Poinsettia historian traces Xmas flower

What Christmas symbol is primarily red but can be cream, pink or white, is native to Mexico, and was brought to America by the first United States Ambassador to Mexico?

If you answered the poinsettia, you fall among the plant historians and devotees of our era. Union County College biology professor Dr. Thomas Ombrello is an enthusiastic poinsettia buff and will have 20 to 30 flowering plants at his home in his laboratory at the College. He relates that since 1825 when Ambassador Joel Poinsett, a botanist, found them in Taxco, Mexico, and introduced them to the United States, the red poinsettia has been the primary Christmas plant. In its native Mexican habitat, it grew as a shrub up to six feet in length on the country hillside.

Before Ambassador Poinsett's discovery of the Christmas flower, the Franciscan priests in the 17th century gathered the blooming red leaves and used them in their Christmas services and celebrations. Because they are a blooming plant and sensitive to the length of exposure to daylight, the shortened day length before the Christmas season initiates their blooming cycle. Known as the "Flower of the Holy Night" in Mexico, it was called "Cuetlaxochitl" by the Indians in their native Taxco.

Ombrello points out that red was the original poinsettia color and it wasn't until the 1840's that a white poinsettia became commercially known and the newer pinks and bicolors became popular in the mid 60's. Interestingly, the vivid colors are not the flowers of the plant; they are the modified upper leaves or bracts. The poinsettia flower is the small pea-sized yellow circles which are clustered in the center of the plant.

Because of their popularity as a Christmas gift, improvements and long-blooming performances have been bred into the plants. Traditionally, they bloomed for Christmas, and one was fortunate to have them still for Valentine's Day. Now, with the proper care, anyone can have their Christmas poinsettia until Easter.

One of the strongest and most durable commercially bred poinsettias came from a oak-leaf homegrown plant in Jersey City in 1825. The majority of commercial poinsettias up until 1945 were descendants of the 1923 plant. Internationally, the poinsettia Christmas flower is also a staple flower in western Europe and is produced behind the Iron Curtain in Bulgaria, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

A strong advocate of growing one's own plants from the cuttings of the Christmas poinsettia, Ombrello's horticulture students have many poinsettia cuttings in various stages of exposure to daylight hours. The various examples show the positive blooming results of exposure to 10 hours of daylight and 14 hours of darkness during the Fall.

Following a few basic steps, poinsettias can return Christmas season after Christmas season. They should not be placed in an area subject to a draft—avoid a window setting. Take some cuttings after the holidays, and take some again in the summer. Plant them outside. In September or before the first frost replant them indoors.

The blooming plant uses huge amounts of water and desires a uniformly moist soil. Normal room temperature of 65-70 degrees and bright lights are needed. Flowering is in response to the length of the day in the late Fall and early Winter. They need approximately 14 hours of darkness and 10 hours of light.

Township Committee approves new seniors bus

By VICKI VREELAND

In a brief, final 1983 meeting, the Springfield Township Committee passed an ordinance Tuesday night approving a $35,000 appropriation for a new senior citizen bus. The township committee then sold its van for $135.

While committee members took a few minutes to extend season greetings to Springfield residents, Mayor William Ruocco reflected on his year as mayor. "I have a lot of thanks to give to the people of Springfield," Ruocco said. He described the township committee as the "guiding light" for the township, but said, "It's the people out there in the trenches that do all the work."

"I would like to thank all the town employees and the people that were appointed to the various boards as volunteers. This has been a year I have been very happy to be the mayor of Springfield," Ruocco said. He mentioned the acquisition of the Raymond Chisholm School as one of the year's accomplishments.

He also said that for the first time in Springfield's history, the township committee acquired a $10,000 budget line item in the state budget. The $10,000 will be used to defray costs of the senior citizen bus.

Ruocco stated that he felt the township committee in the past year, "put more equity" in Springfield's Rent Leveling Ordinance. "I am very proud to have been mayor of Springfield," Ruocco said in his closing remarks. Jay Kloud, township attorney, gave a status report of current litigations the township is named in. There are six cases pending in the Superior Court Law Division.

Included in these are a suit by Mercer County, who have also named other counties than Union, as well as the state of New Jersey. Other suits include one filed by a Springfield resident claiming his constitutional rights were infringed on when the township would not permit him to raise numerous cats and dogs, and a suit by four volunteer firemen in Springfield who wanted positions on the paid Springfield Fire Department.

The township is also involved in one case in the Federal District Court and three tax appeal cases.

Also coming in for praise from Ruocco was Ira Geller, Springfield's "towncrier." Ruocco thanked Geller for a "job well done." Geller plans to attend the township organization meeting Sunday at noon in the municipal meeting, so he will once again be on top of business in Springfield.

In other business, the township committee approved the use of a Callingsworth plumbing firm in the interim while regular plumber, Ben Davis, is being recruited to meet the township contract's specifications.

Township Clerk Art Buehrer was authorized to bid for fuel contracts for 1984 since the township did not receive any on first bid. The contract for janitorial services will also be awarded at the next committee meeting.

Regional board dispels school closing rumors

By VICKI VREELAND

The Union County High School Regional Board of Education District No. 1 approved a resolution last week to dispel rumors that any of the regional high schools are going to be closed. Virginia Muskus, vice president, cast the sole dissenting vote.

The resolution reads, "It is the intention of the Board to continue operating four regular high schools for at least the next four years (1983-1987) with the anticipation that adequate funding will continue. Until the decline in student enrollment stabilizes, the district's plan is for the regular high schools to grow down into four small, quality high schools."

Miskus voted no because, "You can't hold any board to what they say because there will be different people here. How can anyone say, 'I can't see making a statement' for four years?"

Joseph Vitano, board president, stated, "The resolution is intended to dispel any rumors concerning the intentions of the current board."

"This board was determined to make a statement to rest assure the minds of students and parents," said Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Merachuk. Dr. Merachuk referred to new statistics which imply that "high schools of the future should be within 600-800 students."

The board also adopted the tentative $22,339,035 1984-1985 school budget and set March 6 for the public hearing at Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights. The budget will be on display in the board secretary's office from Feb. 23 to March 6, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. when school days are in session.

Michael Lindino, a teacher at David Brearley High School, addressed the board on problems he observes in the classroom. Lindino said the biggest hindrance to his teaching were high rates of student absenteeism, a changing problem due to large class sizes, and students with poorly developed study habits.

