FAMILY AFFAIR—Richard Neifeld, and his mother, Bella, have just received advance degrees in their respective fields, physics and nutrition, from Rutgers University.

Mom, son receive degrees

By MARK YABLONSKY
 Mother-son relationships can often be associated with storybooks, rides to school, trips to the movies, and other things that are related to growing up. Generally speaking, it was usually customary for a mother to help her son along with education.

But things change. They already have, in fact, for Springfield's Bella Neifeld and her son, Richard, who, despite being a generation apart, have just obtained advanced degrees simultaneously in their respective fields of human nutrition and physics—and from the same school as well.

Mrs. Neifeld, a Cayuga Court resident since 1960, is part of a new trend that has seen more and more older people return to school for the education they feel has been missing from their lives. Richard, meanwhile, is someone who has been in school almost as long as he's been alive. But both have paid the price that endless studying can bring, and both feel they are better people for it.

"A lot of people become interested in a lot of things, but very few people are willing to pursue it," said Bella Neifeld, who now has master of science degree in human nutrition, and presently works as a therapeutic dietitian for the Hospitality Care Center in North Newark. "I really did and I'm glad. You must have the knowledge, but you have to have the endurance to pursue the knowledge. I lost a lot of my social contacts because I had to devote a lot of my time to studying."

"We're happy we finished," said Richard Neifeld, who culminated 10 years of higher learning with a Ph.D. in physics and who is preparing to move to Washington, D.C., in August for his new job with Harry Diamond Laboratories, a governmental lab that does physics research. "The last two years were very demanding for both of us."

To be sure, it has been a lot longer than that. After graduating from high school in 1960 from a small town in upstate New York, Mrs. Neifeld spent a year at Syracuse University before transferring to Rutgers University in Newark for two more. But after having been married in 1961, she decided to leave school at the start of her senior year of 1963-64 in order to raise a family, thereby never finishing what would have been an economics degree. 26 years later, however, after both of her sons had grown, she decided it was time for something new, which for her, was the field of nutrition. Years of reading books on the subject had implanted the desire to promote good health for her family.

"I decided I wanted to learn more than I could find from the layman-type books on the market," explained the senior Neifeld. "I didn't know if it was fact or fiction and I wanted to learn it on my own."

She did. After getting top grades in three courses at St. Elizabeth College in Convent Station in the fall of 1980, the mother of two transferred to Montclair State College and earned a bachelor of science degree in food and nutrition less than three years later. As is the case with many transferees who tackle another major, however, Mrs. Neifeld was only allowed to retain a certain amount of credits from her earlier college days.

Then it was immediately on to Rutgers, where being the recipient of the prestigious L'Hommedieu Graduate Scholarship—an award in which just one or two students qualify for each semester—helped her to gain the necessary 30 credits for her coveted master's degree. In the fall, Bella Neifeld will begin her own nutritional counseling practice in her own home.

Although the principals of good nutrition apply to everyone, she says, each person is different and that is why her practice will be on an "individual basis."

"People shouldn't really have to worry about their weight," Neifeld explained. "It's a question of lifestyle—developing good eating patterns, getting the right amount of physical activity, and not worrying about the occasional ice cream sundae or piece of chocolate cake."

"Some people have a much more active metabolism than other people," she continued. "It's very, very individualistic. When you see a heavy person, that person doesn't necessarily eat a whole lot of food. There are many, many more factors involved than just calorie intake."

There are also many factors involved in studying physics, and Richard Neifeld has confronted each one successfully. After graduating from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in 1976, he left the University of Rochester with a bachelor of arts degree in mathematics and a concurrent bachelor of science degree in physics in 1980. The cum laude recipient had spent time in his undergraduate years doing laboratory work searching for "gravity waves," which, as Neifeld explained, are the basic, albeit unseen, particles that create gravitational attraction. The science involves everyone. The problem is that few people seem to know about it.

"Physics applies to everything from a wrist watch to the lights in your ceiling," said the junior Neifeld, who will turn 28 Saturday. "You don't see immediate results as a physicist. It's a slow increment of knowledge and technology year after year that changes and advances society, such as the development of better, stronger, more versatile materials. Things like integrated circuits and better computers."

Rutgers thought enough of Neifeld to offer him a University Scholarship in the fall of 1980. After two years in basic coursework, he has spent the last four years predominantly in research and some teaching as well. So, with Ph.D. in hand, Neifeld, as a post-doctoral fellow, is continuing post-doctoral research at Rutgers until it is time to move south to the nation's capital.

"It's a great thrill to see them graduate together," said Martin J. Neifeld, whose older son, Gary, recently completed a residency in emergency medicine at the University of Chicago, and who will now join the Poughkeepsie, N.Y.-based Emergency Treatment Associates July 1. "Being a serious student is a full-time job. Maybe I should say it's a job-and-a-half."

So now that it is all over, is there any advice the Neifelds can offer to someone contemplating a return to school?

"Be sure you know what you plan to do before you back," cautioned Richard.

"You must be very motivated and have an intense interest in your subject matter or you won't have enough staying power to finish," added his mother. "It's just too demanding."

School post abolished

District counselor replaces vice principal

By MARK YABLONSKY

Continuing where it had left off from one week before, the Springfield Board of Education gave unanimous final approval to new School Superintendent Gary Friedland's proposal of a new district-wide coordinator and counselor Monday.

Enactment of the proposal now will eliminate the vice principal's position at the Florence M. Gaudineer School, and will see the districtwide counselor take its place. The new counselor, explained Friedland earlier, will be in charge of "linking support services to the three schools and coordination with agencies of the town, county and state." The new position will also devote a "major responsibility" to several areas, including the implementation of a "preventative drug education program."

The new districtwide education coordinator, meanwhile, will be primarily responsible for the synchronization of the district's instructional program, as well as assisting the three principals and teaching staff members with supervision and improving instruction, respectively.

The costs for the new positions are not expected to surpass current expenses, since the new coordinator's position has already been budgeted for and the district counselor will essentially be replacing the Gaudineer vice principal's post, one board member explained.

In other business, the board gave approval on first reading to a new child abuse policy that, in effect, follows state guidelines already mandated to the Division of Youth and Family Services.

Decided upon by the board in an 8-0 margin, with one abstention, was a policy that will "require school personnel to immediately report suspicions of child abuse directly to DYFS and to the parents where appropriate." Current state law already requires immediate notification to DYFS when abuse is suspected.

The inclusion of parental notification, however, drew some disagreement from audience members who contended that an abusive parent would have time to intimidate a child before an interview with a DYFS official could take place. After some discussion, Patrice Hunter of Tower Drive suggested that the policy mandate notifying parents, except when parental involvement is "already suspected," a proposal that drew the praise of Board Attorney Yale Greenspoon.

"What I don't like is the standard of 'where appropriate' is so subjective that it could lead to trouble," said the attorney, who indicated that Hunter's suggestion could be enacted in place of the current stipulation. "What she has done is to delineate the specific exceptions and that's a very lawyer-like thing to say. I think her suggestion is excellent."

Final passage must come with the second reading, but should Hunter's suggestion be inserted instead, that would signify the initial reading all over again, Greenspoon said.

The board also accepted the resignation of Gaudineer Principal Helene Kosloski unanimously. Two board officials denied that Kosloski had been forced to step down, a rumor that has, as one person put it, "been floating around."

Advertisements for the post and the two new positions are expected to be put out soon.

Sports equipment bids OK'd

By MARK YABLONSKY

Bids comprising a total of $219,283.52 for athletic equipment going to all four regional high schools in 1986-87 were approved unanimously by the Union County Regional Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday.

After receiving the bids by the June 4 deadline, the board gave the awards to seven companies, "based on their low responsible bids." More than half of the amount was awarded to the Masco Sports Company in a total of $140,142.43, while the next highest offer of $68,817.21 was awarded to Champion Products Inc. The Sports Palace filed a bid of $128.38, the lowest figure approved by the board.

The board also approved a motion allowing two foreign exchange students to take part in graduation commencement exercises Monday night along with their 12th-grade classmates. The students, Richard Nessel of Norway and Teemu Nymannder of Finland, had spent the 1985-86 school year at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, and had, according to board member Joseph R. Vaughn, made a "big hit" with their classmates.

"They're very outstanding kids and they've been very active this year at G.L. in student activities," said Vaughn, who introduced the motion. "They've really been a big hit with their classmates."

Until now, no board policy for foreign exchange students has been in effect, but the Policy Committee is expected to decide on one after taking up the matter shortly.

"I think you have to realize there are a number of students who don't get to graduation," said School Superintendent Dr. Donald Merachnik. "But our board feels that exchange students from a foreign country are different."

Nessel and Nymannder are both 12th graders, but will have to complete two more years of school in their countries before graduating, Merachnik added. Both will receive recognition for their year spent in the district.

