Town will 'jet' sewers

By JOHN A. GAVIN
Members of the Township Committee Tuesday night unanimously approved accepting a bid of $122,046 to purchase a new sewer cleaning machine. The new cleaning machine, which serves both as a jet to propel clogged sewage and a vacuum to suck in the refuse, will be purchased from D. E. Thamerman and Company of Whitehouse.

"The new sewer cleaning machine is something that we really need," said Committee member William M. Welsch. "It's something that hopefully will save us millions of dollars in the future."

Leo J. Eckmann, township engineer, said that such a machine was badly needed because certain areas of the town have flooding problems. He said that the machine has a good track record of cleaning sewers after a storm and cited that a similar system is used in Union, Maplewood and Summit.

In another move, board members also approved accepting bids to purchase two new dump trucks. The trucks, which will each cost $34,242.46, will be purchased from Giant International Trucks Inc. of Linden.

Welsch said that those trucks are needed to resurface and restructure some of the streets in the town. He also said that both purchases have already been covered in this year's capital budget.

who brought in a petition with the signatures of 540 other rate taxpayers, asked committee members if the business community could share more of the tax burden. She also said that taxes have escalated so much in the last few years that many homeowners are finding it necessary to move out of town.

"A lot of us have bought homes in Springfield because of the very fair tax rate and it's very upsetting to hear some of the older people say that they don't know if they are going to be able to stay here when they retire," Ginsberg explained. "Also, I have been hearing many young people talk about the tax rate."

Committee member Jeffrey Katz said he sympathized with the plight of those petitioners, adding that, "We pay taxes too." Committee member Jo Ann Pieper suggested that Ginsberg make Xerox copies of those signatures to send to the other county departments that receive property tax appropriations, noting that, "We (Springfield township) only account for about 25 percent of your tax dollar. Pieper instructed KATZENBERG, Wisniewski—the assistant town clerk, to make extra copies to be sent to the Union County Board of Freeholders, the Springfield Board of Education and Union County No. 1 Regional Board of Education.

Also in the public comment portion of the meeting, committee members got a comprehensive account of the condition of Denham Park from Tom Farrell, Farrell, a resident of the adjacent Denham Road, said that the condition of the park is deplorable and asked the committee members if they had given up on the upkeep of the recreational area.

"There is garbage around the park," Farrell explained. "We go months at a time without a garbage can even existing in the park. There is damage and vandalism frequently done in the park."

"The bushes around the park have not been trimmed since April and the grass in the park is rarely cut," he continued. "At times, in the middle of summer, people playing ball in the park have stopped because they couldn't find the ball. The grass was literally up to their knees."

Committee members said that they would look in the situation of Denham Park and talk with pertinent town agencies responsible for its upkeep.

In other action, committee members made the following moves:

• Appointed John L. McCarthy and Sidney L. Greenwald as crossing guards as of Sept. 8 and appointed Nolita Alston and Brenda Nancy as crossing guards as of Sept. 22.

• Authorized Robert Johnson, assistant engineer, as a full delegate to the Union County Community Development Authority.

• Accepted the resignation of Helen E. Maguire as secretary to the Rent Leveing Board and appointed Kathleen D. Wisniewski to that position.

• Made the following appointments in the Recreation Department: Mona Cianci as soccer supervisor; James Basile and Anthony Priore as assistant football coaches; Nick Corby as kindergarten supervisor; Joyce Puhara as volleyball supervisor; and Kathy Drummond as men's basketball supervisor.

Presents petition

Ironically, shortly after both purchases were approved, committee members heard comments from Harriet Ginsberg, a local homeowner who had complaints about her property taxes. Ginsberg

Abuses concern counselor

By PAUL PEYTON
Students in the Union County Regional High School district who are either addicted or simply cannot seem to avoid drugs and/or alcohol can now talk their problems out with the district's newly appointed student assistant counselor.

Cliff Lauterhahn, who previously served as a guidance counselor at Jonathan Dayton, Springfield, and Governor Livingston, Berkeley Heights, has been given the task of trying to help students avoid peer pressure that encourages the use of alcohol and drugs. The new position was created last spring in an attempt by the board and administration to curtail the increase of substance abuse within the school system.

Part of Lauterhahn's job will be to meet with students who come in voluntarily, or who have been referred by parents, teachers or community agencies to seek help for a drug or alcohol problem.

The new counselor will also help students who have gone through a rehabilitation program "adjust to being back at school."

"I will help rehabilitated students cope with returning to school, home and the community where their problems began," he says.

In preparation for his new position, Lauterhahn, who has a master's degree in guidance counseling from Seton Hall University, attended Pennsylvania adolescent treatment center over the summer. He also attended an adolescent drug and alcohol abuse conference in New York City.

According to Lauterhahn, discussions with students, which will be done in individual conferences and group counseling sessions, will focus on whatever problems existed in the past that may have caused them to turn to substance abuse, the consequences of their decisions either to take drugs or reject them and becoming a better decision-maker which can help them live more productive lives.

Lauterhahn will meet with students at Clark L. Johnson High School in Newark on Mondays, David Brearley in Kenilworth on Tuesdays, Jonathan Dayton in Springfield on Wednesdays and Fridays and Governor Livingston, Berkeley Heights, on Thursdays.

Lauterhahn says he will also meet with teachers who have yet to use drugs or alcohol.

"I will encourage these students to stick with their decision," he says.

Although the regional district does not have a big problem related to the two substances, Lauterhahn says the school board and administration felt it was necessary to have a professional available to meet with students.

"I will tell students that they can live wholesome lives without the use of drugs and alcohol," says Lauterhahn.

There are several traits, says Lauterhahn, associated with students who might have a substance abuse problem. They include peer pressure, an escape mechanism and lack of self-esteem.

"Kids will use drugs or alcohol to feel better about themselves or to get a better image of themselves," he says.

The number of students receiving counseling to date, Lauterhahn says, is small. He says some students might want to wait until the new program "gets off the ground."

"I am here to help them," says Lauterhahn. "I am not here to make accusations or judgments. I'm here to counsel and assist them."

The counselor emphasizes that anything discussed in the sessions will remain confidential and will not be divulged to anyone. Thus, students should not be afraid that anything they say will be used against them.

In addition to helping teenagers who have drug or alcohol problems themselves, Lauterhahn will talk with students whose brothers, sisters or other family members have a drug or alcohol problem.

"I'm excited about the program. I think it will be a real challenge," says Lauterhahn. "I will probably have more of an effect on students' lives in this position."

Dayton parents going back to school

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will hold its annual "Back-to-school Night" Oct. 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the school, Mountain Avenue, Springfield. All parents of Jonathan Dayton students are invited to attend.

The program will begin with a general meeting of the PTA and an orientation period in Halsey Hall, the Dayton auditorium. Parents will have then have an opportunity to participate in a simulated class day, spending approximately nine minutes in the classrooms and with the teachers to whom their children are assigned for the 1987-88 school year.

THIS BOARDED-UP professional building at 165 Mountain Ave., Springfield, was the scene of a fire last Wednesday which totally demolished a beauty salon on the second floor but did little damage to the orthodontics clinic operated by Drs. Lee Kaswiner.

Fire guts township business

By JOHN A. GAVIN
For Patricia Ezekian, a dream had come to a sudden end. As she sat in her Union home answering phone calls of would be customers and concerned neighbors, all she could think of were the charred remains of the hair dryer and rinsing sinks in her We're Up Hair Beauty Salon in Springfield.

Last Wednesday, a fire gutted the second floor of the modern brick professional building on Mountain Avenue. According to Capt. Edward Cardinal of the Springfield Fire Department, the fire erupted into a furious blaze that sent flames 30 feet in the air.

"It's awful, there's nothing left," says Ezekian, pondering over the destruction of her one year establishment. "It was a very bad fire. It moved very quickly. Everything's destroyed."

For Ezekian, the destruction was a nightmare that started with her sniffing smoke as she started her daily activities and ended with the horror of looking at the flames engulf her shop as her futile attempts to find help failed.

"I had just gotten into the shop, gotten everything prepared," she recalls, recounting the initial moments of smelling the fumes. "I think I was alone. I panicked."

"I know there is usually a cop on the corner so I ran out to the street," she continues, "but by the time I got help, it was too late."

Cardinal says that a preliminary investigation of the site shows that the blaze may have been caused by a massive short circuit in an extension cord going to the refrigerator. He says that when the concentration of heat and gases caused the windows to burst from the frames, the flames engulfed the main portion of the salon.

Although three units of the Springfield Fire Department responded within minutes of the 9:40 a.m. call and most of the fire was extinguished within 10 minutes, the interior of the second floor was declared a total loss.

However, the dental office on the first floor was saved and operators of that establishment expect to be back in full operation within a few weeks.

"Hopefully, we can be back in business in a couple of weeks," says Dr. Lee Kaswiner, who operates the orthodontics clinic with his father, Bertram. "If we need some construction, perhaps we will have to work out of one room."

Presently, the Kaswiners are rescheduling dental appointments so that patients can continue with their regular dental care. Since they also operate dental facilities in Maplewood and Summit, they have extended the hours of those operations and are operating on Saturdays in Summit. In addition, phone calls to the Springfield office are being forwarded to the other offices to answer any questions patients may have.

"What we are doing is trying to make it so not one patient has to miss an appointment," says Kaswiner. "We are going to try to see everyone."

"We will be back very soon," Kaswiner continued. "Hopefully, people won't say that 'they are not here any more.'"

Kaswiner says that the quick response of the local fire department contributed to the limited amount of damage to his office. He also says that firemen took precautions to cover most of his equipment when fighting the blaze.

"They did a real good job," he adds. "They put out the fire and there was no real fire damage (to the dental office)."

In addition, Kaswiner says that some local dentists have offered their assistance and facilities while he puts his business back together.

Ezekian says that she has also received many calls from hairdressers and beauticians offering their help and facilities while she puts her operation back together. However, she says that she is still not at a stage where she can even think about where to go from here.

After working as a hair dresser for 10 years, her dream of having her own beauty shop became a reality last year. However, that reality was wiped out within a two-hour period on Wednesday.

As she waits by her phone, hopefully to get a call from a customer, that anticipation in itself is a small token of slowly putting her establishment back together.

"I had many customers but I haven't been able to see any of my customers," she says. "As soon as I figure out where they are, I will. All of my records were destroyed."

Recycling update

County praises 'cooperation'

Following an initial round of curbside pick-ups that netted 280.76 tons of recyclable waste from six participating municipalities, Union County Utilities Authority Executive Director Joseph E. Kazar has announced that additional trucks will be made available on an as-needed basis to the current fleet of 13 to help assure adequate pickup capability.

"The cooperation of Union County residents has been splendid," said Kazar. "The Authority wants to be sure that it is doing its part to guarantee the success of the recycling program and that's why we are providing for additional vehicles. I think the program is off to a great start."

"It appears that, for this first pick-up, we were dealing with far more material than anyone could have anticipated," said Kazar. "It now seems clear that people had been storing material for as much as a month or two. We see this settling down to more manageable levels once the first round of pick-ups has been completed."

Thirteen trucks collected the newspapers, aluminum beverage containers, and glass bottles and jars in residential neighborhoods of Summit, Springfield, Rahway, Cranford, Berkeley Heights and Westfield between Sept. 3 and Sept. 14.

"The recyclables collected through curbside pick-ups represent a significant amount of materials that otherwise would have gone to a landfill," said Kenneth L. MacRitchie, chairman of the Union County Utilities Authority (UCUA). "In just seven days the program has saved approximately $17,000 in tipping fees. Naturally, this savings will increase as dumping costs escalate and as more municipalities join the recycling program."