Christine Dansereau, a parent of two David Brearley High School students, expressed concern over what she termed "motivational" problem in high school students. Dansereau objected to the suspension policy of the regional schools.

Resident spots '3 stray dogs' in Springfield

A Springfield resident warns that three "apparently stray, large dogs" have been sighted in the area of South Springfield Avenue. Alan Zeller described the dogs, who do not have collars, as "a black Labrador-type, a mutt, and a German Shepherd."

Zeller said that he has seen the dogs on three occasions about 7 a.m. "I have a feeling they were dumped here. They have been on South Springfield Avenue, just over Route 22, near the Westfield line. Behind there is Lenape Park."

Zeller, who raises rabbits, was recently hospitalized. While away, the dogs attacked his coup and ate some of the rabbits. Zeller said he isn't concerned for the rabbits, "but once they have the taste of blood they will attack again."

"If they attacked a child, there's no way a child could defend themselves, even an adult couldn't," he added.

Zeller contacted the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) most recently two weeks ago on a Saturday about 10:30 a.m. The ASPCA responded to the call, but according to the report, there was "no sighting or pick-up."

If the dogs are spotted, immediately contact the police or the ASPCA at 382-8100.

Resident hit with charge of drunk driving

A 38-year-old Springfield woman has been charged with driving while intoxicated. Police said Omaira Calazzo, Bryant Avenue, was arrested Dec. 20 about 8:30 p.m. on South Trivett Avenue.

An Elizabeth woman recently reported her wallet stolen while shopping at Arthur's on Morris Avenue. She told police it contained approximately $80 cash and credit cards.

Joseph Palumbo, 28, of Westfield, was charged with driving while intoxicated on Morris Avenue Thursday. William Moloney, 27, of Plainfield, was also charged with driving while intoxicated. Moloney was arrested on Route 22, Mountaineer, about 2 a.m. Friday.

Also arrested early Friday morning were two Plainfield men charged with possession and use of marijuana. Ronald Davis, 20, and Robert Davis, 18, were arrested on Route 22.

Scene around the towns

Scene around the towns comes back from its Christmas vacation with a Mountain-side mystery. If you recognize the building above, let us hear from you by 9 a.m. Tuesday. Write to Scene, in care of this paper, P.O. Box 3169, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

Before the holiday break, Scene featured the photo at right, which brought this reply from Sister Catherine Therese, principal of St. Paul the Apostle School in Irvington: "Your picture in the paper for the Dec. 15th is the back of our church/school building here at St. Paul the Apostle. Thanks for the publicity we received because of your picture."

It's "none other than the rear view of my church, St. Paul the Apostle R.C. Church and School," Carol M. Szpasky of Irvington wrote. "This is the view as seen from Stuyvesant Avenue," she added.

"How could the broken sign be missed?" asked Herla B. Tully of Irvington, who said she "was one of the founders of St. Paul the Apostle Church, Irvington, with my family."

"It's my school," wrote Mark Ambruster of Union, who also pointed out "the top sign of playground rules on the lower left."
Theresa Danicle of Irvington said, "If my guess is right, the scene is the back brick building of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church and School located in Irvington. I pass this church when I am going shopping on Mill Road. Sometimes I even play bingo at St. Paul's Church."
Anthony Ljciecki of Union and Hugh McBride Jr. of Linden were others who recognized the scene.

A couple of earlier Scenes brought a belated response from Mildred E. Kendig, who didn't get her answer in on time because "I forgot to take in my paper last week and so missed out." She recognized both St. Joseph the Carpenter Church in Roselle — "so beautiful inside and outside" — and the holiday greeting at the corner of Chestnut Street and Grant Avenue in Roselle Park. That sign, she noted, is "across from ... Community United Methodist Church of Roselle Park, of which I am a member."

On the Bright Side

A household diary — trials and tribulations

By GERRY DI GESU
Monday: The season is upon. He has torn down the crumpling front steps and discovered a large air space under the front door — no wood, just air.
These visitors we thought we had exterminated four years ago in the garage had fooled us after all. Working their way across the front of the house, they had kept themselves hidden for protection.

Responding to my frantic call, the exterminator reassures me they have not undermined the structure of the house; it just looks that way. For $400 he can get rid of them all. I ask how many he can kill for $20 — the balance in the checking account. We'll work something out. ...

Tuesday: Two months after the Money Management promised delivery date, aluminum siding has arrived and work started on our home. Stepping outside to check on progress, I am greeted by the two grumpy-faced owners of the company who have been called by the disgruntled head siding mechanic who is sulking in my yard.

Lately, this siding has to come down. It looks terrible and anyone can see it's an inferior brand. Everything's a mess, there's siding all over, ladders block the driveway and sidewalks and he's annoyed.
"Then why did you sell it to me in the first place?" I ask him. He says he can't be rid of them all. I ask how many he can kill for $20 — the balance in the checking account. We'll work something out. ...

lurches out the front door, more than an hour late for work. They are ripping down the siding and we'll wait for delivery of a substitute brand and color.

Thursday: Driving rain is pouring through the garage roof where the workmen tore off the old gutters and flashing. It's soaking their electrical tools and papers. ...
When my husband arrives home for supper, I plug the two rubber plugs which blocked the toilet into his hands so the kids and I are absolved of any blame. He was sure we did it. So I saved the pros.
As he sits down to relax over dinner at 7 p.m. I gently remind him that we're due at Parents' Night at Boy Scouts at 7:30. I know he'll probably be anxious to sign up to chaperone their roller skating party next week.

water on the hall carpeting and muttering vehemently. The toilet refused to work no matter what he tried, so he ripped it out. Two rubber tips had broken off the plunger and stuck together, completely blocking the passage. After installing a new toilet, he discovered a leak and is now lightening the valve in the hallway; his wife's sass follows.
"Why is the toilet on the front lawn?" the paper girl at the front door asks, looking at me in bewilderment. Rushing upstairs for her money, I collide with the plumber who is sloshing

Year-end a good time for financial review

Year-end is a good time to take stock of your financial situation and draw up a personal financial statement. This will give you a good idea of where you stand and get the new year off to a good start, says the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs).

A personal financial statement can help you with your tax and retirement planning, budgeting, investing and getting bank loans. It's a tool that can help you plan for growth and achieve your goals. After you've done it once, it'll be a cinch to update.

A personal financial statement tells you what you are worth. Your net worth is the excess of what you own over what you owe. If you owe more than you own, as many people do these days, you have a negative net worth. In that case, a personal financial statement is especially important because it will help you design a plan to change that situation.

