Board cuts $26,240 from school budget.

By VICKI VREELAND

In an 11th hour move, the Springfield Board of Education Tuesday night cut $26,240 from its tentative current expense budget for 1984-85.

The cuts, proposed by board member Lou Monaco, were approved by a 5-4 vote at the special meeting, which lasted more than four and a half hours. The majority then went on to approve a $4,397,408 tentative current expense budget and a $345,400 capital outlay plan. Those figures were due in the Union County superintendent's office yesterday.

Monaco called for the cuts in "contracted services" and "other salaries" categories, but admitted he did not know what the effects would be. Ken Faigenbaum, the board's finance chairman, said Monaco was cutting $16,550 from funds reserved for legal, negotiating and arbitrating costs. Faigenbaum said that the board has, as of November, overspent $150,000 of the current year's budgeted legal fees. Minority members argued that if the money is not allocated now, the board will have to cut school programs mid-year to cover legal expenses.

Monaco also cut $9,690 from salaries provided for school aides. Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent, stated, "To cut indiscriminately and not invite the staff to look at it would be unwise. The issue of aides is vital in this area." Baruchin had told the school government committee that the cost for aides would be $31,690; Monaco cut it to $22,000.

The cuts followed a lengthy discussion of where more money should be spent, since the board's budget for current expenses was about $230,000 below the state cap before the cuts. After conferring with Baruchin, Barbara Adler, board member, had suggested expenditures in 10 additional areas, which were all defeated on 5-4 votes. George Gomes, board president, said that it wouldn't be proper to vote on any proposals that evening. He said they should be referred to board committees for discussion. However, he said Monaco's motions were different because "we are cutting money, not spending it."

Adler's suggestions included $5,000 for computer training for school personnel. She said the district has office computers, but they are not utilized. She also recommended adding $46,000 to the instruction figure for two additional teachers. Baruchin said last week that he thought the entire board supported that measure.

Adler also proposed funds to maintain the Walton School and its property, since the school's future cannot be determined until all pending litigation by C.A.R.E. and board members is settled. "The building should not be allowed to devalue during this period of indecision. It is still on the inventory of physical properties for the Board of Education," she said.

In the capital outlay plan, Monaco eliminated funds for all plumbing, heating and carpentry work to be done in the Florence Gaudineer School. He deleted $31,300 provided for maintenance in the James Caldwell School, and instead included $9,000 for handicapped facilities, and he reduced the figure provided for ground paving at the Thelma Sandmeier School.

The biggest expenditure of the capital outlay budget is $340,000 for a new roof at the Gaudineer School. The board formally approved the retention of Schive, Spinelli, et. al, a Scotch Plains architectural firm, to prepare specifications for the roof and incandescent lighting for Gaudineer classrooms and gyms.

Spinelli said at a preliminary budget meeting last Wednesday, that his 6 percent fee is not included in the $340,000 roof figure. Faigenbaum asked Dr. Leonard DiGiovanni, board secretary, where Spinelli's fee was provided for in the budget. DiGiovanni responded, "The $340,000 should also take care of Spinelli's cost." Faigenbaum charged that could happen only if the figure were inflated. DiGiovanni said last week that the roof will probably come in at "a lot less."

Gomes said the board is taking a "risk" without having actual figures for a new roof, but if it is not put in the budget now, it can't get done this year. Spinelli also will receive 6 percent of any contracts requiring architectural services, or approximately $18,000.

Minority members expressed their reasons for disapproving the tentative school budget. Stuart Applebaum said, "When you can give the children more, and be a leader, and you have a quarter of a billion dollars to do it, why are you not giving the children what you can?" Eileen Dahmen said, "The process this budget has been derived at has been a farce."

Gomes said he is considering the 22 percent of Springfield's population that is 65 and over, and the 40 percent that is 50 and over. "There is no question the tentative budget will be changed between now and March 19 (the last day for public hearing)." On April 3, the district will vote on the budget.

