

Cathy Mancino in Wilder play

KENILWORTH—Cathy Mancino of Kenilworth is currently appearing as Sabina in the Trenton State College student production of "The Skin of Our Teeth" by Thornton Wilder.

The allegorical play, which has become a minor American classic, has performances today, tomorrow and Saturday. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. in Kendall Hall Studio Theatre.

Dr. Hal Hogstrom, TSC faculty member, is the director of the production. For further information, call (609) 771-2106.

Mancino, a sophomore music major, has appeared in TSC's productions of "The Apple Tree" and "The Fifth of July." She has also done crew work for "Gemini" and "Hamlet."

Rescue squad calls

MOUNTAINVIEW—The Mountainview Rescue Squad reported the following calls for the month of September. The squad responded to a total of 42 calls, among which were 24 emergencies, three motor vehicle accidents and seven transportation.

'Sail A Thon Cruise Night' set Wednesday

In an effort to provide the answers to questions about cruise travel, Vacations Unlimited Travel Agency of South Orange will sponsor a Sail A Thon Cruise Night on Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at Mayfair Farms, Eagle Rock Ave. West Orange.

According to Bruce Friedman, president of the agency, this will be an evening to see films about "the cruise experience," meet with representatives from the steamship lines and transportation companies participating as co-sponsors, and to actually sample a part of cruise life with the evening to be geared towards a night at sea. The evening will conclude with some of the traditional shipboard games, quizzes and contests in awarding the many door prizes to be given out that evening.

"The reason we are sponsoring the Sail A Thon is three fold," according to Friedman.

"Of all vacations available, the cruise passengers usually return home with the highest degree of overall satisfaction in the total cruise vacation experience, and of course satisfied clients is our primary goal."

"Many people who have never taken a cruise have concerns or misconceptions about cruise travel, and may be reluctant to ask for fear of stupid questions." (A cardinal rule at the agency though, is there is never such a thing as a stupid question, perhaps maybe a stupid answer, but never a stupid question.)

"The increase in the number of excellent cruise ships available with all types of interesting and unusual itineraries with especially attractive air/sea offerings from Newark Airport, for all types of travelers, make this a very viable and trouble-free way to go. A number of the lines will also be providing special money saving offers for early bookings, and arrangements have been made so that reservations will be accepted and confirmed on the spot without waiting for a telephone call the next day.

The firms participating in this Sail A Thon Cruise Night Presentation are American Hawaii Cruises, Carnival Cruise Lines, Delta Queen Steamboat Company, Home Lines Cruises, Princess Cruises, Royal Caribbean Cruise Line, Royal Cruise Line, Royal Viking, Singletree Cruises, Silmar Cruises, Sun Line Cruises and United Airlines, who are participants in a number of air/sea programs.

Since seating is limited, admission is by advance reservation. Tickets are available at $2.50 from the agency at 138 South Orange Ave., corner Prospect St. South Orange, phone 783-4800.

Anyone booking a cruise with the agency by April 1, will receive a 40 percent credit of $10 per passenger for shipboard use of purchase on board or wine, when they present their validated ticket from the Sail A Thon presentation at the agency before departure.

Employees play safe and are staying put

SPRINGFIELD—"Although the job market is improving, people are still playing it safe and holding onto their present jobs. As a result, recruitment advertisers are working harder to attract qualified people."

These are some current observations by Barbara Pavlichko, director of recruitment advertising at Keyes Martin, Springfield. According to Pavlichko, "wider media options and expert counsel" could be the key to successful recruiting.

Among some examples of new approaches for help-wanted advertisers, Pavlichko cited the Cable TV stations which are breaking into the recruitment market with special career-oriented programs or teletext job announcements.

In some areas, prospective employers can also access computerized banks of resumes, and job-shoppers can tap the computer bank for position listings.

"Of course," said Pavlichko, "newspapers are still the primary medium for recruitment advertising—but even in newspapers, advertisers have much more choice. Publications are producing more specialized recruitment sections, focusing on the health field, high-tech jobs, and other areas."

Pavlichko has also used "USA Today," the new national newspaper, and found it effective in reaching readers who are willing to relocate. One client ran large-space ads to announce interview sessions in specific cities—but attracted candidates from a wide geographic area.

"USA Today" now offers 14 regional editions—so recruitment advertisers can hit metro-markets in the east, west, and central United States. Help-wanted advertisers also have the option of going national, particularly for highly specialized jobs with a small pool of qualified candidates.

In contrast to the broad sweep of a national newspaper, smaller "narrow and deep" media can also be effective in reaching scarce specialists. One high-tech firm is looking for marketing managers and strategic planners. The catch is: their people have to combine a degree in electrical engineering with an MBA. That instantly shrinks the numbers of available applicants.

"To make this assignment even more challenging," said Pavlichko, "the company's CEO wanted an 'ivy' MBA—and in an entire graduating class, only 20 of 600 have the requisite technical background."

