Board of Ed names own attorney as a negotiator

By VICKI VREELAND
The Springfield Board of Education voted 5-4 to appoint its attorney, Paul Giblin, to a new position of negotiator for staff agreements at the regular board meeting Monday night. Giblin, who's firm is located in Hackensack, will be paid $70 per hour.

Barbara Adler, a board member who voted no on the motion, stated that Frank Peterpaul, former board negotiator, was experienced with the Springfield board of education contracts and would not charge a review and research fee, while Giblin does. Stuart Applebaum, board member, questioned the need for a change. George Gomes, board president, stated that it was his recommendation to hire Giblin. "I feel that his background and expertise in labor relations is compatible to Peterpaul," Gomes said. Giblin said he thought he could represent the board better if he also handled its labor contracts.

A substitute list for the 1983-84 school year was approved 5-4 although the name of Paula Rozan, a substitute from last year, was left off the list. Pietro Pelino, chairman of the School Government Committee, would not comment on why Rozan's name was left off the list. Louis Monaco, member of the committee, said that he could not comment because "it was a personnel matter."

Adler stated that Rozan was a qualified math substitute and Eileen Dahmen, board member, stated that the change made in the School Government Committee was arbitrary. David Lytle, attorney, substituting for Giblin, ruled that to discuss the matter would not be "appropriate" unless the subject made a written request and the item was on the agenda. The substitute list was on the agenda and Rozan said she did not make a written request.

Ken Faigenbaum, board member, brought up a motion that had been tabled by the board to remove Monaco and Pelino from the School Government Committee and to exclude the two from the voting. Lytle stated, "If the right to vote of any board member is taken away because of a personal involvement, it could jeopardize all members."

Stuart Applebaum, board member, attempted to read a notarized statement from Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, (who was absent from the meeting) about an incident that occurred at a School

Government Committee meeting. According to Baruchin's statement, Pelino raised a non-agenda issue at the meeting about the hiring of an additional teacher.

According to his statement, Baruchin and Pelino disagreed about the proposed teacher and Pelino became enraged and "menacing physical gestures and a violent tone, Pelino said, 'Listen you sucker, you don't know when to stop. You and I are going one on one.'"

When the motion was defeated 5-4, Applebaum asked Gomes what he planned on doing about such situations.

Applebaum was removed from the School Government Committee by Gomes months ago. Gomes objected to the reading of the statement.

"The person you are referring to is obviously a nut," Pelino said. "I believe, and I can defend myself," Gomes said. He also told Applebaum that he would discuss the matter in private session although Applebaum said that Gomes refused to do so.

A bid to remove asbestos from Caldwell, Gaudineer and Sandmeier schools was awarded to Guardian, Inc., Freehold, in the amount of $5,545.

LUCKY NUMBER—To the members of Springfield's emergency service units, finding a house number in a hurry can make the difference between life and death. It is now an ordinance that makes homeowners display the number on the house, instead of on the sidewalk or grounds of the property. From left to right are George Hildner, police department, Gloria Simpson, first aid squad and Ed Anagnos, fire department. (Photo by John Boutsikaris)

Number's up for homeowners as new ordinance takes effect

Soon Ed Anagnos, member of the Springfield Fire Department, will be seen around town knocking on doors in an effort to personally remind home and business owners that they must comply with the township's newly passed ordinance requiring numbers on buildings.

Anagnos' job is to bring the new ordinance to the attention of the public. He plans to distribute copies of the ordinance personally to a designated date for the number to be in place.

Factories and businesses will be allowed two weeks from the date they receive the ordinance to post a number. Garden apartments, since there are many, will be allowed a month. The fire department will make frequent checks to insure the numbers are posted.

"If owners disregard the ordinance, they will be fined $10 for the first offense, according to Anagnos, and $25 for every subsequent check they are sent," Anagnos said. Anagnos said the department really doesn't want to fine anyone. He would rather have a standard for building numbers. He also mentioned that Union township had a similar requirement.

Anagnos said he became aware of the problem when he did a random inspection of numbers. "Out of about 40 buildings I went to," Anagnos said, "about 10 had a number. When someone is in a panic, they just call up and say there's a building on Route 22 on fire. I also saw numbers painted on rocks or trees in front of houses," Anagnos said.

The ordinance calls for numbers to be placed within two feet to the right or left of the main entrance or on the door facing the street. It also requires house numbers to be at least three inches in height and business numbers to be at least six inches in height.

Along with the fire department, the police and rescue departments also rely on numbers on buildings to find where they are needed. If a home or business owner does not know the number of their lot, they should contact the township engineer.

The ordinance also provides that buildings in the process of being built have a number put on them before they receive a certificate of occupancy. Anagnos suggests that when home owners put their numbers up, they use a contrasting color. "It can go with the color scheme of their house," Anagnos said, "like a brown on tan or black on white."

Town committee OKs a fire zone resolution

A resolution to adopt fire zones was passed and two ordinances were introduced at the township committee meeting held last Wednesday night instead of the regular Tuesday, due to Election Day.

The fire zones were approved and outlined by Fire Chief Ronald Johnson and researched by Deputy Chief Gerard Richele. Richele said there were 17 addresses or chart in existence. The zones affected 170 private property and the owners will be notified shortly. Richele said he expects the zones to be painted before the first snowfall.

In the last 6-8 years with all the construction that has occurred in Springfield, the fire department saw a need to review existing zones, along with creating new ones. "The reason is to insure our approach and maneuvering isn't impeded," Richele said.

Two appointments were also made by the township committee. H. (Harry) Kolb III was appointed to the Community Block Grant Committee. The grant committee refers to the county what projects are needed in Springfield.

Gary Lanzara, Esq., was officially appointed to the township committee in their legal challenge of the Springfield Board of Education's contract for the sale of Walton School.

The two ordinances introduced were amendments to existing ordinances. The fee for dog licenses was amended to comply with a state increase and the other was a change in a parking ordinance posted in the legal advertisements.

Woman's seminar slated

A Woman to Woman seminar, presented by the TWIN Management Forum at the Summit Area YWCA, 79 Maple Street, Summit, on Saturday, Dec. 3, will give women entering or re-entering the job market, or about to make career changes, guidance and needed support.

