Welcome home

Last week's hijacking of the Achille Lauro by Palestinian terrorists was testament to Marshall McLuhan's observation that this world has become a 'global village.'

It is remarkable that the actions of individuals thousands of miles away can touch our community. Within 24 hours after first word came that the cruise ship had been hijacked...

The incident caused a whole range of emotions to come to the fore for friends and family of those on the ship - shock, fear, worry, anger and finally, relief. In one sense, the deplorable action by the terrorists brought our nation, and the community, together.

To the Hodeses, and the others from the township who booked passage on the Achille Lauro, we say welcome home. We are glad you have returned to Springfield safe and sound.

The next step

The safe return of the victims of the hijacking of the Achille Lauro should be praised by all Americans. Worthy of even more praise — and pride — is the decisive action taken by the United States to bring the hijackers to justice.

Terrorism has caused years of frustration — the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, the bombing of the Marine headquarters in Beirut, the hijacking of a TWA jet this summer and the kidnapping of seven Americans in Lebanon.

If only the same determination and decisiveness could be used to deal with the root cause of much of this terrorism — a just and permanent solution to the crisis in the Middle East could be the result.

When President Carter mediated the Camp David agreement between Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, there was hope for peace in the Middle East. In the interim, these hopes have all but faded.

Over the short term, the United States will have its hands full in trying to restore its close relationship with Egypt — one of this country's strongest allies in the region.

The next challenging step is clear. This latest act of terrorism has dramatically shown the need for all nations to focus their energies on combating terrorism — the lives of innocent civilians are at stake.

County manager denied due process

By BRIAN W. FAHEY Member, Board of Freeholders Of New Jersey 21 county governments, Union County is the only one which operates under the County Manager form of the Optional County Charter Law...

I am one of the nine elected members of the Union County Board of Freeholders. I am a Democrat. The board is politically controlled by a Republican majority. Several actions have recently been taken by a seven-member majority of this board, including one which the New Jersey courts have recently declared to be an invalid and illegal use of power...

provided to the county manager since he was the chief executive of the county. In fact, the state Legislature also made it illegal for a freeholder to attempt to influence the county manager in his firing, promotion and suspension of the county's 2,500 employees. This separation of powers is why the New Jersey courts recently declared this system...

October is National Family Sexually Education Month (NFSEM). This is a time set aside each year to convey an important message: Parents are the primary sexuality educators of their children.

Preparing youth for tomorrow's responsibility

NFSEM supports the principle that knowledge leads to responsible behavior. Ignorance about sexuality, as in all things, can be dangerous. Guilt, fear or anxiety about sexuality can lead to immature and unhealthy sexual behavior, unwanted pregnancy and too early parenthood.

Providing children sexuality education is an important responsibility of parents. Given the special nature of the parent-child relationship, most parents would prefer learning about sexuality from their parents.

Providing children sexuality education is an important responsibility of parents. Given the special nature of the parent-child relationship, most parents would prefer learning about sexuality from their parents.

Under our selected union, the executive and manager are one person who must be appointed to serve for an indefinite term, not as the pleasure of the freeholder board as some have incorrectly stated.

Farming the cheap way is dangerous practice

By DAVID F. MOORE Synergy is a word which rolls out neatly compared with a cumbersome word like, say, tuberculosis. Synergy can be a neat thing, too, since it describes what happens when two things work together cooperatively, like bacon and eggs or hot dogs and mustard.

though we've banned some dangerous chemicals from further United States applications as pesticides, business as usual keeps the stuff going to the so-called third world countries. It goes back to us in our food products which originate in those places, and in rain and dust.

But synergy isn't always so neat. It also applies to things like pesticide combinations which can be deadly one at a time, but together emit a deadly gas. Again, the combination is more effective than the parts. Or when two chemicals, the benign, rather than that from the parts, separately.

One way to avoid the latter problem is to plant things that come up every year by themselves, such as sorghum. This would be a sort of a natural, no-fertilizer, no-irrigation without the need of a lot of chemical weed-killers.