To start writing a personal financial statement, list all that you own — your assets. In a single column, items include cash on hand or in deposit accounts, commissions, bonuses, IRAs, investments and any other money that you will be receiving before the end of the year. In addition, include the current value of your home, furnishings, cars and other belongings that could be converted to cash. Similarly, you will also list out what the cash surrender value of your life insurance and the vested interest you may hold in an employer pension plan.

Alongside each item, list the date and purchase price. This will help you compute any capital gain or loss if you sell the asset.
To another column, list all your liabilities — what you owe. It might be unpleasant, but include all your debts and outstanding bills, such as charge accounts. Don't forget your tax obligations, the unpaid balance on your mortgage and any bank loans outstanding. Add up the two columns and subtract the liabilities from the assets. The result is your net worth. To get a clearer picture, however, it is necessary to go one step further and determine what changes there have been in your net worth over the past year.

Once again, make two columns. In one column list figures for increases in the market value of your assets or any securities over the last year. List increases in salary, savings, gains on stocks, and other income. In the other column, list decreases in the market value of securities and additions to your equity in profit sharing plans. Now compare it with decreases in assets during the past year to determine any progress. Decreases may include losses in the value of assets, taxes and interest expenses.

In simplified terms, you now have a document similar to what a CPA uses — a two-fold statement consisting of a balance sheet and a funds statement. However, there are some fine points which are worth taking time to review.
For instance, if your financial statement covers not just you but your spouse and other members of your family, be sure to make a clear distinction between those assets and liabilities that are solely yours and those that are shared. Likewise, if properly, specify that in the statement.
In addition, if you have money tied up in closely held businesses, show it in single amounts. Don't try to break down a company's financial situation within your statement. That will only blur the picture. If you have an Individual Retirement Account or a Keogh retirement account, list the cash value minus the penalty you would have to pay if you would withdraw the money today.

With luck, your financial statement won't yield unwanted surprises. It should provide a realistic starting point from which you can begin an examination of your investments, insurance, savings and retirement programs.

Letters to the editor

What's important

I had not intended to pursue the subject matter of my Dec. 15 letter further, but many people have spoken to have asked me to do so. Therefore, at the risk of alienating the warring factions of the school system, by the methodology of arbitration, legislation, compromise among all parents, it is most important that the Board of Education be representative of all the residents of the community, to insure continuity. Instead we have had policies where we should have had harmony. To write an organization with the name of "Cousin" is to say that you are morally justified for you are being exploited, and your "cause is just," above all others.

You are also saying everybody who disagrees with your "cause is unjust." The other group calling themselves "Cousin" is saying, "The other fellow doesn't give a damn." Neither organization has any positive cause in creating the finest education for our children and their future. Truly care about education. The selfishness and egotism, the selfishness of the leadership of the "Cousin" cause are condemnable for I cannot believe they do not mean what they say publicly to each other. If I am correct in my appraisal of their stubbornness and their rudeness, then let them stand aside, so the rest of us can get on with educating our young. If necessary in the basement of Town Hall, for it makes no difference where they learn as long as they learn.

Thanks for support

I would like to use this forum to express my appreciation to the residents of Union County for their support of my candidacy for freedom. The campaign was on a high level and I particularly enjoyed meeting so many people throughout the county who care about the quality of service delivered by their county government.

During the next three years I intend to pull my 18 years of government experience and my energy to work to better serve the people of the county. I can be of particular service to anyone in the county. If you wish to contact me, the my residence is 1000 E. Elizabeth St. Care and concern are commendable for I cannot believe they do not mean what they say publicly to each other. If I am

Local YWCA joins in 125th national anniversary

SPRINGFIELD—The National YWCA, founded in 1858, is marking its 125th anniversary with a year-long celebration. Included in the Summit Area YWCA, which has participating members from Springfield.

There are YWCA's in 46 states and some 80 countries across the world continuing to expand their programs for the changing needs of women.

Typing was the first course offered by the YWCA, 125 years ago. Now the prevalent keywords in YW classes are computers. Many of the women who once gathered at morning coffee matches have full-time jobs and send their children to YWCA after-school programs. And exercise classes once offered predominantly between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. are now offered before and after work to meet the scheduling demands of working women.

"Our anniversary theme, 'YWCA—Still Pioneering' is well-chosen," says Jewel F. Graham, President of the YWCA-USA. "It links our past with our future. Since its founding in the United States in 1858, the YWCA has enabled women and girls to face the succeeding decades of challenge and change by offering them programs and services and addressed to major aspects of their lives."

The YWCA is a multi-service, membership organization open to all ages, ethnic and religious backgrounds, lifestyles and socio-economic levels. Men and boys participate in programs as well as women and girls.

The National YWCA has clearly defined goals, with its one imperative the elimination of racism. In this decade, national YWCA priorities include support of legislation ending sex-based discrimination against women; prevention of teenage pregnancy; protection against violence for every individual; and child care services. International priorities include peace and disarmament, and human rights.

The Summit Area YWCA, a member agency of the United Way of Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights, is working toward these ends.

Sky-high bills

Residents are complaining about the escalating legal costs of the Springfield Board of Education, and who can blame them?

Board of Education legal expenditures for 1983 are going through the roof, and it is the taxpayers who have to foot the bill. Over $100,000 alone has been spent on litigation that involves the board's defending itself against lawsuits from residents and certain members of the board. It is bad enough when residents sue their own Board of Education, but when four of its own members file cross-claims in court, it underlines the sharp division among a body that is supposed to be free of politics.

The staggering six-figure bill mentioned above does not include the normal, run of the mill legal expenditures boards usually have, such as salary negotiations.

With such a large bill, we would think the Board of Education would take any measure possible in this area to limit costs. But the board seems oblivious to the interests of the taxpayers.

Some of the things it has done can hardly be classified as cost-efficient. For example, the board names its own attorney, who hails from outside the county, to also handle labor negotiations. He replaces the former negotiator, whose competence was never questioned, at a higher fee. And since the board attorney often doesn't attend regular meetings, instead sending a member of his law firm, it doesn't make sense to reward him with additional duties at a higher cost.

One expert witness used by the board attorney at an administrative law hearing was paid over $4,000 for her testimony. That bill seems a little high. Just as it seems excessive to place legal notices at much higher rates in two daily newspapers, instead of one daily and one weekly, as has been done in the past.

