After 12 yrs Buehrer ret.

By VICKI VREELAND
 The Springfield Township Committee regretfully accepted the resignation of a longtime township employee and heard pleas for support from representatives of two citizens committees at its meeting Tuesday.

Arthur Buehrer, who has served as township clerk for 12 years, will retire effective Aug. 31. Next week's issue of "the newspaper" will feature an interview with Buehrer, and comments from the township committee.

The public's comments came following the passage of two ordinances and the introduction of two others.

On final hearing, an ordinance to appropriate $280,000 for the purchase of a new aerial ladder truck for the fire department was approved, along with an ordinance to establish fees of no more than $25 for the use of the Sarah Bailey Civic Center.

The governing body introduced an ordinance to appropriate $210,000 for a state-mandated reevaluation of the township. The last property evaluation was conducted about seven years ago.

Also introduced was an ordinance to appropriate $12,000 for the purchase of a multi-channel logging recorder system for the police department. Committee member William Cieri said it will replace the 4-year-old recorder the department presently uses to record incoming and outgoing calls. Public hearings and second readings of the above ordinances are expected to be held at the committee's next meeting, July 19.

The committee voted 3-2 to appoint a new member and two alternates to the Zoning Board of Adjustment for the remainder of the term of Michael Menza, who was appointed an alternate Jan. 1. He will replace Robert Haarsgaard, who recently moved.

"These were strictly political appointments," said Kaish. "They were not based on experience, but because these people helped in their election. When the Democrats were in, we reappointed many Republicans. They appoint only in their own party. I find it personally insulting because they are doing the town a disservice."

Handy Grossberg, member of the "Committee to Take Traffic off Briar Hills Circle" stated that the group demanded some action be taken by the township committee to provide relief from heavy traffic on their street.

"We're demanding that an ordinance to reduce traffic on our street has to be made to reduce traffic on this main traffic flow," Grossberg said.

Grossberg said that a new 24-hour traffic count made in May on Charles Street and the intersection of Rolling Rock Road and Possum Pass by the Mountaintop Police Department, showed a 25 percent increase over the last traffic count of three years ago.

The Mountaintop count on two separate days, counted more than 5,000 cars. During the rush hour between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., more than 1,200 cars were counted.

According to a memo from Mountaintop Mayor Bruce Geiger, "the most effective ways to reduce traffic in the evening will be the opening of Route 70 and/or a major change in Route 22 and New Providence Road intersection."

According to Springfield Mayor Philip Feinuch, who has authorized extra police presence on the street, 153 summonses have been issued to motor vehicle violators on Briar Hills Circle since June 11.

Howard Mayer of Briar Hills Circle said the most feasible solution would be to allow access to Possum Pass to all eastbound vehicles, but to close it westbound, except for emergency vehicles.

Citizens should leave the 4th to pros

By VICKI VREELAND
 Those who enjoy the sparkles of color that traditionally light up the sky on July 4, should go to Meisel Field to see them and not attempt to perform an amateur show at home.

State residents should know that it is unlawful to manufacture, sell, transport or use dangerous fireworks within the state, according to the amended state "Fireworks Act."

What citizens may not know is that a number of fairly common and easily obtained devices are defined as dangerous.

Items in that category are paper caps containing more than 25 grains of explosive composition, firecrackers or salutes exceeding 5 inches in length or three-quarters of an inch in diameter, and sparklers that contain a match tip or similar igniting point, unless the tip is thoroughly covered and securely protected from accidental contact or friction with any other surface.

The amended bill upgrades the severity of a fireworks offense along with the imposed fines and jail terms.

Anyone who unlawfully transports fireworks into or within New Jersey, would be guilty of a fourth degree crime and punished by a fine up to $7,500 and/or imprisonment for up to 18 months.

The previous penalties called for fines from $25 to $10,000, and up to one year in prison.

Anyone who offers fireworks for sale will be guilty of a disorderly persons offense, punishable by a maximum fine of $1,000 and/or six months in jail. This amendment replaces a $100 fine.

According to John Cottage, fireworks chairman, the gates will open to the public at 7 p.m. Cottage said because of last year's large turnout, this year's display, "will be the largest ever." The show is scheduled to run about 45 minutes.

Scott Seidel, co-chairman, said that donations from the public will help defray the approximate $6,000 cost of the pyrotechnics.

Assisting the Office of Emergency Management with the fireworks presentation will be the 23rd Unger Post 273 of the Jewish War Veterans and the Springfield American Legion Post.

In the event of inclement weather, the fireworks will be held on the next clear night.

Fireworks fest set for the 4th

The annual Springfield Fireworks Display will be held on the 4th of July in Meisel Field, Meisel Avenue, Springfield, beginning at dusk.

Case dropped against officer

The second complaint filed by a Kentworth resident against a Springfield police officer was dropped June 20 in Summit Municipal Court "for lack of prosecution."

In the original assault complaint filed against Patrolman Ivan Shapow, the officer was found not guilty May 20.

The following day, the resident, Ronald Cera, 27, filed a complaint of "terroristic threats," which he alleged Shapow made following the outcome of the Summit court hearing. That complaint was dismissed last week.

Judge rules on Walton

The Springfield Board of Education has been directed by Superior Court Judge Milton Feller to divide the one-lot Edward Walton School property deed into two separate deeds.

The June 20 decision was the outcome of a suit filed by Greensprings Estates, Inc., to mandate the board to divide the deed in accordance with a subdivision granted by the Springfield Planning Board.

Greensprings was awarded a $1,055.00 contract for the Walton School property last October.

According to Yale Greenspoon, board attorney, Judge Feller ruled that the deeds would be divided "without prejudice."

The board of education will have possession of the dual deeds, along with being allowed to make an additional deed of one lot, that would supersede the split deeds in the event that a lawsuit challenging the contract for the sale of the Walton School is successful.

Greenspoon said the board could then, "not be stuck with the subdivision."