Merachnik was one of 11 superintendents invited to take part in a recent special meeting to examine proposals to increase New Jersey's high school graduation requirements. The meeting was held at the state School Boards Association's Trenton offices.

"Nearly unanimous" were the superintendents in deciding against increasing the number of high school mandated courses for graduation, although the group reportedly had "no problem" with state Education

Commissioner Dr. Saul Cooperman's proposal to increase the amount of required credits from 82 to 110.

The Union County Regional District, however, already has 120 credits required for graduation, explained Merachnik.

Also opposed "totally and strongly" was a plan that would permit the complete state take-over of any district deemed to have "failed." The controversial plan would allow the state to eliminate any troubled district's administration, including the board of education and the superintendent of schools.

"The group felt that if districts are failing in their responsibilities, the state should work with the leaders of the community's schools toward long-term improvements and give them the full authority to make necessary changes," said New Jersey School Board Association Executive Director Octavius T. Reid Jr. "They doubted that an outside state monitor would solve long-range problems."

THE WORLD OVER—James Caldwell School students Josh Diamant and Laura Schachman of Springfield take part in representing nations throughout the world in a recent show held by Angela Larceri's second-grade class. Diamant and Schachman represented Scotland and Ireland, respectively.

In last week's Springfield Leader, an article regarding a ceremony for a heroic township fireman appeared mistakenly because of a computer error. Roots of Constitution traced

Dr. Donald R. Raichle of Springfield, a professor of history at Kean College of New Jersey, Union, and chronicler of the institution's past, is writing a book on what historians have said about the Constitution.

Raichle, author of "From A Normal Beginning: The Origins of Kean College," said his new book will be "The Image of the Constitution."

Raichle said the book is based on his original doctoral dissertation which dealt with the way the Constitution was understood until 1888. The book covers the same time frame but includes an examination of additional research on the era over the last 90 years.

"We are looking at the Constitution differently than 90 years ago. There is a movement to a kind of Whig Idea. The Whig theory held that the American Revolution was fought on principle and I think there has been a tendency in the last generation to move to the Whig theory not only for the American Revolution, but also for the American Constitution," Raichle said.

Raichle has been teaching history at Kean College since 1961 except for two years spent as assistant to the chancellor of higher education. He said, "I had testified on the law under Gov. Richard J. Hughes on dividing public schools from higher education. I think on the basis of that

by JOEL I. RACHMIEL, ATTORNEY AT LAW
Former Asst. Union County Prosecutor (1973-1979)

A State statute hold a DOG OWNER absolutely liable for injuries to an individual bitten by his pet, whether or not the animal has attacked anyone in the past. An appellate court has now held that a commercial establishment may be liable for injuries sustained by a shopper bitten by a fellow customer's dog tied up outside the business premises if the store owner is aware of the potentially hazardous situation and fails to take reasonable steps to protect his visitors from the harm a dog is capable of inflicting. The court noted that "dogs may be man's best friend," but they can also become a stranger's nightmare.

Housing obligation TV topic

Arthur Kondrup, chairman of the N.J. Council on Affordable Housing, will discuss suburban communities' obligation to provide low and moderate income housing on "N.J. and You" with Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, Sunday and June 29 at 5 p.m., on Suburban Cablevision Channel 3.

Kondrup also addresses questions of Scotch Plains Mayor Joan Papan and Louis Weinberg, Planning Board chairman of Millburn, on recently issued guidelines regarding the number of affordable housing units each New Jersey town must provide.

Last month municipalities received estimates of the number of low and moderate income housing required in order to comply with the Fair Housing Act and the N.J. Supreme Court's Mt. Laurel decision. Ogden discusses how the "fair share" numbers of housing units were determined and Kondrup outlines various conditions which would reduce a municipality's obligation. For example:

- No community is required to increase existing housing by more than 20 percent.
- Municipalities may apply for a reduced allocation to preserve environmental or historic areas.
- Municipalities may apply for a reduction by showing that there has been rehabilitation of existing housing; or if they have provided for low and moderate income housing with affordability controls.
- Municipalities may arrange with neighboring communities to transfer up to one-half of their housing obligation by agreeing to such conditions as financing a portion of the construction cost, improvement of streets or sewers, or some other payment.
- Papan discusses her concerns about the intrusion of multi-family homes in an established one-family neighborhood and the possibility of changing the character of such a neighborhood. She also raises questions about the problems towns may encounter in expanding basic services to accommodate a large number of new dwellings.

Kondrup notes that New Jersey is the only state addressing affordable housing by assigning "fair share" quotas to each community.

Lessons for all

The report issued last week by the presidential commission on the shuttle disaster, while filled with technical information of more interest to engineers than the general public, carries lessons for us all.

The 256-page document traces both the physical cause of the breakup of the Challenger that killed her seven crew members, as well as NASA's management mistakes that brought about the catastrophe that cold Florida morning more than four months ago.

Putting aside the esoteric technical causes of the failure of a rocket joint on the Challenger's solid fuel booster, we can view the Rogers Commission's conclusions about NASA as failings inherent in human nature.

As Sen. John Glenn, former Mercury astronaut, observed, NASA moved from an attitude of "can do" on safety issues to a "can't fail attitude" — out and out arrogance.

NASA's shift in attitude, while it can't be condoned, is understandable. Until Jan. 28, NASA's safety record was impeccable — there had been no loss of life in more than 50 manned launches. Paradoxically, this safety record became NASA's downfall. Complacency set in and disaster followed.

The lessons to be learned from the commission's conclusions are universal. One must keep aiming high, but also do the work necessary to achieve those goals.

A student who has had good grades in the past can't sit on laurels and expect the same results without doing the necessary work.

A worker who has been rewarded with raises throughout his or her term of employment shouldn't expect subsequent increases without showing continued improvement.

A public servant, who has been returned to office by his or her constituents, can't expect further election success based solely on reputation.

The Challenger's legacy is a reaffirmation of this country's greatest strength — the work ethic. Arrogance isn't a formula for success.

Ban on caged-bird sales sought

Each year, millions of birds are snatched out of the wild to supply the caged-bird business. Because of grossly inhumane capture techniques, injuries, inadequate care, and shock cause an appalling number of deaths, supplying worldwide imports of 7 1/2 million birds actually necessitates the capture of 30 million birds. A bill to prohibit the sale and transportation of these delicate birds recently was released from the Assembly Committee — A-232, Mar. 2.

We urge your readers to write immediately to their assemblymen to support this important legislation. Dr. Donald Bruning, curator of Birds at Bronx Zoo, estimates that 1 to 100 birds may die for each bird that actually becomes a pet.

Please help us. Join New York State in banning the sale of wild and caught birds.

Golf coach cites Baltusrol's cooperation

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School golf team recently concluded its fifth consecutive winning season. The team continues to engage its competition on Baltusrol U.S. Open layout, the lower course.

The members, administration, and staff cooperate fully to allow the high school golf program to develop. Green Superintendent Joe Flaherty rendered his usual help in making sure all our matches were played. The pro-shop personnel also look an active interest in the team's progress with Head Pro Bob Ross selling the pace, backed up by Assistants John Twissel, Rob Armstrong, Mark Heartfield and pro-shop Manager Mary Beth Heartfield.

Club manager Mark DeNoble approves the schedule and handles any problems which might occur. We would like to thank the governing board of Baltusrol and especially President Paul Hanna for their concern and approval of our playing dates.

Baltusrol's relationship with the high school golf program does not stop with the use of their golfing facilities. The club, with member Bill Kozak playing host, entertains the Dayton team at an annual luncheon and also presents gifts to the players.

For all these considerations we thank you.

RAY YANCHUS, Head Coach of Golf, and team members, Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield

'Baby Doe' decision applauded

As a hospital chaplain, I must applaud the recent Supreme Court decision to strike down the so-called "Baby Doe" regulations. From my perspective such regulations are usually necessary and, when invoked, are exercised as invasively. There are alternative ways of teaching a compassionate and just resolution. Increasingly hospitals are using chaplains, patient advocates, or other to help resolve individual problems. Institutional ethics committees are also a most helpful resource in working through a crisis, within the established structure of the hospital.

At the same time, I think we need to recognize that the intent behind the regulations did arise out of compassion and concern. And, indeed, the public ought to have a way to let its feelings be made known in difficult areas like medical decision-making. Happily, New Jersey has exactly such a forum, called the Citizens' Committee on Biomedical Ethics. The intent of this group is to give us "plain folks" the chance to learn more about these types of medical dilemmas and to express our opinions as well.

If any of your readers want to find out more about this group they can write to the Citizens' Committee at 24 Beechwood Road, Summit 07901, or call 277-3538.

Through such a group citizens of this country can find a forum through which to influence medical decision-making without having to resort to governmental regulation.

Support sought for Fourth celebration

Once again plans are under way to hold Springfield's traditional fireworks celebration. So as not to conflict with the major celebrations planned around the reopening of the Statue of Liberty this year, we have decided to hold our fireworks display on Saturday night, July 5.