Lots of the nasty stuff which comes with our air, heating great distances across the country, originates on foreign soil. Even our soil is supposed to be restorable from wind and water by sparing the farmer the time and expense of plowing and tilling, since weed-killers are sprayed before seeds are planted, and the seeds germinate just after the herbicides have done their duty and lost their punch.

Despite the continuing misuse of chemicals in the third world, the planet is still going in population. So we, as a working population, need to take an intelligent look at synergy in terms of providing good soil, water and energy-efficient crop.

Democrats vow to save town money

Mickey Herzlinger and Pat Murphy, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee said, "We will save Springfield money the old-fashioned way. We will work at it. We are used to hard work. We have worked long hours all our lives, Pat as a nurse and Mickey as an accountant. We have continued our education throughout our lives to remain abreast of our professions. We don't quit."

much, is that what Springfield needs. They suggest that buying a new telephone switchboard will save Springfield money. That too is wrong. We will still need an operator to answer inquiries. But the monthly charges on the direct dialing system they propose would be much higher than the current charges.

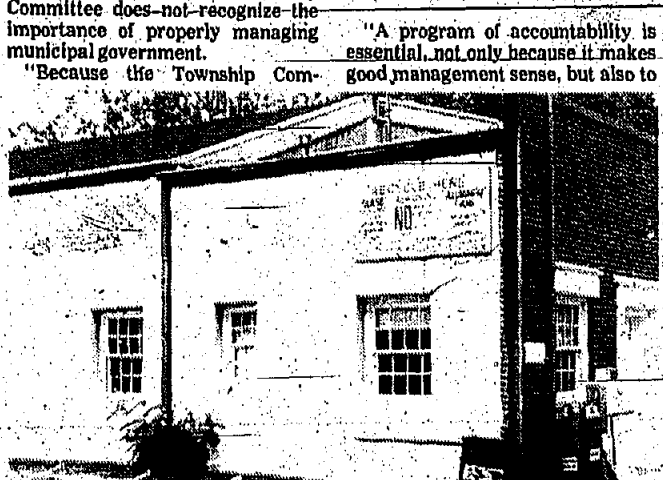

ON THE TRAIL—Pat Murphy, left, and Mickey Herzlinger, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee, listen to some residents' concerns as they campaign throughout town for next month's election.

Katz, Pieper charge that town 'essentially unmanaged'

"Springfield is essentially unmanaged," said Jeff Katz and Jo-An Pieper, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee, in a statement released this week.

appropriate action can be initiated," the candidates said. "In addition, municipal departments will not know what is expected of them. For example, we heard numerous complaints about the new concrete apron at the municipal pool. During construction, while the pool was empty and the stainless steel ladders were in place, cement was brushed onto the pool bottom and lockers. The cement hardened into rough and sharp edges and persons suffered cuts on hands and feet. The voters asked how the apron project could have been approved in such a haphazard manner. The answer is simple: no one person, or department, was accountable and responsible for that project."

UNATTENDED CENTER—The Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee, Jeff Katz and Jo-An Pieper, charge that the newly opened Recycling Center is left largely unattended with no one to offer guidance when residents come to drop off their material.

"Because the Township Committee fails to apply sound management principles to the operation of government, confusion, fingerpointing, and uncontrolled costs are the rule rather than the exception. Furthermore, there is no accountability or responsibility program to ensure that functions are carried out properly."

"A program of accountability is essential, and, because it makes good management sense, but also to provide an adequate remedy for dissatisfied voters. The voters have no political remedy against the township board. The voters are heads are appointed and cannot be voted out of office. However, the members of the Township Committee are elected and, if agreed upon goals and service levels are not met, the voters can express their dissatisfaction through the ballot."

specific number of leaf pickups was never set as a performance goal," the Republicans said. "The Township Committee and our Democrat opponents are proud of their Recycling Center. One of our opponents in a news article several weeks ago said, 'We used the Town Garage and a town truck. Simple, but effective.' Wrong! Simple, nonexistent is more like it. To put a sign on the town garage is one thing; to plan, implement and manage a recycling center is another."

