Detective promote Town drops exam suit, Feintuch files one

By VICKI VREELAND
 Police Detective William Chisholm was promoted to sergeant by the Township Committee Tuesday, but if a lawsuit filed by Committee member Phil Feintuch against the N.J. Chiefs of Police Association, which administered the promotional sergeant exam, determines that the exam was not valid, a judge has warned that Chisholm will have to relinquish his position.

The committee voted 3-2, by a Democratic majority, to promote Chisholm, and to withdraw litigation against the Chiefs Association that was authorized in November by the Republicans.

It was instituted when former Mayor Feintuch attempted to rescind the criteria used for scoring the oral exams and was told by the association that it was not its "policy" to release the scoring procedure.

"I know of no other exam in the U.S. where you are not entitled to more than just the exam," Feintuch said, and added, "especially when this committee paid over $800 for it."

Feintuch, who observed portions of the oral exams, advised the former committee that he felt the test questions were "irrelevant and subjective," and recommended holding Chisholm's promotion until the exams were reviewed.

The Democrats, and members of the Association Local 76, claimed Feintuch's actions were "politically" motivated. They said Feintuch was concerned because Patrolman Daniel Maddino, who was affiliated with Feintuch's campaign, was a candidate for one of the three applicants who passed the oral exam.

Tuesday night, the tables turned when Feintuch called the Democrats' move "a political payoff to the PBA."

"The majority of this committee included in the PBA, and now you're paying back a promise. This is a sellout of the whole community to the PBA. Their (the PBA) wishes and demands have to be a distant second to the needs of this community," Feintuch said.

Mayor Ed Fanning suggested, "Maybe the citizens should review the applicants and check their political affiliations."

Feintuch began his objection to the committee's actions by saying, "I find it remarkable at this point in time that this committee is not interested in knowing what's on that examination. I should like to know the basis they made their determination. I find it hard to believe that a so-called enlightened committee doesn't want to be enlightened. There is no harm in continuing the lawsuit."

"The harm is that it costs money," responded Democratic Committee member Stanley Kaish. "I'm not going to question the cost of my curiosity."

"I'm willing to accept that their test is valid because they have seen what it takes to make a superior officer," he continued.

Democratic Committee member William Cieri commented, "I don't share the lack of confidence in N.J. Chiefs of Police Association that Mr. Feintuch does. We are required to give the test, we've given it, and we have had three successful applicants."

"I would be happy to negotiate at another time, but right now you're changing the rules after the game has been played and it's not fair to the men who were successful," Cieri added.

Republican Committeewoman Joanne Tedesco said she could not vote in favor of the promotion or dropping the lawsuit because, "I question the validity of the exam and I cannot take lightly that a member of the committee sat in on the exam and came back to us with concerns."

Fanning commented, "I want this lawsuit as soon as possible. I raised this issue in my campaign and now I'm sitting up here and my opponent isn't."

Feintuch said he believed the only criterion the committee used in making its decision was based on the exam scores. For that reason, he said the committee should be more "inquisitive."

"I have questioned the exam. I don't see anything malcontent about that. I am being completely above board," he said.

"I am also going by the recommendation of the police chief," Feintuch said.

1-78 update Completion seen in June '86

By VICKI VREELAND
 The construction of a major state highway through a suburban town is generally not welcomed by its inhabitants, and Springfieldites were no exception about 20 years ago when the Department of Transportation announced its plans to take homes and rearrange the township for the construction of Interstate 78.

Although the DOT said the highway would relieve heavily congested Route 22, the removal of greenery and the anticipated air and noise pollution from the high-volume traffic, did, and does not seem like a fair trade-off to many.

About nine years ago, the Township Committee adopted a resolution that objected to the I-78 construction. It also initiated litigation that held up construction work for a number of years.

Committee member Stanley Kaish and William Cieri, along with representatives from environmental groups and other special interests groups, traveled to Washington D.C. to meet with members of the DOT.

"They listened to us, but we eventually lost," Cieri said.

In October 1982, the DOT resumed its construction work.

Last year, in an effort to appease residents, the DOT introduced the concept of noise barriers. The DOT has constructed these barriers in other residential areas, along the Garden State Parkway for example, where highways were built in close proximity to homes.

The center barriers, which are made about four to six inches thick, are designed to reduce the traffic noise level.

Four noise barriers are planned for the I-78 construction areas in Springfield, however, according to Frank Cimometti, DOT project engineer, there may be more.

Cimometti said he received word this week that the DOT may be planning additional barriers.

On the map now, are two outer and two inner roadway barriers.

The eastbound outer sound barrier will begin about 300 to 400 feet west of Baltusrol Way and end at the Morris Avenue bridge. The barrier will begin at three-foot high and reach a maximum height of 24 feet.

A maximum 25-foot high westbound outer sound barrier will run from the Morris Avenue bridge, around the Baltusrol Avenue bridge, and end about 200 feet east of Shunpike Road, where it will drop to a maximum height of 20 feet.

The two inner roadways will be a maximum of 12 feet high. The eastbound inner roadway will run from Baltusrol Way to about 800 feet east of the high level on the highway, while the westbound inner roadway will run from the high structure to the structure over Baltusrol Way.

On Shunpike Road, a fence will be built in front of the barrier. The DOT has also scheduled planting, including small pine trees and shrubs, along most of the sound barriers. In the Baltusrol Way sections, Cimometti said there will be planting on both sides of the walls.

As the I-78 project stands now in Springfield, the only completed portion is the paving of the outer roadways up to Route 24.

I-78 in Springfield is planned to run from the east end at Springfield Avenue, where Cimometti said the Rahway River marks the county line, to the west end at Baltusrol Way, Summit, the Springfield line.

The entire project, highway construction and sound barriers, is slated for completion in June 1986.

