

AUTUMN FESTIVAL — The Daughters of the British Empire of New Jersey will hold their annual fall luncheon on Nov. 4 at the Madison Hotel, Convent Station. This year's luncheon will include entertainment celebrating the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution. The group is made up of women whose birth or ancestry is British or Commonwealth. From left are Hazel Murphy of Mountainside, Eve Gerslinger of Tenafly, president of D.B.E., Nora Feeney of Tenafly and Margaret Layne of Mendham.

Kenilworth Art Association meets

Fat San Soucie will do a watercolor collage demonstration for the Nov. 2 meeting of the Kenilworth Art Association in the Library at North 22nd Street and Boulevard in Kenilworth. The meeting begins at 8 p.m.

San Soucie is on the teaching staff of the Summit Art Center and her work has grown from midwestern field, grass and weed thoughts and forms of recognized organic subjects to abstracts which still hint of the weed and grass, whether in flat washes on paper, or in three-dimensional layers using washes on paper and watermedia acetate. She is in Who's Who in American Women and Art and has memberships in the New Jersey and National Watercolor Societies. She is a Medal Of Honor winner for 1972-75-78 and 1985 in the Watercolor Society. Her collections are in corporate offices in the United States and South America as well as private collections in England, Wales and France.

Her art work was published in "Master Class in Watercolor" by Edward Betts, AWS-Watson Gupilli Publications 1975.

Everyone interested is welcome at the Free Nov. 2 meeting. Further information is available by calling 291-9221.

Aid course offered

The Summit chapter of the American Red Cross will conduct a course in standard first aid at the Chapter House, 695 Springfield Ave., Summit. The program will be held Nov. 4, 11, 18, 25, Dec. 2 and 9. Each session will take place between 7 and 10 p.m.

Participants must be 13 years of age or have completed the seventh grade. Participants may register by calling the Chapter House at 293-2076. A payment of $5 must be received prior to the first class session, it was announced.

Novelist to be host at town library

"The Handmaid's Tale" by Canadian poet and novelist Margaret Atwood will be featured at the next meeting of the Springfield Public Library book discussion group. The meeting will be held in the library children's room Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Published in 1985, Atwood's novel is set in the near future in the Republic of Gilead — formerly the United States — where religious fundamentalists have staged a coup d'état and suspended civil liberties. The narrator is a young woman who serves as a handmaid to one of the rulers; her only function is to bear a child to her aging commander and his barren wife. Women through her day-to-day narration are poignant memories of her previous life as wife, mother, and wage earner. The discussion is open to the public free of charge. Anyone wishing to borrow the book should inquire at the reference desk.

Rinaldo to tour district

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo will tour the western portion of the 7th Congressional District with his mobile office Saturday, and caseworkers from his office will visit each municipality in the district in early November to assist constituents with problems involving the federal government.

The Rinaldo mobile office will stop at five central locations to permit the Congressman and his aides to meet with constituents to discuss federal legislation and to assist them with government-related problems. He will be accompanied by caseworkers specializing in Social Security, veterans affairs, immigration, military problems, college student loans and federal grants.

The five-stop tour begins at 9 a.m. in Summit and ends at 4 p.m. in Manville. The Congressman said persons needing assistance with a problem—involving—the federal government should bring all documents related to the issue to be discussed. No appointment is

Author to speak

Dr. Peter Kalella, a psychology professor at Seton Hall University, will be the guest speaker at Our Lady of Lourdes School, Mountainside, Nov. 17 from 8 to 10 p.m.

Kalella, the author of more than 25 books including "On The Other Hand," "Wedded on Wedlocked," and "A New Self Image," will discuss the dynamics of father-son relationships.

In addition to the books Kalella has authored five documentary films.

JEANNINE ROWE
The Clear Choice For Union County
Freeholder

Jeannine Rowe of Cranford is the clear choice for Union County Freeholder. She has 25 years of civic and government experience on the county and local level. Mrs. Rowe is the Chairman of the Union County Parks & Recreation Board and is very concerned with maintaining our green space for the citizens of Union County and future generations. She is a member of the Cranford Planning Board, and is monitoring the new State Planning Rules and their effect on local options. Mrs. Rowe feels that "we need to think a balance between growth and home rule planning". Because of her concern for sound business districts, she was appointed to a sub-committee of the Cranford Downtown Management Corporation. Mrs. Rowe is a former member of the Union County State of Women Board and believes that a woman is needed on the Freeholder Board for a "different perspective". She is the only female candidate for Freeholder, and can bring a unique perspective to that office. She is a member of the American Revolution and, because of her 2 hip replacements, has a great understanding of the problems facing the handicapped population. Mrs. Rowe's opponent was a Freeholder for 3 years and did not even attempt to visit another town. He did nothing to solve our current garbage crisis and had the nerve to vote himself a 40% retroactive pay raise after losing his bid for re-election. Mrs. Rowe and her husband live in Cranford, and have 3 grown children and 2 grandsons. Mrs. Rowe said, "My 25 years of service to my community and Union County will serve me well as a Freeholder. I am very concerned over the spiraling costs of county government. We need to look for new and creative ways of conducting county business. I have the time and the desire to give as a Freeholder. I hope that on Nov. 3rd, the voters will give my running mates, Alex Argueta, Ed Pralinski, and Ed Blankowski, and me the opportunity to serve."

The race for county freeholder, surrogate

In addition to municipal and state elections Tuesday, voters will have the opportunity to select three full-term freeholders and the county surrogate.

Seeking the three-year terms on the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders are incumbent Republicans Alan Augustine of Scotch Plains, Edward Slomkowski of Union and Edmund Palmieri of Elizabeth.

Jeannine Rowe of Cranford is running for the one-year unexpired term. They are being challenged by Democrats Neil Cohen of Union, Joseph Suliga of Linden and Jeffrey Maccarelli of Berkeley Heights.

Former Freeholder Walter Boright of Scotch Plains is seeking the one-year unexpired term.

In the race for county surrogate, Ann Conti of Mountainside is seeking reelection. Her opponent is Republican Susan Witsman of Union.

Profiles of the county candidates follow:

ALAN AUGUSTINE
Republican
Freeholder

Alan M. Augustine, a former mayor of Scotch Plains, has served as freeholder chairman for the past year.

He has served on the Union County Board of Social Services, Union County College Board of School Trustees, Planning Board, Children's Shelter Advisory Board as well as the Mayor's Municipal Advisory Board.

He served on the Scotch Plains governing body for 12 years. Augustine is a member of Scotch Plains-Fanwood Lodge 2182, BPOE, a former member of the Rotary Club of "Walden" and the National Schools Committee of Lafayette College. He was past president of Union County Automobile Dealers Association and past president of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut Auto Trade Association. He is vice president of marketing with the Cranford, N.Y., office of the Augustine and his wife, Jeannine, are the parents of three children.

WALTER BORIGHT
Democrat
Freeholder

Walter Boright is a teacher in the Clark school system. He served on the Kenilworth council and was elected to the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Board of Education. Boright has served three previous terms on the freeholder board.

He was praised for bringing together the former Union County Park Commission and the freeholders to make possible the Lenape Park Flood Control Project which serves as a model throughout the state.

Boright worked to help streamline

42 county departments to 12. He drafted the county's "Sunset Legislation" to eliminate unnecessary jobs without layoffs.

He resides in Scotch Plains with his wife, Pamela, a former Scotch Plains councilwoman, and their three children.

NEIL COHEN
Democrat
Freeholder

Neil Cohen is a graduate of Howard University School of Law in Washington, D. C. While in law school, Cohen was employed by a presidential commission and selected to present cases at the White House and at Camp David. He was recognized by late U.S. Senator Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., for his creative efforts and skills in this position.

Cohen has served as legislative aide for a former state senator from Union County, and drafted legislation concerning the health and nutritional needs of senior citizens—economic development, small business assistance, and laws impacting upon our handicapped citizens. While with the Office of the Deputy Commissioner for the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, Cohen was successfully involved with resolving environmental problems and balancing the protection of the environment and the development of business.