It is only through the continued generous support of local businesses that we are able to continue to hold the fireworks display. Once again we ask for your support in sending in a donation to help defray the cost of the fireworks. Contributions may be sent to the Fourth of July Committee, Municipal Building, Springfield 07081.

Daughter writes of rise of a first lady

By ROSE P. SIMON
The following are reviews of books currently available at the Springfield Public Library.

TRUMAN'S FIRST LADY "Bess W. Truman," by Margaret Truman.

The surprising development of Elizabeth Wallace from a self-confident athletic young woman in upper middle class Independence, Mo., to first lady in Washington D.C., 1945 to 1963, is told by her author-daughter, with love.

Harry Truman was a struggling hard-working farmer, who moved to Independence, met and pursued Elizabeth, until she succumbed to his ardor and persistence. They were engaged in 1917. During World War I, Harry was in the Army and Bess did volunteer work, until their marriage nine years after their courtship began.

Following a failed business venture, Harry plunged into politics as presiding judge of Jackson County, but Bess refused to accompany him on his travels. Instead she remained at home, protective of her mother, family, friends and Margaret. But they kept in close touch through their daily letters. However, when Harry decided to run for the Senate, it was without having consulted Bess. Disappointed, she nevertheless accepted his decision with reluctance and doubt.

The prospect of living in Washington was painful to Bess. She found every excuse for remaining in Independence, although Truman was lonely, overworked, dejected. Bess was a very private person, pessimistic, and extremely anxious about her mother's welfare, and determined to avoid publicity. With the passage of time, with Truman's re-election to Senate, then to the vice presidency, Bess gradually became more interested in politics, but still denying interviews and even rejecting Secret Service protection while in Independence. After Roosevelt's death, Bess assumed greater responsibility as first lady, giving Truman strong support, and sharing his continuing burdens. Her daughter provides ample evidence of her mother's strong love for, and loyalty to those she knew — all without fanfare. She shunned lavish display, and easily recognized hypocrisy. This personal story is told against the background of the politically changing scenes at home and abroad.

SATISFYING CUSTOMER "Service America" by Karl Albrecht and Ben Zemke.

The authors affirm what many of us already know: that we are living in a service economy, that the Industrial Revolution has come and gone; executives and managers must learn how to offer quality service, not only to survive the competition, but also to thrive and prosper in the business world of today. Service accounts for 60 percent of our gross national product, and 70 percent of our work force. Examples of "help me" services cover a wide scope; transportation, communication, utilities, wholesale and retail trade, legal, financial, real estate, housekeeping, recreational services.

"Value-added" services are the least tangible, but currently of vital importance. These may offer helpful suggestions, or extra services to the consumer, resulting in favorable, long-time relationships between sellers and buyers. For example, hospitals may provide T.V., gift shops, hotels may furnish free newspapers, wake-up calls; banks may provide lounge areas, free coffee.

The authors outline and clarify three features shared by outstanding service organizations: a clear service strategy, consumer-oriented frontline people, and customer-friendly systems. They list the essential characteristics which highly successful service organizations have in common; they also suggest five steps to achieve a customer-driven organization. Case studies of companies serving as notable examples of fine customer service are included.

Albrecht and Zemke predict the advent of additional creative service offerings: more fast-food delivery, shops for kids only, special searches for software, and new areas of temporary help.

YMCA's Rangers plan three summer trips

Three trips are planned for this summer's sessions of the Summit YMCA's Ranger Camp. The campers will travel to Hershey, Pa., Boston and Cape Cod, Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D.C.

The Summit Y Rangers is a camping program with a wide variety of experiences for boys and girls, grades three through nine. Rangers is planned as an extension of Camp Canaan, the Y's day camp. Following a week of day camping, the Rangers leave on a five-day, four-night camping trip. Transportation is provided via Y vans.

The first session begins June 30. On July 7 of the session the Rangers will leave for Hershey, Pa., where they will tour the Hershey Chocolate factory, visit Hershey Park, tour Pennsylvania Dutch country, and visit Hershey Caves and Caverns.

The second trip, during the camp session running from July 14 to July 25, will include a trip to Boston and Cape Cod where the campers will walk the Freedom Trail in Boston, tour Plymouth Plantation, and Mayflower II, and go on a whale watch boat trip.

During the July 28-Aug. 3 session the trip is to Williamsburg, Va., where campers will tour Williamsburg, visit Jamestown and Yorktown, tour Busch Gardens and visit Virginia Beach and the Jungle Falls waterfalls.

Further information is available and registration may be arranged by calling the Summit Area YMCA at 233-3330 or stopping in at 47 Maple St.

Time up for 33-year-old sign

There's been a change recently in a Union Center landmark as The Union Center National Bank replaced its 33-year-old time and temperature sign with a brand new, more modern structure.

The old sign, which became such a familiar sight in the heart of Union Center, was first installed on the facade of the bank building in July 1953. The original agreement, with the American Sign and Indicator Corporation of Spokane, Wash., called for a 25-year lease at the monthly figure of $28.

According to sign company records, Union Center National was a pioneer in the first financing institution east of the Mississippi River to have a time and temperature unit. American Sign officials also state the unit on the Union Center National Building was the way to many other sign orders in the New York metropolitan area.

In 1959, the time and temperature sign unit was moved from between the two main columns of the building to the newly opened main office addition, just above the new entrance. In 1978, in accordance with the original agreement, the bank renewed the lease at a cost of $119 per month, and in 1983 a new contract was drawn through which the unit was purchased by the bank at a sum of $8,000.

Earlier this year, after repeated problems with the operation of the sign, The Union Center National Bank purchased a new time and temperature unit from the Garnett Sign Company. The unit was fabricated according to specifications set forth by the bank and was recently installed on the facade over the main office entrance where the old sign had hung. Due to the heavy equipment needed for the project, the removal of the old sign

NEW CUSTOMER—Branch Manager Robin Shaughnessy and Teller Wayne Mathewson welcome Samuel Harris of Union to the grand-opening of the Howard Savings Bank newest branch at 2784 Morris Ave., Union.

Bank marks branch grand opening

The Howard Savings Bank officially launched its new branch banking office in Union with ceremonies June 7, marking the start of a month-long grand opening program.

The office, on the ground floor of a new office building at 2784 Morris Ave., is on the corner of Alvin Place. It offers a full range of banking services, including drive-up and safe deposit facilities and a Howard Money Access Center Automatic Teller Machine to provide around-the-clock banking seven days a week.

Through the MAC ATM Network, and the nationwide PLUS ATM Network, holders of Howard MAC Cards have 24-hour-a-day banking opportunities available to them at more than 8,000 locations throughout the United States and Canada.

The month-long grand opening celebration features premium gifts for the opening of certain new accounts, and add-on deposits to similar existing accounts in specified amounts. Certificates of Deposit, Statement or Passbook Accounts, and Money Market Investment Accounts qualify for the premium program.

Four branch offices of the $3.7 billion asset Howard now serve Union County. Others are in Clark, Springfield and Summit. The bank, which has its operations center in Livingston, now has 68 branch offices through which it provides statewide banking services.

Hours in Union are 9 a.m. to noon, Saturday morning for both the branch office and its drive-up facility. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday and until 7 p.m. Fridays.

Inc., $3,718.86, $10,385; Kiss Realty, $8,733.92, $6,240; McConnel Manufacturing Co. Inc., $2,880.10, $3,590; and Building Budgets of Learning, $119.96, $2,250.

The interest savings were made on rebates on interest for their energy improvement loans.

S&L reports on first quarter

Charles L. Harrington, president and CEO of Crestmont Federal Savings & Loan Association, Springfield, has announced first quarter earnings of $4.6 million, or $1.19 per share. These earnings can be attributed, Harrington said, to an increase in the first quarter mortgage volume to $71 million, which is 31 percent higher than the first quarter of 1985.

Crestmont Federal has also had an increase in earnings from basic operations along with a significant increase in profits from the sales of securities.

Further information on the improvement Loan Subsidy is available from the manager of Commercial Programs, N.J. Department of Energy, 648-3902, or by writing to the department, 101 Commerce St., Room 204, Newark 07102.

'Rev. Nancy' marks 15th year of bus ministry

The 15th anniversary of the bus ministry conducted by the Rev. Nancy E. Foreberg, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Union, will be celebrated Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the Landmark Inn, Woodbridge. One of the highlights of the program will be a musical presentation by the Appreciation Chorus of the Newark Boys Chorus School. "Rev. Nancy" has announced that Stanley Orfalski, a full member of the Association of Mothers and Foot Painting Artists Worldwide, will present as a guest, and one of his mouth brush paintings will be given away during the afternoon. The bus ministry was originated in the fall of 1970 as a "creative new approach to experimental learning, whereby a 'trip of the month' would be designed to intermingle fellowship, fun and adventure, undegraded by and permeated with a spiritual depth."