"We welcome the opportunity to work with municipal department heads in implementing the sound management guidelines outlined within our platform. That effort cannot and should not be delayed," Katz and Pieper concluded.

Conference focuses on peace, justice

"Peace and Justice: What's the Connection?" is the theme of the 1985 Teaching Conference planned by the Plainfield Area Peace Committee and Interfaith Coalition. To be held Oct. 27 at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, it is scheduled to run from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Advance registration forms are being distributed to some 40 area religious organizations. They are also available in quantity to other groups by calling the offices of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The conference will feature three major speakers. Sharing their expertise and their commitment to the cause of peace and justice will be:

—Rear Admiral Gene R. LaRoque, USN (Ret.), who now heads the Center for Defense Information in Washington, D.C.

—Mary Dent Crisp, former co-chairwoman of the Republican National Committee and now a senior advisor to Business Executives for National Security.

—Tom Skinner, a New York City minister/advisor dedicated to training a new generation of leaders among the poor.

Each speaker will respond to written questions from the audience, and questions will also form the basis of a closing panel discussion among all three speakers.

The annual peace event sponsored by the Interfaith Coalition of 17 area religious organizations is planned to follow Peace With Justice Week, Oct. 19 to 25, which will be marked by hundreds of similar grassroots activities across the nation.

"The conference is designed to help area residents understand the issues of justice, human dignity and survival," said the Rev. Edward Schneider, pastor of the United Church of Christ Congregational, coordinator of the Plainfield Area Peace Committee and conference moderator.

"Many of us in the Plainfield area religious community have become increasingly concerned about the ways in which our nation's rising military budget diminishes the quality of life for our people, and promises to defend us against destruction and death," Schneider said.

Rear Adm. LaRoque has long stressed, "Think what could be done if our resources were turned away from militarism toward economic conversion, civilian technology and human development. We must take the profit motive out of preparing for war."

A veteran of 32 years active-duty with the Navy, LaRoque served seven years as a Pentagon strategic planner and was awarded the Legion of Merit. As director of the Center for Defense Information, he supervises an organization of retired military officers dedicated to monitoring military spending, weapon systems and government policies. In this capacity, the admiral has traveled to 65 countries, including the Soviet Union.

Mary Dent Crisp, whose 20 years of service to her political party were capped by her election as co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, walked away from that post in 1980 because, she said, "The party reneged on a 40-year commitment to the Equal Rights Amendment."

As a senior advisor to Business Executives for National Security Inc., she writes and lectures widely on behalf of the non-partisan trade association of business professionals concerned about the threat of a nuclear war.

Tom Skinner, born and raised in Harlem, has dedicated his life to giving poor people the skills and understanding they need to be self-determining. A graduate of Manhattan Theological Seminary, he founded Tom Skinner Associates and services on the board of Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Non-Violent Social Change.

Widely sought as an advisor to Fortune 500 companies, major league athletic teams and entertainers, he is listed in "Who's Who in Black America."

Admission to the teaching conference is $3 per person or $5 per family. Students and senior citizens will be admitted for $1. Pre-registration is appreciated, but registration will also be handled at the door. Information packets will be distributed at that time, and refreshments will be served during intermission.

Women plan strategy for summit

A women's group, calling for a meaningful dialogue to take place at next month's summit meeting between President Reagan and Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the Soviet leader, is urging its supporters to wear a yellow ribbon as a symbol that everyone "is a hostage to the arms race."

The group, "Women for a Meaningful Summit," met this month at the Unitarian Church in Summit, to plan actions it could take to urge the leaders of the superpowers to end the arms race.

"The pressure of women achieved the Limited Test Ban in 1968," said Sylvia Zisman of Springfield. "Women working together could complete the job. A comprehensive test ban would forbid the testing of nuclear weapons above and below ground, and especially weapons in outer space. If new weapons cannot be tested, the arms race can't accelerate."

The Women for a Meaningful Summit in New Jersey are initiating a petition campaign to support a delegation of women to go to Geneva — the site of next month's summit — "to challenge the Reagan administration to make an about-face and to negotiate in good faith with the Russians," Zisman said.

