Burglar alarm law OK'd

By VICKI VREELAND

A measure to regulate burglar alarms in the township was approved on final reading Tuesday by the Springfield Township Committee.

A few residents objected to the $15 annual registration fee which the ordinance imposes, but Springfield Police Detective James Heflin said the fee is needed to defray costs of the "in-scrutable" paper work involved when an alarm goes off.

The ordinance was adopted to maintain uniformity in performance of the hundreds of burglar alarms, both residential and commercial, in the township. It states that messages on burglar alarms be limited to 15 seconds. It also provides a maximum $200 fine for alarms that are not kept operable.

The committee also introduced an ordinance to prohibit parking on sections of Diamond and Lawrence roads. Committee member Joanne Tedesco said the ordinance was drawn up as a result of complaints from area businesses.

If the ordinance is approved on final reading, parking will be restricted on the south side of Diamond Road from the intersection of Diamond and Fadem Roads, to the west end of Diamond Road. On the north side of Diamond, parking will be prohibited from the vicinity of Fadem Road to a point 295 feet west.

On Lawrence Road, parking on the entire west side of the road will be prohibited, a single bid from K. Melusi and Sons, Inc. for work to be done on the Paddock Courts at the municipal pool, in the amount of $6,300, was deferred to the next committee meeting because of a lack of a quorum of township committee members for a vote. Committee member Stanley Kalish and William Ruocco were absent.

Also introduced was an ordinance to enter the township into the Inter-Local Services Agreement. Committeeman William Cieri explained that the ordinance, which is renewed annually, allows Springfield to participate with other municipalities in Union County in applying for funds from Community Block Development Grants.

Cieri said it is more beneficial for a small township such as Springfield to apply with other communities. The township has applied for grants for four items: barrier-free improvements at the Raymond Chisholm School, energy conservation strategies, improvement project for all public buildings, recreation improvements at the Villa Tract, located on the north side of Morris Avenue near the Union border, and street, sidewalk, and curb reconstruction.

Cieri said the township has already received approval for the Chisholm School project.

Memorial Day Parade plans are finalized

The township's annual Memorial Day Parade will kick-off Monday at 9:30 a.m. at Short Hills and Morris avenues, under the direction of the Springfield Fire Department.

According to Fire Chief Ronald Johnson, the parade will march up Morris Avenue and turn right into Mountain Avenue, where the participants will assemble in front of the Municipal Building for services.

Organizations scheduled to march include the VFW, the American Legion, the Boy and Girl Scout troops, the First Aid Squad, and the Little League team.

Mayor Phillip Feintuch will march along with the rest of the township committee. Feintuch plans to make some remarks on the significance of Memorial Day, following the parade.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Jeffrey Curtis of the First Presbyterian Church, who serves as chaplain for the Springfield Volunteer Fire Department. Father John Goding, of St. James Church, will offer the benediction.

Three pieces of the fire department apparatus will also be featured.

After 4 years, scholar's fund is running dry

By VICKI VREELAND

A scholarship fund established in appreciation for the community and educational service of Dr. Thelma Sandmeier may be sponsoring its last student recipient this year.

According to Lucille Weiss, a member of the fund's board of trustees, after this year's $1,000 scholarship is awarded to a last Dayton student, the fund will be exhausted unless further contributions are made.

Dr. Sandmeier served in the Springfield school district for 49 years as a teacher and teacher/principal in the Raymond Chisholm School and as principal of the Florence M. Gaudinier School. Weiss said she taught every subject and was fond of saying, "every teacher is a teacher of reading."

Sandmeier, who originally came from Atlantic City, has been a resident of Springfield for many years. She attended Columbia University in New York City and received her doctorate degree from Rutgers University. The Thelma Sandmeier School was named after her when it was built 16 years ago. Walton property development will be slowed down by law suit

By VICKI VREELAND

The civil complaint served on the Springfield Planning Board last week regarding Walton School may not stop plans in the short run, but according to the attorney who filed the suit on behalf of a local resident, it will "put practical restraints on their progression."

In commenting, William Exaros, attorney for resident Dr. Barry Maltzman who filed the complaint, was referring to the approval of a minor subdivision granted to builder Frank Racioppi by the "Planning Board."

Racioppi had applied to the board to grant a minor subdivision for the 12.21 acres of Walton School property on Mountain Avenue. Racioppi was awarded a $1,605,000 contract for the land by the Springfield Board of Education, but the validity of the contract is being challenged in Superior Court by school board members.

In his suit, Maltzman charges that the planning board's actions were faulty in several areas. One of the issues raised is an apparent conflict between the township's subdivision ordinance and a state statute.

According to Det. McKenzie, the board's professional planner, "A minor subdivision has to agree with the master plan according to Springfield ordinance." However, McKenzie added that the state statute does not require such a provision.

The Walton School property is designated for public use in the township's latest version (1980) of the Master Plan. According to the planning board's ordinance for subdivisions, a minor subdivision must "not be in conflict with any provision or portion of the master plan."

The local ordinance defines a minor subdivision as, "Any subdivision containing not more than three lots fronting on an existing street, not involving any new street or road, or the extension of municipal facilities or the installation of any street improvements, and not adversely affecting the development of the remainder of the parcel of adjacent property and not in conflict with any provision or portion of the master plan, official map, the Springfield Township Zoning Ordinance or this ordinance."

"Unless the owner can show what the property will be used for, it should not have been classified a minor subdivision," Exaros said.

He added that the deed for the Walton School property is dedicated to public

Adler looking to run board 'by the book'

By VICKI VREELAND

In wake of recent events that have brought the Springfield school district under the close scrutiny of the state Department of Education, it's not the easiest time to be in the hot seat of the Springfield Board of Education.

But Barbara Adler, the board's newest president, is determined to resolve the crucial problems facing the board in an organized, professional manner.

"I intend to run the board meetings by the bylaws that were developed by the board of education and that have stood the test of time in organizing and running the meetings," she says.

"We've gotten away from using them in the past few years and I plan to follow them exactly. If a board member cannot abide by them, we may have to adjourn a meeting and try again another time," Adler said.

Adler's top two priorities as board president are to regain certification for the district and to reunite the town. There's also an upcoming conference scheduled with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to discuss the agency's recommendation that the district be fined $6,000 for violating federal air quality regulations.

Once these major tasks have been tackled, she sees the future board of education working cooperatively with residents to develop long-range educational plans for Springfield.

"We should study the issues before they get crucial, rather than reacting to them. Then, we can act on them with a plan," she said.

Adler would like to see a Citizens Advisory Group established on a permanent basis. A Future Directions Committee was established by the board in October 1982. About 15 residents volunteered to serve, and according to Bileen Dahmen, former vice-chairman, the board "think everyone."

"It seemed to work pretty well for a while," Dahmen said. However, after the April 1983 school board election, the committee was not renewed in the bylaws.

"If people knew they would all be listened to and not laughed off," Adler stated, "it would unite the town."

REPORTING BACK—After he returned from his Washington, D.C. trip, Scott Prager met with Nicholas DiFranco, left, representing the trip's corporate sponsor, Union Carbide, and Dayton Social Studies teacher Dennis Fox.

Safety signs offered by Union prosecutor

The Union County Prosecutor's Office has added a new weapon to its arsenal in the fight against rape and violent crime.

Prosecutor John H. Stamler said special safety banners, with the words "Call Police" in large letters, are available to motorists free of charge through the prosecutor's office of Major Crimes Unit.

"If a woman is stuck somewhere on a highway, or a senior citizen gets a flat tire, it's really not safe to get out of the car and go for help in certain situations," Stamler said, urging motorists to take advantage of the free banners.

According to Sgt. Paula Lerman of the Major Crimes Unit, the banners have large pink fluorescent letters and pull off adhesive for placement on the inside of the rear window so that the motorist never has to leave the vehicle.

"It's absolutely true that motorists who leave their car to get help can become victims of first-hand assault such as robbery and rape," Sgt. Lerman said.

The idea for the project, which has been very successful in other parts of the county, came to Lerman as she

Condos planned on drive-in site

A developer who hopes to build 403 units of townhouses and condominiums on the site of the Union Drive-In Theater on Route 22 faces the second—and higher—of two hurdles in the weeks before the Union Planning Board to seek both preliminary and final site plan approval for the drive-in.

