot run over

KENILWORTH—A striking picketer at White's, Fowler, 19, North 10th Street, was arrested for disorderly conduct and foot under the tire of a tractor-trailer that was attempting to enter the property Friday morning and was subsequently arrested. # What NJ Media had to say when Anthony Russo was State Senator

"State Sen. Anthony Russo (D-Union) has sponsored a bill that would allow an assistant county adjuster to sit in on civil commitment hearings when the county adjuster is unable to attend."
"Russo is the Union County adjuster."
The Star-Ledger, February 23, 1979

(Russo sponsored) "... serious potential for undermining the effectiveness of all prosecutors' offices."
The Sunday Star-Ledger, June 15, 1980

The 'Reform' That Isn't (Russo sponsored) "Instead of protecting innocent suspects, they'll protect clever criminals."
The Record (Bergen) September 21, 1981

Legislative Conflict "Doubling the benefits would automatically double the fees which Mr. Russo and his lawyer-colleagues in the Legislature would collect. Plainly stated, he would profit financially — directly and substantially — from the passage of his bill."
The Star-Ledger, February 11, 1970

Paid for by Citizens for Bassano, G. Pate, 147 Saddle Ave., Union, N.J. 07033

Nothing has changed since those days — same political jobs ... same special interests ... same lack of time to devote to the Senate ... same Anthony Russo.

Re-Elect SENATOR

LOU BASSANO

Bleeding Hearts

... these bills (Russo sponsored) will not benefit the average defendant but, rather, will enhance the ability of the white collar or organized crime criminal to frustrate the investigative capability of the grand jury."
The Trentonian, September 22, 1981

Rating the Legislature

"You will also find in this rating a list of the inert — lawmakers who did ill by doing nothing. These we call the Drones. Since there's no way to sketch these nonentities, we have simply named them for your information."
"Those career catatonics in whom we perceive only flickering signs of life."
"Anthony Russo (D-Union)"
New Jersey Monthly Magazine, October 1979

Justice aide calls grand jury reform bills 'potentially dangerous' step

Compromise change urged

Rating the Legislature

The Courier-News

Wishful thinking

VIEWPOINT

Legislative conflict

Ethics in Question

"If only the state senator (Russo) from Union could be equally incensed about the real sticklers in the state's image problem: official corruption, toxic wastes, pollution, unemployment and the Legislature's lack of commitment to distressed communities and peoples."
The Courier-News, October 7, 1980

"In conceding that he took part in the arrangement, Anthony Russo called the practice, 'immoral,' and then went on to make it clear that it was nevertheless 'perfectly legal.'
The Star-Ledger, June 27, 1979

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTING PUBLIC OF SPRINGFIELD
Over the past few weeks you have been barraged with charge and countercharge. Each side in this battle is out to win your vote. I hope this letter will clear up some of the rhetoric and give you some insight as to what our local election is all about. I, together with JoAnn Tedesco, took office on January 1, 1983. Our election enabled Bill Ruocco, who has been on our Township Committee for twelve years, ten of those years as a minority member, to become Mayor of Springfield. At this time, the majority party on the Township Committee changed hands for the first time in ten years. As a result of our majority, we have begun to make some waves and have begun to displace a feeling of apathy and lethargy with a feeling of vibrancy. Some of our attempts to bring the government of Springfield into the 1980's have been controversial and have been met by resistance. Did you know, for instance, that our Town, with a budget of $5,000,000.00 and with approximately 100 employees does not have even one computer? Did you also know that we don't even have a purchasing agent? Well JoAnn, Mayor Ruocco and I are trying to change that. Additionally, we are demanding some measure of accountability from our career employees. Our Police Department needs to be studied and possibly upgraded. The needs of the 1980's must be met with approaches for the 1980's. The two democrats running for office are well known. They have been around for six years, but they have been obstructivists in our attempts to modernize. They are playing politics. They have been around Town Hall for a long time. BUT JUST BEING THERE IS NOT ENOUGH. I ask for you to vote for Ron Citron and Greg Druker. Our ideas and designs to bring Springfield into the 1980's must be reinforced with new energy and a sense of vibrancy that Messrs. Kalsh and Cieri are not accustomed to. Please vote for Ron Citron and Greg Druker on Row B on November 8. SPRINGFIELD DESERVES THE BEST. Thank You.