Stiff drug law penalties prove tough

The new DEDR, Drug Enforcement Demand Reduction, penalty law proved costly to two youths who were tried in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night. The law, which went into effect last July, has been implemented by the state of New Jersey as a "get tough" action on drug abusers. Consequently, when Tony Young, 22, South Amboy, and Paul Jerome Andrade, 19, Asbury Park, went to court, they were hit with a larger fine than normally expected for a marijuana violation. Young, who pleaded guilty to three drug charges, was fined more than $2,000, given a suspended 30-day jail term with one year's probation and lost his driving privileges. For each charge — possession of under 50 grams of marijuana, using marijuana and possession of paraphernalia — Young had to pay a $500 DEDR penalty and a $50 lab fee to the Union County Laboratory. In addition, he had to pay a $100 fine, $30 to the Violent Crimes Compensation Board and a $15 court cost for each violation. Young also lost his driving privileges even though he was not in his automobile at the time he was caught with the marijuana. For Andrade, a first offender, the penalty was almost as severe. Andrade, who also pleaded guilty to the possession of marijuana, using marijuana and possession of paraphernalia, had to pay a $500 DEDR penalty, $50 lab fee, $15 court cost and a $30 VCCB fine for each infraction. He was also placed on probation for one year. Karl S. Ford, 50, of Summit pleaded guilty to three charges of alcohol abuse while driving and was fined more than $700. In the first charge, Ford pleaded guilty to driving with an unexpired license. He was fined $100 and had to pay a $10 court cost for each infraction. For the second charge, he had to pay a $250 fine, $15 court cost and a $100 surcharge. In addition, his license was revoked for six months and he has to spend 12 hours in an Intoxicated Drivers Resource Center. Ford also pleaded guilty to refusing to take the Breathalyzer test and having an open container of alcohol in his vehicle. He was fined $250 and had to pay $15 in court costs for refusing to take the breath test and his license was revoked for an additional six months. For having the open container of alcohol, he was fined $200 and had to pay $15 in court costs. Principals with — Monticello Restaurant on Route 22, pleaded guilty to violating five sanitary codes. Those principals were cited for failure to maintain equipment in a sanitary condition, failure to store utensils in a clean location, failure to maintain the floor in a clean way and failure to maintain a housekeeper in the establishment. For each infraction, Monticello had to pay a $100 fine and $10 in court costs. The restaurant also had to pay a $200 fine and $10 in court costs for failure to post an inspection notification card in a conspicuous place. Jose L. Dimen, 48, Watchung, pleaded guilty to driving with a suspended license. He was fined $750 and had to pay $15 in court costs. He was also given a one-day jail sentence, which he served while in court, and his license was revoked for six months. Dimen also pleaded guilty to having no insurance card and driving an unexpired vehicle. He was fined $100 and had to pay a $10 court cost for each infraction. David Lamar Smith, 33, west Orange, pleaded guilty to driving with no insurance. He had to pay $100 and $15 in court costs. His license was suspended for six months. John P. Traviano, 23, Caldwell, pleaded guilty to driving an uninsured and unexpired vehicle. Traviano had to pay a $100 fine, $15 court costs and his license was revoked for six months for the infraction. Victor Vitale, 28, Cliffside Park, pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of alcohol. Vitale had to pay a $250 fine, a $100 drunk-driving surcharge and $15 in court costs. He also has to spend 12 hours in the IDRC and his license was revoked for six months. Carlos A. Ramos, 21, Elizabeth, pleaded guilty to reckless driving. He was fined $100 and had to pay $15 in court costs.

Police blotter

Springfield police arrested two motorists for driving while under the influence last week after they were found drunk behind the wheel. On Tuesday, police nabbed Clarence Wallace, 47, of Irvington, as he was driving along Morris Avenue and charged him with drunk driving. Wallace was apprehended by Officer George Geisler. On Saturday, Louis A. Meola Jr., 31, of Freehold, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol by Officer Paul Caron. According to a police report, Meola was stopped while driving on Route 22 for careless driving and was asked to take a Breathalyzer test. Meola refused to take the test. In another incident of drunkenness, police arrested Joseph Timothy Coleman, 35, on Saturday and charged him with disorderly conduct. According to the report, Coleman, who has no known address, was found highly intoxicated while wandering around a local parking lot. On last Tuesday, Calvin B. Shihalester, 41, Newark, was arrested for driving with a suspended license. According to reports, Shihalester was pulled over while driving on Route 22 by Sgt. Ivan Shapow and a subsequent computer check showed that his driver's license had been suspended. He was held on $515 bail. Agents cited Springfield agents James E. Haggard, Joanne Princeton and Stephen B. Stone were cited July 20 during the 1978 annual Meeting of Agents of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Milwaukee, for sales during the year ended May 31. They are associated with Northwestern's Robert E. Stone general agency, Springfield.

Vandalism is still a problem

Violence and vandalism in the schools of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 cost the Board of Education and the taxpayers $44,166.59 during the 1986-87 school year, down $1,833.24 from the damage figure of the previous school year. These facts were revealed during the discussion of the Regional District's annual report on Violence and Vandalism, which was made public at the Regional High School in Springfield. "While the cost of damages during 1986-87 is approximately $1,300 less than it was during the previous school year, the figure is still too high," said Dr. Donald Merschnik, superintendent of schools. "I would like to ask all parents of students in the district to instill in their youngsters the idea that the property and equipment of the Regional High Schools belongs to the taxpayers and that they, as students, should take the responsibility for helping to maintain this property and equipment. "When vandalism to Regional District property or equipment necessitates repairs or replacement, the cost must be absorbed by all the taxpayers of the District, he continued. "If vandalism is curbed, we can take funds now being spent on repairs and redirect them toward instructional programs which will benefit the students." Dr. Merschnik, who said the decrease in violence and vandalism-related damages was "encouraging," also stipulated that the Regional District will do everything possible to see that vandals are apprehended and that restitution is received from the offenders.

Getting better

Anyone who thinks the phrase "I'm not getting older, I'm getting better" is just a cute slogan for T-shirts and bumper stickers should head down to Kean College this weekend.

Hundreds of senior citizens from throughout the state are expected to converge on the college campus to compete in the second annual Senior Games. The Games were instituted last year by the state Department of Community Affairs to promote health and physical activity among New Jersey's older residents. They were so successful last year that organizers expect three times the number of participants this year.

But don't think the 55-plus crowd will be running around with eggs on spoons and tossing rings over bottles. What they will be doing is competing in 22 Olympic-style athletic events, including running, swimming, tennis, basketball and walking. Highlighting the two-day event will be a tennis match between Althea Gibson and Bobby Riggs and the appearance of Malcolm Forbes' hot air balloon.

It is appropriate that the Senior Games are taking place in Union County, where the senior citizen population is steadily increasing. But there's a lot more significance to the event. First, even a casual observer can see that if we prepare, both mentally and physically, for this time in our lives, we will be able to continue to have fun in our later years. The rocking chair will be there if we need it, but turning 55 or 60 doesn't mean that we must use it.

Secondly, events such as the Senior Games show the younger generation that age need not dictate what we can or cannot do. Participants in the games range from 55 to over 80 and plenty of these old-timers will run circles around those half their age. Just check out who's walking and running around town in the morning or using the fitness trails at the county parks. Turning 65 shouldn't be a signal that it's time to be put out to pasture. Seniors have been telling us that for a long time.

Finally — what a fine example this older generation is setting for its children and grandchildren, many of whom will be pleasantly surprised to see grandpa run a mile or grandma do the backstroke.

Their participation in events like the Senior Games — or Union County's Alive and Still Kicking Show this past spring — tells the younger generation that the quality of life does not diminish with age. These senior citizens are sending a message that says the golden years are a time to look forward to, a time to enjoy the well-earned pleasures of life.

Our hat's off to all participants and organizers of the Senior Games. We hope the event will continue to grow in the years to come.

The Games are a lesson to us all that we do get better with age and the best of life is yet to come.

Getting serious

Now that Springfield has joined the rest of the county in instituting mandatory recycling, we hope residents will take the entire garbage situation seriously — even if it is only because it's the law and they will face a penalty if they don't cooperate.

Recycling newspapers, cans and bottles won't bring huge profits into the township's coffers — indeed, most officials only hope to break even. What recycling will do is cut down on the volume of garbage being hauled to landfills — no matter where those landfills are located — and reduce the cost of hauling the trash. Had everyone taken the words "garbage crisis" seriously nearly two decades ago when the words began popping up in the media and at municipal meetings, the situation might not be so critical now. Perhaps if someone had mandated recycling then, landfills would not have reached their capacity "so soon."

Likewise, if everyone hadn't waited for someone else to "think of something" to solve the growing trash disposal problem, we would not be faced with such an expensive dilemma.

Now we have no choice but to get serious about taking out the garbage. We're running out of places to dump it. Recycling will ease the crisis, but it's a shame that such an "old idea" had to become law before people would take it seriously.

PDIS topic triggers questions

By RON GAETANO
I recently offered a column on Post Drug Impairment Syndrome (PDIS), which has generated quite a response from the readers of this column. Here are some of the most asked questions.

Q. How much drug use is required to produce the PDIS syndrome?

A. It varies. Clinically, it appears that those most susceptible to the disorder are those who have abused drugs before they were 15 years old. Marijuana is the drug most often used by these people in conjunction with at least one other illegal drug, such as cocaine, PCP, amphetamines, LSD, mushrooms, MDMA and ecstasy. The most important aspect to see here is that because the amount of drug use that causes the symptom is unknown, the disorder becomes that much more dangerous because it might only take a small amount to produce the disorder.

Q. How long after you stop taking drugs will it take before the PDIS symptoms go away?

A. Generally, it takes at least two years after the last drug use before the symptoms are gone. You must note, however, that there can be no drug use at all during that time or even after the symptoms are gone. Total abstinence is necessary to control the disease.

Q. Does vary from person to person, however, there are some people who have been documented as not being fully improved for up to five years after the stoppage of drug use.

Q. What if someone I know has used a lot of drugs? How can I really tell if he is suffering from PDIS and what should I do, especially if he doesn't want to go to the hospital?

A. I've included a list of common signs and symptoms for PDIS that you can look for in your friend. I would venture to say that if your friend shows at least half the signs and symptoms on the list that he is probably suffering from PDIS.

Also, it is very common for someone to refuse to participate in any treatment. One way to get around this is to try and make privileges contingent on participation in treatment.

COMMON SIGNS AND SYMPTOMS OF PDIS
I Can't hold a job, or remain in school very long.
I Doesn't maintain interpersonal relationships with friends or spouse.
I Can't handle stress.
I Can't maintain personal belongings including clothes and car.
I Exhibits poor hygiene.

Q. Poor attention span and ability to concentrate.
Q. Doesn't finish many tasks.
Q. Can't save or handle money. Spends much money for foolish, frivolous or impractical items that may never be used.
Q. Poor memory. Loses belongings.
Q. Has bland or dull personality, lacks a sense of humor.
Q. Frequent temper tantrums.
Q. Moves from one living quarters to another frequently and often without notice.
Q. Feels alienated from society.
Q. Blames others for problems.
Q. Doesn't respond to instructions or advice.
Q. Changes mood constantly.
Q. Poor conversationalist.
Q. Poor sense of time. Misses appointments and is repeatedly tardy.
Q. Entertains self for hours by constant television watching or wandering aimlessly.
Q. Seldom reads newspaper, magazine, or book.
Q. Develops seizure disorder (epilepsy).
Q. Develops unusual headaches or pains, tremor, neuropathies (tingling, or strange sensations in arms, legs, or face).
Q. Abuses alcohol and possibly continues some drug abuse.

SPECIAL NOTES FOR INTERPRETATION
Seldom will a PDIS patient have all of the above listed signs and symptoms. If a person has previously abused drugs and has at least half of the above symptoms, PDIS likely exists.

An internationally known expert in the fields of drug and alcohol abuse, Ron Gaetano has addressed over 150,000 parents, teachers, teenagers, college students and senior citizens on these and other related topics. Gaetano is the director of the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program at Union Hospital, Union.

Recycling news

Recycling cuts more than costs

In the 1980s we've come to embrace convenience. We drive as it and seek it out, in every form and shape from diapers to soft drinks, and the containers in which they're packaged. If something can't be fixed, filled, eaten or disposed of in a few minutes, it isn't worth the effort. And in these fast-paced times, why not? America's prosperity has paved the way for product disposability, but have we stopped to think about the consequences?

After you pitch your garbage you reached a staggering $4 billion annually. As cities across the country feel the weight of the crisis, they are turning to recycling, with positive results. The old adage that prevention is worth a pound of cure fits the trash bin in the case of our city landfills. It doesn't make sense to put so much effort, time and money into buying and burning our waste when often recycled materials can re-enter the manufacturing process and end up as new products. For glass manufacturers, recycling reduces air emissions, extends furnace life and reduces energy costs because recycled glass melts at lower temperatures than other materials. And unlike materials like plastic, glass is reused for its original purpose.

To consider recycling as a matter of aesthetics doesn't address other benefits. It not only reduces the tonnage of refuse at dump sites by as much as 25 percent, but will build stronger local economies, lower disposal costs and create a cleaner environment. Interestingly referred to as our gross national product, trash and its disposal also become an issue of economics.

Cities already engulfed in garbage are beginning to recycle as an exercise in waste management; for other cities, recycling can mean the difference between managing an existing crisis or preventing one. It's a natural solution to a man-made problem and the need for us, as consumers, to take responsibility is clear.