Pavlichko targeted the firm's recruitment advertising by taking a full page in "Careers and the MBA," a placement-oriented annual published in planks of resumes, and job-shoppers can tap the computer bank for position listings.

"While media selection is becoming increasingly important to the recruitment advertiser," said Pavlichko, "the content of a recruitment ad must, as always, be attractive, credible, and designed for convenient response."

In addition to specific job descriptions, recruitment ads must also "sell the company."

"When people are looking to make the best career move," Pavlichko noted, "they want to know something about the company's personality, the work environment, and the firm's objectives. For instance, some companies really encourage participation in management and profits—and that's a incentive for entrepreneurial types."

"Benefits should also be highlighted," Pavlichko added.

No amphitheater

Residents of Springfield are like a family: they can argue among themselves and call each other names; but when outsiders try the same thing, look out.

Last year, a developer from Iowa tried to get a zoning variance so a large shopping mall could be constructed. The opposition was immense and as close to unanimous as a community could possibly be. Residents who quarrelled over local politics, school closings, etc. stood side by side in a year-long resolve that ended up with the township forcing the corporation from Iowa to withdraw its plans.

But no sooner had the mall controversy subsided than word leaked out Union County was interested in constructing an outdoor amphitheater at the Houdaille Quarry in Springfield. Although no official decisions have been made in this instance, the residents of Springfield are making their feelings known.

Determined to maintain the quality and character of life in the township, residents have started petitions aimed at showing their displeasure. They have also gone to Union County Board of Freeholders meetings to express their feelings on the subject. Those who ran for freeholder in Tuesday's election faced stern questions concerning the proposed amphitheater at various candidates' nights held around the county.

We support the people of Springfield who are fighting this amphitheater. The security and traffic problems inherent with a building which would hold concerts and similar kinds of events on a regular basis would be enormous.

Springfield residents like a good fight. If the people who want the amphitheater don't believe that, they should ask those land developers from Iowa who thought they could get a shopping mall built here.

At long last

Congratulations to us!

All of New Jersey can begin saying that — though perhaps in a lukewarm tone of voice — as a result of the new motor vehicle inspection system due to go into effect Monday.

The new program, giving motorists the option of having their cars inspected at a state motor vehicle station or a private garage, is designed to eliminate the long waiting lines that New Jerseyans have had to endure annually to get those new stickers on their cars.

Delayed at first by squabbling in Trenton, the dual inspection system remained in limbo even after the Legislature and Governor Thomas Kean managed to reach agreement and enact a new law. That was because it still needed clearance from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Last week, the EPA came through with the clearance, notifying the state that the plan will not violate air quality standards.

That is good news. Not so good is the failure of the plan to set a firm figure for what private garages can charge for inspections. As it stands, garage operators will be able to charge up to half their normal hourly labor rate. To protect the public, the state should have set a specific fee.

Even with this flaw, however, New Jerseyans will come out ahead. Those who don't want to pay the charge levied by a private garage can still go to a state motor vehicle station — where they should no longer have to wait in interminable lines.

On balance, then, it is a time for congratulations.

Scene around the towns

After a one-week vacation, scene around the towns is back — this time with a look upward in Linden. If you recognize all those windows in this multi-story building, let us know by 9 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 5109, 1201 Stuyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

The last time a mystery photo appeared on this page, on Oct. 27, it drew a swarm of responses. Joseph V. Insigna Jr. of Linden came up with his fifth correct answer as he wrote, "It's the old train station and newspaper shed. In the early 1960s, Jamie's, a pool hall/candy store, was located nearby."

Joe Long of Roselle recognized the scene easily. "The reason," he said, is that "I used to walk through the tunnel connecting Roselle to Roselle Park as a kid." He added, "The railroad was then N.J. Central."

Frances Cooley, a native of Roselle Park who now lives in Linden, also remembers the tunnel "that you could walk through to Roselle Park."

Others who mentioned the tunnel near the old station were Mildred Kendig of Kenilworth and S. Harding Smith of Union.

The building housing the Knights of Columbus, to which he belongs, is right next door, wrote Nick Nugent of Washington School in Union.

William Parish, a student at Abraham Clark High School in Roselle, was another who not only recognized the scene but also pointed out that the Knights of Columbus Hall is nearby.

"The building on the left was a newspaper and cigar stand," Matthew J. Monopoli of Roselle wrote. "The station has been 'out of service' since the Bayview-to-Cranford shuttle was discontinued on Aug. 8, 1970." Lisa Battillo of Kenilworth noted.

But though the station is no longer in use, "there is a parking lot that citizens use to park their cars while shopping on Chestnut Street," Ruth Mackall of Roselle noted.

The scene brought back memories for Beatrice H. Gibby of Bloomfield, who recalled, "I bought many papers while commuting." Gil Garcia and Tony Lentini Jr., both teachers at Central St.-Jefferson School in Union, recognized the scene and sent in a joint answer. Others coming up with the right answer were Theresa Farrell of Irvington, Sid and Betty Olson of Roselle and Michael Korab of Union.