The one-day seminar begins at 8:30 a.m. and continues until 4:15 p.m. Participants will break into groups led by women representing diverse companies, including AT&T, CIBA-Geigy, and Public Service Electric and Gas Co. They'll discuss areas of concern, including job hunting techniques, writing effective resumes, appraising assets, coordinating careers and home life, and being assertive.

"The TWIN project helps the YWCA present programs to encourage women and girls to consider and prepare for a wider range of career opportunities in business and industry," says Brenda Bowie, Woman to Woman Coordinator, a Supervisor of Public Programs for Orange and Hackland Utilities. The Ridgeview YWCA started the program when it honored women in industry at a dinner in 1975. The TWIN program is now international.

We hope that women of all ages will attend the seminar," says Jane Drew, TWIN Forum President, an account executive with Ryan, Beck & Co. of West Orange. Seminars have been presented at area high schools and colleges in the past.

To sign up for the program by Nov. 30, call the YWCA, 273-4242.

Board of Ed passes motions on litigations

By VICKI VREELAND
Three motions regarding litigation involving the Springfield Board of Education passed by 5-4 votes at a special meeting held last Wednesday night prior to its regular conference meeting.

The motions, introduced by Board member Pietro Pelino, called for the board's attorneys, Giblin and Giblin, to take action in three areas. First, the board was authorized to take action against Eileen Dahmen, Barbara Adler and Stuart Applebaum and to file counter actions against them. Thirdly, they were authorized to take action against Yale Greenspoon, attorney for Applebaum, and Seymour Margulies, attorney for Adler and Dahmen.

Greenspoon, Adler and Applebaum see these latest moves as "intimidation tactics" but they said they would not be threatened.

Until now, any actions that were filed against the board of education were submitted by all four minority members. However, Kenneth Faigenbaum stated last Wednesday that due to personal and health reasons, he no longer would be able to be part of the litigation.

"I remain committed to my devotion to retain Walton School and I support the other minority members in their actions," Faigenbaum said.

Barbara Adler cited reasons for each of her negative votes on the motions. Adler stated, "It is not up to the board attorney or the township attorney to decide on the legality of the contract. Therefore, I believe the court can and should decide the matter." She and Greenspoon both stated that if the contract was illegal in its inception, it cannot be made legal simply by changing language.

adler, Applebaum and Dahmen all affirmed that they had not violated any parts of the New Jersey School Board Code of Ethics or the Springfield School Board Code of Ethics.

"It is not Mrs. Dahmen, Mrs. Adler or myself who should be cited for unethical behavior and violations of the Springfield Board of Education Code of Ethics. But the majority who have done things in secret, have abused the public, have abused other board members and have abused administration," Applebaum said.

Dr. Vito Gagliardi, Union County Superintendent of Schools, recently requested a meeting with the board of education to offer the aid of his office. "My concern is for the effect this may or may not have on the children," Gagliardi said. He also said that this is the first school board he has knowledge of where board members have taken action against other board members.

Joe Vaughn elected president of Regional

By VICKI VREELAND
The Union County Regional Board of Education District No. 1 unanimously elected Joe Vaughn as president Tuesday night at its regular meeting at Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights. Board member Virginia Muskus was elected vice president, succeeding Vaughn in that post.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, the district's results of the minimum basic skills tests were reviewed.

Vaughn, who was elected to the board in 1981, will replace Stephen Marciniak who resigned unexpectedly two weeks ago. The Board had 30 days to name a replacement. Vaughn is the founder of the board's communication committee and currently is chairperson of the policies committee. He also is a member of the personnel and safety and health committees.

Dr. Frank Kenney presented the results of the district's minimum basic skills tests in comparison with results from similar school districts assigned by the state. The tests, which include sections in reading, math, and for the first time, writing, were administered to ninth graders this past March. A group of 41 10th graders who did not perform successfully on the test the previous year were also retested.

According to Kenney, the ninth grade students did extremely well "in all segments." No specific areas of weaknesses were identified in the test, although in the area of computation, continued reinforcement was recommended.

Three charged with drug possession

By VICKI VREELAND
Three Hillside men were arrested on possession of marijuana and possession of a controlled dangerous substance, police said.

Police arrested a New York man early Saturday morning and charged him in the burglary and theft of Radio Shack, Route 22, Springfield after he was found leaving the scene. Police pursued Jerry Martin, 32, who fled from police in a stolen van until he crashed into a tree at South Springfield Avenue and Lynn Drive.

Police found over $4000 worth of electronic equipment in the van, including, five computers, three telephones answering systems, two televisions and a calculator. Martin was charged with burglary, theft, various counts of receiving stolen property, and attempting to evade police.

He was taken to the Union County Jail and is being held in excess of $10,000 bail.

A 27-year-old New York man was injured Sunday about 8 p.m. when the cruise-control in his car got stuck as he turned into the Spring Garden Inn, Route 22, Springfield and struck a parked car and the building, Chris McGorty told police that the control locked and caused him to accelerate.

Registration started for weight program

UNION—Registration is being held for Memorial General Hospital's child-adolescent weight loss program. This service, according to George Morelli, program director, addresses the needs of youngsters by developing programs of weight reduction and nutrition geared toward members of this age group. Multidisciplinary in approach, the program places each child on a balanced, low calorie diet, and provides counseling and guidance in the areas of exercise, nutrition, the development of good eating habits at home and socially, and an understanding of the emotional and physical effects of obesity.

"It is not enough to simply place a child or adolescent on a diet and expect positive results," Morelli said. "Our program has found that those youngsters whose parents were involved in their treatment tended to be more successful at losing weight. Therefore, we operate a family-oriented service."

In addition to Morelli, the program is comprised of Michael Belkoff, D.O., chairman of Memorial General's Pediatrics Department, and Lori Andrews, M. Ed., associate program director.

Parents and other interested individuals wishing further information about the program can call 687-2996.