He is a partner in the firm of Gill & Cohen, P.C. in Montclair. He serves as counsel to the Union Township Planning Board, Hillside Board of Health, and Local Government Finance Committees.

JEFFREY MACCARELLI
Democrat
Freeholder

Jeffrey Maccarelli of Berkeley Heights is a candidate for a three-year term on the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. Jeff brings experience from the state, county and local levels. He has served as a legislative aide to the Speaker Pro Tem of the New Jersey Assembly, chairman of the Union County Board of Social Services, and last year as deputy mayor of Berkeley Heights. He is township councilman in Berkeley Heights.

Maccarelli received a bachelor's degree from Duquesne University and juris doctor degree from Seton Hall University. He is associated with Burgdorf Realtors.

EDMUND A. PALMIERI
Republican
Freeholder

Edmund A. Palmieri resides in Elizabeth with his wife, Pamela, and four children. He was appointed to the freeholder board earlier this year to fill an unexpired term.

Palmieri has been involved in numerous church and civic activities and is a former board member of the Elizabeth Citizen's League, a member of the Elmore Association, the Elmore Little League, St. Joseph's Boys League in Roselle and is a high school basketball official. Palmieri is vice president of the home-school association and boys basketball coach at St. Genevieve's School, Elizabeth.

As a Union County freeholder, he serves on the Criminal Justice Advisory Board, the Human Services Planning Advisory Council, the Recreational and Police

Candidate: Communication is key

Edward J. Stomkowski was unable to attend the forum for Freeholder candidates conducted by County Leader Newspapers. He has issued the following statement:
Communication is the key to successful government. If we can communicate with each other, despite our difference of opinion, we can overcome most of our problems.
This has been my motto during my nine years on the Board of Chosen Freeholders. Perhaps because of my seniority this message has been accepted by the majority of my fellow Freeholders and under Republican leadership the county has embarked on three major capital projects which evidence the Republican commitment to serving all the needs of our constituents.

This October we broke ground on the new John E. Rummels Health-care Facility in Berkeley Heights, a geriatric center, which will provide 375 beds in all for the health needs of our citizens.
In December 1986 we broke ground for the new jail in Elizabeth and construction is already under way. Our citizens have communicated their desire to put criminals in jail - we are responding by increasing the capacity of the existing jail and building a more secure facility to provide for the greater public safety of all our citizens. I helped implement the first drug counseling program within the county jail.

Finally, under Republican leadership, the Board has taken the steps necessary to site and construct a Resource Recovery Facility in Rahway that will dispose of the 1,200 tons per day of solid waste generated by county residents.

Career women workshop slated

Union County College's Center for Adults Returning to Education will present "Professional Savvy: A Conference for Career Women" on Saturday, Nov. 14, from 9:15 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. at the College's Cranford Campus.
The conference, which is geared towards middle management women, will focus on setting career goals, making effective decisions, conducting self-assessments and coordinating careers with family and home life, according to Mrs. Lee Sellinger, CARE director.

Marlene Jensen, author of "Women Who Want To Be Bosses," will be the keynote speaker. She will discuss her book and answer questions about women and careers.
A variety of workshops concerning career growth, ethics, becoming boss, handling people, jobs and your identity and time management are scheduled.

Marla Potter-Katz, noted human resource development specialist, will present "Professional Savvy: Myth or Magic," a dramatic presentation dealing with issues from Jensen's speech.
The seminar will also include a buffet breakfast, refreshments, and a book fair.
The advanced registration fee is $75 or $80 at the door. For further information contact C.A.R.E. at 276-2600 Ext. 375.

New techniques assist stroke victims

More than 500,000 Americans suffered strokes last year, two-thirds of whom were paralyzed or permanently disabled as a result. New York City Mayor Ed Koch has brought much attention to stroke's impact following his recent illness. Although most of those affected were middle-aged and over, stroke is by no means an elderly person's problem. It strikes young and old alike.

Yet recent improvements in medical and rehabilitation techniques are changing the way in which physicians, insurers, businesses and the general public view the long-term effects of the disorder. More than ever, patients are returning to their homes, communities and active lifestyles, usually within weeks after the onset of their strokes.

"Going home makes patients more enthusiastic about their rehabilitation, and that makes them respond more to the medical, emotional and social support they are receiving in their therapy programs," says Dr. Wendy S. Kessler, Director of the Stroke Service Program at Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation, which has facilities throughout Northern New Jersey.

Kessler explains that most inpatient physical rehabilitation programs for stroke patients are intensive, combining up to five hours of therapy, education, retraining and hard work each day. Through rigorous therapy schedules, patients will work with teams of rehabilitation physicians, therapists and counselors, whose goal is to help patients regain lost strength and coordination, relearn basic communication skills, and deal with the depression that often results from stroke.

Kessler emphasizes that programs at Kessler Institute are individualized according to each patient's particular needs. For instance, a program might include additional hours of speech therapy sessions for the patient whose ability to speak or understand communication has been disrupted, while another program might stress physical and occupational therapy sessions for the person who can no longer function independently.

Although the risk of having a stroke may be reduced by regular physical examinations that include blood pressure checks, medication for high blood pressure and a low cholesterol diet, stroke is an acute event that often happens without warning. As Kessler explains, stroke causes damage to parts of the brain when normal blood supply is suddenly interrupted by either a blood clot or blockage.

Impairment occurring to the left side of the brain will affect the right side of the body and may impede such functions as speech, thinking, perception and memory. Conversely, a stroke occurring to the right side of the brain will affect the left side of the body and possibly impair judgment, spatial and perceptual abilities.

Fortunately, the outlook for significant or total rehabilitation has become more positive in recent years. In addition to a rigorous therapy schedule, the patient will spend time with a recreational therapist who will encourage the individual to participate in community events and activities again. Groups of patients are regularly taken on trips to the sports arenas, concerts, malls, movies and restaurants to emphasize that they can, with some adaptations, resume the life they lived before their stroke.

Some hospitals, like Kessler Institute, also will educate family members and friends who need to prepare themselves for the stroke patient's return home.

Those interested in learning more about available treatment for this and other illnesses and injuries can contact Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation, at 731-3800, ext. 242.

Psychologist will speak

Cranford psychologist Dr. Milton C. Spett will speak Saturday at the fall convention of the New Jersey Psychological Association. The public is invited to attend his presentation which is entitled "Cognitive Therapy of Anxiety and Depression."

Spett is a clinician and a teacher of clinical psychology. In his practice with Psychology Associates on Raritan Road, he has treated a full range of psychological problems using individual, couple and family therapy modalities. He also teaches a course to prepare professional psychologists for their state licensing examinations. Last year, more than 400 psychologists took Spett's course and heard him summarize recent developments in the field of clinical psychology.

Individuals interested in learning more about cognitive therapy who wish to attend Spett's presentation can contact the New Jersey Psychological Association at 535-9888.

Plans blood drive

St. Elizabeth Hospital is conducting its semi-annual blood drive on Nov. 4, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The North Jersey Blood Center's Bloodmobile will be parked in front of the main hospital building at 225-Williamson St. Elizabeth that day to accommodate all donors. The hospital also provides free refreshments to anyone who can donate blood.

For more information, call St. Elizabeth Hospital at 527-5137.

24-hour helpline seeks volunteers

Contact We Care, area 24-hour helpline for the troubled, is looking for telephone volunteers. Anyone interested in helping people with their problems, by serving with a Christian-based agency, may obtain details by calling 232-3017.

Contact We Care, which has been functioning in the area for the past 12 years, is operated by a 100-member volunteer staff which has completed professional training in a wide range of subject matter. Instruction includes topics such as listening skills, grieving, depression, substance abuse, family relations, suicide, and a number of others. Following the training schedule, volunteers usually serve on the lines 8 to 12 hours a month in four-hour shifts.

Adult men and women interested in additional information are urged to call 232-3017 promptly as some clerical preparation is required prior to enrollment for training.

Auto thefts mount...

Overall state crime rate down

Attorney General W. Cary Edwards announced that overall reported crime dropped 1 percent, according to preliminary crime statistics for the period January through June.