First American Equities, the firm which holds a contract to buy the site from SEI Union Properties, successfully negotiated its first hurdle last Thursday when it received preliminary and final subdivision approval. That approval, which comes up for a formal vote June 21, allows the condominium units and 96 townhouse units in a total of 403 units to be built on the 23-acre site.

The project is being proposed for the site where SEI had previously hoped to build a shopping mall. It had, however, failed to win variances for the mall, and higher—of two hurdles in the weeks before the Union Planning Board to seek both preliminary and final site plan approval for the drive-in.

New pastor begins term at St. Stephen's Church

The Rev. Gordon H. Tremaine began his rectorship of St. Stephen's Church, Millburn, with the celebration of Holy Eucharist at two services on May 6, at 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. A special coffee hour and reception followed the 10 a.m. service, with Nancy Steffert of Mountaineer and Jane Resler of Springfield serving as co-hostesses.

Tremaine becomes the 18th rector of St. Stephen's Church since it was founded in 1851, when the area was still part of Springfield. He succeeds the Rev. Joseph D. Herring, who accepted a call to Christ Church in Newton last July.

During the interim period, the Rev. David C. Casto served as priest in charge. Tremaine comes to St. Stephen's from Calvary Church in Summit, where he served as curate since his graduation from Virginia Theological Seminary in 1981.

He and his wife, the Rev. Christine Constantinos Tremaine, will rector the 116-year-old rectory on the church grounds, which has recently been refurbished and redecorated in preparation for their arrival.

Tremaine will be formally installed as rector by the Right Rev. John Shepley Spang, bishop of Newark, at a service of installation June 8. The service will be followed by a reception honoring the new rector.

Board settles teacher switch

At a special meeting of the Regional Board of Education Tuesday night, the board voted to adjust teacher transfers that were proposed at a meeting May 15.

Parents and students from the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark last week opposed a proposed transfer of Giovanni Gagliano, a foreign language teacher at the school. The board decided to review the transfer recommendations.

Superintendent Dr. Donald Merachnik said that after the board was provided with alternate plans, it moved to keep Gagliano at Johnson and transfer another teacher to the school. Gail Giacobe, a teacher of Italian and French, will be transferred to David Brearley High School for the majority of her classes, Merachnik said.

Vandals take aim at Sandmeier School

SPRINGFIELD—Five windows in the Thelma Sandmeier School were smashed Sunday during the evening hours May 17, according to Springfield police reports. The damage is estimated at approximately $750.

A 44-year-old Perth Amboy man was arrested May 17 on Route 22 by Patrolman Steven Stock. The man, identified as Josef Urbanik, was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and refusal to take a breathalyzer test.

Police reported that there was a series of attempted break-ins and thefts of vehicles in the area. Two red Mercedes were stolen from Mercedes-Benzes on Laurel Drive, and attempts into Mercedes on Cherry Lane and Benjamin Drive were attempted.

A Springfield resident was slightly injured when she was struck by a car about 8 a.m. Friday. Police said Carol D'Augustine of Washington Avenue was hit by a car when she attempted to cross Morris Avenue.

The driver, Sharon Halsey, 40, of Marion Avenue, was stopped at a red light at Morris and Marion avenues. According to police reports, Halsey said her car must have rolled when it struck D'Augustine.

The pedestrian was transported to Overlook Hospital, Summit by the Millburn Fire Aid Squad, where she was treated and discharged.

Three persons were injured in an automobile accident on South Springfield Avenue Friday about 11 a.m. Cynthia Veltri, 31, of Westfield, and her 1-year-old daughter were taken to Overlook Hospital where they were treated and released.

Motorists hit with penalties in town's court

SPRINGFIELD—Several out-of-town residents were fined for motor vehicle violations in Springfield Municipal Court May 17.

Judge Malcolm Bohrod fined Jose Vargas, 23, of Passaic, $515 and revoked his license for 60 days.

Gullermo Mouna, 37, of Summit, was fined $25 and had his license revoked for seven days.

Semette Clark, 33, of Newark, pleaded guilty to careless driving. He was fined $15 for the charge.

In court Monday, a Queens, N.Y. man was sentenced when he pleaded guilty to theft of movable property. Mikhail Dubinsky was fined a total of $400.

Fritzel Jones, 57, of Plainfield, pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of alcohol. Jones was fined $25 and had his license revoked for six months.

He was also fined $255 and received another six-month revocation when he pleaded guilty to refusing to take a breathalyzer test.

Drive benefits private school

SPRINGFIELD—The Men's Group of St. James Parish is holding a paper drive for the benefit of St. James School Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the school parking lot on South Springfield Avenue.

Bundled and tied papers and magazines may be dropped off at the rear of the church. Arrangements for pickup may be made by calling Bob House at 467-1457.

Three judges to pick art contest winners

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-7th District) is sponsoring an art competition in cooperation with the New Jersey Teenarts Program for high school students in the district.

The winning entry will be displayed this summer, along with art from other congressional districts across the country, in the U.S. Capitol complex.

Rinaldo said the district winners will be chosen by a panel of three art artists — Harry Devlin of Mountaineer, Frank Loycano of Union and Joseph Dawley of Cranford — at a show to be conducted in conjunction with the Memorial Day program in Union Township on Monday.

The judging will be held beginning at about 11:15 a.m. at Connecticut Farms School, Stuyvesant Avenue, immediately after the parade and memorial services at the school.

Devlin is an artist and author who was a commissioned Navy artist during World War II and later was an editorial cartoonist for Collier's Magazine. He

Scholarship fund is running dry

Weiss believes, "The superior academic achievement of Springfield alumni is due in large part to her administrative prowess; her contribution to the development of curriculum, her careful supervision of the day-to-day school activities, and her concern for every child in the school."

"Her work and dedication have had a dynamic effect upon the lives of thousands of Springfield children," Weiss added.

The scholarship fund was formed in 1980 upon Sandmeier's retirement. Each year for the past four years, two Springfield high school students have received $1,000 Sandmeier scholarships at graduation. Weiss said there is only enough money remaining to provide one scholarship this year.

Past scholarship recipients include Donna Vargas, who attended California's Stanford University;

Dayton band wins four awards

The Jonathan Dayton Marching Band earned four trophies as the first weekend in May during the three-day Festival of Music in Ocean City, Md. The band placed first in class A, field show competition and second in the class A parade.

In addition, Dayton was honored as competing in choir, concert band, stage band, marching band and color guard categories. The Dayton Band competed in three events: field show, indoor guard and parade.

Jeffrey Anderson, Dayton's band director, stated that "This festival weekend is a tribute to the competitive spirit of Dayton's band."

Anderson explained that due to this spring's excessive rain and the lateness of the spring vacation, Passover and Easter holidays, the number of rehearsals for the festival had to be severely curtailed. "In spite of this, we won," he said. "The kids are real competitors."

As a reward of a year of hard work and dedication, band members were given an afternoon at Great Adventure Amusement Park on the way home from Maryland. Band activities for the remainder of the year include participation in Monday's Springfield Memorial Day Parade and Dayton's commencement exercises in June.

organizing this year's Fourth of July fireworks display at Meisel Field. In order to hold the show in the county field, the township must pay for the services of Union County Police and clean-up of the field.

The township must also sign a $500,000 to $1,000,000 insurance contract for the day, naming Union County as an additional insured party.

Township Attorney Jay Kloud was authorized to draw up an ordinance to hire a private consultant to study a sanitary sewer problem on South Springfield Avenue. The study was recommended by Walter Koob, township engineer, after a number of sewer back-ups occurred at the location.

Alan Siegel, chairman of the Zoning Board of Adjustment, addressed the committee about a series of suggestions the board had drawn up concerning the new zoning ordinance. The Zoning Board's recommendations were referred to the township committee prior to a vote two weeks ago on the zoning ordinance.

At that meeting, the board's recommendations were referred to the township attorney. The majority of members felt that the board's recommendations were received too late for discussion.