In a rare circumstance, the board's usual majority found itself in the minority at last Wednesday's meeting, so no budget revisions were voted on then.

Pietro Petino, board member, said it would be "illegal" for the board to take any votes, although the meeting was legally advertised. Gomes was out of town, and Monaco left the meeting early, leaving the majority in the minority. Paul Giblin, board attorney, also left the meeting.

It was at last Wednesday's meeting that Dahmen, Applebaum, Faigenbaum and Adler — usually in the minority — suggested that the proposed budget figure for teacher salaries be altered to include $46,000 for two additional fourth grade teachers. Liz Simpson-Fritzen, meeting president, stated she was not in a position to decide on the additional appropriation. Joseph Pepe, board member, said he not agree, and Petino has a "no comment."

After considerable discussion, a formal recommendation was made by the finance committee, with Chairman Faigenbaum introducing the proposal. The initial tentative budget figures, although tentative, should be as close as possible to actual figures to be submitted to the county superintendent.

DiGiovanni explained the budget is broken into three parts: current expense, capital outlay, and debt service. The initial tentative budget figure for current expenses was $4,424,848, which, according to DiGiovanni, reflected a 1-point saving to the taxpayer.

The debt service figure, $35,054, assumes a $5.11 tax reduction. The budget currently runs about $250,000 below the state imposed cap. Cutbacks are based on a 4.6-person reduction in personnel, 2.6 teachers (the 4 is a three day a week speech teacher), one custodian, and one library secretary.

In addition to proposing the hiring of two teachers, Baruchin distributed a (Continued on page 7)

Lautenberg set for Alper dinner

U.S. Senator Frank Lautenberg (D.), a longtime proponent of computer science as a mandatory educational requirement in America's public schools, will see the result of one such program at the Alper Civic Association's annual dinner/dance in Springfield Monday night.

Two computer science students from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, under the guidance of computer department coordinator Thomas Baker, have designed a computer printout charting Senator Lautenberg's career, including all the vital statistics a former president of a major computer company should expect.

Lautenberg founded ADP, Inc., a New Jersey based firm responsible for much of the growth in computer usage by business and industry over the past thirty years.

The students plan to present their work to the Senator at the dinner.

The Alper Civic Association is a Springfield-based non partisan organization that sponsors scholarships, shows and other events for students, the hospitalized, and the elderly, and provides forums for communication between citizens and elected officials throughout the greater Springfield area.

The dinner/dance will take place

Monday, at 7 p.m. at the Springfield Holiday Inn, Route 22 West in Springfield. For ticket information call 467-0486, or write to: Dinner/Dance, P.O. Box 675, Springfield, 07081.

This year's recipients of the Alper community service award were former mayor and Springfield Township Committeeman Stanley Kaish, former mayor and township committeeman Robert Weltcheck, the late Joe Montanari, who serviced on the township committee; and Hazel Hardgrove of the American Legion Ladies Auxiliary.

An Alper Civic Association-sponsored scholarship this year went to Linda Seymour, a 1983 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, who received a scholastic achievement award and a $100 U.S. savings bond for her work and interest in the areas of civic affairs and government.

The Association also sponsors magic shows that bring laughter into the lives of hospitalized children; publishes a monthly newsletter, "Newline", which promotes community programs and neighbor-to-neighbor communication, and gives to such charities as United Way, Deborah Hospital, and the Springfield Save-A-Life Committee. The group also publishes "at-a-glance" telephone listings of state and local agencies that can be of help.

NJ Transit sets hearings on route changes

NJ Transit will hold public hearings next week on proposed changes to five bus routes which serve Union and Essex counties.

The routes which are affected by the proposed revisions are the No. 8 Morristown Avenue, No. 9 Clifton Avenue, No. 13 Broadstreet, No. 39/48 Harrison-Union and No. 140/141 Somerville-Newark routes.