Much of the recent state legislation passed on litter reduction or recycling laws is the result of strong citizen lobbying efforts. Earlier this year, New Jersey Governor Thomas Kean signed legislation making recycling the law in New Jersey with a goal of recycling 25 percent of all municipal solid waste within two years.

A Solid Waste Management Act was recently passed in Connecticut, mandating a strategy to recycle not less than 25 percent of all municipal waste generated in the state after Jan. 1, 1991. The comprehensive state-wide recycling program prohibits all littering and violators are subject to penalties.

In addition, a mandatory recycling bill passed in Philadelphia that could require all city residents and business to begin separating their trash into four categories was the first such legislation adopted by a major American city. The bill sets goals of recycling 25 percent of the city's trash by 1989 and 50 percent by 1991. Residents who do not participate face a cutoff in their city trash collection service.

Generally speaking

Some people care about environment

By W. CARY EDWARDS
State Attorney General
Although the first Earth Day was celebrated in 1970, we may someday look back on 1987 in some ways as the year of the environment.

To be sure, some new problems arose, but some old ones appear on the road to being solved. Look at what's happened so far this year. The state has found a way to dispose of radon contaminated soil. The garbage crisis has finally been recognized and a law mandating recycling was signed. Counties are grappling with the politically sticky problem of siting landfills, garbage incinerators or resource recovery plants. A state commission is still trying to find a site for a toxic waste incinerator. A state grand jury has indicted New York carters for bribing municipal officials to allow New York construction waste to be dumped in New Jersey. Dolphins have been dying mysteriously along the shore from New Jersey to Virginia. The Jersey shore has been tested more frequently for bacteria and found to be the cleanest in a decade, but it has also been befouled by garbage, medical waste and other trash, prompting Governor Kean to initiate a citizens' "coastal watch" program. And a criminal investigation is under way to determine the source of this trash dumping.

New Jerseyans may feel at times that their environment is being trashed and nobody is doing anything about it — that nobody cares. But in a real sense we have come a long way since I participated in Earth Day 1970 as a third-year law student. Fortunately, many, if not most, people really do care — and some have been doing something about it for years.

One of the units under the jurisdiction of the Attorney General is the Environmental Prosecutions Section in the state Division of Criminal Justice, which has been investigating and prosecuting toxic dumpers and polluters for years.

The unit has very recently been expanded and is now composed of 11 attorneys and 19 investigators, making it the largest such unit in the country. Most of the investigators are former police officers and one has a Ph.D. in environmental sciences.

This year alone the unit's prosecutions have resulted in fines of $1,313,750 being imposed. Fifty defendants have been charged with environmental crimes and 25 have so far been convicted. Other cases are under investigation.

The unit has developed procedures so that investigators with police training and those with environmental backgrounds can work together safely in an environment inherently dangerous to their health, clearly a new expertise that is needed in the environmental movement of the '80s. They have also perfected sophisticated investigative techniques by which they can trace chemical wastes to their source.

In addition to the Environmental Prosecutions Section, the Division of Criminal Justice is home to the Northeast Hazardous Waste Project, a federally funded confederation of 13 states that work together to share information regarding investigative techniques as well as intelligence information concerning toxic dumpers. Such information has led directly to indictments in New Jersey as well as other member states.

Obviously, much remains to be done in terms of cleaning up our environment and in terms of prosecuting those who pollute it. Proofs are sometimes difficult and state laws obviously cannot reach those whose criminal acts affect New Jersey but are committed in other states. But the public can have confidence in knowing that the Environmental Prosecutions Section is working vigorously with other agencies to crack down on illegal dumpers and their ilk.

REACH program is approved

By MARK YABLONSKY
A resolution approving a pilot program that is designed to break, and eventually eliminate, welfare dependency was passed by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders last week, despite some concerns that the program does not have enough funding behind it to make it successful.

Known as REACH — Realizing Economic Achievement — the plan calls for parents of single-family households to receive a system of job training and educational services, in order to eventually be ready for steady employment. During this training period, state funding is expected to provide day-care facilities for the children of these parents, who, once they are employed, will be able to assume the responsibilities of paying for day-care facilities on a "step-by-step" basis, thus enabling them to eventually leave the welfare ranks.

The state-initiated program will provide $2.4 million in funding to the county over the next year. The project, which is one of three counties selected to participate in the pilot programs in New Jersey, and is the "first of its kind" nationwide, according to Freeholder James Fulcomer of Rahway.

The freeholders have already issued approval for the county to accept the state funding.

Despite the program's approval, however, many of its supporters acknowledged that questions in funding remain. At heart is the issue of whether or not the $2.4 million in state aid will address current costs for day care, a concern that was acknowledged by a special 19-member Steering Committee appointed by the county to help research the project. With costs for pre-schoolers at local day-care centers averaging some $70 a week, the committee reported, the REACH reimbursement proposal of $50 each week is "inadequate," a point with which Freeholder Brian Fahey agreed.

Fahey, who cast the lone dissenting vote in a 7-1 tally, argued that all 8,001 of the county's available day-care slots are filled, and that since the plan calls for children of affected parents to receive day care, it won't work. The Westfield resident also claimed the state should have been "stimulating private enterprise" to create more day-care slots, are available.

Furthermore, Fahey added, since the business community "has not yet given any signal that this will work," there is no guarantee that in a "competitive" county such as Union, jobs will be available for parents who successfully complete the program.

"I agree with the concept that we definitely have to do something to break the welfare dependency," explained Fahey, who said the political timetable" of Oct. 1, and take a "further look" at existing funding in the REACH plan instead. "My concern is there are thousands of people whose lives are going to be changed dramatically in terms of what they do. And it is my instinct that the system in place cannot work without a day-care program. I think that Union County's poor are being placed in serious jeopardy by being cast on a pilotship ship."

"At this point in good faith, I do not believe I can support this proposal," Fahey continued. "This plan calls for fine tuning and full funding by the state."

"The reality is when you put something like this together, no one is totally satisfied," said Fulcomer, who added an amendment to the REACH resolution that supports the project "provided" that questions and concerns raised by the Steering Committee are satisfactorily addressed. "But, nonetheless, the objective and the goal is commendable. Hopefully, we will succeed."

In addressing the funding concerns, Fulcomer later admitted that if the state failed to "recognize the wisdom of our criticism," the program would not "go very far." Hopefully, the governor will "act accordingly," he added, and provide the "direction we need."

"Of course, there are problems so far," Fulcomer said. "So far, the state of New Jersey is not willing to pay the going rate for day care and, in fact, is providing less than the going rate of day-care centers. And that is a serious problem that must be remedied immediately." According to K. David Holmes Jr., the county's acting REACH coordinator who is currently employed by the state's Department of Human Services, there are approximately 6,000 AFDC — Aid To Families With Dependent Children — cases in Union County each year. Holmes, who was praised by several involved with the program, said that he would remain with the county until Oct. 5, and would "ensure that there is a smooth transition," in regard to a successor.

"The program will go as slowly or as quickly as we have resources," Holmes said. "We are trying at least to do something to break that welfare dependency."

"Fundamentally, it's the only game in town," stated Plainfield Mayor Richard Taylor, who is a strong supporter of the REACH program. "From my professional point of view, welfare is the most debilitating thing a person can suffer from. We must break the cycle of despair and hopelessness."

□ The Freeholders also unanimously approved an appropriation of $26,000 to be divided among the 10 hospice groups countywide, through which terminally ill patients who wish to spend their remaining days at home, instead of being hospitalized.

To explore black alcoholism

The abuse of alcohol and other drugs is thought to be closely related to many causes of excess early mortality among black Americans. The statistics are staggering. In any major city it is estimated that 10 to 12 percent of the population are alcoholics, but among the black population the figures go up to 14-16 percent.

Alcohol-related highway deaths are the number one killer of 15-24 year olds. There is 12 times more cirrhosis of the liver (an alcohol-related disease) among urban black males under 35 than for any comparable group.

Road to Recovery patients need a lift

An estimated 35,000 New Jersey residents will learn that they have cancer this year. Because of advances in medical research, there will be cures for many. Getting to the cures, however, may be a problem.

One cancer patient requiring radiation therapy could need anywhere from 20 to 30 trips in six weeks, says Ben Greenwood, coordinator of the American Cancer Society's Road to Recovery Program for the Union County Unit.

Relief to Recovery is a program of volunteers who drive patients to treatment centers and home again. Legislation that would provide Union County with a $14 million loan to finance a portion of its resource recovery facility project has been introduced in the Assembly, according to Assemblyman Peter J. Genova, R-21. Genova is sponsoring the legislation with Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick, also R-21. The measure, Assembly Bill 4912, was introduced in the Assembly on Sept. 10. A companion bill, S-3487, sponsored by Senators C. Louis Bassano, R-21, and Donald D. Francoese, R-22, has been introduced in the Senate.

BUSINESS OF THE WEEK

LOADING UP-Driver Tom Magliaro Jr. gets ready for the winter heating oil season, loading up his delivery truck with fuel oil at Woolley Fuel Co., 12 Burnett Ave., Maplewood.

Providing for a warm winter

It may not seem possible, but the cold of winter is not far off. Already the leaves are turning color and birds are in formation to head for warmer climates.

Over at Woolley Fuel Oil, 12 Burnett Ave., Maplewood, Norman Woolley and his crew of 16 workers have the jump on the impending lower temperatures.

The firm's on-site storage tanks are full to their 500,000-gallon capacity, ready to serve the company's customers within a 12-mile radius in both Union and Essex counties.

Woolley was quick to note that that amount of oil lasts an average of about two weeks during the colder months of January. However, he said, supplies are plentiful and are not likely to be affected by the current Iran-Iraq war in the Middle East.

Priest, Woolley said, are stable, but a number of budget plans are available as are senior citizen discounts.

In the meantime, the company's work crews have been working to update and replace equipment at the homes of residential customers with the latest in technologically advanced oil boilers, burners and components.

Woolley crews are also equipped for testing, analyzing, cleaning and rebuilding oil-burning equipment.

"We usually get all our equipment in shape and service our residential customers," said Woolley, "and we are installing a lot of new equipment."

Since last winter, Woolley Fuel Oil has bought out Jaeger and Germaine Fuel Oil and is now servicing all of that company's customers in an expanded service area.

For the Woolley family, though, quality service is a long-standing tradition as the company is entering its 63rd year in business in the Union-Exssex County area. The company has been located on Burnett Avenue for three generations.

That tradition is reflected not only in the firm's service, but in its showroom as well, where a customer can see dozens of coal and wood-burning stoves from the past.

The collection of stoves dates back several decades, when Woolley's father, Norman Sr., noticed a restored parlor stove in a store window on Springfield Avenue in Irvington.

Seeing the stove brought back memories for the senior Woolley of his younger days when he was rewarded at home for keeping the coal scuttle full and the ashpit of the parlor stove clear of ashes.

The ashes had to be dampened before removal to prevent the ash dust from clouding the room. If that happened, the boy would be denied his rewards.

One day the boy's father told him of Red Ash, a type of coal from the anthracite mining regions of Pennsylvania, and decided to try a ton of that material.

The ash, which cost 50 cents more per ton, held together without getting into the air.

The memory of the coal-cleaning adventures of his younger days prompted Woolley to buy a similar parlor stove dating back to 1880, which he restored and placed in the showroom.

The historical artifact proved to be such a favorite of customers coming into the store that collecting them became somewhat of a hobby for Woolley.

Today, there are as many as 50 of the old stoves and burners on view in the showroom.

Customers can view the antiques and line up efficient services at 12 Burnett Ave. Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Plan seminar for drug-free teens

Drug-free teens from the New Jersey area will join together on Sept. 26 and 27 for a R.E.A.C.H. America - training-seminar sponsored by the Holy Family Youth Ministry, the Elks, Jaycees, and Fair Oaks Hospital.

The R.E.A.C.H. America - Responsible Educated Adolescents Can Help America Stop Drugs! - program is designed to train teens, ages 14-18 who are currently drug-free, about the health hazards and effects of drug and alcohol use.

Among the speakers who will address the participants are: Dr. Calvin Chaitos, director of adolescent services at Fair Oaks Hospital; Archbishop Theodore McCarrick, Joseph Pariso, director of alcohol and drug education for the Essex County Sheriff's Office; and Senator Carmen Orozco and Assemblyman John Kelly.

Topics ranging from Alcohol, Crack and Drugs in Our Community, to Helping Yourself, Helping a Friend, Starting a Student Group, How to Present a Program to Elementary School Students, etc., will be addressed. Other highlights of the seminar include a dance and a balloon launch.

To insure the continued success and support of the teens who are attending, it is recommended that an adult adviser be present from a youth group, Scout troop, club or school when teens from their respective groups are attending. However, teens need not be part of any group in order to attend. Adult workshops will be held for advisers who are in attendance.