Greensprings had 100 days from the receipt of their subdivision to "perfect" it before it becomes invalid. According to Greenspoon, the building corporation had the option of preparing a map of the subdivision and filing it with the county, or having the board of education divide the property.

Rec department has two positions open

The Springfield Recreation Department has two positions open.

The department seeks people to work in the snack bar at the Municipal Pool. The individual must be 18 years old.

In addition, the department seeks a park leader. The applicants for this position must be at least 17.

Interested applicants may contact the department at 376-3884 or come to the office at 38 Church Hill.

Fire Department has eyes on a new truck

By VICKI VREELAND
 "It may be a little like learning to ride a bicycle again when the Springfield Fire Department finally gets its new hook and ladder truck.

The men are used to pampering the 26-year-old baby that has served them faithfully until recently. The arrival of high-rise buildings in municipalities creates a problem—the 1958 truck is obsolete—its 85-foot ladder is obsolete for modern architecture.

Fire Chief Ronald Johnson has asked for a minimum 100-foot aerial truck, "since it is conceivable that condominiums could come into this town that would be that high."

The chief said most of the aerial trucks currently being built are designed to reach 106 to 110 feet.

The new truck will be hydraulically operated and contain its own hose bed. The aluminum four-section ladder will be rear-mounted. It will also have a five-man enclosed cab.

Johnson said a year ago the U.S. Testing Bureau found the department's aerial truck did not meet the required standards. According to the chief, the necessary repairs would have cost about $105,000 to $150,000 and "we couldn't be guaranteed of not having stress failure, an old ladder can collapse easily."

The cost of the new truck is estimated at $280,000.

The municipality appears to have a history of lagging behind on the update of its fire equipment. When the township got its present aerial ladder truck in 1958, it replaced a 1929 truck.

Johnson said the Hahn pumper was the first truck the department had painted in the new national safety color, lime-yellow. The new aerial truck has also been ordered in that color, as recommended by the State Firemen's Safety Committee.

The committee has advised fire departments that vehicles painted lime-yellow have a higher visibility at night.

Unfortunately, the new aerial ladder truck will cause a problem of its own. Its height will be too high for the existing doorways in the fire department. Johnson said the Township Committee is conducting a survey with various architects to arrive at the most feasible plan.

However, he added, "We're hoping for a new wing on the building to house the truck."

Once the township committee approves the bond ordinance to appropriate funds for the truck, it will be advertised for bids. Johnson said it will take about eight months for the truck to arrive in Springfield, once a bid is accepted.

OLD FAITHFUL—This 26-year-old hook and ladder will soon be replaced with a new truck so Springfield's firefighters can battle fires in high-rise buildings. (Photo by John Boutsikaris)

Astronomers to hold conference June 30

Amateur Astronomers "Planning for Haley's Comet," "How Not to Take an Astro-Photograph," and a preview of the group's trip to Cerro Tololo, Chile, will be held at the Union County College on Saturday, June 30, beginning at 9 a.m.

More than 200 League members from Maine to central New Jersey are expected to participate in the day-long session. Dr. Fred Whipple, an astronomer, will deliver an address on "Comets" at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Whipple developed the "dirty snowball" theory of comets, suggesting they are a mixture of snow and dust.

The banquet will be held at the Sperry Observatory on the Cranford campus, starting at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center.

Star-gazers will attend a series of technical sessions focusing on such topics as

Freeholders' switch explained

The about-face made by the Union County Board of Freeholders on an appointment of a successor to Arthur Grisfale last week was the result of concern about leaving the county leaderless, one board member reported.

At a meeting on June 19, the board failed to act on the appointment, leaving County Manager John DePillo in the position of acting manager. He had held that post since Grisfale resigned on June 6 amidst charges that he had attempted to arrange a meeting with John Riggi of Linden, who has been described by police as having ties to organized crime.

When the regular freeholder meeting ended, Chairwoman Charlotte DePillo told reporters that, with Grisfale's resignation not taking effect until Oct. 13, no action on a succession was completed for some time.

Then the board went into executive session and appointed... Grisfale's resignation not taking effect until Oct. 13, no action on a succession was completed for some time.

Development on Rt. 22 OK'd

UNION — Only a series of formalities still stands in the way before construction begins on a condominium/townhouse development on Route 22 in Union at the site of the former motor vehicle inspection station and the Union Drive Theater.

First American Equities, which is purchasing the site from SEI Union Properties, received the green light for the project last Thursday when the Union Planning Board approved a site plan for the development.

Demolition is expected to begin in the near future, though the developer must still obtain several formal approvals before starting construction. These include permits from the state Department of Environmental Protection and other agencies, a formal Planning Board resolution, to be adopted at the July meeting; and a building permit.

Geiger calls billing on sewage accurate

In response to allegations by Mayor Livio Mancino of Kenilworth that his borough is picking up the costs of excess sewage flowing from Mountainside, Mayor Bruce Geiger Tuesday said the Mountainide fully intended to move forward with plans to put the meter in, but that the borough is helping to resnegotiate the sewage contract to ensure that it is guaranteed a sufficient amount of space and that the charges are commensurate with other users in the area.

The Mountainide mayor explained that a contractor that the borough had hired last year to install the estimated $100,000 meter "tripped" on the contract after claiming that the engineering specifications on the project drawn up by the town were inadequate.

In a separate incident, four out-of-state men were arrested for numerous drug charges on Morris Avenue about 11:30 p.m. Saturday, according to police reports. Police said the men, Ronnie Caldwell, 39, Jerry Hamilton, 34, and Robert King, 27, and Robert King, 28, all from Virginia, apparently were in the area on a job with a water contracting company.

Sign-posting youngsters caught

SPRINGFIELD — A small group of youths were nabbed by Springfield police Saturday when they attempted to post a sign warning of police radar on Briar Hills Circle.

According to the report, police, who have been giving the area a high amount of surveillance, spotted radar warning signs on a few cars parked on a stakeout was held for two hours on the morning of the arrests by Detectives William Chisholm and James Hietala, and Officer George Hillender, before they spotted five youths attempting to post another sign.