The hearings will be held Wednesday in Newark at NJ Transit's headquarters next to Penn Station and Feb. 9 at the Union Township Municipal Building, 1976 Morris Ave., Union. Both hearings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

According to NJT Project Manager William Wallace, the proposed route revisions, which if approved, would go into effect April 26, were based on a review of ridership statistics. The agency also considers requests from the public and county officials when proposing such changes.

The revisions include:

— No. 8 Morris Avenue, between Short Hills mall and downtown Elizabeth — Service would be discontinued to Short Hills Mall and via Magie Avenue and Green Lane. Service would be rerouted between Burnet Avenue and Salem Road in Union onto Vauxhall Road.

— No. 9 Clifton Avenue, between Newark's Bloomfield and Lyons avenues — Service would be extended from Lyons Avenue to serve Hillside via Maple and Hillside avenues.

— No. 13 Broad Street, between Irvington and Belleville via downtown Newark — The 40th Street, Irvington-Chancellor Avenue service at Valley Fair would be terminated. The Chancellor Avenue service would be rerouted between Valley Fair and the corner of Clinton Place-Lyons Avenue to operate via Lyons Avenue and replace peak hour service to Penn Station, Newark, with rerouted service on the No. 39/48 Harrison-Union route.

— No. 39/48 Harrison-Union between Harrison and Union via downtown Newark — Routes of the Hillside-Union branch would be replaced with sections of No. 9 Clifton Avenue and No. 141 Somerville-Newark routes; Valley Fair service would be extended to 40th Street in Irvington; service between Valley Fair and Maple Avenue would be rerouted to Chancellor Avenue from Lyons Avenue and service would be provided to Penn Station from 40th Street in Irvington.

— No. 140/141 Somerville-Newark — Four off-peak hour No. 140 trips to and from Somerville would be discontinued; No. 141 service west of New Providence Road in Mountainside would be discontinued as well as all Westfield service; No. 141 service, would be extended to Union County College in Cranford; Vauxhall Road and Burnet Avenue service would be rerouted via Salem Road and Liberty Avenue through Union and Hillside. Peak hour frequency on the No. 141 would be adjusted to reflect rider demands and coordinate with the No. 40 route.

According to Wallace, if the changes are adopted, an estimated 37 riders who use the No. 8 route via Magie Avenue would have no alternate service. An estimated 110 riders would have to transfer who use the No. 8 route to Short Hills Mall.

Wallace said that the revisions were proposed for three reasons. "We are reviewing routes that were not looked at recently," he said referring to a June 1981 restructuring of routes in the Newark-Elizabeth area. The other reasons were to improve operative efficiency and serve new areas could be served and to reduce duplication and lightly-used route segments. He said that any savings from the changes would be put toward the extension of routes into new service areas and increased service on present routes.

Those who seek more information, including a fact sheet on the changes, may call NJ Transit at 800-772-3806 or 201-761-8612.

Three teens on emergency unit

By VICKI VREELAND

High School students are playing a developing role in the Emergency Management Department in Springfield.

Three Jonathan Dayton Regional High School students: Jeffrey Gornstein, 15, John Dahmen, 16, and Mike Sticker, 16, are the organization's youngest members, but also perhaps, the most gung-ho. All three have earned their FCC novice radio operators license and two are working toward their "advanced class." Gornstein, who has been with the department for two years, has his advanced class license, and is working on the highest ranked, the "extra class license."

The three teens were "star struck" by radio operating when a senior member of the office gave a radio presentation at Gaudineer School. They signed up with the office, bought their own radios, and with a little instruction, they learned how to operate the electronic equipment at the emergency management center.

Jeff's latest thrill was being able to pick up on his home radio the ham operator in Grenada who was the sole communicator with the U.S. during the invasion of the Caribbean Island. Gornstein admits that he was one of a few hundred operators who also made the connection, but nevertheless, he was proud of his first hand reports.