Library column Clarifying mysteries of a word processor

By ROSE SIMON
SPRINGFIELD—Following are reviews of popular books at the Springfield Library:

CONQUEST OF TECHNOLOGY
"Writing With a Word Processor," by William Zinsser. One man's experience may not provide answers to everyone's problems, but that of Zinsser (executive editor of the Book-of-the-Month Club) does a great deal to clarify some of the mysteries of the Word Processor. And a mystery it was when he first acquired his space-consuming IBM equipment. Zinsser tells us of his hang-ups about tackling the new project (the was of the pen, paper and typewriting school). Candidly and humorously he describes his frustrating initial difficulties with both the hardware and the software. As we read we find that we, too, are beginning to understand a little of the mechanics of word processing (he is a good teacher).

By the end of the book we have learned a few concrete items about this particular IBM model. Zinsser doesn't pretend to make any comparisons with his and other machines. He brings us an insider's view of what it took to "write" and publish this book.

FAILED COLONIALISM
"India/Britania," by Geoffrey Moorhouse. A student of India, author Moorhouse states "that the history of India is something more than an account of conquest and submission of rebellion and imperial retreat. It is also a story of a complicated love-hate relationship that no other people, so vastly different in origins and culture have ever known."

Years after the Portuguese and the Dutch had begun to make inroads into India, the British, in 1612, were issued a document permitting them to set up a trading post there. After years of hostilities the East India Trading Company was set up in Calcutta, subsequently becoming one of the largest of employers of labor around London.

Trade prepared, British "institutions were transplanted gradually, young men flocked to India, Britain kept sending armies (for defense?), and by the end of the 18th century, India was dominated by Britain.

Moorhouse explains the roles played by the succession of governor generals in controlling the sporadic wars and in expanding Britain's holdings. Some officials were corrupt and greedy, bringing decay and social disorder, others were sympathetic to the natives, trying to reform the penal system, to introduce education, to reduce the birth rate.

By 1858 sophisticated urban people were requesting elected provincial assemblies. Their voices were beginning to be heard in favor of political reform. Annie Besant (an unusual Englishwoman) was instrumental in founding the Home Rule League and the Hindu College, and was active in Congress (its President, 1918).

More and more uprisings in protest of injustices were spreading especially those led by the non-violent Gandhi. During WWII arrests multiplied, and a great famine devastated Bengal. In 1947 Mountbatten announced independence. The split-up of the country into Muslims (Jinnah) and Hindus (Nehru) exacerbated the religious strife of the period.

India was left with problems: appalling poverty, violence, corruption, the caste system, and over population. But Britain had implanted the seeds of democracy. Moorhouse has included some exceptionally fine photographs.

"Conversations with the Enemy," by Winston Groom and Duncan Spencer. Here we have an absorbing, pathetic adventure story said to be "a bizarre combination" Lord Jim, "The Gulag Archipelago" and "The Man Without a Country." It covers the experience of Pvt. Russell Garwood an American Marine in Vietnam, from the time he is captured, obeying an order to pick up an officer in a staff car, he is attacked, shot and wounded by the enemy, and hauled off to a prison camp some distance from DaNang.

This began his long period of internment, during which he endured torture, disease and isolation. There are graphic descriptions of his unhappy existence as he is fully, unwittingly becomes a tool of the Vietcong. Driven to desperation (he had failed in two escape attempts), advised by an officer fellow-prisoner to learn the language (which he did), to learn the ways of the jungle, Garwood hoped that by "not making waves," he would be able to survive and return home sooner.

$3M bid made on Rt. 78

UNION—Yonkers Contracting Company, Inc. of Yonkers, N.Y., is the apparent low bidder on a construction contract for Interstate Route 78 in Summit, according to the state Department of Transportation.

The bid was $3,366,666.50. Work on this four-tenths of a mile project includes grading, paving and structures, an underpass at Glenside Avenue and bridge approaches.

This project, funded 90 percent by the federal government and 10 percent by the state, is to be completed by March 15, 1985.

This is the sixth of nine contracts to complete a 5.5 mile gap on 78 in Union County. When completed, 176 will extend from the Holland Tunnel to Still Valley near the Pennsylvania border.

Kenilworth is offering health test, counseling

Through the joint efforts of the Boards of Health, residents of all ages from Kenilworth and Union may attend the program either on Friday, Nov. 18, between noon and 4 p.m. at Summer Gardens, 35 Summer Avenue, Union, or on Saturday, Nov. 19, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Kenilworth Board of Health Building, 575 Boulevard. Residents of the two towns can attend the location and time which is most convenient for them.

The health activities being offered by Kenilworth and Union are part of a statewide effort to help New Jerseyans adopt healthier lifestyles, board members said. In cooperation with the New Jersey State Health Department, 96 sites throughout the state will be offering similar "State Health Day" activities on those dates.

According to Dr. J. Richard Goldstein, state health commissioner, "the objective of State Health Day is to get people involved in their own health care."

In addition to free blood pressure screening, participants will be able to take a personal look at their own health habits and learn ways to reduce their health risks. After participants fill out a "Health Style" questionnaire, nurses will be able to provide counseling on ways to improve health habits through reduced smoking, stress control, moderate use of alcohol, weight control and proper diet, use of safety belts and regular exercise.

Many viewpoints

The campaign for Springfield Township Committee was a hard-fought one, sort of a tradition in this politically-conscious township.

It is also a tradition that there be bi-partisan representation no matter what level of government. With no reflection on the individuals who ran for office, we couldn't help but have been somewhat concerned over the prospect of one party taking complete control of the township committee.

With the breakdown remaining at 3-2 for the Republicans, a good diversity of opinion, as well as a built-in watchdog system, is in the best interests of the community.

With important issues on the agenda, such as the county's interest in building an amphitheater at the Houdaille Quarry, and the Township Committee's growing involvement with the Board of Education's selling of Walton School, it is important that the divergent viewpoints of the community be completely represented.

Maintaining the quality and nature of Springfield has always been a major concern of the residents. We expect the Township Committee to reflect this way of thinking as one of its priorities.