We wonder what some members of the Board of Education think if the companies whose work they work utilized such questionable economic practices.

Sober resolution

During the New Year's holiday weekend one year ago, 12 people were killed on New Jersey roads. According to public safety officials, seven of those deaths were caused by drunk drivers.

Perhaps this year that grim toll will be lower. The state has announced it will post 400 state troopers at 27 roadside checkpoints this weekend. Toll collectors on the New Jersey Turnpike and the Garden State Parkway will also be on the lookout for motorists who may have had too much to drink.

As part of this effort to rid the roads of drunk drivers, the state has laws on the books it didn't have last New Year's Eve. They list additional penalties for those driving while under the influence. Drivers and passengers who consume alcohol while a motor vehicle is operating are subject to a $200 fine for a first offense and a $250 fine or 10 days of community service for a second.

New Year's Eve is notorious for celebrations which ring out the old and ring in the new with holiday spirits. For safety's sake this weekend, officials advise that those celebrating with alcohol make arrangements in advance to have a non-drinker as a driver.

Have a good time this holiday, but a sober resolution should be at the top of the list for 1984: Don't drink and drive. Otherwise, the rest of the list might not get fulfilled.

Have a happy — and safe — 1984.

Brearley gymnasts are chosen

Maureen Riley and Kathy Giacalone of the David Brearley Regional gymnastics team have been selected as members of the Union County Gymnastics Team.

Selection to the county team is based upon the average score attained during the regular competition season. Scores must be consistently high throughout the season in order to qualify for selection. Members of the Union County Gymnastics Committee select the team members.

Riley, a senior, has been chosen for three consecutive years and this year has taken second place in the county for her performance on the uneven parallel bars.

Giacalone, a sophomore, returns for the second year and has received fourth place for her performance in the all-around category.

Dayton girls expecting to change hoop fortunes

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School girls basketball team went 8-13 last year. But head coach Art Krupp doesn't expect a repetition of that this season.

"I feel we can turn that 8-13 record around," said Krupp. "I would be very disappointed if we didn't have a winning season."

Krupp has an experienced cast of starters returning, led by Linda Hochstein, who later this season will become the second Dayton girl ever to top the 1,000 point mark in a career.

"Linda has been playing with us for four years now," said the Bulldog mentor. "She is a leader for us, especially on the offense."

Other key contributors are Kathy Metzner, Dawn Pohlman and Lisa Wood.

Besides the experience factor, Krupp cites the defense as an integral part of the team's success.

"We press very well," said the coach. "We use both a full-court man to man and a zone press. We have reasonable quickness, and we are very aggressive. That is definitely one of our strengths."

With an expected turnaround in the non-loss record, Krupp feels his team should make the state tournament, which requires a 500 record by mid-season.

"The first five or six games are tough," he said. "But then we have a streak of seven in a row where I think we have a good chance of winning all of them. We should be in every game we play."

The Bulldogs proved they certainly do belong right up with New Providence when they dropped a 45-44 heartbreaker on Calfin Huddle's free throw with 20 seconds remaining in the game.

What made the defeat hurt most was that Dayton jumped out to a 13-point lead in the second quarter and still led, 33-22, at halftime.

"We played well," said Krupp. "We were playing inspired ball. In fact, if we hadn't missed some layups, we could have been ahead by as many as 25 points."

"The game turned completely around in the second half, however, as New Providence rolled off 12 straight points to take a 34-33 lead.

"We got a little complacent," conceded Krupp. "Then after they took the lead, the game went back and forth. After they went ahead, we had a chance to win it."

Dayton has to be considered a factor in the Mountain Valley Conference race.

"I think we had some opening day jitters," said Krupp. "But we came together very well in the second half."

A 'hitting camp' slated at Seton

The Seton Hall University baseball program will sponsor a "Winter Hitting Camp," designed to improve hitting mechanics and correct hitting faults of high school players.

The hitting camp will be held in a session today and will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. at Walsh Community Center.

Seton Hall baseball coach Mike Sheppard will direct the camp, and will be aided, among others, by Rick Cerone of the Yankees and John Morris of the Kansas City Royals outfield.

For more information, contact Sheppard at 373-4772. The cost is $25 per session.

Defense proving to be the key for the hoopsters from Dayton

Before the season, Jonathan Dayton Regional High School boys basketball coach Ray Vanchus said defense would be the key to a successful year for his inexperienced club.

Defense certainly has been the key for his Bulldogs. After winning its opener, 38-36, Dayton took its second straight game by shutting down New Providence, 44-43.

Mike McNary, whose foul shot with 10 seconds remaining clinched the opening game victory over North Plainfield, dropped in a layup with only two seconds remaining to stun New Providence, 44-43. Only six seconds earlier Tom Brett had canned a jumper to put New Providence ahead, 43-42.

Chris Kriemler led Dayton with 15 points and Glenn Booker contributed 13. McNary chipped in with eight points and Mike Graziano added five. New Providence, which has lost its first two games, was led by Ron Kneebone's game-high 20 points.

New Providence led, 20-17, at halftime. But Springfield, after falling to score in double figures in either of the first two periods, utilized a 12-4 spurt in the third quarter to take a 29-24 lead into the final eight minutes.

David Brearley Regional High School basketball team was also involved in a cliffhanger, succumbing to Edison Tech, 60-57. The winners are 1-1, while the Bears have dropped their first two games.

Brearley jumped off to a 10-6 first quarter lead, but Edison Tech rallied to take a 24-23 lead into intermission. Tech then slightly opened up the lead, building the margin to 60-53 as Jeff Jones sank four consecutive free throws late in the final quarter.

Jerry Stickle tossed in 22 points to lead the Bears. The high-scoring guard has now hit for 45 points in two games. John Harr added 13 for Brearley.

Wrestlers at Dayton, Brearley prevail in opening dual meets

The Jonathan Dayton and David Brearley varsity wrestling teams opened their dual meet seasons with resounding victories last week. Dayton dumped Summit, 41-15, while Brearley manhandled Manville, 32-12.

Dayton recorded four pins in its triumph. Recording falls for the Bulldogs were the following: Mike Wood (98 pounds, 34), Vince Castellani (118, 1:52), Alfie Heckel (132, 1:12), and Tom Vendace (137, 3:21).

Posting decision victories for Dayton were Dave Edelcreek (126, 9-4), Tony Apicella (145, 11-8), and David Sallside (155, 18-8). The Bulldogs' Chris Schramm won his 105-pound bout via forfeit. Jim Roberts drew in his 112-pound match, as did Levett Bayraal at 167 pounds.