When the interstate is completed, motorists will have access to I-78 West in three locations in Springfield — at the Springburn Manor on Springfield Avenue, Route 24 to Route 78 West, near Baltusrol Avenue, and Springfield Avenue to 78 West on the inner roadway.

Cimometti said the only access to I-78 East will be the existing entrance, off of Route 24 East.

Educators, students debate search decision

By VICKI VREELAND
 While the U.S. Supreme Court's decision last fall expanding the right of teachers and administrators to search students has been a source of relief to some, for others, it has raised concerns.

In the past, students have been searched when there was a "probable cause" that evidence of criminal misconduct would result.

The court revised its ruling to say school officials need "reasonable grounds" before they conducted a search. According to the decision, the intent of the search should be to turn up evidence that the student has violated either school rules or the law.

Generally, the ruling would enable school officials to conduct a search when they suspect a student is in possession of illegal drugs or weapons.

The ruling also states that a Piscataway high school vice principal was in order in 1980 when he searched the contents of a female student's pocketbook, who was suspected of smoking. The search resulted in the discovery of marijuana and the student was suspended.

This week's local administrators, teachers, parents, and students talked about the pros and cons of the decision.

Dr. Robert Black, principal of the James Caldwell School, does not believe the decision will have much impact on his elementary school, but he supports the Supreme Court ruling, as does state Education Commissioner Saúl Cooperman.

"I like the commissioner. I believe order and discipline are precursors to education. There may be some abuses, but if this endeavor will lead to better education, then I support it," Black said.

Stuart Applebaum, president of the Springfield Board of Education, has interpreted the decision as "the individual's right of privacy vs. the right of law enforcement."

"A school building is a public building. It's not the same as having privacy in your home. It's a different right of privacy."

"If I had a probable cause based on a search of a student, it is the influence of drugs or alcohol that I am looking for. It's not a search of a person's private life, it's a search of a person's behavior in a public place."

Applebaum said.

Juvenile Detective Edward Kisch believes the decision "will make things a lot easier for the teachers in the school." Kisch said, "there are problems in the high schools." In the past, he said, teachers have been reluctant to get involved with identifying a student because of legal ramifications for violating a student's right to privacy.

Kisch also believes the decision "will act as a deterrent to students used. Administrators have to make sure the right isn't abused," Applebaum said.

Kisch said he has never seen the power abused by school officials and doesn't expect that it will begin now. "Most districts are geared to doing what the parents want. I do not see a gross amount of increased searches, but this lets the principals and teachers know where they stand legally in the school," he continued.

As for the question as to whether the decision infringes on the students' right to privacy, Kisch said, "What about the student that doesn't use drugs or carry a weapon? Doesn't that student have a right to go to school without the fear of physical reprisal, like getting a knife in the back? Of course, he does," he answered.

Kisch said the right to search "will not" open the door to "bizarre inquiries." He said administrators are allowed to "pat" search a student, but not "strip" search.

"The school only becomes involved when a problem is not picked up at home by the parents."

A parent of three had this opinion, "If they (the students) have nothing to hide, they have nothing to fear."

John Cafone, an English teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, commented, "It's really for the benefit of the students. You're protecting the majority of the students."

Brenda Kay, a vocal music teacher at Dayton, procedurally inspects students' luggage on weekend trips, but said she feels more confident about doing so now. Over the past weekend, Kay said she "felt much more comfortable inspecting the luggage of the students as the students were aware of the recent ruling."

Anne Romano, principal at Dayton, who said she is concerned for the safety of both students and teachers, also supports the decision. Romano said the faculty at Dayton would never "take advantage" of the right to search.

Marcia Kendler, an English teacher at Dayton, said, "I think that it is the school's responsibility to act in loco parentis. We are charged with the safety and privacy not only of the individual, but the protection of all of the students as a whole; therefore, if a student breaks a rule, he's endangering not only his own safety, but the safety of the other students and the faculty, as well."

Students in Kendler's journalism class also voiced their views. Jay Mishkin of Mountaintop, editor of the school's newspaper, "The Dayton," commented, "I think it's really an unfair ruling because just because a student has a cigarette, doesn't mean that they're going to have drugs or a gun on them."

Leslie Meskin of Springfield said, "I think the school has the right to search your locker, since its school property, but not a person, unless they think they have something that's going to hurt another human being."

Residents cope with big chill

Anyone who had to go outdoors knew it was cold. Motorists were hit hard as the iciest weather in years held the area in its grip early this week.

But Overlook Hospital in Summit reported no weather-related incidents, while area schools showed spotty effects from the deep freeze. At Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, where sickness had resulted in student absenteeism of up to 13 percent last week, only 10.6 percent of the students were out Monday. Eight of the approximately 86 teachers also were reported absent.

David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, however, reported a higher number of student out on Monday; about 20 percent. Teacher attendance, on the other hand, was higher than normal, according to Vice Principal George Cuzzolino.

Until this week, attendance at Brearley has been normal. As of last week, the absenteeism rate stood at 8 or 9 percent, according to Cuzzolino, who said that is about average for this time of year. Attendance at Springfield elementary schools, for both teachers and students, was reported normal this week.

Staff attendance at Deerfield School in Mountainide was normal Monday, though student absenteeism was more than 12 percent. As out of an enrollment of 455, but of the parents who called in Monday morning to report that their children would be out, only about five blamed the weather, school officials said.

At Harding School in Kenilworth, teacher attendance was normal and student attendance was almost normal. About 10 percent of the 635 children enrolled at Harding were out on Monday, a figure described by school officials as "just a little higher" than usual. As at Deerfield, however, only a handful of those absent said it was because of the weather.

Motorists who couldn't start their cars found, in many cases, that getting help was virtually impossible.

The New Jersey Automobile Club (AAA), whose lines were busy constantly, was telling car owners with dead batteries early Monday morning that rescue would arrive some time "within three hours." At noon, the story remained the same: It was still a three-hour wait.