The group is also urging its supporters to "wear a yellow ribbon in your lapel as a symbol of the comprehensive test ban and that we are hostage to the arms race," she said.

"Women can and should demonstrate leadership in affecting swift and true restriction on nuclear armaments," Zisman said.

Further information, including copies of the petition, is available by writing to P.O. Box 394, Springfield 07881.

KEAN ☆ HARDWICK ☆ GENOVA

BUILDING PRIDE IN OUR ENVIRONMENT

1985 has been called the "Year of the Environment," and your Assemblymen, Chuck Hardwick and Peter Genova, have led the effort to make New Jersey the cleanest and safest state in the nation.

Working closely with Governor Tom Kean, Hardwick and Genova have pushed to clean up hazardous Toxic Waste sites. And they have worked to ensure a safe method for the disposal of solid waste materials.

Just last month, Governor Kean signed a new law establishing an Environment Trust Fund. This important initiative will be a major part of our plans to make New Jersey's environment a safe place for you, your family and your neighbors. Hardwick was the sponsor of this proposal.

Governor Kean, Assemblyman Hardwick and Assemblyman Genova have been effective supporters of a clean and healthy Environment. The record shows that they get results. Let's keep Kean, Hardwick and Genova working for you in Trenton.

Vike's face big test against Vailsburg

With three straight wins, the Vailsburg High School football team looks to go 4-0 Saturday afternoon in its biggest test of the year against 2-1 Hillside, a last-second victor over Jonathan Dayton last week.

Staray Lemay's 44-yard touchdown and two-point conversion run on the Viking's first possession of the game gave Vailsburg the lead. The play capped a 76-yard drive in 14 plays after Barringer drove to the Vailsburg 25 but was stopped on fourth down. The Vikings went on to a 21-7 victory.

Once again, coming up with the big play in a dramatic situation became part of Vailsburg's attack. In the Viking's opening game against West Side, Lemay and Edward Harris combined for a touchdown on a halfback option pass in the fourth quarter and the Vikings went on to win, 21-13. Coach Jesse Jones went to the play again last week.

Vailsburg took over on its 45 with just 20 seconds to go in the half and Lemay, a double-threat with his passing ability, threw to Anthony Andrews for 35 yards down to the Barringer 20-yard line. On the next play, quarterback Marcus Pryor went over the top to Harris for a 20-yard touchdown TD with just three seconds left in the half. Pryor tried to hit Ron Johnson with a two-point conversion, but the pass fell incomplete.

Barringer came back to cut the margin to 14-7 in the third quarter. Pryor threw an interception which was returned to the six-yard line. Two plays later, they went in for the touchdown.

But that was as close as they would get as Derrick Mitchell intercepted a pass in the fourth quarter and returned it 23 yards to the Barringer 12. Lemay capped his biggest offensive game this year with a six-yard touchdown scamper. Lemay finished with 181 yards on 21 carries and two touchdowns while Harris scored his fifth touchdown of the year.

The Vikings will be bolstered by the return of sophomore Scott Murray to the offensive backfield. Murray was injured and played last week solely on defense. Jones knows the strengths of the Hillside club, calling them "a step slower, but a little bit bigger than Barringer."

The Vikings will have to be on guard for the Comets passing-running attack of quarterback Tom Tucker and his brother Tony. Hillside defeated the previously unbeaten Bulldogs 8-7 as the pair hooked up on a 20-yard touchdown pass with just 30 seconds left in the game and Norman Ford added a two-point conversion.