David Brearley registered three pins in trouncing Manville. Frank Chessa (105, 1:10), Rich Sheehan (118, 3:35), and Mark Phillips (167, 2:40) accounted for the pins. Recording decision for the Bears was Dan Verno (126, 13-3). John Chessa (88), Lou Pascarella (183), and Tony Seragousa (heavyweight) all won matches by forfeit.

David played for Susquehanna gridders

Brian David of Kenilworth was a member of the Susquehanna University football team this fall.

David, a freshman physics major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Brent David of N. 19th Street, and a graduate of David Brearley Regional High.

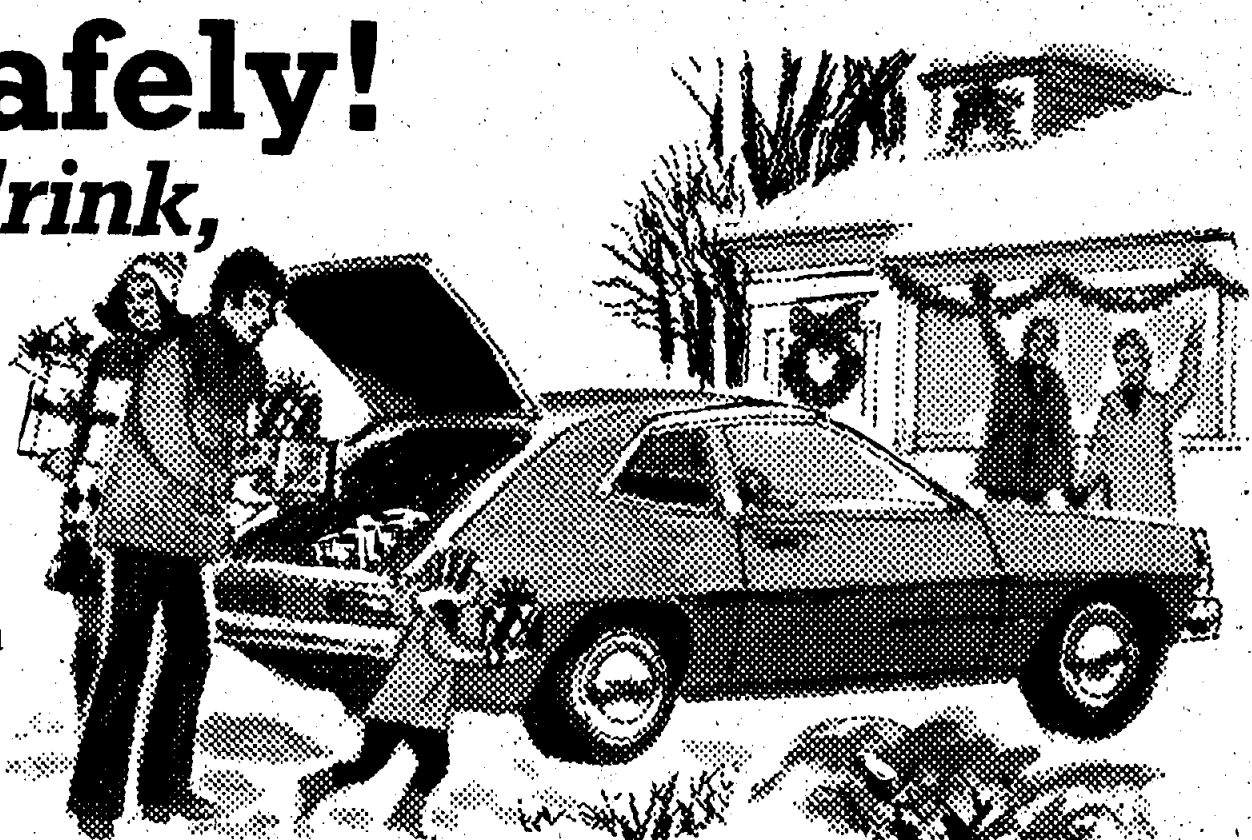

Susquehanna went undefeated in posting an 8-0-1 record.

New Year is filled with optimism

With time just about having run out on 1983, as the calendar above indicates, it is time to reminisce on the past year's events. Then aim those optimistic thoughts toward the new year.

Residents all over Union County, as well as the nation, ring out the old Saturday night. The past year's events, ruminating the gamut from pleasant to discomfoting, come into focus. Family and friends enter that special place in the mind and heart where only a certain elite belong.

The bad memories seem to be dimming at this time of year. Suddenly, as the old year fades away, there is a growing optimism that the next year will bring the things that 1983 failed to deliver.

Maybe it will be that promotion at work, or perhaps that special someone will make every day seem like a holiday. Or possibly you are finally going to join the physical fitness boom that is sweeping the nation.

Good thoughts are the order of the day. Nothing has gone wrong yet in 1984. The saying, "Tomorrow is the first day of the rest of your life", is never more applicable than at the beginning of the new year.

But, first, make sure that day comes. There are more traffic accidents on New Year's Eve than any other day of the year. Drinking and driving do not mix. And nobody should be foolish enough to try to prove that wrong.

If somebody has a little too much to drink on New Year's Eve, that person should make sure he rides home with somebody else. Not only does drinking make driving ultra-hazardous, but the wintry blasts form ice patches on the road that can be undetectable at night.

There are too many good things that are going to happen in 1984 to let some foolishness destroy everything. With New Year's Eve on a Saturday this year, most people can sleep late not only on the next day, but on Monday, too. Getting up late on the first Monday of the year has to be considered a good omen.

And 1984 has a lot to offer. It is a leap year, so February will stretch to its maximum 29 days, and 1984 will be 366 days long. It is also a presidential election year, so voters will have an opportunity to decide who will run the country for the next four years. It is also an Olympic year, as the U.S. ice hockey team tries to repeat its miracle of 1980 in Sarejevo, Yugoslavia, while the Summer Olympics returns to this country (Los Angeles) for the first time since 1932.

Cancer group names Benoi

The Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society announced that Anne V. Benoi will serve as the 1984 County Residential Crusade Chairperson. She will spearhead the door-to-door campaign which begins in April in conjunction with Cancer Control Month.

Anne is employed with Summit and Elizabeth Trust Company as Custom Banking Officer. As a career banker, she has served in corporate administration, operations, and branch banking in addition to other areas.