Siegel commented, "We resent the lack of confidence from the Planning Board of Adjustment in our recommendations. We feel the vote should be rescinded so that our comments can be reviewed and so we can study the PUD."

Guaranteed grads

The strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" will soon be resounding throughout the land as graduates, self-conscious in their caps and gowns, step up to receive the diplomas they have been working for during the past four years.

But this year, at one college, something new will be added.

The College of Education at the University of Northern Colorado will be handing out not only diplomas, but also guarantees.

If a teacher who has graduated from Northern Colorado doesn't measure up to the classroom job, he or she can be sent back to college for whatever additional training is needed, without additional cost.

The guarantee could be applied to a newly-graduated teacher who is unable to maintain discipline, who can't spell or who shows some other academic lack, according to Daniel Burke, dean of the College of Education. It is, Burke said, "a statement of confidence in our faculty, our program, and our students."

It is also an idea that, if universally accepted, could be revolutionary.

Think, for example, of the possibilities: the English major who can't spell, the political science student who doesn't know what a zoning board does, the business major who seems never to have heard of the multiplication tables — all these could be sent back to school for further training.

New Jersey, like several other states, already has a "lemon law" for cars that offers recourse to consumers stuck with a vehicle that won't do the job it was bought for.

How about a "lemon law" for people that would provide similar recourse to employers and institutions stuck with employees who — because they haven't learned — can't do the job they were hired for?

Letter to the editor

Letters to the editor must be received no later than noon on the Friday preceding the date of the issue in which they are to appear. They should be typed, with double spacing between lines (not all in capital letters, please). All letters must include a written signature, a complete address and a phone number where the writer may be reached during business hours for verification purposes only. The writer's name will be withheld only in most unusual circumstances, and at the editor's discretion. This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject any letter and to publish only one letter from any one person within any four-week period.

She has 'had it'

I've finally had it with Mr. Novich — Mr. Novich, who never attends a Board of Education meeting, but has so much to say. Mr. Novich, who believes in the democratic process, deplores intimidation tactics. Mr. Novich now is threatening the re-election of Mr. Russo because he disagrees with the way Mr. Russo voted. To also say that the township voters came out in the Board of Education election this year over the sale of the Walton School is false. Look over your C.A.R.E. literature, not once is Walton

School or the issue of the school ever mentioned. That campaign was one of hate, built on lies and ethnic remarks that the C.A.R.E. people and the Springfield Leader orchestrated for a whole year against the majority of the board. Thank God, the system does work and Judge Weiss saw through it all and made the decision in favor of the board majority. Mr. Novich, your letters all through the year have stated that you would await the decision of the judge. You've gotten his decision and you don't happen to agree. I think that's just too bad, but be a good loser and put your poison pen to rest.

JUDITH SCILLA, Salter Street
Editor's note: At no time in its news coverage of the sale of Walton School or subsequent school board election did the Springfield Leader "orchestrate" against anyone who serves on the Springfield Board of Education. Journalism's prime tenet of objectivity is followed in this newswoman. From time to time, of course, we have expressed our views on the sale of the school and did endorse candidates in the school board election, but these opinions have appeared only on the editorial page. It is our responsibility and right to do so, just as Judith Scilla has the right to express her opinion in a letter to the editor.

For the birds

'No vacancy' sign goes up on the wren house

By DR. JOHN B. WOLF, Professor, Union County College
Early one recent morning, I glanced through the kitchen window as I reached for the coffee pot on the stove. My eyes focused upon a wren house as it disappeared amidst the field stones in the wall behind my house. Chipmunks cavort on this wall placed to buttress a terrace above at this time of year with spring color — daffodils, grape hyacinths and candy-tul. These striped brown animals build runways behind the stones and often move 20 or more feet in the darkness before emerging onto a chipmunk warm by the sun to scratch the dirt off their faces. They're very busy in early spring repairing their underground network damaged by the shifting of the rocks during the winter freeze. But this spring, it was a small bird and not a chipmunk that came out from behind the rock and played peek-a-boo with me. The bird was a house wren, recently returned from the south to its summer home in my backyard. It'll be around the house until late September. In a quizzical manner, the wren pointed its bill at another crevice in the wall, into which it quickly disappeared. For at least 10 minutes I watched this bird playing peek-a-boo with me as it inspected almost every niche in about 20 feet of wall. I wasn't the only observer. Two chipmunks, one at either end of the stretch of rocks being checked out by the bird, watched with me. The animals were motionless and seemed apprehensive. It is the job of the house wren to inspect chipmunk repair jobs each spring before issuing the animals certificate of occupancy? Wren behavior amidst rocks is not unusual. Throughout the summer, the wren alerts on the wall while bearing one inch by inch. Once the house wren departs for the southlands, his cousin the winter wren arrives. It'll spend a few weeks hunting about the house, pecking at ants that crawl amongst the sedums, lichens and moss. Westerners are familiar with the rock wren and canyon wren, birds that spend their summers on canyon walls and rock slides. But the house wren doesn't nest in a rockpile. It prefers a house with a roof and walls. To accommodate this bird, by an inexpensive birdbush at a roadside stand, I bought one once: about eight years ago. It has a red roof and white walls. It's been hanging in a dogwood tree about five feet off the ground since the day I brought it home. Haven't touched the house since I placed it in the tree. Never paint a house used by the birds. They prefer a building that's seasoned. For three years, the wrens didn't visit my birdbush, preferring to nest in my neighbor's yard. But one winter, almost at the time when a moving van carried my neighbor's furniture to Arizona, a snow storm blew down the wren house next door. The next spring, the wrens moved into my red and green birdbush, conditioned by three years of neglect. Nest-building by a pair of wrens is an interesting activity. The female bird does the house cleaning, emptying out last year's twigs and inserting the nesting material into the house. As construction takes place, the male wren sings its tumultuous song from a perch near the nesting site, sometimes from the roof of the house itself. Sung as evidence of territoriality (possession of the site), the song resembles the chattering of a sewing machine operated by an expert seamstress. Using her hands to shift a garment from one seaming position to the next, the seamstress pumps the foot pedal as the machine between moves. Thus the song of the wren is a burst of music, delicate, another burst, delay, etc. House wrens, once attracted, will come back for years. I've placed two additional bird boxes in small trees near my house. You can't lose my wren house in one of next winter's snow storms. Remember, don't paint your birdbush. Any wren knows that a freshly painted birdbush is not meant for the birds.

Surplus belongs to taxpayers who supplied it

By GOV. TOM KEAN
New Jersey's economy — like that of the nation — has performed exceptionally well in the past year. More New Jerseyans are at work today than ever before in our state's history. Since the recession swept through the Northeast, manufacturing, construction, and trade-related jobs in New Jersey have increased dramatically. The recession has cost the 45,000 jobs lost during the recession have been recouped, but almost 200,000 new jobs have been added as the recovery continued. The Garden State has led the region out of the recession, and New Jersey's unemployment rate remains a full percentage point lower than the national average. One fortunate side-effect of New Jersey's strong economic recovery has been an easing of the fiscal troubles which constantly plagued the state government in past years. State revenues have climbed with the growth in jobs and in consumer spending, and they have exceeded the projections of our budget experts. When the current fiscal year began last June 30, we projected a budget surplus of only $47 million — less than 1 percent of the total budget, to guard against any unforeseen glitches in the economy. By January, when I proposed my budget for next year to the Legislature, the economic recovery was in full swing, and our projection for the surplus had grown to $197 million. This enabled me to propose funds for areas that had been neglected but which are returns tomorrow — as it inevitably, at some point, will. Believe that we have duty to return the benefits of New Jersey's current strong fiscal condition to those who have suffered so much in the past when that condition was weak: the taxpayers. When I proposed this plan to return money to the taxpayers, I also asked the Legislature to use a small part of the surplus to provide the necessary state matching funds to secure federal assistance for repairing the damage caused by this spring's flooding. In addition, I requested that our state approve a program which would forgive their regular pay increase scheduled for this January when we negotiated their contract during tighter fiscal times. I believe that increase on schedule now that our fiscal picture has improved. In other words, they would not have to receive the scheduled pay increase for January, even though they had agreed to wait until July for it in order to help the state tighten its belt.