Late arrival: The transposed figures in the date on the sign at Connecticut Farms Church in Union, which appeared in the Oct. 21 Scene, struck a note with Linda Halaska of Union, who sent in her third correct entry. She wrote, "This Connecticut Farms sign should read: Settled by Yankees, 1687. Scene of hardest fighting against invasion of British and Hessians, June 7, 1780. Became Union in 1808."

Letters to the editor

Letters to the editor must be received no later than 9 a.m. on Friday preceding the date of the issue in which they are to appear. They should not exceed 350 words and should be typed with double spacing between all lines (not all in capital letters, please).

All letters must include a written signature, a complete address and a phone number where the writer may be reached during business hours (for verification purposes only). The writer's name will be withheld unless in most unusual circumstances, and at the editor's discretion.

The newspaper reserves the right to edit, reject any letter and to publish only one letter from any one person within any four-week period.

Not political

It is said that a little bit of knowledge is a dangerous thing. And once again J.W. Karievas demonstrated it all to us just how little his knowledge is.

CARE is not a political group — we are a group of truly concerned citizens concerned about the future as much as the present.

CARE is not a small group, nor is it under the direction of "Tallentire, Madeline Zamarrá, and Dolores Johnson."

The need for the Walton Building has not ceased. If it has, the Board of Education wouldn't be spending $80,000 of taxpayers' money to house itself in the Gaudinier building.

The responses of board members at the recent board meetings Mr. Karievas mentions were so ludicrous, outrageous, and dogmatic that the policy that was raised was a protest over tyranny. Truth and justice? I suggest Mr. Karievas check his dictionary again for the meanings.

Minimal impact of redistricting? The impact has certainly been closer to maximal! Just ask the kids. What about the fights? What about the electric incidents? What about the dirty looks? Minimal indeed?

Take another look around Springfield, Mr. Karievas, and you will see and feel the divisiveness. It has become a critical concern of the candidates for Township Committee; it has become a concern that troubles the religious leaders in Springfield (ask them).

And one more thing, the next time you write a letter for your CARES bossen, think about the dogma you are writing. It sounds as if even you are beginning to believe it.

Rent ruling

At the last meeting of the Rent Levelling Board, Short Hills Village presented an appeal for a rental increase on the issue of capital improvements. Included in the one-half million expenditures were aluminum siding, insulation, new burner and hot water system for all boilers, storm doors, new double glazed windows to replace steel single-paneled casement windows, "smoke" alarm system throughout the entire complex, and extensive replacement of driveways, cement walks and steps. This came to an increase of $9 cents per room per month. The net effect was so paltry that I have rejected the decision of the board.

My concern is for the future of multi-residential housing in the town of Springfield. The repeal of the confiscatory rental increase which was on the books at 2.5 percent for some 10 years was a step in the right direction, and although the recent elimination of the tax surcharge was a backwash step insofar as the landlord was concerned, the town seemed to be interested in improving the physical structure of their housing stock.

This is no longer true. The message of their decision bodies ill for the rental housing units in the town. It would be inevitable for any landlord to make a capital improvement with the idea of regaining its cost through increase in rent. The rental structure has been seriously damaged by the 10-year disastrous 2.5 percent increase allowed with current rents on the old tenants at less than 50 percent of the market rents.

My fears are concerned with the recent trends that seem to be creating an atmosphere that will again render the investment value of residential real estate in the rental field. The ultimate result will be deterioration or conversion to other forms of ownership.

'Marvelous' squad

While in Springfield on Oct. 20 to keep a doctor's appointment, I suffered a nasty fall on the street. If it had not been for Springfield's marvelous first aid squad, I don't know what would have happened to me.

Many more thanks to all those wonderful dedicated persons and also two gentlemen from a nearby place of business who were more than kind.

Historic painting

Learning that the eight-foot by sixteen-foot panoramic oil painting entitled "Battle of Springfield" is to find a home in your community, I offer the following information for your readers. The painting hung until recently in the Short Hills Grammar School on Robert Avenue, Short Hills.

In 1970, under the presidency of Dr. William B. Nevins, a committee of the Millburn-Springfield School Board was appointed to find a suitable way for the organization to celebrate the centennial in 1976. It was chairman of this committee the painting depicting the British thrust which took place over several miles of ground. Contingents in the picture are the signal fire on West estate in the rental field. The painting on the bridge over the Rahway River, the impact of the advancing Redcoats and the Jersey Militia, and the "burning of the Springfield church." The two lower corners of the picture are reinforced with cut-out figures mounted free of the canvas to bring the battle scene nearer to the viewer.