Emergency service calls during a 24-hour period Monday — from midnight Sunday to midnight Monday, that was four times the usual number, an AAA spokeswoman said. Calls continued coming in at a heavy rate Tuesday, with the total hitting 600 by 1 p.m.

But countless other AAA members, frustrated by constant busy signals, gave up without ever reaching the emergency road service. One motorist's experience was typical: At 7:15 a.m. Monday, she started trying to call the AAA emergency number. After an hour of waiting, an AAA spokesman told her, "We're sorry, but we're not taking any more calls at this time."

Following this suggestion, the AAA member started dialing the now-familiar number again at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. About 20 minutes later, she thought she had struck success. Instead of a busy signal, she heard the phone ringing at the other end of the line.

But the voice that answered wasn't a live one. It was a recording, telling her politely, "Thank you for waiting. An operator will be with you shortly. Please stand in line. Have your license plate number and membership number available. Thank you."

At intervals of several minutes, the recording repeated this speech. It was still repeating it 35 minutes later, when the AAA member gave up and called a neighborhood gas station.

Those trying to get help from private gas stations, however, were not much better off. One service station operator told a caller that both his trucks were out on call throughout the day Monday and promised only to put the car owner on a "waiting list" for Tuesday.

At another gas station, an attendant described the situation as "ridiculous." He estimated that the station received 40 to 50 calls from stranded motorists Monday. On Tuesday morning, he said, it looked like another day of the same.

Matthew J. Derham, president of the New Jersey Automobile Club, issued four cold-weather tips for car owners:

1. At 0 degrees Fahrenheit, a battery drops to 46 percent of its full potential. A jump start can get a car going, but the battery should be checked as soon as possible.
2. Dry gas or other fuel additives designed to absorb water can prevent water from condensing in the gas tank. The gas tank also should be kept as full as possible.
3. Pumping the accelerator can cause flooding. If that happens, drivers should wait 15 to 30 seconds before trying again to start the car.
4. The cooling system should have a 50-50 mixture of water and antifreeze. Hoses should be checked for possible cracks and coolant should be checked for the freezing point.

The three Dayton students joined about 100 other distinguished high school seniors at the seminar program. Featured speakers included Education Commissioner Saul Cooperman, state Corrections Commissioner William H. Faucher, and Robert E. Green, chief of the state Bureau of Alcohol Countermeasures.

Department heads an increase of 9 percent or $1,200, whichever is the greater amount.

An ordinance granting a 8.9 percent increase in the 1984 salaries of the fire chief and deputy chief was introduced. According to the ordinance, the chief's salary for 1984 is $35,357, and the deputy chief's, $31,746.

A special meeting of the township committee will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the municipal building.

'85 county budget calls for 100 layoffs

Union County's proposed $120.2 million 1985 budget, introduced at a major press conference last week, calls for 100 county employees to be laid off this year.

If approved by the Board of Freeholders, in its current form, another 50 county positions that are currently vacant will not be filled.

The budget, presented at a press conference in Coletti's office on Jan. 16, represents a $7.4 million increase over last year's $112.8 million budget.

financial obligations the state is failing to live up to in its obligations to Union County College.

Coletti said, "Last year it only provided 31 percent and the county has to make up the difference."

Coletti explained that Union County, as well as all the other state counties are only allowed to raise revenues through property taxes while the state has casino gambling, state lottery and other sources of revenue.

Coletti said, "But it has not necessarily been so... Soon you are going to see county managers forced to cut significantly the area of social services," Coletti claimed, explaining that this tactic increasingly may become the only way to obtain balanced budgets.

Coletti said that in recent years the county has been able to minimize the impact on social services because county programs such as parks and recreation and youth programs have been run more efficiently, according to Coletti.

For the birds

Birds find shore to be winter paradise

By DR. JOHN B. WOLF, Professor, Union County College

Subarctic gullers and swimmers, but the most colorful are the shabby beachers. But the cavity of these enthusiasts in the salt water is seasonal: Memorial Day through Labor Day. The fancy red-billed terns and the laughing gulls, the flappers with the black heads that hover and squawk above the beach

New Jersey's beaches and coastal waters are not without activity during the winter, however. Actually, ice and snow in the far north force many sea birds, some of them quite rare, to move south. A few of them spend the winter in the Garden State.

Property loss may mean deduction gain
Patty and Mike came home one day to find the place ransacked. Mike's stamp collection, which cost him $4,000, was missing; Patty's antique bric-a-brac was gone from the mantle where it had lain undisturbed for years. A stereo system worth several thousand dollars was also missing. The couple discovered their homeowners insurance would reimburse them for only $2,000 of the $10,000 in property. They were relieved to learn some of the loss could be compensated by a $5,000 federal income tax deduction.

Another case involving the casualty and theft loss tax deduction: Mary Kramer's home was damaged by a 1984 storm which left $15,000 in structural damage. In addition to payments due from her insurance coverage, Mary may cut her loss further by claiming a casualty loss deduction.

According to the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants, if you suffer property damage or loss—a victim of thieves or of nature—you ought to know something about the casualty and theft loss deduction.

A law that took effect in the 1981 tax year disallowed a number of people from claiming the deduction, but nonetheless, it can still provide financial relief to many. In 1984, the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) reported a record number of tornadoes: 1,287 were observed. NOAA's Climatic Impact Assessment branch estimates storm damage will reach $6 billion. Since half the damage was uninsured and owners of this property will not be reimbursed, the casualty loss deduction may be critical this year.

Rules allow you a limited deduction for a loss that exceeds 10 percent of your adjusted gross income minus a $100 exclusion for each casualty or theft. To illustrate how this might work, let's look in on Patty and Mike.