Dayton stages 'Savage' play on next Friday

SPRINGFIELD—In an attempt to control a large inheritance, the stepchildren of Ethel Savage commit her to a sanitarium. But while they hope they will be brought "to her senses" and loosen the purse strings their plans are foiled. Such is the comical theme of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School's production of "The Curious Savage" to be performed June 1 at 8 p.m. in the high school's auditorium. Jennifer Karady portrays Mrs. Savage who, although not insane, wishes to remain with her institutionalized friends. A member of the National Honor Society, she has been seen in Dayton's "Hello, Dolly," "Oklahoma," "Grease" and "Guys and Dolls." Veteran stage performers also appearing in "Savage" are Lisa Barre, Brian Dalley, David Dietz, Mark Shanahan and Danielle Weiss. Wayne Kenenbach, Lyne Latham and Nancy Pracht are performing, as well as newcomers to the stage Justine Chrysal and Mark O'Donnell. Joseph Trinity, Dayton's drama teacher, provided direction for the John Patrick play while Amy Shoentfeld is student director. Tickets, at $2, are available at the door.

Grandsons succeed in scholarly acts

SPRINGFIELD—A Springfield grandchild has reason to be proud. Elvin Rothstein's grandsons, Michael and Stephen Rothstein, have recently achieved scholarly success. Michael D. Rothstein has been named as a Presidential Scholar from among nearly 3 million graduating seniors in the nation. He is a graduating senior at Yokota High School and will attend the U.S. Department of Education and the Commission on Presidential Scholars. Meanwhile, Michael's brother, Stephen, will graduate from the United States Air Force Academy this month. They are the sons of Col. and Mrs. Ralph S. Rothstein, who are presently stationed at Yokota Air Base, Japan, but are Livingston residents. Michael is one of the 500 young American students to become a finalist as a Presidential Scholar from among nearly 3 million graduating seniors in the nation. He is a graduating senior at Yokota High School and will attend the U.S. Air Force Academy. From the 500 finalists, 141 Presidential Scholars will be made by the members of the Commission on Presidential Scholars. These seniors will be invited to Washington to participate in National Recognition Week June 17 to 23. Selection is based on numerous factors in addition to academic excellence, for example, achievement in the visual and performing arts and creative writing; demonstrated leadership ability; contribution of energy and creativity to school and community; and achievement in the sciences and other fields. Stephen Rothstein is graduating from the United States Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., this month. The graduate will remain at the academy from June through September instructing a cadet survival training program. After completing this assignment, we was chosen to participate in the Euro-NATO pilot training program.

Moving woes can be eased

SPRINGFIELD—Moving can be made easier when using a free change-of-address kit available at local post offices, said Postmaster Janet Harrison of the Springfield Post Office.

The kits can be used to notify the post office, friends, business correspondents and magazines of your new address so mail will arrive promptly at a new residence.

"Last year the Postal Service forwarded 45 million pieces of mail," Harrison said. "You can avoid paying forwarding charges, and possible delays in your mail, by telling everyone your new address a month before you move."

Legislators endorse Mochary

State Sens. C. Louis Bassano and Donald DiFrancesco, Assemblymen Edward K. Gill and Bob Pranks of Union-County and Assemblywomen Maureen B. Ogden, Essex County, have joined 28 other Republican legislators to announce their endorsement of Mary V. Mochary in her bid for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Democrat Bill Bradley.

Bassano, a former assemblyman, was Union Township chairman in 1974, a member of the Union Township Committee in 1975-77, and is treasurer of the Mochary campaign.

DiFrancesco, a former assemblyman, was elected to the Senate in 1979, and has been minority leader since 1980. He served as chairman of the New Jersey Republican Legislative Campaign Committee in 1983.

Gill, elected to the General Assembly in 1981, is a former mayor of Cranford and Cranford Public Safety Commissioner. He represents the 21st Legislative District.

Assembly members Franks and Ogden represent the 22nd legislative district, including parts of Union and Essex counties. Franks, a former publisher of medical equipment reference manuals, was elected to the assembly in 1979.

Ogden, an assemblywoman since 1982, is a former mayor and deputy mayor of Millburn, and was voted Woman of the Year in 1979 by the Association of Business and Professional Women.

At a news conference at the State House in Trenton, Senate Minority Whip James R. Hurley, co-chairman of the Mochary campaign, said, "On behalf of my colleagues, I am delighted to announce that we are united behind U.S. Senatorial candidate Mary Mochary. As elected representatives of the people of New Jersey and as New Jerseyans ourselves, we have a vested interest in ensuring that our representatives in Washington are committed to the well-being of the citizens of our state, as well as to the well-being of the people of our country."

"Mary is intelligent, industrious, ingenious, and has an enormous capacity for getting things done. She is a Republican who has been enormously supportive of the Kean and Reagan administrations. Because of her record, she was the only candidate selected to serve on the New Jersey Reagan-Bush Advisory Committee. She was approved by the president to run as an alternate delegate to the National Convention, and was appointed by Governor Kean to the Job Training Co-ordinating Council.

"She is truly deserving of our support, and I am pleased to offer this endorsement of her candidacy."

Mochary said, "This endorsement from the majority of the senate and assembly Republicans is truly a boost to my campaign and key to my efforts to unseat Bill Bradley in November. I am grateful for this overwhelming show of support."

Morris chides opponent
The following statement was submitted by Robert Morris, candidate for the Republican nomination to the U.S. Senate in the June 5 primary.

"Earlier this year, Monsignor Bela Varga, former elected speaker of the General Assembly of Hungary, before being deposed by the Communists, also endorsed my candidacy for the U.S. Senate. Monsignor Varga was the spokesman for the Hungarian Freedom Fighters in the sensational Senate hearings in 1956 where I was serving as chief counsel to the committee holding the hearings.

"These people are all deeply involved in the Yalta betrayal which turned Eastern Europe over to the USSR and gave Moscow its foothold in Asia which has now been extended into a tremendous power base.

"It was the Yalta agreement which allowed the United States to betray the Hungarian Freedom Fighters in 1956. I was chief counsel to the U.S. Senate Internal Security Subcommittee when it held the hearings at that time.

"If Mary Mochary hints Yalta is ancient history, she has no sense of understanding why her former countrymen are in chains today. The same is true of the Czechs, the Poles, the Romanians and other captive peoples."

Bradley is 'Dad of Year'
Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., was named "National Father of the Year" by the National Father's Day Committee, a children's advocacy group based in New York City.

Bradley, a member of the U.S. Senate's Children's Caucus, and a former Gold Medal Olympian and Rhodes Scholar, was cited as a "leader for our times," and a "role model for all fathers." Mrs. Stetko is also commended for his efforts in Congress on behalf of all American children.

In accepting the award, Bradley told a large audience that he was "amazed at how much of what he does each day is shaped by the fact that he is a father of a 7-year-old whose life will extend into the 21st century."

"These sentiments don't quite capture the fullness of this father's feelings," Bradley concluded. "There is something more—but for today, that will have to do."

Other recipients of "National Father of the Year" awards were Senators Albert Gore and Albert Gore Jr., ABC anchorman Peter Jennings; Angels baseball player Tommy John, N.Y. Islanders hockey player Bryan Trottier; NBC weatherman Willard Scott and entertainer Paul Williams. Scott served as master of ceremonies at the luncheon which was attended by more than 1,000 guests. Proceeds will benefit the Children's Oncology Society.

COUNTY COORDINATORS—Gov. Thomas Kean, left, and Congressman James Courter (R-12th District), right, chat with Blanche Banasiak of Elizabeth and Gary Lanzara of Fanwood, Union County coordinators for President Reagan's reelection campaign. Their appointments were announced by Courter, New Jersey chairman for the Reagan-Bush campaign. Banasiak is a former chairman of the Union County Board of Freeholders and Elizabeth Republican chairman; Lanzara is Fanwood Republican chairman.

Three take 'gold' hat trick in Jr. Olympics

The 19th Annual Junior Olympics field day in Springfield saw Liz Pabel fall in her attempt to break the town record for the Junior Girls mile by a mere two seconds, in 6:18. Also winning three gold medals were Greg Gomes for Midget Boys in the 50, 100 and long jump. Greg has now defended his title as the fastest young man in town for the past three years.