Each of the trips is planned and led by the church's pastor, Rev. Nancy. In addition to offering approximately eight times a year, there also are "two opportunities for four-day extended trips, one in the fall and one in the spring, with the group usually staying at a religious center which becomes their 'home away from home.'"

Since the first trip on Oct. 15, 1970 to Lake Mohonk, New Paltz, N.Y., when the theme was "Experiencing Beauty in God's Creation," more than 3,000 men and women have participated in the bus ministry; it was reported. The number includes people from New Jersey and other states "and even some from abroad," says Rev. Nancy, "who were visiting in this country at the time of a bus ministry venture. The present active list exceeds 2,000 individuals." The group took trips to New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Vermont, New Hampshire and Rhode Island. Additional information about the anniversary banquet on the bus ministry can be obtained by writing to Rev. Nancy at the church or by calling the office at 688-4888.

"DENOMINATIONALISM ORIGINATES IN APOSTASY"

AND ARE WITHOUT DIVINE AUTHORITY.

Begins after the Lord's church was established and the New Testament had been completed. The Old Testament Division.

JN 17:20-21 1 Cor 1:10 Rev 22:18-19

The Bible Teaches "NOT ALL RELIGIOUS PEOPLE KNOW GOD" Neither is one church good as another. Also, one religion is not as good as another. So not deceived.

"IS JESUS THE HEAD OVER ALL THE CHURCHES IN AMERICA TODAY?" Matt. 7:21-23 Matt. 15:13-14

A. WHAT IS THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH? (CHURCH OF THE BIBLE) B. WERE THESE SAVED PEOPLE MEMBERS OF A DENOMINATION? ... acts 2:37-39, 41, 47

The True Church is NOT:

1. Catholicism
2. Denominationalism

It seems to be an impossible task to help a denominational mind to conceive of the Church revealed in the New Testament.

Denominationalism as we know it is named in the Scriptures. Why then would people have such difficulty in understanding the subject? One possibility is that most people simply have never known the "CHURCH OF THE BIBLE," before denominationalism came along.

Come and Hear the Simple "TRUTH" of These and OTHER Subjects Discussed and Questions Answered.

1. The Origin and the Nature of the Church
2. The Purpose and the Organization of the Church
3. The Function and the Worship of the Church
4. The Entrance into the Church
5. The Duration of the Church
6. What must one do to be saved from sin? Where did God Place Salvation?

BUSINESS OF THE WEEK

Garden State Brickface

AMERICA'S FOREMOST SURVIVING CONTRACTORS

GARDEN STATE BRICKFACE—One of the foremost brickface and stucco companies in the Northeast United States, Garden State Brickface is located at 843 St. George's Ave., Roselle.

Turn old exteriors into new

Even if you've never heard of The Garden State Brickface & Stucco Company you've probably seen their work. Just by riding along any number of the state's business-town highways, you'll probably pass scores of buildings and homes that have employed the services of the largest brickfacing company in the Northeast United States.

Located on 843 St. George's Ave., Roselle, Garden State Brickface & Stucco has branches in Rahway and Irvington and as far away as Connecticut and Long Island. There's an even an affiliate branch in Boston, Mass., and plans are in the works to open a post in Baltimore, Md., by next year.

Naturally, the business didn't just start at the forefront of the industry — in fact its beginnings were exceptionally humble.

According to Diane Kretschmer, director of Marketing for Garden State, it all began in 1953 when the company's founder, Ralph Goldberger, converted his Roselle chicken coop into a brickfacing business.

Kretschmer said that since Goldberger has entered quasi-retirement, the bulk of the company is managed by Ralph's sons, Richard and Larry, his son-in-law, Theodore Moore, and his grandson, David Moore.

So, the place that once sold chickens is the headquarters of a thriving industry that has worked on jobs ranging from trailers and mobile home to the Garden State Arts Center and Herald Center in Manhattan.

The success, Kretschmer said, comes from a long line of uncompromising professionalism and the ability to provide that certain "look" a customer may want.

The two primary types of brickfacing, Kretschmer explained, are masonry and acrylic. The masonry includes brick, stone and stucco exteriors and the acrylic may involve spray and a special product known as "Amlantite," an exterior covering that is distributed exclusively in the Northeast by Garden State.

And how does someone decide what's right for their home or building?

"A lot depends on the look and the cost," Kretschmer said. "Both types are durable and have functional advantages but depending on what kind of look a customer wants and what they want to spend, we may suggest one or the other or a combination of both."

In general, the brick, Kretschmer stated, has a more traditional, rustic look. The acrylic, however, is used to provide a sleek, modern appearance.

Bears' netters learn as they go along

By MARK YABLONSKY

What happens when you take a group of largely untried tennis players and unleash them on more experienced opponents? The answer is fairly obvious: it's the newcomers that end up taking the bumps.

Such was the case for this year's David Breatley Regional High School tennis team, a squad of 10 that had only four players with any prior experience. Breatley coach Timothy Sexton calls that "the collar tennis," in the sense that you learn "from each other" and "as you go along." Isn't that unusual, coach?

"It's unusual in the sense that I don't get a flock of freshmen who have had tennis lessons from the time they were in grammar school," explained Sexton, who had eight juniors and only one senior on his team in 1986. "It's very much a learn-as-you-go type of sport around here. But most of them respond and they learn."

But unfortunately, they have to lose as they learn," he added. "The ones that can get through it end up being better tennis players because they gain a lot of confidence."

Although not without confidence, the Bears did seem to improve as the year wound down, as Sexton's inexperienced crew captured two of the final three matches, including a 3-2 victory against Solomon Schechter just prior to Memorial Day weekend.

The player who appeared to have epitomized the coach's "learn-as-you-play" approach better than anyone was Keith Von Uchtrup. The lone senior on the team, Von Uchtrup emerged from nowhere to become Sexton's number one singles player — and without ever having played tennis before.

"He played decently throughout the season," said the coach of Von Uchtrup, who despite owning a 2-18 record, was voted the Outstanding Player of the Year by his teammates. "He had only learned tennis last summer, but he's such a natural athlete, he became our first singles player. He never lost his heart."

Another player who came out of the blue was junior Mike Krihak. A point guard on the varsity basketball team, Krihak registered a team-leading 10-5 record, despite never having stepped on a tennis court before this year, either. The hustling Krihak spent his time alternating between first-doubles and third-singles, and beat worthy foes from schools such as Roselle Catholic and North Plainfield.

Breaking the mold was junior Dominick Pascarella, who was one of only two players to receive a three-year varsity letter. Although he recorded a paltry 5-15 record, Pascarella operated as Sexton's "swing man," spending his time playing both second and third singles, as well as first doubles. Teammate Matt Williams, the other three-year varsity letterman, registered a 6-6 mark in doubles competition, which was double only to Krihak.

The lone disappointment was junior Ken Helm, who spent much of the year hampered by "minor, nagging injuries" that permitted him to win just two matches, a sharp contrast to last season's 10-10 mark. But Sexton will not allow defeatism to pervade his team's roster.

"I never emphasize wins or losses," he insisted. "I'm happy when we win, but when they lose, I'm not really upset as long as they performed better than the last time they played. It's a step-by-step process of improving your skills. "I'll be surprised if we're not 500 next year."

Blue Stars are champs of Little League

Chris Chivarelli hurled an 11-strikeout, three-hit complete game, and Eric Serid drove in five runs with a double and triple to lead the Blue Stars to the Mountaineer Little League Championship with a 10-3 triumph over the Cubs.

Chivarelli also weighed in with a home run and Jason Feldman and Doug Stoffer each had two-run scoring doubles. Erik Swart had two hits and Chad Oberhauser, a two-run double for the Cubs.

The Twins came up with an eight-run fifth inning to keep their playoff hopes alive as they outlasted the Orioles 12-7. Craig Havelen with a bases-loaded double, and David Crosby, with a two-run double, had the key hits in the Twins' upswing. Jimmy Boyd hurled three innings of scoreless relief to pick up the win, with help from Colin Graham, who had four assists from the first-base position. Ryan Driscoll, Scott Driscoll and Kevin Delaney each had two hits for the Orioles.

Jim Alder's two-run double in the seventh inning gave the Twins the lead and Jason Perle closed the door in relief as the Twins snapped the Mets' winning streak at four with a 9-7 victory. Alder had three hits and four RBI on the day, and Colin Graham had a two-hit, three-run performance with Greg Weiss playing well defensively in center field. Peter Giltrich, Blair Gardner and Andrew Bonaventura each had two hits and two RBI for the Mets with Bonaventura's coming on a homerun.