Along with enjoying some of the local activities emergency management is involved with, such as the annual fireworks display, the Junior Olympics, and parades, the three teens had practical reasons for joining emergency management. "It is good career orientation for electronics and radio equipment," said Gornstein.

They insist that learning to operate a radio is not difficult, but that it is important to understand the theory of electronics. In order to be licensed by the FCC, an applicant must pass a written test on theory in New York City, know 74 signs of Morse Code, and be able to send them at five words per minute. For each advancing level license, the operator must increase their sending speed and theory knowledge.

There were a few rough spots however, before the boys felt comfortable using the radios. "Shyness was a big hurdle for me," said Mike. He added that using the radio mike was a little awkward at first.

Another problem the three contend with is their classmates reactions to the portable radios they carry. "Some people assume it is a police radio and they think were cops," said Jeff. They all agreed that it was, "too bad we have problems trying to find people to join."

Help needed

People usually don't think of a first aid squad unless there is an emergency. Then they dial a number and help is on the way.

Unfortunately, not enough people in the township realize what it takes for the Springfield First Aid Squad to be there at a resident's beck and call. The First Aid Squad is made up entirely of volunteers who are available in case of an emergency — 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Unfortunately, the First Aid Squad, which provides such a vital service to the community, is being forced to cut back on its hours. The problem is simple: not enough volunteers.

At the present time, the community is being served by a skeletal staff of nine resident volunteers during the day, Monday through Friday. These nine can give only so many extra shifts. As it stands now, with the consolidation of personnel, the Springfield ambulance cannot be manned Tuesdays. During that time, the entire township has to depend on a neighboring community, whose first priority would be its own residents.

Since there are over 13,000 residents in Springfield, it is not unreasonable to believe there are people out there who have some spare time in which they can make a valuable contribution to the township. And it's not hard to help. No previous training is required, nor is any special clothing necessary. The First Aid Squad will provide training and uniforms and jackets.

We can't think of a better way of using spare time than by helping fellow residents as a member of the local first aid squad.

Education reform

Ever since a national commission last year called American education to account for a long and sorry series of failures, school people and laymen alike have been showing a renewed interest in achieving "excellence."

One of the latest manifestations of this welcome development is the recent endorsement by State Education Commissioner Saul Cooperman and Higher Education Commissioner Edward Hollander of reforms recommended by the Joint Statewide Task Force on Pre-College Preparation.

Among these reforms are proposals for a noteworthy emphasis on teaching English, including writing, and mathematics.

The task force recommended phasing out remedial courses offered at the college level. Colleges, after all, should not have to teach a student what he or she should have learned years earlier.

The task force also proposed sending parents of all eighth-graders information of what is expected of students, as well as recommendations that they encourage their children to "strive for excellence" rather than take the easy way out. This is a recommendation that individual school districts could adopt without waiting for state action — and not just at the eighth grade level. Why not send parents a pre-report card at the start of each year, telling them what is expected of their sons and daughters that year? It could involve parents more closely in the schooling of their children — an essential in good education.

One recommendation of the task force, however, is troubling. That is the proposal to eliminate distinctions between college-bound and non-college-bound students, with all youngsters facing the same graduation requirements. One of the glories of American education — or, at least, of the ideals that American education has set for itself — is the opportunity for all children to complete high school. This means those whose talents lie in vocational areas as well as those in academic areas. To impose the same graduation requirements on all could result in either imposing standards that some children simply can't meet or watering down those standards to a level at which they become meaningless.

Nevertheless, the task force has made some worthwhile points. Its report will undoubtedly provide a platform for further interest in education — and that is a healthy development.

Scene around the towns

The smartest pet

Readers on the go should be able to spot this doorway, at right above, without even slowing down. It's in Roselle Park. If you recognize it, let us hear from you by 8 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union, N.J. 07083.