Their stamp collection was valued at $5,000, though Mike paid only $4,000 for it. The theft loss rules say that you must deduct whichever is less—the cost of the property or its fair market value—in this case, $4,000. Similarly, Patty's antiques were appraised at $2,000, but she was entitled to deduct only the $2,500 she paid for the collection. The stereo system only qualified for a $2,500 deduction. Despite receipts showing they paid $5,000 for the system, its worth had to be adjusted for wear and tear. Thus, they had a total loss of $10,000 ($4,000 plus $2,500 plus $3,500). They subtract from that amount the $2,000 reimbursed by their insurance and also the $100 exclusion ($10,000 minus $2,000 minus $100). Finally, from their $7,900 loss, they must subtract 10 percent of their adjusted gross income of $23,000, thus the couple would be entitled to a $5,400 tax deduction as a result of the theft ($7,900 minus $2,300).

Assessing the tax deductible value of property can be complex. When a storm damages your home, as in Mary Kramer's case, IRS rules are more puzzling. Mary must compare the difference in value of her home before and after the storm with her adjusted basis (purchase price plus costs for improvements) and she is entitled to deduct the lesser amount. Here's an example: Let's say the adjusted basis in Mary's home is $20,000, and her home decreased in value by $5,000 as a result of the storm. Since the $5,000 change in value is less than the $20,000 adjusted basis, she is entitled to deduct the lesser of two ($5,000).

Garbed in deep bluish-slate with chestnut side panels, the harlequin sports a variety of peculiar white markings outlined in black. It also wears a flapping face mask, resembling the disguise favored by the traditional comic character whose name it bears.

During the summer months, the Harlequin Duck and the Purple Sandpiper are next-door neighbors in "Baffin Land." But this winter, both birds are wintering about the jetties at the northern end of Long Beach Island. The sandpiper is around every winter, but the duck is a rarity. Most sightings of the Harlequin Duck in New Jersey have been made from vantage points near the Barnegat Lighthouse.

The sunbathers have vanished, leaving the winter months along the Jersey shore... for the birds.

Tailor your garden to its soil with water, but often contains a percentage of both air and water. These components mix together to provide our plants with nutrients, water and anchorage against winds.

The broken rock part of the soil determines the texture. The texture of Union County soil is clay. This means that the soil particles cannot be seen with the naked eye. In fact, an electron microscope with vision 180,000 times stronger than our own is necessary to view these particles.

Clay soils, however, can be improved. Increasing the pore space by adding large quantities of organic matter will do the trick. Leaves, grass clippings, peat moss and compost all work well for this purpose. The organic matter will work its way in between the fine clay particles and open up the soil. Making it easier to work, quicker to drain and faster to warm in the spring.

Knowledge and success go together. Understanding your soil may be just the difference between small tomatoes and champions.

A long-discussed ban on left turns from W. Chestnut Street to Sluyvesant Avenue in Union will go into effect Monday for a two-month trial period.

Approved after lengthy debate by the Union Township Committee and then, after another delay, by the Union County Board of Freeholders, the plan received a go-ahead from the state Department of Transportation last week.

Implementation of the ban was announced by Walter Gardner, head of the county's Division of Transportation Engineering.

DOT seeks bids for I-78 work

The state Department of Transportation will take bids Feb. 7 for excavation, paving, curb and safety improvements on 2.7 miles of Route 78 in Union and Springfield.

The work to be done involves a stretch of the interstate highway from just west of Vauxhall Road in Union to Quarry Road in Springfield. It is scheduled for completion by June 1, 1986.

The DOT is going ahead with project even though federal funds, which will pay 90 percent of the cost, have been frozen, a department spokesman said. The state will put up the money, he effected, making a loan until the freeze is lifted, she explained.

According to Congressman Matthew Rinaldo's office in Washington, D.C., the federal

He said studies made by his division and the Union Police Department show that fewer than 1 percent of the 38,000 vehicles using the intersection each day make the left turn; at the same time, this turn causes more than 25 percent of the accidents at the site.

Trucks which have been making the left turn from W. Chestnut to Sluyvesant should use Route 22, Morris Avenue and the U-turn at Bradley's for access to the Union Township business district, Gardner said. Cars can use Caldwell Avenue to get to Morris Avenue, he added.

AN EYE FOR ART—Lawrence Koldorf appraises the painting that won him an award in the Juried Show '85 at the Summit Art Center.

Resident gets prize

Lawrence Koldorf of Garden Oval, Springfield, recently received one of six art awards in the Juried Show '85 at the Palmer Galleries of the Summit Art Center.

Koldorf's winning acrylic painting was one of 143 entries received from all parts of the country. The show was judged by internationally known colorist Richard Anuszkiewicz.

Koldorf said he spots his subjects on the street, most often at outdoor festivals, and takes their picture. The painting in the photograph is from such a spontaneous picture.

"What has kept me at the canvas has been a passion for how people look. It is one of the joys that is people. Watching faces, reading faces, fabricating notions and stories about faces, about the people who wear the faces."

"I am striving to make a painting arresting as the face was to me that prompted the photograph. My color acrobatics intensify a painting that can never match a living breathing human being. After a painting is complete, I gaze at it tirelessly. I want you to, to simply drink it in, the color, the face, the expression, endlessly. Looking, and looking, is what half of art is," Koldorf explained.

Police report theft at deli
Springfield police reported a break-in and theft at Conti's Deli, 234 Mountain Ave., Jan. 16. According to reports, the store was ransacked and about $2,500 was discovered missing, along with food, cigarettes, and a calculator.

Police said the perpetrators evidently gained access to the store through a hole in the rear glass door. In Municipal Court Monday night, Judge Robert Weltzhek fined a Bound Brook man for a number of motor vehicle violations. Eugene Adams, 31, pleaded guilty to driving while his license and registration was suspended, having no insurance, and driving an unregistered vehicle.

He was fined a total of $1,160 and received a year's license suspension. He was also sentenced to a mandatory 10 days in the county jail.