Lori LeCarl, chairwoman for this September's program, says: "It is vital that teens learn the effects that drugs and alcohol have on their physical growth, their emotional and social maturation and the learning process. Drug use is threatening the lives, health and happiness of users and non-users alike. When educated, today's adolescents can and have made significant contributions toward a drug-free society."

Parents, educators, law enforcement, legislation and media," LeCarl says, "must work together to support and encourage teens to be free of drugs and alcohol, and eliminate the mixed messages that bombard our youth. Adults can best achieve this by educating themselves about drugs and signs of drug use and most importantly by setting an example. The R.E.A.C.H. training program helps teach our young people, so they in turn can teach their peers and family members."

John Hewett, the project director for the National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth, will conduct the two days of training.

The NFP is a non-profit organization committed to raising a generation of drug-free youth. First Lady Nancy Reagan is the National Honorary Chairman.

Further information can be obtained by calling LeCarl at 925-6600, Ext. 227 days, or 686-6605 evenings.

Counseling service plans flea market

Resolve Inc. will hold its annual flea market at the Fanwood railroad station on Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The organization has developed programs in which high school students give presentations on drug abuse at elementary and junior high schools. It also works with the Family Agency Consortium, a cooperative effort between the Family Court and family service agencies in Union County.

Flea market patrons will find a variety of goods displayed as 100 spaces have been made available for craftspeople as well as other vendors. Food and drinks will also be available. Interested vendors may call 322-5180 anytime. The raindate is Sept. 27.

Early American concert set

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders announces that a special free concert of early American music will be presented by the concert Ara Musica Antiqua on Sept. 27, 3:30 p.m.

Concert-goers should bring chairs or blankets to enjoy this performance on the museum lawn at Tralalide Nature and Science Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountaintide.

Selections will include arias by William Billings, famous composer of the Colonial era. Under the direction of Walter Carter, this group has given over 120 performances during the last 12 years.

The unique flavor of pre-19th century music is carefully preserved by the concert. Instrumentalists use only authentic reproductions of recorders, viols, lutes, harpsichords, dulcimers, cornemuses, and bell blocks. Noted vocalists Susan Morehead, Debbie Shroter, and Margaret Sprague add their own special touch to the music. In addition, all performers are dressed in period costumes.

The concert takes place during Tralalide's Annual Harvest Festival. This celebration of early American life is scheduled for Sept. 27, 1:5 p.m., rain or shine. Admission is free.

The festival includes a Revolutionary War encampment by the "Jersey Blues," as well as demonstrations of Colonial crafts and Native American dances. Crafts workshops, games, and toys are offered for children of all ages. There is a small charge for some materials. Also available for purchase are a variety of foods, beverages, produce, herbs and flowers.

More information about the Harvest Festival is available by calling Tralalide Nature and Science Center, 222-5900.

Chansonettes cite 40th year

The Chansonettes of Westfield are observing their 40th anniversary. Directed and accompanied by Jean Schork, the group rehearses on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at the Presbyterian Church of Westfield. The group began in 1948 when Louise H. Vogt advertised in a newspaper for women who liked informal group singing and were interested in forming a singing group. The Chansonettes began with 15 members, then grew to 60 members, and in the early days, Vogt's chorus would entertain soldiers at the Camp Kilmer Service Club during the annual "Spring Sing." Performances also were given at civic affairs.

Maylands enjoying a life of fun and games

By MARK YABLONSKY

If the cliché, "you're only as old as you feel," has any bearing at all, it would certainly apply to Harold and Ethel Mayland of Union, a twosome that loves athletics, to say the least. So much so, in fact, that the two senior citizens could well be starting in a remake of "The Best Years Of Our Lives."

Unlike the Samuel Goldwyn classic depicting post-World War II America, and while Harold and Ethel Mayland are not a group of servicemen, however, the Maylands have no such worries. For despite their age, life for them appears to be full fun and games — literally.

As recently as six years ago, neither Harold, 75, or Ethel, 88, had been very active at all. But now, after countless appearances at various Senior Citizen Olympic events nationwide, the Maylands are preparing to participate in the Senior Games of New Jersey this weekend at nearby Keon College, located on the Union-Elizabeth border.

Surviving are a son, Anthony; a daughter, Dorothy Monaco; a sister, Mary Robbins, and three grandchildren.

Anthony Tennaro, 74, of Oile City, Pa., formerly of Roselle Park, died Sept. 17 in the Franklin Regional Hospital, Sugar Creek, Pa.

Before his retirement in 1973, he had been a welder and pipefitter for the Randall Manufacturing Co. in Hillside for 10 years and, before that, for the Trautwein Co. in Woodbridge for 15 years. Mr. Tennaro was a member of the Atlas Pythagoras Lodge 118 in Westfield, the Valley of Trenton Consistory in Trenton; the Senior Citizens Club of St. Stephen's Church in Oile City, Pa., and the Police Auxiliary of Roselle Park. He also had served as a Scout leader, both in Roselle Park.

Surviving are a son, Anthony; two brothers, Vito, Clement and Michael Tennaro; and Patsy Paul; four sisters, Mary Tennaro, Jean Tennaro, Lena Reilmeyer, and Louise Polcovich; and two grandchildren.

consulted with doctors about some of the dos and the don'ts in senior citizen activities — say "know thyself."

"You feel you have to be prepared," explained Ethel, who is originally from Dover, Delaware. "You just can't do nothing and be prepared. As far as your health is concerned, you have to have an idea as to what you can do. It's a fun thing, and you do what you feel you can do, up to you or lose."

The parents of two children, the Maylands say that for each olympiad they enter, they must sign a waiver that releases anyone from any kind of liability just in case health or physical difficulties should arise. In each instance, they said, it is suggested that a doctor be consulted with earlier, but as Ethel says, "it's up to you" to do so.

But while they are relatively good health, don't these trips to different areas of the country become expensive after a while?

"Yes, but we feel we've saved our money wisely; if we want to enjoy it now," replied Harold, who spent 25 years at the Bendix Corporation in Teterboro as a supervisor of spare parts for airplanes, before later becoming a supervisor of the Berti-tumpert Agency in Union.

"We're free to do these things," Ethel added.

Later in the year, the couple will travel to Sanford, Florida for another senior olympiad. And all this, after the events at Keon this weekend, when Harold will participate in the 100-yard dash, foot shooting and softball throw events, while Ethel will stick with the 100-yard dash.

"Get involved!" is the one message the Maylands have to offer to anyone who belongs to their age category.

"There's something a senior's got to be able to do," concluded Harold, explaining that "something" can mean chess or dominoes, as opposed to track-and-field activities.

HAPPY TOGETHER — Harold and Ethel Mayland of Union have turned their retirement years into a never-ending cross-country tour of senior olympic events. Included among this year's schedule have been trips to Springfield, Missouri and Lynchburg, Virginia, as well as this weekend's upcoming Senior Games of New Jersey at Keon College.

By MARK YABLONSKY

Normally, whenever Keon College has to face Montclair State College, bad things happen. Keon, in fact, has never beaten its rival to the north, and on several occasions, has suffered humiliating losses at the hands of one of the nation's strongest Division I collegiate football powers.

No, the two sister state colleges and New Jersey State Athletic Conference foes have never been kissing cousins, and probably won't be anytime soon. But when the two square off this Sunday night at Sprague Field in Upper Montclair, Keon will have a few additional factors in its favor that, until now, have never been present.

These factors are head coach Glenn Hedden, offensive coordinator Drew Gibbs and outside linebacker coach Brian Carlson, all of whom have served as Montclair State assistant coaches under the well-respected and well-known Rick Giancola. For if there is one team these three first-year Cougar coaches know, it is the Indians — the same Indians who captured the NSAC title again last fall with a 19-2 mark, and the same Indians who reached the semifinal round of last year's Div. 3 national playoffs.

Along with virtually a brand new coaching staff and a number of talented players, is there any chance that Keon will finally be able to knock off the team that once demolished them in two straight Pride Bowl blowouts?

"I would hope so," answered Hedden, who officially replaced former Keon coach Jim Hazlet last December. "I coached there 11 years and I know basically how they prepare for a game, and I think we'll be able to do some things."

Offensively, the 20 Cougars — who opened their 1987 season with victories over Brooklyn and Ramapo State Colleges — are led by junior quarterback Dave Johnson of Point Pleasant, who received about the same amount of playing time a year ago that the since-departed Anthony Piscitelli did.

Johnson, who completed seven of 12 passes for 192 yards against Brooklyn nearly two weeks ago, has one of the NSAC's best tight ends to throw-to, in Kevin McGuintz-Karner, whose numbers speak for themselves. The 6-foot-2-inch, 215-pound junior, who hauled in 27 passes a year ago, was named NJSSAC Player of the Week after catching two touchdowns passes against Ramapo last weekend.

Freshman Rodney Scott is also beginning to make a name for himself as both a wide receiver and kick returner.

But Montclair, as always, never fails to suit up impressive talent on its side of the field. Although last year's star signal-caller, Walter Briggs, has left via graduation, Giancola has turned to freshman Ed Baffiga, who was the quarterback for Union High a year ago, when the Farmers won their third consecutive New Jersey Group 4, Section 2 Point Pleasant, when space is limited.

On the trails, you jog or briskly walk from station to station to keep your heart rate elevated. This helps you train your heart and lungs. At each station you work different muscle groups.

In addition to the Fitness Course, there are Wheelchair course and Walking Courses designed with the needs of specific populations in mind.

To get the most from a fitness trail, it is important to follow the basic principles of a workout, such as including a warmup and cool-down period, and stretching before and after completing the circuit (in addition to any flexibility stations within the circuit). Properly designed trails should include instructions on how to begin, how to take your pulse so that you are training at the right intensity, and how to end your workout.

In addition, the following conditions will guide you through a fitness trail:

- 1) Check with your doctor before starting an exercise program if you have been inactive for many years or have a heart or other health condition that might require medical clearance.
- 2) Don't stop and rest between stations. If you feel fatigue or feel like you are overdoing it, reduce the intensity of your exercise, slow down or do lower repetitions at each station. The workout should not be so difficult that you have to rest between stations. Of course, a short breather is O.K.
- 3) Build up gradually. The stations are designed to build up muscular strength and endurance. You should follow the directions at each station, and start out slowly, especially if you haven't exercised in a while.
- 4) Wear running shoes. Even though you will stop to do each exercise, you'll need good support to get you from station-to-station. Shoes designed for fitness walking are a good choice, too.
- 5) Know your limitations. Since fitness trails are designed for use by all ages, some stations may be too difficult for beginners or older adults. Avoid "shred-it" maneuvers — on unfamiliar equipment.
- 6) Ask questions. Each station has specific instructions but if you're not sure what you are supposed to do, find someone to take you through the circuit a few times.

You'll feel much better about your workout if you are confident about how to do the exercises and you do them well.

Fitness Trails and motivation

By GEORGE ALLEN

You've seen them in parks, by the side of the road, and on the grounds of office complexes and hotels, and you're not quite sure what they are. They look like fun, but they also look intimidating — a maze of apparatus and instruction.

Fitness trails are an increasingly popular way to exercise that combines cardiovascular exercise with a muscular conditioning workout. Fitness trails can enhance your personal fitness program or provide you with a new type of exercise regimen.

The idea of exercising in a circuit originated in Zurich, Switzerland in the 1960s. The addition of beautiful scenery and fresh air made exercise more appealing and the popularity of fitness trails grew throughout Europe and into this country. In the last several years, the number of fitness trails produced in the U.S. by one company has more than tripled.

Circuits consist of a series of 10-20 exercise stations separated by a few hundred yards or less. The stations can be spread over a few miles or set up in Fitness Courts, when space is limited.

On the trails, you jog or briskly walk from station to station to keep your heart rate elevated. This helps you train your heart and lungs. At each station you work different muscle groups.

Keon prepares for Montclair

By MARK YABLONSKY

Normally, whenever Keon College has to face Montclair State College, bad things happen. Keon, in fact, has never beaten its rival to the north, and on several occasions, has suffered humiliating losses at the hands of one of the nation's strongest Division I collegiate football powers.

No, the two sister state colleges and New Jersey State Athletic Conference foes have never been kissing cousins, and probably won't be anytime soon. But when the two square off this Sunday night at Sprague Field in Upper Montclair, Keon will have a few additional factors in its favor that, until now, have never been present.

