Board acts on resource plant

By Philip Gimson

VOL: 56 NO. 36

Union County Board of Freeholders Chairman G. Richard Malgran said Friday that several steps must still take place before the county can act on an option nent to purchase 23 acres of land off Route 1 in Rahway targeted as the site for a $150 million resource recovery plant.

"First it will be necessary to, conduct an environmental impact study," Malgran stated. "Then we have to get our financing in order before we can even proceed with purchasing the property."
Under the five-year option agreement, with Dorbett Inc., the county will spend some $76,000 in the first year for the right to purchase the property, which is currently priced at $1.5 million, Malgran said. With each succeeding year that the county waits to act on the agreement, Malgran said that the option price would increase 7.6 percent. At the end of five years, if the county has still not purchased the property, the option rights would cost some $400,000, the chairman stated The agreement was reached of ficially May 30 when the board authorized the purchase of an option on the site, where the county plans to construct the $150 million waste treatment facility. Current projections would call for the plant to burn some 1,200 tons of county garbage daily, producing steam to generate electricity.

For the past year, the board has devoted extensive discussion to the idea of implementing a resource recovery plant under pressure from the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to develop a long-term solution to the county's garbage disposal crisis.

Since the court-ordered closure of the Industrial Land Reclaiming landfill in Edison April 1, the county has been trucking some of its waste to the Edgeboro Disposal Inc. landfill in East Brunswick under a controversial contingency plan developed by the DEP.

According to Ken Marsh, the head of the county's Environmental Planning Division, development of the resource recovery plant is not scheduled for completion until December 1989.

Marsh said that the county would have to select a "competitive bid" from among six separate proposals submitted by contractors for development of the plant. "Then from there, the design process would begin. March said, explaining that it would probably take about one year to develop the specifications for constructing the plant. While county officials said there is no way of knowing exactly when the county will act on the option to purchase the property in Rahway, Marsh said, "At least by signing this agreement, we tie up the site so that when it comes time to make the purchase we already have the option in hand."

The county's purchasing of rights to the property has the outspoken support of Rahway Mayor Daniel Martin, though some city residents have banded together in an organization called R.A.G.E., Rahway Against a Garbage Environment, to oppose development of the facility in their neighborhood.

Marsh and Malgran both stressedthat opposition from R.A.G.E. only represents a minority of Rahway's population. "There was a mail-out survey done by the Rahway mayor and the results came in overwhelmingly in favor of the plant,"

"I'm not aware of a great deal of opposition in the community," Malgran said. "Once the public realizes the benefits that would accrue by developing this plant, I think the majority would be in favor

Present plans call for class sizes at the Caldwell School to average 13 students for kindergarten, first and second grades, and 16 for third grade, with one fourth grade class of 24 students being supplemented by a resource center.

At the Sandmeier School, kindergarten classes will average 17 students; first grade, 17 students; second grade, 19 students, and fourth grade, 15 students.

In other busines, the board voted to ask its architect for a modification of plans for a storage facility to meet specifications outlined by the township Planning Board.

Original plans called for the facility to be stucco, but the Plan-ning Board requested it be made of brick. A compromise proposal suggested the side facing South Springfield Avenue be brick, the other side stucco.

A group of local rabbis have come to the defense of the state's enforcement food laws and the state's Division of Consumer Affairs in the wake of a New York rabbi's call for the investigation of a state food inspector.

The charges were made by Rabbi Harry Cohen, who says he super-vises "about 10" kosher food establishments in New Jersey, including members of the Kosher Butcher Association, a group of seven butchers in the Union-Essex

The issue was settled out of court with the state dropping charges in exchange for the butcher paying for the state's investigative fees.

Time for thanks

June is here and mixed with the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" at college and high school commencement exercises is that age-old refrain: "No more pencils, no more books, no more teachers' dirty looks.'

Graduation is a time of mixed feelings #congratulations, pride, love and perhaps sadness through the realization that an important part of one's life is over. Graduates receive the best wishes of their friends and family. Parents are justifiably proud of the accomplishments of their sons and daughters. Sometimes, however, those individuals who are an integral part of the whole process which leads to a high school or college diploma are forgotten — the teachers.

Most of us who have gone through school can look back on those years and remember at least one teacher for whom the "dirty looks" refrain really had no meaning. Such an individual made positive contributions to our development although we may not have realized it at the time whether it be the physical education instructor who constantly pushed for that extra lap around the gym, the English teacher who always encouraged stronger writing, or the math teacher who was willing to stay after school to help with that algebra problem that seemed unsolvable.

For those of us who graduated some time ago, because of the passage of time, it may be too late to show our appreciation through a phone call or letter. But it's not too late for members of the high school and college classes of 1985.

To those students, we suggest: think of that individual as you are walking down the aisle to receive your diploma. In the wake of the heady excitment of graduation, take time to pick up the phone or grab a pen and let that individual know that you appreciate all the help you received on the road to higher learning. A simple thank you is all that is needed to show that teacher that he or she really made a difference.

'Fire Department does not own toys' As a Springfield resident, taxpayer and a fire officer who was directly involved in the planning and specifications for the Fire Department's new aerial truck, I must take exception to the article written by Kenneth Schankler in the May 30th issue of the Springfield Leader.

