School year in review

on was a hot issue

By VICKI VREELAND It was an eventful year for the Springfield school district and the Board of Education. The district lost and regained state certification and was fined by the EPA. The board had an election, four presidents, three attorneys and asked for, but did not receive, the superintendent's

resignation CERTIFICATION

One month into the new year, the Springfield school district was notified that, based on a state monitoring team's review, it did not qualify for educational certification.

Springfield was the first district in the county to be monitored by the state Department of Education. It was subsequently joined by other districts who also did not meet certification requirements.

The local district was cited for shortcomings in seven of 10 areas monitored. The major areas where problems were noted were; comfacility maintenance planning, substandard classrooms, staff certifications, and affirmative action. The district received a favorable evaluation in the areas of curriculum, instruction and student achievement. Following the notification of decertification, the school superintendent was responsible for the appointment of a monitoring team composed of himself, staff and community members, to review the state's findings. The committee was headed by resident Ruth Brinen. The board approved the committee's recommendations and authorized other steps to alleviate some of the conditions cited. The district was notified last month that it would be recommended to the state commissioner of education for certification. ASBESTOS

In April, the district learned that it had been cited by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. under the Toxic Substances Control Act for failure to notify employees and parents that the rotunda ceiling in the Florence Gaudineer School contained loose asbestos. The substance has been linked to respiratory disorders.

The district faced a maximum 56,000 fine, but after informal conference meetings with school and EPA officials throughout the summer, the EPA withdrew the complaint.

April was also the month for one of the most hotly contented school board elections the Springfield's history. Almost 70 propert of volentiations out to clear the three campidates backed by GARR (Citizen Association for Responsible Marin Markey!

At the board's organization meeting, two-term member Barbara Adler was elected president and Stuart Applebaum, vice president.

RESIGNATIONS

Just six weeks later, Adler was asked, by an almost unanimous board, to resign her presidency. In the same move, the board's atasked for his resignation.

George Gomes, who served as board president last year, was elected to the presidency. Yale Greenspoon, a Springfield resident with a law firm in Maplewood and attorney for the Springfield Zoning Board of Adjustment, was appointed board counsel.

In July, hewcomer Ned Sambur was appointed by the board to assume Adler's vacant seat. In October, Gomes resigned the presidency, and at the same time, asked the board to call for the resignation of Superintendent Dr. Fred Baruchin. The request was supported by the board, unlike one, that failed to materialize seeking the resignation of Board Secretary and Business Administrator Dr. Leonard DiCiovanni

This move came after a "no confidence" vote in both Baruchin and DiGlovanni announced by PTA Council president Doreen Franko. Franko said PTA members were angered when they discovered unsanitary conditions in the lavatory facilities of the schools and pipes where asbestos was exposed. Baruchin has not submitted his resignation and the board has not issued any further directives.

At its last meeting of the year, the board approved a contract with the Springfield Education Association that spreads an 8.25 percent in-crease to the membership over the two years. The teachers worked without a contract since June 30.

to be decided in '85 issues still

By VICKI VREELAND

Looking back on the events of 1984, the year of George Orwell's "Big Brother," it becomes apparent that although many important issues were decided by municipal bodies, their rulings were not accepted as omnipotent. Some of the more controversial cases have been brought to the courts, where at this point, they remain in limbo. The Greenbriar Service Corp., twice denied a variance by the Zoning Board of Adjustment to construct a high-rise condominium complex at the top of Wilson and Shunpike roads (known as the Houdaille Quarry, property), brought its case to Superior Court last month. Judge Milton Feller will make a ruling pending his ob-

Also in litigation involving the Board of Adjustment, a Springfield resident, Nikolas Agathis, filed a Superior Court complaint which seeks the impeachment of various board members and alleges the township's zoning ordinance is unconstitutional. Agathis filed his suit in February after he was denied a variance for an existing pool and deck at his Ashwood Road home. The board ruled that the pool and deck were built in violation of zoning laws: A decision is also awaited from. Judge Feller on the Agathis case.

township, Mayor Edward Fanning, and an opportunity to set an agenda for Springfield in 1985. There are several uncompleted projects, and some that are badly needed.

One town project formally begins Monday — the township's nutrition program, which came close to getting off the ground in 1984, but never really made it. In fact, county funding was lost because of the delay.

Although the township purchased the Raymond Chisholm School in July, renovations in the building kept the program from operating until this month. Plans have yet to be finalized on moving municipal offices to Chisholm, but we hope that progress is made in 1985.

As far as new initiatives, Mayor Fanning expressed a good idea at the Organization Meeting establish a recycling center in town. By having such a center, the township will be eligible for rebates from the state.

- The disposal of solid waste is a problem faced by every community in the state. It would be to Springfield's advantage to develop its own project which could serve as a model for the rest of Union County. Of course, as Fanning pointed out, such a program can only work with cooperation from township residents.