Community sponsors sought for Dayton High's Lift-A-Thon

Members of Jonathan Dayton's football squad will be busy this week as they prepare for the school's annual Lift-A-Thon, a fund-raising event for a summer football camp by lifting weights.

A Lift-A-Thon, using the bench press, will be the focus as the squad will attempt to secure enough pledges to defray the cost of attending the camp in the Poconos.

The players will ask for a pledge per pound. If the player lifts 200 pounds, for example, and each pledge is one cent, he will have raised $2. Each player has a goal of $100.

Coach Tony Policare will take his squad to the Poconos Aug. 28 for an intensive five-day training camp. The entire 55-man squad and coaching staff anticipate going.

Members of the community interested in pledging for the Lift-A-Thon, which begins today and will continue through Tuesday, may contact Policare at the high school, Mountain Avenue, Springfield, phone 378-6300.

Dayton shocks Union in UCT semifinal

By WAYNE TILLMAN
As Dayton softball coach Howard Cashin said, "Our chances of beating Union were slim and none."

But nobody told that to Sharon Kutsop.

The junior right-handed ace of the Bulldogs pitched the game of her life Friday, and because of her, Dayton staged the biggest upset of the 1984 season in New Jersey, blanking the previously unbeaten and third-ranked Union High School Lady Farmers, 2-0, in the semifinals of the Union County Tournament at the Margaret "Toots" Nasse field in Linden.

Dayton will now meet Westfield, a 9-1 victor over Roselle Park in the other semifinal, in the championship game tomorrow night at 8:30. The junior

Dayton skids by losing three

It was a rough week for Jonathan Dayton as it dropped three decisions in baseball action.

Dayton's Bulldogs were buried by six Ridge home runs as they lost 10-3 May 15 in Springfield.

Ridge was led by two-homer performances each by Bob Saraceno, the winning pitcher, and John Homestead. Dan Collins and John Iannone also hit solo shots for the winners.

The lone bright spot for Dayton was Ed Marino's single that drove in two runs.

The Bulldogs' losing was continued May 17 as they fell to Gov. Livingston 15-3 in Berkeley Heights.

The victors were led by Gary Ruban who went three-for-four with three RBIs, two triples, a double and three runs scored.

Marc Saxe, hurling for Manville, allowed six hits and struck out two Bulldogs.

Dropping a 9-3 decision to Millburn added to the Bulldogs' woes Monday in Millburn.

Extra-base hits killed Dayton. Millburn's Steve Meyers hit a grand slam in the fourth inning that wiped out a 3-0 Bulldog lead.

Millburn led the victory on the strength of Roger Cantor's three-run triple in the sixth. Dayton was limited to only four hits by Millburn hurler Chip Keenan. Greg Torborg stroked a two-run single for the Bulldogs.

Through Monday, the Bulldogs are 4-14 overall and 3-8 in the Mountain Division of the Mountain Valley Conference with only one game left on the regular season schedule.

Bulldogs to take on Westfield for title tomorrow

But never got the timely hit that could have turned the game in its favor.

"Dayton made the plays, and we didn't get the breaks," said Union Coach George Hopkins. "We made mistakes, but still played well, and that's part of the game. Kutsop is a good pitcher."

The game was scoreless through six innings before Dayton scored the only runs it needed in the top of the seventh. Kutsop began the frame by doubling off the glove of Lisa Parvlin. Carol Heymann's single drove — her — in. Heymann eventually came around on a delayed suicide squeeze bunt by Michele Coddington.

Dayton had three hits in the inning, but they did what very few teams have been able to do this season: score runs. In her two prior UCT games, she had allowed no runs and only one hit.

Kutsop then got Union out in the bottom of the seventh, touching off a jubilation celebration by the players and the Dayton supporters.

"I didn't think we could do it," said a tired but happy Kutsop afterwards. "It was the best game I ever pitched. We knew about Union's reputation, but the defense was great and we got the outs when we had to. I wanted to make them hit the ball, so I made sure I got the ball over."

"We'll come back. We did after losing our first game last year and we will this year," said Hopkins.

The Blue Devils tied the game in the second off Lisa Dragon as Kim Canata singled and scored on a hit by Kathy McKeally. And then came the fifth.

In the other semifinal, the game was tied after four innings at 1-1, which resembled Monday's meeting between the two teams that Park eventually won, 2-1. But Coach Carol Donner's Westfield squad reversed the decision this time.

Roselle Park took a 1-0 lead in the first off winning pitcher Nancy Kasko as Maureen Miller was hit by a pitch and eventually scored on Karen Critelli's sacrifice fly. But RP's hope of reaching the county finals for the third year in a row evaporated in the fifth and sixth innings.

The Blue Devils tied the game in the second off Lisa Dragon as Kim Canata singled and scored on a hit by Kathy McKeally. And then came the fifth.

Can the Bulldogs play the giant killers again? The answer comes tomorrow night.

Miller scored the fourth run and Wendy Walbert's single accounted for the final tally.

In the sixth, Westfield knocked out Dragon with three more runs, as Canata drove in one with a single, and a fielder's choice and a wild pitch added the final runs. In all, Westfield had 12 hits and Roselle Park six.

"We hit the ball, and I was pleased with the way we swung the bat," said Park Coach John Wagner. "They just beat us, we didn't give it to them."

"We just waited on Dragon's pitches this time," said Donner. "We made a minor adjustment in our hitting and that made the difference."

So tomorrow night, Westfield will seek to win its third county crown, Dayton its first. It's another case of David versus Goliath.

Can the Bulldogs play the giant killers again? The answer comes tomorrow night.

MARATHON MAN—Scott Black crosses the finish line in the Brooklyn Hall Marathon held earlier this spring. The Springfield runner won the Male 14 and under category at the Indian Trail Half Marathon Sunday.

1984 Garden State Games set

By WAYNE TILLMAN
Seven years ago, the state of New York formed an event with Olympic-style competitions called the Empire State Games.

From across the Hudson, New Jersey wanted something just like it, and last year, the first Garden State Games took place. Now this popular event is ready to begin its second year with even more competitions and more chances for the youth of the Garden State to display their athletic skills.

"The Garden State Games have done a lot for sports in New Jersey," said Ron Freeman of the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness during a recent press conference at Rutgers. "I hope the true meaning of these games is not lost. Fitness is fun, this brings out the talent in the athletes and the youth competing today are the athletes of tomorrow."

Beginning July 14 at Rutgers Stadium in Piscataway with the opening ceremonies, the Games will begin competition in 53 sports in the scholastic, open and masters categories, many of them new sports.

Some of the new sports to be introduced will be the biathlon, board-sailing, bocce, body building, croquet, golf, harness racing, a life-guard tournament, marathon row, ocean swim, racquetball, rugby, run-swim-run, rhythmic gymnastics.

Bears drop 2

David L. Brearley's Bears dropped two games this week as the end of the season approaches.

Brearley had a tough time in Somerset May 15 as the Bears fell to Immaculata 2-1.

The Bears continued to struggle as they were shut out on a one-hitter 7-0 at the hands of Manville May 17 in Kenilworth.

Patti Wantrowski, a leftie sophomore, pitched the gem for Manville surrendering only a third-inning single to the Bears' Tracy Schmidt. She struck out two and walked four.

Leading Manville were Jamie Combedo who drove in a run in the fourth with a double and another run in the seventh with a bunt.

Through May 17, the Bears are 4-10-1 overall and 2-9 in the Valley Division of the Mountain Valley Conference.

(Essex, Hudson and Union); Shorelands (Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean and Somerset); Pinelands (Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester and Salem).

Assemblyman Anthony Villano, who introduced the bill last year that provided the competition with $100,000 in state backing, is seeking $150,000 in appropriations this year and the Games have been backed strongly by Gov. Thomas Kean.

Also on display at the press gathering was a replica of the Governor's Cup, which will be awarded to each of the outstanding athletes at this year's event.

Applications for the events and additional information may be obtained by writing to the Garden State Games Committee at 1313 Esterbrook Ave., Rahway 07065, or by calling 381-9666.