Her professional affiliations include American Institute of Banking, National Association of Bank Women and former president of the Berkeley Heights Area Business and Professional Women's Club. She is also a member of the Speaker's Bureau of Summit and Elizabeth Trust Company and on the Board of the United Way of Berkeley Heights.

This year's countywide campaign goal is $100,000. "With the help of volunteers who are the nucleus of the force behind the American Cancer Society, we will be able to work towards our goal and achieve it," stated the chairperson. Coordinators are needed in all areas to help organize the drive.

Those individuals who are interested in coordinating the efforts in their particular towns can contact the Union County Unit at 354-7373 or 232-0641.

Dimes unit will march in county

The 1984 Mothers March for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation will be held in Union County on Jan. 21-29 to continue efforts in preventing birth defects.

"The March of Dimes is in the business of saving babies," said Mothers March Honorary Chairman and New Jersey Secretary of State Jane Burgio. This is urgent work to improve the health of America's next generations.

Mothers and families throughout America will be soliciting door-to-door with specially designed Mothers March envelopes and identification to help raise much needed funds to continue the fight against birth defects," Burgio said.

As the drive gains momentum, Mothers March originated in 1950 in Arizona. It now takes place each year in more than 600 March of Dimes chapters throughout the nation.

Mothers March contributions make it possible to conduct programs of research, medical services, public and professional education.

"Preventing birth defects gives everybody the chance to be born healthy. I think everyone should feel the need to get involved," Burgio said.

For details about joining the North Jersey Chapter of the March of Dimes Mothers March, call Carol Heckling at 862-0790.

Parks set event for handicapped

"Park Pleasure—An Innovative Approach to Introducing Handicapped Persons to the Union County Park System," is a special event being planned for June. Funding for the event will be provided by the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs and the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

The county has just learned of the $2,500 state grant, which will be matched with $508 in county funds, according to Debra Judd, planner for the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

"This extravaganza will be an innovative approach to introducing handicapped persons of all ages and disabilities to the recreational opportunities in the county's 25 parks and facilities," Judd said. "Many activities for the handicapped are structured in a manner that allows little participant choice. This program will provide greater flexibility in choosing activities more to the individual's liking."

Tentative plans for the one-day event, to be held at Rahway River Park, Rahway, include a picnic, band music, dancing, swimming, softball, frisbee and natural crafts, with participants picking activities of their choice. Nature walks, tennis courts and other typical ongoing parks department activities may also be explored. The therapeutic value of participating in outdoor activities will be emphasized, Judd added.

The program is another in a continuing effort to reach out to the area's handicapped population and provide meaningful activities for all. The Union County Department of Parks and Recreation won a national award in 1983 for its very successful "Recreation for All" outreach program.

For information, call Judd at 527-4912.

Adult education programs set

One of the largest adult education programs in the world, the Cooperative Extension Service, will be highlighted during Union County Cooperative Extension Week, Jan. 9-13.

A legislative breakfast, Jan. 9 at the County Administration Building in Westfield, will kick off the week's activities. There will also be a demonstration of services at the county's main administration building in Elizabeth Jan. 11 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and a similar demonstration at John E. Runnells Hospital, Berkeley Heights, Jan. 13.

Cooperative Extension, begun in 1914 by Congress, is an informal, out-of-school way for people to improve their knowledge, awareness, skills and competency. Programs are conducted in four areas: home economics, 4-H, youth development, and agriculture and natural resource management. Cooperative Extension exists in all 50 states and U.S. territories.

Citizens may join in the many year-round programs conducted by Cooperative Extension at any time. They are low cost, close to home and often focus on seasonal and holiday topics. For additional information, call 233-9366.

Amendments to the Social Security law adopted this year will result in some changes going into effect with the start of 1984. They are:

- Automatic cost of living increases to 3.5 percent go into effect for all Social Security recipients.
- Social Security benefits will be taxable for taxpayers whose adjusted gross income combined with 50 percent of their benefits exceeds $25,000 for an individual and $32,000 for a married couple filing a joint return.
- Medicare medical insurance premium increases.
- Fifteen percent income tax withholding on benefits sent abroad to non-resident aliens goes into effect.
- Benefits after remarriage to divorced or disabled widows and widowers continue.
- Scheduled increases in Social Security tax rates go into effect. Rates for employers and employees will increase to 7 percent in 1984; 7.05 percent in 1985; 7.15 percent in 1986; 7.31 percent in 1988; and 7.65 percent in 1990. The self-employment tax rate also increases, with tax credits offsetting part of the hike.
- Benefits for disabled widows or widowers under 60 increase.
- Coverage of new federal employees and mandatory coverage of non-profit organization employees goes into effect.

If the Social Security Administration makes an adverse decision on a claim, can it be appealed?

The answer is, yes. The law assures that when a claimant does appeal, the decision must be reviewed and the claimant must have the opportunity to present his or her case to the fullest extent.

Understanding the appeals process, particularly the time limits involved, can mean the difference between the success and failure of the appeal.

Essentially there are four levels of appeal — a reconsideration, a hearing before an administrative law judge, a review of the hearing decision by the Appeals Council, and the federal courts.

To Publicity Chairmen:

Would you like some help in preparing newspaper releases? Write to this newspaper and ask for our Tips on Submitting News Releases.

Anyone turned down at any level has 60 days to appeal to the next, starting with the time the claimant receives the notice in writing. One exception is an adverse decision by the Appeals Council; claimants have 60 days to bring suit in federal court from the day the notice is mailed.

A request for a reconsideration, a hearing, or an Appeals Council review must be in writing and filed with any Social Security office. The claimant may be represented by any qualified person of his or her choice.

A reconsideration is a complete review of the claim by a person other than the one who made the original decision. It includes an examination of all the evidence submitted plus any additional evidence that may be obtained. Those who still disagree with the decision can ask for a hearing before an administrative law judge.

However, those appealing a decision that they are no longer disabled may be affected by a temporary rule enacted in January 1983. They can ask to have disability payments and Medicare coverage continue through the reconsideration and hearing steps, but must request this within 10 days after receiving the notice. Those who lose the appeal may have to repay benefits.

A rule going into effect in January 1984 provides that beneficiaries who are appealing a decision that ended their disability benefits will have an opportunity for a face-to-face evidentiary hearing as part of the reconsideration. This will not affect any other appeal rights.

