Bookviews

BY ALAN CARUHA

Let's start off 1985 looking at a few books that can be very helpful to us in a variety of ways. Some of these books deal with some serious matters affecting our lives and others are more for fun than anything else.

You may have forgotten, for example, that this is Prune Breakfast Month, as well as National Hobby and National Soup Month. Just so you don't miss out on these unusual holidays and commemorations, I recommend you pick up a copy of "Class's Annual Events" ($14.95, Contemporary Books), which is a delightful soft-cover compilation of the special days, weeks and months of 1985. It lists 365 days of amusing events, birthdays of famous folk, and happenings in the U.S. and throughout the world.

Self Improvement Ideas
 We all indulge in making New Year's Resolutions, but keeping them is a problem. "The Courage To Change" by Dennis Whaley ($15.95, Houghton Mifflin) is an important book if you are or if you know someone suffering from alcoholism. There are 20 million alcoholics in America and this book may help the one you know take a step back from this tragic disease. Some famous folk contributed their own experiences to this book, showing that recovery is possible. I strongly recommend this book.

My friend, Harry Mill, has written "Your Phobia: Understanding Your Fears Through Contextual Therapy," along with Dr. Manuel D. Zane ($15.95, American Psychiatric Press, Inc.), and it is an excellent book for all of us whose lives are limited and harmed by a wide variety of common fears which, as the authors demonstrate, can be overcome. There's nothing funny about a nameless fear that keeps us from fulfilling ourselves.

At certain times in our lives, we all encounter loneliness and we live in a society that says that such solitude is wrong. In her book, "Loneliness," Irma Kurtz ($10.95, Bantam Books) demonstrates that much of the misery associated with loneliness stems from "an inability to tolerate our own perfect company." So, if this is a problem you're encountering or a friend is experiencing, this is the book to read.

"By Youth Possesses: The Denial of Age in America" by Victoria Secunda ($15.95, Bobbs-Merrill) is an important book for its examination of the way Americans become victims of age prejudice. Who says you have to be married by a certain age or that you're over the hill at a certain age? Age-related anxiety is making people of all ages miserable and this book does much to dispel the nonsense we hear so that you can live happily and fully at any age.

"Disabling America: The Rights Industry" in our "Time" by Richard E. Morgan ($16.95, Basic Books) argues forcefully that a plethora of special interest groups, aided by lawyers and others, have turned the U.S. Constitution inside out with the creation of various rights that were never included in that document. You may or may not agree with Morgan, but he makes a good case for his belief that all these new rights are having some unexpected adverse affect on society.

Colleges, Poker, Etc.
 It's that time of year when parents of college-bound young people get involved in the selection process. Peterson's Guides provide the "National College Databank" ($11.95, plus $2 postage) and "The 1985 College Money Handbook" ($12.95, plus $2 postage) which are treasure-troves of valuable information to pick out and help afford the right college or university. More information is available from Peterson's Guides, PO Box 2123, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

For all you poker players, there's "Mike Caro's Book of Teles: The Body Language of Poker" ($20, Gambling Times, 1018 N. Cole Ave., Hollywood, CA 90028) which is worth its hefty price for the photos and insights it contains. Caro, a top poker player, shows how the actions of others at the table are giveaways to what kinds of hands they have. You could spend years learning what this book contains between its covers. Wonderful stuff.

In paperback, there's the "1985 Computer Buying Guide" from the editors of Consumer Guide ($4.50, Signet). Don't go into a computer store without reading this book first.

"There's One Born Every Minute" by Harry Blackstone Jr. ($5.95, J.P. Tarcher) is filled with 100 un-speakably unfair tricks you can play on friends and strangers. By adding in a wager, you could probably earn a tidy sum. Find someone with a sense of humor first, though.

I'm not sure anyone can really learn how to acquire class, but Meritimer Levitt's book, "Class: What Is It and How to Acquire It: A Guide to Living Well" ($13.95, Atheneum) may just prove helpful to anyone who feels he could improve his life with a touch of class. Some good fundamentals are discussed in Levitt's book.

And I am happy to report that David K. Shipley's excellent book "Russia: Broken Idols, Solemn Dreams" is now in softcover from Penguin Books at $7.95. To understand the Russians, this is must reading.

Lastly, for those of you who are fans of the late Dave Niven, I know you're going to love a big picture book with a wonderful text, "Niven's Hollywood" by Tom Hutchinson ($17.95, Salem House, a unit of Merrimack Publishers's Circle). This book is jam-packed with photos and information about Hollywood's stars during the golden years of the film capital's history and this is a marvelous tribute to a vanished era. The book is further enhanced by a Peter Ustinov introduction and an afterword by David Niven Jr., a successful film producer.

Gas Co. offers aid to needy

Elizabethown Gas Company has established a new fund, called "Project Concern," to help needy customers pay their monthly gas bills.

Duncan S. Ellsworth Jr., president of Elizabethown Gas, said the company has donated an initial $50,000 and will also match customer contributions, dollar for dollar, up to an additional $50,000. The fund thus has a potential of reaching $150,000.

Among those who may be aided by Project Concern are persons age 60 and older on fixed income and with no alternative sources of funds; individuals under age 60 who are special hardship cases; and persons who are handicapped, blind or otherwise incapacitated with no alternate sources of funds.

"This is a brand new program which we hope will help ease the financial burden on some of our less fortunate customers, such as some of our senior citizens," Ellsworth said. "We're encouraging those of our customers who can to make a one-time donation of $12 to help their neighbors."

Elizabethown Gas will begin seeking customer donations immediately and hopes to reach its goal of $50,000 by March 1. All contributions are tax deductible. Ellsworth said that Project Concern donation cards are being distributed to customers as an insert with their monthly bills. Checks can be made payable to "Project Concern" and mailed to Elizabethown Gas Customer Relations Department, 1 Elizabethown Plaza, Elizabeth 07207.

New Jersey's low income families and individuals can now apply for Home Energy Assistance to meet the cost of heating during the winter months.

The state Department of Human Services expects to receive $83 million this year from the federal government for the program and anticipates serving approximately 215,000 families. The average benefit is $316 per household.

Households which have their heating costs included in their rent are also eligible to apply.

Under the federal guidelines, a single person must have a gross monthly income at or below $219 to be eligible; a family of two, $700; a family of three, $981; a family of four, $1,062; a family of five, $1,243; a family of six, $1,424; and for each additional member, another $181. Applications for the program are available at county welfare agencies. Special arrangements have been made to allow senior citizens and the disabled to receive and return the applications by mail.

Additional information about the program is available by calling 1-800-257-6249.

Crisis Center opens hotline

The Union County Rape Crisis Center recently started a 24-hour hotline for victims of sexual assault, according to Sandra M. Flack, director. The number is 233-RAPE.