Last year's Games were a major success, and President Dick Steadman promises this year to be just as exciting.

It's a picnic ... if the site is right

By ADA BRUNNER
Picnic, anyone?
With Memorial Day just around the corner, that question will be heard more and more frequently.

Some Union County residents saying "yes" in response will be making plans to hold those picnics in Union County parks. But if they want to make it a Memorial Day weekend picnic, it will have to be Memorial Day 1985.

While there are picnic tables scattered throughout all of the county's 25 parks which are available on a first-come, first-served basis, the 22 reservable areas have to be booked well in advance.

Jean Lanham of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation suggested that those interested in making a reservation call about a month in advance — "if not sooner."

"Weekends get booked very quickly," she said. The demand is particularly heavy for Rahway River Park, Warinanco Park, Nomahegan Park and Echo Lake Park, she said.

Joe Michaels and Arlene Francis will be grand marshals of Senior Olympics '84 this weekend.

Michaels and Francis, co-hosts of WNBC-TV's "Prime of Your Life," will make the award presentations to winners of the Sunday morning events at 2 p.m. ceremonies at Newark Academy in Livingston.

Senior Olympics '84, open to men and women age 55 and up, will be held on Sunday and Monday, May 27 and 28, at the Livingston location and at Essex Racquet Club in West Orange. In case of rain, tennis events will be held at the Four Seasons Athletic Club in East Hanover.

Senior Olympics is co-sponsored by United Jersey Bank and the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey in cooperation with Bevil, Bresler & Schulman Incorporated.

A torch-lighting ceremony will open Senior Olympics at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the V. 700 Northfield Ave. West Orange.

The games Sunday and Monday feature more than 30 events ranging from dashes and the discus to swimming, horsehoes and handball.

An accomplished swimmer, Michaels will take part in the 100-meter individual medley and the 200-meter freestyle swims. These events take place from 11 a.m. to noon at the academy pool.

"I'm delighted to be actually involved in Senior Olympics," said Michaels. "I swim and run myself. It makes me feel better and I've always believed that people should do what gives them pleasure and fulfillment."

In a 40-year career as a journalist, Michaels has won 14 Emmy awards for his work as a reporter, producer and writer and has served as a reporter for NBC News and "The Today Show" in the Middle East, Vietnam, Europe and South America.

In 1958 he was named NBC News Rome bureau chief and in 1960 he was appointed head of NBC's Moscow Bureau. He became executive producer of WNBC-TV in 1967 and editorial director in 1974.

Named "Most Popular Female Voice on the Air" in a 1981 national radio poll, Francis began her television career as a panelist on the prime-time series "What's My Line?" with host John Daly. She went on to host "The Arlene Francis Show" and the "Home" show for NBC and has appeared frequently on "The Today Show" and "The Tonight Show."

Before coming to television, Francis appeared in Arthur Miller's "All My Sons." She also appeared with James Stewart and Helen Hayes in the CBS television presentation of "Harvey." She won a George Foster Peabody Award for her hosting of the NBC radio series "Family Living," and has received numerous awards for her commitment to humanitarian causes, including issues concerning senior citizens.

Summer jobs again available for young people

For the second consecutive year, the Union County Department of Human Resources will offer summer jobs to county young people between the ages of 16 and 22.

Joe Salemine, director of the Division of Youth Services, said registration will continue until May 31 for the 153 positions which will be available. The county will

ALSO FOR SENIORS

The New Jersey Federation of Senior Citizens holds its ninth annual convention today at Mercer County Community College's West Windsor campus.

Focal point of this year's program, which gets under way at 9 a.m. and continues until 3 p.m., is health care — Medicare, Medicaid and assistance for the "medically needy."

Peter Shields, director of the Union County Division on Aging, is the keynote speaker.

The gerontology department at Kent College, Union, will present a conference on "Education for Older Adults: What It Is, How to Do It," next Thursday in Downs Hall.

Speakers at the program, which will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., will include Erna Polly Williams, an adult educator at Rutgers University; Harry Moody, co-director of the National Policy Center in Education, Leisure and Continuing Opportunities for Older Persons, National Council on the Aging, and deputy director of the Hunter College Brookdale Center on Aging; and State Senator Matthew Feldman of the State Education Committee.

A panel will include Clifford Swisher, director of audio-visual education in Clifton; Debbie Rosner, director of the older adults service at the YMHA of Metropolitan New Jersey; Joseph Tramulosa, director of educational programs for older adults at Fairleigh Dickinson University; and James Farrel, principal for community education in the East Windsor Regional School District.

A bill sponsored by Assemblyman Thomas W. Long (D-20th District) which would allow counties to operate new nursing home facilities outside the state's 5 percent cap on budget increases has been approved unanimously by the Assembly.

The bill, which is being co-sponsored in the upper house by State Senator Raymond Lesniak (D-20th District), would permit counties to add to a nursing home facility and then operate it for one year without counting as part of the 5 percent cap on operating budget increases. After the first year, the counties would have to subtract the money they receive in additional revenues, Long said.

use $250,000 in federal revenue sharing funds to pay for the program.

The 153 positions will be in addition to 1,100 jobs to be made available under the annual Union County Summer Youth Employment Program with a $1.4 million grant from the New Jersey Department of Labor.

Five local agencies have been approved to assist in recruitment for these information on both programs is available by calling 527-4800.

Medalist records now in national archives

In a culmination of work begun by the late Paul L. Angelo Sr., materials catalogued in the Union County Medal of Honor Library have been presented to the Congressional Medal of Honor Society Archives national headquarters aboard the U.S.S. Intrepid Sea-Air-Space Museum in New York City.

The presentation was made by Arthur J. Gris, Union County manager, to Ronald E. Ray, president of the Congressional Medal of Honor Society and himself a Medal of Honor recipient (1976, Viet Nam), establishing the National Medal of Honor Society Archives.

Paul Angelo Sr., director of veterans interment in the Union County Department of Human Resources until his death in February, was responsible for starting the research that led to the discovery of hundreds of Medal of Honor recipients' gravesites throughout the nation that were previously unrecorded.

Two New Jerseyans who won the Medal of Honor in World War II were present at the ceremony — Stephen Gregg of Bayonne, who was awarded the medal in 1944, Nicholas Oresko of Tenafly, who received it in 1945.

Jerome DeParlier, an officer in the Union County Flag Guardian Committee, led the Pledge of Allegiance. The Flag Guardian Committee instructs county officials, schools, businesses and agencies in the proper procedures of displaying the American flag, looks for any improper display of the flag in Union County and attempts to correct it.

Charlotte DeFilippo, chairman of the Union County Board of Freeholders, presented a certificate of appreciation to Hillside Police Sgt. Paul L. Angelo Jr., in appreciation for the work his father did for Union County Medal of Honor recipients.

Joan D. Smith, director of the Union County Department of Human Resources, gave the opening welcome to the assemblage, saying, "The transfer of these valuable historic materials to the archives insures that Paul Angelo's tireless work will be available for many generations to come."

Camp Union reopens

Camp Union, the day camp operated by the Union County Organization to Aid Children With Learning Disabilities, will hold sessions once again this summer at Battle Hill School in Union.

The camp is open to children from 5 to 14 years of age who have learning and/or behavioral problems, according to Lella Kantor, director.

It will operate from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily, Mondays through Fridays, from July 2 to Aug. 10.

Activities will include swimming at the Boys and Girls Club of Union, physical education, music, arts and crafts, field trips and instruction in health care and social skills.

For children who live in Union Township, transportation will be provided; for those outside the township, special arrangements for transportation can sometimes be made through the camp director or the local school board, Kantor said.

Camp fees are $65 for one week, $195 for a half session of three weeks and $370 for the full session of six weeks.

Further information is available from Linda Lewis at 687-5502 or Pam Drotar at 682-6554.

Chamber to be host to seminar

The Environmental Factors Committee of the Union County Chamber of Commerce will host an informal seminar today on the Environmental Clean-up Act (ECRA).

ECRA regulations require that the Department of Environmental Protection approve the condition of any property that in the past has been used for the manufacture, storage, incidental use or generation of hazardous wastes.

The seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the Coachman Inn, Cranford. The half day session will finish by noon, followed by lunch, at which time informal discussions may be held.

UNION TOWNSHIP

A Union Township brochure lists eight municipal picnic areas, but five of them are simply tables at township playgrounds, with no toilet facilities.

It is the other three — Rabkin Park, Biertumpfel Park and Weber Park — for which permits are regularly issued by the Recreation Department.

And of these, Rabkin Park is by far the most popular, according to Evelyn Manca of the Recreation Department. Weber Park is second; the Biertumpfel Park site is too small for most groups, accommodating no more than 20 or 25 people, she noted.

The heavy season for the three municipal picnic sites won't start until next month. But then it will be heavy. Manca said, reporting that all three are already fully booked for June.

Applications for permits start coming in on Jan. 1 each year, though the permits themselves are not usually issued until about mid-March.

Yair to speak

Brigadier General Yair of the Israel Defense Forces will be the principal speaker at the ninth annual supper sponsored by Eastern Union County Jewish National Fund Sunday, June 3, at 8 p.m. at the YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union.

Gloria and Seymour St. Lifer of Hillside will be honored for service to the Jewish community.

Reservations for the supper may be made at the JNF office, 623-3023.

Festival slated for June 9, 10

The Bayern Verein, Newark, and Elizabeth Sport Club, will hold a two-day international beer and folk dance festival on Saturday and Sunday, June 9 and 10, at Farcher's Grove, Springfield Road, Union.

Entertainment will be on an international theme, featuring folk dancers representing Germany, Poland and Russia. The Matuz Polish Dancers, Glinka Russian Dancers, Edelweiss Passaic and Bayern Verein Kinder Group will perform.

On Saturday, the Knickerbockers will play; on Sunday, Bernie's Orchestra and Paul Kohler. Also appearing will be Hermet Duesinger, bell ringer. There will be games for the children and an "ice cream parade" on Sunday.

Bavarian delicacies such as roast steer, Bavarian bratwurst, knockwurst, hot dogs, German potato salad and sauerkraut will be available. Doors will open at 8 p.m. on Saturday and 12:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Applicants have to be township residents or township businesses, she reported, and the application form asks how many of those attending will be Unionites.
Where to call: 686-4200.

SPRINGFIELD

Springfield operates seven municipal sites, which can be reserved through a phone call or letter to the Recreation Department.

Recreation officials recommend that those interested call two or three weeks in advance. Persons receiving permits must clean up the sites before they leave. In general, the sites are most easily available on weekends. On weekdays, they are in use for organized programs.

Where to call: 376-5894.

LINDEN

The Linden Recreation Department already has heavy bookings for June and July for city-operated picnic sites at Memorial Park in Tremley Point, 10th Ward Park and 4th Ward Park, department officials reported.

For the Memorial Day weekend, sites were still available late last week. But recreation officials recommended that anyone planning a picnic call as soon as possible.

The city charges no fee for use of the sites but requires a $15 deposit for its "picnic kits," which contain a volleyball, softball and other sports equipment.
Where to call: 862-0300.

Pilot project in high tech will begin at Kean

The first phase of a four-year pilot project to create a model high technology computer-aided manufacturing program for workers in the machinery industry will bring more than 30 machinists to Kean College of New Jersey this spring.

Dr. John Sladicka, of Lebanon, chairperson of the Technology Department, said a grant from the State Department of Higher Education for $34,000 will cover the beginnings of the project — a high technology five-course program in computer numerical control.

In the year-and-a-half it will take a class of machinists to complete the technological training in the School of Education, Technology and Related Services, they also will be exposed to seminar subjects dealing with sociology, psychology and economics. These areas will be covered in the School of Humanities, Social and Administrative Sciences.

Dr. William Kempey of Allendale, an associate professor of economics and management sciences, provided the liaison between the college and the International Association of Machinists (IAM-CIO), who are cooperating in the program. The pilot project is aimed at upgrading the technological skills of the workers.

Dog show will be held Monday

The Union County Kennel Club will hold its 53rd all breed dog show on Monday on the grounds of Schering-Plough in Kenilworth. The show will include entries from most of the breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club, obedience trials and junior showmanship competition. The show will begin at 9 a.m. and judging of groups and best in show is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. This is the second year that the Union County Kennel Club is offering obedience trials. Grave markers offered by VA

A free pamphlet describing the Veterans Administration program for marking the graves of veterans buried in national and private cemeteries is available by calling the nearest VA office.

"The Veterans Headstone and Marker Program," VA Pamphlet 40-107, was developed by VA's Department of Memorial Affairs' Monument Service. Last year, more than 210,000 headstones or markers were shipped to mark the graves of veterans in private cemeteries and approximately 45,000 went to national cemeteries for the graves of veterans and their dependents. Men and women veterans of wartime and peacetime service who were discharged from active military service under conditions other than dishonorable are eligible for this benefit, and in certain circumstances, veterans' dependents may be eligible.

The pamphlet also includes information on the types of monuments available; monetary allowance in lieu of a government-furnished marker; replacement rules; additional inscriptions; how application is made; and shipment and setting of markers.

While the pamphlet is intended to cover the program in broad terms, additional information is contained on the instruction sheet which accompanies the application for marker, VA Form 40-1330.

Any VA office can provide information and necessary forms needed to apply for a monument or an application for reimbursement of headstone and marker expense. Toll free numbers are located under U.S. Government in the telephone directory.

Kean prof author of book on air pollution analysis

A Kean College of New Jersey meteorologist is the author of a new book on air pollution.

Dr. Charles Murphy of Cranford, an associate professor at the Union campus, has written the "Handbook of Particle Sampling and Analysis Methods," which he says is aimed at researchers in the field of air pollution, government environmentalists, public health officers and companies that are concerned with "corporate hygiene."

Murphy said of the book, "It was designed to be most useful to people who don't have a lot of experience in this field. And it is designed so they can go through the decision-making process step by step."

"You have to make decisions about how you are going to collect the particles, the best instrument to use, and the methods of analysis for examining the particles after you have collected them."

The book also helps in planning and managing projects, researching the particles in the atmosphere or in a working environment, Murphy said. In addition to professionals in the field, Murphy said, the book also will be valuable in graduate schools that specialize in environmental science.

It took Murphy a year to write the book and it was another year before the publisher, Verlag Chemie International, Deerfield Beach, Fla., completed editing and typesetting.

It was the publisher who approached Murphy to write the book, the Kean meteorologist said.

Lung Association elects officers

Patricia A. Eichelé of Westfield, director of nursing at Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, was elected president of the American Lung Association of Central New Jersey at the group's annual business and dinner meeting recently at the Ramada Inn, Clark.

Also elected were Brian J. Collins, M.D., of Westfield, vice president, and Richard H. Guess, D.D.S., secretary.

Eichelé has been a director of the Lung Association since May of 1979. During her tenure she has served as vice president, assistant treasurer and chairman of the association's long-range planning and patient services committees.

She was instrumental in the development of the family asthma program, respiratory education and support program and summer camp for youngsters with asthma, which are offered in cooperation with Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside.

Collins joined the board of directors in 1979. He was a leading force in the establishment of the pulmonary rehabilitation program at Alexian Brothers Hospital.

Redford's 'natural' performance clears all the bases in latest film

By BEA SMITH
"The Natural," a delightful film adaptation of Bernard Malamud's 1952 novel, now at the Linden and Bellevue cinemas, has something for everyone!

For the men and the boys, it has some of the most realistic and exciting baseball plays and whole scenes ever shown on the screen. (They are reminiscent of the memorable scenes from Gary Cooper's "Pride of the Yankees.")

For the women and the girls, it has Robert Redford, whose golden smile matches his golden hair, and whose four-year absence from the screen makes his presence ever more appealing. This viewer has never seen a man begin to age so gracefully; there is a ruggedness now in Redford that merely adds to his beauty.

