Feintuch becomes Springfield's mayor

By VICKI VREELAND
The Springfield Township Committee traditionally marked part of New Year's Day with the swearing in of the township's new mayor. Philip Feintuch, and newly elected Democrat incumbents, Stanley Kaish and William Cieri. The appointments to the various municipal committees for 1984 were also announced.

In a short speech, Feintuch said he was "delighted and pleased" to have been selected the mayor. He stated that Springfield has its share of problems and cited the proposed and unresolved Houdaille Quarry, Amphitheatre, and the town's budget as examples.

Feintuch added that he "pleads and prays" that the two factions in Springfield engaged in arguments over schools "would resolve their differences."

Joanne Tedesco, committeewoman, was elected Deputy Mayor. Tedesco said that the other four men on the township committee have "extended every courtesy" to her. "I know there are times when it probably would have been easier to not have a woman up here, but they never let me know it," she added.

Tedesco continued, "We are five people who have the best interests of Springfield in mind, not two Democrats and three Republicans. At certain times during the year, there may be a little mud-slinging. But when all is said and done, we are a team."

Tedesco was also appointed as a representative of the township committee on the Local Assistance Board and the Board of Health.

William Ruocco, who resumed his seat as a committeeman, said in his closing remarks as mayor, "I thank all those who served in the past year because we had nothing but cooperation."

The township committee operates through five sub-committees. The Department of Finance and Revenue will be made up of Tedesco, chairman, Feintuch and Kaish. The Department of Public Works will include Cieri, chairman, Feintuch and Kaish. Elected to the Department of Public Safety were Feintuch, chairman, who will continue in his role as police commissioner, Ruocco and Cieri. The Department of Administration will consist of Kaish, chairman, Ruocco and Tedesco.

Kaish will serve as the township committee's representative on the Library Board of Trustees and Ruocco will serve as representative to the Planning Board.

Diane Romano, chairman of the Republican Party in Springfield, had also objected to some appointments. Romano had expressed interests to the township committee for a position on the Planning Board, but then withdrew her request.

All of the following persons were appointed to their municipal positions: Jay Kloud, township attorney; Helen Maguire, deputy township clerk; Barbara Thompson, township treasurer; Corinne Eckmann, deputy treasurer; Jeffrey Katz, municipal prosecutor; Matt Ciaffello, building inspector and code enforcement officer; Olga Murmane, court clerk and violations clerk; Jean Keyworth, deputy court clerk and violations clerk; Joseph Rapuano, recreation director; and George Amann, township auditor.

Appointments to the municipal boards include: Agnes Afflitio, Local Assistance Board; Robert Haarsgaard and Ronald Citron, Board of Adjustment; Michael Menza and Donald Halbsgut, alternate members of the Board of Adjustment; Gail Montanari, Doris Sobin and Dr. Richard Luciani, Board of Health; Gerald Yablonsky, Board of Trustees; Seymour Friedberg, to an unexpired term and Greg Druker, to a year-term on the Rent Leveling Board; Fred Bayroff and Angelo Martino, Planning Board; Walter Kozub, as township engineer, to a one-year term on the Planning Board, Feintuch will also serve as a representative.

Appointed to the Environmental Commission for three-year terms were Scott Effrus, Joseph Brasick and Angelo Martino. Martino will serve as representative from the commission to the Planning Board. Appointees to the Board of Review include: Fred Bayroff, Axeglio Pancani, Jr. and Tom Tedesco.

The Ethics Board of Review will consist of Ellen Gabelle, Dolores Nihirney, Frances Zurav, Anthony Arcidiacono, and Sandra Maudling. Industrial-Commercial-Relations Committee members include: Druker, Joseph Farinella, Frank Gilbert, Leonard Waldt, and Joseph Greenblatt.

Appointed to the Recreation Committee were: Edward Ruby, Elizabeth Fritzen, Phyllis Condon, Sandra Maudling, Carl Johnson, Stephen Galtman and Wiber Meierdierck. The Committee on the Aging includes: Ellen Carmichael, Madeline Lancaster, Rebecca Seal, Irma Weinstein, Ruth Cain, Capt. Samuel Calabrese, John McMurray, Joseph Fitzsimmons, Dr. Henry Birne and Fire Chief Ronald Johnson.

Bernard Schwartz and Harry Kolb III were appointed as regular members of the Union County Committee on Revenue Sharing. Greenblatt was appointed as an alternate and Feintuch will serve as representative from the township committee.

Egeln was appointed to the Union County Committee on Transportation.

Walter Kozub was appointed Administrative Action Officer. John Collage, director, and Scott Siedel, deputy director, were re-appointed to their positions in the Springfield Office of Emergency Management.

Madeline Lancaster was appointed a member of the Union County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

Janice Montana was appointed attorney for the Rent Leveling Board and Helen Macguire was appointed secretary.

Florence Effrus was appointed local access representative to the Office of Cable TV. Arthur Dauser and Harold Laebeskind will serve as members of the Assessment Commission.

Ellen Bloom was appointed as Local Consumer Affairs Officer. Rebecca Seal was appointed senior citizen coordinator and Joseph Rapuano was appointed the senior citizen bus coordinator.

The appointments of the Advisory Committee on Human Rights include: Rev. Clarence Alston, Rabbi Israel Turner, Rabbi Josh Goldstein, Rev. Joel Yoss, Rev. John Golden, Rev. Jeffrey Curtis, Rev. Raymond Waldren, Rabbi Reuben Levine and Rev. George Schlessinger.

Ira Geller was appointed to his second term as Springfield's official "Town Crier."

Feintuch announced appointments to the Springfield Youth Council will be made in the near future. Feintuch said that the group had been "dormant" for the past year and that he intends to restructure it soon. The mayor also mentioned a Drug Council would be established.

Appointments of the Reserve and Special Police Officers and School Guards will be printed in next week's paper.

The Springfield Leader was again selected to be the official town newspaper.

Kelleys win 'first baby'

It didn't take long to find a winner in the Springfield Leader first baby contest.

Springfield's first baby of the new year was born to Joseph and Judy Kelley of Morris Avenue at 12:07 a.m. on Jan. 2 in Saint Barnabas Hospital, Livingston. The 'Kelley's first child, Michael Joseph, weighed in at 7 lbs. 6 oz. and measured 20 inches long.

Unusual for a first baby, little Michael was only a day later from his due date. The Kelleys, who have lived in Springfield for six years, said the event was "really exciting and a nice experience."

Mrs. Kelley, the former Judy Coraggio of Maplewood, said she is "a little tired, but feeling pretty good." She is employed by Eastern Airlines, but is taking some time off to spend with the baby.

Her husband, Joseph, is an attorney for the state. Participating merchants and the prizes that the Kelleys will receive are the following:

Community Plumbing, $10 gift certificate; Walk Well Shoes, baby's first pair of shoes; The Red Balloon, decorated baby basket; Carvel of Springfield, ice cream cake; Berkeley Federal Savings and Loan, $25 savings account; Buncher's Hardware, $15 gift certificate; Images West-Precision Haircutters, $10 gift certificate; Springfield Florist, baby's first live plant; Millburn Auto Spa, simonize family car; Campus Sub Shop II, sandwich platter; Howard Savings Bank, $25 savings account; Something Fishy, two lobsters; Appliance Repair Service, $10 gift certificate.

Suspension policy changed by board

By VICKI VREELAND
The Union County Regional Board of Education District I adopted a change in board policy regarding student suspensions at its regular meeting Tuesday night at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark.

The policy applies to students who are required to attend Saturday or Sunday school to make up for class time missed due to being suspended from school. Students in this category are those who demonstrate severe behavioral problems in school such as disruption of classes, truancy, leaving the school grounds without permission, smoking, and excessive tardiness.

The revised policy states that if a student expected to attend weekend school fails to appear, unless excused by the principal, the student will be considered truant and will receive a three-day suspension from school to be charged against the number of allowable absences in accordance with the attendance policy.

Saturday or Sunday school was designed to provide instructional assistance at the same time that disciplinary action is being taken. The students are required to bring their school books with assignments. If they do not, the teacher on duty is expected to assign work.

Susan Frederick of Ford's, a graduate of Moravian College, has been hired to replace Neil Farrel, a parttime vocal music teacher at Johnson Regional who resigned for personal reasons.