Phone counseling and victim assistance are now available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, from qualified volunteers, Flack said. Applications are being taken for the next training session for volunteers, to be held in February. Those interested should call 233-RAPE, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., or visit the center, at 300 North Ave. East, Westfield.

Grand jury indicts suspect in chase

A Scotch Plains man who was shot by a Springfield police officer in November after an extensive county chase was indicted by a grand jury Friday.

The jury, who heard the case Jan. 3, indicted Paul Myska, 29, on two counts of third degree aggravated assault, one count of fourth degree assault, possession of a controlled dangerous substance and resisting arrest.

Myska was shot in the upper chest by Patrolman Jeffrey Vreeland Nov. 2 on Briar Hills Circle, Vreeland and Patrolman Ivan Shaw had joined in a county pursuit of Myska, who had fled Scotch Plains after police there attempted to stop him for a motor vehicle violation.

According to reports, the officers set up a roadblock on the circle to stop Myska. Instead, he was shot when he allegedly drove his car towards Vreeland.

An investigation of Vreeland's actions is still under review by the Union County prosecutor's office, which investigates all shootings. According to Sgt. William Cleri of the prosecutor's office, the case is expected to go to a grand jury within a few weeks. Cleri said presentation to a grand jury is "a matter of routine."

As of Tuesday, according to the prosecutor's office, no trial date was set for Myska.

Murder arrest, election mark 1984

By VICKI VREELAND

1984 was a somewhat typical year for Springfield. It had some triumphs, the wheels were put in motion for new municipal programs and the purchase of equipment for the public safety departments, and it had its setbacks: unpopular lawsuits and some not-so-nice political excursions.

One of the biggest news events in the township came late in 1984 when Springfield police made a break in a murder investigation by arresting a Springfield resident that had baffled them for more than two years.

Hanna Ghanem, a 33-year-old resident of Plainfield, who authored a report in a Palestinian alien, was apprehended Dec. 18 in a joint arrest by Springfield Detectives Michael Halloran and James DiStasio and members of the Major Crimes Unit of the Union County prosecutor's office.

Ghanem was charged with the 1982 slaying-beating death of Sylvia Karlsberg in the kitchen of her Milltown home.

Her husband, Dr. Herbert Karlsberg, a dentist, after following the investigation for the past two years, died a month before the slaying was announced.

Ghanem is being held in the Union County Jail on a $1 million bail. As the murder investigation continues, the case is being prepared for presentation to a grand jury, the prosecutor's office said.

The 23rd municipal election began with the swearing in of Philip Feintuch as mayor Jan. 1. Feintuch continued, the succession of a Republican mayor for the second year in a row; in 1983 the committee was headed by William Ruocco.

The first Springfield baby of 1984 was born Jan. 2 to Judy and Joseph Kelley. Michael weighed in at 7 pounds ounces.

The first problems brought to the township committee were actually 1983 leftovers. A group of Briar Hills Circle residents who had besieged the governing body with requests to alleviate traffic on their street, continued to push for some type of residential modification. The roadway, modified months later that the committee could not come up with a way to deter traffic from their street.

Early in the year, the Springfield Police Department got new radio equipment that replaced a 20-year-old system.

By spring, April showers were a problem for employees in the municipal building who had to contend with a flooded basement and the foul odors that went along with it.

Also in April, Detective Howard Thompson resigned after 25 years on the job, and Police Capt. Samuel Calabrese was awarded an $110,000 out-of-court settlement in a suit he had filed against two investigators in the prosecutor's office six years earlier.

In May, the committee approved a revised zoning ordinance with the major addition of the establishment

Lack of quorum delays committee business

By VICKI VREELAND

The new mayor didn't have much luck at his first Township Committee meeting. Mayor Ed Fanning faced three empty chairs at his first presiding meeting Tuesday, which meant there was not a quorum.

Fanning reported that Republican committee members Philip Feintuch and Joanne Tedesco had excused themselves for reasons of personal business and illness, respectively, and Stanley Kaish, the remaining third of the Democratic majority, was reported to be on vacation.

Resident Ed Rall, one of the three members of the public press, said that in his 30 years of attending committee meetings, he never saw one cancelled for lack of a quorum.

Township Clerk Helen Maguire said Fanning and Committeeman William Cleri were also the only members present at the committee's work session Monday night.

According to Fanning, the committee was supposed to have discussed litigation that was initiated in October against the N.J. Chiefs of Police Association.

The lawsuit was authorized by the committee's former Republican majority to enable it access to the scores from a sergeant promotional exam that was given in the Springfield Police Department by the Chiefs Association.

The filing of the litigation has delayed the appointment of a new sergeant. In September, Detective William Chisholm was recommended for the spot by the Democratic committee members.

According to Fanning, Tuesday night the committee was to have made a motion to dismiss the lawsuit and appoint Chisholm. The mayor said he "fully anticipates" the promotion to be made at the next committee meeting — Jan. 22.

Former Mayor Feintuch, who advised the committee in September that it should review the scoring of the oral portion of the exam, predicted the new majority's actions.

Feintuch said in his last month of office that he feared if the committee dropped the litigation, "it would hurt the credibility of a new township committee."

In other business, Fanning said that he and Township Engineer Walter Kozub would meet with the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders on Jan. 24 in an attempt to receive approval to use 10 acres of land in the old Houdaille Quarry for a recycling center.

According to Fanning, the state owns the property and has given its OK, but the township must get approval from the county to become part of its solid waste management program.

"The site is primarily needed for leaf disposal," Fanning said. If the board does not go along with the idea of the site for a recycling center, Fanning hopes it will approve it for leaf disposal.

In prior years, the county turned down permission for the township to use county property near Messel Field for a recycling center, Fanning said.

The mayor has also toured the Raymond Chisholm School and reports he has a number of proposals to present to the committee, "when there is a quorum."

He said the present plans drawn up by the committee's architect do not show any provisions for a recreation/teen center in the school. Fanning believes there is room for both and wants the committee to put the "emphasis" of locating a recreation room at the center, and then determine what municipal offices can be relocated there.

Board appointments are listed

Appointments to the various municipal boards, commissions, and committees were announced by the Springfield Township Committee meeting at its Organization Meeting Jan. 1.

Many of the announcements were reappointments of municipal department heads who have held their positions in the township for a number of years.

Those reappointed included Olga Murano, court clerk; Barbara Thompson, township treasurer; Corinne Eckmann, deputy township treasurer; Jeanne Keyworth, deputy court clerk; Joseph Romano, recreation director; George Amann, of Amann, Fister & Co., was reappointed township auditor.

aesthetically pleasing, would significantly reduce the noise levels of traffic on 1-78.

The township committee followed up with a resolution to the DOT, to accept their offer for the funding and construction of the barriers.