These factors are head coach Glenn Hedden, offensive coordinator Drew Gibbs and outside linebacker coach Brian Carlson, all of whom have served as Montclair State assistant coaches under the well-respected and well-known Rick Giancola. For if there is one team these three first-year Cougar coaches know, it is the Indians — the same Indians who captured the NSAC title again last fall with a 19-2 mark, and the same Indians who reached the semifinal round of last year's Div. 3 national playoffs.

Along with virtually a brand new coaching staff and a number of talented players, is there any chance that Keon will finally be able to knock off the team that once demolished them in two straight Pride Bowl blowouts?

"I would hope so," answered Hedden, who officially replaced former Keon coach Jim Hazlet last December. "I coached there 11 years and I know basically how they prepare for a game, and I think we'll be able to do some things."

Offensively, the 20 Cougars — who opened their 1987 season with victories over Brooklyn and Ramapo State Colleges — are led by junior quarterback Dave Johnson of Point Pleasant, who received about the same amount of playing time a year ago that the since-departed Anthony Piscitelli did.

Johnson, who completed seven of 12 passes for 192 yards against Brooklyn nearly two weeks ago, has one of the NSAC's best tight ends to throw-to, in Kevin McGuintz-Karner, whose numbers speak for themselves. The 6-foot-2-inch, 215-pound junior, who hauled in 27 passes a year ago, was named NJSSAC Player of the Week after catching two touchdowns passes against Ramapo last weekend.

Freshman Rodney Scott is also beginning to make a name for himself as both a wide receiver and kick returner.

But Montclair, as always, never fails to suit up impressive talent on its side of the field. Although last year's star signal-caller, Walter Briggs, has left via graduation, Giancola has turned to freshman Ed Baffiga, who was the quarterback for Union High a year ago, when the Farmers won their third consecutive New Jersey Group 4, Section 2 Point Pleasant, when space is limited.

On the trails, you jog or briskly walk from station to station to keep your heart rate elevated. This helps you train your heart and lungs. At each station you work different muscle groups.

In addition to the Fitness Course, there are Wheelchair course and Walking Courses designed with the needs of specific populations in mind.

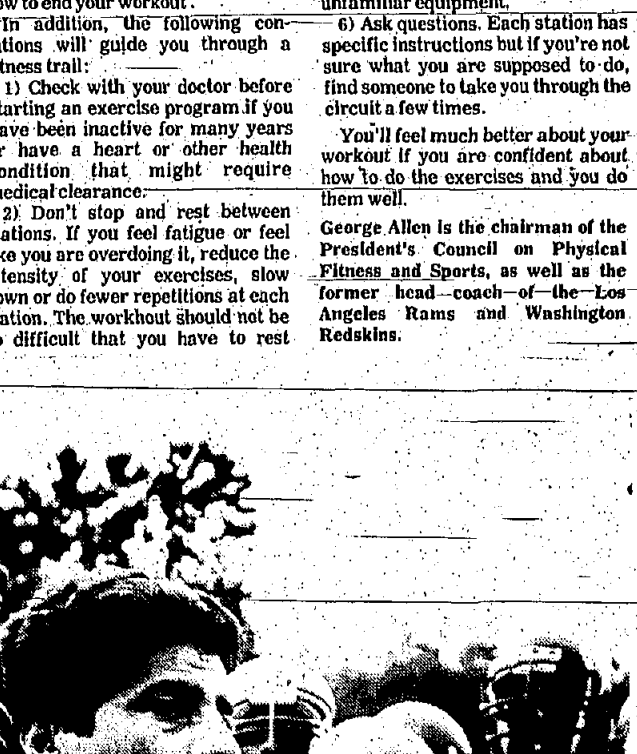

To get the most from a fitness trail, it is important to follow the basic principles of a workout, such as including a warmup and cool-down period, and stretching before and after completing the circuit (in addition to any flexibility stations within the circuit). Properly designed trails should include instructions on how to begin, how to take your pulse so that you are training at the right intensity, and how to end your workout.

In addition, the following conditions will guide you through a fitness trail:

- 1) Check with your doctor before starting an exercise program if you have been inactive for many years or have a heart or other health condition that might require medical clearance.
- 2) Don't stop and rest between stations. If you feel fatigue or feel like you are overdoing it, reduce the intensity of your exercise, slow down or do lower repetitions at each station. The workout should not be so difficult that you have to rest between stations. Of course, a short breather is O.K.
- 3) Build up gradually. The stations are designed to build up muscular strength and endurance. You should follow the directions at each station, and start out slowly, especially if you haven't exercised in a while.
- 4) Wear running shoes. Even though you will stop to do each exercise, you'll need good support to get you from station-to-station. Shoes designed for fitness walking are a good choice, too.
- 5) Know your limitations. Since fitness trails are designed for use by all ages, some stations may be too difficult for beginners or older adults. Avoid "shred-it" maneuvers — on unfamiliar equipment.
- 6) Ask questions. Each station has specific instructions but if you're not sure what you are supposed to do, find someone to take you through the circuit a few times.

You'll feel much better about your workout if you are confident about how to do the exercises and you do them well.

George Allen is the chairman of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, as well as the former head coach of the Los Angeles Rams and Washington Redskins.

Good shoes help in foot care

The running-shoe industry is making a significant impact on the foot health of the general public, runners and non-runners alike, according to Dr. Ronald Britner, president of the New Jersey Podiatric Medical Society.

"In the past few years, developments in the design of running shoes — such as the trend to straighter lasts, more durable outsoles, contoured insoles, and more flexibility at the ball of the shoe — have made them comfortable, supportive shoes easily worn for a variety of activities," says Britner.

"The softness and flexibility of the shoes, plus the fact that the counter is more rigid to keep the heel from sliding and rubbing, are positive changes that make the shoe more firm and stronger than ever."

Running shoes should have a thick sole and a thicker heel. The way the shoes wear down can help in diagnosis of foot problems, cautions Britner.

Bears set for G.L. in opener

By MARK YABLONSKY
As difficult to believe as it may seem, the Bears are looking for revenge. That's right. The same Brearley Regional football squad that in all set to defend two straight North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2 titles, will be out to revenge a rematch that never was, and will be determined to "make sure this rematch is fully successful."

The opponent for the 1 p.m. season opener this Saturday at Ward Field is Governor Livingston Regional High of Berkeley Heights, one of three sister schools to Brearley in the Union County regional system. Two years ago, when Brearley rolled to a 10-1 record and the first of its two titles, its lone defeat came at the hands of G.L., a team that went 5-2-1 in that 1985 season.

And although the Bears actually did receive credit for a win against the Highlanders last fall, the victory, while still important in the standings, meant little in terms of satisfaction because the win took place on paper only. The 2-0 forfeit score was the result of G.L. having cancelled its varsity schedule in 1986, due to a lack of older, more experienced players.

This time around, though, the G.L. varsity program is back—and that means the Bears, who still have a few players remaining from that '85 squad, are looking for revenge from that 21-0 thrashing in the second week of the '85 season, although this game means more to Brearley than just revenge.

"That's right," said Brearley skipper Bob Taylor, who is beginning his 14th season as "Papa Bear," so to speak. "This is a very important game for us. We've labored so long, it puts an emphasis on opening day. Plus, we're just excited about the season and anxious to show what we can do."

Among those back in full force will be last year's entire starting backfield unit, consisting of quarterback Gary Fancher, and running backs Mike Chalenski and Joe Capizzano. In Big Chee and Capizzano, in fact, the Bears have the same pair of starters that were in the '85 backfield as well.

And while G.L. seems only to have reached the point where its varsity is ready once again for Group 1 foes such as Brearley and Roselle Park, the Highlanders have a few players who cannot be taken lightly. First and foremost on the list is senior nose guard Ray Ortega, a 5-foot-6-1/2, 150-pound "quick and tough" player, who is usually ready for a battle, be it wrestling or football.

"Ortega's a heck of a player," agreed Taylor. "I don't care what uniform that guy puts on, he's a tiger to deal with."

Whether or not there is revenge in mind for Brearley, however, Highlander coach Joe Hubert, who is beginning his second year in charge of the G.L. gridiron program, says it no longer has any bearing for his club.

"I just think it's irrelevant," said Hubert about the '85 game. "I just don't see how that's much of a consequence. It's a completely different program, but we're the same school. We're just glad to play football. I'm not going to make this out to be a war time. It's just a matter of coming down to play football."

'Dawgs await UNICO opener

By MARK YABLONSKY
And now it's time. After a month of preparation, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team will begin its 1987 season with a trip to Clark Saturday at 1 p.m. and another UNICO Bowl battle with Arthur L. Johnson Regional, one of three sister schools to Dayton within the Union County regional system.

For the past three years, the Bulldogs have been able to win the UNICO contest, including last year's 7-4 squeaker at Meisel Field, where, behind the strength of a 49-yard touchdown run by fullback Robert Fusco, Dayton fought off a pass-happy Johnson attack for the victory. As a result, the Bulldogs were able to retire the first UNICO trophy, which is proudly on display at the Springfield-based school.

Fusco, who was Dayton's leading rusher, was lost to graduation. But as Dayton fans will soon discover, Johnson's version of former Oakland Raider Darryl Lamonia—who was known as the "Mad Bomber"—is still around. That's the senior standout Jim Bodner, who completed 27 of 41 pass attempts on that soggy, overcast day a year ago, for 192 yards.

And Bodner, who last year became the first Johnson quarterback to ever surpass the 1,000-yard mark in passing, will be joined by returning split end Eric Paprocki, and wideouts Chris Lindquist and Gerard Bryson, all of whom are prime receivers for the 6-foot-4-inch, 195-pound Bodner, who is also an outside linebacker. Thrown in lineups such as senior two-way tackle Todd Burger, a 245-pound strongman, and you can see why the Crusaders, who won four of their last five games a year ago to fashion an overall 5-4 mark, won't be easy opponents for Dayton this year.

"Clark is kind of big up front," acknowledged first-year Bulldog coach John LeDonne of South Orange. "While we're not small up front, we're not in their size class. We use a lot of backs, though, and we'll attack it that way. We're just not going to stick with one set backfield the whole game."

And what of Bodner? What to do with him?

"We're going to try to put a good rush on him," answered LeDonne. "We've got some guys who can put a rush on the passer. We'll try to flush him out of the pocket, because I'd rather have him than not. We'll run Dayton's new quarterback back and senior Greg Walsh, who replaces former Bulldog signal-caller Tony Policare III, a solid passer who no longer attends Dayton. Among the backs LeDonne will call on is senior Jeff Stoffer, who is also one of the team's top two defensive players; and junior William Lee.

"Defensively, the Bulldogs will look to Stoffer and Chris Kiech to help tame the feared Johnson attack, which also includes fullback Bob DeSordi and halfback Brian Power, a 6-foot-2-inch, 195-pound senior, who is known for his baseball skills as well.

"For us, it's going to be kind of tough, because with a new head coach, it's tough to predict what's going to happen on defense and offense," said Crusader skipper Steve Ciccioli, in reference to LeDonne. "I think that this year we're more balanced, but our emphasis has been on the passing game since we've had Jimmy. Ideally, we'd like to be a balanced offense, but we're going to take what the defense allows us to do."

Athlete to be cited

Edith Olson Holmberg of Springfield will be inducted into the Upsala College Sports Hall of Fame at an awards dinner at the East Orange college on Friday, October 9.

Tall and rangy, Holmberg was the leading scorer on Upsala women's basketball teams from 1939 through 1941. In those days, the Upsala schedule included such teams as Rhode Island State and William & Mary.

Tenacious salmon go 'home' again

About the same time that campers come home and beachhouse renters pack up, a far more dramatic migration begins at countless inlets along the Eastern Seaboard, according to a recent article by Sharon Begley of National Wildlife magazine, a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Beginning in August and lasting for about two months, Atlantic salmon make their way from the open ocean to the backwater rivulets where they began life as hatchlings — and where they too will spawn.

No vacationers battling traffic on a holiday weekend ever have a tougher commute: fighting whitewater and headcurrents and jumping waterfalls and fish ladders, the salmon follow odors back to the home stream. The olfactory cues, which scientists have yet to identify, are remarkably precise; even hundreds of miles from home, the fish can smell minute quantities of chemicals that mark the natal stream.

However, the salmon's nose-guided migration has been derailed. Studies in Scandinavia and Nova Scotia show that fewer and fewer salmon are returning home. And in New England, federal programs to reintroduce the species could be in jeopardy. Fish may be failing to find their way to the site where they were released.

The cause is acid rain. As several recent studies show, in spite of the popular idea that acidified lakes make fish turn belly up, direct mortality is neither the most serious nor most obvious consequence of acidification.