Five students from each of the regional school's newspaper staffs and their advisors will meet members of the regional board of education Friday afternoon for a press conference. The conference is an annual event that provides the students with an open forum to interview board members. About five board members are expected to attend.

Two regional high school principals received approval to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Secondary School Principals to be held in Las Vegas from Feb. 3-7. Joseph Mall, principal of David Brearley High School and Louis DeRosa, principal of Arthur L. Johnson, will attend the conference. The board of education recommends that each principal in the regional schools attend a national conference every two years.

The board granted approval on a request from the N.J. State Department of Education to implant underground rods for an "earth anchor wall" on the grounds of Governor Livingston Regional High School. Franz Skok, board attorney, advised the body that the state plans to construct a concrete wall along the slope of the girls' hockey field. Skok explained the rods would be undetectable.

The following were formally appointed coaches of spring season athletic teams at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School: Stan Wnek, head baseball coach; William Kinder and Richard Inconni, assistant baseball coaches; David Cowden, head boys tennis coach; William Jones, head girls track coach; Christine Comerci and Joseph Policare, assistant girls track coaches; William Byrne, head boys track coach; Robert Kozub and Anthony Policare, assistant boys track coaches; Howard Cushman, head softball coach; Robert Glasman, assistant softball coach; Steve Fenton, volleyball coach; and Raymond Vaschus, golf coach.

Mall fizzles, school sale highlight events in 1983

The following is a look at the past year's events in Springfield.

JANUARY
The Springfield Township Committee began its 1983 governing rule with Republican Township Committeeman William Ruocco serving his second term as mayor. Ruocco was joined by Democrats William Cieri and Stanley Kaish and newly elected Republicans Philip Feintuch and Joanne Tedesco. In an unanimous decision, the Planning Board denied a proposed zoning change requested by Bambergers and Alexanders to construct a shopping mall on Route 22 and South Springfield Avenue.

The state Department of Transportation continued discussion of plans for the completion of the missing five-mile link in Route 78.

FEBRUARY
The township committee and the Springfield Board of Education met for preliminary talks concerning the sale of the Raymond Chisolm School to the township. The board of education also discussed a proposal made by the Union County sheriff's office for fingerprinting school children for identification purposes. The actual fingerprinting will be done this February.

Residents dug themselves out from under two feet of snow that caught the area by surprise and was later termed, "The Blizzard of '83." Eight members of the road department worked for 32 hours straight trying to make local streets accessible.

Democrat Committeeman William Cieri and Stanley Kaish charged Mayor Ruocco for excluding them from a special meeting with a subcommittee from the Springfield Board of Education. Ruocco and Councilman Philip Feintuch represented the committee in a discussion on the fate of the Walton School, although Cieri and Kaish claimed they requested to be there and were thrown out when they showed up anyway.

MARCH
General Growth Cooperation, Iowa, filed an appeal to overturn the Planning Board's unanimous decision to reject their proposal of an 87-story Bambergers/Alexander's shopping mall. John Westerfield, Myrna Wasserman and Sandra Pitts announced they were candidates for the Springfield Board of Education election in April, while the CAUSE and CARE groups announced their endorsements. CARE candidates endorsed were Dolores Johnson, Madeline Zamarrra, Ken Faigenbaum and Stuart Applebaum. CAUSE members endorsed Pietro Delino, Joseph Pepe, Peter DeTone and Elaine Auer.

The Union County Regional Board of Education announced this four candidates to run in the April election for the three, three-year term regional seats. Three incumbents sought reelection: Harold Dowd, Margaret Hough, and Virginia Muskus. James E. Kehoe of Clark also ran for election. The Springfield Board of Education approved a $4,777,183 school budget for 1983-84.

APRIL
General Growth Co. Iowa, withdrew its appeal for construction of the Bambergers/Alexander's shopping mall. Jay Kloud, township attorney, stated at a special township committee meeting that, "the matter is finished."

The three incumbent regional board of education members were re-elected to their seats. In the local board of education election, Ken Faigenbaum, Stuart Applebaum, Joseph Pepe, and Philip Felino were the four victors in what turned out to be an 11-person election.

The Springfield Township Committee passed an ordinance to authorize a 2.5 per cent cap relief increase for the 1983 budget.

The Regional Board of Education unanimously re-elected Stephen Marcink as its president and Joseph Vaughn as vice president. Seymour Margulites resigned as attorney for the Springfield Board of Education.

Tenants associates approached the township committee to request that tax surcharges be abolished.

MAY
Republican and Democratic township committee candidates were announced for the June primary. Democrats Stanley Kaish and William Cieri filed for their third consecutive term and newcomers Ronald Citron and Gregory Druker filed on the Republican ticket for the two open seats.

Protesting parents carried signs demonstrating against the proposed redistricting plan for children after the closure of the Walton School.

The township committee requested the Union County Board of Freeholders to limit the use of the Houdaille Quarry as a firing range strictly for law enforcement officers.

A special meeting of the Springfield Board of Education was held to hear a 16-page report from Superintendent Dr. Fred Baruchin on redistricting. Baruchin's plan included a plea for "constancy" in the children's lives.

JUNE
Ronald Johnson, a lifelong resident of Springfield, was promoted to fire chief. Local merchants approach the township committee to request parking restrictions on Morris Avenue be withdrawn.

The Springfield Board of Education voted June 6, 1983 in a 5-4 decision, to close and sell the Walton School over the protests of over 300 residents. Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent, stated, "My experience tells me that it will take 10 to 20 years to undo the type of thing that is developing in this community."

The board also approved the appointment of Paul Giblin from the firm of Giblin and Giblin, Hackensack, to board counsel.

Democrat and Republican township committee candidates won their seats, unopposed, for the general election in November.

The township committee approved in a 5-3 vote, an amendment to the rent control ordinance.

tax surcharges to the 1972 base. An injunction, filed by East Coast Condo Tech, Inc., was issued by the Superior Court a week later to block the township committee's approval of the tax surcharge rollback. Ruocco, Feintuch, and Tedesco were named in litigation brought by East Coast Condo Tech, Inc.

The township committee also voted 5-3. (Feintuch voted no and Tedesco abstained) to hire an out-of-town resident for a position on the paid Springfield fire department over the applications of 16 Springfield residents. That move resulted in a 14-1 suit, currently pending, by six volunteer firemen who had applied for a paid position.

Protests began by Baltusrol Way residents over the Greenbriar Service Corporation's proposal of a five-story multiple-residential building to be constructed at Wilson and Shunpike Roads.

JULY
Members of the CARE organization filed a petition with the State Department of Education to issue a "stay" against any actions by the Springfield Board of Education regarding the sale of the Walton School or the redistricting plan.

The township committee formally adopted an ordinance to require the placement of house numbers on all building fronts.

AUGUST
The Greenbriar Service Corp. withdrew its application for rezoning from the Springfield Planning Board in order for them to construct a five-story multiple residential building. Greenbriar's application is currently being heard by the Board of Adjustment.

The township committee adopted a $72,000 bond ordinance for the purchase of a new police radio and communication system.

SEPTEMBER
Governor Thomas Kean visited Jonathan Dayton High School, Springfield, for one of his "town" meetings.

Township committee members, with the exception of Joanne Tedesco, publicly spoke out against the board of education's decision to sell Walton School.

OCTOBER
The Springfield Board of Education accepted a lone bid from Green Springs Estates in the amount of $1,055,000 for the sale of the Walton School and its property.

Joseph Solt, math coordinator for the regional school district, retired after 42 years of service to the educational profession.

The township committee rescinded an ordinance that had created the position of an administrative assistant for the police chief, thereby abolishing the position. The governing body also became involved in the local board of education's controversial sale of the Walton School when they filed a verified complaint against the board to declare the contract for the sale of the Walton School void.

Press barons no longer dominate newspapers

SPRINGFIELD—Following are reviews of popular books at the Springfield Library.

UC Orkin Fund is rising fast

SPRINGFIELD—Nearly $6,000 has been contributed to the "Saul Orkin Memorial Scholarship Fund" in honor of the late Union County College president who died on Oct. 7.

Orkin was serving as the first president of Union County College when he died. He served as president of UCC's predecessor institution, Union College, for seven years.