In July, Township Clerk Arthur Buehrer announced his retirement. Buehrer served as municipal clerk for 12 years.

A scavenger strike in June halted garbage collection in the township for a week. The township committee reported no serious problems as residents apparently cooperated by separating and storing their garbage.

In July, the deed for the Raymond Chisholm School was turned over to the township. In later months, the committee passed an ordinance to appropriate $200,000 for renovations in the school.

The committee announced its plans for the school, including the housing of a hot lunch nutrition program for seniors, recreation facilities and some municipal offices in the building.

The municipal offices slated for relocation in the school are the Building and Engineering departments, the tax assessor's office and the township clerk's office. Also expected to be moved is the Office of Emergency Management which meets in the Sarah Bailey Civic Center. The remaining municipal offices and the Police Department are slated for expansion and relocation.

Richard Policastro, at the time, a senior and athlete at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, was awarded the Union Chapter of Springfield-Mountaineer's annual Brian Piccolo award.

In the June 5 primary, Democrat Edward Fanning and incumbent Republican Committeeman William Ruocco, ran unopposed. Walter Mondale was the township's choice for a Democratic presidential candidate, and President Reagan, the unopposed Republican choice.

Also in June, Eleanor Gural, a Springfield resident, was arrested and charged with criminal trespass when she conducted a one-woman sit-in in the middle of Sayre Pond and prohibited state Department of Transportation workers from draining the pond for construction work on Interstate 78.

The charge was later dropped in Springfield Municipal court when the state failed to show who owned the property.

DOT officials held a public meeting the same month to explain the benefits of a bridge, spanned by the pond. Residents were told that the barriers, although "not

Pair to face charges for theft

SPRINGFIELD—A Philadelphia man, who was pursued by Millburn police Friday for allegedly attempting to steal two watches from a Short Hills store, was arrested by Springfield police later that afternoon.

The suspect, Derek Allen, 21, tried to hide from police in Smuggler's Cove Restaurant on Morris Avenue, according to Detective William Chisholm, the arresting officer.

In Millburn, Allen was charged with theft and robbery. The juvenile was charged with conspiracy to commit robbery.

In a separate incident, an East Orange man was arrested Monday at the Catered Savings Bank in the Morris Turpike Shop-Rite after he allegedly attempted to cash a stolen check.

Douglas Leake, 28, was apprehended by Detective James Hietala and Patrolman Ivan Shapow. He was charged with theft by deception and uttering forged instruments.

A number of traffic accidents followed in the wake of the season's first snowfall last week.

A Madison woman is listed in satisfactory condition in Overlook Hospital, Summit, after being involved in an automobile accident on Shunpike Road Friday.

Eva Ode, 55, was traveling west on Shunpike, when according to police reports, the car she was driving skidded on ice and collided with a vehicle in front of her that had stalled. The other driver, Jacqueline Johnson, 23, of Newark, was treated and released at the hospital. Both were transported by the Springfield First Aid Squad.

A Springfield resident was treated and released at Overlook following an accident on Morris Avenue and Keeler Street Jan. 3.

Carmine Fusco, 50, of Keeler Street, was attempting a turn into his street when his vehicle collided with one driven by Susan Davison, 22, of Maplewood.

Also Jan. 3, Nancy Pedell, 17, of Essex Road, was involved in an accident on Mountain Avenue.

According to reports, Pedell's vehicle struck one driven by Ony Bertrand, 26, of Irvington when it was stopped on Mountain Avenue.

Pedell's vehicle was left running while he left the car, according to reports. A passenger in his car, Mary Civil, 26, of Irvington, was injured and transported to Overlook Hospital where she was treated and released.

Bertrand was issued a parking summons by police.

Senate approves strip searching bill

Legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Chuck Hardwick, R-21st, to regulate the use of strip searches of persons arrested for motor vehicle violations and other minor offenses was unanimously passed by the state Senate.

"This bill strikes a balance between the rights of individual citizens and the need for law enforcement officials to be able to respond to under clearly defined situations and conditions," said Hardwick, Republican leader in the Assembly.

"This bill," he said, "will put an end to the casual use of strip searches for routine infractions of the law, such as traffic violations, and requires police to file a complete report justifying any search conducted without a warrant."

Hardwick, of Westfield, said he introduced the bill initially in response to a constituent complaint from a woman who was stopped for a traffic violation and taken to the local police station and ordered to take off her clothes.

"She called me and asked if there was a law against that sort of thing, and after I looked into the matter I found there was none," Hardwick said. "I've since learned that there have been strip search abuses in other towns in New Jersey and nationwide, including suburban Washington, D.C., Chicago, and

Eye on crime prevention

Beware of child abuse signs

SPRINGFIELD—The Springfield Police Department has outlined tips to help parents watch for signs that indicate child abuse.

Each year in the U.S., an estimated 100,000 children suffer some form of sexual abuse. Most of these are girls, but boys can also be victims.

Children may give in to adults' sexual advances because they fear losing their love, or fear punishment. Children are trusting and defenseless, and they'll often feel guilty, as if they caused an assault, the police warning noted.

Children may not recognize sexual abuse when it happens or even know it's wrong, although they often instinctively know an adult's behavior is wrong. They are kept between them and other persons.

They must learn what appropriate touching is, and when that is all right for them to speak up if they are uncertain about someone's intentions.

Adults should remember that children are not liars. They rarely lie about being the victims of sexual abuse, police said. If a child tells about being touched or assaulted, parents should take it seriously. The adults' response is very important. It will greatly influence how the child reacts, and recovers from the abuse.

Sometimes a child may be too frightened or confused to talk directly about abuse. Parents should be alert to any change in behavior that might indicate that the child has suffered a disturbing experience, police cautioned.

Is the child suddenly more withdrawn than usual, refusing to go to school or afraid to be alone? Is the child having trouble sleeping, waking up with nightmares, or wetting the bed? Is the child complaining of irritation of the genital area? Are there signs of increased anxiety or immature behavior? Has the child's attitude changed toward a relative, neighbor or babysitter? Parents should make sure, but check carefully the references of babysitters, recreation leaders, and day care centers.

Abusers will continue until they're stopped, police said. Abused children can be abusive, to themselves or others, when they become adults. It's a vicious circle that can be broken, police officials added.

Coletti sees a 'Catch-22 year'

By KEITH A. DRUMBORE

Citing the promotions of three key county employees and noting the financial problems the county faces, County Manager Louis J. Coletti said he expected 1985 to be a "Catch-22 year" in which "exciting things" will be offset by "concerned areas."

Among the "exciting things" of 1984 are the promotions of Pat White, Hank Kita and Joseph Sharp, Coletti said.

White, the former chief of an ancillary services at John E. Rummels Hospital in Berkeley Heights, has been named director of public works for the county at an annual salary of $46,223.