The scene is just a hop, skip and jump from last week's mystery location on the First Presbyterian Church at Chestnut Street and West Fifth Avenue in Roselle.

The first person to recognize it forgot to sign a name to the answer, but made up for it by giving quite a bit of detail: "Would you believe," the Scene correspondent wrote, "40 years ago I did a report on that window for a school project. I had a teacher named Mr. England and his father, Dr. England, was the pastor of the church then. We had to pick something that we saw on the way to school that was the most beautiful thing we passed, and I picked the window because I passed it four times a day, five days a week, for four years. The pastor of the church now is Dr. J. Max Criswell, Jr. The church was established in 1868."

Danny Parish, a ninth-grade student at Abraham Clark High School in Roselle, is another admirer of the church window. He described it as "unique," adding, "I pass the church every day, coming and going to school."

Now comes the reward method of training. Hold the hoop or stick up and three feet, a cat can jump from one to four feet.

After you have done this for two or three months, the animal will do it without being given a reward.

If you have any problems with this, or don't understand, please feel free to call me at 486-1945. I am usually home every evening.

Our next trick will be "shaking hands." This has to be combined with sitting down. It is a trick that can be taught to a dog or a cat.

As your pet gets better, keep raising the hoop. A dog can jump from one to three feet, a cat can jump from one to four feet.

Jump: It's an order Rover or Kitty will obey

By FRANK McSWENEY
 (Frank McSweney of Linden is an animal trainer whose pet articles are printed at benefits throughout the area. This article by him is one in a series on training the family pet.)

Are you ready to have the smartest pet on your block? As we said a few weeks ago, we will attempt to teach your dog or cat to jump through a hoop or over a broom or stick.

The first thing in the morning, give your animal a small amount of food. Let him eat what he wants, then take it away. Three or four hours later, your pet should be hungry again. This is the best time to start training.

The first couple of days, let the pet get used to the hoop or stick. Keep the hoop or stick on the floor. Let the animal walk all over it, so he won't be afraid of frontation which lasted for years and came to symbolize the environment for millions in New Jersey. Sunfish Pond is still intact, but it served to give New Jersey a symbol. Once people became environmentalists in terms of wanting to save Sunfish Pond, they were made ready for things which came later.

Those things, of course, are a still-unending series of revelations about hazardous wastes, pollution and other evils. As it happens, Governor Tom Kean, a freshman assemblyman in the late '60s, embraced the Sunfish Pond crusade from the outset and has remained an adamant foe of environmental decay of any kind.

That's why New Jersey people are so ready to vote for politicians who record good environmental voting records, and who pledge to keep up the fight for environmental controls and improvements.

Prior to the general elections in November, the two environmental voter organizations screened over 50 legislative candidates and came up with 13. Ten were incumbents and three challengers.

The incumbents were Senators Dalton, Stockman and Lesniak, all Democrats; and Laskin, a Republican; and Assemblypersons Kalik, Hollenbeck and Doyle, all Democrats; and Republicans Bennett, Zimmer and Ogden. Endorsed challengers were non-Assemblypersons Marlene Lynch Ford and Steven Adubato, both Democrats, and non-Senator Frank Palano, also a Democrat.

It took a relatively few years for the public to generate strong emotions about the environment, and with evidence like this it's apparent that elected officials haven't taken that long to feel and act the same way.

If Possum Pass is closed, we would in effect be disenfranchised from Springfield. In that event, I strongly suggest that the residents of this area might better be served by seceding from Springfield and becoming a part of Mountaineer.

Library column

Killanin was in charge of 'wild' Olympic scene

By ROSE P. SIMON
 SPRINGFIELD—Following are reviews of currently popular books at Springfield Library.

The Stormy Years
 "My Olympic Years," by Lord Killanin
 Since his election as President of The International Olympic Committee in 1972, Killanin, an Irish journalist who served as a member of the Olympic Committee for 20 years, experienced some of the stormiest sessions ever known before. In his eight-year account (1972-1980) of the period which involved national and international politics, he recalls the challenging crises which confronted him and the world.