The citizens who serve on the Recreation Committee have their work cut out for this year because, for the first time, the township has a spot to house recreation facilities — the Chisholm School. We hope that they come up with some exciting programs for the youth of Springfield.

There are three other citizen committees that also serve the township - the Committee on Aging, Advisory Committee on Human Rights, and the Industrial-Commercial-Relations Committee plus various boards and commissions. Some, such as the Committee on Aging, which deals with issues affecting Springfield's older population, we are familiar with. Others, such as the Ethics Board of Review and the Industrial-Commercial-Relations Committee, we are not. We ask the Township Committee to make a resolution for 1985: to periodically report on their progress.

We hope the year is a productive one. We urge the Township Committee to work diligently for Springfield.

Parkway blues

For those of us who use the Garden State Parkway, especially the stretch that is just over four-miles long between East Orange and Union, there is good news and bad news.

The good news is that the construction to widen the highway from three to four lanes on each side. which began in March, is on schedule.

The bad news is that this construction will continue well into the summer.

The last 10 months of work on the Parkway has played havoc with rush hour traffic. The frustrated motorist coming south in the morning, and spending up to 20 minutes to get from Irvington to Union, is tempted not to pay the 25 cent toll figuring he has not gotten his money's worth. Such delays translate into workers whose nerves are already frayed by the time they get to work and economic losses for employers whose employees

Highway officials tell us that there is no alternative except to not do the work, thus allowing our bridges and roadways to deteriorate completely. That there is no alternative is difficult to accept. Certainly there is a better way, such as more work occurring during off-peak traffic hours. It would mean that the construction would take longer, but it would lessen the motorist's aggravation level.

Once the construction is completed, the Parkway will be four-lanes wide, both north and south, between the East Orange and the Woodbridge toll plazas. The vision of a total of eight lanes in both directions appears to be too good to be true. No doubt, the rush hour will not be as maddening as it is now by this time next year. We wonder, however, why no one anticipated the state's growth and had this vision of the Parkway the 30 or so years ago when the highway was just a glint in an engineer's eye. This lack of vision has resulted in no lack of frustration on the part of Parkway.

dinner, sponsored jointly by the Union County Baseball Association and the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation, has announced the names of those who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame this year. Ceremonies will take place at the dinner Jan. 16 at 6:30 p.m. at the fown and Campus in Union. The five inductees are Henry Dreesen, Joe Grochmal of Roselie Nicholas Maruschak, Don Kohler and Martin Howarth. Dreesen is best remembered for his years as a baseball star for attin High School in Elizabeth and with the Union County League. He played all four infield positions, some outfield and pitched as well. In 1931 and 1932, he led the UCL in home runs and was elected to the UCL Grochmal was known as a premier defensive outfielder with his strong and accurate arm, while at Battin and in the UCL. A lifetime .300 litter, he was always a threat on the basepaths and was a part of many hampionship teams in the Twi-Lite League.

Maruschak was known for his strong lefthanded hitting. In 1950, he had a tryout with the Baltimore Orioles in the International League and n 1951 played with Griffin in the Georgia-Alabama League where he hit 270 while playing first base and pitching. He is currently the director of he Elizabeth Police Athletic League.

Kohler made an enviable record on the mound as an outfielder while playing baseball at North Plainfield High School. In 1947, he signed a ontract with the Newark Bears and continued playing pro ball until 1954 with various organizations belonging to the Yankees, Washington Senators, St. Louis Cardinals, Boston Red Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers. as a pitcher, he recorded 88 wins, 36 losses and three ties. For two years, he worked as a part-time scout for the Cleveland Indians ah oday works as a full-time scout for the Milwaukee Brewers.

Howarth was the first sophomore ever elected to captain the West-field High School baseball team. Considered one of the best catchers in UCL history, he also played shortstop and second base. He was also nember of the Union County All-Star team that played the last game at luppert Stadium against the Newark Bears. He coached Little League eams for 10 years, including a league in Vermont, where he curr

Rebecca's Forecast

How the stars will shine during 1985

During the coming year, the planet Jupiter, which spends one full year in seek of the different sun signs, will transit the sun sign Aquarius. Last week, those born under the signs of Aries, Taurus, Gemini and Cancer found out what the new year had in store for them. . To find out what influence Jupiter will have on those born under the sign of Aquarius, who have a special year ahead, as well as those born under Leo, Virgo, Libra, Sagittarius, Scorplo, Capricorn and Pisces, let's take a look at Rebecca's Forecast for

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)

It may be hard to imagine you becoming more social, but you will with this Jupiter transit. The highlights of this year will revolve around relationships... both personal and professional, communications/and creative or artistic pursuits. Expect many new people, places and situations to enter your life in the coming year, and some may even change their lifestyle. You will feel the need to break away from limiting or restricting influences, and as a result, you may sever certain ties... These decisions won't be easy, but may

Past: The past year or so may have seen challenges involving home, family or property matters and your responsibilities in these areas have been given a lot of thought. Also, your important relationships may have been strained in 1984 and some of this tension has a link with decisions made many years ago. It's very hard for you to let go of things... you have a lot of pride and determination and its surely been put to the test recently.