Jim Higgins and Andrew Gallagher combined to hurl a three-hitter and lead the Braves past the Mets 6-2. Jim Hurler was virtually a one-man show offensively with two doubles and five RBI. Charles Dougherty had two hits, and David Santos a fine running catch in right field. Blair Gardner's two-run double, a strong relief effort by Peter Giltrich, and a fine, batted ball of a line drive by shortstop B.J. Davis highlighted the Mets' efforts.

In Pony League play, the Mountaineer Mustangs earned the gratitude of the Springfield Lions by topping the in-town rival Mavericks 8-1 to throw the Lions and Mavericks into a first-place tie.

The Mustangs jumped to an early 7-0 lead and Glen Miske struggled but had a couple of key hits. He hurled the route going performance. David Cook had three hits, Mike Seravello two hits, John Hurley three RBI and Brian Asche the deciding two-run double for the Victors. Mike Price, Chris and John Nabors and Scott Boyl each had two hits for the Mavericks and centerfielder Chris LaFon had two outstanding catches in a losing effort.

The Mustangs were not so fortunate in their next encounter dropping a 12-10 contest to the Colts. O.J. McElroy had five RBI on the day, including a game-winning bases-loaded triple. Greg Barisonek had two hits for the winners and threw out two runners from his backstop position to make things easier for pitcher Mike Spagnola, who overcame control problems to pitch a 12-strikeout complete game. Glen Miske, with two hits and four RBI, John Hurley, with two hits and Al Giltrich, with a two-run single, paced the Mustang effort.

"I never emphasize wins or losses," he insisted. "I'm happy when we win, but when they lose, I'm not really upset as long as they performed better than the last time they played. It's a step-by-step process of improving your skills. "I'll be surprised if we're not 500 next year."

Tennis team off to fast start

The Springfield Recreation Department's women tennis team opened its eighth season in the Suburban Women's Tennis League by traveling to Berkeley Heights recently to defeat that squad by a 3-1 score.

Winning players were Madeline Fuerstein and Ojaq Chung, 6-3, 6-2; Marie Morrocco and Susie Eng, 6-2, 7-5, and Fran Spotts and Pat Horowitz, 6-2, 6-4.

Siragusa issues challenge to QBs

Tony Siragusa does not lead you on in any way. He is straight forward, blunt, and brutally honest.

Thus, the University of Pittsburgh sophomore defensive tackle does not hide his feelings about his dislike for quarterbacks.

"I think they all better watch out because I'm going to be like a bull that is seeing red. I'm going to get them."

Siragusa's role at Pitt last season was limited as the former New Jersey state wrestling champion played in just two games. But 1986 proves to be a more promising year for both Siragusa and the Panthers as new head coach Mike Gottfried has this squad thinking big.

"Hey, I want to graduate with a national championship ring," Siragusa said. "Last season we were not a disciplined team — some guys were taking some games less seriously than other games. With coach Gottfried, you have to be ready for every game or you won't play. He told us the first day, 'I'm not going to change for you, you are going to have to change for me.'"

Gottfried's influence began immediately as the Panthers went from a traditional 5-2 defense to a modern 4-3 which will stress penetration, according to Angelo.

"The most important thing for the defensive tackle is quickness and then strength," Angelo said. "This is because we'll want to move the offensive guard back and cause penetration. If you penetrate, I don't care what offense they run, it's all over with."

"It's a responsibility in which Siragusa is thriving. "I love it," Siragusa said. "I don't like offense, I like playing defense and getting through the offense. I like hitting and I like to get saw Joe Namath."

The hitting begins Aug. 12 as the Panthers open practice camp at Edinboro (Pa.) University in preparation for their Sept. 1 home opener against Maryland in a night game. Pitt will be host to five other games, including rival West Virginia University and national power Miami.

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR OCCASIONAL SHORTAGES

Rules of game?

By RON BISHOP and JOHN WARGACKI

Rain delays, batters hitching up their pants, tapping their spikes, pitchers waving off catchers — have all baseball delays got you down? Admit it, diehard fans — those of you who memorize the backs of your trading cards every year — even you get a little bored.

We here at County Leader are going to revolutionize the game of baseball as the Western world knows it.

We've come up with a few changes that will make the game more fast-paced and interesting — with the emphasis on interesting.

Center field fair pole. The pole would be placed directly above the marking for the deepest part of the park. It would not impede the view of the center field television camera.

If a hitter strikes the pole with the bases empty, his team is automatically credited with four runs and the opposing pitcher is immediately removed from the game and sent to bartender's school.

If however, the fair pole is hit by a ball with men on base in a crucial situation — crucial being defined by the home team sportscaster — the ball is foul.

Bases in left and right field. For all rubber games of a three-game series, a fourth and fifth base in left and right field, respectively, will be installed.

This, of course, is only for three-game series. If two teams are playing a four-game series, to save wear on the players, a dirt path will be cut from first base directly behind the pitchers' mound to third base.

Thus, doubles in these series will automatically be turned into triples, but only if the ratio of men to women in the stands is greater than two-to-one in favor of the women.

If this ratio does not exist, a sportswriter, chosen by the highest ranking female home team official, will be forced to play right field armed only with a tennis racket — with no strings.

BETWEEN THE LINES

FINAL EDITION SEPTEMBER 1984 VOL. 11

Baseball's newest architects have also come up with a newfangled playoff system that will replace the obsolete method of simply having first-place teams compete for the World Series title.

The Eastern Division team with the best home record would play the Western Division club with the poorest road record.

The reverse would apply. Poorest road record in the East would play best home record in the West, unless it's Leap Year, in which case, the total number of wins for each team in the division is added together and divided by the total number of teams.

The team within the division with the number of wins closest to the division average comes in third and stands no chance of making the playoffs.

The two teams that compete in the playoffs are the teams that reflect the opposite extremes in the standard deviation of the division.

The teams in the playoffs must have owners who both own seats on the New York Stock Exchange and/or are listed in People magazine's "Northeast quadrant of Turkey's 10 sexiest bald women."

If two teams within a division have the same standard deviation within one-tenth of a percentage point, the winner will be determined by the number of players on the teams with hit slaves less than 7/4 or if their owners have sold the movie rights to their biographies.

All-Star games. To solve the controversy over whether fans, players or managers should select the elite squads, we propose the squad should be comprised only of former United States Secretaries of State or present chairpersons of the House of Representatives Committee to investigate un-American activities in Zaire.

If this honored body of squad members should arrive at a tie in selecting either a shortstop or second base umpire, then members of the U. S. Supreme Court under 6 feet tall will cast the deciding vote.

If you have any changes you would like to see made in baseball, call us and we'll send our ideas and yours to Commissioner Peter Uebberoth. The letters, however, will only be sent on the third Tuesday of the month that falls on an odd-numbered day in August.

Florence cages Panthers 8-1 in Group 1 final

By DENNIS ORLANDINI

The Florence Flashes defeated Roselle Park's Panthers 8-1 Saturday at Princeton University, behind the four-hit pitching of Darin Kotch to earn their second straight Group One baseball title.

The newly won title was also their fourth straight major sports championship, which includes the 1985 South Jersey football championship and the 1986 Group One basketball crown.

Florence's high school athletic teams have put the little town of 3,000 people on the Delaware River between Trenton and Camden on the map.

Roselle Park ran into an extremely confident team, and a pitcher in Kotch, who earned his 11th victory against one defeat. Kotch struck out five men to maintain a one strikeout per inning ratio — 78 in 78 innings — and allowed only one unearned run to lower his earned run average to 1.10.

A large contingent of loud, vocal fans made the trip from nearby Florence, cheering their team on, and berating Panther players, to create a home-game effect for Florence.

The Panthers had upset Cedar Grove 6-3, Glen Ridge 6-1, and New Milford 6-2, all of whom had posted better than Roselle Park had over the 1985 campaign, to get to the finals. As coach Jack Shaw had said after the Panthers' semifinal win over New Milford "nobody expected us to get this far."

To a great extent, the Panthers had accomplished their tournament victories by capitalizing on the opposition's mistakes. At Princeton, however, the Flashes turned the tables on them, taking advantage of a number of Roselle Park defensive lapses.

The Panthers brought a highly respectable .312 team batting average with them into the final game, but Florence, which finished the season at .376, had a starting lineup averaging .365, including one player hitting over .500, two in the .400s, and four others hitting over .350.

The Flashes would, as Shaw said later, "dink us (the Panthers) to death" by getting 13 hits, 12 of them singles. Those hits compounded with some critical Roselle Park errors would generate eight runs.

Florence, not pressured into taking chances on the basepaths, played a conservative running game and often did not take the extra base on base hits, leaving 12 runners on base. "Why give up outs?" said coach Joe Prappoli, who said the team stayed within its base running capabilities. "Why take chances on the basepaths) when you know the guy behind you is going to hit?"

The Flashes broke through to score in four innings, and had runners in scoring position the other two times they came to the plate.