The Attorney General notes that the figures are only a "window" on the projected crime rate for 1987.

"It must be remembered that the statistics we are looking at only reflect the first six months of this year and no real conclusions can be drawn from them," Edwards says.

"Governor Kean and I are encouraged by the figures, but we will not be satisfied until there is a significant decline in New Jersey's crime rate," he adds.

Edwards points out that state government, within the past several months, has undertaken extensive measures aimed at "declaring a war on drugs," and that war will undoubtedly result in more arrests and an eventual increase in reported crime.

The Attorney General says that 56 percent of all crimes are drug-related. That means in New Jersey last year approximately 240,000 of the 400,000 crimes committed were drug-related.

"Armed with the knowledge that drug-related crimes were a significant factor in the overall crime rate, several major efforts were initiated to attack the problem," the attorney general says.

"Specifically, at Governor Kean's suggestion, the Legislature enacted the Comprehensive Drug Reform Act of 1987 which became effective July 9 and which totally revamped New Jersey's drug laws," he says.

"And on Oct. 5, we announced an unprecedented, Statewide Action Plan for Narcotics Enforcement during a meeting with the state's 21 county prosecutors," Edwards adds.

That plan included 141 directives and guidelines for police and prosecutors and will be implemented over the next 14 months. Edwards notes that the real impact of the plan won't be felt until the report for 1988 is compiled.

Edwards says that actions recently begun by law enforcement to attack drug-related crimes has impacted on the number of arrests and pointed to several figures that are not included in the preliminary crime report. Those figures include a 106 percent increase in drug arrests for July and a 104 percent increase in that category for August.

"It is almost a certainty that the initial effects of the drug enforcement program will create a rise in reported crime as more drug offenders are arrested," the attorney general says.

Colonel Clinton L. Pagano, superintendent of State Police, says that the preliminary figures appear to show that violent crime, which includes the offenses of murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault, decreased 9 percent while nonviolent crime showed no significant change.

Pagano notes that in the first six months of 1987, there were 30,464 incidents of motor vehicle thefts in the state and that that figure (for the first six months of a year) is the largest number since the inception of New Jersey's Uniform Crime Reporting program.

Pagano attributes this figure, an 11 percent increase, to the increasing cost of replacing auto parts as well as the fact that stolen cars can be turned in to "quick money for drugs."

Edwards says that in addition to the recent measures designed to attack drug-related crime, law enforcement has stepped-up its efforts to attack the overall crime problem through increased police patrols and more rigorous law enforcement resulting in more arrests.

The attorney general notes that he had previously indicated his concern at the overall picture portrayed by recent increases in New Jersey's crime rate and that he had instructed the State Police and the Division of Criminal Justice to "re-evaluate the figures, along with the causes behind them."

"Although the comprehensive report on the way crime statistics are submitted, analyzed and reported is not complete, initial indications are that the UCR reporting system will undergo modifications."

Edwards says the preliminary data reflecting New Jersey's anticipated crime rate for 1987 was compiled from reports submitted by 572 law enforcement agencies throughout the state.

Medicare premiums are slated to rise 38.5% next year — the largest jump in history! — on the recommendation of Glenn M. Hackbarth, Deputy Chief of the Federal Health Care Financing Agency (HCFA), which runs Medicare. This will mean that monthly premiums for 31 million elderly and disabled Americans will climb to $24.80 in 1988.

Why? Bureaucrats in Washington are attempting to blame the increase on doctors' fees for services. For example, Congressman Fortney H. Stark, Chairman of the Health Subcommittee, claims the current payment system "gives doctors a key to the treasury."

"Don't believe it. Physicians' fees for Medicare reimbursed services have been frozen for two and half years — and two years prior to that, New Jersey doctors voluntarily refrained from raising their fees.

of treating this disease were recently transferred to the already heavily burdened Medicare system.

Mr. Hackbarth says that the 38.5% increase is a "precipitous jump" made necessary by a policy decision to "hold down the premiums for 1987 and to spend down the contingency reserve." The Medical Society of New Jersey says what's really necessary is a close look at how government action has once again placed stress on the physician-patient relationship.

Please let your congressman know your feelings.

Has self-help theater troupe

The Mental Health Association in New Jersey has announced the formation of a new improvisational theater troupe, known as the Project Return Players of New Jersey. The troupe is the visible part of Project Return, a federation of self-help clubs for individuals who are recovering from mental illness.

The men and women of the Project Return Players work to reduce the stigma of mental illness by showing the pain and laughter of their own personal experience through improvisational theater techniques. They meet every occasion with humor and courage as winners, not victims. The Mental Health Players, a forerunner of Project Return Players, and an existing performing troupe, are also under the auspices of the Mental Health Association of New Jersey. As a comparison, the MHP deals with the stresses of home and the workplace for individuals with mental illness, but the actors are not necessarily consumers who have personally experienced these conflicts. Project Return Players are just that. All actors and actresses have overcome various mental illnesses and convey their own stories with wit, candor and comedy. They are successfully starting their lives anew with positive, constructive goals. They make their audiences smile, inside and out, because each show is finalized with the ultimate "truth" about each performer.

The Mental Health Association has appointed Sharon Kolker of Cedar Grove, as the director of this state-wide effort. It will be Kolker's job to establish at least three to four new theater companies in the state located in northern, central and southern New Jersey. Kolker has an extensive background in improvisational theater and has conducted weekly class for several mental health facilities in northern and central New Jersey. She has taught workshops at many hospitals and has given workshops for staff personnel at various county clinics.

The Mental Health Association in New Jersey is a non-profit volunteer organization that concerns itself with the needs of mentally ill...

Congregation, rabbi make a 'match'

HOWARD MORRISON, in the uniform of the United States Air Force, is a reserve chaplain. He has served at bases in New Mexico and Florida.

By BEA SMITH
How does a young rabbi feel about taking over the spiritual leadership from a veteran rabbi, such as Elvin I. Kose, who has served his congregation for more than 43 years?

Ask the handsome, neatly-braced 27-year-old Howard Morrison, who will be installed as the new rabbi of Congregation Beth Shalom, Union, this Sunday. With a shy smile and a sweep of his head, he sits aside any and all obstacles.

"I had met Rabbi Kose before I made my decision to come to Union," explains Rabbi Morrison, who is from Brookline, Mass., and who has had pulpits in the Bronx, Massachusetts and in the Bronx. "This position in Union is his first permanent one."

"During the interview process, I found that Congregation Beth Shalom is where I want to be. The people here have taken to me, and I've taken to them, and we've taken to each other," he grins. "It's a match."

Kose, who is now rabbi emeritus of Beth Shalom, is in Toronto for a year filling in on a sabbatical. "He wished me luck and success," says Morrison. "We dedicated the sanctuary in his name last Saturday night. It's now the Rabbi Elvin I. Kose Sanctuary. There is a beautiful plaque right over the door. And I'm glad they did it. It's a beautiful gesture."

The new rabbi says that the community is invited Sunday night at 7 to his installation. A reception will follow, and he says, the principal speaker will be Rabbi Joseph Brodie, dean of studies at the Jewish Theological Seminary.

"Although I've already conducted services here this summer, the installation is a public introduction to the community. I think it's sort of nice—a community event."

"This synagogue," says Morrison, "has a lot of potential. It has assimilated many Jews out there who

"I'm 27 now, one of the youngest rabbis in the area."
Before coming to Union, Morrison says, "I was not totally green. I had some rabbinical experience. I also am a reserve chaplain. In fact, I got a call today that I will be attached to the McGuire Air Force base near Fort Dix. I had served two summers as a chaplain in a candidate program for seminary students of all faiths. I spent the summer of 1983 in Montgomery, Ala. I was the only Jewish student. We had an even number of the muses. "roughly 29 Catholic students and 29 Protestant students — we were called seminarians — and me. I loved it! I think it's very important to have a Jewish presence in the Armed Service."

"I went to McGuire once and in the clinic I met a Jewish doctor who said to me, 'Glad to have you aboard. Even if it's only for one day a month.'"