Closing the doors

Tourists visiting the U.S. Capitol in Washington are being inconvenienced. They must submit to metal detectors at the entrances, they can no longer roam the second-floor corridors near the Senate chamber, they may even in the future have to wear badges.

All this is the result of the bomb set off Nov. 7 in the Senate cloakroom by terrorists.

Thus, a handful of lunatics has been able to come between the people and their government by limiting the access of citizens to their lawmakers.

It is, however, not the only door that is closing. Even more disturbing — because it comes from our government itself, not from terrorists — is a Reagan Administration plan to close a whole series of doors by clamping down on what those who have ever held high government office can write.

Under the plan, top officials with access to high-level classified information would have to sign a contract that would require them to submit anything they write for the general public to a government review.

The stated reason for this policy is to prevent unauthorized disclosure of classified information.

The review, however, would not be limited to what office holders write while they are in office. It would be required for the rest of their lives.

As a result, the administration — any administration which happens to be in power — would have in its hands a bludgeon with which it could easily pound criticism into silence.

In the words of the America Society of Newspaper Editors, the policy is "peace-time censorship of a scope unparalleled in this country since the adoption of the Bill of Rights in 1791."

It is a policy of closing doors: closing doors on information, closing doors on communication, closing doors on the First Amendment rights guaranteed by the Constitution. Terrorists have already succeeded in doing that to some extent. It would be tragic if our government, too, added its bit to shutting off the freedoms which are our reason for being as a nation.

Scene around the towns

It must have been the cold weather... or readers having sympathy for their mailmen on these rainy days... or some other reason. Whatever the case, only five readers mailed in responses and recognized our unmistakable Scene in Linden last week.

Mildred E. Kendig of Kenilworth was right on the mark: "I believe this week's Scene is the beautiful Senior Citizens building on Dill Avenue in Linden." But she also added, "It's just a guess—hope I am correct."

Mildred was correct, although Margaret Brenner of Linden offered the building's official name: the Murawski Towers or, better yet, the Edward Murawski Towers.

Orchard Senior Citizen Complex on Dill Avenue, "as I walk on Essex Avenue toward the Knights of Columbus Hall. One can see it on the west. The dairy farm is this complex."

Joseph V. Insozna, who works at Soehl Middle School in Linden, also pegged the Scene for his sixth correct answer.

Another Scene specialist, Lisa Battilo of Kenilworth, was also 100 percent right. "What's next?" she asked with an air of confidence.

Battilo will probably be delighted to find out that Kenilworth is the site of this week's Scene. If you know exactly where it is, let us hear from you by 9 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., P. O. Box 3109, Union 07083.

The State We're In

Courts add to confusion on property rights

It's never been easy to understand how property rights can be divided into separate bits and pieces, and now the courts are making it even more confusing. I'm reminded of this because a judge has ruled that in East Windsor Township you cannot undertake the "transfer of development rights" (TDR) system of open space or farmland preservation. At least not in the way East Windsor wanted to do it. This followed a recent decision by another judge regarding the same concept in Burlington County. In Burlington the judge upheld the county's establishment of a TDR "bank" for the purpose of buying and selling Pinelands development credits. Two local taxpayers had sued, unsuccessfully, against the zoning company. The taxpayers have appealed. In the East Windsor case the judge said, "There is no doubt that the TDR ordinance fulfills many of the worthy purposes of zoning legislation, but does so without any statutory power to achieve such purposes." East Windsor has appealed.

The purchaser of the rights, or credits (the two terms can be used interchangeably, for all practical purposes), can either transfer them to another property or store them for later use. This entire process should be distinguished from the state farmland preservation program, under which the state purchases development rights on agricultural lands and makes them disappear permanently. In East Windsor, the object was to protect farmland by zoning methods which allowed a builder to build at high densities in an area suitable for housing only if he first bought the development rights for farmland, thereby keeping the farmland open. This results in a deed restriction, or easement, which henceforth prohibits development of the farmland in question. To the south, in Montgomery County, Md., the TDR idea is alive and doing very well. In Maryland, over 2,000 acres of farmland have been preserved in the last year or so since the program has been operating. The Maryland system works in the same way as the New Jersey Pinelands system does: Development credits can be sold either to someone who wants to invest in credits as something which can be bought and sold, or directly to a developer who wants to use them. As a result of this option, bakers and lawyers are beginning to recognize the value of the development credit as a thing unto itself, a legitimate commercial entity. We'd have seen more being done by now with Pinelands credits but for the generally depressed real estate market in this state we're in. This is especially true in view of abundant evidence that folks are veering from the traditional big house on a large lot to smaller homes, condominiums or attached housing. Money is responsible for some of that, but let's not forget the declining birth rate and an increase in single-parent households. The McManimon-Bocchioni Bills (S-243 and A-3664) can pave the way for clearer action on the TDR front by establishing legal ground rules applicable to all towns in New Jersey. It's up to the Legislature.