In many parts of the country, local history is recognized for its significance and the roots which it establishes with the past. Fort Myers in Florida makes much of its closeness to Thomas A. Edison who wintered there. Herkimer, New York, rings with the exploit of General Herkimer who fought the Battle of Oriskany and relieved Fort Stanwix. The towns of Millburn and Springfield have played an inspiring part in history. On their ground, 6,000 professional troops of the British army were fought to a standstill by Washington's army supported by local militia. It is this event the Millburn-Springfield Arts Center sought to perpetuate in the "Battle of Springfield" painting. I sincerely hope the picture achieves the objective of patriotic stimulation for which committee and artists labored.

Thanks to Key Club

The Key Club members of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School have made a special name for themselves because of their many good deeds. Over the years they have given financial support to many different charities.

Just a few weeks ago these energetic and compassionate young men and women held a canister collection at two local supermarkets to assist in a fund-raising drive for the New Jersey Chapter of the National Huntington's Disease Association.

The money received from their efforts helps the New Jersey families that are afflicted with this hereditary brain disease. These funds enable our clinic now located at Middlesex Hospital to continue the patient services programs so urgently needed by the HD families.

Until a cure or control drug is found, until a predictive test is discovered, until a better way of diagnosing this vicious hereditary disease, the victims of HD will have no future as normal human beings. Additionally, each child in the family has a 50-50 chance of inheriting this "genetic time bomb."

The Key Club deserves our thanks. All the people who people who stepped out their homes into the community are not forgotten, since without your support this would not have been a success.

Nadia Boulanger: 'High Priestess of Music'

By ROSE P. SIMON

SPRINGFIELD—Following are reviews of currently popular books at Springfield Public Library.

HIGH PRIESTESS OF MUSIC

"Nadia Boulanger," by Leonie Rosenthal. The daughter of a French music professor and a Russian-born singer, Nadia Boulanger (b. 1857) was reared in the strict bourgeois fashion of the time. She began to study the rudiments of music when she was five.

A year later her parents made her promise that she would always be responsible for her younger sister Lili. This oath, and her attachment to her mother, were sources of lifelong frustrations.

Nadia's musical education progressed, and though she never gained first prize in the Prix de Rome competition, she became a professional organist and teacher at 17, now able to support her mother and invalid sister.

Her reputation for excellence came to a climax when she finally earned second prize at age 20, an extraordinary achievement for a woman. Ironically, it was Lili, who at 19, won the coveted first prize in 1913.

Then came World War I, the death of Lili, recognition of Nadia's war relief work by prominent Americans, the opening of the French Music School for Americans, Nadia's concert performances and her position as teacher in the new Franco-American Conservatory. Among her early students were Aaron Copland, Herbert Elwell, Walter Piston, Virgil Thomas, and Katherine Wolf.

Nadia's reputation soared, first as a teacher, but she was recognized also as a composer, conductor, organist, lecturer, and critic. Invitations poured in from the USA and England, where her lecture-recitals and conducting were star attractions. The author follows Boulanger's busy, productive life in great detail.

A medical journalist experienced in caring for the seriously ill, father, and advised by competent physicians and nurses, offers a helpful guide for caring for the ill at home.

The desirability of home care is that the patient is usually more comfortable (in a loving, familiar environment), the atmosphere is more dignified and humane, the costs are considerably less. Of course, home care will depend on the physician's recommendations in each case.

Covell suggests the physician must be sympathetic, financially resourceful, must be conversant with the care of the elderly and for those who are terminally ill. Many resource agencies are included.

COMPUTER GUIDE
"The Word Processing and Symbols Connected with Computers," by Peter A. Williams.

This book is written for the "absolute novice," as the author was only two years ago after reviewing a brief history of computers, he tells us that the Main Computer (with its CPU, RAM, ROM, the pressure, etc.) These are the word processing

Jersey execs group slate 4th convention

SPRINGFIELD—Thomas Hale Boggs of the Washington, D.C. law firm Patton, Boggs and Blow will present the keynote address at the Springfield-based New Jersey Society of Association Executives' 4th Annual Convention and Exhibition, Bally's Park Place Casino/Hotel, Atlantic City, on Wednesday, Dec. 7. The convention will run from Tuesday, Dec. 6 through Thursday, Dec. 8, it was announced by NJSAE President O.J. Hale.

"Our convention theme this year revolves around the spirit of competition and the excitement it generates," Hale said. "We want all participants to get on their marks, get set and 'Go for the Gold' at our Convention. Our selection of Mr. Boggs as our keynote speaker symbolizes our theme in the exemplification of an individual who has made the difference in this world as a lobbyist."

A gala cocktail party and grand opening of exhibitions will initiate the event at 6 p.m., Dec. 6. Hon. Freeman, executive director of the New Jersey Governor's Council on Physical Fitness, will participate in NJSAE's "Gold Medal" Opening Ceremony activities. New Jersey Governor Thomas Kean has also been invited to attend the Convention.

Special features of the three-day Convention will be coronations in observance of NJSAE's 10th Anniversary, the election of the group's officers, drawings for free dinners and trips and a "Boardwalk Joe."

Some of the scheduled educational programs include workshops entitled "Improving Negotiating Skills," "Direct Mail Marketing," "Writing to Horseback riding is often considered a hobby for the well-to-do who can afford to own their own animals.