His proudest achievement, however, was the guidance he offered in the consolidation process which saw Union College and Union County Technical Institute in Scotch Plains merge in 1982 to become Union County College.

Contributions can be sent to the "Saul Orkin Memorial Scholarship Fund" in care of Mrs. Matyas, Office of Public Affairs, Union County College 1033 Springfield Avenue, Cranford, 07016.

them and so much to write about, that it was necessary to restrict the number discussed here. The influence of the New World publishers on the Old, and the significance of their contributions to newspaper history, determined the choices made.

Among the records are: James Gorton, Bennett, Horace Greeley, Joseph Pulitzer, Eleanor M. Patterson (Americans), Thomas Barnes, Lord Burgham, Lord Northcliffe, Cecil King (British).

There are vitriolic exchanges between rival barons competing for readers' intimate details of the disolute life of James Gordon Bennett (1801-1818) of the New York Herald.

The stories of these "barons" are truly amazing, often astonishing. One of the most spectacular (contemporary) has been that of Robert Murdoch.

Thirty years ago he was part owner of the Adelaide News in Australia. Today he rules over a fabulous conglomerate international with newspapers in Australia, England, the U.S.A., Mexico, Brazil, Boston Herald, interests in magazines, books, films, records, an airline, mining, nuclear gas, etc.

Before 1959 (Russia's first successful Luna Services) and 1964 (our Ranger missions to the moon), marking knew a good deal about only one body in the solar system—the Earth.

The latter was reached by our Voyager in 1960, and by Voyager II in 1981. Cooper, staff writer for the New Yorker, left for Pasadena, home of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) to report on NASA's most recent explorations in space.

He recounts the activities at the spacecraft center. There were conferences of scientists (125 of them) split up into teams, reports from the three signal-receiving stations on Earth, press conferences, the nomenclature team, and in particular, the imaging team (which worked on the pictures of Saturn) and how it worked. It found rings, moons, molets, craters, and best of all Titan—the largest moon of them all.

There were discussions about the spectra, discoveries, disputes, speculations, some questions solved, new ones coming up, some theories revised. The result of Voyager II (from that of its predecessor) one reason being that it carried more efficient cameras, which sent back more distinct colors and patterns, and which were not without technical problems.

There were also discussions about the "The E.L. Bean Game and Fishing Cookbook" by Angus Cameron and Judith Jones. For the average suburban dweller, this unusual collection may not fulfill her/his needs, but it is an extremely informative book for those curious about hunting, fishing, and camping.

The author and his wife of the famous L.L. Bean Company, which has for years, outfitted people who love the outdoors, have provided recipes for every animal, bird, or fish.

The authors borrow from the French, English, Italian, and other Europeans, as a change from the customary American style. The last part of the book contains instructions for gameburgers, patties, cakes, and stuffing which may fit into any cuisine.

The New Jersey State Safety Council recently presented its Distinguished Service Award to New Jersey Bell for its efforts in the National Safety Council's "Make It Click—Buckle Up" campaign to encourage motorists use of seat belts.

New Jersey Bell collected 8,444 pledges from employees who promised to wear their safety belts and encourage others to do the same—more pledges than any other participant in the nationwide campaign. The campaign ran from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

New Jersey Bell, which has about 28,600 employees, operates nearly 8,000 vehicles—the largest private fleet in the state. The company insists that employees wear safety belts while driving company vehicles.

For the first 10 months of this year there were 10 persons fewer injuries to New Jersey Bell employees from motor vehicle accidents than in the same period last year. "We also had a 40 percent reduction in the number of work days lost as a result of those injuries," said Alan Goetz, the company's district staff manager for safety.

New Jersey Bell conducts annual defensive driving reviews for employees and annual safe driving award meetings. It has logged approximately 800 million miles on its vehicles since the last time an employee was killed in an accident in 1971, according to Goetz.

Last year, almost 11,000 New Jersey Bell employees received awards for accident-free driving for periods of from one to 49 years. Goetz said. This year, he added, over 170 employees will receive safe driving awards for driving for 30 years or more each without an accident.

Heavy surcharges are awaiting drivers without any insurance

SPRINGFIELD—Motorists who refuse to take a breathalyzer test or who are caught driving while suspended or without insurance will be subject to heavy surcharges under new regulations proposed by the Department of Insurance and the Division of Motor Vehicles.

The new surcharges will be in addition to those already mandated for motor vehicle point violations and drunk driving convictions under the New Jersey Automobile Insurance Reform Act of 1982 and will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1983, when the Reform Act took effect, said Joseph Murphy, commissioner of the N.J. Department of Insurance.

The new surcharges are expected to generate approximately $23 million a year in additional revenue to help underwrite the operation of the Joint Underwriting Association, which began underwriting for the old assigned risk plan on New Year's Day.

The motor vehicle point and drunk driving surcharges already scheduled for collection in 1983 will generate from $31 to $42 million a year.

Stutter class now available

SPRINGFIELD—The stuttering correction program that made a public speaker out of Annie Glenn, wife of John Glenn, astronaut, Senator and Presidential aspirant, is available at Kean College.

Mrs. Glenn has credited the Precision Fluency Shaping Program for helping her overcome stuttering which severely handicapped her for many years. Now residents of New Jersey in the area of Kean College can avail themselves of the same treatment.

Dr. Joyce C. Heller, professor of special education and hearing-impaired services, and Audrey T. Shulman an adjunct professor, are directors of the Kean program, which was developed at Hollins College (Va.).

Heller and Shulman reported that during a convention of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, Mrs. Glenn was cited for her courageous fight against stuttering and made an emotional staffer free acceptance speech.

'Blind' group holds meeting at Baltusrol

SPRINGFIELD—The National Society to Prevent Blindness recently held its 5th annual meeting at the Baltusrol Golf Course in Springfield. This year the society celebrated its 75th nationwide anniversary.

To illustrate the work of Prevent Blindness, special recognition was given at the meeting to three New Jersey persons who have had their sight saved through the Society's young eyes, adult eyes and eye safety programs. Sandee Fote, age 5, who was named "Child of the Year" was first discovered to have a "lazy eye," a common problem in the preschool age group. It can lead to blindness or loss of vision in the affected eye if not detected before age 6.

Also recognized was Dorothy Rapaglia, 61, of Bensenville, who discovered she had symptoms of glaucoma at a society-sponsored eye-screening program.

The National Society to Prevent Blindness, established in 1909, is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through community service programs, public and professional education and research.

Police kept busy over the holidays

SPRINGFIELD—The report two suspicious men in the store. When the no holiday to police who patrol car arrived, the two men fled. One was arrested and receiving stolen property. The other man, William A. Newark, was arrested in the early morning hours following New Year's Eve at the Spring Garden Inn, Route 22 and charged with receiving stolen property.

Bill sponsored by Bassano calls for labeling of heaters

UNION—The Assembly has given final legislative approval to a bill sponsored by state Senator C. Louis Bassano (R-21st District) requiring all kerosene heaters sold in New Jersey to carry a label listing the safety precautions that should be taken in operating them.

Patrolmen Rodney Pederson and Ronald Saseilo apprehended a suspect in the early morning hours following New Year's Eve at the Spring Garden Inn, Route 22 and charged with receiving stolen property.

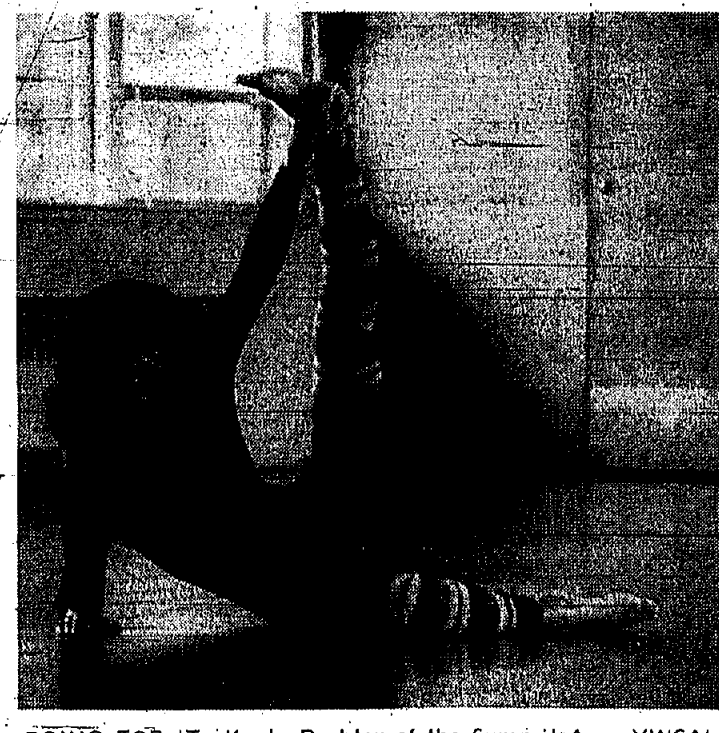

A Somerville man was charged with driving while intoxicated about 4 a.m. New Year's Day. William King, 29, was arrested on Route 22 West.