The truck was referred to as a "new toy." I would like to make it clear to the township residents that the Fire Department does not own "toys." We are not engaged in "games." Our job is tough and dangerous and old equipment makes the job only tougher and more dangerous and, therefore, ess effective to our residents. The purchase of this modern sophisticated piece of equipment to replace the 27-year-old truck was long overdue In my opinion, using the word "toy" to describe this new piece of equipment was a poor choice of words by the reporter. The article keeps referring to the new equipment as an "engine." If the reporter took the time to investigate his assignment, it would have been explained to him that an engine is a piece of equipment that supplies water at various pressures to the fire scene and also will supply the new truck's

The last piece of firefighting equipment that was delivered to Springfield was a 1974 Hahn engine, not in 1958 as the article states,

I personally did not deliver the truck from Florida as the article states. I did travel to Florida twice. The first trip was a pre-planning meeting with company officials to set our specifications into working plans prior to assembly. The second trip was at near-completion of the vehicle to confirm construction of the vehicle as specified. This is normal procedure in the rchase of expensive fire equipm The diesel generator referred to does power high intensity lights as well as internally wired power reels and outlets to operate various other emergency electrical equipment. Also, smoke ejectors are not new to the fire service. Springfield has been equipped with two units for a number of years. This nev mit will allow us to carry one each on our first and second due engines and one on the new truck. The smoke ejector is used to draw hot gases and smoke from a burning structure; therefore, allowing entry by the fire fighters to affect rescue and suppression activities The rear steps on the article were not redesigned to keep firemen from "scraping their shins" as the article states. The reason was to allow safer access to the aerial ladder and turntable. The turntable is the nerve center and control area for the ladder and waterway nozzle operations.

As most anyone is aware, because of the dangerous situations firefighters encounter, we are required to wear protective gear when engaged in firefighting. Therefore, the chance of "scraped shins" is eliminated. As for the length of the ladder, it is 25 feet longer than our old truck incl engine) which is rated at 85 feet compared to the new 110 feet. When planning construction of a new ladder truck, reach — not height — is the primary automatic nozzle, not the waterway that the article mentioned. A three ning factor in length decision. We have buildings in town at this time kilowatt that would be difficult, if not impossible, to ladder properly. To clear up a vehicle's fuel tank, not run from the engine, as indicated, point, the telescoping waterway that will supply a nozzle with the capability. of 1,000 gallons per minute was terminated at the third secton of the ladder, or 87 feet maximum. The aerial ladder consists of four sections. The fourth section, or "tip," as it is referred to, was designed to be left clear to allow safer and more efficient rescue and ventilation operations As for the "drawbacks" as reported, referring to the 11-foot height, when this equipment was ordered, the Fire Department personnel involved with the purchase of the truck were under an impression left by the Townsin ittee that plans were being made to reconstruct or build an addition to the Fire Department to house this vehicle

Although I have touched on the surface of this new vehicle's abilities and operatons, I hope that the taxpayers of "our" town have a better un-

Building better bodies — their way T. J. Hewitt and Angela Clemons were selected Mr. and Ms. Union County

ROBERT GYURE

Saturday evening following a full day of pumping iron and flexing their muscles at the third annual Union County Body Building Championships at Soehl Middle School in Hewitt, of Staten Island, and Clemons, of Irvington, were chosen from a field of 37 challengers in three divisions after a day of activities sponsored by Iron Age Gym in Linden. The decisions were made after an afternoon session in which the contestants did mandatory poses to show off their muscle groups and an evening session in which the contestants did a oneand-a-half-minute posin routine set to music. Judges sanctioned by the National Physique Commission judged the competition and chose championships in all weight categories in the teen's, women's and men's divisions. Contestants, while not required to have won a championship, had to have knowledge of body building in order to be the competition. According to Mary

The evening program is the "fun part" Waseleski said, and shows the participant's coordination and basically, "the all-round picture" so the judges can make their decision. The number of contestants, as well as the number of spectators, has grown steadily during the past three years as the sport has really started to come into its own, Waseleski noted. "People who come to the

Books to read this summer

This column is devoted to books which are quite simply outstanding whether they are fiction or nonfiction. They're the top books to get your summer program of reading

Many years ago I met Shane Stevens and I sensed even then he was going to make some major contributions to modern literature.
His last novel, "By Reason of Insanity," anticipated all the news about serial killers by creating one that left you breathless as he left a trail of murder from coast to coast His newest book is "The Anvil Chorus" ($15.95, Delacorte Press). Set in Paris, it begins with the Nazi SS-style murder — by piano wire of a 56-year-old-German man, What looks like a standard suicide fascinating story in which a brilliantly crafted hero, a police inspector, follows clues that lead to a multi-billion dollar cashe of war spoils. literature, Peter Bedrick Books Inc. (125 E. 23rd St., New York 10010) has just published "The New Guide to Modern World Literature" (Special Introductory price $39.95, Dist. by Harper & Row) which is a rpiece. It is, without question the most comprehensive, scholarly century world literature. It is 1,419 pages and a superb reference book. Less profound, but endlessly funny is Ring Lardner Jr's "All for Love" ($13.95, Franklin Watts), just published last month. Lardner is the author of screenplays such as "M*novel, has created a very funny one life with him who invents a subfall in love with him. The one he ses is married to a Presiential-

A marvelous send-up of science can be found in "Science Made Stupid: How to Discomprehend the World Around Us" written and illustrated by Tom Weller ($6.95, Houghton Mifflin softcover).