But the Watchung Stable, which will open next fall in a new facility on Summit Lane in Mountainside, is different; according to a representative of the Union County Parks and Recreation Department.

Mary Schreir woke up abruptly one night this summer. Her breathing was slow and labored. There was a gripping pain in her chest and, despite the heat and humidity, a cold chill crept through her. She reached over to her nightstand and pushed a button. It saved her life.

Schreir is an Irvington resident and the husband that she pushed brought her immediate help from East Orange General Hospital. Similar scenes, however, have been played out in several Union County communities, with the help coming from St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Elizabeth.

In Mary Schreir's case, the phone rang seconds after she pushed the button. "Hello, Mary?" said a voice. "This is the East Orange General Hospital's Emergency Services Department. We just received your call for help. What's wrong?"

Just a few weeks earlier, the Irvington woman had made what was turning out to be the best investment of her life. That investment was in Lifeline — a small communications unit connected to the hospital.

The system consists of a small wireless "help" button which, when pushed, automatically dials the 24-hour response center in the hospital.

Staffed by trained professionals, the center sends out whatever help is needed.

For Schreir, it provides freedom.

"I enjoy spending time in my yard and, although I'm not able to keep up with the gardening myself, it gives me pleasure to be out there and not trapped by my telephone," she said.

Dunn is honored as nurse of year

Dorothea (Doe) Dunn, cardiovascular clinical nurse specialist at Overlook Hospital in Summit, has been selected medical-surgical nurse of 1983 by the New Jersey State Nurses' Association. She was honored during the association's annual convention, held at the Americana Great Gorge Resort, McAfee.

Dunn has been at Overlook as the cardiovascular clinical nurse specialist since 1978. Prior to that, she was a clinical instructor at the Muhlenberg Hospital School of Nursing, Plainfield. She was also employed as a critical care staff nurse at Overlook from 1967-1974.

Dunn received a bachelor of arts degree from Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., a master of nursing degree from Yale University, New Haven, Conn., and a master of science degree in medical-surgical nursing from Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

She is active in many professional organizations, including the New Jersey State Nurses Association, American Association for Critical Care Nurses, American Heart Association and Sigma Theta Tau. She is certified by the Critical Care Nurses Association and is a certified instructor in the American Heart Association's basic and advanced life support. She also serves as the editor of the "New Jersey Critical Care Nurses Newsletter."

At Overlook, she is on hospital and nursing committees and served as coordinator and editor of the Intravenous Drug Manual.

She resides in Summit with her husband, Jim, and has five grown children.

This is the third time an Overlook clinical nurse specialist has been honored as the nurse of the year. In 1980, Judy Caruso, R.N., M.S.N., received the nurse of the year award in maternal-child health and in 1981, Pat Murphy, R.N., M.S.N., received the nurse of the year award in medical-surgical nursing.

Labor Council dance draws crowd of 300

The Union County Labor Council, AFL-CIO, held its 15th annual dinner-dance on behalf of the United Way of Union County at the Town and Campus restaurant, Union recently. Approximately 300 representatives of labor and industry attended.

Not proceeds from the dinner-dance will benefit the United Way of Union County.

The guest speaker, Congressman Matthew J. Rinaldo of New Jersey's 7th District, commended labor and the United Way for working together. Rinaldo said that the plight of elderly people is one of his major concerns, and through the help of the United Way many elderly can expect to have their problems lessened.

Charles A. Walano, first vice president, Union County Labor Council, AFL-CIO Community service representative, talked of the people the United Way is trying to help.

"The United Way, through its constant effort, helps people to realize their many hopes and dreams," said Walano. "The United Way of Union County wants to create a better future and a better tomorrow for as many people as it can."

Francis J. Conway, AFL-CIO community service representative, spoke of the union counselors program in which members of labor are informed of the services available to them and their families.

The new stable will be a "state-of-the-art" facility which will include all features of the former stable. The old stable, located on Glenside Avenue, Summit, will remain open until a smooth transition for riders can take place.

This new stable complex represents more than just upgrading our county recreational facilities," said Arthur J. Grist, Union County manager. "It will be a monument to county/state cooperation and will provide our thousands of riders with the safe, modern facility they deserve."

The cooperation to which he referred was the land swap under which Union County made a right of way in the Watchung Reservation available to the state Department of Transportation for construction of the missing five-mile link in Route 78.

The new stable is being built with funds provided by the DOT under the agreement between the state and the county over the completion of Interstate 78.

The "thousands of riders" are made up of residents from Union, Somerset, and Hunterdon counties. Approximately 500 riders belong to the Watchung Mounted Troop and the remainder come from the general public.

Riding lessons are tailored to the individual. Three groups are organized for instruction: beginners, intermediate, and advanced. The stable remains open all year and only closes for severe weather conditions.

The county owns 51 horses at the stable and will probably increase that number when the new one opens. The stable also boards private horses.