"In the summer," says the rabbi, "I will be serving three weeks, as chaplain at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala. I do it more because of the Jewish people there. I see the people as a family, and there are families here trying to keep a cohesiveness, a togetherness. It's a different kind of rabbinate, and I love both aspects. They both overlap. Jewish people want to learn about Judaism."

Last year, Morrison studied the Yiddish language, literature and culture in the Urel Weinreich program. "A lot of older Jews are native Yiddish speakers. I want to relate to them in a natural way.

American-born Jews are not being exposed to the Jewish language. Yiddish has been with us a long time. We shouldn't let it go by the wayside, or let it disappear altogether. It's part of my roots. It's part of every European Jew's roots."

There are different types of rabbis, Morrison points out. There are professors, teachers and the pulpit rabbi. "There's a lesser number of rabbis who want to be a pulpit rabbi. But I know almost from day one that I wanted to be exclusively a pulpit rabbi. And I wanted to be in a small congregation. There's a warmth in a small congregation, such as mine here at Beth Shalom. Two hundred families are considered to be a smaller synagogue...at least, small enough to get to know the people's views. A communication is being made in a smaller congregation. This also is a traditional congregation, and I identify myself as a traditional rabbi. I was looking for a traditional congregation, Morrison says happily, "and I found it. I think the people here are interested in learning."

"Do you know that 50 people turned out for adult education classes this week?"

"Another reason I like being here is that it keeps me close to New York to my school. One day a week, I take classes at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York. I'm also near a lot of my colleagues. It's a 15-minute ride to Newark Airport that will take me to my home in Brookline. I'm not cut out as I might have been if I'd had a synagogue far, far away."

"I've made some new colleagues, too," Morrison smiles. "I belong to the Union Clergy Association, and I am active with the Union County Board of Rabbis. I'm really very fortunate to be in an area where I can easily make new friends, and very happy to do so. They've helped me to be comfortable in the community. Last Sunday, I gave an invocation at Union High School at an awards ceremony for teachers who had served five, 10 and 15 years, as well as those who had perfect attendance. I eagerly accept such invitations in general, not just in Jewish affairs."

The rabbi, whose name had been put on a placement list before coming to Union, had had "several interviews. I had met with groups. But this was the very first one I had. And there was something about Beth Shalom that stayed with me, all throughout."

"The young rabbi came home to the first synagogue he saw," he sighs contentedly.

AND WHY

you'll get more with a Howard Powered HERO.

If you own your home, let a Howard banker show you HOW to use the equity in your home for home improvements, bill consolidation, automobile purchases, education expenses and personal investments.

Your home is your financial castle.

We'll show you WHY a Howard Powered HERO® (Howard Equity Reserve Option) can free up your home equity to qualify you for a line of credit from $5,000 to as much as $500,000. With a HERO you can have up to 75% of your home's appraised value (less any outstanding mortgages or liens), to spend on whatever you need most.

The tax benefits of a HERO.

Under the new tax law, interest paid on HERO home equity loans and your existing mortgage balance remains deductible, provided that the loan is on your principal or second residence, in an amount up to the purchase price of your home plus improvements. Interest on additional home equity borrowing for education and medical expenses also is deductible.

It's easy to be a HERO.

It makes sense to apply for a HERO today, so you'll have your equity available whenever you need it. When your application is approved, your HERO money is at your fingertips — all you do is write a check.

Unlike some other home equity credit lines, the Howard charges no application fee, no points, and no closing costs, and until you use your HERO, no minimum monthly payment is required.

Find out more about HOW you can tap your home equity and WHY so many New Jersey residents are getting more out of life with a Howard Powered HERO. Call toll-free and let the Howard give you more credit for living.

Call for current low rate!

That makes a HERO even more valuable to you, since consumer interest deductions on personal loans, credit cards and other borrowing are being phased out. It's another way you're better off, Howard Powered!

Serving you locally at 2000 Morris Avenue and 2724 Morris Avenue, Union.

*The APR as of 9/27/87 was 10.25%. The APR on your HERO loan will be the APR in effect when you first draw your loan. Your interest rate may change. However, the Howard will give you the lowest rate possible up to the rate ceiling. Monthly requirements are as little as 1/8th of the outstanding balance of $100, whichever is greater, plus the accrued interest for the month. Or, you may repay any amount over the minimum up to your outstanding balance. And, you only pay interest on the money you use. All principal payments automatically replenish your line of credit. HERO is available to New Jersey property owners only.

Visitors mark fifth year

GLAD TO SEE YOU!— Jewish Family Service Friendly Visitors are volunteers who provide telephone reassurance and at home visits to the isolated elderly, offering human contact and reassurance.

The Jewish Family Service of Central New Jersey is celebrating its fifth year of providing telephone reassurance and at-home visits to the isolated elderly throughout the Union County area.

As program coordinator, Tom Beck spends much time selectively matching volunteers with their individual cases. "The agency's main concern," he says, "is to assure compatibility between the volunteers and the elderly they serve. The homebound elderly have little opportunity for social contact, so it is extremely important that they feel comfortable with their assigned volunteer."

Jewish Family Service Friendly Visitors, who donate about 30 minutes per week, provide companionship and social support through caring, conversation, and listening. Loneliness is a growing and often neglected problem among the elderly, many of whom live alone and have been restricted by limiting disabilities. Presently, the agency has 17 Friendly Visitors and eight telephone reassurance volunteers. But requests for volunteers are steadily increasing, and volunteer recruitment has become a major concern.

The agency would like to expand the membership to include a total of 50 volunteers to serve its three locations: Elizabeth, Scotch Plains, and Plainfield.

"Volunteers should be friendly, outgoing, and most importantly, good listeners," says Beck, who invites people interested in volunteering to call the agency at 352-3375.

Scott Baldwin: a 'Super' tailback who flies

By MARK YABLONSKY

For the record, it is not true that Scott Baldwin is able to leap tall buildings in a single bound, nor does he possess abilities far beyond those of mortal men, as does that legendary superhero of ours from the planet Krypton. And what is more, Baldwin does not run into a phone booth, change into his Superman costume and fly around Arminto Field, either.

But when you take into consideration all that he has done to the Roselle/Abraham Clark High football squad, then he might as well do all of the above. For while the speedy, 5-foot-2-inch, 185-pound senior is a first by most definitions, he does indeed fly — but around and between opposing defenses unfortunate enough to have to try and deal with this magnificent athlete, week after week.

"It's not every year that an athlete of Scott's ability comes along," said Roselle athletic director Charles Chretien. "He's so dangerous whenever he touches the ball, it's a potential six. I just wish everybody could see the run he had in the Hillside game."

What Chretien is referring to is a situation in the waning minutes of an Oct. 17 game in Hillside, where the Rams were clinging to a 14-12 lead, after having walked off the field at halftime with a 14-0 cushion. On a crucial fourth down-and-two situation at the Roselle 45, Baldwin, as usual, was handed the ball and asked to make it a first down. So what did he do? After committing himself in one direction, the star tailback — hit and quickly knocked off balance — until he regained his footing by using his free head to balance himself. That done, he spun in the opposite direction and broke off a stunning 55-yard scoring run that gave the Rams their final 12-margin victory.

Among those who witnessed that play was Roselle Park head coach John Wagner, who has always been one to admire sparkling ability.

"It's obviously a real talent in Union County," said Wagner, whose Panthers will have to try-and-deal with Baldwin on Thanksgiving Day at Arminto Field. "He's got to be one of the top backs in Union County for sure. He has size and speed. And obviously, when you plan on defending Roselle, he's your primary concern. You've got to stop him, but you have to try and contain him."

Which is certainly easier said than done. After coming close to registering a 1,000-yard season in 1986, Baldwin appears to be well on his way to attaining that coveted mark this fall. Through his first four games, the senior has accrued a total of 688 yards in 113 carries, good for a sturdy 6.1 average. Included in those statistics are efforts of 153 yards against Dayton Regional and a truly remarkable 233-yard performance in that game against Hillside.