House highlights: This year's Jupiter transit occurs in your solar seventh house, important relationships and partnerships will thrive under its beneficial influence. Legal papers of contracts, may assume importance, dealings with professionals are indicated. Don't hesitate to seek advice if you feel the need.

Finances: Your overall financial picture should be better, you will be feeling more optimistic and confident. This could draw money making opportunities to you. Capitalize on your own Romance: This year you may make an important break with the past, your own personal freedom will assume importance. A new relationship is slated for many who are eligible, while those existing twosomes enjoy a prosperous year. Those in troubled relationships may see these dissolved in the coming year.

Career: This area of your life may hold some pleasant surprises this year, although you may have to juggle your personal responsibilities a bit to make it all work smoothly. It may help to sort your priorities early in the year.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)

The main emphasis will be felt in health and career areas, dependent's interests will also play an important role. A new pet is in the picture for some. You will seek to expand or improve your status on the job. Promotions are indicated in the year ahead. You may have increased dealings with medical personnel, join a health club or decide to get rid of a detrimental habit. You could quit smoking or diet successfully this year. It's also likely that you will be adding to your wardrobe. Look for terrific bargain purchases!

Past: Recent years may have played havoc with your financial resources, and you now probably have a more structured financial picture especially the past year or so. You have an appreciation and respect for money and belongings now. This coming year may still see you working through the fine points of financial issues. Communications and everyday dealings may also have produced some tension and many have withdrawn from their family in an effort to get their lives back on track again.

House highlights: With Jupiter's transit of your solar sixth house.

your personal duties and responsibilities may demand more of your time as well as more of you. You may also find the need to be of service to others. Benefits through work may come through union or organizational influences, co-workers become more important and everyday life takes on special meaning in the year ahead.

Those involved in giant leap, and you may find yourself in the limelight on more han one occasion in the year ahead. Affiliations with schools are indicated. Expect more day to day coming true!

Past: The past several years have seen some rather unexpected changes take place, both pers ed long standing ties, and as a result are restructuring part of their lives now. Your financial picture may have been a particular issue ast year and will continue to need your attention this year. A residence move that's been up in the air recently will finally take place sometime in 1985.

House highlights: As beneficial Jupiter transits your fifth solar house, your creative self-expression grows as never before! You will be eeling more confident and this will improve all your relationships. The album exhibits Barry's strength as a multi-talented singer-songwriter-p roducer of contemporary music. from ballads to R&B to pop and funk. It incorporates a variety of different approaches, yet has a very modern, 1984 feel.

"I didn't want to go in direction with the album." Barry says. "I've gone down a lot of dif-ferent roads without emphasizing one particular musical style." 'Now Voyager'' contains a wealth of classic new Barry Gibb songs including the Caribbean-flavored

"Shine Shine" (the first single), the love ballad, "Face To Face" (a synthesizer powered "I Am Your Driver"), and the high tech, contemporary "Hunter" and the ultra modern Orwellian "Shatterproof." As a member of the Bee Gees, Gibb was one of the most dominan forces in pop music history. Economic growth looks likely now, realtor says lower interest rates are expected to prevent the economy from experiencing a severe recession and an upturn is expected by 1985's fourth quarter, according to Dr. Jack Carlson, executive officer and chief economist of the National Association of Realtors. "The two primary conditions for a severe recession — a surge of inflation and excess inventories — are not present at this time. The rates of increase for both prices and wages have been constant for about a year, while inventories at all stages of production and distribution remain low," Carlson said. In addition, there are numerous indications that the economy is accelerating again in response to the decline in interest rates over September and October, he said.

The index of leading economic indicators rose 0.4 percent in September following three consecutive monthly declines. Retail sales were up 1.6 percent in September after falling in July and August. The seasonally adjusted annual rate of housing starts increased 9 percent in September 2015.

tember, with increases occurring in every region of the country.

Carlson took note of the likely decrease in real (inflation-adjusted) mortgage interest rates for long-term, fixed-rate home loans in coming months. Those real mortgage rates are likely to slide below 9 percent by the fourth quarter of this year and to about 8 percent by the middle of

Furthermore, he said, such a decline in real interest rates is associated with an increase in real estate values. "Consequently, now is an excellent time for people to satisfy their housing" and other real estate needs," Carlson said. The latest NAR "Outlook for the Economy and Real Estate" was presented at the national ssociation's 77th annual convention in Hawaii, which an estimated 25,000 people attended.