Police confiscated approximately six cardboard signs that had been nailed to utility poles by the boys.

Staff decisions meeting topic

At a special meeting of the Springfield Board of Education scheduled last night, the board was expected to formalize teacher staffing for the 1984-85 school year.

Other personnel matters planned for discussion included the hiring of part-time custodial workers for summer projects, a replacement for a summer school teacher who resigned, and the abolishment of a full-time bus driver's position.

Other business transactions scheduled included the adoption of a social studies text for grades K through eight, the renewal of the district's insurance policy, the acceptance of supply bids, and amending the district's transportation jointure.

According to Board Secretary Dr. Leonard DiGirolami, the board also planned to authorize the payment of bills and transfer budget line items.

The formation of a special program for pre-school handicapped children at a cost of $2,400 was also to be discussed.

Township no longer with troubled insurance firm

SPRINGFIELD — The township was recently named in published reports among 80 municipalities in New Jersey that had insurance policies with a Vermont insurance company which is on the verge of being declared "insolvent" by Vermont state officials.

The Vermont Insurance Department contends that the company was at least $42 million in debt as of Nov. 1983, and could be as much as $83 million in debt to more than 2,000 New Jersey policyholders today.

Spokesman Danny Kellam, Springfield's insurance agent, the township dropped its policy with Ambassador in July 1983, "before they went bankrupt," he said.

Town's clerk to retire

MAYOR said that new businesses on Mountain Avenue and a new office complex planned for the Echo Plaza Shopping Mall will add to the existing traffic on Briar Hills Circle.

"What do we have to do?" Mayor asked the committee, "lay our bodies down in Possum Pines?"

"The prospect of closing off a street to Springfield residents is unacceptable to me," Feintuch said.

In another matter, Eleanor Gural, a Springfield resident who recently was arrested when she unsuccessfully attempted to stop the state Department of Transportation from removing a natural island behind the Sayre Homestead, asked for the committee's support to have the island returned.

"The island was created a year ago when the DOT built a retaining wall near the bank of the pond as part of its construction work on Interstate 74. According to Gural, wildlife had started to inhabit the island before the DOT removed it about a month ago.

Dental Dialogue
ALL FOR ONE; ONE FOR ALL

Q. My dentist wants to replace a missing tooth in the back of my mouth with a bridge. Since no one can see it, why is it important?

A. The old adage "all for one, one for all" certainly applies to our teeth. The loss of one tooth may contribute to a number of dental problems, and even be indicative of an entire mouth. Problems that can accumulate: drifting and malocclusion, periodontal disease, increased chance of decay, and pain or additional loss due to stress. A missing tooth in the back can harm the appearance of the front teeth, and loss of teeth give the mouth a

A safe Fourth

The United States will celebrate its 208th birthday Wednesday. To most Americans, the Fourth of July means picnics followed by watching brilliant designs in the night skies. Unfortunately these activities bring a triple threat of danger: unsafe outdoor cooking, alcohol and fireworks.

The worst barbecue accidents occur when the backyard chef, or little helper, "freshens" the fire with charcoal lighter fuel. The flammable liquid will quickly flash back and envelop the arms and face of anyone nearby. Children's reaching fingers should also be kept away from the grill to prevent little ones from touching it or accidentally pushing it over on someone.

Picnic hosts should also keep an eye on the amount of alcohol consumed by their guests. Plenty of food should be on hand to slow down the rate at which alcohol is absorbed by the body. If someone has had too much to drink, convince the person to stay overnight, or ride home with someone else.

Perhaps the most hazardous Fourth of July dangers in terms of accidents are fireworks. Last year, an estimated 8,300 persons sought treatment for fireworks injuries; many were under 15.

The state has tough laws against the illegal use of fireworks. The use of illegal fireworks carries a $500 penalty and/or a maximum 30-day jail term.

Leave the fireworks to the pros. Residents can get their fill of the rockets' red glare at local fireworks displays. Make sure your holiday is time of fun, not a day of tragedy.

What happened?

Who's in charge here? Readers could be forgiven if they asked that about county government operations after reading last week's newspapers.

The weeklies had one story: no permanent Union County manager would be named for some time to replace Arthur Grisi, who had resigned, effective Oct. 13. The dailies had another story: Louis Coletti, deputy county manager, was appointed to succeed Grisi.

What happened? The answer is simple. After the regular session on June 19, when all the reporters had left, the Board of Freeholders went into executive session, made the appointment — and then phoned the dailies to tell them about it. Nobody bothered to call the weeklies. Despite ample experience to the contrary, the freeholders assumed that the weeklies would not be able to get a late-breaking Tuesday night story into the papers the same week.

To the public, we offer apologies for a misleading story last week. To the freeholders, we offer a reminder that we're here, too; and the hometown news that we bring our readers makes as just as important — if not more so — than the dailies.

If the freeholders give their own employees the kind of cooperation they give the weekly press, no wonder they have problems.

Letters to the editor

A fine example — Association windows are also effectively draped with a version of louvered shade shades, giving the building a honey, genuine look of a gracious business dignity.

A job well-done and appreciated on the part of its builders, it strives to bring into residential Springfield the workmanship and planning for the environment for the benefit of their several banking locations throughout our northern and southern part of the state.

Their building, well planned, and so constructed, would make any town proud to have it standing on its suburban green.

Just happened to visit the offices, located on Mountain Avenue, directly across from Jonathan Dayton High School, and the entrance door alone resembles a "banking estate" of the future.

Lost island

I am writing about what should perhaps be known as the Lost Island. To the New Jersey Department of Transportation this island was, throughout its short existence, an embarrassment. For me it was an experience.

No Scene

Because of featured at left in connection with the nation's Fourth of July celebration, Scene around the towns does not appear this week. It will be resumed next week, however, with the names of those who submitted the correct answer to last week's puzzle and a new photo to challenge readers. In the meantime, readers can continue to send in their answers to last week's mystery photo.