After Kotch set down the side in order in the top of the first, Jeff Korinko reached base on second baseman Frank Leonardale's error, and stole second base. Mike Dangler singled to rightfield, and Korinko scored when catcher Len Zennario could not control Dennis McCaffrey's skipping throw.

Brian Stungen followed with a run-scoring single and the Flashes had asserted themselves to take a 2-0 lead.

Prappoli called the early runs crucial, adding, "It was extremely important that we came out and set the tone of the game. We had to be aggressive and try to force errors."

The Flashes picked up another off Panther starter Gene Mirabella in the second, when Korinko singled and went to second when the ball was mishandled in the outfield. Dangler followed with a hit to drive home Korinko.

The Panthers closed the gap to 3-1 in the third when Mike Small reached base in the third on an error, and moved to third on a Carl Clark single, before scoring on Tom Crittall's sacrifice fly.

A two-out rally in the fourth saw the Flashes score three runs to knock Mirabella out of the box. Reliever Dave Hartzler held the Panthers for two innings when a two-run single by Korinko in the sixth lengthened the Flashes lead to 6-1, and brought Paul Mutek to the mound to finish up.

Prappoli said that his team, 25-1, was prepared for the game. A former assistant coach and a video tape of the Roselle Park - New Milford game, acquired with the help of a North Jersey friend who taped it off TV's Suburban Cablevision, had armed the team with confidence.

"We're a great believer of leaving nothing to chance," said Prappoli who said he didn't understand why more high schools aren't heavily involved in scouting the opposition.

It's a valuable tool, and it's great to have," said assistant coach Vince Cipriano of the scouting report.

Cerebral Palsy Center: where it's at

By JAMES J. OWENS

The United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County has run a treatment center in Union for nearly a quarter of a century, but most county residents don't know where the center is located.

In order to familiarize residents with the facilities, the league held an open house at the William and Myrle Garbe Treatment Center earlier this month. Administrators conducted tours and members of the Board of Directors spoke to a small, but impressed group of invited guests.

The center is at 373 Clermont Terrace, Union, just past the YM-YWHA building on Green Lane. The white, one-story structure is fully equipped for all types of therapy and rehabilitative services, but education is considered the center's top priority.

"This center is essentially a school," said Business Administrator Vincent Coletta. "We are funded by the United Way, as well as various government and private grants."

The Union Board of Education is another source of funds for the center, which accepts students from the township who have cerebral palsy and provides academic training as well as physical and other therapies not available in district schools.

According to information provided by the center, cerebral palsy is not a disease, but a disabling condition that most often occurs around the time of birth, usually because the supply of oxygen to the brain has been interrupted.

The effects range from minimal to severe depending on which part of the brain is damaged and how badly the central nervous system is involved. Because of the damage to the central nervous system, muscles are unable to function properly and mental capacities may be diminished.

The center is seeking infants and pre-schoolers from Union County to participate in its Early Intervention Programs.

"We have children who range in age from 3 months to 3 years, and younger," said Ivy Merrill, the program administrator for the center's Early Intervention programs.

"There are currently 12 students and we have room for 25, which is our goal."

These programs provide for physical, cognitive, social and language development for physically handicapped infants and pre-schoolers. The goal is to develop the whole child, utilizing an interdisciplinary team approach that includes the parents, teacher, physical and occupational therapists, social workers and a physician.

The Early Intervention Programs are funded by a state special education grant so there is no fee to the family. Pre-school handicapped programs are funded by the individual's Board of Education.

Executive Director Dr. Ronald J. Parquer talked about the center's new "Summershine School" summer school program which begins on June 30 and runs through Aug. 8.

This program is open to multiple-handicapped children from 3-to-21-years-old. Groups will be designed to meet the needs of the children. Parquer said the center feels very strongly about students continuing their educational, therapeutic and cognitive growth during the summer months.

"Our program is one of rehabilitation and growth

Foreign students arriving in county

"Travel to Spain this summer without leaving the comfort of your living room," suggests Jo Ann Pinto of Elizabeth. Sounds too good to be true? Well it isn't, not if you let Spain come to you by opening your home this summer to one of 30 Spanish exchange students who will be visiting the Union County area this August.

Pinto knows first-hand how valuable an experience living in a foreign country can be. In 1979-1980 she spent her senior year of high school in Brazil as a Rotary Exchange Student. Since then she's been active in several programs dedicated to promoting international understanding, peace, and awareness of other cultures. She is serving as area coordinator for Interstudy, a San Francisco-based organization, which turns ideal into reality by bringing people together for one month at a time to exchange ideas, have fun, and experience another culture right in their own homes.

Pinto encourages as many people as possible to participate in this unique opportunity. "Anyone able to open their home to one of these delightful individuals should seriously consider doing so. Senior citizens couples with grown children, couples with small or no children, single parents, and couples with teenagers are all invited to learn more about this program."

All 30 Spanish students have studied English an average of five years and are between the ages of 16 and 21. Their English skills will be strengthened here by a daily three-hour class which will be held in Union, Transportation to and from class by host family carpool or public transportation is arranged by Interstudy. Families are reimbursed for mileage.

In addition to the formal training sessions, students will be visiting Niagara Falls, Boston, and Washington. They also will spend one or two days visiting New York City.

Transportation to and from J.F.K. International Airport upon arrival and departure is by chartered bus and conducted by an Interstudy representative.

Students are carefully screened and given an overview of our culture before being accepted into the program. Students may not drive at all while they are here and are only allowed to smoke or drink if their host families permit them to and they are of age.

Anyone interested in becoming a host family, especially in Elizabeth, Union, Hillside, Roselle Park, Linden, Springfield, and Kenilworth, is requested to contact Pinto at 289-5364 evenings or weekend or by writing to her at 437 Elmora Avenue Apt. 33, Elizabeth, 07208.

Presentations given by 4-H

Six Union County teen 4-H'ers gave presentations recently and were judged for their efforts. The program was held as part of the total leadership development learning process that 4-H'ers are exposed to, and is specifically focused on public speaking. Those participants who received blue ribbons are qualified to represent Union County at the state 4-H Presentation Program to be held at Cook College this month.

4-H'ers who were awarded blue ribbons were Julie Smith, Mountaineer, Catherine Thomson, Scotch Plains, Andrew Shelton, Fanwood, and Anastasia Waters, Plainfield. Julie, a five-year member of the 4-H Veterinary Science Club, gave her presentation on "Feline Urologic Syndrome." She plans to attend Cornell University this fall and major in veterinary medicine.

Catherine Thomson, 14, a two-year 4-H member of the Pathfinders Seeing Eye Puppy Club who gave her first 4-H Veterinary Science Club presentation on "Feline Urologic Syndrome." She plans to attend Cornell University this fall and major in veterinary medicine.

Andrew Shelton, 14, a two-year 4-H member of the Pathfinders Seeing Eye Puppy Club who gave her first 4-H presentation, was dressed in authentic karate clothing and gave an illustrated talk on karate. Its history and variety of techniques.

Andrew Shelton's formal speech on "Egyptian Embalming" highlighted the procedures involved in mummification. Andrew, also a member of the Pathfinders 4-H Club, shared his Olympic pin collection and gave a presentation on "The 1980 Winter Olympics," while Erik Thomson, Scotch Plains, discussed "Wargaming." These were first presentations for these two 4-H members. Michael is a member of the Krazy Kampers 4-H Club and Erik is a Pathfinders 4-H Club member who raises Seeing Eye puppies.

4-H is the youth development program of Rutgers Cooperative Extension, the outreach arm of Rutgers in Union County. Its programs are sponsored jointly by the United States Department of Agriculture, Rutgers, and the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. Membership is open to youth between the ages of 7 and 19 regardless of race, sex, handicap, color, or national origin. Additional information can be obtained by contacting Erika U. Fields, County 4-H Agent, or Marlene J. Brown, 4-H program assistant at 300 North Ave. East, Westfield, or by calling 233-5336.

through recreational, special adaptive equipment and planned activities," the director said.

Some of the activities at the facility include arts and crafts, nature study, horseback riding, water sports, music, cooking, drama, athletics and special events. Field trips are taken to Newark Airport, the Paper Mill Playhouse and Chuck E. Cheese. There will be special presentations by the Union County Fire Department and a puppet show by "Kids On The Block."

"Rehabilitation, education, therapies and treatments are, of course, the Cerebral Palsy Center's main functions," asserted Parquer. "But all of the work and effort it takes to help an individual become self-sufficient will be in vain if the person cannot become a productive member of society once the disability has been overcome."

To that end, the center has the Work Activities Training Center, one of eight in New Jersey, and part of the United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County. Local companies provide the center with light contract work, and "odd jobs" for occupational therapy. The work consists of mailing, collating and hand assembly.

Contracts have been completed for Kean College, National State Bank, and the Association Management Corporation. The center takes care of the bookkeeping, payroll, obtaining materials, even pickup and delivery. The program is certified by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Further information about Summershine School, the Early Intervention Programs or any of the center's other programs and activities can be obtained by calling the center at 354-5890.