Pupils dream in art

Pupils from the James Caldwell and Thelma Sandmeier schools in Springfield are "daring to dream." Under the direction of art teacher Marylin Schneider, the students have entered Channel 19's seventh annual "Students' art festival," Dare to Dream.

The contest, open to students from kindergarten through 12th grade, seeks entries reflecting a "dream world," of a time past, in the future or of a better today. A panel of judges will select about 100 pieces of art and photography to form an exhibit which will be displayed at sites throughout the metropolitan area. Further recognition will be given to the students when their work appears on-air during WNET station breaks this spring.

Society plans musical afternoon

A music program will be presented for the Springfield Historical Society at a meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Sarah Ball Recreation Center, Church Hill, Springfield.

conduct a short business meeting. Then Howard Wiseman, program chairman, will present Dale Van Der Sande of Clifton, who will entertain the members and guests with "Music Through the Ages," running Kenneth Hendrix, president, will rock and roll, with a variety of rhythms in between. Van Der Sande, a pianist and accordionist, will use both instruments in his presentation. He has won numerous awards for his musical talents as well as in other endeavors.

He recently won the state prize for Eagle Scouts offered by the Sons of the American Revolution and will be in competition for the national prize in that category with contestants from other states in June 1985.

Milton Brown, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the slate of officers and trustees for the coming year at the annual meeting, which will follow the regular meeting.

The meeting is open to the public. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Charles Miller and members of the Hospitality Committee.

Board OKs variance on bakery lot

The Springfield Board of Adjustment, which met last night, granted a variance for the expansion of a Mountain Avenue bakery at its first meeting of 1985 Jan. 15 and appointed a new chairman and attorney.

The board approved an application from Charlotte and Heinz Grett of Mountainide to allow them to extend a parking lot for their pastry shop 50 feet into a residential zone.

The Gretts applied for the additional space to accommodate a projected customer increase when they expand the La Petite Patisserie bakery at 721 Mountain Ave.

According to the building department, the Gretts also plan to construct a two-story office building on the parking lot. Two prior applications for the parking lot expansion were turned down by the Board of Adjustment, which felt the residential area was excessive.

The original application called for a 100-foot extension. When that proposal was rejected, the Gretts applied for a 50-foot extension, which was also turned down.

According to the Building Department, which issues the variances, the board felt the additional space was a reasonable request from the owners.

Area residents, particularly those from Lakeland Avenue and North Derby Road, attended several meetings on the application to voice their opposition to the proposed extension. They expressed concerns about the increased automobile fumes, noise, and additional traffic a larger parking lot would cause. The approved application calls for the construction of a fence and planned shrubbery between the parking lot and the residential properties.

The Grettts will next have to appear before the Planning Board for site plan approval on the office building.

As the board reorganized for the new year, William Halpin, a board member since 1976, was appointed chairman. Member Alan Siegel served as chairman in 1984.

Howard Schwartz received his first appointment as the board's attorney. He succeeds Yale Greenspoon, who acted as board counsel for about 10 years. Greenspoon is the attorney for the Springfield Board of Education.

Press Club names winners

An article, which appeared last week inadvertently omitted the names of the winners of the American Legion's Press Club awards dinner, held on Jan. 13 at the Galloping Hill Caterers, Union. The awards were given to the various American Legion post and auxiliary units for outstanding publications during the year.

This year the winners from Union County were: Anthony Pollari and Robert Wacker from Post No. 35, Union, Jeanne Fugee from Unit 6, Elizabeth, and Edith Holmberg, Unit 22, Springfield. The press club also gives a scholarship award to the son or daughter of a member of the American Legion or auxiliary.

Eligibility is also extended to any student who has attended the American Legion Boy's State or American Legion Auxiliary Girl's State programs. The applicant must intend to work toward a degree related to the field of communications. The winner this year was Janine Smith from Teaneck.

Springfield Garage Family firm marks 45th year

After 45 years in business, the Springfield Garage remains a "family affair."
Dad — Bob Briggs — runs the ship, while his wife manages the office and his sons supervise the sales lot and garage.
The garage, which recently celebrated its 45th anniversary, specializes in Mercedes and GMC trucks, from the smallest pick-up to the largest tractor. In addition to the vehicles, Springfield Garage sells parts and also does repairs.
Briggs believes his garage is the oldest business in Springfield still under original management. He also can brag about being the first Mercedes truck dealer in the country.
Briggs bought the Morris Avenue business when he was 23. Since then, the only major operating change he has made was the expansion of the service garage.
He has not been sucked into the assembly-line form of customer service, but instead, still personally shows his trucks whenever he can.
Briggs stands behind his trucks because he feels "they are better built" than other models on the market, and he guarantees sales and service work. "I guess our guarantees must be pretty good or we wouldn't be here for 45 years," he says.
The garage sticks to appointments and works as expeditiously as possible when servicing a truck, because, after all, "I don't make any money till they're out the door," Briggs explains.
For the most part of his 45 years in the business, Briggs has enjoyed his shop. He has no plans for retiring. "I wouldn't know what to do if I did," he chuckled.
The Springfield Garage is located at 297 Morris Ave., Springfield, opposite The Money Store. Customers may reach the garage by calling 376-0222. It is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

49th annual Hot Stove League dinner held

Baseball talk takes chill out of the air

By WAYNE TILLMAN
The weather was cold outside, but the atmosphere inside the Town and Campus in Union last Wednesday was filled with warmth and friendship.

Baseball was in the air. But in January? It is when baseball talk centers around one of the biggest events of the year in Union County — the annual Hot Stove League dinner, which was held for the 49th time last week and has become even bigger than most people ever imagined.

How did the name "Hot Stove League" get started? Just ask Jim Iozzi, whose diligent efforts as dinner chairman have been instrumental in the success of this event.
"Between the end of the World Series and the start of spring training, baseball fans would gather during the winter and talked in front of a pot belly stove," he said.