The replies should be sent to Scene, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3109, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

He has been host of a syndicated television show entitled "Commodity Corner" shown on New Jersey Cable Network and Channel 67-68 in New York for three and one half years. He contributes articles and letters to the New York Post, and various other papers including the Springfield Leader and magazine on a regular basis. Married and the father of three children, he has lived on Meisel Avenue for 22 years.

The question is then, was it a "betrayal" or male chauvinism at its worst? Let us begin with Pietro Petino's comments after the fact of the unanimous all-male vote to remove Mrs. Adler. Mr. Petino stated: "We simply moved her out of the presidency (a fact). We had no intention of removing her as a board member." My reasoning on that statement concludes that removing a president of a Board of Education would be a humiliation to any human being, therefore, Mr. Petino has not based the last statement on any compassion or sensitivity. This callousness is not unusual for Mr. Petino, based on his past behavior. I cannot believe he did not foresee her emotional reaction to her removal.

whole area. Its privacy and the relatively unpolluted character of the area an important wildlife refuge in the midst of suburbia and a delight to the lovers of nature and beauty who discovered it.

The construction of Interstate 78 required the cutting away of all of the woodlands to the south of the swamp and pond and the filling in of the swamp and more than a third of the pond. Since the Department of Transportation was required by various regulations to preserve the integrity of the area as much as possible, they built an immense structure along the wooded side of the pond which was designed to act as a combination dam and sound barrier. In the process most of the water leaked out of the pond, the remaining water turned murky and the subterranean pressure of the construction caused the eruption of a sticky pile of mud about 30 feet from the newly created south bank of the pond.

Department of Transportation representatives had been informed of the life-giving qualities of the island and we had been given every reason to believe it would remain. Why did they remove it? Not because it was in the path of highway construction nor because there were people objecting to its existence, because neither of these and good and the filling in of the swamp and more than a third of the pond. Since the Department of Transportation was required by various regulations to preserve the integrity of the area as much as possible, they built an immense structure along the wooded side of the pond which was designed to act as a combination dam and sound barrier.

Sharing property and laughter

By ROSE P. SIMON
The following are reviews of books currently available at the Springfield Public Library.
SHARING PROPERTY
"Partnering," by Lois Rosenblatt. This is all about joint ownership; how you can enjoy certain material possessions by sharing — or partnering — at half the price and double the pleasure. The author suggests that you must want something special — beyond your financial means — and then look for a congenial partner. For example, you might lack up a notice in a favorable place, such as church or synagogue, "the local 'Y'" or newspaper. Samples are submitted. Also, criteria are given to help you evaluate a potential partner in your venture, and these are supplemented by an extensive questionnaire.

Colts win Pony League crown

It was an eventful week in Mountain Side Little League as the Pony League crowned its champ and the Astros won the crown.

In Pony League action, the Colts swept the Broncos 6-4 and 10-3 to capture the regular season crown. Dave Martignetti and Steve Kolton shared the pitching chores for the Colts but it was center fielder Joe Hurley who made two great running catches in the early innings to keep the Broncos in check. Hurley also contributed to the hitting heroics, as trailing 4-3, Hurley singled in the Colts last at bat and scored the tying run on Matt Swartz's triple before Allan Gardner supplied the crusher with a long two-run blast. Kevin Rogers, Matt Ventura and Jamie Downey each had two hits for the Colts.

In the nightcap, the Colts scored three in the first, four in the second and two in the third to breeze to the pennant clincher. Steve Kolton came back to pitch the first few innings before giving way to Matt Swartz. Ken Hurley, Dave Clifford and Jeff Debbie had three hits, with Debbie also making three fine catches in left to keep things under control. Kevin Rogers hit a triple home run for the Broncos and Matt Ventura also hit effectively. Richmond Ritterbusch played well in the outfield.

Second baseman John Hsu turned a line drive into a game-saving triple play to enable the Mountain Side Little League American Division Yankees to pull out a 6-2 victory over the Astros. The Yankees tallied all six runs in the first inning with the key blows being struck by Noel Murphy, Ken Colodre, Eric Butler and Jim Hurley. Hurley was the beneficiary of Hsu's fielding gem as he came in to relief to get the win.

Jacob Chung had an eventful day for the Astros getting a bee sting, hit by a pitch and an RBI single within the course of two innings. Allan Kennedy, Jacob Chung and Jeff Davis for a 16 strikeout 3 hit effort and got just enough hitting from Steve Matzjek, Dave Stankiewicz and Andrew Gallagher to come out ahead. Adam Ritterbusch pulled down a long drive in left to put a final damper on the Blue Stars' hopes. Mike Price pitched a strong game for the Blue Stars striking out 12 with Keith Hogey's three-run triple and Greg Barione's long double accounting for the Blue Stars' runs. Chris LaFon handled two chances flawlessly for the Blue Stars at shortstop and Jason Feldman performed well as his Keystone partner.

In a battle of big innings, the Mets had an 11-run fourth inning and a six-run fifth inning to offset the Blue Stars nine-run sixth inning in a 21-13 slugfest. Scott Taylor had four hits including two triples, Richie Roche and Dale Torborg also had four hits each. Eric Rauschenberger and Mike Shapiro had three hits and Peter Gittich two hits to lead the Mets outpouring. Mike Price had three hits, Scott Meisner had two hits as did Colin Gordon. Greg Barione put a shot over the centerfield fence for the Blue Stars.

Haven offered to wild creatures

bluejays, swallows and the red-winged blackbirds who soar out of the grasses in a flash of scarlet.

And, of course, there are the deer. Though the annual deer hunt draws vociferous protests from ecologists each fall, McFadden sees no possibility that it will be discontinued.

Predators keep the population of many of the animals in balance, he said, but the deer herd grows from some 350 to 400 in the winter, after the hunt, to a peak of 550 to 600 in the summer. "You have to have the hunt as maintenance," he insisted.

At this time of year, of course, there is no hunting; it is the time for fawns — and they sometimes wander out of the wildlife refuge.

For people living nearby, this can sometimes be startling.