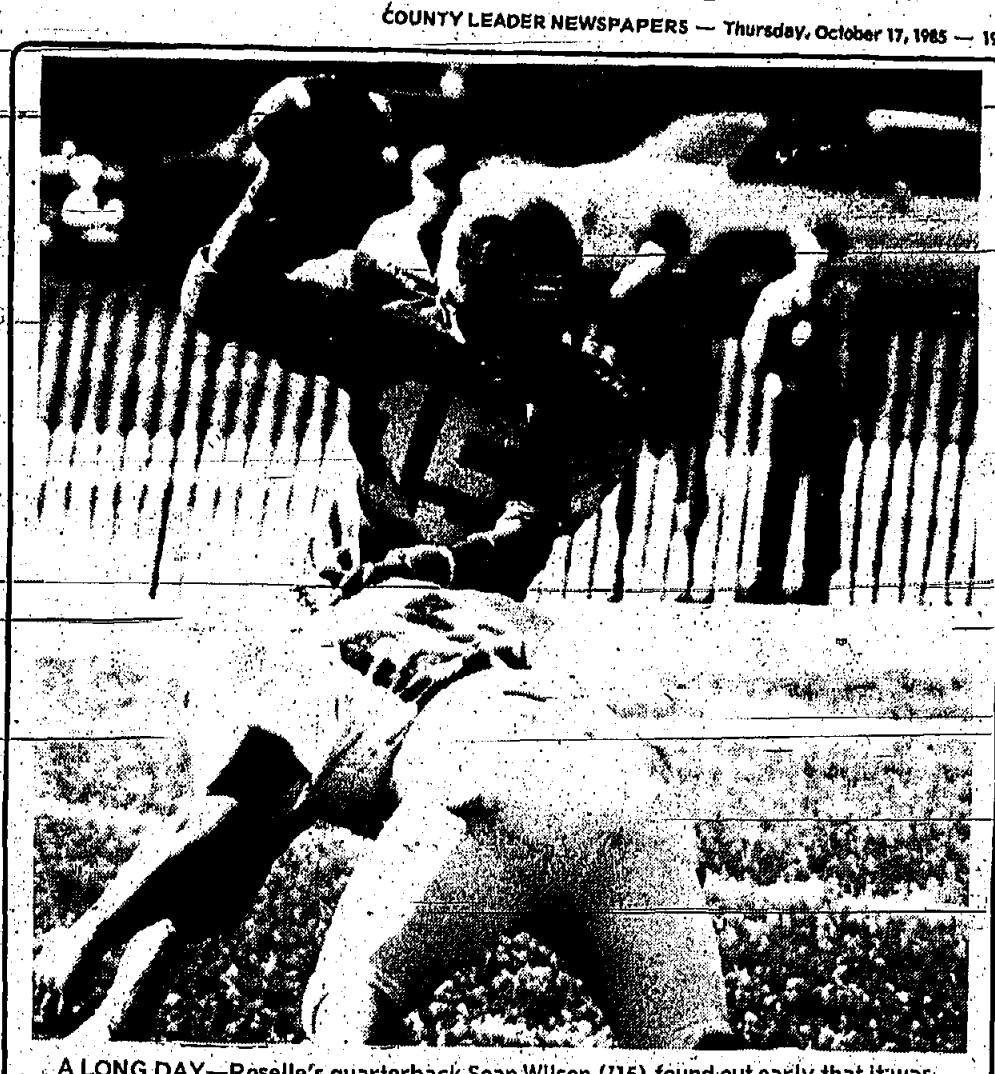

Giants triumph over Steelers

The Giants downed the Steelers 27-12 last Friday in the suburban Twin County Football League.

Quarterback Ralph Forte led the Giants' attack with a 29-yard completion to Lamont Wilson. Wilson scored three TDs. Jamill Greaves also had a touchdown. Leading the way defensively for the Giants was Matt Cavanaugh with four sacks, while Anthony D'Alesio, Mike Tufa, Ben Williams and Anthony Conde provided support.

Kean women aim for improvement

The Kean College women's tennis team ended the first half of its season with a 1-4 record.

The Cougar's one-win came against conference opponent Ramapo by a solid 8-1 score.

But Kean's veteran coach, Cant Pantano said, he is looking for the Cougars to make an improvement during the remainder of the season.

Clowning around is a serious business

By ELIZABETH SEP
Bill Nemecek recently found out that clowning around is a serious business. The Union resident — an aspiring female impersonator — took part in Clownfest '85 — the 2nd annual Garden State Clown Convention in Asbury Park. The convention, held in conjunction with Asbury Park's 4th annual Festival of Clowns, was held in Convention Hall during the last weekend in September.