One of those subtle effects, suspected Winsor Watson and Carl Royce-Malmgren, biologists at the University of New Hampshire, might be interference with salmon's homing ability. To test this hypothesis, they used a computer/video behavioral analysis system to test the effects of acidity on salmon's responses to particular odors. "We were trying to simulate fish migrating up a river and choosing between one tributary and another," explains Watson. Initially, the scientists tested juvenile Atlantic salmon in a 6- to 8-foot long Y-shaped maze and dripped amino acids into one arm of the Y. Amino acids may not be the olfactory cues that guide the fish in nature, but salmon can smell them.

The researchers first established that the fish were attracted to certain amino acids, like glycine, and repelled by others, such as alanine. When glycine was dripped into one arm of the maze, the fish spent more time in that arm.

Next, the scientists increased the acidity of the water to between pH 5.5 and 5.0, a level comparable to that found in Canadian and New England waters. Then they tracked the fish's movements again. "They responded as if they could no longer smell the odor," says Watson.

Acidity also "makes salmon oblivious to odors that have nothing to do with migration. In another set of experiments, the New Hampshire team allowed salmon to choose between a pool without fish and a pool containing other adult salmon. Usually, the salmon prefer fishy-smelling water, especially if the fish are the same species. But when the pH falls to 5.5, they display no preference. "Acidity acts as a great fish deodorant," says Watson.

While vanquishing smells may smooth the way for human socializing, it is quite detrimental to the love life of fish that use smell to find mates and other fish. "The big concern has been why are we getting a decline in the number of salmon in moderately acidified rivers if acidity isn't killing them directly," explains Watson. "Now that we have these data, we're beginning to see that acidity can influence behaviors like migrating and mating that are necessary for reproduction."

Disabled artists' show at Mill

The Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, has scheduled the first public exhibition of the prize-winning works created by 27 disabled New Jersey artists, all members of Visibility, formerly the Coalition of N.J. Professional Artists With Disabilities. The exhibit, in the Renee Fossaner Art Gallery at the Paper Mill will run from Wednesday through Oct. 25, concurrent with the world premiere of "Sayonara," the musical based on James A. Michener's novel.

Consisting of original sculptures and visuals in a variety of media, the exhibit will be given a preview and reception on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m., at which time "a total of $1,200 in prizes will be awarded to those works judged best" by a jury composed of Gary Reynolds, curator of the Newark Museum, and Jean West, curator of Contemporary Art at the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton.

Speaking for the artists, Carol Crowley, chairman of Visibility, says that members of Visibility have become "specialists in a variety of arts including glass and metal sculpture, ceramics, oils, pastels, chalk, photography and mixed media." Visibility was organized two years ago as a special project of Very Special Arts/New Jersey.

"We started with only 22 members back in September 1985 and have now grown in membership to over 90 disabled artists from all across the state," Crowley explains.

The exhibit will be open to the public Wednesday through Sunday, one hour before performances and during intermissions of "Sayonara" and on Fridays from noon until 5 p.m.

"Making our programs and services available to people with special needs has always been a vital part of our mission," says Angelo Del Rossi, executive producer of the Paper Mill, "and this show will be another milestone in that tradition. It also should add to the reputation and standing of Visibility, whose members are professional artists, despite their disabilities." More information can be obtained by calling the Paper Mill at 379-9838.

Baez 'ear-pleases'

By MELT HAMMER
Pick Of The New LPs: Joan Baez ear-pleases with her album debut on Gold Castle Records, "Recently."

Born in Staten Island, N.Y., on Jan. 9, 1941, and raised in Northern California, Joan Baez met Gandhian scholar, Ira Sanyal, in high school and began to explore the world of Gandhian non-violence. Her life has since been filled with numerous awards and honors including the Earl Warren Civil Liberties Award, a Doctor of Humane Letters from Rutgers University and the Lennon Peace tribute award.

"Recently," Joan's first new recording in many years, is a collection of songs by some of the world's top contemporary writers as well as a few Baez originals. Check out her versions of Dire Straits' "Brothers in Arms" and Peter Gabriel's "Biko" — she performed with him at Amnesty International. It reflects her timely social and political concerns and is her most accessible record since "Diamonds and Rust."

Additionally, Joan's successful new autobiography, "And A Voice To Sing With," published by Summit Books, is helping to create, along with her new Gold Castle LP, a visibility she hasn't enjoyed in several years.

Today, Joan lives as a single parent with her son, Gabriel. In addition to her busy public life as singer/songwriter and author, Joan continues her work as founder of the Resource Center for Non-violence Humanities International (1979), active in raising funds to help people of lesser fortune all over the world.

"Recently" is a timely album from an artist who pays attention to the world, and a showcase for a timeless voice. It is a voice that, as Joan Baez will acknowledge with a smile, "is in its second prime."

Musicals set for children

The Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, has announced its fall schedule of weekend musicals for children. "Babies in Toyland" by Theaterworks USA, will be presented Nov. 27, the day after Thanksgiving, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. It will be followed on Nov. 28 by Marshall Izen's "Mozart, Monsters and Matilse," by Theaterworks USA, at 11:30 a.m. Both shows are for children ages 5 to 9.

The Yates Musical Theater will conclude the season with "Mary Poppins" on Dec. 5 and 6 and "A Christmas Carol," on Dec. 12 and 13 for children ages 6 to 11.

Your Horoscope

For week of Sept. 24

ARIES (3/21-4/19) By putting collective heads together at work, much can be accomplished. New, exciting ideas can emerge and, be implemented. However, toward the middle of the week, the pace may slow down somewhat. Rest assured, though, that by week's end, all will be satisfied.

Taurus (4/20-5/20) There is no time for you to indulge in any gambling activities, or in anything which may prove risky. Trust only sure things this week. If you do, you'll be surprised at how swiftly everything moves along at work. By the end of the week, you'll be looking for some socializing.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20) This is a week to kick your heels up and enjoy some free time with your loved one. You've been working much too hard and need a break. You finally get the time to tend to your much-neglected abode. By Friday, you'll be amazed at how shipshape everything is.

CANCER (6/21-7/22) Even though this will be a week full of distractions for you, you will still manage to express yourself eloquently. Others will listen and heed your good ideas and advice. A short, surprise business or pleasure trip may pop up in the middle of the week. Enjoy this.

LEO (7/23-8/22) Your leonine appetite for the good things in life will spur you into a shopping frenzy this week. However, the stars are in your favor and your purchases will be wise and thrifty. Developments at work are enhanced by your zest and creativity. New ideas are born.

VIRGO (8/23-9/22) This is a good time for you to indulge your futuristic bent of mind and purchase a new computer or some other electronic device. Since your thinking is so forward-oriented, you will be able to use this purchase to its best advantage. On the home front, however, avoid being too demanding.

LIBRA (9/23-10/22) Your wheels are really turning and you're just bursting with ideas. However, be patient with others who are not as quick as you. They need time to absorb everything, and may find your enthusiasm somewhat abrasive. Spend time quietly doing research on all these ideas.

SCORPIO (10/23-11/21) Someone whose judgment you consider somewhat faulty will surprise you by giving you some excellent financial advice. You are wise to be cautious, but keep an open mind and listen well. While socializing this weekend, be sure not to suffer from tunnel vision. You just could miss something important or offend a sensitive friend. A friend embraces a political concern.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19) Your active, intelligent mind is looking for some stimuli, so why not consider travel or further education?

These activities could lead you to a most exciting discovery, which could change many things in your life.

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/18) Before you do any loving with friends, it's a wise idea to discuss everything in detail first. While you do need to supplement your income, you must do some careful research before making a commitment.

PISCES (2/19-3/20) Things are really heating up at work which leads you closer to attaining your goals. Bigwigs are impressed, but avoid showing too much ambition since this can work against you. Spend a quiet evening at home reworking family closeness with loved ones.

How-to on fitness

Ballet director set

PETER ANASTOS

Joel Sobo, president of the Garden State Ballet board of trustees, has announced the appointment of Peter Anastos to the post of artistic director of the Newark-based professional troupe beginning with the 1987-88 season. The appointment culminates an eight-year association between Anastos and the Garden State Ballet.

"Our state is at the forefront of artistic development in the United States, and with Peter Anastos, GSB will be at the forefront of the development of dance in the state," says Sobo. "He's a gifted choreographer, whose work embraces the entire spectrum of ballet — from his traditional 'Nutcracker' to his neo-classical 'Italian Symphony' to his wildly comic and inventive 'Forgotten Memories'...all are sheer Anastos."

Fred Daniell, Garden State Ballet's founder, first invited Anastos to serve as the company's resident choreographer from 1979 to 1981. He was commissioned to stage seven original works for the company, including the full-length "Nutcracker" and "Footage" and "Tom Sawyer." From 1984 to 1986, Anastos created two original neo-classical ballets, "Italian Symphony" with music by Mendelssohn, and "Arcadia," with music by Handel. "The latter was underwritten by the 'Grant' from AT&T Foundation." In 1985, Anastos was named artistic associate and became directly involved in the Garden State Ballet's artistic policy and long-range planning.

Before joining the Garden State Ballet in 1979, Anastos was the founder-director of the ballet troupe, Les Ballet Trocadero de Monte Carlo.

During his career as a free-lance choreographer, he created original works for such major ballet companies as American Ballet Theater, Atlanta Ballet, Cincinnati/New Orleans Ballet, Dallas Ballet, Milwaukee Ballet, Pennsylvania Ballet, Nashville City Ballet and Louisville Ballet. In addition, he has created ballets for companies in Buenos Aires, Argentina and Florence, Italy.

David Shneyer is co-founder and coordinator of the Fiddlers who will feature an American form of Jewish Folk Music.

Families are invited to bring lawn chairs and blankets to the outdoor concert at Union College on Raritan Road. In the event of rain, the concert will be held indoors at the Jewish Community Center at 1391 Marlton Ave. in Scotch Plains.

More information can be obtained by calling 889-8800.

Page 8 — FOCUS ON UNION COUNTY — September 24, 1987

Doing your own thing

Etager wall units can help make the most of available display space because of their great versatility — for bookcases, to show collectibles, hold audio-visual equipment, or all of these things! Combine the two sizes to suit any room in the house.

The plan contains step-by-step instructions and materials lists for both of the units pictured. Using these two basic units, do-it-yourselfers can create as large a wall unit as they wish. The plan offers shelving variations, a fold-down writing desk, and an enclosed cabinet.

To obtain ETAGERE WALL UNITS, Plan 648, please send $4.50. For a variety of bookcase plans, try our Bookcase Packet, No. C52, containing four different projects, not including No. 648 for $7. Prices include postage and prompt handling. Send your check or money order to—Steve Ellingson, c/o County Leader Newspapers, P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409-2383.

COUNTY LEADER NEWSPAPERS

• UNION LEADER • SPRINGFIELD LEADER • LINDEN LEADER • MOUNTAIN SIDE ECHO • KENILWORTH LEADER • THE SPECTATOR (ROSELLE/ROSELLE PARK)

LOOSENING UP — Is just what these members of the Roselle High team do during the start of a recent practice session. Leg-stretching exercises are invaluable when it comes to preventing muscle pulls.

Grasso pleased with Rams

By DAN BLACKWELL
 Lou Grasso talks with pride these days when it comes to his 1987 Roselle Ram football team. And the head coach has every reason to.

His troops have worked hard over the summer to prepare themselves for the season.

"They were put on a weightlifting program and stayed in good condition as they dedicated their summer to becoming a bigger and better team than the '86 team," said Grasso.

The team suffered a few losses in spotted areas on offense and defense, but Grasso feels that the key areas will be manned with returning underclassmen who can get the job done.

Last year's squad was 6-3 in the Mountain Valley Conference's Mountain Division which was an improvement from the '86 season of 5-4.1, when most of this year's players were sophomores and freshmen.

Grasso will put the ball in the hands of Craig Martin, who will fill in for the graduated Shawn Wilson as the Ram quarterback this year. The 6-foot-5-inch sophomore got his feet wet last year at the end of the season, going 2-1 in the Rams' final three games.

Martin will rely mainly on senior tailback Scott Baldwin, who has all the tools to be one of the best running backs in the county.

"Scott worked hard in the off-season," said Grasso. "A speedster at 6-foot-2-inches, 180-pounds, he could very well be the best tailback in the state."

Accompanying Baldwin in the backfield will be Jamaal Worldis, who is 6-foot, 185 pounds; Tim Gilliam, and Stanley Beaton, another 6-footer, who weighs 235 pounds.

Grasso will also go with talented backups Marcell Maxiam and Shawn Smith at the tailback slot.

Martin will have a sure-handed receiver in Tim Smith, who will be at the wide receiver or flanker position, with Antonio Saterfield backing up both Martin or Smith.