Following are highlights from the outlook:

While real (inflation adjusted) gross national product slowed from a 7.1 percent annual growth rate in the second quarter to 2.7 percent in the third quarter last year, this growth rate is

WANTED- Sollers of all lypes of service businessess-DRY CLEANERS-LAUDROMATS-BAKERIES. We have buyers for the above. Please call LOUIS LEVINE, INC., Realtors 486-4050. ikely to remain at about 2.5 percent in the first quarter this year. Then the economy is likely to enter a two-to-three-quarter transition period of sluggish and erratic growth with declining housing starts and slower growth of both consumption and business investment spen No growth is likely in real GNP during the second quarter this year and a decline of 0.4 percent can be expected in the third quarter. By 1985's fourth quarter, the real GNP growth rate should increase to 1.8 percent, and a gradual rise in the growth rate can be expected in 1985. Interest rates: Interest rates are likely to rise slightly into the first quarter of 1985 in response to a temporary increase in total credit demand.

The amount of business loans outstanding should continue the increase begun in September following an actual decline in August, and a large volume of offerings of corporate bonds is expected over this period.

Additionally, consumer loan demand should be strong as domestic auto sales return to the eight million unit annual rate, and U.S. Treasury borrowing requirements should average about $50 billion during the first quarter of 1985. That borrowing would compare with about $20 billion in Treasury borrowings during the second quarter last year and $40 billion during the third quarter.
The federal funds rate is likely to rise to about 10.4 percent in the first quarter this year and fall to about 9.7 percent by the fourth quarter. Three-month Treasury bill rates can be expected to trend downward from about 9.6 percent in 1984's fourth quarter to about 8.8 percent in the same quarter next year.

Likewise, the average effective commitment rate on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages should trend downward from the current average of about 14 percent to 13 percent by the final quarter of 1965. The average effective commitment rate on one-year adjustable-rate mortgages is likely to fall from an estimated 12.5 percent currently to about 11.5 percent by the last quarter this

Federal budget deficits: While the federal budget deficit for 1984, at $174 billion, is likely to be lower than the 1983 deficit of $190 billion, the deficits projected for 1985 and 1986 can be expected to surpass the $200 billion level.

Rapid economic growth in the first half of 1984, tax increases and reductions in federal spending growth were the primary reasons for the lower deficit projection for last year. The 1984 deficit is likely to represent more than 54 percent of net domestic savings, while in 1985 and 1986 the deficit can be expected to represent between 68 percent and 73 percent of these

Inflation: Consumer price inflation should remain low through 1985 due to moderate wage increases, stable energy prices, declining food prices and a strong dollar, which will keep import prices low and restrain price increases on domestically produced goods and services.

For all of 1985, the consumer price index should increase just 4 percent, down slightly from the 1984 level of an estimated 4.3 percent. However, as the recovery resumes in 1986, the rate of inflation should accelerate to the 5 percent level.

Household income: Personal income per household is expected to average about $38,600 for 1984, about 5 percent more than 1983 after adjusting for inflation. In 1985, personal incom household can be expected to average about $40,800, nearly 2 percent above the expected 1984 Employment: The civilian unemployment rate, which was 7.4 percent in October, may drop another 0.1 or 0.2 percent in the next few months, but should begin rising again in 1985 as the economy enters a growth recession where the growth of the economy is too slow to absorb all new entrants into the labor force.

By the fourth quarter this year, the civilian unemployment rate can be expected to be nearing the 8 percent level, and in 1986 the jobless rate is likely to be slightly more than 8 percent.

Both existing single-family home-sales and housing starts activity are likely to decline modestly from the current levels in 1985 due to slow growth of employment and income and continued high interact rates. continued high interest rates.

Single-family home resales should total about 2.6 million units for all of 1985, compared with about 2.85 million in 1984. In 1986, existing single-family home sales should total about 2.9 million

Total private housing starts should total about 1.6 million units in 1985, compared with nearly 1.8 million in 1984. In 1986, about 1.8 million starts are likely again.

1.8 million in 1984. In 1986, about 1.8 million starts are likely again.

Home prices: Resale home prices can be expected to increase at a pace equal to or slightly above overall inflation, while new-home prices are likely to accelerate slightly faster.

The fourth quarter-median existing single-jamily home price is likely to be about $73,000 for 1984, slightly more than 4 percent above the median in the same quarter one year earlier. By the fourth quarter this year, this median is likely to increase about 4.3 percent to $76,100.

By the final quarter of this year, the median new single-family home price can be expected to be about $75,500.

Rental vacancy rate: The rental housing vacancy rate is likely to remain at about 5.4 percent hroughout 1985, about the same as it has been for the last two years.