Described by county officials as one of the best facilities of its kind in the state, the Watchung Stable has served more than 40,000 youngsters as well as countless adults, who have learned the fundamentals of horsemanship there since the 1930's. Each year, the Watchung Mounted Troop takes part in a spring and fall horse show. This October, the troop celebrated its 50th annual troop horse show.

"We are most pleased to see the culmination of so many years of planning for the new stable facility," said Thomas L. Nolan, director of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

Bank marking 100th anniversary

Union County Savings Bank is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year.

As part of this observance, it has presented funds to the Elizabeth Public Library for to bind and restore almost 100 titles in the library's historical collection.

The gift was announced by Donald C. Sims, president of the Elizabeth-based institution.

Founded in 1883 as one of the state's first savings banks, Union County Savings Bank was established to offer the area "a safe haven for assets and a source of mortgage funds for the building and purchase of homes," Sims said. "Union County Savings Bank still honors that original purpose," he added.

The bank has a mortgage portfolio of more than $57 million, invested entirely in New Jersey properties, he noted.

It has more than 30,000 depositors and assets of more than $173 million. In the first three quarters of this year, deposits have increased by 12 percent, Sims said.

One of the earliest homes of the bank, at 61 Broad St., Elizabeth, still stands. In 1958, a second office was constructed at 320 N. Broad St.; in 1975, an office was opened at 642 Chestnut St., Union, and in 1981, another office was opened at 201 North Avenue West, Cranford.

"As the officers, board of managers and staff reflect proudly on the first 100 years," Sims said, "we wish to thank our growing family of friends and depositors for their valued support and confidence and to pledge to them our continued commitment to safety, security and service. It is this venerable tradition established by our founders plus our emphasis on strong personal customer relationships which have brought Union County Savings Bank to this milestone today."

Disc & Data

By Milt Hammer

Pick of the LPs, "Good For Your Soul," by Oingo Boingo (A&M Records).

The history of the group is as confusing as the name. Oingo Boingo started on the streets of Los Angeles as a bizarre theatrical troupe, moving indoors for a while to produce a successful, elaborate multi-media surrealistic cabaret review.

In 1978, they trimmed down from 12 pieces to a lean little eight-piece band (sans any and all theatrics which had started to bore them) and have remained that way.

Their first four song EP for I.R.S. (originally made to be their demo) launched their career with a blazing start.

Oingo Boingo's two albums on A&M ("Only A Lad" and "Nothing to Fear," respectively) have created controversy, confusion and praise while elevating the band to being a major west-coast concert act. The foundation for Oingo Boingo to emerge onto the national and international scene with strength has been laid. In the last year, Oingo has sold out such halls as The Universal Amphitheater in Los Angeles and the Kabuki Theater in San Francisco; they've appeared at both U.S. festivals, taped 10 national television shows and sold every seat on their American tour last summer.

The key to the "big move" is "Good For Your Soul," their newest A&M album. Featured tracks include "Nothing Bad Ever Happens" (getting airplay in Hawaii, San Diego and Los Angeles weeks before the album release) and "Wake Up (It's 1984)," a slight diversion from the usual Boingo approach and a guaranteed dance club hit.

The band members are Danny Elfman, leader, songwriter, lead singer, rhythm guitar, co-arranger; Steven Bartek, lead guitar, co-arranger; Kerry Hatch, bass, vocals; Johnny "Vatos" Hernandez, drums; Rich Ribbs, keyboard, trombone; Dale Turner, trumpet; Sam "Sluggo" Phipps, lead sax, mainly tenor, plays all reeds, and Leon Schneiderman, sax, mainly baritone.

Musical group to hold series

The Inner City Ensemble Theater and Dance Company will make their first appearance in the "Performance Time for Young People" series Nov. 16 at 10 a.m. in Newark Symphony Hall, 1020 Broad St.

The ensemble, a teen-age professional company, was founded in 1973 by director Ralph Gomez.

"Performance Time" will continue with "Safari East Musical Journey" Nov. 29 and the Newark Boys Chorus, Dec. 13, both at 10 a.m.

Bard Festival Guild plans benefit party

The New Jersey Shakespeare Festival Guild, the Shakespeare Festival's volunteer organization, will hold a guild theater party and fund-raiser Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Boume Theater on the campus of Drew University, Madison.

Following the party, those attending will see a performance at 9:30 p.m. of Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday." Additional information can be obtained by calling 377-4487.

WEDDING STORIES
Wedding stories and photos must be submitted to this newspaper within eight weeks of the wedding date.

'A Lesser God' stars Bobbie B. Scroggins

Bobbie Beth Scroggins will recreate her Broadway starring role in "Children of a Lesser God," which opened Saturday at the George Street Playhouse, 391 George St., New Brunswick.

The Mark Medoff play, which will run through Dec. 11, and which won a 1980 Tony Award, served as a window into the world of the deaf.