"Because of rising fuel costs, thousands of households in New Jersey have been using kerosene heaters to cut back on expenses. My bill will ensure that consumers are aware of the safe way to operate these heaters. The label would inform users of the proper procedures for refueling, lighting and extinguishing the heaters, as well as the need to place the unit in a well-ventilated room," said Bassano.

Bassano's bill would also require that all kerosene heaters sold in New Jersey meet the following standards: be tested and certified as safe by a nationally recognized testing or inspection agency; provide operating instructions; be constructed to prevent tipovers; be equipped with an automatic shut-off device, and operate without producing a hazardous amount of carbon monoxide.

In addition, Bassano's bill would require retailers to inform customers that portable kerosene heaters are prohibited in apartments and that some municipalities have an outright ban on the use of these heaters.

"My bill would ensure that New Jersey residents purchase kerosene heaters that have been tested and proven safe when operated properly," Bassano said.

Weiss offers his teacher certification plan

UNION—Dr. Nathan Weiss, president of Kean College, recently offered the State Board of Education an alternative to the "Cooperman Plan" for an alternate route to teacher certification.

The plan received the approval of the Kean College School of Education faculty by a nearly unanimous vote and also has a general consensus of support from the rest of the college faculty.

Concurring with Dr. Saul Cooperman, New Jersey Commissioner of Education, that an abbreviated route to certification may be needed in areas of teaching shortages, Weiss said, "The Kean College community would like to suggest a possible alternative route."

"Limiting the application of the plan to areas of teacher shortage, Weiss suggested prospective teachers holding contracts for the coming school year complete a six-week summer institute sponsored jointly by the school district and the local college.

Instruction teams of college faculty and district teachers and administrators would train the prospective teachers in areas similar to those suggested by Ernest L. Boyer in his book, "High School: A Report on Secondary Education in America."

Intensive core courses listed by Boyer cover the following areas: Schooling in America; Learning Theory and Research; Teaching of Writing and Use of Technology.

"What we are proposing is a core quite similar, and it consists," Weiss said, "of the following topic areas: Research on Learning; Teacher, School and Society; Teaching Strategies and the Use of Technology; Educational Measurement and Testing; Adolescent or Child Psychology; and Reading and Writing Instruction."

"The same instruction teams would supervise the new teachers' internships and hold weekly seminars during the first semester and monthly seminars during the second semester.

"We urge you," Weiss said, "to consider carefully the significance and probable consequences of the steps you will take to improve education in New Jersey.

"We will work closely with you in promoting gains in these areas. We hope to place the emphasis on constructive change and well thought out alternatives to the present system of certification. The students in our schools and colleges require no less than the best we can provide."

"The Kean College Alternative," Weiss suggested, would continue emphasis on higher standards as approved in February 1982 by the State Board of Higher Education.

"The new state standards," Weiss said, "provide several checkpoints which monitor student progress in both academic ability and teaching ability and constant monitoring of student progress."

"The plan we propose does not solve all the problems in education," rather, Weiss said, "it is a step to solve one of several problems. As Boyer points out, 'the continuing education of the teacher must be strengthened... We endorse and intend to implement Boyer's suggestion that teacher training institutions adopt a school in order to form an alliance and make a concerted effort with teachers and education service professionals.'

"We believe it to be extremely important to New Jersey that men and women entering teacher education programs be of the highest caliber. As John F. Kennedy said in his message to Congress on Feb. 20, 1961, 'Our progress as a nation can be no swifter than our progress in education, the human mind is our fundamental resource.'"

Seek interpreters to work with deaf

The New Jersey Division of the Deaf is in need of qualified sign language interpreters to work on a fee-for-service basis, according to Commissioner Roger A. Bodman of the New Jersey Department of Labor.

Bodman said the search for additional interpreters results from a recent increase in recent months for interpreter services, primarily in southern New Jersey.

The Division's Interpreter Referral Service coordinates requests for interpreters, and is also active in informing agencies and organizations of the rights of hearing impaired persons under Section 504 of the state Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

Individuals who have professional sign language skills and are interested in working as vendor interpreters are urged to write Susan Gallesio, coordinator of the Interpreter Referral Service at the New Jersey Department of Labor, Division of the Deaf, Labor and Industry Building, Trenton, 08625 or call 800-792-8339, toll-free.

Lautenberg to speak at Alper Civic dinner

SPRINGFIELD—U.S. Senator Frank Lautenberg will join state and local leaders as the keynote speaker at an annual dinner sponsored by the Alper Civic Association, which will be held Feb. 6 at 7 p.m. at the Springfield Holiday Inn, Rt. 22 West Springfield.

The dinner/dance, which is held each year to raise funds for the association's community activities is, according to its president, Frank Florio, a good opportunity for the public to meet and speak with New Jersey's newest senator.

"We're very excited about having Senator Lautenberg with us," Florio said. "We're sure he'll have some interesting news to report from Washington, and I know he's looking forward to meeting his constituents."

Tickets for the dinner/dance are priced at $30 per person, and may be obtained by calling 467-0486 or by writing the Alper Civic Association at P.O. Box 675, Springfield, N.J. 07081.

Fink installed as bar prexy

Stanley A. Fink was recently installed as president of the Union County Bar Association at the 81st Annual Installation Dinner at the P.O. Fink is a partner in the law firm of Fink & Rosner of Clark. Other officers elected Raymond S. Londa of Elizabeth; Vice President William R. Holzapfel of Cranford; Secretary Miriam N. Span of Westfield; Treasurer Edwin J. McCreehy of Elizabeth and Parliamentarian John Pisansky of Linden.

Members of the Board of Trustees re-elected to three year terms were Lawrence Barisone, Roselle, Michael Blacker of Scotch Plains, and Douglas W. Hansen of Scotch Plains. Barbara Byrd Wecker of Westfield was elected to a one year unexpired term as Trustee.

A graduate of Linden High School, Fink received his B.A. from Marietta College (Ohio) and his law degree from Washington & Lee University Law School (VA.). He and his wife, Fay, and three children live in Clark and have been active in many local organizations.

Fink is past president of the Clark Jaycees, past legal counsel for New Jersey State Jaycees and past president of Temple Beth Or.

Some of Fink's legal associations include past president of the Board of Trustees for the Union County Legal Services Division of Corp., seven year member of the Board of Trustees of the Union County Bar Association, a past president of the Linden Bar Association and a member of the Committee on Law Office Economics and Administration of the New Jersey State Bar Association. Among numerous awards received, Fink received the Outstanding Young Man of America award and was named in the 1980 edition of Who's Who in American Jewry.

Other dignitaries participating in the evening's program included Vincent Appuzzese, president of the New Jersey State Bar Association and Hon. Edward W. Beglin, Jr., Judge of the Union County. The toastmaster was Raymond Londa of Elizabeth. Fink received his B.A. from Marietta College (Ohio) and his law degree from Washington & Lee University Law School (VA.). He and his wife, Fay, and three children live in Clark and have been active in many local organizations.

Boright is probing 2 Kenilworth 'problems'

KENILWORTH—Union County Preholder Walter E. Boright of Kenilworth has announced that he has requested reports concerning two problems recently brought to his attention that are confronting the borough.

One problem deals with severe flooding conditions that developed on the Kenilworth Boulevard at South 31st Street during the rains of the week of Dec. 19. In a letter to the Kenilworth Mayor Livio Mancino and Council, Boright stated that the flooding condition is undesirable and unacceptable.