Kita, a one-time head of division planning in the Human Services Department, was named chief of staff for the county manager's office at an annual salary of $45,000. Kita has also worked with the Private Industry Council for Union County Government.

In naming Kita chief of staff, Coletti abolished the office of deputy county manager.

Sharp, former head of the Youth Services Bureau in the Human Services Department, was named associate administrator for the Rummels facility at an annual salary of $44,000.

"All three have provided outstanding service to the county," Coletti said.

The county manager also noted that White and Sharp were instrumental in bringing the Rummels hospital "through its transition period."

One "exciting" point that he ahead for the county in 1985, according to Coletti, are the initiation

Hardwick fills NCSL's post on committee

Assemblyman Chuck Hardwick, R-21st, has been named vice chairman of the government operations and regulations committee of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) effective Dec. 1. He will serve in the post through December 1985.

The government operations and regulations committee is one of 10 standing committees that make up the State-Federal Assembly (SFA), NCSL's policy-making body, which sets the agenda for legislative lobbying efforts before Congress, the White House and federal agencies.

Prizes for the government operations and regulations committee for the coming year include federal banking, regulation, reform of unemployment compensation and federal management reforms, Hardwick said.

NCSL is the official representative of the nation's 7,500 lawmakers and their staffs. It is funded by the 50 state legislatures.

GOP takes over board

Linden City Council President Robert P. Gonor, a Republican, was sworn in as a Union County freholder New Year's Day as the Republicans officially took control of the nine-member freholder board.

In addition to Gonor, Republicans Edward Slomkowski of Union, Alan Augustine of Scotch Plains and G. Richard Malgrán of Plainfield were sworn in by Superior Court Judge Edward W. Beglin Jr.

Malgrán was unanimously selected as chairman of the board by the other freholders.

With Gonor and Malgrán winning seats and Slomkowski and Augustine retaining their positions in last year's November election, the GOP took over the board with a 5-4 majority.

Freholder Paul O'Keefe of Plainfield is the other Republican on the board.

Malgrán said that the most pressing issues facing the county are health care, solid waste and overcrowded conditions in the county jail.

In the area of health care, Malgrán said he will ask the board to

New treatment options for diabetes will be discussed at a meeting of the Union County Chapter of the American Diabetes Association Jan. 21, at 7:30 p.m., at the Westfield Rescue Squad.

Dr. Bernard Robins, a diabetologist practicing in Springfield, will speak about the latest research and treatment advances as well as his own specialty, the insulin pump.

Robins is president-elect of the Association of Insulin Pump Therapists as well as the U.S. Public Health Services Centers for Disease Control and the New Jersey State Department of Health Insulin Pump Surveillance Program.

Senate approves strip searching bill

Legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Chuck Hardwick, R-21st, to regulate the use of strip searches of persons arrested for motor vehicle violations and other minor offenses was unanimously passed by the state Senate.

"This bill strikes a balance between the rights of individual citizens and the need for law enforcement officials to be able to respond to under clearly defined situations and conditions," said Hardwick, Republican leader in the Assembly.

"This bill," he said, "will put an end to the casual use of strip searches for routine infractions of the law, such as traffic violations, and requires police to file a complete report justifying any search conducted without a warrant."

Hardwick, of Westfield, said he introduced the bill initially in response to a constituent complaint from a woman who was stopped for a traffic violation and taken to the local police station and ordered to take off her clothes.

"She called me and asked if there was a law against that sort of thing, and after I looked into the matter I found there was none," Hardwick said. "I've since learned that there have been strip search abuses in other towns in New Jersey and nationwide, including suburban Washington, D.C., Chicago, and

GOP takes over board

Linden City Council President Robert P. Gonor, a Republican, was sworn in as a Union County freholder New Year's Day as the Republicans officially took control of the nine-member freholder board.

In addition to Gonor, Republicans Edward Slomkowski of Union, Alan Augustine of Scotch Plains and G. Richard Malgrán of Plainfield were sworn in by Superior Court Judge Edward W. Beglin Jr.

Malgrán was unanimously selected as chairman of the board by the other freholders.

With Gonor and Malgrán winning seats and Slomkowski and Augustine retaining their positions in last year's November election, the GOP took over the board with a 5-4 majority.

Freholder Paul O'Keefe of Plainfield is the other Republican on the board.

Malgrán said that the most pressing issues facing the county are health care, solid waste and overcrowded conditions in the county jail.

In the area of health care, Malgrán said he will ask the board to

Murder arrest, election highlight 1984

In the weeks prior to the election, several demonstrations were held by Springfield patrolmen to show their objection to the committee's actions. The PBA members also claimed to be angered by still having an unratified 1984 contract.

Township committee members denied they were sitting on the contracts. The negotiations were turned over to a state arbitrator in March and the committee said, prior to the election, it had not received the final draft of the contract.

In November, Fanning was elected to the township committee, unseating four-term veteran Ruocco. Fanning served as a former township attorney for seven years.

Also later in November, 1984 contracts with the Police and Fire departments were approved; the

Bill would prohibit standby water fee

Legislation sponsored by State Senator C. Louis Bassano (R-21st District), which would prohibit water utility companies from charging "standby water service" fees to property owners who install automatic sprinkler systems, has been placed in position for a Senate floor vote.

Under the bill (S-2404), water companies still would be permitted to charge for the actual cost of water main connections needed to hook up a sprinkler system, but the sprinkler "surcharge" would be eliminated. The bill was released Dec. 13 by the Senate Law, Public Safety and Defense Committee.

"In the aftermath of the tragic fatal fire in Great Adventurer's Inn house," it has become increasingly clear that the State of New Jersey must do all in its power to encourage the installation and use of automatic sprinkler systems wherever possible," Bassano said.

24 words

A significant event marked the opening of the 99th Congress last week. Rep. Peter Rodino, D-10, re-introduced the Equal Rights Amendment. We hope that action on the bill is swift.

In a struggle that lasted for most of the '70s, ERA supporters failed in their first attempt to gain approval of 38 of the 50 state legislatures by the June 30, 1982 deadline. That next January, Rodino introduced the measure for the consideration of the 98th Congress. The amendment, which requires two-thirds approval by both Houses, failed in the Congress by six votes.

The need for the ERA is more pressing now than a decade ago. Gains, such as the nomination of Geraldine Ferraro for vice president, have been mainly symbolic. In a paradoxical way, such symbols can be damaging. They make one believe that things are getting better, but women still have a long way to go to catch up to the economic achievements of men. A recent federal report indicated that single mothers, whose needs are most critical, are at the bottom of the economic ladder.

The ERA, only three sections long, boils down to 24 key words: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied by the United States or by any other state on account of sex."