The Rams' line will rely on strength and speed with tackles Keith Knapp and Derrick McCloud; center Anthony Dorsey, guards Kenny Knapp, Mike Curtis, Thelemus Walker, Tony Miles and Derrick Miles.

Grasso will also groom two promising sophomores, Eugene Brown and Jason Carter.

"The kids look very comfortable at their positions and are anxious to get the season started," said Grasso. "This season should be very interesting with the competition in the league."

Roselle opens the season on Saturday, with a 1 p.m. game at Ridge.

WHAT A KICK — Linden's Lamont Tate boots one into enemy territory during Saturday's opener in Irvington, which the Tigers won by a 7-6 margin.

Farmers look for another big harvest

By DAN BLACKWELL
The Union Farmers will begin their 1987 football campaign with an experienced squad returning from last year's state championship team.

The Farmers will take to the field with no less than six returning starters, the most they've had since the 1979 state championship team. Head coach Lou Retino is optimistic about his chances of being a strong contender.

"The way a coach judges a team is by the number of veterans that return," said Retino, who is starting his 11th year as Union coach. "We have six or seven guys returning and that should make us a strong contender. The Farmers have been strong contenders since Retino took over as head coach in 1976. He has been very successful, regardless of the number of veterans returning.

Retino is the victor of three consecutive North Jersey, Group 4, Section 2 state championship crowns—and has six in nine tries overall. But Retino continues to be cautious of his Watchung Conference foes.

"There are a few good teams in the league this year as always," he said. "I have to say that Elizabeth will be right there on top again and Linden is always tough.

"In addition, Cranford has all of its guys back and Westfield has a 6-foot-5-inch quarterback, who is the best in the county. Scotch Plains is also tough. It will definitely be a mad scramble for the crown."

Nonetheless, Retino and his troops will be the team to beat, simply because they have compiled a 31-2 record over the last three years, losing both of the games last year.

Summit, in its first year in the Watchung Conference, handed the Farmers their first loss and first shutout in three years, and Linden defeated Union in the Thanksgiving Day game before Union went on to win its third state championship.

Joey has been throwing well, as has his backup, John Power," the coach said. "Teams who plan on playing us for the run will be surprised this year."

Retino will also have an experienced backfield. Jimmy Young received a lot of playing time last year and will be a key player this year, along with returnees Joe Cruz and Geno Pierce.

Two additions to the backfield who should hold their own are Bobby Jones and Billy Vignes. The backs will be key defensive players as well.

Food for football fans

It's football season! Whether you're sitting in the stadium, cheering the New York/New Jersey Giants on to victory, or watching from your living room recliner as an official... armchair... quarterback, football fever is at its peak of excitement.

Wait a minute, you say? No way? You don't like football? You don't understand why 11 men who each weigh as much as a family of four move the "pigskin" down the field across the goal-line and then dance around, slapping each other on the behind?

For those who have yet to gain an appreciation for this American sport, the National Football League and the makers of Handi-Wrap brand plastic film offer "You Can't Make Waffles On A Gridiron: Recipes To Pass And Receive" — a booklet to guide you through the football season. Remember the look on their faces last season when you said, "It looks like they're doing the hockey pokes" — after the New York Giants had scored a touchdown? After reading this booklet, those days will be long gone!

In addition to learning about who's who on the field, referee signals and play calls, "You Can't Make Waffles On A Gridiron" offers favorite recipes from each of the 28 teams in the National Football League. Because you don't want to miss one single touchdown, most of the dishes can be made in advance, covered with plastic wrap and refrigerated until ready to serve. The plastic wrap seals in moisture and keeps dishes at their freshest.

Even if you still get confused as players run, fall down, huddle and charge onward again, you can wow the home team by serving "Giants' Big Apple Ginger Bars". Eating official recipes from the NFL makes the game even more exciting and the simplicity makes it easy on you!

For your 32-page booklet on football, food and just plain fun, send 50 cents or one UPC symbol from any package of Handi-Wrap brand plastic wrap to: "You Can't Make Waffles On A Gridiron", From Handi-Wrap, P.O. Box 9437, Clinton, Iowa 52728.

GIANTS' BIG APPLE GINGER BARS

- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1 jar (4 ounces) mixed candied fruits and peels
- 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- milk
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon lemon peel, grated

Preheat oven to 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Combine gingerbread mix and applesauce and beat until well blended. Stir in raisins and candied fruits. Spread in a greased 15 1/2 x 10 x 1-inch pan. Bake 15 to 20 minutes. Combine confectioners' sugar with enough milk to make it of spreading consistency. Stir in lemon juice and lemon peel. Spread thinly over baked gingerbread. Cover with Handi-Wrap II until ready to cut into bars. Makes 40 bars.

INDOOR WORKOUT — Last week's heavy rains forced even the Farmers inside, as the Union High football squad had to settle for calisthenics and lectures such as this by head coach Lou Reino.

Tigers hold off Blue Knights to win opener, 7-6

By MARK YABLONSKY
It was hardly the kind of game that makes a coach proud. After all, there was a combined total of 15 penalties and several untimely turnovers on a day when the weather could have been a little nicer, considering that it was the season opener for both teams.

But despite the less-than-ideal weather conditions and mistakes, both Bucky McDonald and Ed Ryscavage did have some reason to smile after Linden's 7-6 win over the Irvington Blue Knights on Saturday afternoon at cloudy, breezy Matthews Field. McDonald's Tigers, of course, awakened from a sluggish first half and wiped out a 6-0 half-time deficit on a quick, well-executed drive at the start of play in the third quarter to emerge with the victory.

And Irvington, which suffered through an 0-9 season — and a 46-8 defeat to Linden — a year ago, did give a respectable account of themselves, and in fact might have been able to grab the win instead, had they been able to avoid a few mistakes.

And for the Blue Knights, the costliest mistake of all may have come not toward the end of the game, when a fumble by quarterback James Jones at the Linden 35 gave the Tigers the ball back with 3:14 left, but rather at the very beginning, when a fumble by running back Barry Davis halted what had been an impressive drive, and for the time being, momentum as well.

Here's why. After returning the opening kickoff to their own 32-yard line, the Blue Knights escaped from a harrowing third-and-14 situation from their 27 when Jones connected with a wide-open Derrick Gaddy for a sparkling 42-yard advance all the way to the Linden 31. But two plays later, after a five-yard penalty to Linden and a three-yard loss on a running play, Davis coughed up the pigskin on a pitchback that gave the Tigers their first possession.

The defending Watchung Conference champs then mounted an impressive 10-play drive that was ruined by two costly penalties, with the second one — an illegal motion call — returning the ball to Irvington. Shortly afterward, however, the Blue Knights were able to capitalize on another Linden miscue.

That's when linebacker Charles Summers pounced on a fumble by Linden tailback Leon Harrell that gave Irvington possession at their opponent's 48. From there, it took just three plays to score. After Jones missed on one pass attempt, Davis took another pitch, and this time scampered for 25 yards and a first down at the Linden 21. On the very next play, Jones hooked up with wide receiver Melvin Woodson for a 21-yard scoring toss, and hence, a 6-0 lead. But that was all Irvington would get, for when Jones rolled out and tried to hit Terrence Wells for a two-point conversion, the play came up short.

For the remainder of the half, Linden managed to hang in, largely by recovering two more Irvington turnovers, the first of which halted another Blue Knight advance with less than four minutes to play in the first half.

"We were lucky to be down 6-0 at the half," admitted McDonald, who has now won his third consecutive opening-day game in his three years as Tiger skipper. "We came out right off the hop, they completed that pass, and that got us a little bit unsettled," he added in reference to Gaddy's 42-yard reception.

"From then on in, we never really got settled into our offense."

Until the second half, that is. Much like a boxer who has found his second wind, the Tigers came out swinging to open the third quarter and showed little resemblance to the team that had struggled throughout a good portion of the first half.

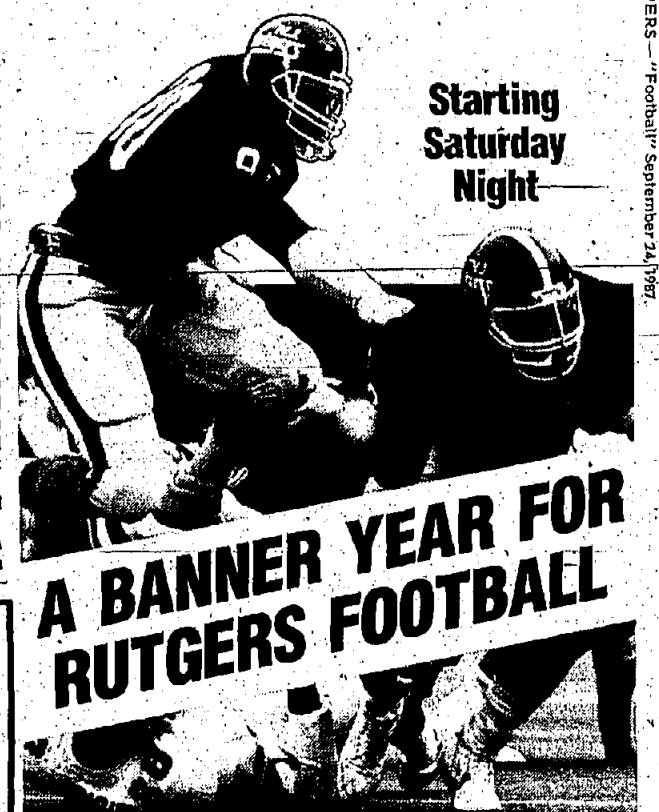

After setting up shop on their own 36, it took the Tigers just 2:17 to complete what turned out to be the game-winning drive. First, Harrell skirted left end for 12 yards. Then Kelvin Johnson, who was the game's leading rusher with 86 yards in 15 carries, cut down the right side for an 18-yard gain and another first down at the Irvington 34. Four plays later, Johnson capped the drive by grabbing an eight-yard pass from Tiger quarterback Antoine Allen, who cleverly lofted the ball beyond the reach of onrushing Irvington defenders.

When placekicker and running back Damon Tate split the uprights for the extra point, Linden had a 7-6 lead with 9:36 left in the third quarter. It was, of course, to be the final score, although with slightly more than two minutes to play in the period, a holding penalty deprived the Tigers of another touchdown when Tate's apparent 35-yard scoring gallop down the right sideline was called back.

But a win is a win, and McDonald will take it just the same, thank you. "We were slipping and sliding a little bit, but considering all the rain we've had, I thought the field was in pretty good shape," answered McDonald, when asked if the inclement weather of the previous two days, or the drizzle of the final quarter had been a factor. "It did hurt us a little bit, but I was happy the field was in the shape it was. I don't think it had any bearing on the outcome of the game."

"We dodged a bullet and now we've got to get on with the rest of the season," continued the Linden coach, whose club registered a 22-175 advantage in total yardage. "We made some boo-boos," conceded Ryscavage. "Linden's a good team, don't get me wrong. But we messed up a couple of times. But I was proud of the kids."

New faces, new coach for Bulldogs

By MARK YABLONSKY
When supporters of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team come out to watch their club this fall, they may notice just a few new faces, including that of John LeDonne, who is starting his first season as Bulldog skipper.

LeDonne, who served as head coach at Passaic's Paul Pius Regional High in 1978 and 1979, has a total of 31 players — not including approximately 20 freshmen who are launching high school careers — in shoulder pads this fall who spent little or no time with the varsity club in 1986. And along with those new faces, some fans may notice a change from last year's "high-tech" offense of Tony Policare Jr., who is now coaching in the Binghamton, N.Y. area.

Unlike the diversity of offensive formations that Policare was fond of using, LeDonne's club will be simplifying things just a bit in 1987.

"If Tony Policare called his offense a high-tech offense, then I'll call our offense a nuts-and-bolts offense," explained LeDonne, who is also a former line coach at both Fairleigh-Dickinson University in Madison, and Madison High. "We're going to run sweep, power, iso and a couple of traps for our fullback; and we're going to bootleg and play-action pass. We're stressing doing those plays correctly, and also stressing the fundamentals of blocking."

Perhaps the most noticeable absence from last year's squad will be Tony Policare III, who was considered to be one of Union County's best passing quarterbacks. Vying to replace him in recent weeks have been both Greg Walsh and Dave Lissy, one of whom will begin the season calling signals, with the other winning a starting job in the Bulldog secondary.

But regardless of who handles the quarterbacking chores, one thing is certain:

LeDonne is pleased with both of them. "Dave Lissy might be our best athlete," said the South Orange resident, whose team will travel to Clark on Saturday for a UNICO Bowl battle with Arthur L. Johnson Regional High, one of three sister schools to Dayton. "And he's a big kid. He's quick and he's really tailor-made for our type of offense. Greg Walsh is durable and quick, and he's made good decisions so far in our scrimmages and practices."