"Last week, we had two calls from people who said they had fawns with 'broken legs' in their yards," McFadden reported. Not so, he said. The fawns — left alone for a couple of hours by their mother, who is sure to return — simply freeze into immobility; they don't have broken bones.

Other animals, too, stray from the swamp. "Not long ago, we had a lady carry in two snapping turtles," he said.

The best thing to do about animals that wander from the refuge is leave them alone, McFadden emphasized. It is also the best thing, by far, to do with animals that remain in the refuge.

Signs urge those driving along the public roads to "please stay in your car so others will have wildlife to see." McFadden would add another caution: drive slowly; motorists who drive too fast all too often leave dead animals behind.

From dusk to dawn, motorists can't drive — or walk — through the refuge at all. The public areas are open the year around, but in daylight hours only.

There is a "self-service" information booth at the entrance to the Wildlife Observation Center, but no full-fledged visitor center. "We're hoping to get one someday," McFadden said.

For the past three years, the Great

Swamp has also had a refuge headquarters, located on Pleasant Plains Road and open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Before the headquarters offices opened in the summer of 1981, "we were in a farmhouse down the road," McFadden said.

The headquarters is one of the latest additions to a region whose wildlife was at one time in jeopardy.

Over the years, modern uses of all kinds have been proposed for the area: flood control in the 1920's, drainage projects in the 1930's, and a jet airport in the late 1950's.

It was the threat of a jetport that spurred creation of the wildlife refuge. The Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge, surrounding acreage was added over the years.

In 1956, the eastern two-thirds of the refuge — about 3,600 acres — was designated a "wilderness area" by Congress. This means that no man-made structures or motor vehicles are permitted, though there are trails for hiking.

The western third of the refuge is maintained as wildlife habitat: shrubs are planted, water levels are regulated and nesting structures are provided.

Throughout the Great Swamp, it is the wild creatures who come first. A pamphlet available at headquarters points out, "Wildlife have no restrictions. They have free run of the entire refuge, day and night, because this is their home; people, as visitors, must be regulated."

But if visitors must be regulated, few seem to mind.

Audrey Wreszin of Basking Ridge is typical.

A portrait painter, she was one of the tiny handful of visitors on the quiet trails one recent weekday morning. As she set up her easel, she explained that, professionally, she paints people. Painting scenery in the Great Swamp is different, she said.

"This," she said, "is recreation."

Festival inaugurates new selection method

A new selection procedure to control the growth and quality of craft entries in the annual Union Township Festival on the Green has been announced by John Guidera, chairman.

He said that applications are now being accepted for the 11th annual outdoor art, crafts and photography show to be presented Saturday, Sept. 22, on the lawn of Friberger Park, surrounding the Union municipal building and main public library. The rain date is Saturday, Sept. 29. The Union Township Chamber of Commerce sponsors the festival, which attracts exhibitors from throughout the state and New York City.

The crafts section of the show has grown every year since the first festival in 1974, resulting the last three years in the closing of such entries as early as two months before festival day. This year applicants will be required to submit a photograph or slide of the type of craft they will be selling along with a check for their $15 entry fee made payable to the Festival on the Green. Checks will be held until the applications have been processed. Checks will be returned to those who are not asked to exhibit.

Completed applications, entry fee checks and photographs or slides must be mailed to the Union Township Chamber of Commerce, 2185 Morris Ave., Union 9783, prior to July 13. Notification of acceptance or rejection will be mailed by Aug. 15. If any spaces are still available on Sept. 1, persons on the waiting list will be selected for notification.

In all divisions — art and photography, as well as crafts — entries must be the original work of the person registered and no second-hand or commercially produced items or major parts of items will be permitted. Former festival prize-winning entries are not eligible for judging. Each exhibitor is allowed 10 feet of space. More than $2,500 in prizes will be awarded in the three divisions of the show.

Letters and application forms have gone out to all who participated last year. Other application forms have been sent to organizations which man tables on the Morris Avenue level. An entry fee of $25 is required of all organizations making sales.

The Homebound Communications Program at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Elizabeth is expanding as a result of a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, Princeton.

This community service enables the elderly, the handicapped and others with medical problems who live alone or reside with someone who is unavailable a great portion of the day to summon assistance at the touch of a button in health related emergencies at home.

St. Elizabeth is one of 21 hospitals in the state which received grants. The funds will provide for the purchase of additional home units and operation costs for a 10-month period. Thirty-seven hospitals in 19 of New Jersey's 21 counties now offer the emergency communication service.

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation of Princeton became a national philanthropy in 1972 and has since made grants totaling more than $550 million to improve health care.

The Homebound Communications Program is sponsored by the New Jersey Hospital Association. At St. Elizabeth Hospital, the Homebound Communications Program operates under the name of Lifeline. Sister Margaret Doherty, SEH executive director, said, "Since our beginning as a health care facility we have marked progress with the latest technology available for the residents in the areas which we serve. Lifeline services at St. Elizabeth enable many elderly in our community to remain self-sufficient and independent as a result of the program. Lifeline increases the security of the chronically ill and elderly persons by knowing that any time, day or night, they can instantly communicate with people who care."

Persons enrolled in Lifeline receive an electronic communications system, consisting of device for a home telephone and a unit similar to a beeper. Carried in a pocket or attached to clothing, the beeper works in conjunction with the telephone. At the first sign of a medical emergency, the client can push a call button on the beeper, transmitting an electronic message by telephone to a response center in St. Elizabeth's emergency room. In the emergency response center, which is staffed 24 hours a day, an alarm sounds, the client's code number flashes on a screen, and a printed tape records the emergency signal. A hospital staff member immediately telephones the subscriber, evaluates the situation and determines if medical assistance is necessary. The emergency room nurse attempts to reach the subscriber by telephone. If the client cannot be reached, the nurse calls the responders until reaching one who is able to go to the subscriber's home and render aid. The emergency room nurse and the responder keep in touch via telephone until the necessary and appropriate assistance is rendered to the Lifeline subscriber. These are backed up by community services providers, including the police and ambulance services.