But what is not included among those figures is an 88-yard touchdown run against Ridge that was called back because of a penalty. Come to think of it, those confounded penalty flags have also nullified a 65-yard touchdown punt return, and a touchdown pass of 58 yards to teammate Tim Smith on a halfback option, both of which occurred in that 15-12 upset loss to Dayton on October 10, a game in which Baldwin when the flag did not go in his way, that is — ran for both tassel scores, including a 76-yard punt

"I don't want to take on too much when I get to college, but that's what I really want to play — running back," Baldwin said.

In statistical terms, the top game of Baldwin's career to date occurred in a 1985 game against North Plainfield, when a 271-yard performance in just three quarters of playing time sparked his team's 19-0 win. But Baldwin, who had started the 1985 season at quarterback before injuries to key personnel saw him make the switch to tailback, has one game in particular that remains at the top of his all-time list of favorites — a game against Dayton last year at Meisel Field in Springfield.

With time running out and Roselle parked on the Dayton 10-yard-line, Baldwin tried to complete an option pass — but it was intercepted by John Smith, who has since moved on to college. But with the play falling and with the game now over, Dayton appeared to have hung on for a 20-19 victory — until a pass interference call gave the Rams one more shot, since a game cannot end on a defensive penalty. So with no time on the clock, Baldwin went to the option pass again, this time hitting Tim Smith for the winning score, after the pigskin had deflected off of the older Smith's hands. Roselle won, 25-20, giving then-unbeaten Dayton its first loss of the 1986 season.

"I'll never forget that game," recalled Baldwin, whose team had to battle back from an initial 13-0 deficit in that contest. "It just goes to show you what can happen if you don't give up."

Interestingly, even with Baldwin, making the transition from quarterback to tailback several games into the 1986 campaign, there wasn't all that much of an adjustment for him to make.

BORN TO RUN — Roselle tailback Scott Baldwin, left, is a never-ending source of productivity and reliability for head coach Lou Grasso and the rest of the Abraham Clark High football squad. Baldwin, who has run for nearly 700 yards so far this year, figures to be a top choice of several Division 1 collegiate programs.

return that gave the Rams their first and only lead of the day early in the fourth quarter.

If those penalties had not occurred, it is quite probable that the Rams, instead of being 2-3, would be legendary superheroes of ours from the planet Krypton. And what is more, Baldwin does not run into a phone booth, change into his Superman costume and fly around Arminto Field, either.

But when you take into consideration all that he has done to the Roselle/Abraham Clark High football squad, then he might as well do all of the above. For while the speedy, 5-foot-2-inch, 185-pound senior is a first by most definitions, he does indeed fly — but around and between opposing defenses unfortunate enough to have to try and deal with this magnificent athlete, week after week.

Olympic fundraiser goes well

Ideal temperatures and sunny skies set the stage for the New Jersey Olympic and Tennis Classic, a fundraiser held earlier this month to benefit U.S. athletes competing in the 1988 Olympic Games.

Sponsored by the United States Olympic Committee for New Jersey, the event drew nearly 100 golfers and 40 tennis players from businesses throughout the state and raised over $100,000.

Governor Thomas Kean, honorary chairman of the U.S. Olympic Committee for New Jersey, was present at the Murray Hill Racquet Club in New Providence to kick off the tennis portion of the event. He teamed with partner Nick Scamano of AT&T to defeat tennis star Althea Gibson and her partner, Bill Tomoney — the director of development for the United States Olympic Committee, in an exhibition match.

Ernie Grunfeld, a 1976 basketball Olympic gold medalist and Darcy Daniels of the Maritz Motivation Corp., earned top tennis honors.

Event honorary co-chairs Fuzzy Zoeller and Carol Mann hosted a golf clinic for participants before the non-golf shotgun start at the Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield.

Low gross golf winners were Jerry Fenzel, Charles Johnston, Richard Lanyi and Robert O'Mara, representing Fenzel and Company with a score of 342.

Low net winners with a score of 332 were Brian Fitzpatrick, Tom Hocker, Jack Hodge and Alan Mendelson of Maritz Motivation. All winners received crystal awards.

Additional prizes were presented during the evening awards ceremony. Robert Sauer of AT had the Straight Drive at Hole 1. The Longest Drive Award at Hole 18 went to Charlie Johnston of Fenzel & Co. Closest to the Pin Award at Hole 16 shooting, Larry Walker of AT&T won the grand prize drawing — a $1500 gift certificate to Liberty Travel.

"Today's informal competition sparks a feeling that is the heart and soul of the Olympic movement," said one participant. "The Olympic ideal is not about putting gold medals on the shelf, but rather about uniting people through friendly sports competition."

The United States Olympic Committee is the central coordinating body for amateur sports in the U.S. and provides opportunities for American athletes of all levels of skill and age in preparing and training for a variety of competitions.

Individuals are urged to send their tax-deductible contributions to the United States Olympic Committee for New Jersey, 285 North Maple Avenue, Room 42-213, Basking Ridge, NJ 07020.

IN THE BEARS' DEN — And that's certainly not a very good place for this beleaguered New Providence runner to be, as a swarm of Brearley Regional tacklers engulf him in last Saturday's action up in New Providence. Two late touchdowns enabled the undefeated Bears to nip the Pioneers, 27-26.

Mini camp slated

The Central Jersey Pre-Season Mini Camp will be held on Saturday, Oct. 31 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Sunday, Nov. 1, from 1-4 p.m. at Union Catholic High School.

The mini-camp will be co-directed by state championship coaches Neil Horne and Kathy Matthews of Union Catholic High School, and John Samogri of Rutgers in Newark. Open to all boys and girls in grades 4-8, camp instruction will include dribbling, ball handling, passing, rebounding, individual offensive moves, pivoting, defense, and three-on-three, as well as five-on-five competition.

In addition, a special shooting clinic with Sonny and Ernie Hobble, a nationally-acclaimed shooting instructor, will be held on Nov. 1 from 9 a.m. to noon, also at Union Catholic High.

More information may be obtained by calling 654-5691.

About things that go 'boo' in the night!

On Oct. 31, children and adults around the world will don costumes and celebrate Halloween. Many of them might not be aware that the traditions they are practicing were started by ancient Celts in the fifth century B.C. in Ireland and added to by ninth century Europeans.

While Halloween is predominantly a lighthearted children's holiday, back in the fifth century it was strictly for serious adults who believed that on Oct. 31 people who died during the previous year would choose a body of a person or animal to possess during the next year. Then, after a year's time, they could pass into the afterlife.

Unfortunately for the Celts, the process had to be repeated every year in order to prevent squalls from entering their bodies.

During the holiday, then called "All Hallows Eve," the Celts put out all fires in their homes in an effort to make them cold and as undesirable as possible to the spirits. In an addition, they dressed as demons, hobgoblins and witches while boisterously and destructively going through their homes in an attempt to frighten away the spirits.

Later that night, the Celts would gather in the village around a huge bonfire that served two purposes: honoring the sun god for the past harvest and scaring away the spirits.

Halloween celebrations of this time could be considered mandatory due to the fact that villagers who appeared to be possessed could be sacrificed in the fire as a warning to spirits which were considering human possession.

When the Romans adopted the Celtic practices around 61 A.D., they celebrated a toned-down

Museum sets fall tours

The Newark Museum's "Fall Caravan" tour schedule of guided day and weekend trips via comfortable, chartered motor coach will enhance the autumn traveling season with visits to an exciting selection of artistic and historic sites, and museums in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

The panache of Philadelphia shines through on the excursion, "Americana, Philadelphia Style," on Oct. 31. First, members will view the extravagant 19th century funerary art at Laurel Hill Cemetery where visitors will be able to stroll through this vanishing piece of Americana led by author John E. Marion. Lunch at the London Inn will be followed by afternoon tours of two 18th century restorations: the Powell House, one of the finest Georgian houses in America; and the Federal-style Hill-Physick-Keth House, with exceptional Federal and Empire furnishings. The all-inclusive tour fee is $56.

Three major exhibitions at the Museum of Fine Arts, plus the newly renovated Evans Galleries for Paintings, make "A Sterling Boston Weekend" on Nov. 6 through 8 an irresistible destination for those who appreciate fine and decorative arts. En route, a stop at the Wadsworth Athenaeum is scheduled to view the comprehensive survey, "American Women Artists, 1839-1930."