Teen art in county exhibit

Twelve paintings, drawings and photographs selected from more than 250 pieces exhibited at this spring's Union County Teen Arts Festival will brighten the walls of the Union County Freeholders Meeting Room in the County Administration Building in Elizabeth beginning today.

The exhibit opens tonight with a reception from 8:30 to 7:30 before the regular freeholder meeting. The public can view the exhibit tonight or from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday to Friday through July 31.

The Union County Teen Arts Festival is sponsored by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, Department of Parks and Recreation; Union County College; Union County Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board; New Jersey State Teen Arts Program; Allenberg Piano House, and private donors.

FRANK AND FRIEND—Frank McSweeney and his dog, Sunshine, rehearse a scene for the Plays-in-the-Park production of "George M," scheduled to open Tuesday in Roosevelt Park, Edison.

Canines due on stage

What a vaudeville without a dog act? Not as much fun as "George M" director Ernest Albrecht likes it to be. So he sent out a call for talented canines and found "Frank and His Friends" for the Plays-in-the-Park production of "George M," scheduled to open Tuesday in Roosevelt Park, Edison.

According to a spokesman for Plays-in-the-Park, the audition was almost a bust. Three scheduled English spaniels came down with a virus and a German shepherd didn't show up because he was just too sophisticated for what his owner termed "poodle-type" activities. But Frank McSweeney of Linden arrived just in time to get the job with Sunshine and Midnight, two eager mutts with enough credits from the David Letterman Show to make their tops in "Stupid Pet Tricks."

They skateboard, push each other around on a tricycle, paw a basic tune on the piano, just make it through hoops and roll over when the split and a small McSweeney bribe moves them. Quite enough for the kind of laughs Albrecht has in mind. They're bound to steal at least part of the show when "George M" opens on June 24 in Roosevelt Park.

McSweeney, a school bus driver in Union County, spends his spare time with his animal acts. He also has performing cats, and has become something of a draw at local fairs. This got him featured on an ABC "Good Morning, America" segment with Erma Bombeck last year. Assisted by teen-age neighbor Kathryn Smith, he is making a second career of show business. And Sunshine and Midnight whom McSweeney acquired from the Humane Society several years ago are on their way from the dog pound to stardom.

The Plays-in-the-Park production of "George M" is presented from June 24 to July 5 and is free to the public through the sponsorship of the Middlesex County Department of Parks and Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Intrepid sponsoring contest

To help celebrate "New Jersey Month" aboard the Intrepid Sea-Air-Space Museum in Manhattan from June 14-July 15, the Intrepid is sponsoring an essay contest for youngsters 8 through 12.

The prize: a three-day trip to Los Angeles to visit the U.S.S. New Jersey for the winner and a parent. The recipient will receive round-trip airline tickets from New York to Los Angeles, hotel accommodations in Los Angeles, and transportation within the Long Beach area. The trip will be arranged for the fall subject to the availability of the Battleship New Jersey.

To enter the contest youngsters must submit a 750-to-1000-word essay entitled "What Liberty Means to Me." Wayne Schmidt, the museum's executive director, will judge all entries on the basis of sincerity and originality.

Entries should be mailed to: Wayne Schmidt, executive director, Intrepid Sea-Air-Space Museum, West 46th St. and 12th Avenue, New York, NY 10036. All entries must be received by July 15. Full contest rules are available through Amy Speck, public relations director at the Intrepid.

A lot of activity at Waterloo

Visitors to the historic Village of Waterloo in Allamuchy Mountain State Park say they expect to see a beautifully restored colonial village dating back to the mid-1700's.

But there is a great deal more going on in the village since it opened its doors for the 22nd year. One of the most visible is the one that will comfortably seat 3,000 people for its upcoming Waterloo Festival of the Arts series. The cantilever structure of the new tent offers greatly improved sight lines, in addition to the increased seating over the former tent.

Other, and equally important, changes are improvements in comfort and amenities for visitors. A new comfort station and picnic area are almost completed and are located "just a minute's walk from the tent." Traffic tie-ups on Waterloo Road should be a thing of the past when the new direct highway link to Route 80 is completed in mid-summer.

"The purpose of all these improvements is to make a visit to Waterloo as pleasant as possible," commented Percy Leach, president and co-founder, as he recently toured the facility. Co-founder Louis Gualandri had a broad smile as he looked at the "madness" of activity. Two new box offices, and walkway are just two other improvements, he said.

Many of the improvements, and music underwriting, are the result of generous contributions by Waterloo benefactors, it was reported. The new tent was a joint gift from the Beneficial Corp. and O.W. Caspersen Foundation. Both institutions have made major grants to other projects at the village. The classical music series is underwritten by grants from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation and the Frank and Lydia Bergen Foundation. The Village of Waterloo is funded, in part, by a grant from the N.J. State Council On The Arts/ Dept. of State; N.J. Dept. of Environmental Protection; and N.J. Div. of Travel And Tourism and N.J. Dept. Of Commerce and Economic Development.

The 1986 entertainment series features "some of the best known names in classical and popular music."

"Our goal is establishing history, music and art in a unique setting that doesn't exist anywhere else," says Leach. "I look forward to the following season as Waterloo's greatest." Adds Flin M. W. Caspersen, chairman of the Waterloo Foundation.

The village is closed on Mondays. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Oct. 26; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Dec. 28 when the village closes.

The Village of Waterloo rests upon an old meeting place and burial ground of the Munsee (Delaware) Indians. The village's name comes from a colonial ironworks. The village opened to the public in 1964 by its founders following years of land acquisition and restoration which continues, it was reported.

2 photography scholarships given

The sixth annual Bob Baxter Scholarships have been awarded to two students at the School of Visual Arts.

They are John J. O'Boyle of Union Township, a junior, and Neil Shubert of Demarest, a sophomore. The youths are the second and third students at the School of Visual Arts to be awarded the scholarship. The first was Ira Goodman of Elizabeth.

The foundation was organized in 1950, at the suggestion of the late Bob Baxter, a freelance photographer, who was paralyzed in a swimming pool accident in August 1971, to provide financial aid for students wishing to become news photographers.

Applicants must submit application blanks, two letters of recommendation and a portfolio showing a cross-section of their work. They must be high school seniors who have been admitted to a recognized school of photography or enrolled in a college or university as a photography major or they must be a freshman, sophomore or junior in a school of photography or enrolled in a college or university majoring in photography. They also must be residents of New Jersey.

Application blanks and brochures about the fund may be obtained by writing to the Bob Baxter Scholarship Foundation, c/o New Jersey Newspapers, Airport International Plaza, U.S. Route 1, Newark, N.J. 07114.

The awards were presented by Robert Brush, president of the foundation, assisted by Mrs. Charles Aggar, mother of Mr. Baxter who died at the U.S. Veterans' Medical Center, East Orange, in 1982.

O'Boyle, a junior at the School of Visual Arts, is a graduate of Union High School and works as a freelance photographer for New Jersey Newspapers.

Shubert, a graduate of Demarest High School, was on his high school newspaper and has been employed by the Liberty Studios in New York City. He will be a sophomore at the School of Visual Arts in the fall.

Trustees of the foundation in addition to Mr. Brush, chief photographer of the Bergen Record, Hackensack; include: Vice president, Jack Anderson, chief photographer of the Herald News, Passaic; secretary, Richard T. Koles, director of operations, New Jersey Newspapers; treasurer, Don Davidson, director of news photography of the Star Ledger, Newark; and assistant secretary, Jean-Rae Turner, librarian, New Jersey Newspapers.

A recognition for the recipients was conducted at New Jersey Newspapers.

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS—Inspecting a booklet containing photographs by the late Bob Baxter of Union are Neil Shubert of Demarest, a sophomore at the School of Visual Arts, New York; Mrs. Charles Aggar of Newark, mother of Mr. Baxter; John J. O'Boyle of Union, a junior at the School of Visual Arts, and Robert Brush, president of the Bob Baxter Scholarship Foundation.

Rebecca's forecast

For week of June 19 through June 25
ARIES (3/21-4/20) Others' dilemmas continue to intrude in your life. Emotional goings on are highlighted, and work or daily obligations take a back seat now. Later, it's important to be honest with yourself and another. Clear up misunderstandings and enjoy a strengthening of romantic bonds in the weeks ahead.

TAURUS (4/20-5/21) Communications, local travel and everyday activities are stepped up during this week. Financial disputes need careful handling. Utilize all the fact you can muster in dealing with elders or those in authority. Later, keep your schedule flexible to inevitable changes revolving around family.

GEMINI (5/21-6/21) It seems likely that a major shake-up of sorts is in the works right now for many. Others are going to play a key role, and partnerships and finances will be dominant themes for quite a while. Later, home, community and/or property matters will be of great importance to many in the weeks ahead.