The administrative law judge is an officer of the Social Security Administration's Office of Hearings and Appeals who had no part in the initial or reconsidered decision. The judge reviews what has gone on in the case, listens to any oral arguments, including new evidence, and asks questions of the claimant and any witnesses. If a claimant does not appear at the hearing, the decision will be based on the evidence submitted.

Anyone who disagrees with the administrative law judge's decision can appeal to the Appeals Council, which will consider the request and decide whether to accept or deny it. If the request for an appeal is granted, the claimant can file a written statement and request an appearance to present oral arguments. For those who believe that the Appeals Council's decision is not correct, the final recourse is a civil suit in a federal court.

The appeals process for supplemental security income (SSI) and Medicare claims differ somewhat from the procedures described here. Informational leaflets are available at Social Security offices.

The Irvington Social Security office is at 686 Nye Avenue; the Union County office, at 342 Westminster Ave., Elizabeth.

IN THE LOCAL AREA

UNION—John Surmay will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Stuyvesant Village Senior Citizens at 10 a.m. today in the F. Edward Bier-tuempfel Senior Center, 2135 Morris Ave., Union.

At 10 a.m. next Thursday, a business meeting will be conducted by Philip Cohen, president.

UNION—The Golden Age Club of Elizabeth has scheduled a board meeting for 10 a.m. Wednesday at the YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union. Fanny Rosenblum will preside. Lunch will be served after the meeting.

Seniors meet at golf course

Sponsored by the Union County Parks Department, the Oak Ridge Senior Citizens Club will commence with an opening meeting scheduled for 10 a.m., Jan. 17, in the golf course clubhouse. The club will be conducted during the golf off-season, Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The first meeting will include a morning meeting and afternoon social, according to Marianne Terry, program coordinator for the parks department. In addition to the golf-oriented lectures and clinics, speakers will be scheduled and snack bar facilities will be available. Terry stressed, however, that the program is geared to all area seniors.

Nursing students display spirit

Giving of ourselves, our time and our spirit, is the ultimate gift during the holiday season, and two Union County College nursing students did just that. Patricia Blatt and Linda Vogel both students in the college's cooperative program in professional nursing, worked hospital shifts on Christmas Eve though many of their fellow nursing students will be on vacation. Mrs. Blatt, the mother of five children, worked at Elizabeth General Medical Center as a part-time coordinator of volunteer activities, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Blatt is enrolled in the EGMCO School of Nursing as part of the joint nursing program conducted by the College and that hospital. Vogel, who is a nursing student at the School of Nursing of Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, served as a nurse's aide at Point Pleasant Hospital on Christmas Eve from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Both women will be working the holiday because they want to. Blatt, who decided to pursue a nursing career after more than 12 years as a homemaker, enjoys working with hospital patients who cannot get home for the holidays. She has discovered rewards by volunteering her time on weekends and holidays.

"We make very effort to provide festivities and decorations within the hospital," Blatt said. "We strive to relate as much normalcy as possible. The families are encouraged to be with their hospitalized relatives at this time too," she added. Student nurses and volunteers are expected and encouraged to take time and listen and converse with patients and their families, particularly at holiday time. Individual staff members sit with the patients and often discuss their feelings about being hospitalized at Christmas. As a result, patients, their families and the volunteers and student nurses can become remarkably close," Blatt noted.

"It is a team approach to help the patient realize that Christmas is not just another day in the hospital," Blatt said. "It is important for the patient and their family to know that hospital personnel do get individually involved in the patient's welfare. The most difficult times are leaving the floor and knowing that some of the patients may not make it, so when I come home after being with seriously ill clients, I give my kids a big hug and count my blessings." Like Blatt, 21-year-old student nurse Vogel, spent part of her holiday with ill patients at Point Pleasant Hospital, where she has worked weekends for the past six years as a nurse's aide. She has worked the last five on Christmas Day. "I always feel better after working on a holiday," Vogel said. "I enjoy giving something to someone who can't be home with their family. I always feel sorriest for those who have no families, though. Usually, the older patients are alone on the holidays. They are ones that the nursing staff and volunteers really look for. Someone will eat lunch or dinner with that person, visit at length, and take special pains by menus, treats and decorations to emphasize that it is a special day," she said. Vogel will complete her studies this spring. She works at Point Pleasant Hospital on weekends and holidays because she desires to, not because she is assigned to do so. After working a holiday hospital shift, though, she too enjoys going home to spend the rest of the day with her family, her parents, a brother and a sister. Echoing the sentiments of Blatt, Vogel said, "The patients and their families know that you care. That in itself is the most rewarding aspect of giving up some of your holiday. It makes it all worth it."

Cancer society pamphlet helps concerned persons understand circumstance

A new free pamphlet, "Finding a Lump in Your Breast," is being distributed by the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division to help concerned persons understand the significance, diagnosis and treatment possibilities for various lumps in the breast. Written in layman's language, the pamphlet notes that nine out of 10 breast lumps are not cancer. Nevertheless, it suggests that whenever a lump occurs or a nipple discharge is noticed, a physician should be consulted and a thorough examination undertaken. Aspiration of fluid with a needle may determine whether the condition is benign. A biopsy taken under local anesthesia followed by laboratory examination provides further confirmation of the condition. If a cancer is found, the pamphlet describes the medical procedures that may be applied. Surgery may range from a radical (complete) mastectomy to a partial or segmental excision. Radiation therapy and/or chemotherapy treatment also may be employed to try to destroy cancer cells that may have spread beyond the breast area. A section of "Coping with Breast Cancer" describes the stresses and psychological reactions that may follow breast surgery. Available in such instances are ACS supportive services, including the Reach to Recovery program, which provides visitations by trained persons who themselves have had a mastectomy. Copies of "Finding a Lump in Your Breast" may be obtained without charge by writing to the local Unit of the American Cancer Society whose address is listed in telephone directory white pages.

Pregnancy course. Overlook Hospital's Parentcraft program will sponsor a three-part pregnancy course on Jan. 11, 18 and 25, from 8 to 10 p.m. This course should be taken early in the pregnancy. Expectant couples will learn how to prepare for the physical and psychological changes pregnancy brings and how to live comfortably with them. The father's role, the Department of Health nutrition and how it relates to the growing fetus will also be discussed. A film about the early stages of pregnancy, fetal growth and development will be shown. Exercises are taught and practiced each evening. The exercises will help the expectant woman adjust to her physical changes during the remainder of the pregnancy. Class size is limited and there is a $30 fee. For additional information, call the Department of Health Education at 522-2963.