In Boston, visitors will view the exhibits, "Andrew Wyeth: The Helga Pictures," "The Silver of Tiffany and Company, 1850-1930," and "Charles Sheeler: Painter-Photographer." Also included is a visit to the new Arthur M. Sackler Museum in Cambridge. On Sunday, a guided tour of Boston is planned prior to lunch at the private St. Botolph's Club. The inclusive tour fee is $150 ($115 extra for single supplement).

On Nov. 14, the New Jersey Committee for the Humanities joins the Newark Museum in sponsoring a New York City poetic journey with the tour, "A Vision of Romanticism in Verse." A celebration at New York Public Library's exhibition, "Wordsworth and the Age of English Romanticism," is followed by brunch and poetry at the Landmark Tavern. The day concludes uptown at the Greater Club where Edward Moran, an aficionado of poet Marianne Moore, will interpret this poet's exhibition, "Vision into Verse." The $28 fee includes lunch.

On the excursion, "Jacob Lawrence," on Nov. 19, four members will become acquainted with one of America's most celebrated black painters when they visit a major retrospective of his ### work at the Brooklyn Museum. The trip begins with a look at works by Lawrence in the Newark Museum's own collection. Following the Brooklyn Museum's exhibition, a lunch at a Moroccan restaurant in Brooklyn is included. Next, stop at the Center for African Art in Manhattan to tour "Perspectives: Angles on African Art," which focuses on the aesthetics of African art as seen by artists, historians and collectors: The $46 fee includes lunch. A busy day is planned on the tour, "Premiere Arts Collection," on Dec. 3. En route to Philadelphia, a visit to picturesque Andalusia, a 250-acre estate, and one of the purest Greek Revival houses in America filled with American and continental furnishings, is planned. Tour guests may lunch on their own at the Philadelphia Museum of Art, before viewing one of the world's greatest private collections, recounted in "McHenry: The Man & His Art." It contains superb examples of 19th- and early 20th-century French art: Also on view will be the "Marcel Duchamp Centennial Celebration" exhibition. Members will conclude the day with tea at famous Wanamaker's. The inclusive tour fee is $42. Lancaster will offer a delightful treat to Americans at this special time of year on the tour, "Lancaster's Holiday Splendor," on Dec. 12. A glimpse of history and holiday glitter will provide a special treat while touring two spectacular houses. First, a visit to Wheatland, the Federal-mansion of Pennsylvania's only president, James Buchanan, will be followed by lunch at the charming Windows restaurant. A visit to the Farmer's Market precedes an afternoon tour of Conestoga House, a Colonial-Revival style mansion which will be aglow with the holiday spirit. Traditional wassail-punch-and-homemade treats will be served. The all-inclusive fee is $56. For preview brochures and additional information on four special Museum international tours to "Morocco," Dec. 25-Jan. 5, "India," Feb. 22-March 15, "Russia," May 21-June 4, 1988, and "China," Oct. 1988, please contact the Newark Museum's Membership Office. Membership is required for weekend or overseas trips. Museum non-members must add $5 for each day tour. Itineraries, additional membership information and reservations may be obtained through the Membership Office of the Newark Museum, 49 Washington St., Newark, 07101, or by calling 596-6644.

Theater

Newark Public Library will show the 1978 German language film, "Nosteratu, the Vampire" Oct. 31 at 2 p.m. The film is 106 minutes long and has English subtitles.

George Street Playhouse, 9 Livingston Ave., New Brunswick, presents "Princess Grace and the Fairytale," a comedy. For reservations, call 246-7717.

Potpourri

YM-YWHA of Union County will hold its Harvest Moon Ball for seniors Oct. 30 at 10:30 a.m. Call Rae Rosenbaum at the Y, 289-8112 for reservations.

Francaise Tavern Museum is sponsoring a one-day excursion to Philadelphia Nov. 4 to commemorate the bicentennial of the United States Constitution. Registration information can be obtained by calling 426-1778.

Right to Life of Union County will have an open house in the Knights of Columbus Hall, 2400 North Ave., Scotch Plains. Films will be shown.

The Watchung Amateur Ski Club is having a Halloween Party Oct. 31. For information, call 235-4189.

Professional Secretaries International, Union County Chapter, meets Nov. 4 at the Westwood Restaurant, North Avenue, Garwood, 789-9698 at 8 p.m. For reservations, call Maureen Broadbent at 785-5918 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The Clark Historical Society runs guided tours of the Dr. William Robinson Plantation, a restored 17th century farmhouse and grounds at 583 Madison Hill Road, Clark, on the first Sunday of every month, except January, February and March. Groups may visit by appointment. On Nov. 1 and Dec. 6 there will be an open house and holiday shop. Call 388-8999.

Search begins for Mrs. New Jersey

Lillian Lehman, state director for the Mrs. New Jersey Pageant, announces that her office is now accepting applications for the 1988 pageant year.

Now in its 12th year, "the Mrs. America Pageant" was created to recognize the one person most discriminated against in America's beauty competitions — America's married woman. As the only major beauty pageant exclusively devoted to our country's 53 million wives, it not only serves as a showcase for women, but also focuses national attention on the versatility of the contemporary American wife," says Lehman.

Prospective contestants must be at least 18 years of age as of the date of entering, married for at least one full year as of the date of entering, a New Jersey resident for at least six months as of the date of entering, and a U.S. citizen. She may be a mother, grandmother, high school graduate, or hold a doctorate, be a homemaker or a professional woman. Those interested in becoming a contestant may submit the following information: current snap shot, black and white, full length; a brief biography and tell why they decided to enter the pageant; Lillian Lehman, state director, Mrs. New Jersey America Pageant 1988, P.O. Box 1033, East Brunswick, 08816.

Halloween by outlawing human sacrifice and using effigies instead.

As time passed, the belief in spirits lessened and Halloween became the lighthearted autumn holiday we know today.

Americans have Irish immigrants to thank for bringing the Halloween practices to the country when they fled their country's potato famine in the 1840s.

The Irish also brought over the custom of lighting jack-o-lanterns. Turnips, the original vegetable used to make a jack-o-lantern, were scarce in the new world, so the Irish used the abundant pumpkins in this country for their custom.

The Irish folklore that resulted in the custom of carving faces in pumpkins goes something like this:

A drunken, slovenly man named, of course, Jack tricked the devil into climbing a tree. He quickly carved a cross into the trunk thus trapping Satan until he swore to never again tempt Jack to sin.

However, when Jack died, he was refused entrance into heaven for his sins yet barred from hell as he had ruined his relationship with Satan when he tricked him.

Not having anywhere to go until Judgment Day, Jack struck up another deal with the devil asking him for some surplus embers to use as light during his stay in limbo. The devil, not known for his generosity, gave Jack a single coal which Jack reportedly put into a turnip he had chewed hollow creating the first jack-o-lantern.

Although the Irish brought this now harmless custom with them to America, they are also alleged to be responsible for bringing over the custom of mischief night when their youths over-turnded outhouses and unhinged front gates during the night.

Ninth-century Europeans are responsible for first initiating trick or treating. The most widely accepted theory on it traces the custom back to the religious holiday—All Souls Day, a holy day where to this day people pray for deceased loved ones whom they believe are not yet in heaven.

"On All Souls Day, Christians went from house to house begging strangers not for candy and fruits but square biscuits called "soul cakes." In return, the beggars promised to offer up prayers for the dead relatives of the treat givers with the amount of biscuits given dictating the number of prayers that would be said.

Halloween's sky is spooky

By JOHN B. WOLF
Professor, Union County College

Watch the sky this Halloween if the moon is full, you might see a witch astride her broom pass the yellow orb followed by a flight of bats or an owl.

Witches, bats and owls are symbols of Halloween. The ghostly "hoot" of the owl, for example, probably gave rise to the spectral noises attributed to hobgoblins and other spooky characters.

Without a powerful searchlight and the courage to invade the woods at night, you might never see an owl up close. Many avid bird watchers use a high beam to spot a species of owl that's new to them, otherwise they could never be sure that the distinctive "hoo-hoot" they heard belonged to the voice pattern described in their field guide.