Volunteers from the SEH Department of Volunteer Services, under the direction of Sharon Ponticello, director, are trained to install the equipment in the clients' home with instructions to the client. The volunteer is accompanied to the client's home by a staff member of the SEH Department of Social Services, who assesses the client's needs. Lisa Penick, M.S.W., SEH director of social services, points out that studies have indicated that health, happiness and productivity of elderly and disabled persons may be greatly enhanced by their ability to live safely and independently in their own homes.

Sister Marcella Nolan, SEH assistant administrator, is the Lifeline coordinator at St. Elizabeth. She explained the eligibility requirements for Lifeline clients: Clients must be at least 60 years of age, have a chronic health condition, and live alone or reside with someone who is unavailable a large percentage of the day. More information on Lifeline and the financial requirements may be obtained by calling the St. Elizabeth Hospital Department of Social Services at 527-5155.

Italian students arrive Monday

A group of InterStudy students from Italy will arrive Monday for visits with families in Union, Westfield, Mountainside, Maplewood, Cranford, Springfield and Linden.

The students will attend classes at the United Methodist Church in Union, where they will study English and American culture with William Price of Union as instructor. Class field trips will take them to Union police and fire headquarters, the Municipal Building and the Union Public Library.

During their stay in the area, the students will tour New York City and visit Morristown Historic Park, Sandy Hook Beach-Gateway National Recreation Area and Princeton University. Optional trips to Washington, D.C., Boston, Mass., and Niagara Falls, N.Y., also are on the agenda.

Host families are Ann and Joseph Aurimmi of Union; Josephine and Antonio Busto of Westfield; Florence and Russ Cardon of Mountainside; Phyllis and Carman Cedoia of Maplewood; Camille and Robert Cormier of Cranford; Geraldine and Mario Cuccinello of Springfield; Rosanna and Vita DiGeso of Union; Blossom and Alan Hatoff of Cranford; Peggie and Waldo Holz of Union; Barbara and Sumby Kwiatek of Union; Carol and Albert Leick of Union; Barbara and Al Lilley of Union; Connie and Victor Lobozzo of Union; Carmela and James Pike of Union; Emily and Maro Vitale of Cranford; Susan J. Woskat of Linden and Barbara and Michael Ward of Union.

Several more host families are needed, according to Barbara Bigos, group representative. Those interested in opening their homes to the young Italian visitors or to a group of Japanese students who will arrive in August can call Bigos at 688-2709 or Rose Jackson, area coordinator, at 273-1756.

Flood routes shown on new county map

The first Union County Emergency flood route map, specifically designed to guide police, fire, civil defense, first aid squads and hospital vehicles to emergency routes during flood conditions, has been completed by county officials.

The 1,250 maps were the brainchild of William McBride, former director of the Union County Office of Emergency Preparedness, who retired last September. Colonel Richard Crosta replaced McBride as director of the office.

"This color-coded map will be invaluable to county officials in getting their vehicles through to emergency routes in case of severe flooding," said Walter W. Gardiner, director of the Union County Division of Transportation Engineering.

"The preparation of the map was a team effort between the Union County Division of Transportation Engineering and the Union County Division of Environmental Engineering," said Armand A. Fiorletti, director of the county's Department of Engineering and Planning.

Arthur J. Grisi, Union County manager, praised McBride for his efforts in initiating the map. The drawing of the map was done by Phillip J. Maccioli, supervising draftsman.

"William McBride was one of the first Union County officials to dedicate himself to pulling all the available resources together to address the problem of flooding in the county," Grisi said.

"For his efforts and the resulting emergency flood map, the people of Union County are extremely grateful," he said. Grisi added that if this map had been produced five to six years ago, it would not be as valuable, since the county has worked on alleviating the flood problems in many areas, such as the Lenape Park area, which includes Cranford, Union, Kenilworth, Westfield, and Springfield. The recently built Lenape Park detention basin, which regulates the rate of water outflow, even helped solve the flooding problems in Rahway, some four miles away.

The Federal Highway Administration, the Federal Urban Mass Transit Administration and the New Jersey Department of Transportation paid 60 percent of the $2,500 cost of preparing and printing the map, with Union County paying the remaining 40 percent.

The Union County Emergency Flood Route Map will be distributed only to county emergency offices. A sample of the map is on view at the Division of Transportation Engineering Office in the Union County Administration Building in Elizabeth.

County gets expert advice on disabled study

Union County government officials are working with Union County Regional High School District handicapped students and volunteer William Bashford of Union, a handicapped architecture student at Union County College, in compiling an architectural accessibility study of county parks and recreation facilities for the handicapped.

Marlaine Terry, the county Department of Parks and Recreation's recreational coordinator for handicapped programs, had been meeting with the multiply and orthopedically handicapped students and Bashford to explore the need for ramps, wider doorways and specially designed parking spaces. The ease of mobility and use of lakes, pathways, picnic areas, restrooms and water fountains are also being studied.

Terry contacted Leslie Vaccarino, a special education teacher at David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, and enlisted the aid of her 12 handicapped students for the project, and Bashford volunteered to help.

"The whole idea is to allow greater independence for the handicapped person," said Terry.

The study, which was started in late April, will "hopefully" be put into a brochure that will help the handicapped individual choose facilities that are accessible, she added.

Terry has been visiting the county's parks with the handicapped students to gain first-hand information on accessibility.

"A lot of areas look accessible to the non-handicapped person, but for someone in a wheelchair, it's tough," Terry said.

Many of Union County's 25 parks and facilities have been renovated to be 100 percent accessible for the handicapped, Terry said.

Work is taking place at Warinanco Park on the restrooms, picnic areas and playground equipment, and Cedar Brook Park in Plainfield has had the restrooms renovated and all pathways built with curb-cuts.

"The Union County Department of Parks and Recreation is making all facilities accessible to the handicapped where new construction or major renovation is underway, according to state and federal guidelines," said John Tronits, recreation and park planner for the Department of Parks and Recreation.