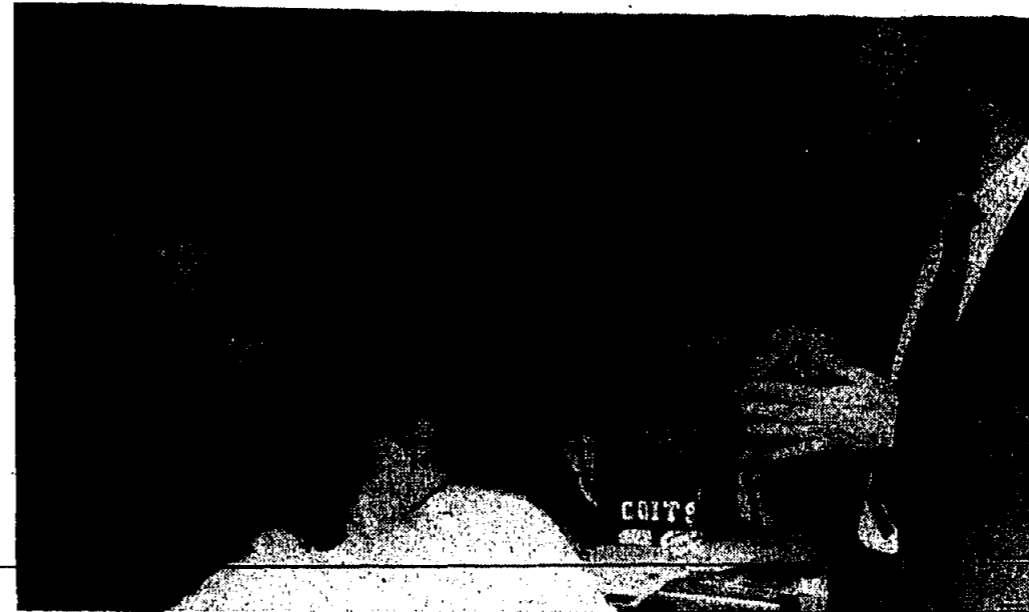

Letters to the editor

Lawyers' fees Giblin and Giblin, the limousine lawyers for the CAUSE Board of Education, has just billed us, the taxpayers of this town, about $43,000 for July and August. This makes a total of about $70,000 in lawyers fees by these CAUSE board lawyers, and that's just for three months. Last year, Mr. Margulies, the then board attorney, who is a taxpayer in this town and drives his own car, charged about $13,000 for the whole year. How dare these rich lawyers, Giblin and Giblin, who show up at all the CAUSE Board of Education meetings in chauffeur-driven limousines, charge such exorbitant fees.

Letters to the editor

We are all being taken for a ride by CAUSE. ANNETTE Ghimsey Ridge Drive 'Gratified' at vote Naturally, I am very gratified to have won re-election to the New Jersey Assembly. This has been a hard-fought, clean campaign and I commend Gene Carmody and Barbara Brande for the effective high-level campaign they ran. I like to think that the voters supported me because of the hard work I did in the area of transportation, senior citizens, and science and technology, and other areas. I promise the people of the 21st District that I will represent them to the best of my ability during the next two years. I want to express my thanks to the fine support I received from the media. The almost unanimous endorsements I received from the local press were most encouraging. Finally, I want to thank my staff and the many, many volunteers who assisted me in this campaign. Without all of them, this victory would not have been possible. Thank you. EDWARD GILL, Assemblyman, District 21

Lunch room aide Below is a copy of a letter written to George Gomez, president of the Springfield Board of Education, Sanonder School has a present student enrollment of 225 students. We have been operating with 4 lunch time aides since September, when it was discovered that the name of one of our aides, Eve Harrison, was left off the list of aides in error. Since then we have been told to wait until the School Government Committee meets and hopefully they would see fit to have her reinstated. Your School Government Committee met a few days ago and Mrs. Harrison still has not been reinstated. The value of her services as an aide far exceeds the minimal amount paid to these aides, so how are you able to justify not rehiring her because that may exceed the budget? How can you even consider not hiring her back when all aides are desperately needed by our children in both schools? Hope you are now sorry about exceeding a budget when you have already had legal fees in excess of $20,000. The principals at Caldwell School is not with 3 lunch room aides which seems to be unreasonable. Does the safety and education of any of our children in this town enter into the thoughts of this Board of Education? Where do your services lie? Lunch room aide at Sanonder and to good for 225 children. CONCETTA G. BOSCIA President, Thelma L. Sandmester School

Regional district offers 'total' program for deaf

SPRINGFIELD—"The New Jersey administrative code sets the minimum standards for the education of deaf children, but it is the local school boards who establish good professional practice in that area," said Dennis Russell, a planning associate with the State Department of Education's Bureau of Policy and Planning, special education division. "The state official toured Governor Livingston Regional High School recently in conjunction with Deafness Awareness Week, speaking to the staff and to C.C. Peszynski, director of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1's program for the auditorily handicapped.

The district offers a comprehensive program for some 35 auditorially handicapped children, most of whom attend as out-of-district tuition students. According to Russell there are only three high school programs in northern New Jersey which have the facilities and staff to accommodate the needs of a large number of deaf students. He noted that New Jersey schools attempt either to "mainstream" the youngsters into regular classes or utilize self-contained facilities within the schools.

WELCOME GIFT—Robert E. Jeans (left), president of Kenilworth Policemen's Benevolent Association Local 135, and John Beninati, of honorary 135, congratulate each other on the check which helps pay for its new foot-high insignia (behind them). The original insignia, valued at $250, was stolen from outside PBA headquarters last December.

In outlining the State's plan for the education of the deaf, Russell said the first priority is to establish what problems are real, then to develop a strategy for resolutions, and lastly, to assess the availability of programs. At Governor Livingston students are taught by four teachers of the auditorily handicapped, assisted in the regular classrooms by six interpreters, and given special aid by two speech corrections.

"Students come to us with large obstacles to overcome," said Mrs. Peszynski, referring to two students whose native languages are Portuguese and Spanish. "And they are here for at least four years before they feel confident to go onto higher learning or work experience."

'Close Up' is slated

SPRINGFIELD—Schools throughout New Jersey have once again been invited to participate in the Close Up Foundation government studies program. The invitation was issued by Suzanne Lawrence, CLOSE UP's community coordinator for New Jersey who has recently been traveling through the area meeting with local educators.

An anticipated 200 students and teachers from 20 schools in New Jersey are expected to travel to Washington D.C. in May for a series of week long seminars on the workings of the federal government.

"CLOSE UP seeks to transform the city of Washington into a classroom using members of congress, journalists, lobbyists, bureaucrats, diplomats and other experts as the teachers," Lawrence said. Each of the students will participate in 15 to 20 seminars and workshops and will also have time to observe congressional hearings, the Supreme Court and participate in other cultural activities of the nation's capital city. A teacher from each participating school will accompany the students, not as a chaperone but to participate in a parallel program designed to offer educators new insights and materials for use in their classrooms. Since its inception in 1971, more than 120,000 students and teachers from across the country have participated in the program. The New Jersey program began in 1981 and included 500 students and teachers. With grants from Conoco Inc. and R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., CLOSE UP also produces several series of television programs which are aired on the Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network (C-SPAN) and are designed primarily for use in high school classrooms. To ensure that all types of students are able to participate in CLOSE UP, fellowships are awarded to each participating school for a teacher and for low to moderate-income students.