"Preliminary information indicates that major construction work must be done (by the county) if this problem is to be properly resolved. There is no simple solution, and at present, would appear that a substantial expenditure of funds will be required to do this work properly. Some complications and considerations exist including the fact that it appears that graves in the Beth David Cemetery are situated somewhat over the existing, antiquated drainage system, as well as the fact that Volvo Company has an oil interceptor in the vicinity.

Boright continued, "I will press for a professional study that will allow for the design of an adequate drainage system that will work and provide the necessary relief once it is constructed and implemented." He concluded that he "will not endorse a patchwork remedy."

On a second matter he has called upon the county administrative staff to take additional positive action to bring about a sorely needed advance left turn green arrow at the traffic light in front of the Schering-Plough property at the intersection of Galloping Hill Road and Washington Avenue near the Five Points area.

Boright noted, "A study just completed by Union County Traffic

Raichle, Devlin at 50th

SPRINGFIELD—Dr. Donald R. Raichle of Springfield, author of "New Jersey's Union College," a history of the Cranford-based two-year institution, was honored at a 50th anniversary reception on Thursday, Jan. 19, as part of the College's 50th Anniversary Celebration.

The reception is to be hosted by the College's Board of Trustees and Board of Governors. It was announced by Mrs. Linda S. Leifer, executive director of the College's year-long celebration. The reception will be held in the Union County Room of the Mackay Library on the Cranford Campus at 4 p.m.

Leifer said all members of the community who wish to meet Raichle and Devlin are invited to attend the reception.

"Many of our friends and benefactors have indicated an interest in meeting the author and the illustrator of our history, so we have scheduled this Golden Jubilee Reception to give them that opportunity and also to express our appreciation to Dr. Raichle and Mr. Devlin for their efforts on behalf of our College," Leifer said.

Raichle and Devlin will be introduced by Dr. Leonard T. Kreamer of Westfield, president. They will speak briefly on how the book was researched, written and illustrated and will be available to greet guests and to autograph copies of the book.

"New Jersey's Union College," a history of the Cranford-based two-year institution, was founded on Oct. 16, 1833 as a federally-funded junior college, and was published by Fairleigh Dickinson University Press. The 256-page book was published to coincide with the College's year-long 50th Anniversary Celebration, which opened in October. The book was published by Fairleigh Dickinson University Press in conjunction with Associated University Presses, London and Toronto.

The writing of "New Jersey's Union College" was commissioned by Union County College under a grant from the Union College Foundation.

The history traces Union County College's development from its origin as a public institution, to a private institution, to a semi-public and presently to a public institution again. The College was founded with Emergency Relief Funds to provide employment for out-of-work professors and higher education for recent high school graduates who could not afford to go to college.

When the federal funds ran out in 1938, the College reorganized as an independent institution under the jurisdiction of a Board of Trustees comprised of community leaders and local educators.

The College remained independent until 1969 when it began providing public higher education services under contract with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education. On Aug. 17, 1982, Union College and Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, merged to become Union County College, the County's public community college.

In its 50-year history, the College has had four homes: Abraham Clark High School, Roselle, where evening classes were offered from 1932 to 1942; a home on East Third Street in Roselle for four classes in 1941; the old Grant School, Springfield Avenue and Holly Street, Cranford, from 1942 to 1959 and the present 48-acre campus off Springfield Avenue, Cranford, opposite Nomahegan Park, along with the 40-acre campus in Scotch Plains which is shared with the Union County Vocational Center. In addition, the College operates an Urban Education Center at 10 Butler Street, Elizabeth, which houses the Institute for Intensive English, a program of English for speakers of other languages, and the Employment Skills Center.

Raichle, a resident of Springfield, has been associated with Kean College since 1951 as a professor of history. In 1980, Raichle wrote a history of Kean College entitled "From a Normal Beginning: The Origins of Kean College" to coincide with that institution's 125th anniversary.

Raichle holds a bachelor of arts degree from the College of the City of New York (now City University), as well as a master of arts and a doctoral degree from Columbia University, N.Y. He served as assistant to the New Jersey Chancellor for Higher Education from 1967 to 1969.

Raichle is a member of the American Historical Association, The Organization of American Historians, and the Society for the History of the Early American Republic.

Devlin, a well-known freelance artist, provided 28 illustrations for the book.

"My sketches are line and wash illustrations and include a mixture of portraits of notable UCC personalities, several buildings and humorous scenes through the 50 years of its existence," Devlin said.

Devlin served on Union County College's former Board of Fellows and on several advisory committees in his long association with the College.

Even before he was appointed as an art lecturer in 1967 at the then Union County College, he had in the words of Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, president of UCC from 1947 to 1969, "Assisted the College in cultural matters for many years, and has long been a friend and supporter of the College."

Though no longer on the UCC staff, Devlin's long-time association with the College and his unique and personal expertise on New Jersey architecture and historical matters, made him an ideal candidate to illustrate the "New Jersey's Union College" anniversary edition. The illustrations in the UCC book are aimed to portray the wide spectrum of moods and educational changes that reflect the multitudinous activities that have occurred at UCC since 1833.

Property group re-elects Daitch

SPRINGFIELD—The Vesuvius Restaurant Property Owners in Newark, N.J., Association, based in Newark, recently re-elected President Stanley Daitch, of Scotch Plains, and appointed 10 other officers for 1984.

Among the appointees were: Township residents Ira Skolnick, vice president; Belle Teltser, assistant treasurer; Frank Burslein and Milton Teltser, who will serve as board members on the board of governors.

The officers were elected at the Property Owners annual dinner at Morris Avenue, Union.

Daitch said that the 1984 Management Guide, "designed to help the small business person manage property," will be distributed to all paid members at the next regular membership meeting on Jan. 15 at the Coachman Inn, Cranford.

For further information, contact the Property Owners Association of New Jersey, call 864-5010 during business hours.

Hill takes command at juvenile bureau

Philip Joseph Hill, 37, Youth Services for the recently took over as Union County Department of Human Resources Superintendent of the Bureau of Juvenile Quarters.

A graduate of Allen University in South Carolina with a B.A. in sociology, Hill also has a degree from the Rutgers University Summer School of Alcohol Studies and another in training from the University of Texas.

Prior to joining Union County Government, Hill was employed as Director of the Stuyvesant Day Probation Program for the N.J. Department of Corrections. He has also worked for the Administrative Office of the County and the Middlesex County Probation Department.

According to Joseph Salemme, director of the County's efforts in Juvenile Justice will be enhanced," said John Dudley-Smith, Director, Department of Human Resources. "His years of experience in dealing with troubled youth and understanding their problems will be an asset to the program."

He added that Mr. Hill's appointment will complement the existing staff and program. Hill replaces Robert Dixon, who retired in November 1983 after 13 years with the Union County.

Weiss offers his teacher certification plan

UNION—Dr. Nathan Weiss, president of Kean College, recently offered the State Board of Education an alternative to the "Occupation Plan" for an alternate route to teacher certification.

The plan received the approval of the Kean College School of Education faculty by a nearly unanimous vote and also has a general consensus of support from the rest of the college faculty.

Consistent with Dr. Saul Cooperman, New Jersey Commissioner of Education, that an abbreviated route to certification may be needed in areas of teaching shortages, Weiss said. "The Kean College community would like to suggest a possible alternative route."

Limiting the application of the plan to recent increase in months for suggested prospective teachers holding contracts for the coming school year complete a six-week summer institute sponsored jointly by the school district and the local college.

Seek interpreters to work with deaf

The New Jersey Division of the Deaf is in need of qualified sign language interpreters to work on a free-lance basis, according to Commissioner Roger A. Bodman of the New Jersey Department of Labor.

Bodman said the search for additional interpreters results from a recent meeting of the president of the National Association of the Deaf, which is active in informing agencies and organizations of the rights of hearing impaired persons under Section 504 of the state Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

Individuals who have professional sign language skills and are interested in working as interpreter are urged to write Susan Galasso, coordinator of the Interpreter Referral Service, at the New Jersey Department of Labor, Division of the Deaf, Labor and Industry Building, Trenton, 08625 or call 800-792-8339, toll-free.