"We're going to run sweep, power, iso and a couple of traps for our fullback; and we're going to bootleg and play-action pass. We're stressing doing those plays correctly, and also stressing the fundamentals of blocking."

John LeDonne
Bulldog coach

Accompanying either Walsh or Lissy in the backfield will be fullback Jeff "Man Mountain" Stoffer and tailback William Leo, both of whom were part of Dayton's injury-riddled 4-5 club a year ago. In particular, Stoffer — who missed two games last fall after sustaining an injury against Immaculata — is a vital cog to the Bulldog squad, both offensively and defensively, since the 6-foot-2-inch, 225-pound senior team captain will be one of LeDonne's two inside linebackers as well. Returning senior Jeff Debbie will alternate between the two running positions, while Kevin Rogers could also see some action in the tailback slot.

In looking at the offensive line, returnees Dan Francis, Chris Kisch and Mike Elson will do their best to protect their backfield mates, along with Dan Lissy, the older brother of Dave Rogers and Lenny Sala have also been also shine on defense as the other inside linebacker, along with Stoffer. Elson is a candidate for a defensive end position.

Without a doubt, both Stoffer and Kisch will anchor the Dayton defensive unit.

"They're two real good inside linebackers," said LeDonne, who will be joined by returning assistants Robert Kozub, William Kindler and Rick Iacono. "They're mobile. We're going to funnel everything on defense to them. They're our two best defensive players. They're a formidable pair, those two."

Matt Lynch will be one of Dayton's starting outside linebackers, which, under LeDonne's concept, could really be considered as a defensive end position. Other than Dan Francis, however, the rest of Dayton's defensive line is still not determined.

But the secondary is. With either Walsh or Lissy certain to start at safety, Debbie, Leo and Eric Incandela will probably be seeing plenty of playing time as defensive backs, along with Dan Lissy, the older brother of Dave Rogers and Lenny Sala have also been "in the hunt" for secondary jobs as well.

In all, considering Dayton's apparent blend of solid returnees and anxious newcomers, what will the 1987 season bring for the Bulldogs, who must compete once again with the likes of Mountain Valley Conference powers Immaculata and Roselle, not to mention a Thanksgiving Day match with two-time defending Group I champion Brearley Regional of Kenilworth?

"Right now, we don't know what to look for," replied LeDonne, who credited his assistants for being a "plus" to the Dayton football program. "If we don't get injuries, if our players play up to the level we expect of them, if we get the breaks, then we could have a very good season. If not, then we could be in for a very tough season."

And only time will tell.

Panthers to keep after-dark hours

By MARK YABLONSKY
All cats, even big ones, like to prow around in the dark. And like many true felines, the Roselle Park Panthers will be going out in the after-dark hours quite often this fall.

For of the nine games, the Panthers will play, the first seven will be under the lights with 7:30 p.m. starting times slated for each of these Friday nights. Four, including a showdown with arch-rival Brearley on October 16, will take place at spacious, sparkling Fern Shaw Field.

But day or night, the Panthers, like most teams, will be looking to newer faces to replace fan favorites such as Dennis McCaffery, Gene Mirabella and Len Zennario, all of whom were such an integral part of the Roselle Park football program, but who have since moved on to college.

John Wagner, who is beginning his seventh year as Panther skipper, admits that while yearly graduations do take their toll on any coach's success, it is important to concentrate on the present and future, without dwelling in the past. The easy-mannered coach is "cautiously optimistic" about his team's chances for another productive fall campaign.

"The class that we had go through took us to the playoffs the last three years," said Wagner, whose 9-2 club made it to the North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2 championship game for the second straight year in 1986, despite losing Mirabella and Zennario to untimely injuries halfway into the season. "They're gone, but the foundation they built hopefully will carry on the tradition that we've had. This year, as young as we are, we have the potential to be in a lot of football games."

One bright spot for Wagner should be senior John Cunningham, who will be the team's number one quarterback this fall, after having split the signal-calling duties with the since-departed Steve Scribano in 1986. As many coaches will agree, a starting quarterback is a big plus.

"Through an injury to Steve (last year) John gained some valuable experience," Wagner explained. "He's been throwing real well for us in the pre-season. Offensively, we're young in spots, but we do have nice size and we have been able to do some things on offense that we're pleased with. John's experience will help us, and we hope to be able to throw the ball more with him."

Chris Tokarski, who was a starter as a sophomore a year ago, will be on-hand once again in the left halfback position, while Junior Joe Siter and senior Dave Fischer will be seeing plenty of playing time at fullback. Rob Kinney and Craig Vail, along with sophomore Eugene Belle, will round out the Panther starting backfield.

Up front will be sophomore Matt Luke at center, along with Pete Ausiello and Mike Heller at left and right guard, respectively. Juniors Joe Mattos and Keith Lonsker, a 6-foot-2-inch, 305-pound lineman, will be anchoring the starting tackle positions. Brett Sallenardo, Mike Healey and Steve Dutko will make up the rest of the offensive line, along with sophomore guard Jim Foy.

Along with Belle, some of Cunningham's receivers will include split ends Scott Toy and Doug Placa, while Anthony Santora and John Artuso will be logging time at tight end. In switching to defense, Ausiello, Fischer, Luke and Artuso will be ends, while Lonsker, Heller, Mattos and Foy will be alternating at tackle.

Santora and Siter, both of whom gained valuable experience in 1986, will be inside linebackers, along with Tokarski and Belle. Placa, Chris Belle, Toy, Vail and sophomore Ray Jankowski will constitute the Panther secondary.

"In looking at our season, we've been telling our kids all along, our opener is important and we'll look at one game at a time," said Wagner in reference to tomorrow night's opener at Bound Brook.

Win, lose or draw this is one group of cats that will enjoy playing the great majority of their games at night. "We've been through it before. It's good for the league and it's good for the kids."

Bears will shoot for third straight title

By MARK YABLONSKY
As odd as it may seem, this year's Bearley Regional football team will, in one sense, identify closer with Joe Hockey than with the game they and just about everyone else in Kenilworth live for each Saturday afternoon.

What's that? Give each member of Bob Taylor's highly-esteemed squad a pair of skates and a stick, instead of shoulder pads and a helmet? No way. But as is often the case with Wayne Gretzky of the Edmonton Oilers; the mighty Bears will be shooting for a hat trick in the 1987 season, which will begin for Bearley with Saturday's 1 p.m. match against Governor Livingston Regional High at Ward Field.

The hat trick in this case is the quest for a third consecutive North Jersey Group 1, Section 3 championship. Granted, with the likes of New Providence, Roselle Park and Middlesex to worry about, another title won't be easy to come by. But if there's one thing Taylor and his team seem to thrive on, it's a challenge — not to mention team camaraderie.

"I think we have a nice football team," said Taylor, who has held the Bearley reins since 1974, a season in which his 6-2-1 club allowed just 33 points to the opposition. "I think we're improving on a daily basis, and if we can continue to improve, we'll be a contender. That's our goal every year. From there, it takes big plays in big games, and it takes a lot of hard work. We really have a nice work ethic on the field this year."

The Bears, unlike numerous other teams, also have the luxury of returning their entire 1986 starting backfield, including senior quarterback Gary Faucher, who stepped in last fall and guided the Bears to a 9-1 record and a title-winning season. Faucher, who seemed to get stronger as the year went on, will be joined by fellow seniors Mike Chalenski and Joe Capizzano, both of whom are more than capable of piling up big yardage when it is needed the most.

Chalenski, who will also be shooting for the school's single-season rushing mark of 1,420 yards set by Steve Ondrof in 1981, will combine his power and size, along with Capizzano's quickness for what should be another productive year.

Both will divide their time between tailback and fullback, as will Ken Kinney of Garwood and junior Brian Kinney of the Bears. Kinney is the younger brother of the famed Bearley star.

"All our backs will be interchangeable this year," Taylor explained. "It seems to me that we have some balanced ability not only from Joe and Mike, but from Ken Kinney and Brian, too. So we want to try to fit everybody into the puzzle."

The first noticeable change from last year will be on the offensive line, where the likes of standouts Brett Hubinger and Rob Kanterman — both of whom have moved on to collegiate play — will be replaced by names such as Chris Squillaro and Chuck Mogensen, who will be at guard and tackle, respectively. Also starting up front will be junior Elio Girgusa, who started the first four games of last year's championship season, and who is "ready to blossom as a solid guard," in Taylor's words. Dan DeChellis will occupy the team's other offensive tackle slot.

linebacker once again, along with Squillaro. Although the two outside linebacking spots are not yet decided, seniors Dave Chang and Mike Vergara are battling with Corey Ball and Tony Mills for starting jobs.

Mogensen and DeChellis will be occupying both tackle slots, and Pat Olenick will be a middle guard. As is the case with the starting backfield, Bearley will benefit by the return of its entire secondary as well. Capizzano and Faucher will be safeties, while Kinney and Mike Ramos will be at cornerback. The younger Chalenski — or "Little Chex" — will occupy the "nickback" position.

And last, but not least, is the Bearley kicking game. Vergara, who scored 38 points as the team's placekicker last year, including three "pressure" field goals, will return in that position, while the older Chalenski will replace Miller as the squad's punter.

Finally, the Bears also have a visitor from West Germany, senior receiver Olaf Barth, who according to Taylor, "is learning the game rapidly."

No, this bunch is not as adept at hockey as they are at football. But they want a hat trick just the same.

Tigers see 1987 as year of change

By MARK YABLONSKY
That 1987 will represent a year of changes for the Linden High football team is readily apparent in two ways. To begin with, the Tigers now belong to Group 4 status. And secondly, a total of just five starters from last year's 9-1 squad are returning this fall.

But mention either of these factors to third-year coach Bucky McDonald, and his answer will be basically the same: what's the big deal?

"I think every year as head coach you're faced with the same situation," explained McDonald about the natural turnover process that has resulted in stars such as Tony Purcell and Rob Shalhoub being lost to graduation. "Hopefully, your players will come through for you, and your inexperienced players will catch up. I think it's not only Linden; it's everybody. Every year, you're faced with it's, and we've just got to wait and see. We had it's last year and it's the year before that. Those kids rose to the occasion and hopefully, these kids can do the job."

And what about moving to Group 4 competition?

"I don't think it really matters," answered McDonald. "It doesn't change our schedule any. I'm sure it's going to be a year-to-year thing, as far as our enrollment."

With right guard James Sporer being the lone returnee on the offensive squad, McDonald seems to be on track when he says his team is "starting all over." But the players he is starting over with have him quietly confident about Linden's chances for a solid fall.

For openers, there is quarterback Antoine Allen, a 5-foot-11-inch, 165-pound junior, who will be replacing Shalhoub as the Bengal offensive leader.

"He's a fine athlete," McDonald said. "He's got an awful lot of talent. We're real pleased with the way he's progressed."

Returning to action after a year off is senior Lamont Tate, who was a starter at outside linebacker in 1985, but has now become a fullback instead. The 6-foot-8-inch, 195-pound member of the '85 Group III champs will be joined in the starting backfield by tailbacks Kelvin Johnson, Leon Harrell and Sean Ellis, all of whom figure to see ample playing time this year. Johnson, in fact, is "entering his third year as a starter."

Tight end Curt Honk, and split ends Marty Griffin, Darrus James and Sean Bronson will be Allen's primary receivers.

Protecting Allen and Co. will be an offensive line consisting of tackles Kevin Buckley and Jermaine English, center Phillip Principato and guards Cornell Stirling and, of course, Sporer.

Defensively, the Tigers appear to be in even better shape, what with a total of four 1986 starters returning. They are none other than Harrell and Sporer; and Stirling and Johnson, who will play at outside linebacker and safety, respectively. Tackle Buckley and English, along with inside linebackers Sporer and Principato, will work at those things under control in the middle-of-the-field. Honk, Harrell and sophomore Kyle Stratford will do the same on the outside as defensive ends.

Along with Johnson, the Tiger secondary will consist of James, who along with Johnson will be at cornerback; safety Greg Demter and "swingman" Ellis.

As usual, Linden seems to be ready for a season that will feature a rematch with Summit on October 24, and a Thanksgiving Day battle with nearby rival Union, which is looking to successfully defend three straight North Jersey, Group 4, Section 2 championships. Summit, of course, is the club that ousted a previously-undefeated Linden team

TIGERS BITE — And Irvington tight end Derrick Gaddy would agree, as three members of the Linden High team combine for a crunching tackle during last Saturday's game at Irvington. The Tigers won, 7-6.