Scroggins, who was born in Texas of deaf parents (her brother also was deaf), excelled in high school and college. She was a member of the swimming team of the World Games in Malmö, Sweden, in 1973, and in 1977, she was a member of the volleyball team at the World Games in Rumania. She was graduated from California State University, Northridge, with a B.S. degree in psychology.

Art exhibit set by NCJW unit

"Focus on Art: 1983," the 29th annual art exhibition and sale, will be open to the public Dec. 4. It will be sponsored by the National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW), Essex County Section, and the show will be held at the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey, 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange. It will run until Dec. 7.

Representing American and international artists, Focus on Art 1983 will include more than 1,000 pieces valued from $30 to $25,000.

More than 500 volunteers work annual to organize Focus on Art. The money raised during the five-day exhibit provides funds for many community service projects, for youth, women, mental health, education, emigrants and older adults based in Essex County and Israel.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the National Council of Jewish Women at 740-0588.

Open casting set Sunday in Rahway

The Revelers of Rahway, in residence at the El Bodegon Restaurant, 160 West Main St., will hold open casting Sunday at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. for the musical, "They're Playing Our Song," to be directed by Maurice Moran. Tryouts will be held at the Revelers Theater.

The show will open Jan. 13, 1984 and will run every Friday and Saturday nights through Feb. 11.

FEATURED IN PLAY—Rose Marie Kopeck, left, of Isabella Ave. Union, will play Lady Thiang, and Brian Greenspoon of Gall Court, Springfield, will play one of the king's children in "The King and I" Dec. 2 and 3 at 8 p.m., and Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. in Millburn High School, 426 Millburn Ave.

THURSDAY DEADLINE. All items other than spot news should be in our office by 4 p.m. Thursday.

Pianist slated at free concert

The Livingston Symphony Orchestra will open its 28th season Nov. 26 at 8:30 p.m. in Livingston High School, Livingston, at a free concert featuring pianist Grant Johannesen. The orchestra, under the direction of Carolyn Hill, who join the soloist for Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 5 in E-flat Major, the "Emperor Concerto" and the overture to Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and the Symphony in C by Bizet.

of the 10th anniversary year under the musical direction of Hill. The community orchestra has a schedule of four major concerts each year.

Restaurant Guide

'Fiddler on Roof' is enchanting, unforgettable, timeless show

By BEA SMITH
You know that old cliché, "You don't have to be Jewish to...?" It simply applies twofold to the Paper Mill Playhouse production of "Fiddler on the Roof," which opened last week in Millburn. You certainly don't have to be Jewish to appreciate the musical, which is celebrating its 20th production year. And you don't even have to be Jewish to be a member of the cast of "Fiddler" at the Mill.

The Sholom Aleichem stories, upon which "Fiddler" was based, about the impoverished families of Jews in the villages of Poland and Russia during the period of 1886 to 1914, remain universal. And the fact that the Joseph Stein, Jerry Rock, Sheldon Harnick musical, based on the Teyve stories, opened on Broadway nearly a quarter of a century ago, "Fiddler on the Roof" is perpetually sustained by its material and audience appeal.

The story (set in 1905 in a Russian village called Anatevka) primarily concerns a poor milkman (Teyve), who loves his five daughters, but feels burdened by having to marry them off, and who also feels burdened by a lame horse and a nagging (but caring) wife. When it is told to music, the score is one of the most memorable creations ever brought to the stage.

"Tradition," for example, still brings gooseflesh to theater goers, and as sung by Joe Cusani (who plays Teyve), Dolores Wilson (Golde), and the rest of the marvelous-voiced villagers, manages to raise the audience right up from its seat.

The other numbers are equally appealing, particularly "Matchmaker, Matchmaker," sung by Teyve's three daughters, Tzeitel (Rhonda Farer), Hodel (Emily Zacharias) and Chava (Michele Pigliavento); "If I Were A Rich Man" (Cusani); "L'Chaim—To Life" (Cusani); Mitchell Jason, who plays Lazar Wolf, the butcher, and the featured male singers and dancers; "Sunrise, Sunset"; "Do You Love Me?" (Teyve and Golde); "Little Chavaleh" and "Anatevka," the cast, including Cusani, Wilson, Kevin Dearing, who plays Motel, the tailor, Jason Edwards as Fyedka, Farer, Jason, Phyllis Young, who plays Yente, the Matchmaker; Zacharias, Maurice Brenner, Daniel P. Hannafin, Elliot Levine, the rabbi, David E. Mallard and Carlo Thomas.

The lesser-known numbers are first-rate: "Sabbath Prayer," sung by Teyve, Golde and the villagers; "Teyve/Fiddler Dance," Teyve and the Fiddler" (the latter played by Tee Scaturchio), "Miracle of Miracles," sung by Motel, "Now I Have Everything," sung by Perchik, the student (Allan Gruet), and Hodel, and the hilarious "Dream" sequence, "Mazel-Tov" (which means "Good luck, with God's blessings").