Dayton cagers impress in Christmas tournament

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School boys basketball team looked impressive as it went 3-1 in three games in one of the larger holiday tournaments of its kind in New Jersey.

In the first game last week of the Morris Knolls-Morris Hills Christmas Tournament in Denville, Dayton trimmed host KNOLL 64-55. Mike Graziano marked the Bulldogs with 20 points, including 12 free throws.

Chris Knierim and Glenn Becker contributed 14 points apiece, while Mitchell had 11 points, including nine from the charity stripe. Dayton converted 20 of 30 free throw attempts in defeating the Golden Eagles. The Bulldogs led by as many as 17 points with 3:25 left in the game.

Dayton bowed in its second game, however, falling to Morris Hills, 65-61. Dayton opened up a 32-17 halftime lead, and then held off a Morris Hills comeback to record the victory. The Scarlet Knights trimmed the margin to a 10-10 tie at the end of the third quarter.

Dayton's Mike Graziano added 15 points and Mike Neuser had 11 points. In the consolation game, Dayton won 41-22 over the host Kenilworth. Dayton's Mike Graziano added 15 points and Mike Neuser had 11 points. In the consolation game, Dayton won 41-22 over the host Kenilworth.

Csirmaz labels appearance 'anti-climactic'

Peter Csirmaz, a striker on the Rutgers soccer team this past season, described his appearance recently in the 1984 annual Senior Bowl Soccer Classic as "anti-climactic."

"The prestigious Classic is a showcase of American collegiate soccer talent and features the 16 most outstanding seniors from the East against western opposition. As a four-year starter, Csirmaz played in 24 games for RU, scoring 30 goals and adding 20 assists. He collected these stats despite missing all but three games of the 1982 season with a knee injury."

"I enjoyed practicing for the Senior Bowl," said Csirmaz. "For the first time in a long while, I was playing without my knee brace, which made me play more aggressively. It was like I was playing back in the '80s."

Area icemen at Lake Placid

Grand Oberhauser, 10 and Michael Weiss, 12, both of Mountainide and members of the Cranford Hockey Club, travelled to Lake Placid, N.Y., recently to skate in a "mini-scrimmage" against our U.S. Olympic Team.

Oberhauser, a member of the squirt team, and Weiss, a member of the Pee Wee Team, followed the Barkan age group in a total of three scrimmages. Segments of the scrimmages were taped by television crews and shown on network T.V. prior to the USA-USSR hockey game, which occurred the next day.

Brearley cagers bag 1st victory of season

The David Brearley Regional High School boys basketball team has been struggling so far in this young season, but at least it can claim superiority over one of its opponents.

The Bears' only victory so far was a 79-27 rout of Bloomfield Tech. After allowing the game's first basket, Brearley needed of 32 consecutive points as Bill Berger recorded his initial win at the Bears' helm.

General Admission tickets are $6, and can be purchased at the Elizabeth Elks Club, 1121 Elizabeth Ave., Elizabeth.

Friday nights the tournament will be held to determine the finalists who will compete in the National Golden Gloves Tournament in St. Louis.

Memorial General is 'dishing up' an ultramodern medical network

BY BILL GOODMAN
The only statewide TV system in the nation to interconnect hospitals via satellite will begin comprehensive programming this month in New Jersey. And in the vanguard is Memorial General Hospital in Union.

"I think it is fabulous," said Lou Giacoma, vice president of Memorial General. "It will keep us on top of the latest medical advances."
But the Memorial General administrator is looking far past the borders of New Jersey.

"With the satellite communication, we can connect with other hospitals around the world," he gushed. "For example, if there is a new type of microsurgery being performed in Paris, we can watch it being done live via satellite. Then at the end of the operation, our medical staff can call the doctors in Paris and ask questions."

Besides the informative value, there can also be a financial benefit.

"Instead of sending staff to seminars," said Giacoma. "We would have quite a savings if they could stay here and watch via satellite. We can also develop our own programs and send them to other hospitals."

According to Giacoma, a satellite dish (3.7 meters high weighing 600 pounds) will be installed in about two weeks. The dish, which is the receiver, is made of polyester reinforced fiberglass. With the use of a compass and sextant, the dish is positioned toward the correct satellite. The receiver is then turned on and tunes into a signal, much like an FM radio. A foundation grant is providing funds for the project.

The network will enable health care professionals in the state to have access to programs on topics ranging from emergency cardiac drugs to sports medicine, from prospective pricing to mergers, acquisitions and business ventures.

"The programs will not be limited to medical topics but will be geared to all those who work in a hospital setting, from the chief executive officer to the housekeeper," explained J. Joel May, president of the Health Research and Educational Trust (HRET) of New Jersey. The Trust operates the Healthcare Information Network.

"Our goal is to improve patient care by providing continuing education programs and in-service training at the locations where patient care is delivered—the hospitals."

"To receive programs over the network, hospitals need a satellite dish. Twenty-seven hospitals are now under contract to participate in the network, and 65 more are exploring the possibility," said Richard R. Metz, vice president for educational services at HRET.

While Memorial General is one of the first in the area, St. Peter's Medical Center, New Brunswick, was the first hospital in the state to have its dish installed by the network. Mega Communications of Morristown supplies and installs the dishes.

Sister Marie dePazzi, president of the medical center, said, "We are very excited to be the first hospital to inaugurate this service. The medical staff and the nursing staff will be able to get the most current information in the medical area."

Besides savings on travel costs to seminars, there is another advantage to this kind of viewing.

"More people will be able to see the programs," said Getz.

A medical crisis that is also a social crisis: those are the terms used in a report issued during the past year by one of the growing number of agencies concerned with the aging of the population.

The report was drafted by the New Jersey Hospital Association's Committee on Aging and Long-Term Care.

Entitled "The Role of the Hospital in Serving Its Elderly and Chronically Ill Population," it takes a detailed look — through the eyes of assorted experts — at what the years ahead may hold.

"One of the critical challenges," the report notes, "will be the shortage of financial and human resources during an expected surge in health care demand."

Describing the problem as "a social crisis as well as a medical crisis," the report asks: "How will hospitals survive through what appears to be the dimming of the Medicare program? What is the hospital's role and how will it care for those patients who represent the highest users of health care services, the elderly and chronically ill?"

The question is pertinent in part because of numbers, according to J. Joel May, one of the experts who contributed to the report. People over 65 are admitted to hospitals three times as often and stay 76 percent longer than the rest of the population, he said; 20 percent of them are admitted each year and 5 percent are admitted two or three times a year; 25 percent of outpatient visits and 10 percent of emergency room visits are by people over 65.

But May, the president of the Health Research and Educational Trust of New Jersey, said it is not just a question of numbers. Because hospitals have more contact with the old than any other agency — "more contact than supermarkets, social agencies, etc." — the emphasis should be on "serving real needs of active participating citizens."

Anne Somers, professor at Rutgers Medical School, described two facets of what she called the "geriatric imperative" — the "explosion of need" and "the inadequacy... of the supply."

"The number one factor in the exploding need and demand is the increasing life expectancy of the elderly,"

Winter camp this weekend

Winter camp for the 4-H Club of Union County Cooperative Extension Service will be held this weekend. Campers ages 14 and over are invited.

Campers will leave from the 4-H Office at Westfield, Friday, and journey to Branchville. The cost is $20 which includes food and lodging. Campers should bring skates, sleds, skis, toboggans plus a sleeping bag and warm clothing.

For additional information and reservations, contact the 4-H Office at 253-9366.

the pointed out.

"In addition, there is the 'shrinking American family,' she said — "not only family, but also neighborhoods and other informal supports." And at the same time, "there is the inevitable rising cost of health care for the elderly."

The "inadequate supply," she said, starts with Medicare, which was designed "specifically and exclusively for acute care." But very often people today "get sick with chronic disease — they survive but they don't get well." This, Somers said, is a need not met by Medicare, whose "message is very clear — 'Get well fast or get lost.' We give you six months and we will let you have rehabilitation and everything, for six months. After that, too bad!"

Another obstacle, she added, is "inadequate facilities." Patients have had to stay in hospitals because there have been no nursing homes or other facilities to which they could be discharged.

She cited projections for the Medicare Trust Fund for the next half century which show it "in far worse shape" than Social Security.