Brearley gridders geared up for title showdown

With a three-game winning streak and a ton of momentum, David Brearley Regional High School is primed for its showdown Saturday against Immaculata in Somerville for the Mountain Valley Conference Valley Division football championship.

"We're catching them just in stride," said Brearley coach Bob Richter after his team overcame Bound Brook and a strong wind Saturday to post a 13-4 victory. The triumph raised the Bears' record to 3-2-1, 2-1 in conference. Immaculata is 2-0 in conference play and 5-1 overall. Immaculata's only defeat this year has been to undefeated and unscathed Somerville, its crosstown rival.

"They have a fine well-balanced team," said Taylor. "They have two fine running backs in Dennis Field and Mark Kowal. And their quarterback Mike Frauenheim (son of head coach Pierce) is a solid leader. Last year we beat them, 15-12, and it was some game."

Among common opponents, there is one glaring foe that stands out. Kenilworth lost to Roselle Park, 19-18, in the third quarter, with Bound Brook punting from deep in its own territory. Rubineti just threw the blocking fullback right back into the punter. The ball was blocked into the end zone and Seragousa fell on it for the touchdown. It was a clutch play.

Due to the windy conditions that prevailed last Saturday, defense dominated in the Bear victory over Bound Brook (5-3). "John Rubineti, Tony Seragousa and Jimmy Havanki were outstanding on the line," lauded Taylor. "The defense was tremendous. In the third quarter, with Bound Brook punting from deep in its own territory, Rubineti just threw the blocking fullback right back into the punter. The ball was blocked into the end zone and Seragousa fell on it for the touchdown. It was a clutch play."

The touchdowns gave Brearley a 13-0 lead, a safe margin on a windy day that made many plays an adventure.

"It was a strange game," said Taylor of his sophomore who was starting his first game following the season-ending injury Oct. 23 to Pat Hogan. "He ran the team well." McSorley returned from missing one game with a turned ankle and showed his regular form as he tallied his ninth touchdown of the season.

Strangely, Bound Brook recorded two safeties. In the third quarter, backed up to its goal line, a Brearley lineman was detected for holding in the end zone, an automatic safety. In the fourth quarter, with 8:15 remaining in the game, the Bear punter took a safety rather than risk kicking into the wind from deep in his own territory. The play worked as Seragousa boomed a free kick that bottled up Bound Brook in its own end.

As has become par for the course, Brearley lost a regular for the season with an injury as defensive back Scott Reuter dislocated a shoulder late in the third period. Reuter had played brilliantly, making a pair of interceptions and five solo tackles.

6 DB gymnasts gain sectionals

David Brearley Regional will have six girls competing in this year's state sectional gymnastics competition. Qualifiers and their events are: Kathy Giacalone — all around, Maureen Riley — uneven bars, balance beam and floor exercise, Claudine Nakly — uneven bars and balance beam, Susan Fleener — balance beam, Tracy Spillman — uneven bars, and Marianne Schmidt — floor exercise.

On Friday the team defeated Kearny, 81.0-80.07.

Top vault score went to Kathy

Giacalone with 8.2 followed by Lynn Ferrara's 7.55.

On bars, Maureen Riley received 8.4 with Giacalone and Tracy Spillman each receiving 7.7 to tie for second place.

On balance beam Susan Beurer and Giacalone tied for first with 7.65 closely followed by Claudine Nakly with 7.6.

Giacalone was first on floor with 8.4 followed by freshman, Sandra Spillman giving a fine performance to take second place.

Adding to Brearley's victory were: Nancy Masterson, Sandy Bober, Kelly Shields, Kathy Beurer, and Donna Milius.

The gymnasts, coached by Ellen Lawson, will compete on Saturday in the Union County Tournament at Union High School.

In other gymnastics news, the Summit Summits of the Summit YMCA competed in the annual Bridgette Jamboree.

Competing for the Class III team were Danya Rutanankorn of Springfield, Shannon Parcels, Jennifer Rodrigues,

A Word About Character

From U.S. Senator Bill Bradley

Dear Friend:

I'm writing to emphasize my whole-hearted support for my good friend, Anthony Russo, who seeks to represent you again in the New Jersey State Senate, where he served honorably and capably from 1978 through 1981.