Iozzi, who also serves as vice president of the Union County Baseball Association, remembers the early days when he went to the dinners as a kid.
"In those days, they gave out gifts like small baseball bats and pencils," he said. Iozzi has been vice president of the UCBA since 1976 and dinner chairman since 1978.

PHIL RIZZUTO (inset) is the latest in a long line of baseball greats to speak at Union County's annual Hot Stove League dinner. What started as a small gathering at the Elizabeth Carter Hotel, Elizabeth, 49 years ago, has become a county baseball tradition, with more than 400 guests in attendance at last week's dinner. The above are sample programs from past dinners, including the first one in 1937.

The purpose of the dinner is to raise money to operate youth baseball throughout Union County. Over 450 people attended this year and even more are expected for next year's 50th anniversary event.

The first site of the dinner was the Elizabeth-Carter Hotel in Elizabeth, then Singer's Recreation in Elizabeth. It moved to the Elizabeth Town and Campus in 1971 and to the present Union Town and Campus in 1978.

Started by the Union County Park Commission in 1927, the dinner has become sort of a "thank you" for all the coaches who give their time to county baseball programs and to the youth who participate.

Linden has been a big supporter of the dinner for these many years. Frank Krysiak, one of the supporters of the Linden Recreation Department, was one of the original founders of the dinner, and among those in attendance last week were Mayor George Hudak and members of the City Council.

One of the main purposes of the dinner is to honor the various county individuals and teams for their efforts during the past season, and many locals were honored.

Among those were the Roselle American Legion team for finishing as runnerup in the county league; Tom Bias, who won the Herm Shaw Memorial Award as the Most Valuable Scholar-Athlete at Roselle Park High School; Dick Policastro of Springfield Post 228 for being named the Legion's Most Valuable Pitcher and Wilbur Kolb of Union for his outstanding contribution to Union County baseball.

Two of the most prestigious awards given each year are the Chris Zusi Memorial Award for the outstanding male athlete in the county and the Joseph Lombardi Memorial Award for the outstanding female athlete. And the list of past winners reads like a Who's Who in Union County sports.

Bill Austin, Roosevelt Grier, Jeff Torberg, Rick Barry, Al Santorini, John Shumate, Willie Wilson, Elliot Maddox, Ted Blackwell, Renaldo Nebemiah, Larry Kubin, Butch Woolfolk, Gordon Austin, Mark Casale, Carol Blazewski, T.C. Flynn, Sally Jo Placa and Kathy Stirling. And the list for the future will probably contain even more names to stir the memory.

Others have been Joe McCarthy, Carl Hubbell, Charley Dreesen, Joe DiMaggio, Chub Feeney, George Newcombe, Monte Irvin, Tom Gorman, Elston Howard, Bobby Thomson, Dick Howser, Jim Bouton, Ed Lopat, Joe Pepitone, Frankie Frisch, Mel Allen, Tommy John, Willie Wilson, Ron Davis, Lou Piniella and Sparky Lyle.

But the most memorable was in 1979, when Reggie Jackson came to speak at the dinner, and it left a lasting impression on local.

Also honored this year was Frank O'Rourke for his 75 years of service to county baseball. He played with former Detroit Tiger great Ty Cobb.

Polower will be honored at a dinner/cocktail party Feb. 2 at the Town & Campus Restaurant, Union. Born in Vienna, Austria, Polower attended college in Vienna, where he majored in commercial art. Prior to coming to the United States in 1935, he was editor-in-chief of "Die Stimme" ("The Voice"), a newspaper published in Vienna.

Polower was affiliated with Stainless Engineering, a division of Cooper Alloy Corporation, Hillside, in a supervisory capacity from 1940 to 1961, when he left New Jersey for a position in Massachusetts. Returning in 1964, he worked as a nuclear planner for Aloyca, a division of the Walworth Corporation, where he received two awards for outstanding performance. He retired from Aloyca in 1978. Since then, Polower has been actively involved in volunteer work with the United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County, where he is also a member of the Board of Directors.

In addition to his current award, Polower has received numerous awards from industry, a citation from President Reagan for outstanding volunteer performance, and in 1981 was named by the Men's Club of Temple Shomrei Torah, Hillside, as Man of the Year. United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County was the recipient of a grant from Atlantic Richfield Corporation in honor of Polower.

He and his wife, Greta, have been married for 45 years, and reside in Elizabeth. They have a daughter, Genie Edith.

Benefit show slated tonight

Straight Ahead Entertainment in association with Illusions of Irvington, 925 Springfield Ave., will present a benefit show tonight for the World Band Aid Trust Fund, which is assisting in the Ethiopian famine relief effort.

Tony Losito of Irvington and Al Grunstein of Union, partners in Straight Ahead Entertainment, have arranged for three local bands.

Bach concert is set Sunday

A special concert to celebrate the 300th anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach will be held by the Society of Musical Arts at the Millburn Library 200 Gier Ave., Sunday at 3 p.m.

The SOMA orchestra, directed by Jeannette Hille, assistant professor and choral director of Seton Hall University, will feature Bach's Concerto in D for piano and orchestra, introducing Mitchell Zeldwig as soloist.

Zeldwig is a concert pianist and teacher, who completed his music studies with pianist-composer Seymour Bernstein.

Hille also will appear in the role of soprano soloist in Bach's "Arioso." Admission is free.

Joint chorus to sing again

The Intergenerational Chorus, an ensemble of senior citizens and school children who sing traditional and popular music, will sing once again thanks to a $1,000 grant from the Union County Arts Grant Program.

Established last year by the Jewish Community Center of Central New Jersey in Union with a $600 grant from the arts grant program, the ensemble included third-graders at Solomon Schechter Day School in Cranford and county senior citizens.