Killanin reviews the history of the Olympic Committee, its structure, administrative responsibilities, and aims. He suggests that the idealism of the whole Olympic Movement has suffered from politics and violence. He cites the racial bias of South Africa as one example, and that of the 1980 boycott (to protest Afghanistan) as another.

As demonstrations of violence, we are reminded of the battle in The Square of the Three Cultures in Mexico (1968) and of the unspeakable terrorist assassination of Israeli athletes in Munich (Summer Games, 1972). Despite male chauvinism in sport existing in some places, the post-director of the International Olympic Committee is held by a French woman—Monique Berlioux, a former Olympic swimmer (1948). The author speaks of her efficiency, the role of the hostesses, the growth of women's sports, and the increasing participation of women in the Games. In 1984 cycling will be added; in 1988 judo will be represented.

There are ongoing discussions about professionalism versus amateurism in determining eligibility for participation, also advertising, sponsorship and the use of drugs. The Committee also has enormous technical, logistic and political problems to be faced and ironed out some of them years in advance. Lord Killanin gives us an overview of his own challenges and how he met them.

Replacing I.Q.s?
 "Frames of Mind," by Howard Gardner

Although traditionally, intelligence has been assessed by a score resulting from a paper-and-pen administered test, the author believes that there must be better ways to assess an individual's capabilities. He outlines a new theory of human intelligence competences, reviews the history of the traditional I.Q. test, and explains the new theories he is propounding.

In formulating his brief on behalf of multiple intelligences (MI), gifted individuals, brain-damaged patients, normal children, normal adults, experts in different lines of work, and individuals from diverse cultures, Gardner wishes to stress the biological and evolutionary roots of cognitive competences. He wishes also to identify an individual's intellectual proclivities at an early age, and then to enhance that person's educational opportunities. He hopes that this study will develop a model of how intellectual competences may be fostered in various cultural settings.

Gagliardi enters a national honor society

SPRINGFIELD—Vito Gagliardi, Union County schools superintendent, and three members of the faculty at Kean College have been inducted into Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society. Inducted along with Gagliardi, who is a Kean alumnus, were Dr. Catherine Dorsey-Gaines, a reading specialist; Dr. Robert Metz, a geologist; and Dr. Jack Kammerman, a sociologist.

Dr. Eileen Kennedy, a professor of English who is local Phi Kappa Phi president, and coordinator of the Kean College master of arts in liberal studies program, said Gagliardi is considered to be an outstanding alumnus, and the faculty members are distinguished for their research.

Gagliardi received his bachelor's and master's degree from Kean College and his doctorate in education from Rutgers University. He formerly was acting assistant deputy commissioner in the State Department of Education. He was named to Phi Kappa Phi on the basis of his outstanding contribution to local education.

Dorsey-Gaines, a professor of early childhood education, received her master's degree from Kean College and her Ph.D. from Fordham University. She will deliver a scholarly paper to the International Reading Conference and the Urban Reading Consortium Reading Conference.

Metz, a professor of earth sciences, holds a Ph.D. from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. His articles on physical stratigraphy and sedimentation have appeared in a number of scholarly journals and he is co-authored two laboratory manuals for use in introductory geology courses.

Kammerman, an instructor in sociology, received a Ph.D. from New York University where his dissertation was a study of symphony conducting as an occupation. He is co-editor of a book on the sociology of the performing arts. Several of his essays are in the book, "Performers and Performances: The Social Organization of Artistic Work," published by Praeger. He currently is researching life changes and stress.

SPRINGFIELD—Jon Fabricant, of Springfield, has made the "B" honor roll at The Gill-St. Bernard's Upper School for the second quarter. To make the "B" honor roll, a student can receive no grade lower than a "C."