And above all, his acting abilities have improved so that he gives the best performance of his career in "The Natural." Redford portrays Roy Hobbs, a farm boy, who in his early years, gets his baseball training from his father, a man who recognizes his son's great potential as an extremely talented pitcher. After his father's untimely death, Hobbs manages to find an agent who arranges for the big-time tryout. On the eve of the tryout, however, Hobbs is shot by a mysterious woman on a train. It is 15 years before he is able to find his way again into the world of baseball. And although he has retained his potential to greatness, he is, after all, a middle-aged rookie, and his fellow players occasionally tease him and refer to him as "Grandpa."

The greatness in baseball that should have been Roy Hobbs becomes his downfall, when his old wound returns to haunt him.

The others in the cast give equally brilliant performances, particularly Robert Duvall, a crude sportswriter-cartoonist, whose cruelty to Hobbs in "getting a story" turns Hobbs into an embittered species; and Glenn Close, Wilford Brimley, Richard Farnsworth, Kim Basinger, Barbara Hershey and Robert Prosky.

Barry Levinson does an excellent job of directing a difficult and complex screenplay, written by Roger Towne and Phil Dusenberry. More complex, it seems, is the photography with its subdued brown and orange colors, its deep, dark shadows, its effective slow-motion moments. It's all very impressive in its opening scenes, but it can become wearisome, unnatural and straining by the film's end.

Nevertheless, Malamud's philosophical book about a baseball "near-great" does the author justice on the big screen. And a critic must admit that "The Natural" is Redford's greatest triumph!

And movie audiences are enthusiastically welcoming him back to the screen with open arms — and loving hearts!

important dates around the country and learned there weren't any records in the stores," remarks Jack Blades, Night Ranger's bassist and one of their two lead vocalists. "It emotionally affected the band at first, but we knew we had to move on and begin writing and rehearsing for our next album," adds Brad Gillis, one of the band's two lead guitarists and whose background includes playing lead guitar for Ozzy Osbourne on his recent live set, "Speak of the Devil." "We didn't want to lose any of our momentum."

"Midnight Madness" is filled with plenty of lunging rhythms, screaming lead guitar riffs, keyboard and synthesizer flourishes, strong lead vocals and three-part harmonies. As the LP bears out, one of Night Ranger's immediately identifiable trademarks is the close stylistic interplay between guitarists Brad Gillis and Jeff Watson. Playing a '62 Stratocaster with a tremolo bar and a '56 gold top Les Paul, respectively, Gillis and Watson dazingly complement each other and join together for some fluid dual harmony.

"Brad has his whole wild and crazy vibrato kind of feel, while Jeff is a straight-ahead speedster, a real burner," remarks Blades. "Their styles are so different, yet when they play parts together, they create this whole mood and atmosphere that jells into one sound."

Spotlighting the songwriting talents of Blades, Gillis, Kelly Keagy and Alan "Fitz" Gerardi, "Midnight Madness" zooms in on relationships, romantic upheavals ("The old place don't seem the same anymore/Yesterday's dreams are discarded on the bedroom floor," sings Keagy in "Why Does Love Have To Change?") and the healing power of rock ("You Can Still Rock in America"). What inspired the latter song? "When we were out touring the country," Blades points out, "we found that a lot of people wanted to get up and declare their love for rock & roll regardless of the fact that some magazines were saying that rock & roll was being replaced by a new age synth-pop."

The Night Ranger story has its beginning in 1976 in the California funkrock band Rubicon. Rubicon was cofounded by Blades, Gillis and Keagy and joined by the time the band called it quits in 1978. The chemistry between the three musicians soon led to the formation of a rock band known as Stereo. Though the group was short-lived, the influence of Gillis' rock guitar and a growing songwriting partnership between Blades and Keagy laid the foundation for what was to become Night Ranger.

By MILT HAMMER
Pick of the LPs, "Midnight Madness," by Night Ranger (MCA/Camel Records).

Without relying on any musical fadism or gimmickry, Night Ranger has emerged as one of the most successful and spirited new rock and roll bands. On "Midnight Madness," its second album and first for MCA/Camel Records, the Bay Area quintet has engagingly refined its catchy metal-pop hybrid without sacrificing any of the bite or intensity of its debut album, "Dawn Patrol."

Released toward the end of last year, "Dawn Patrol" promptly became an AOR radio favorite and turned gold, propelled by the success of the smash hit single, "Don't Tell Me You Love Me," which took a close look at modern passion in the dark.

Night Ranger's profile was subsequently advanced via performances with Sammy Hagar on a cross-country trek, heavy MTV exposure of the "Don't Tell Me You Love Me" video, and appearances on "American Bandstand," "Solid Gold" and "Rock 'n' Roll Tontle." But as it turned out, the breakthrough success of "Dawn Patrol" was cut short when Boardwalk Records suddenly folded.

"It was pretty crazy. We were playing

Reddy, who has nine gold and three platinum albums, and is the recipient of the music industry's Grammy Award, has appeared in the films, "Airport '75," "Pete's Dragon" and "Sgt. Pepper." She also sang the title track for John Belushi's "Continental Divide."

Born in Australia, Reddy came to America in 1966. She was catapulted to fame when the song, for which she wrote the lyrics, "I Am Woman," became "an anthem of social change." After all, I'm still a salesman, but now I'm selling yarns instead of silk."

Rebecca's forecast

FOR MAY 25-31
Aries (3/21-4/20) Emotional flareups with relatives, siblings or neighbors are possible early in this period. Choose your words carefully and save yourself regret! Later, take advantage of work-related opportunities, don't allow others to take advantage of you financially and spruce up your wardrobe and appearance.
Taurus (4/21-5/21) Be alert to financial foul-ups early in the week; postpone long-term decisions if possible and keep a tight rein on your pocketbook. Later, the domestic scene is testy, children can be aggravating and even the most romantic plans could fizzle with little warning. Most will be glad the week is over!
Gemini (5/22-6/21) Tread lightly in personal as well as professional relationships or you risk severing important ties! Local travel, visiting or goings-on could be disappointing. Set your sights realistically. Later the emphasis shifts to family and domestic matters, and unfortunately you can't please everyone.

Cancer (6/22-7/23) The private side of your life is aspected early this week, as well as health and career matters. Avoid pushing another into a corner, or you're likely to lose! Later your direct manner could arouse antagonism. Be stringent in financial issues and organize priorities for the busy week ahead.
Leo (7/24-8/23) A clash with a friend or co-worker is possible early in this period, and a parting of the ways is evident to many. Keeping a low profile gets better results now. Further self interests discreetly. Later, expect a change of plans. Finances blossom. Avoid intruding on other's territory.
Virgo (8/24-9/23) Career, domestic and family interests are high on your list of priorities now and far-reaching events may begin during the early part of this week. Focus attention on important decisions. Later, private or personal matters demand attention. Keep things low key for best results. Avoid temper displays!

Libra (9/24-10/23) Upsets related to laws or those at a distance are probable for many early in the week. The less made of the whole issue the better — easier said than done! Friendships could be strained by occurrences later in the week. Avoid jeopardizing your financial progress. Unexpected messages arrive.
Scorpio (10/24-11/22) Tax, insurance or jointly-held funds will assume importance in the weeks ahead and important long range decisions are likely. A mate or partner's income becomes unpredictable or unreliable. Later, career demands escalate, family matters are touchy and personal obligations continue to mount.
Sagittarius (11/23-12/21) Be prepared for a mate's increasing need for independence. Professional relationships continue to vacillate and unusual changes in personality or appearance begin to emerge. Later, secret or hush-hush meetings or agreements benefit your fitness and a change of residence may be in the offing.

Capricorn (12/22-1/20) The emphasis will be felt in matters related to career, health or dependents. Interests for much of this week. Those in publishing or teaching are rewarded very soon and a celebration of some sort is indicated. Later, luck attends travel. Clear your good name and weed out problematic friendships.
Aquarius (1/21-2/19) Romantic, creative and leisure pursuits continue to dominate this period. Avert emotional confrontations with loved ones early in the week. Later, home fix-ups are likely to be on the agenda and startling news arrives. Continue to be conservative in all financial, tax or insurance matters.
Pisces (2/20-3/20) Early in the week, distant news is unsettling for many. Avoid an impulsive decision and steer clear of involvements that are clearly out of your league. Later, expect tension to mount in work, career or personal affairs. A long-time ally may rescind support. A surprise awaits you very soon!