Owls are cosmopolitan birds, distributed worldwide. The Great Horned Owl is widespread in the woodlands of North and South America. It simply refuses to be displaced by the residential construction that's making inroads into its traditional territory.

This Halloween, don't attribute the ghostly noises you hear to some character from the nether world. As you cavort through the streets, the hoots you hear are probably emitted by a Great Horned Owl. A bulldozer, opening up a tract for some homes down the block, convinced the bird to settle closer to your place.

The Great Horned Owl's hooting is distinctive, four or five light in color and use reflective tape to outline and decorate your costume for greater visibility.

If you wear a mask, enlarge the eyeholes so you can see in all directions and be sure to take it off before crossing streets. Why not use make-up instead of a mask?

Carry a flashlight to help illuminate the way.

Obey all traffic safety rules. Cross only at corners, walk on sidewalks or facing traffic where no sidewalk is available, and never cross the street between parked cars or in the middle of the block.

Satisfy hunger by eating a meal before you trick-or-treat. Don't be tempted to eat your treats before they have been sorted and checked at home.

This year why not plan a Halloween party instead of trick-or-treating? Ghost stories, games, costume competitions, spooky decorations and unique refreshments can be plenty of fun on a chilly October night.

AAA's advice to those who must drive on Oct. 31 is to be aware of the unexpected. Be sure to turn your headlights on at dusk, limiting speed on residential streets to no more than 15 miles per hour between 5 and 9 p.m. Watch for children darting out from between parked cars and use caution when pulling in or out of driveways or turning right on red.

Halloween is a night for caution

The frightening part of Halloween isn't ghosts and goblins, but the increased potential for automobile accidents involving excited young pedestrians. Cleverly disguised and dashing around town collecting goodies from house to house, children are often not aware of the traffic around them.

Always trick-or-treat with a parent, older sibling or group of friends. Never trick-or-treat alone.

Plan your trick-or-treat route in advance, picking well-lit, familiar streets. Also determine what time you are to return home.

Try to trick-or-treat when it's light outside.

Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, see and be seen.

Make certain your costume is

TRICK-OR-TREATERS — should take care when haunting area neighborhoods this Saturday night. Parents can help ensure the safety of their phoos and goblins with brightly-colored Halloween bags featuring important safety tips. distributed free from banks or businesses, courtesy of PruCare of New Jersey.

Bank offers bags

The Howard Savings Bank is offering free trick or treat bags for use by youngsters.

The bags, printed with safety tips that remind youngsters to carry a flashlight for use after dark, visit the homes of friends, and have fun safely, are available in all Howard branch offices beginning Monday, Oct. 19.

They will be distributed to visitors free of charge while the supply at each branch office lasts.

Why wait for a special occasion to enjoy a very special dinner.

Dinner at the highly acclaimed Upper Crust restaurant is a special occasion all by itself. With elegantly appointed surroundings, beautiful table settings, and attentive service. But what you'll find most impressive is our fine American cuisine and fresh native seafood. Featuring entrees such as Blue Claw Crab Cakes with a Chile Corn Salsa, Woven Salmon and Sole with a Dill Beurre Blanc, Steamed Coho Yearling Salmon with Fresh Herbs, or Medallions of Veal with a Pink Grapefruit Sauce. Our chef has also prepared many imaginative dishes which reduce the calories, but not the enjoyment of gourmet dining.

After dinner, there's the lure of The Laurel's with great music in a contemporary setting. Call and make your dinner reservations now. Because even if you're not celebrating a special occasion, we'll make it seem like one.

For reservations, call (201) 515-2000.

TWO ANNIVERSARIES — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korszoloski, couple from left, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Materna, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. They are all of Linden.

Joint anniversaries are observed

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korszoloski of Linden celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary jointly with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Materna of Linden, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

The Korszoloskis were married Sept. 4, 1937 in Saint Stanislas Church, Austin Heights, Pa., and have lived in Linden ever since. They have a daughter and son and five grandchildren, and the celebrants renewed their vows in Sacred Heart Cathedral in May. The Maternas were married Sept. 2 in the Church of St. Theresa of the Child Jesus, Linden, by the Rev. Frederick Miller. They have two daughters.

Both anniversaries were celebrated Sept. 6 with a Mass in the afternoon at St. Theresa's Church. Concelebrants were Monsignor William Gorski and Father Miller. A special blessing was given to both couples.

A party was held in their honor at the Forge Inn, Woodbridge, by the children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korszoloski, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korszoloski Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Materna, and their children, Kim Marie Materna and Karen and Arthur Musialowicz, all of Linden.

One hundred guests attended, some of them from Buffalo, N. Y., Connecticut, Michigan, Niagara Falls, N. Y., Ohio and Pennsylvania.

MCA signs Tiffany

TIFFANY

By MILT HAMMER

Pick of the New LPs: "Tiffany," MCA Records.

The label signed Tiffany in 1986. She was 14 at the time. They all knew they had signed someone special, someone for the long haul. Then the problem began. What do you do with a 14-year-old whose voice is as commercial as the best-selling female pop singers in the world, very few of whom are under 25?

In the marketing plan, do you start off by explaining that she is 14 and hope people will think that's remarkable and get just the curious to listen, or do you take the position of letting no programmers or music journalists meet her until after she's had success, making it more remarkable in light of the fact that she is only 14? All the people involved with the artist had different yet apparently valid arguments for their position. All of the problems of dealing with a 14-year-old have been solved, because she's finally turned 15.

On its musical merits alone, Tiffany's self-titled LP showcases an exceptional debut on a par with artists more than twice her age. There's a strength and confidence that punches through each cut on the album. "Daddy" is the first single. There are two remakes on the album, an imaginative rendition of The Beatles' "I Saw Her Standing There" and a very current-sounding "Tommy James classic," "I Think We're Alone Now." There are few people who couldn't relate to the lyric of the moody, provocative "Spanish Eyes," possibly the most interesting song on the album; and the utter naturalness of "Kid On A Corner," speaks the unspoken sentiments of the average American teenager.

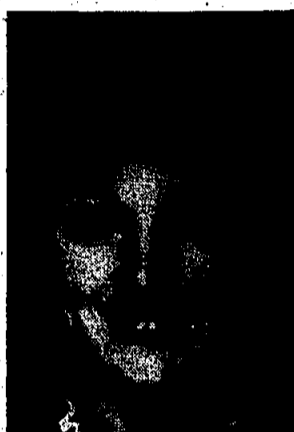

For range and lyrical intensity, "Could've Been" gives Tiffany a chance to explore the big ballad and sell a great lyric. This is one singer who couldn't relate to the lyric in a way that makes each of these songs her own, even to the point of singing all background and harmony parts herself.

Glee Club resumes

The Westfield Men's Glee Club has resumed Monday night rehearsals at 8 p.m. in the choir room of the Presbyterian Church, Westfield. Patrick Clynes will begin his second year as director, and the Westfield Glee Club will begin its 63rd season.

The club invites men singers of the area to join in a Monday rehearsal. Assistance will be given as the Glee Club prepares for the Christmas concerts scheduled for Dec. 12 and 13.

Active singing members, associate and patron and business memberships are available. Additional information can be obtained by calling Dale Juntilla at 232-0073.

DONNA KANE

'One' musical on Mill stage

"My One and Only," featuring the music of George and Ira Gershwin, will open at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, Wednesday and run through Dec. 13.

The musical revue, directed by Richard Casper, tells a tale of an American aviator who dreams of making the first solo flight across the Atlantic and of his romantic pursuit of the beautiful star of a British aquatic show.

With choreography by Patti D'Beck, the show will feature a sequence of dance numbers to such Gershwin tunes as "My One and Only," "Is Wonderful," "High Hat" and "How Long Has This Been Going On?"