"Fiddler" at the Paper Mill was directed and choreographed by Frank Coppola. Elliot Finkel serves as musical director, and the authentic sets are by Philip Rodzen, set designer.

Many theater-goers, who have already seen other versions of "Fiddler on the Roof" (including the one produced by the Paper Mill a number of years ago), still find this enchanting piece of work a "miracle of miracles." This reviewer, who has seen at least a dozen versions, is ready to go back for more.

Mazel-Tov, Paper Mill. With God's blessings!

Briefly told

THE CLARA BARTON Auxillary of the Eastern Union County Chapter, American Red Cross, will sponsor an all-day bus trip to Boston Saturday.

The group will leave from the parking lot at Kean College in Union at 8 a.m., arriving in Boston about 12:30 p.m. A guided tour and dinner are included in the program.

Those interested can call Sylvia Landy at 353-2500.

A WIDOW/WIDOWERS workshop will open at the YM-YWHA on Green Lane in Union from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Sunday in cooperation with the Jewish Family Service by Mildred Hamilton, executive director.

Topics to be discussed in the six-session program will include loss and grief, the process of mourning, loneliness, decision-making, taking on new roles and responsibilities and learning to live without one's spouse. Additional information is available from Renee Drell, 289-8112.

PROGRAMS PLANNED BY the Union County Hiking Club for this weekend include a South Mountain double ramble, starting from the Elmfold picnic area at Millburn at 9:30 a.m. Saturday; cycling near the Great Swamp, starting at Loantoka Brook Reservation, duck pond parking lot, at 10 a.m. Saturday; a Round Trip Ramble, starting from the parking lot from Howard Johnson's in Plainfield at 9 a.m. Saturday; an "agony grind" to Bombasha High Point, starting from the Essex toll barrier at 8:25 a.m. Saturday; a nine-mile hike to Breakneck Ridge, starting from the Essex toll barrier at 8 a.m. Sunday; a Frenchtown bike ride, starting from the Essex toll barrier at 8:30 a.m. Sunday; a hike starting at Arden, N.Y., at 9:35 a.m. Sunday; and a dog walk of six to seven miles, starting at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Animal Alliance League offering free spaying-neutering program

The Animal Alliance Welfare League of New Jersey has announced plans for a general membership meeting and a free spaying-neutering program.

The meeting will be held at the First National Bank of Central Jersey, 105 E. Fourth Avenue, Roselle, at 8 p.m. tomorrow, with Dr. A.G. Patel of the Plainfield Veterinary Group as speaker.

The free spaying and neutering program will be held starting Nov. 19 in conjunction with the Pet Adoption Waiting Station (PAWS) of Linden. In the at the Eagle Rock Reservation parking lot at 10 a.m. Sunday.

A WINE AND CHEESE PARTY will be held by the Suburban Widows and Widowers Sunday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at St. Rose of Lima Church, Ryan Hall, Short Hills.

Inez Demarest of Maplewood will be hostess for the event. Additional information is available from Julie Bohm, president, at 467-8065 or Marge Gilshian at 761-4064.

THE CEREBRAL PALSY Service Committee of Union County will hold its annual luncheon-boutique at the Chanticleer, Millburn, at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

"The Fashion Pleasers," produced by Dorothy Summin and sponsored by Fortunoff, will be presented. Tickets are available at the William and Myrle Garbe Treatment Center, 373 Clermont Terrace, Union, 354-5800, and from Mrs. Ed Gray, 355-6245.

THE UNION COUNTY CHAPTER of the Legal Secretaries Association will hear a talk by James J. Walk, Scotch Plains municipal judge, at a meeting in the Cortina Restaurant in Cranford at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. His topic will be "Recent Developments in the Problem of Drunk and Driving and the Prohibition Thereof."

Those wishing to attend can call Mary Boshier at 232-5502 in the evening.

THE UNION COUNTY BAR
Association and the Union County Medical Society will hold a joint dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Galloping Hill Inn Caterers, Union.

Louis J. Dughi, Jr. of Westfield will speak on malpractice litigation and Kenneth S. Javerbaum of Springfield will discuss how the new auto insurance law, including personal injury protection, affects doctors and lawyers.

NEW JERSEY VETERINARIANS will meet at Schering-Plough Corp., Kenilworth, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday to discuss the implications of the spread of rabies in animal wildlife in neighboring

Speakers will be Dr. William G. Winkler of the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Suzanne R. Jenkins of the Virginia Health Department, and Dr. Robert F. Goldsboro of the New Jersey Department of Health.

THE BEST WATERPROOF BOOTS AT A PRICE THAT WON'T SOAK YOU.

Timberland® boots are fully insulated and waterproof to U.S. Military standards. The eyelets are solid brass to resist rust. And because any needle hole is a potential water hole, every seam is sealed with not one but two coats of latex.

And now, you can get a pair of Timberland's for the price of ordinary boots. When you compare what you get with what you pay, why sink your money into any boot other than Timberland?