Lawyer referral plan helped 2,000 callers

SPRINGFIELD—The Lawyer Referral Service sponsored by ATLA-NJ, the New Jersey Affiliate of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, helped more than 2,000 people in the last year to find an attorney who specialized in the legal problem indicated by the caller. The service was established to help individuals with legal problems and attorneys to talk to a knowledgeable attorney for a modest fee. People throughout New Jersey use the toll free number (800-982-5531) to be referred to a lawyer with experience in their problem and whose office is near their home or place of employment. There is no fee for the referral; the attorney's fee is no more than $15 for the first half hour of personal consultation in the attorney's office. Callers are under no obligation to

Free screenings offered by department of health

MOUNTAINIDE—Free blood pressure and oral cancer screenings for residents of Mountainide will be held Saturday, 10 a.m. to noon by the Westfield Regional Health Department, according to health officer Robert M. Sherr. The Health Day screenings are offered in cooperation with the Union County Dental Association and the Overlook Hospital Home Health Care Department and will be held in the Mountainide Municipal Building at 1385 Route 22. The blood pressure screening is especially recommended for those residents who are 35 and over and who have a history of high blood pressure, are overweight, are smokers, have stopped taking their blood pressure medication without their doctor's approval and have not had their blood pressure checked in over a year. In addition, participants will be able to take a personal health style self-test to evaluate their health habits and learn ways to improve their lifestyle. All of the planned health activities are part of a statewide health day promoted throughout the New Jersey. According to Dr. Richard Goldstein, state health commissioner, "the objective of state health day is to get people involved in their own health care."

Dayton girls are 3rd in Group 2

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School girls cross-country team will be making its final appearance of the year Saturday when it participates in the All-Group Meet at Holmdel.

The Bulldogs qualified along with 17 other teams for this championship event by finishing third in the Group 2 meet last Saturday, also at Holmdel. Dayton collected 123 points, while Holmdel won with 116 and Somerville was runner-up with 110.

"Holmdel was just a better team," said Dayton coach Bill Jones. "We went after them real hard. I told the kids to go after them regularly. I thought earlier in the year that we might be able to beat them. But even though we have improved, so have they. The kids gave us everything they had.

"Our plan was to give it everything we had at Holmdel," he continued. "So I think there was a little letup in concentration when we realized we weren't going to beat them, and Somerville snuck past us."

Sophomore Tracy Biber led Springfield with a 11th place finish in 21:07.

"Tracy has developed very nicely," lauded Jones. "She is maturing into an excellent runner." Mary Pat Paradisi, who forced the early pace against the top Holmdel runners, wound up 13th in 21:10. Laura Richter was 18th in 21:21 and Margaret Taylor was 63rd in 22:28.

The competition should be steep Saturday, as Jones well knows.

"We're going to do the best we can," said Jones. "And we would like to get into the top 10. But, realistically, some of the Group 4 and Group 3 schools, and the Parochial schools are very strong, and are tough to beat."

The Dayton boys finished finished 14th in Group 2, while the David Brearley boys wound up 19th in Group 1.

In the All-Area Meet at Millburn Nov. 18, the Dayton girls triumphed as they scored 31 points in edge out Columbia, which also had 31 points. However, Susan Reusenberger finished 14th as the sixth runner for Dayton, ahead of the sixth runner for Columbia, to broke the tie.

Paraded paced Dayton by breaking in 18:54. Biber was second, Richter fifth, Taylor 10th, and Traci Hart 11th.

"It was our best performance of the year," said Jones. "Columbia is a strong Group 4 team and it took a great effort to beat them."

Deerfield booters end up .500

Dayton gridders showing strength down stretch

If teams want to schedule the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team in the future, it would be wise for them to make it for early in the season.

Last year, Dayton won its last three games to finish with a winning record. This season, the Bulldogs will try to make history repeat when they take a two-game winning streak to Hillside Thanksgiving Day.

Quarterback Rich Policastro completed three of six passes, and ran for a pair of touchdowns, including a 12-yard option run in the final quarter that clinched the contest. Rob Martignetti paced the Bulldogs with 101 yards on 16 carries, while Brett Walsh sped for 81 yards on 15 carries, including a 20-yard run for a touchdown. The Bulldogs scored on drives of 76, 56 and 39 yards.

Also coming in for mention was the play of the special teams. Darren Laione made a fine return with a punt, and fellow sophomore Levent Byrassil brought back a kick 39 yards. Walsh, Laione, and Vince Castellani each had an interception. Laione leads the Bulldogs in takeaways, with three interceptions and three fumbles.

DOUBLE TROUBLE—Jonathan Dayton running back, Brett Walsh, breaks loose for big run in Saturday's game against Manville. In bottom picture, Walsh and Martignetti combined for almost 200 yards on the road as Dayton breezed, 21-0.

Brearley '11' drops under .500 following North Plainfield loss

Things started out badly for the David Brearley Regional High School football team last Saturday against North Plainfield. Then it got worse.

The Bears bowed to North Plainfield, 35-8, as they lost their second straight game and fell to 2-1 for the season. Brearley will try to salvage a .500 year when it travels to Berkeley Heights to face Governor Livingston Thanksgiving Day.

"Things went wrong from the beginning," said Brearley coach Bob Taylor. "Our opening kickoff went to about the six-inch line. But then it bounced back and their guy broke one." NP's Dave Gough returned that kickoff 62 yards to set up a first down on the major factor.

Also coming in for mention was the play of the special teams. Darren Laione made a fine return with a punt, and fellow sophomore Levent Byrassil brought back a kick 39 yards. Walsh, Laione, and Vince Castellani each had an interception. Laione leads the Bulldogs in takeaways, with three interceptions and three fumbles.

Baseball registration set for Springfield leagues

Registration for the 1984 Springfield Baseball Leagues will be held today, 6 to 8 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center.

These are the only dates available, so if one can't make it, he should have a friend bring the form.