The election in the 21st Legislative district should turn, as I have seen so many others decided, on the basis of the candidates' characters. By all these standards, Anthony Russo is an individual of uncommon distinction.

By character, I mean what an individual is really made of...how he or she reacts in a crisis...and how he or she deals with fellow human beings. By all these standards, Anthony Russo is an individual of uncommon distinction.

It has become trite to say that a politician "cares." But Anthony Russo truly does. I have often seen him agonize over the problems of one of his constituents. I have known him to spend long hours trying to help someone with nowhere else to turn.

I think it's also important to point out that Anthony Russo is truly qualified to serve in the State Senate. A graduate of Lafayette College and the Rutgers University School of Law, he has spent many years as a member of his local governing body, a mayor, a state senator and a concerned citizen.

Anthony Russo has demonstrated time and again that he is an individual who cares for his family, and for his constituents in the best sense of the word.

I cannot urge you strongly enough to vote on Nov. 8 to return a thoroughly decent human being named Anthony Russo to the State Senate.

Sincerely,
Bill Bradley

HANDOFF—Jonathan Dayton High School quarterback Rich Polcastro hands ball off to running back Rob Martinielli during last Saturday's game against Ridge. The Bulldogs bowed, 20-2, to drop their record to 1-4-1. (Photo by John Boutskaris)

Bulldog gridders primed for GL

When Jonathan Dayton Regional High School meets Governor Livingston on the gridiron Saturday, it will hope to extend its unbeaten streak against district opponents. In his three games against regional rivals, Coach Tony Polcastro's team has beaten and tied Brearley, and defeated Gov. Livingston.

"We haven't lost to a district team since I have been here," said Polcastro, "and I hope that continues Saturday. Regardless of GL's record (4-1-1), we feel we have a good chance against them. We match up well against them. We are each strong defensively, and we are each struggling offensively."

Dayton's offense continued to sputter last Saturday when it bowed to Ridge (6-1), 20-2. A first quarter safety avoided the shutout, but the offense still hasn't scored since a victory over Bound Brook Oct. 8. The defeat dropped Dayton's record to 1-4-1. With three games remaining, the Bulldogs now have to shoot for a 500 mark.

Springfield jumped out to a 2-0 lead as the Bulldogs misshandled a punt and Tony Apicella pounced on the Ridge player who recovered it in the end zone for the safety. With a strong wind affecting the offensive play, the ball went back and fourth with no teams seriously threatening the remainder of the half.

"We expected them to go to the razzle dazzle they are noted for in the second half," said Polcastro. "But, instead they went to a power attack strictly inside the tackles. Their line is a lot bigger than ours and they just pounded us backwards. They didn't get any big gains, but they were stronger than us."

A key play occurred in the third quarter when Ridge punted from midfield with a strong wind at its back. Fearing a punt that would put his team in a hole, Dayton went for the block. But it backfired and a Bulldog defender was called for roughing the kicker.

The penalty gave Ridge a first down on the Dayton 35-yard line and it scored six plays later on a 12-yard run by Dave Sarracino. Sarracino, a junior fullback, rushed for 98 yards and scored all three Ridge touchdowns.

Ridge's next touchdown came in the fourth period when Dayton quarterback Rich Polcastro fumbled when hit behind the line of scrimmage. Ridge recovered on the Dayton 21, and went in soon after on a seven-yard run by Sarracino. Ridge scored the game's final touchdown on a 45-yard drive capped by a Sarracino's five-yard run for a touchdown.

"We played hard," said Polcastro. "We had a good week of preparation and we were in the game. When we got behind we went to the shotgun, but only completed one out of 11 pass attempts. We tried everything to generate some offense. We have to make some big plays."

Grett is dominating as FDU goalkeeper

Andrew Grett of Springfield, Fairleigh Dickinson University's outstanding freshman goalkeeper, is being called "Andrew Great" by many opposing coaches and fans these days.

Grett is on a roll for the national team. They did win at Penn State. We were up for them and responded with a solid effort.

Six games came in a 7-1 romp over Syracuse.

"I was very impressed with Lock Haven," Stravato said. "They're capable of beating any Div. I team on a given day and we certainly didn't take them lightly. They did win at Penn State. We were up for them and responded with a solid effort."