Dressed with a rainbow and hearts theme, the rookie clown said that it did not take him long to realize how serious the jokers take their profession.

"You can't mock clowning — but they can mock you. I learned so much about what a clown isn't," he said.

Nemecek said that when he put together his look, he was not aware there were different categories of clowns.

"I was a white-faced clown to them," he said, although admitting not a perfect one. "My ears and neck weren't white," he said.

"White-faced" clowns have no skin exposed, and look as though their whole body is white, Nemecek explained.

"Auguste" clowns have exaggerated features, mixing flesh and white colors while "character" clowns dress as career people — such as keystone cops, nurses or firemen. He said all categories were represented at the convention.

Although there are different types of clowns, they are all "sexless," he pointed out. "A clown is a clown. A girl can be a cop and I can be a girl. I can be anybody I want," he said.

Nemecek said he spoke to many of the 75

clowns that appeared at the convention introducing himself as "Billie the Clown."

"I've been a clown all my life. But this was the first time with a costume," he said.

He was one of three clowns at the convention who were female impersonators. He said many of the clowns were women.

Highlights of the weekend included a clown parade, a one-ring clown show, and a clown make-up and costume contest, events that drew contestants from all over the country as far as Canada and Puerto Rico. Members of the public were allowed in as spectators for all events.

"I really enjoyed the kids coming up to me. They want to kiss and hug you, and get their picture taken with you. I loved it," he said.

Nemecek described the convention as "a time to be something you're not," and extended this philosophy into his explanation of why he has hopes of becoming a successful female impersonator.

In fact, being something he's not led to a series of contacts with comedian Joan Rivers. Nemecek boarded a bus to Atlantic City last spring dressed as the famous entertainer — in a slinky red dress and a blonde wig. During her performance, Rivers spotted Nemecek in the audience and brought him on stage. Since then she has sent him a birthday card and several letters.

Nemecek said that his interest in becoming an entertainer began two years ago when he started entering "sexy legs" contests and then talent shows as "Marilyn Madison," a Marilyn Monroe type of woman.

He admitted that dressing as a woman

"I really enjoyed the kids coming up to me. They want to kiss and hug you, and get their picture taken with you. I loved it."

"I think we're all a little bit show off, entertainer, comedian. I have fun."

takes a lot of practice — especially applying make-up.

"It's been by trial and error. I'm talented and creative in that respect. I want to get it down to an art," he said.

The entertainer is now working on a Polly Bergen routine and plans to compliment his dancing lessons with singing lessons.

Mastering the courage to dress as a woman was not very difficult for Nemecek. "I've always been a show-off," he said.

"I have a good time with impersonating. There are people who are offended by it. They don't understand it. They haven't been exposed to life so to speak," he said.

"Marilyn is the show-off part of me. I don't think I can be any more outgoing. When you put a costume on, you can be anyone, and a lot nuttier," Nemecek added.

He added, "I think we're all a little bit show off, entertainer, comedian. I have fun."

"You can't mock clowning — but they can mock you."

"I've been a clown all my life. But this was the first time with a costume."

Craft show Sunday

The public can meet five Union County craftsmen and view their works at a reception at 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the Trailside Nature and Science Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountaintide.

The exhibit, which continues now through Oct. 31, features the work of Alicia Binson of Clark, macramé; Sam Blood of Plainfield, housecraft; Nancy Boney of Fairwood, soft sculpture; Ellen Hess of Cranford, woven goods and quilting; and Barbara Melino of Cranford, hand-built and thrown white ware.

Governor Thomas H. Kean has proclaimed October 1985 as "All Join Hands: A Celebration of Crafts in New Jersey" month. Mums brighten up fall days

by JAMES NICHADOWICZ
The vegetables and fruits of summer have been harvested. The recent chilly nights remind us that the beauty of spring and summer will soon give way to the darkness of fall and winter. Before getting out the leaf rakes and snow shovels, why not create a second spring in your garden with chrysanthemums.