In announcing the grant, Louis J. Coletti, Union County manager, commented that "This is a good example of the county responding to a popular demand. The music teachers are now working on a joint program for spring and the Union County Arts Grant Program is delighted to help the program continue."

Funding is available to other Union County-based organizations and artists seeking support for projects which will benefit Union County residents by calling the office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, 233-7906.

Music series set

Harriet Nancy Allen will join Musica Da Camera in a concert of chamber music Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Union County College Fine Arts Theater, 1033 Springfield Ave., Cranford.

Tickets for the concert can be purchased by calling 684-3226.

HEALTH & FITNESS

Work off weight after hours

Excitement, a fresh magic in weight control, and a new lean look are available to those who participate in the Lean Line program after work, according to two program supervisors from Rutgers University.

Lean Line is under the nutritional supervision of Hans Fisher, Ph.D., chairman of the department of nutrition at Rutgers, and under the psychological direction of Dr. Arnold A. Lazarus, professor of psychology at Rutgers.

Lean Line has a branch at the Veterans of Foreign Wars, 4012 High St., Union, Wednesdays at 5:15 p.m. In addition to the medically approved, nutritional diet, Fisher and Lazarus said, Lean Line offers a built-in maintenance procedure, "Cruise Dieting," that is an integral part of the program. At each 10-pound loss, the member practices maintenance for a week with complete direction and supervision of the director. In this way, the dieter learns and understands the pitfalls of maintenance and is better equipped to handle it when goal is reached, according to the Lean Line supervisors. Losing weight is a definite accomplishment, but losing it and keeping it off is the crowning achievement, they said.

Lean Line has incorporated into its program a psychological method for weight reduction, called behavior modification techniques, involving an understanding and retaining of destructive eating habits.

While the main purpose of Lean Line is the reduction of weight, attention also is given to mental attitude. How one feels about oneself is a contributing factor in the success of any weight reduction program.

Health food center is moving

Union Center will welcome a new addition to its family of merchants early next month: Nutri-Care Health Center, which is moving from Haines Avenue to 1015 Stayman Ave.

In business for nearly 10 years, Nutri-Care features major national brands of vitamins, herbs, food supplements, body and skin care products. It also specializes in supplying hard-to-get items.

The new store will be larger, enabling Nutri-Care to expand the size of its food department. Large varieties of natural grains, flours, nuts and dried fruits will be available in economy sizes.

In-store demonstrations of the newest skin and body care products, free skin analysis and free samples will be offered.

Representatives from major national companies will visit the health center to answer questions about their products and provide free sampling.

Nutri-Care's owner, Sylvia Bross, has completed a master of science degree in food and nutrition from Rutgers University and worked as a dietician. She gives lectures and presentations on improvement in health through dietary changes, supplementation, stress reduction and changes in mental attitudes. She also emphasizes exercises, regular medical checkups and chiropractic care.

Silvey's adds more space

Silvey's Fitness Center, 720 W. St. George Ave., Linden, is adding a new room that will increase its current space by 50 percent.

"Our new expansion program will now feature a full line of nautilus equipment, free weights, boxing equipment and personal exercise classes given by expert instructors," a spokesman for the center said.

Silvey's features the Orthoped gravity inversion scientific system for relief of back and neck pain and overall good health. Inversion is a new, simple exercise station with results coming without the use of gravity booths.

Anyone interested in the center's trial offers should call 925-4434. All ages are welcome.

Iron Age gym: It's hard work

Open 7 days a week the "Iron Age" gym is proud of its reputation as a "working gym" whose specialty is hard work and results.

Located at 15 N. Wood Ave. in Linden, the 1000-square foot facility specializes in body building for men and women.

Utilizing machines and free weight, the owner, Garry Sheppard, a body building competitor himself, supervises the instruction of all new members personally as well as holding informal classes on nutrition, posing and competing in general.

The Iron Age also promotes the Mr. & Ms. Union County body building contest held every year. This year the contest will be held at Soehl Junior High School in Linden on June 1. For more information contact the "Iron Age".

DOLLS DO IT at the Guys and Dolls Health Spa, 520 E. St. George Ave., Linden. The spa has newly arrived, updated facilities, including new Nautilus pieces, free weights, steam, sauna and sun rooms. They also offer free babysitting and free parking.

Relief in sight if shoes are killing you

"These shoes are killing me!" For those who have been accustomed to making this complaint, relief is now available, according to Dr. Justin Wernick, co-founder of the Langer Biomechanics Group of Deer Park, N.Y.

The breakthrough is a specially designed prescription orthotic device called the Halitholic.

These custom-made shoe inserts, available by prescription only from local podiatrists or other health care practitioners, can correct foot and gait-related problems and are designed to be worn in even the slinkiest shoe, Dr. Wernick said. He said Halitholics provide all the support and foot control of full-sized orthotics.

"Halitholics," Dr. Wernick explained, "start out as full-sized orthotics but, after a series of modifications, are nearly 50 percent smaller in bulk and weight than standard orthotics, to conform to the shallower-than-normal shoe requirements of today's styles."

Because of their minimal weight and size, Langer Halitholics are also ideal for use in ballet slippers,

"jazz" shoes, cross-country ski boots—even ice and roller skates, he said.

Many aerobic dancers are now using Halitholics after finding that, while this activity may be excellent for one's circulation and figure, too much of a workout can lead to a pair of battered feet.

Unlike shoe inserts that are available over-the-counter in local drug stores, Langer Halitholics, like all the firm's orthotics, are custom-made according to specifications from the patient's podiatrist or health care practitioner. No two orthotics are ever exactly alike, because no two pairs of feet are ever exactly alike, Dr. Wernick said.

The Langer team of technicians hand-designs and finishes the orthotics, made from individual plaster casts sent to the Langer lab facility from health care practitioners the world over.