"Andrew is improving every game," head coach Ben Stravato said. "He's had a lot of experience for a freshman, but it's still a tough spot for him to be in. We play some of the best teams in the country and he's done the job."

Grett, who was the goalie on the U.S. National team (18-under) which played in the Graniteks Tournament last winter in the Soviet Union, currently has a goals-against average of 0.69.

"I've learned a lot in these first 14 games," Grett says. "I was nervous for the first few, but my confidence is building with each victory. I'm coming out better on balls and distributing better to the fullbacks, who have done a great job in front of me."

The backline of the defense has been sweeper Athens Bozinos, a junior, plus seniors Jim Rankin and Humberto Munoz (fullbacks) and stopper Chris Coulthard, a sophomore.

"The strength of our team is in its defense and ours appears to have settled down," Stravato said. "We had a couple shaky games early, but obviously not lately."

"Andrew has come a long way in just 14 games; his communication with his fullbacks has come around and he's become more aggressive and very good in a crowd."

While the defense has jelled, the offense has continued to set a brisk pace, outscoring the opposition, 24-1, in the last six matches.

Freshman Brian Almscough scored "the best goal of the season," according to Stravato to open the scoring against Lock Haven, taking a cross from midfielder Aidan McCluskey in full stride and hanging it past Bruce Cocker, the keeper for the Blue Eagles. It was Almscough's ninth goal of the season.

All-America candidate Michael Kling paced the Knights with 11 goals, followed by McCluskey with 10. FDU is averaging 3.43 goals a game and giving up 0.63. The only goal scored in the last

Local duo playing for Kean volleyball

Springfield's Renee Rothaus and Mountainside's Mary Jo Scuderi are members of the 1983 Kean College women's volleyball team. Both are seeing action for first-year boss Kathy Neal as the Squires seek to repeat as New Jersey State College Conference champions.

Neal is very high on Scuderi.

"She's got nice height on her jumps and she is probably one of our most consistent power hitters," she said. "She's only 5-7, but can jump really well."

Dayton girls cop MVC title

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School girls cross country team takes its steamroller into the state sectionals Saturday at Warrinaco Park in Elizabeth.

The Bulldogs have to be rated the favorites following their easy triumph Tuesday, 17-61, over runnerup Immaculata in the Mountain Valley Conference Championships at Donatdon Park in Highland Park. It was the second consecutive MVC title for Dayton. Mary Pat Parducci paced the romp with a course record 19:15, smashing the old mark of 20:20. She was followed by teammates Tracy Riber (20:12) and Laura Richter (21:12). Tracy Karr was seventh, Margaret Taylor ninth, Sue Rauschenberger 10th and Nancy Gaglio 11th. Yolanda Rehm of David Brearley was 12th at 21:28.

The Dayton boys came in second to Ridge, 45-74, with Tommy Jackson third in 17:07 and Chris Woodall fourth in 17:23.

Dayton finished its dual meet season with a 10-0 record, which extended its winning streak to 28. Their latest triumphs included the following: 15-47 over David Brearley, 17-42 over Immaculata, 15-48 over Clark, and 15-48 over New Providence.

Sheriff, register hopefuls debate

By ADA BRUNNER

Whether or not the Union County sheriff's office is "something to be proud of" came under dispute last Thursday at a candidates night sponsored by the Linden League of Women Voters - as did a report on revenues in the office of the register of deeds and mortgages.

Both the sheriff's and register's office are at stake in the election Tuesday. Running for the former are incumbent Sheriff Ralph Froehlich, Democrat, and William Kelly, Republican, both of Elizabeth; candidates for the latter are incumbent Register Richard Hatfield of Scotch Plains, Republican, and Joanne Rajoppi of Springfield, Democrat.

Froehlich, who said that he is proud of the office, cited the fingerprint program which he started. In this program, children's fingerprints are taken on a voluntary basis and given to the parents, to be used as identification if the need arises. Kelly, on the other hand, promised to "streamline" the sheriff's office. He cited as an example a $1,000 check which had been collected from a firm and which was left on his opponent's desk for so long - from January to April - that eventually it bounced. As a result, the county had to make up the $1,000, he said.

Froehlich conceded that the incident had happened but said his office has brought in $240,000 for the county this year; even with the $1,000 deducted, that still leaves $239,000, he said.