Pick Of The LPs, "Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence." Music from the original motion picture soundtrack. Music composed and performed by Ryuichi Sakamoto (MCA Records).

"I would admire you more if you killed yourself," says a Japanese officer to a British P.O.W. The prisoner simply replies that he couldn't possibly commit suicide because "it is the coward's way out."

Such is one of the many diverse philosophies found in "Merry Christmas Mr. Lawrence," a Universal Pictures release starring, among others, David Bowie, where East confronts West in a series of highly-charged emotional situations that bring about strong feelings of closeness and love between friends and enemies that only a war could generate.

The powerful music that was composed specifically for this complex and emotional film comes from one of Japan's most popular and acclaimed musicians, Ryuichi Sakamoto, who also portrays Captain Yonoi in the movie.

Best known outside of Japan for his band Yellow Magic Orchestra which has toured the United States and Europe extensively, Sakamoto is a highly skilled composer who has been working at his craft since the age of 13.

Now 30, Ryuichi Sakamoto has already completed three solo albums and six with Yellow Magic Orchestra, and Y.M.O. has sold in excess of 2 1/2 million albums in Japan alone.

He has also now captured the musical essence of the crosscultural experience that is "Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence" on this MCA Records soundtrack recording.

UCC cites a 'dynamism' for 1984

"There's a sense of dynamism prevailing at Union County College as 1984 approaches and we must use that to resolve issues critical to the future of the College and to provide the necessary services so vital to the community of citizens we serve in Union County."

Calling 1983 "a year of significant progress," acting Union County College president Dr. Leonard T. Kreisman of Westfield, in a year-end statement, looked toward the future, in particular the coming year, with optimistic anticipation as he contemplated the events of the past year and the direction the college will be headed in 1984.

"I sense a dynamism, an urgency, which says that we must keep moving and keep accomplishing in the ongoing consolidation of the Union College and Union County Technical Institute into Union County College," Kreisman said. "This dynamism created by the establishment of the new College must not be allowed to languish."

Noting that "significant progress has been made in welding both former institutions together," the acting Union County College leader emphasized that much still needs to be done.

"We are beginning to operate as a single entity and it is our hope that even more substantial progress can be made along those lines in 1984," Dr. Kreisman noted. "While many of the services and publications of the College are now together, the major task which remains is to make sure that the various constituencies, serving Union County College, recognize their allegiance to the new school, while at the same time continuing to honor what was good and true from their earlier affiliations. The task of bringing all groups together is one on which we set a high priority for this coming year."

A major review of existing and possible new programs, an effort to broaden its offerings to the general community, and developing plans for future computer needs at the College are three other major priority areas to which the official at Union County College will be directing their energies this year, Kreisman said.

"A dedicated effort to broaden our offerings other than instructional activities for the community is a must," Kreisman explained. "To this end, the recently established office of auxiliary academic services at the College has a variety of plans it intends to make operational over the next twelve months, including broadly-based cultural activities and important variations in non-credit instructional activities."

Kreisman noted that the integration of operations on the College's Cranford and Scotch Plains Campuses proceeded at a deliberate, steady pace this past year, including business services, computer services, admissions, student records, registration, public relations, and student services.

In the academic sector, a new academic organization was implemented in 1983 to administer the College's 40 programs of study, replacing an interim academic administrative organization the College had been using since the consolidation.

"This was a major step forward in our effort to integrate the two former institutions into a single new institution, Union County College," Kreisman said. "It should provide us with a structure which will allow faculty from both campuses to become better acquainted with one another. The establishment of faculty ranks for Scotch Plains was also

The College has taken other measures to establish true consolidation, including the integration and expansion of academic and administrative computer services. This included the purchase of a VAX 11/780 microcomputer for academic purposes.

These steps, and many others taken during 1983, were recognized by a Licensure Review Team from the state Department of Higher Education which visited Union County College in June, Dr. Kreisman noted. The team, headed by Dr. Sean A. Fanelli, president of Nassau Community College. In reviewing the progress made at UCC since the 1982 merger, stated that the College "has made remarkable progress" in its efforts to consolidate the two former institutions, Union College and Union County Technical Institute.

"In almost every matter the College has effectively implemented the changes that were necessary to create a comprehensive community college," the Licensure report stated.

"The merger is working. Union County community is now better served by the existence of Union County College," the report continued.

"We've done much to date, but we still must move forward on other fronts," Kreisman explained. "On a sad note, we are still feeling the effects of the death of the man who forged this new college, Dr. Saul Orkin," Kreisman added. Orkin, who had been president of the new college since its creation, and former president of its predecessor institution, Union College, for 7 years, died unexpectedly on Oct. 7.

"The progress made in consolidating all the services at Union County College to date is directly attributable to Dr. Orkin. Without his vision, courage, and sense of when to do what, little or what I've just described would have been accomplished. He is and will be missed," Kreisman said.

But looking toward the future, Kreisman added that a Presidential Search Committee has been established in an effort to find the best and most suitable replacement to serve in guiding Union County College in its new role as a comprehensive community college. The College hopes to find a new leader by the start of the next academic year.

And a Master Plan Committee comprised of faculty, staff and students has been created, with the charge of reviewing the college's philosophy goal and objectives. The Committee will help develop the new College's first master plan, significant achievement which will allow UCC to best fulfill the needs of its constituencies.

"1983 was a successful year for us," Kreisman stated. "But we still have many new areas to explore and develop in order to make this the College the best it can be. Together we must achieve what must be accomplished."

Shut-ins hoping for holiday mail

The New Jersey Branch of the National Shut-In Society, a national organization, has many names of shut-in members and handicapped persons in their membership.

At this holiday season anyone wishing to send cards or small gifts to these shut-ins may write to Mrs. M.B. Hamfeldt, 47 Orange Avenue, Irvington, 07111, for names.

Indicate how many names you desire. The shut-in members greatly appreciate cards or small gifts at this time.

AAMH sets 2 programs

The Association for Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped (AAMH) located in Elizabeth, offers two weekly programs for mentally handicapped adults.

A bowling program is held at Federal Lane every Saturday from 12 to 1 p.m. Mentally handicapped adults get together for an afternoon of bowling and socializing.

On Monday evenings, the AAMH offers a billiard program at Hi-Cu Billiards Lounge from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Participants learn the basics of pool shooting, have tournaments, and occasionally see performances by trick-shot experts.

The AAMH is a non-profit, independent agency working with mentally handicapped adults, helping them to lead full and productive lives in the community.