The 1984 program will be run by grades, and is open to all Springfield residents from grades 2 through 8 as follows:

New Instructional League: Grades 2 and 3; Minor League: Grades 4 and 5; Major League: Grades 6 and 7; Pony League: Grade 8.

The changes from age requirements to grades will suit the needs of those children playing baseball, and allow more flexibility to move children up through the leagues at the discretion of the Board of Directors.

Parents and interested adults are needed for managing, coaching, and umpiring. For more information call 379-4287.

The Springfield Baseball League will not accept registration forms from anyone with intentions of playing in more than one league, because playing in more than one program at the same time may hurt both programs and the children.

Riley set to compete in gymnastics finale

David Brearley gymnast Maureen Riley will compete on the uneven parallel bars at the New Jersey State Intercollegiate Championships Saturday at Cedar Ridge High School.

Riley also competed on the floor exercise event, receiving 8.55 and an on balance beam she scored 7.8. Riley will be joined by five other area gymnasts representing Union County at the championship meet.

Brearley was well represented at the state sectionals. Also receiving bar scores were Tracy Spillman - 8.45, Claudine Nakly - 8.2, and Kathy Gleason - 7.75. Balance beam competitors were Gleason with 7.6, Susan Beurer with 7.1 and Claudine Nakly 6.65.

Gleason's vault score was 8.25 and her floor exercise earned an 8.15. Marianne Schmidt finished with 7.9 on her floor exercise event.

The Brearley gymnastics team competed in its two final competitions last week. Although defeated by county champion Scotch Plains, the team only lost, 88.35-96.0.

Top score on vault was taken by Gleason at 8.7. Top finishers on the uneven bars were Tracy Spillman with 8.25 and Riley 8.15. The balance beam event was won by Nakly at 8.0 with Gleason second with 7.67. Floor exercise scores were Gleason 8.2, Marianne Schmidt 8.1 and Riley 8.05. Also competing were Donna Millus, Lynn Ferrara, Beurer and Sandra Spillman.

Brearley defeated Cranford to finish with its season high score, 85.65-85.65. Seniors Beurer, Ferrara, and Riley were honored before the meet. All are four year competing members of the team.

A vaulting score of 8.45 put Gleason in first with Ferrara second with 7.45. Riley received a first on the uneven bars scoring 8.55 with Spillman second at 8.0. On balance beam Gleason was first with 8.35 followed by Riley's 8.25

Senior Center

By CONGRESSMAN
MATTHEW RINALDO
(R-7th District)

Congress has passed and sent to the White House legislation providing billions of dollars in fiscal 1984 for programs primarily benefiting the elderly.

The money is contained in the Labor-Health and Human Services Appropriations bill, which is second only to the defense budget in dollar amount and is the single most important funding bill for older Americans. It underwrites an array of programs ranging from Medicaid and Meals on Wheels to Senior Employment and Low Income Energy Assistance.

Although the measure passed by Congress provides $4 billion more than what the Administration had requested earlier this year, I have urged the President to sign it in view of the unmet health and human service needs of the growing population of senior citizens. It is a compromise between the bill passed by the Democrat-controlled House and the Republican-dominated Senate and has strong bipartisan support in both houses, which bodes well for favorable consideration in the Oval Office.

Funding is included in the bill for a number of programs extremely important to New Jersey's elderly, including the low income energy assistance, congregate feeding and senior employment programs. The national employment program would receive $317 million under the bill, congregate feeding $321 million, and about $1.8 billion would go to energy assistance. Another $2.6 billion is included for block grants to the states to provide transportation, legal, homemaker, and other services for the elderly. It also appropriates $160 billion for the Social Security Administration's cash assistance program, $15.5 billion for Medicaid, and $8.3 billion for the supplemental security income program that aids the disabled and elderly poor who do not otherwise qualify for social security benefits.

A major feature of the bill is the inclusion of additional money for expanded research into the causes of Alzheimer's disease, which afflicts two million Americans and is responsible for more than 120,000 deaths a year. The money is contained in the $12.3 million appropriation for the National Institute on Aging. The Institute is responsible for financing basic research into the aging process and associated diseases, such as Alzheimer's, for which there is no known cure, and which is considered the most frequent cause of mental impairment among the elderly.

Stepped-up research in this area is especially important because Americans are living longer and an increased number consequently face the risk of being afflicted with Alzheimer's. The cost of this disease, both in terms of human suffering and dollars, is enormous. It is estimated that nearly half of all nursing home patients suffer from the disease at a cost of $11 billion annually. Caring for Alzheimer's victims who are not in institutions has been estimated to cost an additional $15 billion a year. As part of the expanded research, the bill calls for the establishment of five specialized research centers on Alzheimer's disease and related mental disorders. The activities at these centers are to be coordinated by a new task force organized by the Department of Health and Human Services specifically for the purpose marshaling our medical forces to come to grips with this devastating health problem. As the senior Republican on the Committee on Aging, (Continued on page 4) two congressmen and other notables." A recently published book, "Smile — A Picture History of Olympic Park 1887-1965," is ready for distribution.

Olympic Park book loaded with pictures

By PETER GAVIGAN

"Smile — A Picture History of Olympic Park, 1887-1965" is off the press and ready for distribution.

Publication of the book about the famous amusement park that drew hundreds of thousands to the Irvington-Maplewood line each summer will be celebrated at a reception Sunday from 2-6 p.m. at The Coronet, 825 Springfield Ave., Irvington. Bubbles Ricardo, the songstress who gave her final performance at the park from 1942-45, will be among the guests at the affair which is open free to the public.

More than 250 illustrations are featured in the 176-page large format (8½ inches x 11 inches) paperback, written by Alan A. Siegel. "Smile" is filled with maps, photos, tickets and a comprehensive history of New Jersey's largest amusement park, from its founding in 1887 to the time its gates closed in 1965. Nostalgic memories of Olympic Park recall the days of "the largest pool in the East," Captain Joe Basile's merry-go-round and coaster, the whip, the merry-go-round and more.

The price of the book is $18.50, plus tax. It can be purchased at Sunday's reception where the author will be on hand to autograph copies. The reception also will feature music, exhibits and films of the park in its heyday, including a film made in the '50s by Nick Fiorento of Maplewood.