It seems simple enough. We urge quick passage of the ERA by both the U.S. House and the Senate so that it can begin its successful way through 38 — if not 50 — state legislatures.

Letters to the editor

'Warmest thanks'

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the generous gifts donated to our sixth annual Toy Drive to benefit needy children. The overwhelming generosity of the public this year helped us brighten the holiday season for many needy children, and made our toy drive the most successful ever. Nearly 4,000 toys were collected at our 91 offices and donated to 16 local charities in New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

We extend our warmest thanks to the people of the greater metropolitan area, and your community, for their generosity again this year.

JAMES M. WEICHERT
President
Weichert Co. Realtors

Commendations

I would like to take this opportunity to commend the Springfield Leader and Ben Smith for the Nov. 8 feature article on Robert Clary.

The Simon Wiesenthal Center, the largest institution in North America devoted to Holocaust education and the safe-guarding of human rights, is proud of its National Outreach Program, which features excellent speakers like Robert Clary. We are equally gratified when the media, a constant and powerful influence on the public at large, brings to the attention of viewers and readers the importance of Holocaust education and awareness.

With all good wishes in the New Year, 1985.

LYDIA C. TRIANTOPOULOS
Director, public relations
Simon Wiesenthal Center

'Revoluting'

It was revolting, nauseating and disgusting to read the following, "BOE acts on holiday symbols" in the Leader of Dec. 29. Next, the BOE is to have to approve the wearing of a cross in school and whether anyone can own a Bible.

The schools are a mess and the board is deciding if God can be honored. When we moved to Springfield, the schools were in good condition.

Our daughter graduated second in her class at Kean College and was a year younger than the norm. Now, only the Humanists and Marxists are apparently in charge.

We are grateful to the Springfield Leader for printing the views of anyone, or should I say, the views of everyone.

Involvement is key to township's future

By EDWARD FANNING
Mayor

Township of Springfield
Editor's note: The following is the speech delivered by Mayor Edward Fanning after he took the oath of office at the Township Committee's Organization Meeting "New Year's Day." His preliminary remarks included thanks to his family, friends, Democratic Committeemen Stanley Kaish and William Cleri, and the public for the confidence they showed in his election. He also thanked Republican committee members Philip Feintuch and Jeanne Tedesco for their cooperation during the transition.

I believe and I think most of us believe that Springfield is a good town in which to live. We have a community which many others would envy. We have a good mixture of industrial-commercial and residential properties, of private homes and apartments.

It's the job of the Township Committee to work to ensure that we continue to maintain that balance and to provide the services that Springfield needs and deserves. I'm confident that we can do that. But we can only do that if we all work together, not just this committee, but the township community.

What to do with state budget surplus

By ASSEMBLYMAN
EDWARD K. GILL
(R-21)

The state of New Jersey is looking forward to a large budgetary surplus in 1985, one that may very well break records, but without sound practical fiscal management, this impending windfall could develop into a shortfall.

As every household manager knows all too well, financial resources must be carefully budgeted and allocated toward the development of future needs as well as current expenses, in order to maintain a stable long-term financial position.

Like household budgets, the state budget is affected by changes in the economy. A wise manager knows that today's good fortune should be invested in the future.

To ensure a prosperous future for New Jersey, several priorities must be recognized. The surplus that we hope to see should be used to address those priorities if we are to enjoy the kind of economic growth we have experienced during the past 18 months. New Jersey has outperformed the national economy in its growth, and there is no reason we can't continue to do so.

between a vibrant town and just a bunch of houses and apartments. Over the years we've been fortunate to have a good level of citizen involvement as will be evident when we make the many appointments to the various important volunteer boards and committees this coming year and assure you that you will have mine.

To the township's citizens — I look for your help and hope that your involvement for everyone's benefit.

There are two programs that I will like to address today particularly. They are programs that have been talked to death for years and for one reason or another have never been acted upon.

The first is a Teen Center. Those of you who are parents of teenagers, or whose children are grown or who are teens yourselves, know that for your help and hope that your involvement for everyone's benefit.

I know you want to do a good job and I believe I know some of the handicaps under which you presently operate. We hope to address some of those problems during the coming year, and, within the imposed constraints of the state's cap laws, hopefully solve some of them.

We have some ideas for innovative financing this year which hopefully will provide additional monies within the budget to address these problems and provide additional services.

To the municipal employees I say that I consider you partners and not adversaries in providing municipal services. I ask for your cooperation in the coming year and assure you that you will have mine.

The Infrastructure Bank bill, the more central we become that New Jersey's water and sewer systems will continue to deteriorate faster than we can repair them.

It is indeed unfortunate that when Gov. Thomas Kean proposed the Infrastructure Bank, it was met with political posturing and obstinate resistance on the part of the Democratic leaders in the Legislature, who hold the majority there. They have truly sabotaged our future for the sake of short term partisan goals.

Of course, it is not too late. Gov. Kean has been meeting recently with these leaders to discuss ways to use the surplus by the end of the current fiscal year, June 30. It is certainly possible that a new compromise involving the Infrastructure Bank, as well as the other priorities I have mentioned here, may be reached.

REMEMBERING THE NEEDY—Union County Sheriff Rinaldo, right, and Mike Alper of the Alper Civic Association display turkeys given to needy families in Union County during the Christmas holiday. Sheriff Froehlich helped coordinate the distribution of the turkeys, which are given away annually by the civic group. Alper is a resident of Springfield.

Rinaldo: Don't cut education funding

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-7th, has urged Congress not to renege on its commitment to spur excellence in education by reducing funding for crucial school programs in the new budget.

In a letter to David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, the New Jersey Republican said he wants the administration to fully fund the education legislation approved by the last Congress in reaction to the findings of a presidential commission that public education has reached a critical stage.

In a provocative 1983 report, the National Commission on Excellence in Education said that "a tide of mediocrity has devastated public education" and that the country had, in effect, "been committing an act of unthinkable, unilateral educational disarmament."

In a bid to reverse the decline, Rinaldo noted that the 98th Congress approved the Math and Science Education School Access Bill, and the National Commission on Excellence in Education said that "a tide of mediocrity has devastated public education" and that the country had, in effect, "been committing an act of unthinkable, unilateral educational disarmament."

He predicted that "a more efficient means of enforcing New Jersey alcohol sale and consumption laws will result from this important act."

Bassano added, "It will eliminate any overlapping investigations and duplication of effort that may exist now, as well as any current or potential conflicts within the chain of command."

"In this way, the right hand will always know what the left hand is doing. Although there are no specific incidents which come to mind regarding New Jersey, one of the most common problems among law enforcement agencies is that of two

Library column

Control of science is at issue

By ROSE P. SIMON
SPRINGFIELD—Following are reviews of some books currently available at the Springfield Public Library.