Book discussion slated

SPRINGFIELD—Marguerite Yourcenar's "The Abyss," a novel of ideas set in 18th century northern Europe, will be the subject of the Springfield Public Library's monthly book discussion, Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the library.

Yourcenar, an American citizen of French birth, was named to the French Academy in 1981, the first woman ever so honored. She lives in Maine and still writes entirely in French, mostly on historical subjects.

In "The Abyss," her protagonist is a free-thinking physician, alchemist, and philosopher named Zeno, who must navigate carefully between the warring camps of Catholicism and Protestantism. One critic said the book showed "the underside, the nightmare of the Renaissance."

The next scheduled book discussion is March 6, when Cynthia Ozick's "Leviathan: Five Fictions" will be discussed.

SHARING—Two girls spend a summer day learning origami, a paper folding craft, from the Japanese exchange student who is staying with the family. Interstudy is looking for area families to take in Japanese or Spanish student this summer.

students are college students, she said.

Last year, Italian and German students visited the area. While staying in Union, the students were made honorary citizens by the township.

"The town has been very good to us," Bigos said, adding that Union residents have been taking part in the program for four years.

"This program is a good opportunity for people who are trying to learn the language themselves," she said.

A family can begin writing to "their" student after signing up with the area coordinator.

"The earlier they sign up, the earlier they can prepare for the student's arrival. It shouldn't cost the family that much money because we take them on tour," she said.

"It's nicer if the kids know where they are going and have time to write letters. It builds an association between the student and the family," she added.

Host families are asked to make the student a part of their daily life and not to construct an artificial environment. A handbook for host families states that the American family should "demonstrate the most honest and accurate picture of what life is like in North America."

"The next time he reads negative media reports about the United States or Canada, or listens to a speaker at an anti-American or Canadian demonstration, he won't think of the stereotyped North American. He will think of you or your family. What you are undertaking is important. You are building lasting bridges," the handbook said.

The adults and teenagers in a host family can accompany their exchange student on the area tours they take.

"We will include the host families on the tours as long as their is room on the bus," Bigos said.

Most of the students involved in the program have traveled before, she said.

"They are interesting and adaptable to the situations they find here," Bigos said.

There are usually about 25 students in each group, so Interstudy is looking for 50 host families in the area, Bigos said.

Interstudy has Outbound programs for American students to travel and study abroad. Children in a host family are eligible for scholarships and discounts for one of the programs.

Those interested in becoming host families can call Bigos at 686-2709, or Rose Jackson at 273-1756 for further information.

Lender to receive history prize

Dr. Mark Lender, the director of grants at Kean College and a professional historian, has been selected by the Society of the Cincinnati in New Jersey to receive its 1984 Cincinnati History Prize.

Lender has been advised that he will receive the citation and a $1,000 prize on May 12. It is given "for distinguished achievement in advancing the knowledge, understanding, and appreciation of the history of the State of New Jersey in its early years."

Lender is the editor of "New Jersey History," the quarterly publication of the New Jersey Historical Society. He has written numerous articles and is the co-editor of "Citizen Soldier: The Revolutionary War Journal of Joseph Bloomfield." Bloomfield was an officer in the Third New Jersey Regiment from 1776 to 1778 and his two volume diary was found in two different places and brought together by Lender and co-editor, Dr. James K. Martin.

Lender also is author of "Drinking in America: A History." Co-authored with Martin, it traces drinking from Plymouth Rock to Alcoholics Anonymous. Lender and Martin met at Rutgers University where they both taught and worked in the university's Center of Alcohol Studies. Martin is at the University of Houston now.

Heart ski marathon scheduled

The Third Annual American Heart Association Ski Marathon will be held at Vernon Valley Ski Area on Feb. 11-12. The marathon will begin at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 11 and continue through late Sunday afternoon.