Invited guests include Angelo Giuliano, who started selling hot dogs and hamburgers at the park in 1936 and whose family ran the park's food concessions; Jack Leahy, a member of the Aborn Comic Opera Co., who performed at the park in 1919; Union resident Marie Kurz Roberts, whose father, Christian Kurz, was owner of the park in pre-World War I days; Captain Basile's daughters, Elsie Smitz, Helen Hutchinson and Ethel Gilles; June Schwartz, who ran the Wild Mouse and the U-Drive Motor Boats with her husband and who now owns Belmar Playland in Belmar, and Jack Mendelsohn, the head guard at the Roller Rink in the mid-50s.

The mail order price of the book is $20.50, including tax, postage and handling. Checks or money orders, made payable to "Irvington Historic Society," can be mailed to Alan A. Siegel, 35 Clinton Terrace, Irvington, N.J. 07111. Those who have reserved one or more copies should deduct the amount already paid from the order.

Copies can be obtained from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Irvington Township Clerk's Office, Irvington Municipal Building, Civic Square, Irvington. The clerk will have a record of all reservations. The Bookstop, 173 Maplewood Ave., Maplewood, also will sell copies of the book. Those with reservations should not (Continued on page 20)

Senior Center

These are just some of the services and programs funded under the appropriations bill which, in my view, is very favorable to the elderly and will continue undiminished assistance critical to their well being.

Anticipating that the President will sign the measure, it will be the first Labor-IRS Appropriations bill signed into law since 1978. For the past several years, controversies over various provisions have made it impossible to reach agreement on a final bill, forcing Congress to continue funding for these programs under stop-gap legislation.

UCC will be accepting students at midyear

Union County College will be accepting new students in the middle of the academic year, according to Patricia Kurisko of Clark, director of admissions, records, and registration.

"Many colleges and universities admit freshmen only at the start of the fall semester," Kurisko explained.

"However, we accept beginning freshmen in the spring, also."

Union County College is able to open programs to incoming students in the middle of the academic year because of the college's "highly flexible course scheduling," which aids the college in meeting demands for spring entry, Kurisko explained.

All programs on the Union County College Cranford campus will be open to incoming freshmen this spring, Kurisko said. On the Scotch Plains campus, freshmen will be able to enroll in courses in every area with the exception of the health fields, in which only two programs will be open for enrollment: practical nursing and medical records technology.

UCC offers programs leading to an associate degree in 40 areas, including liberal arts, business, engineering, the sciences, criminal justice, human services, and the business, engineering and health technologies.

Those who wish to start their college careers during the second academic semester may do so for varied reasons, according to Kurisko. Some are high school graduates who have delayed their college entrance, others may be part-time students who have decided to matriculate, she explained.

"Many non-traditional, or older students are also enrolling in our programs, such as adults seeking new careers or career changes, senior citizens searching for a second career after retirement, and veterans who have recently left military services," Kurisko noted.

High school juniors and seniors are also eligible to enroll at UCC if they have the approval of their high school principal or guidance counselor, Kurisko said. Credits earned by high school students at UCC may be applied toward an associate degree program at the college or they may be transferred to another college or university.

Additional information about the offerings at the college or application procedures for the spring semester, which will begin in January, may be obtained by calling the admissions hotline, 272-8580 or 272-8581.

Disc & Data

Pick of the LPs, "The 8th Day" (A&M Records).

Timing is an element that The 8th Day is very conscious of when making musical moves. For the last three and a half years, the five members that make up the A&M Records' newest quintet have been toiling behind closed doors to perfect their individual and collective talents.

With its self-titled album completed, The 8th Day now emerges with five capable lead singers who also each play numerous instruments. They appear confident that the wait resulted in a very strong album, and they appear ready to prove their timing is right.

The roots of 8th Day can be traced back to Detroit, native city of founding members Tyrone "Ty" Douglas and Virginia "Vee" McDonald. The pair began musical careers at an early age, developing their singing talents both in and out of school. In addition, Vee studied classical piano for seven years, while Ty leapt to play trumpet. The two already had extensive professional experience (in Ty's case, that included sessions for Motown Records) when they decided to re-locate to Los Angeles.

Ty's work in Detroit had brought him into contact with Edward and Brian Holland, the team, who, along with Lamont Dozier, wrote a great many of the tunes that made international stars out of such Motown artists as the Supremes, Marvin Gaye and the Four Tops. Once in Los Angeles, Douglas looked up the Hollands, and they sat down and talked about the concept of the group I had in mind.

"I was interested in finding people who could keep themselves together," recalls Douglas. Even if the new recruits had little or no experience, "I figured we could teach them, mold them, if they had talent. And everyone I found has a lot of talent." Douglas and McDonald were first joined by Barrington "Bo" Henderson, a singer and trumpeter born in Washington, Pa., and Denzel Broomfield, a California native, who studied acting and music at the University of California at Los Angeles. Those four comprised The 8th Day until about six months ago, when they were joined by Adrienne Robinson. Adrienne, a Philadelphian by birth, majored in music at UCLA and plays violin, flute and saxophone.

Above all, says Ty Douglas, "We wanted to be a group of individuals — not just one lead singer with everyone else in the background. We didn't want to develop computerized stage routines, either. It's our aim to project a unique look on stage by being versatile. Our show will have all five of us stepping out at different times to take the musical spotlight."

The members of The 8th Day held down day jobs to keep body and soul together, waiting some three years "until we found the right situation for us," says Douglas. When the time came, and they were signed to A&M Records on the basis of a four-song demo, The 8th Day was ready. They had Eddie Holland as a manager, while the Holland brothers and Harold Beatty wrote their songs and became their production team.

All four of the Holland-Beatty-Holland songs on The 8th Day's demo tape, "Call Me Up," "In the Valley," "Body Buddies" and "Hot on the Heels of Love," made it on to the group's debut album as well ("Call Me Up" is the first single). "We were confident about those right off the bat," says Ty. "The working relationship between the group and the writers and producers was super. They really tailored the tunes to us. "We've already started on our next album."