SCIENCE FOR SOCIAL GOALS

"The New Politics of Science," by David Dickson.

"Since World War II, 'advanced technology has become the key to both economic and military power,' and 'science has become the key to advanced technology,' according to the author, Dickson claims that the control of scientific knowledge produced in our universities, government and industrial laboratories ultimately controls our future. Both industrial and government assert that their control of science will serve our nation best. The dangers in such control are explained by the author.

Dickson describes the three phases through which American policy has gone. The first was science dominated by the National Science Foundation. With the Johnson administration came a shift from emphasizing basic research to that of applied science. Now (second phase) the goals were directed toward social problems — jobs and poverty, health and nutrition. The present research (third phase) is largely in control of the private sector, whose goals are chiefly economic. This does not permit free exchange of knowledge, and is limited by defense spending and foreign policy.

The author shows how decision-making is concentrated in the hands of corporate banking and military leaders, assisted by universities with similar political leanings, and how these decisions (although paid with public funds) have been removed from public participation. He suggests some means of influencing political action to oppose "the growing control of America's corporations over its political life" and "to promote science and technology in harmony with the goals and values of democracy, not in conflict with them."

THE AMERICAN CARUSO

Drake.

First, here is an excellent biography of our first great American tenor; second, it is an overview of the opera and its top performers, conductors, and directors in this country during this tenor's lifetime. Richard Tucker (born Rubin Tucker) was the sixth child (born in 1913) in an Orthodox Jewish Brooklyn family. Blessed with a fine singing voice, he got his first experiences in a synagogue choir. Guided by his father, he launched his cantorial career in a Passaic synagogue, where his talent was already recognized. Tucker supplemented his small salary (he was unable to meet all his expenses) by working in the Seventh Avenue fur industry, supplying silk linings.

In 1936, he married Sara, younger sister of the late noted tenor Jan Peerce. Peerce introduced Tucker (now Richard) to Paul Althouse, who coached Richard superbly, shaping the course of his operatic career. He was now singing on radio, also for a minor opera company, then finally with the Brooklyn Jewish Center as cantor. He remained there until 1945, when he made his debut at the Met in "La Gioconda."

This ushered in a glorious career, which culminated with the realization of his life's ambition: to sing the lead in "La Jive."

The author discloses the man as robust, determined, but warm and kindly. He was loved and highly esteemed by colleagues and friends at home and abroad. He was especially loving and a devoted husband and father. Many engaging incidents involving his family as well as celebrated personalities are recorded here. The lengthy discography contains opera, cantorial selections, Hebrew and Yiddish and popular songs.

The commission hearings are open to the public. While some persons will be invited by the commission to present testimony, others can participate by contacting Sister Suzanne Golas, CSJ, executive secretary, Commission on Justice and Peace, 289 Oliver St., Newark, 596-3705.

Pastoral letter views sought

The Commission on Justice and Peace of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Newark, headed by Bishop Joseph Francis, will conduct a series of public hearings this month to receive comments from the public on the first draft of the recent pastoral letter of the Catholic bishops on the U.S. economy.

The first draft of the pastoral states: "Every perspective on economic life that is human, moral and Christian must be shaped by two questions: What does the economy do for people? What does it do to people? It is concerned for the effects of the U.S. economy on the lives of millions of human beings that leads us to issue this pastoral letter."

Although the pastoral has been criticized in some conservative Catholic circles, it has been enthusiastically embraced by a number of others, including those directly involved in the lives of millions of Americans who live below independent investigations colliding with each other."

S-1835 removes the privilege of ABC inspectors to carry guns and conduct investigations, thus eliminating the police function of the ABC. Once this bill is enacted into law, the director of the ABC will ask the State Police Alcoholic Beverage Control Enforcement Bureau to conduct an investigation, rather than directly assigning such a task to his own personnel, Bassano said.

"The transfer of investigatory and arrest functions from the ABC to the state police has been taking place on an informal basis for some time. This legislation formalizes that transfer, so that no future ambiguities may arise.

"One of the fringe benefits of this move will be the potential for finely tuned, closely coordinated investigations of situations that include violations of ABC law and organized crime activity.

"These extremely sensitive types of investigations must be carefully shielded from accidental disruption from other police agencies. Under this legislation, such shielding will be nearly automatic," Bassano said.

"Enactment of S-1835 will constitute a major step forward toward greater efficiency and effectiveness in law enforcement," he added.

Liquor vote is due

Legislation sponsored by State Sen. C. Louis Bassano, R-21, which would consolidate alcoholic beverage law enforcement powers under the superintendent of state police has been released by an Assembly committee for a final vote on the Assembly floor.

"This legislation effectively transfers the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control's police powers from the ABC to the state police," Bassano explained, "thereby consolidating all state-level alcoholic beverage law enforcement under one agency."

He predicted that "a more efficient means of enforcing New Jersey alcohol sale and consumption laws will result from this important act."

Bassano added, "It will eliminate any overlapping investigations and duplication of effort that may exist now, as well as any current or potential conflicts within the chain of command."

"In this way, the right hand will always know what the left hand is doing. Although there are no specific incidents which come to mind regarding New Jersey, one of the most common problems among law enforcement agencies is that of two

Governor signs hospital bill

A bill sponsored by state Assemblyman Tom Long of Linden, D-28, that would allow Union and other counties to spend beyond the 5 percent budget cap to pay for the operation of new beds in county hospitals was signed into law Dec. 28 by Gov. Thomas H. Kean. As a result of the bill, "The potential for Medicaid beds is going to be enhanced dramatically," predicted Long. The legislation could have an almost immediate effect for Union County, said the assemblyman. "Most counties have the capital ability, but in Union County, we could build it, but could not operate it. In Union County, it's just a matter of not enough beds," said Long. Through capital bonding, counties can build new medical facilities or increase the number of beds in existing hospitals, said Long. However, under the old cap restrictions, no matter how many new beds were created, operating expenses for those beds were still restricted to 5 percent above the previous year, Long explained. Subsequently, county-operated

TYPE RELEASES

All news releases must be typewritten, double-spaced. If you can't type yours, print it legibly or have it typed for you. The reason for this is the need for accuracy. If names are handwritten, and the handwriting is difficult to make out, names may end up misspelled in the paper. The amount of money counties can exceed the cap by will be adjusted each year. Under the adjustment formula, first-year income from the beds will be subtracted from operating expenses for the second year to determine the percentage increase above the cap. That formula will then be applied to each succeeding year. He called the shortage of hospital beds throughout New Jersey "the most acute human need right now in the state." The bill, he said, is one that "a lot of senior citizens groups are going to pressure the counties to use... various senior citizens groups have been watching this bill."