CANCER (6/22-7/23) This will be an important week for many in relation to financial matters. Past efforts are rewarded, and for some this begins an impressive new cycle for growth. Later, tax, insurance, pension or estate dealings are indicated. Health improve, and the pressure of recent months begins to recede.

LEO (7/24-8/23) Career or outside interests may pose a problem or two early this week. You may feel hampered in by daily obligations and others easily irritate or upset you. Later, make time for your own relaxation; finances continue to improve; and those at a distance assume importance towards the end of this period.

VIRGO (8/24-9/23) Some continue to find dealings with others difficult. You need to talk out personal problems with someone you trust and catch up with personal communications. Later, emotional judgments are cloudy, social and romantic issues are highlighted, and don't be tempted to throw caution to the wind. . . yes YOU!

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) Heavy demands are felt by many during this mostly hectic period. Certain areas of your life are bound to suffer as you put all your energy into a new venture. Later, stand your ground; refuse to be coerced; and continue to explore and expand new ways of making money. Children benefit.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/23) You're sure to find outlets for your surplus of restless energy during this period. Errands and local goings on keep you busy. Try to avoid decisions you may not be ready to make. Others may be very demanding now. Later, a loss is balanced by a gain before the week is over; be patient.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) This continues to be a time of financial re-organization for many. Professional consultations are possible, and important alliances continue to see-saw. Later this week, property matters may assume importance, and many face the prospect of severing old ties and/or friendships very soon.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) This may be an especially gratifying period. Self interest is easily promoted and well received, and romantic matters are favored. Later in the week, dealings with groups are indicated. Pay attention to new meetings and take advantage of a less hectic pace for the time being. Rest and relax!

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) You may have a new blip on an old problem early this week. Follow your hunches and re-think the last several months' activities. More attention follows you now, so keep things on the up and up. Later in this period, romantic introductions, hugs on friends, groups or organizations. Look your best!

PISCES (2/20-3/20) Many will find themselves in the limelight during this week. You really make strides in several areas of your life. Braving the right person's attention now may help you reach a cherished goal. . . be alert! Later in the week, you may need some time alone to re-group energies and priorities.

Video grant awarded

Dr. Lawrence Hogan of Fanwood, professor of Black history at Union County College, Cranford, has received a $40,000 grant from the New Jersey Committee for the Humanities to produce a 30-minute video documentary entitled "Before You Can Say Jackie Robinson."

The grant is the largest media grant awarded by the NJCH. Dr. Hogan said. A contract has been signed with the Newark Media Works, an independent film organization, to produce the film. Production is expected to begin within the next few months and should be completed within a year, according to Dr. Hogan.

The film, which will be broadcast locally for use on public service broadcasting and major television distribution, also will be made available for education use in colleges and high schools. Subtitled, "Black Baseball in New Jersey in the Era of the Color Line, 1885 to 1950," the video focuses on research information which was the subject of a photo and memorabilia exhibit Dr. Hogan presented at Union County College in 1984.

Focusing on famous Negro League baseball players, spectators, and fans of the game, the documentary will feature interviews with such great stars of the past as Monte Irvin, Ray Dandridge, Don Newcombe and Max Baucus. A profile of the late John Henry Lloyd, a baseball Hall of Famer who played on the Bacharach Giant teams from Atlantic City in the 1920's, also will be a highlight of the film. In addition, historical footage on Negro League baseball games will be a part of the presentation on the history of Black baseball.

According to Dr. Hogan, the completed videotape will become a part of his exhibit, which is intended for display or as a tool to supplement teachers' lessons. The exhibit itself, without the accompanying film, will be available by September of this year, Dr. Hogan said.

Dr. Hogan, who has been teaching at Union County College since 1977, is a specialist in Black and ethnic history and wrote his doctoral dissertation on one aspect of the Black press services. Before joining UCC, he taught at De Paul University, Greencastle, Ind., and earned a doctoral degree from Indiana University.

Audiences love Stephenson music

By MILT HAMMER
 Pick of The LPs. "Suspicious Hearts," by Van Stephenson (MCA Records), is a gem.

With "Modern Day Dallah," Van Stephenson joined the artists for whom Van Stephenson has written hit songs. This top 20 hit displayed Stephenson the performer to audiences that unknowingly have been loving his words and music for years. All sorts of audiences. His material has been covered by a wide range of singers, from Pat Benatar to Kenny Rogers, to hard rockers Y & T. Now, with his second album for MCA Records, "Suspicious Hearts," Van takes an even bigger step into the spotlight and demonstrates once again that he's got a direct line to the heart of rock and roll.

While a youngster in Ohio, Stephenson had his imagination seized by The Beatles. A guitar followed. Then, when he was 16, his family moved to Nashville where songwriting is a proud craft. Van played in garage bands through high school, and at 17, he met Kenny O'Dell, a veteran tunesmith with a long list of hits to his name. O'Dell taught him how to write as Van broadened his gigging to Florida and Oklahoma as well as Tennessee. His rapidly developing talent got him a job with a song publishing firm, House of Gold Music, as an in-house writer. It was four years before Crystal Gayle cut his "Your Kisses Will" and gave him his first hit. They haven't stopped coming since. Stephenson had taught himself how to sing cutting demos of his songs and was beginning to feel he should record himself. Kenny O'Dell produced the tracks which led to contract in 1980 with Handshake Records, now defunct. He did an LP for the label and his title song, "China Girl" was recorded by John Cougar Mellencamp on "American Fool." Stephenson's next break came when producer, Richard Landis came to Nashville looking for songs for his most successful artist, Juice Newton. Van had several Landis wanted, but refused to give them up intending to save them for himself. As it turned out, Landis was so impressed with the songs and Stephenson that he presented them to MCA where Van was signed in 1983. Stephenson's debut with Landis producing, was titled "Righteous Anger." As well as containing the hit "Modern Day Dallah," the album was drawn upon for three movie soundtracks, "Wild Life," "The Sluggish Wife," and "Secret Admirer."

"When you're alone, the idea of cataract surgery is kind of frightening. A support group can really help. We've all been through it, we know how easy it is and what a difference it makes."

Mary Cooper

UCC aide to direct black play

"Blue Note," a musical play about black women's experiences, written and directed by Terry Benjamin of Elizabeth, EOF counselor at Union County College, will be presented at the Center State Theatre in Plainfield this weekend. Two performances of the play are planned, one at 8 p.m. Saturday and a matinee at 4 p.m. Sunday. Both performances will feature a new musical score by Plainfield's David Scott and The Magic Quintet in jazz interludes. "Blue Note" explores the dreams, hopes and limitations on women.

'Miss Liberty' play set

Summerfun Theater, Inc. will hold off its premiere production of the season at a celebration of the company's new home at the Weiss Arts Center of the Montclair Kimberley Academy with "Miss Liberty" tonight.

For the past two years, W. Scott Mac Connell, Summerfun producer, has been involved "in an effort to reassemble" the Irving Berlin musical in time for the statue's birthday celebration.

Originally staged in 1947, the musical has a book by Robert E. Sherman.

Mc Connell said that "in some ways 'Miss Liberty' is just like the story of the statue itself, a bit neglected for a while, refurbished by people who care and now ready to be admired once more."

Walter Kotze serves as director, and musical director, Betty Sanders, will be in charge of a score that includes "Let's Take An Old-Fashioned Walk" and "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor."

The show will run through July 5.

It was announced that those attending on July 4 will "be given an opportunity to glimpse New York's salute to the Lady of the Harbor from the theater's panoramic lobby."

The season's shows will include "Pack of Lies" by Hugh Whitemore, July 8 to 19; Tom Stoppard's contemporary comedy, "The Real Thing," July 22 to Aug. 2, and the comedy, "Noises Off," Aug. 5 to 16.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 256-0576.

Sylvia LeGrand plays the role of a jazz musician's wife, Marilyn Johnson, stars as "the other woman." LeGrand is an alumna of Union County College, while Johnson is a current UCC student. Benjamin is known for his plays dealing with the experiences of Black women. At Rutgers he directed "Natural Woman," "Star Child" and "Street Games." His latest play, "Serious Intentions," is an insight into the trials of a Black rock singer beginning her career in a small town.

An alumnus of Union County College, Benjamin received a bachelor of arts degree in journalism from Rider College, Lawrenceville.

The Plainfield performances of "Blue Note" are co-sponsored by the Grant Avenue Community Center and Union County College.

Tickets may be purchased through the college's new Plainfield Center, by calling Dr. Shirley Cathe, 756-4100.

OUR LITTLE GIRL ON DRUGS?

How could it be possible? We've always tried our best to be good parents, but lately we've felt her slipping away from us. Her grades haven't been as good as they used to be. She seems sullen much of the time and she was always a happy child until this began. We've been talking it over and we just don't know what to do.

Sound familiar?