"The real tragedy is that as a result of this gridlock, this stalemate, this fear, and the panic that it engenders, it's almost impossible to do anything to start any new program. Because people will say, 'We can't afford it.' And since we can't afford it, we stand by helplessly and watch the cost of Medicare go up 21 or 22 percent a year."

"That's a policy, too, you know, not doing anything," Somers said. "But it's just an awful lot harder to do something than to do nothing. Well, that's what I see by the 'geriatric imperative.' We imply have to do something — or else!"

Consumer Affairs warns of toy train engine

With toys being at their most prevalent during the holiday season, the Union County Division of Consumer Affairs has received notification by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission — and Janex Corp., 19 Wardell Circle, Oceansport, that a musical action crib and pull toy, the Musical Rock-A-Bye Railroad, No. 2010, distributed by the firm, may present choking, aspiration and ingestion hazards because of small parts which can break off.

Janex has agreed to provide redesigned toys to consumers — as replacements for the No. 2010, to provide a credit for retailers and wholesalers who destroy the product, and to give notice of the hazards. The agreement includes an administrative complaint filed against the firm on Aug. 31.

Ellen Bloom, director of the division within the Department of Human Resources, described the toy as a plastic train engine which can be clamped on the rail of the crib or used as a pull toy outside the crib.

When the "smokestack" is wound up, the toy plays music and the rear wheels turn. The train engine is made of blue plastic with pink and white wheels, a red and white smokestack, and a yellow bell. Yellow decals with red printing on each side of the train engine says "MUSICAL ROCK-A-BYE RAILROAD." The toy train engine is approximately 7 1/2 inches high by 7 1/2 inches long and 3 1/2 inches wide.

"When the Commission tested this toy according to safety requirements for toys, several components including the ball broke off. The Commission staff believes this is a violation of the CPSC Small Parts Requirement which bans small parts in toys intended for children under three years of age. The staff believes the components are small enough to be choking, aspiration, and ingestion hazards to infants and young children.

Bloom advises consumers to remove these toys from use immediately and contact the company or the retail store where they purchased the toy to obtain a replacement. Retailers and distributors should contact the company as soon as possible to arrange for the destruction of and a credit for products on hand and returned.

Only Model 2010 with the yellow bell is involved in this action. Model 2010-A, without the bell, has been redesigned and should not be returned.

Hot Stove League Dinner slated to honor five into county Fame

James Iozzi, Jr., chairman of the 48th Annual Hot Stove League Dinner, sponsored jointly by the Union County Baseball Association and the Union County Department of Parks & Recreation, has announced the names of those who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame this year. Ceremonies will take place at the event, 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 18 at the Town & Campus, Morris Avenue, Union.

The five men who will enter the Hall of Fame are: Al Murawski of Lavallette (formerly of Elizabeth), Isaac Holmes of Roselle, the late Chester J. Krynicky of Elizabeth, Charles Bokenko of Bricktown (formerly of Elizabeth) and Mark McGurgan of Springfield.

Murawski is best remembered for his years as a basketball and baseball star for St. Patrick's High School, Elizabeth. An outstanding member of the Union County Youth League, Murawski was twice voted Most Valuable Player while playing for the Question Marks, a well known Union County League Team during the late '40's. A strong batter, pitcher, and first baseman, he played with the New York Giants farm system. Isaac "Ike" Holmes, a pitcher, first baseman and outfielder, won All-County and All-State honors in 1953 for his first base skills with Roselle High School. Holmes spent 15 years playing with both the Elizabeth Braves in the county league and in the Industrial League. His play for the Union County Youth League was described as "outstanding". He now resides in California where he is active in Little League baseball.

Charles "Chink" Bokenko, born in Elizabeth in 1905, played sandlot ball locally for such teams as the Premiers, the Elizabeth Braves, Singers, Bradford Athletic Club and Downtown A.C. A strong armed long ball hitter, he played every position for over 20 years in county leagues. Bokenko was always an above average batter who was always included in over 350 bracket.

Born in Elizabeth in 1911, the late Chester "Chet" Krynicky was active in all sports while attending St. Adalbert's School in Elizabeth. He was an outstanding third baseman who did some catching and batted over .300.

He played with the Olympics and Elizabeth Braves as well as such semi-pro teams as the Elizabeth Night Hawks and the N.Y. Bushwicks. From 1932-40, Krynicky played third for the Elizabeth A.A. and Singers. He once turned down a professional contract with the Snow Hill Baseball Club of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Krynicky passed away in 1977.

Mark McGurgan, born in Elizabeth in 1902, will be the oldest living player to be inducted into the Union County Hall of Fame. He attended Holy Rosary School in Elizabeth and is considered to be one of the best short stops of his day. McGurgan played with the Continentals and Comets of the old City League and also played eight years with the Pacific Ellet team while stationed on the U.S.S. Arizona. He played for Springfield in the Lackawanna League as well as the Elizabeth Braves in the Union County League and Standard Oil in the Industrial League. One of the first switch hitters in the County, he averaged well over .300 during his 15 years in U.C. baseball. He also coached Springfield Little League for 10 years.

Tickets for the 48th Annual Hot Stove League Dinner are $18 per person, which includes dinner and beer. Tickets will be purchased at the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation office, located in the Union County Administration Building, Elizabeth, or at the Linden P.A.L. Center, Maple Ave., weekdays from 9 a.m.-noon.

MGH in satellite network

The material can be recorded and then shown to employees on the second and third shifts. It can then be stored in the library for future reference.

Forty hours of state programming will be available per month. Most of the programs will be live, and viewers at the hospitals will be able to participate in question-and-answer periods during many of the broadcasts by means of specially designated telephone circuits.

Programs are fed into the hospital master antenna system for distribution throughout the hospital. Programs may then be routed to nursing or physician conference rooms, patient TV sets or other areas.

Hospitals will also have the option of inviting members of the community to view special programs. "Hospitals may want to invite football coaches to view a program on sports injuries, for example," Getz said. Fire prevention is another area with "possibilities" for community participation.

"Some 22 other health care television networks exist," Getz said, "but New Jersey is the first statewide network via satellite."

Programs originating at the HRET studio in Princeton will also be offered to hospitals across the United States. "We are encouraging hospitals throughout the country to join us," Getz said. About 300 hospitals now have dishes.

Programming will be provided via the SAT/COM 4 satellite. Printed materials and study guides will be available for some programs, along with the question call-in service.

"The average cost will be $10 per hour for these educational teleconferences," Getz pointed out. "It's very, very inexpensive."

The New Jersey Hospital Association and the Medical Society of New Jersey will have monthly program slots to keep members up to date.

A 'Pilgrimage to Israel' scheduled for February

A unique Pilgrimage to Israel with a special Holocaust dimension has been announced by Temple Beth-El of Cranford and its spiritual leader Rabbi Ronald Hoffberg. The trip will depart from Cranford on Feb. 9 for an overnight flight to Israel escorted by Rabbi Hoffberg. A special 17-day itinerary has been planned to include many special touring opportunities for both first timers and returnees.

The Holocaust will be memorialized through visits to some special memorials and museums in Israel with a service of memory at Yad V'Shem Israel's Holocaust Study Center. The trip will include a three day visit to London on the return.

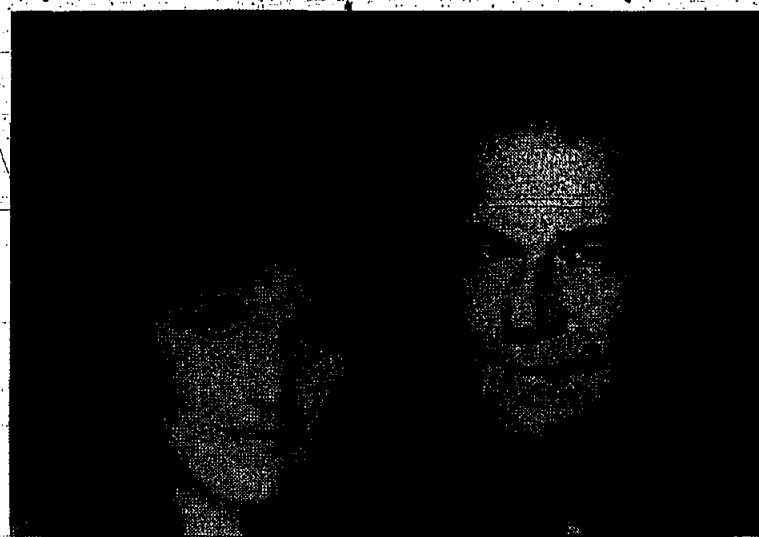

During the visit to London and some of its outstanding Jewish sites, the group will participate in a ceremony receiving a Holocaust Memorial Scroll which will return to Temple Beth-El as part of a permanent Holocaust Memorial to be established within the Synagogue. The Torah Scroll is part of nearly 1,500 scrolls saved from the Nazis in Czechoslovakia.