County budget earns award

The "highest form of recognition in governmental budgeting" was bestowed upon Union County recently by the National Government Finance Officers Association, (GFOA), announced Louis J. Coletti, Union County manager. The Award for Distinguished Budget Presentation represents "a significant accomplishment by a government and its management," according to Jeffrey L. Esser, executive director of the GFOA, who added, "...we hope that your example will encourage your staff and elected officials to strengthen their efforts to achieve and maintain excellence in governmental budgeting." This award is a tribute to all county staff involved in the budget process," said Coletti. "Out of 80,000 local governments nationwide, only 43 organizations have received such recognition." The award for the 1984 Union County budget, was based on evaluation of the budget on four criteria: a policy document, an operations guide, a financial plan and a communications document. To receive the award, Esser said, the budget document must be rated "proficient" in each category by three evaluators at the GFOA. "Winning entries represent truly pioneering efforts to improve the quality of budgeting and provide excellent examples for other governments and non-profit organizations throughout North America, including Canada," Esser said. The 1984 Union County budget, which won the award, was submitted by Lawrence Caroselli, director, Union County Department of Finance. The county will receive a brass plaque to commemorate the award. The Union County budget has traditionally been a document of policy and direction, including long range planning and a synopsis of goals and objectives for the budget year," Coletti said. "In 1984, we plan to expand and redirect our budget narrative, to give an even clearer picture of the financial and policy path the county will follow in the coming year. "Given the percent annual state cap on local government spending and the increasing operational costs being forced on the counties by the state, the annual budget preparations have become increasingly difficult."

Two MICU people certified to teach

Two people associated with Memorial General Hospital's Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) recently became certified to teach pre-hospital advanced trauma life support to paramedics, nurses and doctors who are part of the staff of the MICUs and emergency rooms. Lois O'Sullivan of Cranford, clinical coordinator of paramedics at the Union hospital, and Tonia Glick of Summit, didactic coordinator of paramedics for Union County College in Cranford, attended an intensive course in Bethesda, Md. The program was sponsored by the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians and the American College of Surgeons. Passing this course qualifies them to conduct training sessions on pre-hospital lifesaving skills in conjunction with a trauma surgeon. "Both Mrs. Glick and I can now impart what we've learned to other paramedics," said Miss O'Sullivan. She said the training "involved the development of quicker and more efficient techniques to stabilize victims of life-threatening illness or injury. For instance, when the victim of an automobile accident needs to be out of his car in two minutes and at the hospital in 10 minutes, it is imperative that we perfect the best methods of accomplishing this."

This singer has a 'hatful' of surprises

By BEA SMITH

"You gotta laugh a little, cry a little," sings 84-year-old Anna Lerit of Union during a telephone interview. In a beautiful, professional voice, she sings one chorus of "Glory of Love," and melts the heart of this reporter.

"I've been entertaining professionally for more than 50 years," she says, "and I've loved every minute of it."

Her voice is strong, determined, unquestionably young! "I'm an a cappella singer (singer without musical instrumentation). I have done my entertaining for years and I love my people."

Mrs. Lerit performs at many senior citizen meetings. "I entertain at different senior citizen high rises," she says, "many in Winfield, Cranford, Edison, the Ward Homestead in Maplewood, all around Union County, in Union, Springfield (at the St. James Church Seniors Club on Morris Avenue), Roselle and regularly for the Elizabeth Nursing Home with a gentleman named Danny Higgins of Roselle. I've done four seasons with him, all voluntary. Danny worked with the nutrition department of Union County. He's sort of retired."

The two also have entertained at Cornell Nursing Home in Union ("nursing homes are my specialty"), the Plaza in Elizabeth and the Recreation Building in Summit. "We give them just every kind of song to keep them happy, and this is it!"

"I know the quality of a good song," explains Mrs. Lerit. "I have in my repertoire songs from many good singers and shows dating back to the 1920s. Some are World War I songs. Others are from 'The King and I,' 'Music Man,' Eddie Arnold's good western songs and projected themes around music. I'm called to do these things, and I keep going. I love doing Irving Berlin songs, such as 'First Love,' or Cole Porter songs. Songs that came out by such beautiful singers as Perry Como, Al Martino, Tony Martin, Dean Martin, songs that they sing... 'Welcome to My World.'"

"I take songs from memory, and they click with people because I reach the heart of audiences."

When Mrs. Lerit "turned 84 on Dec. 23," she received hundreds of birthday cards. She can't answer them individually, so she took out an ad in the newspaper to thank all of her good friends.

Born Anna Petrovich in Russia, her parents brought her to Peabody, Mass., at the age of four. "When I was 10, we migrated to Newark, N. J. During my school days, I worked in a fruit and vegetable market near Sanford Avenue in Vailsburg. That's where I spent my days. I went to Central High School in Newark. When I grew up, I started as an amateur actor, doing my bit at a lot of parties for young people. Then I set out on my own. I was a rebel when it came to entertaining," she laughs.

"I took the helm by myself. It gave me a wonderful feeling what I did for people. I enjoyed it, and they enjoyed it."

"When it got serious, I got paid professionally, and at some places, I performed free for senior citizens. That was when I really sailed."

Mrs. Lerit says that she "was married nearly 40 years to Emanuel Lerit. He died a good many years ago." She has two daughters, Evelyn Young of Union, who is 60 years old; Barbara Roth of Springfield, 57, and a son, David, 63, also of Union. She has four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

"I'm very proud of my family," beams Mrs. Lerit. "They are all around me. Right now, I should be galavanting, but I walk with a walker now for the past year, but I do that well, too," she laughs.

"I do what I do," she says, "I have senior exercises classes. One is at the Presbyterian Church in Hillside, at the Senior Community Club, where I am a full-fledged member and I attend the one at the Green Lane Y in Union on Thursdays."

Mrs. Lerit admits that "I always was so wrapped up in what I was doing, I didn't have much time for a lot of things. But," she sighs, "you can't have everything."

"Along the way I had a fever for collecting hats. I have hundreds of hats, and I collect costume jewelry. I'm a real nut on these hobbies. You know, she says, "I opened three boutiques. I had a ball, made a lot of friends, but I didn't make any money."

Mrs. Lerit says that "I would like to put in a word for the Rev. Robert Scott, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Hillside, and his lady, Miriam. We are a Jewish group of senior citizens, and we meet at his church. He is an angel, just a wonderful humanitarian. He puts welcome signs up for us. Would you believe it? And if our entertainment doesn't show up, he will get up and give us a talk. He's just a gem. I can't tell you enough about this gentleman."

Mrs. Lerit explains that "I love all denominations. I respect all religions. A person is a person regardless of his religion. What's important is freedom in thought which we didn't get in the Old Country."

At the Jewish Community Center in Union, Mrs. Lerit says she has many friends, "especially my dear friend, Betty Rosman. She's a lady, a loving friend."