In the register debate, Hatfield said he has kept his campaign promises to devote himself full-time to the job and to do away with a deputy register position. On his second day on the job, he said, he turned in the county car assigned to the register. Since then, he added, he has used the car only once.

"Our office is considered one of the best," Hatfield said.

Rajoppi said the two issues in the election are "accuracy and accessibility." Accuracy is important in recording the documents handled by the office, she said. As for accessibility, she said she would go to the municipalities once a month to acquaint the people with the documents housed in the office.

Former Register Hugh Caldwell, who had just been named a co-campaign director for Rajoppi, challenged a statement Hatfield gave to the League claiming that revenues in the register's office have increased to more than $3 million.

Caldwell made his comments after announcing that he was resigning the director for Rajoppi, challenging a statement Hatfield gave to the League claiming that revenues in the register's office have increased to more than $3 million.

Caldwell charged that the register's original statement was misleading because it failed to make clear the fact that the $3 million included state funds. When he attempted to repeat the charges and continue his attack on the incumbent, the moderator, Margaret Walker of Westfield, ruled him out of order.

county-owned John E. Rummels Hospital in Berkeley Heights, to be run in affiliation with the Center of Hope, a non-profit organization. There are hospital beds available at Rummels that could be used for this program, he said, calling it "the wave of the future."

Miller described Union County as "an aging county," in terms of both its people and its infrastructure. He urged expansion of the meals on wheels and home care programs and creation of a separate Department of Aging; speaking of the infrastructure, he cited deteriorating bridges and urged that the county plan "not for today, but for tomorrow and the day after."

LaPolla, who warned that communities like Linden would suffer from receipt of tax moneys and the infrastructure bank, promised that the Democrats "will go out to see what the people want."

O'Keefe said there are "no basic differences" between the Democratic and Republican candidates on such issues as "protecting your tax dollar," senior citizen services and expansion of experience, he added.

Scarsese said that, as a businessman, he has learned to "give a dollar's worth of value for a dollar spent." In meetings with various groups throughout the past summer, "I sat and listened and learned," he said.

JADE GARDEN—a cheerful, bright new restaurant located at 430 North Wood Ave., in Linden offers a new approach to Chinese cuisine

Guide to Good Dining

Chinese food presented in unique style

By TEDDI RUSSO

One of the many outstanding features about Americans is their ability to accept and absorb diverse ethnic food. Next to Italian food I think we Americans favor Chinese cuisine.

In this locality, where oriental restaurants abound, a truly outstanding one can be found in Linden. Located at 430 North Wood Avenue, the Jade Garden is a brand new Chinese restaurant. Open about a month, they were doing a lively business.

The atmosphere is cheery with authentic Chinese music playing softly in the background. There is a crisp new look to everything, from the white tablecloths and matching napkins to the bright red carpeting found throughout the establishment.

The Jade Garden can seat around 60 diners quite comfortably. The food is delicious and presented in a unique style. Our waitress was friendly, extremely helpful and gave excellent service.

The menu is extensive with a wide assortment of Szechuan and Cantonese cuisine. In most Chinese restaurants the choice of soup is usually 2 or 3, but at the Jade Garden you have 8 to choose from: from the usual egg drop & wonton to the unusual water cross, corn soup or shredded pork & pickled cabbage soup to entice you.

The 9 appetizers range from egg rolls to spare ribs, fantail shrimp & fried dumplings. Four different Chow Meins are offered as well as 3 sweet & sour dishes. Six beef, 5 pork, 7 chicken & 10 seafood dishes are offered in a variety of styles & sauces. Chop Suey, Lo Mein, Fried Rice & Egg Foo Young are available in several choices. In addition there are 9 combination plates to pick from, all with pork fried rice & egg roll.

Now that you are aware that the Jade Garden offers the usual oriental cuisine in a wide assortment, let me describe that part of the menu I found to be unique. These are the specialties, all served with rice & especially created for the Jade Garden by their outstanding chef, Lin Smith. I found it hard to choose from the 18 selections listed, but was very pleased to have picked no. 7, Tang's Seafood Basket. At $8.75 it was a delicious combination of lobster meat, scallops, shrimp & king crab meat, all sautéed with garden vegetables, such as snow peas, mushrooms, tiny corn cobs, turnips & broccoli, served inside an intricate nest made from taro strips, deep fried in a mold which resembled a birds nest and sitting on a bed of raw cabbage strips, delightful!