Many parks activities are planned specifically for the handicapped, according to Terry, such as the recent "Park Pleasures" at Rahway River Park, during which those with physical, mental or other disabilities participated in a barbecue, concert and free swim lessons.

Anyone concerned with the accessibility of county parks and facilities can call Terry at 527-4918.

Pool filtration is clarified

Proper filtration and chemical use play important roles in providing clean and clear pool water, a major concern of all home swimming pool owners.

As a matter of fact, they complement each other. Effective filtration normally reduces the amount of chemicals required for a sanitary pool.

The filter's main job is to remove dirt and other objects from the water to clarify it. Complete, or nearly so, removal of particulates from the water by filtration permits the chlorine to effectively destroy bacteria, viruses and soluble organic matter.

The two most commonly used home pool filters employ either diatomite or sand. Diatomite filters require a "precoat" of diatomite filter aid on the filter screen. Actual filtration takes place through this precoat.

When the proper amount of precoat is used the precoat will be about 1/16th of an inch thick.

Care should be taken to follow the recommendations of the filter manufacturer regarding the proper amount of filter powder to use.

The diatomite precoat, in addition to removing unwanted dirt particles, also prevents these same particles from plugging up the filter element cloth or wire cover, thus reducing filter element cleaning operations.

If the filter elements become plugged or clogged, follow the cleaning directions supplied by your filter manufacturer or consult with your pool water chemical supplier.

Under typical operating conditions, the filtration cycle is over and it's time to clean the filter when the filter pressure gauge reaches the manufacturer's maximum recommended level.

Thorough cleaning will extend the time between cleanings.

The other major types of home filters use beds of sand, or sand and gravel, through which the water flows, leaving dirt particles trapped within the sand. Pool owners with sand filters should clean them when the dirt accumulated in the sand bed slows down the flow of water through the filter.

Sand filters are cleaned by backwashing. That is, pool water is forced through the filter in the direction opposite from normal filtering.

At times of heavy use — when all the friends come to swim — owners of diatomite-filtered pools will hardly notice a change in water clarity, but pool owners with sand filters might.

One way to check your pool water clarity is to drop a "clarity test disc" to the bottom at the deepest point. If the black and red color markings printed on the disc are clearly defined, your pool filtration is working well.

A good solution may be to give the sand-filtered pool a rest from swimmers to let the filter catch up with the increased dirt load in the pool. Or, use alum to improve filter efficiency.

Alum forms a spongy mass called "floc" over the top of the filter bed. The floc screens out particles that would otherwise pass through the sand.

Y pooling is cooling

"Swimming is the sport for life," stated Susan Kokora, program executive of the Five Points YMCA, 201 Tucker Ave., Union. "Not only is it great for overall body fitness, but who can resist jumping into a pool during these hot summer months?"

The YMCA specializes in lessons for pre-schoolers, children and adults. The outdoor pool is ideal for instruction. It is 3 1/2 feet deep and is heated just enough to take the chill off the water. A filter listing class dates and meeting times is available by calling 688-9622. There are morning, evening and Saturday morning classes.

A special lunch-time swim has been exclusively reserved for seniors, Monday through Friday, noon to 12:45 p.m. The cost for seniors for the entire summer is $7.50.

OUTDOOR LIVING

The cost of the great outdoors is not great

By THAYNESMITH

An old saying, apparently coined in great wisdom, says something the effect that "the best things in life are free."

Undoubtedly, the author never paid income tax or suffered through the pangs of a depression, recession, oil embargo or economic calamity. All are taxpayer nightmares, and come at a "high ticket" price.

On the other hand, it's just possible that the person who first penned the famous line was an outdoorsman, caught up in all the tried-and-true wonders that the great outdoors has to offer.

Certainly, in the United States and Canada today, there is abundant outdoor recreation available to all citizens at a price tag that is much more "free" than anywhere else in the world.

The possibilities are vast. Consider that nearly a third of the land mass in the United States is "public," meaning that it is under government ownership. Most of it offers "free" access to those who call themselves outdoor recreationalists.

The most prominent public lands, of course, are the National Parks, such as Yellowstone, Yosemite, Grand Canyon, Zion and Sequoia, in the U.S., and the Canadian Rockies, Prince Albert and Banff, Quebec City and the Saint John River and many more in Canada.

They are overwhelming from the standpoint of scenic splendor and attractions, with excellent facilities for the young and old, the able and the handicapped: campgrounds, hiking trails, lakes and streams for fishing, boating, floating, and many more. Their cost is meager.

Other types of public lands are our for the asking, too. All of the 50 United States and more than a dozen Canadian provinces and territories, offer thousands upon thousands of acres of public lands for hunting, fishing, hiking and camping. "Primitive" sites ranging from anglers, hundreds of acres of public lands for hunting and hiking, and countless camping sites ranging from offering recreational vehicle hookups, modern shower and latrine facilities, picnic tables and shelters, and scenic views.

They're not always free, but fees are modest considering the return and the gain of the outdoor experience.

Many state, county and urban governments offer "free" parks for a multitude of outdoor activities, lakes and ponds for fishing and hunting, trails for study and hiking, and even special areas for motor bikes, four-wheel driving and motorcycle races.

Not exactly free, but for a fee of less than $20 per year, the angler can "own" thousands of acres of water in any state or province.

The camper can smoke a fish, build a campfire, or get a suntan in thousands of acres of government-owned parks throughout the land, many requiring no fees for their use.

If you own a modern boat, the numbers of places you can launch it for fishing, skiing or just sightseeing are countless. You paid for the use in taxes when you purchased the boat, trailer, gasoline, tackle and other items which made the trip possible.

For the hunter, the free lands offer a legion of experiences and possibilities. The waterfowler can be accommodated at Easton, Md., or San Diego, Cal., and the quail hunter in the desert of Phoenix, Ariz., or the plains of Oklahoma, or on public land at Lake Monroe in Indiana. Elk roam the public lands of Oregon, as do moose in Alaska and antelope in Montana.