And Langer designs and produces more than just Halitholics; it is responsible for the development of design of an entire range of orthotic devices: the Rohard orthotic, a standard device that is applicable to patients of all ages; Geriflex, an orthotic for older patients designed to accommodate their need for less rigidity and more flexibility in an orthotic; Bioflex, a flexible orthotic for younger patients with "older" foot problems; and Sportotics, designed to take the added stress and movement of specific athletic activities ranging from baseball to hockey.

How to prevent cold weather injuries

Skiers, skaters, sledders — anyone involved in winter sports — can prevent cold weather injury, according to the St. Elizabeth Hospital Community Health Information Network.

People involved in cold weather sports often forget some obvious measures that should be taken at this frosty time of year, said Dr. William Ferrer, chief of infectious disease at the hospital. Even simple things, such as knowing one's exercise limits, eating properly, wearing appropriate clothing and learning steps to follow in case of exposure may be ignored. Symptoms of the two major medical problems that develop from cold exposure — cold injury and hypothermia — may also be overlooked.

Hypothermia involves the cooling of the body core, especially the chest and abdomen. Because this is where vital organs are housed, cooling in these areas is more life-threatening than cooling of the extremities alone. Maintaining the right body temperature involves a balance between the heat produced and the heat lost, Dr. Ferrer said.

The body produces heat with energy from food. The body loses heat four ways: radiation, convection, evaporation and respiration.

RADIATION: Since the body is not insulated with hair, it emits heat. The head radiates the most heat. Estimates of heat loss range from 20 to 70 percent. This loss can be stopped by wearing proper clothing, especially a hat.

CONVECTION: Heat is transferred from the body fastest if the air is in motion. Therefore, increased wind speed means increased loss of body heat. Windproof clothing and shelter from the wind can be lifesavers.

EVAPORATION: When moisture evaporates from the skin, heat is lost. Clothing must be able to "breathe" and carry away perspiration. Wearing layers of clothing is much better protection than a one-layer, tight fitting outfit.

RESPIRATION: Warm, moist air is exhaled each time one breathes. Heat loss through respiration can be minimized by avoiding heavy breathing and by breathing through the nose, not the mouth.

"The body sends out important signals when its temperature is falling too low," Dr. Ferrer said. "Normal body temperature is 98.6 degrees F. If the body temperature drops to 85, shivering begins. Shivering itself is not dangerous, but it is an important warning to seek warmth. Intense shivering occurs when the body reaches 91 to 92 degrees F, and one may have trouble talking and thinking.

Winter allergies hard to diagnose

Itchy eyes? Runny nose? A winter cough that just won't quit? Those symptoms could be the signs of allergies, according to Dr. Richard Podell of New Providence. Spring and fall pollens are easy to recognize, but winter allergies are more difficult to diagnose. When the heat goes on and the storm windows close, levels of indoor allergens increase.

Persons who are sensitive to dust, mold, pets or tobacco smoke may get symptoms during winter even if they are fine during spring and fall, explains Podell, a clinical associate professor at Rutgers Medical School.

Since winter is also the peak season for infections, this makes it hard to tell a long-running cold from winter allergies. Infection is more likely if there is fever or if several people in the family become ill together, Podell says.

Allergy is more likely to be the cause if symptoms repeat every winter, if house cleaning makes symptoms worse, or if there is a family history of allergic nasal problems such as eczema or asthma. But one can have both allergies and recurring infections, since allergies themselves can increase the risk of infection, according to Podell.

A chronic cough can be an important symptom of allergy or infection, Podell says. In small children especially, cough plus breathlessness can mean asthma — even before typical wheezing is heard.

Podell warns those with nose, eye or lung symptoms that flare up this winter to check with their doctor. These symptoms could be allergies.

Get ready for summer now

Summer, in these deep-freeze days, may seem a long way off. But, in fact, there are only 124 days until the official arrival of the swimsuit season.

So what can one do to get ready? Diet Center has prepared some suggestions.

First, a Diet Center representative said, get out a picture of yourself from last summer. If you were thinner than your winter physique, perhaps you should next compare your image in the honest mirror. So now you know you need help or perhaps always have needed a little bit were afraid to ask.

What are your options?

Of course, you need to eat less and probably better food. Exercise can certainly help if you are safely able. Next, get out your swimsuit and put it on. How does it look? Be honest! Now commit yourself to losing weight. Don't worry how much, just commit to starting.

Here's what the Diet Center suggests:

1. Clean out all the "junk" foods from your pantry and refrigerator. Don't forget to include the ice cream in the back of the freezer.
2. Request that family members assist your efforts by labeling any "junk" items they insist on retaining with their name and placing these items in an "off limits" location.

3. Go grocery shopping. Buy fruits, vegetables for salad, and lean proteins such as breast of chicken and fish. Don't shop when you are hungry or you'll be tempted to include a few "junk" items in your shopping cart.

Those who could use some additional help — through private counseling and nutritional guidance — to lose 17 to 25 pounds in six weeks can find it at the Diet Center.

More information is available from the Diet Center at Clark 381-2238; Springfield, 376-2990; Union, 688-3438; or Westfield, 654-7820.

10,000,000 kids overweight

It is estimated that a staggering 10,000,000 American youngsters are overweight. If one parent is overweight, there is a 40 percent chance that the child will also weigh too much. The chances jump to 80 percent if both parents are overweight. If a child does not reduce excess weight during childhood, there is a great chance that the child will be obese throughout life.

For five years, there has been a program designed to assist parents and their youngsters in working together to reach their goal of helping the child to safely lose weight. The Thin Kids program provides a medically-approved and nutritionally sound method of weight loss for children 10 or more pounds overweight who are between 7 and 18 years old. Thin Kids consists of 10 weeks of family-oriented classes with discussions focusing on nutrition and behavior education, as well as physical fitness and exercise.