Rabbi Hoffberg has announced that the Pilgrimage will be using deluxe accommodations and will spend two Shabbatot in Jerusalem. The group will travel to the Galilee where they will view "new" sights such as Galilee, The Masada of the North and Hamat Gader, the newly opened Roman ruins.

Traveling via Tel-Aviv and its Diaspora Museum, the group will also tour the South with a visit to Eilat. Special arrangements have been made to visit with dignitaries and tour special sites in the Old City including the newly discovered "Cardo" and "burnt house".

Rabbi Hoffberg has escorted many youth trips and adult pilgrimages to Israel and is known for his knowledge of Israel and particular expertise in planning of itineraries. The trip will be open to all interested parties in addition to congregants of Temple Beth-El. For further details and a brochure, contact Temple Beth-El 278-9231.

LUCIE ARNAZ-LAURENCE LUCKINBILL

Arnaz, Luckinbill co-star

Lucie Arnaz and Laurence Luckinbill will star in Ferenc Molnar's "The Guardsman," the first production of the new year at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, Jan. 11 through Feb. 12. The Luckinbills have been married for three years.

The Molnar play had been a successful venture for another acting team, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

Arnaz, television daughter of her real-life mother, Lucille Ball, on the "Fere's Lucy" show, and TV and real life daughter of Ball and Desi Arnaz in the old "Lucy" series, has established herself as a star in a string of Broadway successes such as "They're Playing Our Song," "Seesaw" and "Whose Life Is It Anyway?"

Luckinbill has starred on Broadway in Neil Simon's "Chapter Two," "Poor Murderer" and "The Shadow Box," for which he was nominated for a Tony award as best actor. He also starred in both the stage and film versions of "The Boys in the Band."

Arnaz and Luckinbill have toured nationally in "I Do, I Do," "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" "Educating Rita" and "They're Playing Our Song."

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Paper Mill Playhouse box office at 376-4343.

Disc & Data

By MILT HAMMER

Pick of the LPs, "A Little Good News," by Anne Murray (Capitol Records).

Anne Murray recently observed that her "time has come" but her career attests to the fact that she's been right in step all along. As the blonde-Canadian songstress enters her 15th year of music, she has collected 20 American chart hits, three Grammy awards, 19 Juno awards, six gold and two platinum albums in the United States.

Her newest Capitol Records Album, "A Little Good News," was produced by Jim Ed Norman, who has teamed successfully with Anne in the past. The album's first single, also titled "A Little Good News," was written by Charlie Black, Rony Bourke and Tommy Recco. As a new addition to Anne Murray's sound, "A Little Good News" is flavored with a host of electronically-charged, synthesized pop songs, promising to make this LP still another hit for the talented singer.

This year, Anne Murray became the first non-American to co-host the Country Music Association awards. CBS-TV is scheduled to air Anne's third television special in early December. As yet untitled, the variety special will include several guest stars and will follow the tradition of the singer's 1981 and 1982 shows. Both "A Special Anne Murray Christmas" and "Anne Murray's Sea Cruise" garnered extremely high Nielsen ratings.

Anne Murray's first single, "Snowbird," launched her as a singer without stylistic bounds, scoring on the pop, country and adult contemporary charts and earning her the first U.S. gold record ever awarded to a female Canadian artist. After a string of hit singles, Anne won her first Grammy award in 1974 for "Love Song," but it wasn't until after the birth of her first child in 1976 that the entire world began to sing along with her number one hit songs. "My career never really took off until I got my life together," says Anne.

"Took off" is a rather mild description. In 1978, she earned three Grammy nominations ("Best Pop Vocal Performer, Female," "Record of the Year," "Best Country Vocal Performer, Female") and the following year she garnered the "Best Pop Performer, Female" award for "You Needed Me," triumphing over fellow superstars, Donna Summer, Barbra Streisand, Olivia Newton-John and Carly Simon.

Anne had more solo hit singles on the charts in 1979 than any other female vocalist except Summer.

And in 1980, she won yet another Grammy award for "Best Country Vocalist, Female," for "Could I Have This Dance?"

Guide to Good Dining

THE CHESTNUT TAVERN, a town landmark, located at 649 Chestnut Street in Union, maintains a family tradition of excellence.

Proud "Tradition" continues in Union

By TEDDI RUSSO

"Tradition" as the song goes, aptly applies to the Chestnut Tavern, doing business at the same location, 649 Chestnut Street in Union, for the last 36 years. Several decades have passed yet the Chestnut Tavern has stood the test of time. An ever growing number of steady customers have come to expect and appreciate their fine quality food and drink. That is a tradition of which to be proud.

Manager, Doo Waldlich has been running things since her father, who founded this restaurant so long ago, passed away. She is a charming, capable, softspoken woman, yet gives the impression of one who can handle anything. She is carrying on her father's tradition, now, with the third generation taking hold in the presence of her 3 sons, one of whom, Richard, is the chef.

The dimly lit interior, with its paneled walls, comfortable booths and latticework trim all around, provides a warm, pleasing atmosphere in which to dine. There are two dining rooms in the Chestnut Tavern. The first has a large center bar with a piano in the middle. Frankie Melton entertains there every Friday and Saturday evening from 9 to closing. He leads a sing-along which has become a favorite among the many regular diners and a conversation piece both in and out of Union Township. This room is lined with large, comfortable booths. The second dining room is smaller and is furnished with tables and padded chairs, making the room most suitable for private parties, luncheons or dinners, easily serving 30 people.

One of the first things you should sample at the Chestnut Tavern is their famous garlic bread. I've made this treat at home many times but have never been able to quite master their taste or quality. It is scrumptious and must be sampled.

The extensive menu offers a wide selection of not just their renowned Italian pasta dishes but also a wide assortment of American preparations. From the 18 appetizers you can choose such American treats as shrimp and clam cocktail or langur, French onion soup. The meat dishes offer 9 veal and 5 different pork chop dishes. But for the true American there is broiled T-bone steak or surf and turf. Of the 8 chicken dishes, a new one caught my eye, chicken scampi with curried rice, luscious. Then, of course, the seafood section is well represented. For the shrimp lover there are seven different ways to enjoy these succulent, crescent shaped marvels. But you must try their broiled or fried scallops, filet of flounder or lobster tails. All of these dishes are served with your choice of vegetable, french fries, salad or side dish of spaghetti.

The prices are very moderate, from the appetizers which range from $1.95 for tasty provolone sticks, to the Hot Antipasto for 2 at $7.25...most generous! The meat dishes range from $7.50 for Veal Parmigiana to $13.50 for Surf and Turf. The chicken dishes start at $6.50 for broiled chicken to $8.50 for Chicken Murphy. Seafood dishes start at $6.95 for fried fillet of flounder and rise to $13.95 for the lobster tail, the most expensive item on the menu. In addition there is a children's menu offering 12 choices and accordingly priced from $2.25 to $4.50, very reasonable and convenient. For dessert you must try the cheese cake with almonds...unbeatable! Of course you're missing the boat if you don't try their matchless coffee D'Vita Cappuccino served with brandy. It's absolutely heavenly!

This Chestnut Tavern is open daily for lunch and dinner from 11:30 a.m. to 12 midnight, and until 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. For your convenience, there's a late night snack menu served until midnight, which includes 11 different hot sandwiches and 8 varieties of pizza and again is quite modestly priced. They also offer large take out party platters, good to remember all year round. There is free parking on the premises and they accept all major credit cards. As Doo explained, the Chestnut Tavern tradition is to please their customers first and foremost. With her help and expert guidance, and if her sons fire anything like their mother, the Chestnut Tavern should be around for at least another 36 years...now that's tradition!