Maybe it isn't free, but there's something precious and low cost for the outdoor types, too. Birdwatchers, photographers, canoeists, floaters and so forth, have practically unlimited domains at their choosing. They are free to use, to roam, to hike and admire such places as they choose.

Best of all, the free places offer all our citizens things to do, and see, and outlets for our frustrations. They extend splendor, recreation, peace of mind, activities unlimited in scope and value, and freedom for thought.

There are no greater bargains.

By MILT HAMMER
Pick of the LPs, two good LP released from Original Motion Picture Sound-track films.

"Sixteen Candles" (MCA Records). The movie is an affectionately funny look at a teenage girl's coming of age, written and directed by John Hughes, and starring Molly Ringwald and Paul Dooley. Hughes was the author of "National Lampoon's Vacation," and there's every reason to expect "Sixteen Candles" to match that film's runaway success.

The soundtrack album contains a cross-section of material ranging from rockabilly to synth-pop. The Stray Cats contribute their newly recorded version of the title number, which old-timers will remember as a 1958 hit for the Crests. Annie Golden, lead singer of New York's Shirts and co-lead of the film musical "Hair," sings "Hang Up The Phone," backed by members of the E Street Band. Patti Smith sings her underground hit version of "Gloria" (the song by Them, not Laura Branigan's), and Thompson Twins add their own touches.

"Beat Street" (Atlantic Records). "Beat Street" is the first authentic, in-depth look at the "hip-hop" phenomenon to be made by a major film company. An exploration of the inner city cultural explosion that encompasses break dancing, rap music, and graffiti art, the movie is produced by Harry Belafonte and David V. Picker, and directed by Stan Lathan.

"PETER AND THE WOLF"—Puppet show of the classic Russian folk tale, recreated in a musical production, will be presented by the National Marionette Theater July 10 at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn. Additional information can be obtained by calling 376-4343.

Plays staged at Summerfun

Summerfun Theater, reportedly New Jersey' only one-a-week summer stock company, opened its 18th season with a premiere production of "Amadeus," Peter Shaffer's Tony Award winning drama Tuesday. The play, which will run through Saturday, is being staged at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial auditorium on the campus of Montclair State College. It is directed by Betty Sanders.

It was announced by Summerfun's producer W. Scott MacConnell that "Bell, Book & Candle" will be presented Monday.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 746-9120.

Auditions set at Y in Union

G & G Theater Productions will hold open auditions for the musical, "Cole," Monday between 7 and 10 p.m. at the YMHA, Green Lane, Union. The musical, based on the words and music of Cole Porter, will be a benefit show for "Make-A-Wish Foundation" of Union County.

The play will open Aug. 15 at the Cedars Restaurant, Elizabeth. Additional information can be obtained by calling Anthony Gudell at 558-1980 between 4 and 6 p.m. or the foundation at 351-5057.

Intili in chorus of 'Dolls' play

James Intili of Linden is featured in the chorus of "Guys and Dolls," which opened Tuesday at the Roosevelt Park Amphitheater, Rt. 1 South, Edison. It is sponsored by the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders and the Middlesex County Department of Parks and Recreation and will run June 27, 28, 29, Saturday, Monday Tuesday, July 3, 5, 6 and 7 at 8:40 p.m.

It is produced and directed by Ernest Albrecht with musical direction by Raymond Wojcik. Choreographer is Carol Schneider.

Folk Festival begins July 8

A Folk Music and Storytelling Festival will be presented July 8 by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Department of State and the Department of Environmental Protection, Division of Parks and Forestry, at Spruce Run Recreation Area in Hunterdon County from 1 to 7 p.m. There will be no admission charge to the event which is part of "Summer Festival 1984...From the Mountains to the Shore," a series of performances at 11 parks throughout the state. Additional information can be obtained by calling (609) 292-6130.

Wesley Singers selected for competition in Wales

The Wesley Singers of the First United Methodist Church of Westfield have been chosen to compete in the Llangothen International Musical, Elsteddod Tuesday to July 8. Each year, the Valley of Llangothen on the River Dee in North Wales, with its 3,000 inhabitants, is host to 10,000 performers throughout the world.

The singers were invited to compete in six competitions during the week, three vocal and three instrumental. In the Female Choir competition, the sopranos and altos of the Wesley Singers must sing two examination pieces. The first piece is a four-part French renaissance madrigal by Costeley, and the second is a three-part modern setting of the "Agnus Dei."

The women of the Wesley Singers will sing a third piece of their own choice, an original composition by a composer of the competing choir's own country. They will sing Randall Thompson's four-part setting of a text from a WCTU leaflet, "God's Bottles."

The tenors and basses will follow a similar pattern in the Male Choir competition. In the Folk Music Competition, the Wesley Singers will be limited to a chorus of 25 sopranos, tenors and basses. In the Instrumental Folk Group Competition, four fifers and a drummer, members of the Westfield Pipe and Drum Corps (also members of the Wesley Singers) will compete. They are Hans Dieterich, Krista Dieterich, Gretchen Gillig and Susan Wood, with David Anthony accompanying on the drum. Hans has arranged a seven-minute medley of traditional American tunes. The Wesley Singers' handbell players will perform a medley of three American folk hymns.

The Wesley Singers were invited to represent the United States in the International Concert July 4 and will perform two early American works and a medley of Shaker songs, which will be danced by Claudia Jacobs and Gail Via.

GADI ELON will be featured in the lineup of stars at the 12th annual Jewish Festival of the Arts and the Jewish-Israeli Expo Sunday at the Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel.

Music for Bard planned at Mill

The Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, will present the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra at the playhouse July 11 at 8 p.m.

The Garden State's musical organization will offer a program of music "inspired by the works of Shakespeare."

Conductor Michael Pratt will lead the orchestra and singers through renditions of Mendelssohn's "Overture" to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Berlioz' duets from "Beatrice et Benedict" (Much Ado About Nothing), Nicolai's duet from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and Peter Westergaard's scene from "The Tempest."

Additional information can be obtained by calling 376-4344.