Mums come to us from Japan. Since their introduction, they have been bred into many different colors and forms. These beauties are perennial in nature and flower in response to the shortened day light of late summer and fall.

Growing chrysanthemums can be done in two ways. Cuttings can be started in the spring or mature plants can be purchased now. Most gardeners are short on space and opt to buy. Purchased plants should be full of blossoms but have few opened flowers to insure 3 to 4 weeks of flowering. For a prolonged display, buy varieties that flower at different times.

If you plan to overwinter the plants, remove them from their pots after purchase and locate them in a sunny well drained area. Place them in the ground 1-2 feet apart.

Garden spots

be removed in early spring. With mums around, there is no reason for not having two springs a year.

Further information is available by calling the Union County Cooperative Extension Service, 300 North Avenue, East Westfield, telephone 233-9366.

'Princess' sought

The search is on for a woman between the ages of 18 and 21 to reign as princess at the 20th anniversary of the New Jersey Flower & Garden Show.

The 1986 show is scheduled to run from March 1 through March 9 at the Morristown National Guard Armory.

To be eligible, a young woman must work or have previously worked in the horticulture industry. Entrants must send their name, address, telephone number, background information and two black and white photographs, one head shot and one full figure shot, to Fran Mead, 50 Hilltop Road, Basking Ridge, 07920. All entries must be received by Oct. 18.

"Free eye-screening for senior citizens can detect evidence of eye disease which should have follow-up treatment. I hope you'll take advantage of this opportunity."

John Norris, MD, FACS
Northern New Jersey Eye Institute

Senior citizens over 65 years of age are eligible for a free eye health screening examination at the Northern New Jersey Eye Institute, 71 Second Street, South Orange, on October 18 from 1 to 4 p.m. No appointments are necessary.

Dr. John Norris, one of the Institute's ophthalmologists, explains that the Institute is performing this public service to help senior citizens detect evidence of any eye disease — or any systemic disease reflected in the eyes — which should have treatment or follow-up by a licensed physician. He stresses that the screening is not a substitute for regular eye examination by an ophthalmologist, but is a convenient chance to discover previously undetected conditions.

The free screening will include vision testing, glaucoma testing and examination of the eye for signs of glaucoma, cataracts, aging problems, dryness or tearing. Refractions for eye glasses and contact lens fittings are not included.

The Northern New Jersey Eye Institute is a comprehensive ophthalmology center dedicated to thorough, effective care for disorders of the eye. Call 763-2203 for further information about the free eye screening or the many other Institute eye care services.

Warrior LP mixture of musical talents

By MILT HAMMER
Pick Of The LPs, "Fighting For The Earth," by Warrior (MCA/Virgin Records).
Something special happened on a Los Angeles rock radio station in 1985.

Disc 'n Data

A riveting hard rock anthem called "Fighting For The Earth" leaped off a demo tape by the Los Angeles heavy rock band, Warrior, and, in defiance of a notoriously light playlist, into that station's regular airplay rotation. You've got to be good to crack a nut this tough and, with the release of the group's debut MCA/Virgin album, "Fighting For The Earth," the rest of the world is about to find out just how good Warrior is.

Warrior (Parramore McCarty, vocals; Joe Floyd and Tommy Asakawa, guitars; Bruce Turgon, bass, and Jimmy Volpe on drums) is a band of immense and varied musical talents. On "Fighting For The Earth" (produced by Warrior and Dug Rider) Floyd's multi-textured guitar playing on the title track is indicative of Warrior's deft mixture of roaring heavy rock and subtle instrumental changes. Lyrically, the group proves that heavy rock rarely, a band whose songs relate positive and meaningful messages. In "Only The Strong Survive," McCarty sings "Shed your fears. Take control. Life could be ever lasting paradise. We must be strong. We must unite."

Floyd explains, "We feel hard rock is a very powerful medium and that we shouldn't waste its potential to inspire people. We're a hybrid type of metal rock band with a sense of responsibility for the music we make." Asakawa concurs, "We like to have fun, and our music reflects that—we feel—we owe people more than just songs about partying all the time. We like to give people something to think about as well."