Its presentation was unique and it tasted even better than it looked. The crispness of the vegetables, cooked just right, combined with the crispness of the edible nest & generous assortment of seafood made this an incomparable choice. In case you might think this was the only original of fering try no. 3, the selection of my dinner companion. Called Chen Pei Ngau it is a large portion of tender filets of marinated beef, delicately flavored with orange peels. The taste was sweet & spicy, the beef soft, with just a hint of honey. The original touch was a large carrot cut into a rosebud shape, beautiful to look at — delicious to eat — resting on a dark green bed of fresh parsley!

Several items on the menu have an asterisk beside them denoting hot & spicy, for those who are devotees of the szechuan style of Chinese cookery. Steve, your host and owner, was charming and gracious. Although his English is limited he instinctively knows your desires, aims to please and succeeds!

The Jade Garden is open Monday to Thursday from 11 AM to 10 PM, on Friday & Saturday from 11 AM to 11 PM & on Sunday from 12 noon to 10 PM. They offer free delivery for take out orders.

The next time you're in the mood for Chinese food you must try the Jade Garden, it's one of the best.

Cusanelli-Wilson to star in 'Fiddler on the Roof'

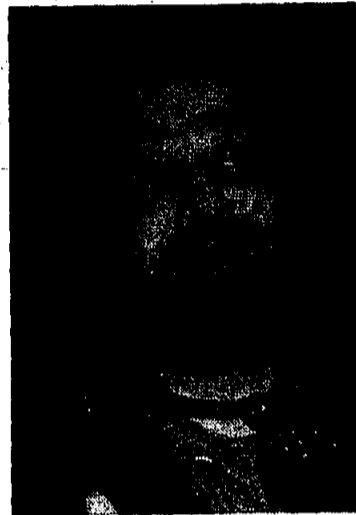

Joe Cusanelli will recreate his Broadway role of Tevye in "Fiddler on the Roof," which opens Wednesday at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn. Dolores Wilson also will be starred as Golda.

Cusanelli, who appeared in "Fiddler" on Broadway as Tevye, Lazar Wolf, the butcher, and Avram, the bookseller with the first national company, also has appeared in touring productions of "Peter Pan," "Brigadoon," "Paint Your Wagon," "Kismet" and "Damn Yankees."

Wilson, who has appeared in the Metropolitan Opera, in musical comedy, stage, television, also made recordings. She also appeared in the 1972 Paper Mill production of "Fiddler," and recently played the role of Aunt Jenny in "I Remember Mama" on Broadway. Wilson also played Miss Hannigan in "Annie."

Among the 16 musical numbers in "Fiddler," the most popular are "Sunrise, Sunset," "Matchmaker, Matchmaker," "If I Were a Rich Man" and "To Life."

Disc & Data

By Milt Hammer

Pick of the LPs, "Espionage" (A&M Records).

Some musical associations, though not specifically planned, seem inevitable. That's the case with Espionage, the young English quartet, whose self-titled debut album is released on the A&M label.

Chazz Coghlan, 26, a Liverpool native, began playing at age six. Sure enough, the two young men got to know each other, and although their formal musical alliance would begin until some years later (for one thing, Paul was busy pursuing a career in electronics, which he did not abandon until he was 18), the stage was set.

On an occasional basis in Liverpool, putting their plans for a collaboration on hold while working steadily with other musicians as well.

In 1981, Coghlan had enough of his own material together to begin making demo tapes, and to do so, he returned to the home of Paul Hutchinson, whose father had some suitable recording equipment.

Nature took its course, and Coghlan and Hutchinson began writing together. Coghlan suggested that Kearon would make an ideal third partner, and by June, 1981, the nucleus of Espionage was solidified.

Bass player Gordon Goodwin, born in Manchester, gave up his job as an electrical fitter when he was 20, choosing instead to pursue music full time. After playing in various groups, including his own, Goodwin answered an advertisement placed in a local paper by the three founding members of Espionage, and when they asked him to join, Gordon willingly gave up his other gigs and signed on with Espionage.