Last year over 80 skiers skied for 30 hours, raising over $4,000 for the Warren and Sussex branches of the American Heart Association. Marathon volunteers solicit pledges for each ski run they complete. The pledges range from a penny a run to as high as $5 for a single run.

Vernon Valley keeps one lift running throughout Saturday night into Sunday morning so that the marathoners can achieve a maximum number of runs. The area's cafeteria is used as a resting place for the volunteers to spread sleeping bags for naps. The marathoners compete amongst themselves to see who can complete the most number of runs down the mountain. Last year, Scott Paris completed 200 runs with John Reynolds running second with 174 runs.

Interested volunteers should contact Ann Robinowitz, 383-8008. To participate one must be an intermediate or better skier, at least 15 years old and receive a minimum pledge of $25. For further information, call 827-2000, ext. 275.

Advice: 'Stay in your car'

"Stay in your car" is the best rule of thumb when disabled on an expressway or in an undesirable area, states Matthew J. Derham, president of the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club.

- Should a vehicle become disabled, AAA suggests you:
  - Turn on your flashers to alert other motorists. Try to coast the vehicle off the roadway.
  - Tie a white handkerchief or cloth to the antenna or door handle.
  - Remain in your car with windows and doors locked. Await assistance from a patrol car or service truck. Should a stranger stop to offer help, talk through a partially opened window and ask him to contact the police or a garage. Do not get out of the car, or agree to go with him to look for help.
  - If you are lucky enough to have a friend stop to help and you choose to leave your vehicle, be sure to contact local police immediately. Abandoned vehicles are likely to be towed if police are not advised of the situation.
- "The chances of becoming stranded can be greatly reduced," concludes Derham, "by checking your fuel supply, air pressure and general condition of your tires regularly, and by giving your vehicle the routine maintenance recommended in your owner's manual."

25th annual art show set for Green Lane 'Y'

Sixty-five contemporary artists have been selected to display paintings and sculpture in the 25th Annual Invitational Art Exhibition and Sale of the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA from Feb. 4-19 at the "Y" building on Green Lane.

Deborah Cooper who co-chairs the show committee with Mrs. Hanna Kesselman of Elizabeth, pointed out that a panel of four recognized authorities in the visual arts chose the exhibitors. More than 250 works will be shown, she added.

She said the exhibitors will include professors and teachers, winners of fellowships and other awards, artists represented in permanent museum and private collections, some who have given one-artist shows at galleries and other art centers. Among them are: George McNeil of New York, who has paintings at the Museum of Modern Art, Smithsonian Institute and the Newark, Whitney and Brooklyn museums; has given gallery shows in Manhattan and elsewhere; won Ford Foundation and Purchase awards; long-time teacher. Janet Fish, Boston-born painter now of New York, who has works at the Whitney Museum; has presented shows at New York galleries and in Washington, D.C., Chicago and Australia; won a MacDowell Fellowship and an Australia Council of the Arts Award. Joseph Konopka of Glen Ridge, who has paintings in the N.J. State Museum at Trenton, Newark Museum and Cooper

Hewitt Museum in New York City and Butler Institute at Youngstown, Ohio; won Purchase, Newark Museum and State Museum awards and the 1971 Medal of Honor of the N.J. Painters and Sculptors Society.

The selection panel comprised Zoltan Buki, curator of the N.J. State Museum; Gary A. Reynolds, Curator of painting and sculpture at the Newark Museum; Julian Weissman, director of the Gurenebaum Gallery in Manhattan, and Peter Homitzky, Eastern Union County "Y" artist-in-residence.

Attendance on the show's opening night, Saturday, will be restricted to the artists and individuals who make special contributions to the exhibition. Each patron, a $100 donor, will receive an original etching by Janet Fish, while each sponsor, a $25 donor, will be given a poster executed and signed by Jane Teller.

The exhibition will be open to the general public on the remaining days of the show. The hours will be 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursdays and 1-4 p.m. Fridays. There will be no Saturday showings.