"LET ME ENTERTAIN YOU" is the motto of 84-year-old Anna Lerit of Union, who counts entertaining and hat collecting among her favorite activities.

Rebecca's forecast: Love and money

JAN. 10-17
ARIES—(521-420)—The early part of this week will focus on work matters. Catch up on lingering obligations and think about scheduling medical appointments. Later, a mate's perception is off. Avoid rash assessments and concentrate on discretion in financial matters. Contact those at a distance. Be cautious in travel.

TAURUS—(421-521)—Both personal and professional relationships are highlighted early in this period. Curb your restlessness and avoid risky schemes or you face a loss. Overdue information lifts your spirits. Gains through friends are indicated and money matters are vexing for the moment.

GEMINI—(522-521)—Straighten out financial agreements early in the week, those on the home front are moody and social or recreational plans are shelved at the last minute. Later, joint ventures turn out the best, health or career matters are looking promising and your long-term security and happiness are weighed.

CANCER—(622-723)—It's a good idea to pay attention to your hunches during this period. You may have more than one suspicion confirmed. Romance is iffy and dealings with co-workers could be testy. Later, the emphasis shifts to professional dealings. Concentrate on strengthening long-term security.

LEO—(724-823)—Worry over career, health or dependent's interests may cause you more than one sleepless night this week, although you may be making a mountain out of a molehill! Later in the week, you may have to make temporary concessions. Joint finances are a topic of conversation and others seek new employment.

VIRGO—(824-923)—Disappointments or delays are likely to start this week. Family matters are irksome and in general you may be feeling a bit under the weather. Later in the week, meetings and errands keep you on the go. Over-time crowds your schedule and important relationships are difficult at best for the moment.

LIBRA—(924-1023)—The early part of this period favors home, family and property matters. Others are unusually agreeable and a lucky investment could be in the offing. Later in the week, you may be finalizing agreements that will affect you for a long time to come. Avoid friction with relatives or neighbors.

SCORPIO—(1024-112)—The social theme brightens the early part of this week. Don't allow a change of plans to spoil your good time.

AQUARIUS—(11-219)—Matters related to tax, insurance or real estate dominate the early part of this week with a special focus on joint assets. Look for career advancement and more optimistic outlook. Later, finances are boosted. Your social status is on the rise. Accept social invitations.

PISCES—(220-320)—Seeing eye-to-eye with others will be emphasized early in the week. Certain friendships may be reviewed. Keeping a secret may be difficult. Later, travel, dealings with those at a distance or future planning are all highlighted. Avoid a careless mishap and sign legal or business papers.

CAPRICORN—(1222-9)—Try to keep your feet on the ground this week and don't let your imagination run away. Things may or may not be as they appear early in this week. Make important long-term decisions only if you're really sure. Later, a lucky turn of events is indicated, keep emotions under control.

Horoscope

Friends turn out to be beneficial or lucky, in some way. Later in the week, stick to the tried and true. You impress others with your sincerity and recent plans get off the ground.

SAGITTARIUS—(11-31221)—Turmoil early in this period is likely to revolve around clubs, friends or organizations. You will have to sidestep more than you anticipate this week. Later, you may feel the need for seclusion. Time alone can help you make important personal decisions. Plan for the future.

Chaps Saloon site a Rt. 22 landmark

A Route 22 landmark has been converted into a turn-of-the-century dining and drinking establishment—the new Chaps Saloon.

Spiro Martini of Middletown has opened the restaurant at Washington Avenue, Greenbrook, on the eastbound side of Route 22. It is at the site of the former Quincy's, in a building which goes back some 30 years and has also been known as The Old Straw Hat and Gable.

The menu features cooking over mesquite wood on a custom designed stainless steel grill. Mesquite, which originated in the Southwest, is now to this part of New Jersey, and is shipped to Chaps by the ton from Texas.

A wine bar serves imported and domestic wines by the glass; 25 different beers are available; the bar features three kinds of fresh fruit margaritas and non-alcoholic drinks.

Fresh crustaceans purchased each morning at the Fulton Fish Market are served from a clam and oyster bar. And desserts, all prepared on the premises, include chocolate and plain.

Chaps is open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., with continuous food service until midnight.

At lunch, business people can sit at the bar and watch the latest stock market reports on cable television. After work, free hors d'oeuvres are served during the 47 Happy Hour Monday through Friday.

Later this year, Chaps will open another large dining room on the second level, built in the form of a greenhouse and providing a scenic panorama of the Watchung mountains in the distance.

Martini, whose first restaurant job was at the age of 12 in his native Corfu, came to this country in 1973 and studied at the Lewis Hotel and Restaurant School and the Culinary Restaurant Center, both in New York City.

Disc 'n' Data

By MILT HAMMER
Pick Of The LPs: "You've Got Me Loving You," by Bobby Bland (MCA Records).

To many fans, including his fellow singers, Bobby is one of America's pre-eminent vocalists in any style of music. By his own definition, he specializes in "blues ballads," which is to say, even on an upbeat, happy song like "Turn On Your Love Light," there's a tear behind the smile. Bobby Bland is, truly, one of a kind. And he's been recognized as such for well over a quarter of a century.

His new album, "You've Got Me Loving You" is a strong continuation of the Bland tradition; strong songs, non-gimmicky arrangements, and a vocal delivery that cuts through the very bone. Produced by Monk Higgins and Al Bell, the album includes six songs composed by the producers, plus the Brook Benton classic, "Looking Back," "Too Bad" by the blues-rock band Point Blank, and a seasonal ballad, "You Are My Christmas," by Renee Marks and Pete Cosie.

Though long identified with the steamy Memphis blues scene, Robert Calvin Bland was born in the small town of Rosemark, Tenn., on Jan. 27, 1930. He began singing and playing guitar as a youngster, at first influenced by such country bluesmen as Blind Lemon Jefferson. When his family moved to Memphis in 1944, Bobby became familiar with the smoother urban blues of such locals as Sonny Boy Williamson and B.B. King.

After spending time with a gospel group, The Minutemen, Bobby signed on as B.B. King's valet, later joining Roscoe Gordon as chauffeur. (This kind of apprenticeship was a not uncommon way for would-be performers to get an introduction to the business.) During roughly the same period, Bland sang with an ad hoc group called The Beale Streeters, which also included Johnny Ace.

Bobby's first sides were produced by Ike Turner, then living in

BOBBY BLAND

Memphis and a talent scout for the Los-Angeles based Modern label. But it wasn't long until he was spotted in a Houston talent show by local promoter Don Robey, head of Duke Records. Robey signed Bobby to his label, in association with MCA. (ABC Records had purchased Duke in the early 1970s; some years later, ABC was purchased by MCA. Bobby Bland is the only artist to have