"My One and Only" stars George Dvorsky and Donna Kane. Dvorsky comes to Paper Mill from a national tour of "1776," and prior to that, he performed as a featured soloist at Kennedy Center in a musical revue devoted to composer George Gershwin. He and Kane starred together in the New York revival of "Dames At Sea," a production that earned her the 1986 Theater World award for "outstanding new talent." Paper Mill audiences will remember Kane from last year's "1946's Radio Hour."

Performances will be Wednesday through Sunday at 8 p.m.; Thursday matinees at 2 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday matinees at 3 p.m. Tickets and additional information can be obtained by calling 376-4343.

Funding has been made possible in part by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State.

Your Horoscope

For week of Oct. 29

ARIES (3/21-4/19) This will be a very tempting week for you in terms of burning up your credit cards. It would be wise to resist these temptations and keep a close watch on your wallet. There is some travel in your stars concerning business.

Taurus (4/20-5/20) There may be some tension this week with your mate, but it will be very minimal, so don't spend too much time worrying. Someone at work is eyeing your job, but you have no reason to worry.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20) It's high time to prioritize your activities and get on a regular schedule. You'll accomplish more and won't have to work so hard in the long run.

CANCER (6/21-7/22) Although business meetings are somewhat of a disappointment, so take heart. The weekend looks to be full of fun and surprises.

LEO (7/23-8/22) A family member seems to be in a dispirited mood this week, but just batten down the hatches and weather this storm. You'll soon find out what's troubling this person and will be able to clear things up. Travel is favored, so take advantage.

VIROO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) While loved ones are not in accord concerning finances this week, good news soon comes to dispel these clouds. Take sometime this weekend to attend to some neglected household chores. It would be good to spruce up before the holidays.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have little patience this week with a loved one. However, as the week unfolds, you will find more harmony and romance, so bite your tongue. A family tie is in trouble and needs guidance from you. Assess the situation, but don't actively interfere.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An irksome problem at work will be seen through with tenacity and wisdom. Others will see this and respect you for it. What appears to be impossible is accomplished, and rewards soon result. It is wise to investigate an investment idea.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) While the beginning of the week is full of strife with family members, you can all benefit from this. Everyone's been talking, but no one's been listening. Take time alone to sort this out, and by week's end, all will run smoothly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) You're champing at the bit to accomplish your goals concerning your career, but this is not the time to plunge ahead. Remember that these things do take time and patience. Family members ask you help with a problem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Business meetings are not going as you anticipated, so negotiate wisely. Advice comes from a close friend whose observations are right on the mark. Take heed. The week will end on a more positive note.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) This is a good time to assess your personal appearance and perhaps to reevaluate your wardrobe. Not only will you look better, you'll feel better about yourself as well. Financial matters are favored this week.

SCENE FROM 'STAIRS' — Marjorie Lathrop, left, Pam Heller, center, and Jack Grasso are seen in scene from the Westfield Community Players' production of William Inge's comedy-drama, "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," to be staged tomorrow and Sunday, Nov. 6, 7, 13 and 14 at 8 p.m. Additional information can be obtained by calling 232-1221.

Performers to go to Europe

Dr. Ted Schlosberg, director of the Westfield Summer Workshop, has announced plans for a group of young performers to travel to Europe this summer. They will bring the songs of the American musical theater to towns in Austria and Germany. Forty high school students will rehearse the revue of songs and scenes from Broadway shows during the five-week workshop session. After performing the show as part of the workshop's final week of special events in July, the group will fly to Munich and spend 12 days touring Germany and Austria, performing at several cities in the area.

Jim Bell, one of the group's directors, has accompanied several student groups on concert tours of Europe. The directors will hold auditions for the traveling troupe on Nov. 5 and 6 from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m. at Westfield High, 550 Dorlan Road, Westfield, in room 115. Auditions are open to those who will be entering grades 9 to 12 in the fall of 1988 and those who have just completed high school. Auditioners should prepare a song; an accompanist will be provided. More information may be obtained by calling Schlosberg at 233-8460.

2 outreach recitals set

The New Jersey Youth Symphony, Inc., will present two student chamber music recitals Sunday. The simultaneous presentations will begin at 4:30 p.m. at the Great Hall of Drew University, Madison, and the Fine Arts Building, at Raritan Valley Community College. There is no admission fee.

Among the musicians participating in the recital will be Walter Nisorenko of Union.

Ensemble Outreach is part of the music training of all members of the Preparatory Orchestra and the String Ensemble, as well as music students from local communities. The chamber music ensembles, grouped by ability into quartets, trios and quintets, are coached for six weeks by professional music staff. The recital programs are the culmination of the training sessions. The second session of Ensemble Outreach for both college sites is scheduled from Feb. 7 through March 30, 1988. The program also offers introductory study on viola, string bass, bassoon and trombone. Interested music students who wish ensemble training can contact the Youth Symphony office at 524-6985 for further information.

Chamber concert is featured Sunday

This is the second of five concerts in this year's "Mostly Music" chamber music series presented throughout the 1987-1988 academic year as part of the college's Cultural Arts Festival. The concert will feature music by Mozart, Chopin and Brahms. Accompanying Peakonov, Willey and O'Riley will be regular "Mostly Music" performer, Toby Hoffman on viola.

There will be a pre-concert program where guest artists and compositions will be introduced to the audience. Reservations and additional information can be obtained by calling 276-2600, ext. 288.

BILLY ECKSTEIN will perform in concert tomorrow at 9 p.m. in the Club Bene Dinner Theater, Route 35, Sayreville.

Lawmakers meet developers

State legislators from Union and Essex Counties met recently to discuss the state's development issues with members of the New Jersey Chapter of the National Association of Industrial and Office Parks. The meeting was the fourth in a series of breakfast meetings sponsored by the group to familiarize state legislators with the chapter's views on state legislative issues.

The meeting was coordinated by the Developer's Political Action Committee Regional Chairwoman Anne Evans Gibbons, president of Elberon Development, Clark and Robert Franklin of Sudler Construction, Riechland.

Legislators in attendance included Senator C. Louis Bassano (R-Union), Assembly Speaker Charles Barwick (R-Union), Assembly Republican Conference Leader Robert D. Franks (R-Union/Essex), Assemblywoman Marion Crecco (R-Essex) and Maureen Ogden (R-Essex/Essex), and Assemblymen

Harry McEroe (D-Essex), James Zangari (D-Essex), John Kelly (R-Essex), and William Brown (D-Essex).

Jeffery Horn, New Jersey Chapter executive director, opened the formal discussion session by introducing the legislators to the organization and some of the major legislative and regulatory issues confronting the development industry in New Jersey.

Horn discussed implementation of the newly enacted freshwater wetlands legislation and its impact on development in the state. Horn also explained the chapter's position on ECHA (Environmental Clean-up Responsibility Act) reform saying that while the chapter supports efforts to clean-up the state's environment, it feels the Dept. of Environmental Protection (DEP) must administer the program in a more timely and efficient manner.

Robert Franklin outlined the chapter's viewpoint on TRAN-

Doing your own thing tip

Potatoes, onions and just about any other fruits or vegetables you keep on hand will stay fresher — longer, in this storage bin made of pine. The top shelf is flat allowing you to store canned goods or dish towels, while the bottom two drawers are actual bins. The wire mesh fronts of each bin allow the air to circulate around the foodstuff which in turn keeps moisture from rotting the fruits and vegetables.

Measuring approximately 39 inches tall by 16 inches wide and 11-3/4 inches deep, this practical piece of furniture is easy enough for the amateur woodworker to complete. Our step-by-step directions with accompanying photos guide you in construction. Assembly is a series of gluing and nailing the pieces together.

To obtain Storage Bins, Pattern 797, please send $4.50. Send check for money order to Steve Ellington, c/o County Leader Newspapers, P.O. Box 2283, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409-2283.

It's a fact!

It's true that termites do more than $750 million of damage each year in this country. But, according to International Wildlife magazine, their ecological good may outweigh the economic harm. Of the 2,000 species, only about 10 percent cause any economic damage at all. On the other hand, all of them benefit us because they recycle vast quantities of cellulose, making its atoms available to living plants.

How to put a lid on home heat costs

Have you noticed what's been happening at the gas pump these last few months? Slowly, but surely, energy prices have been creeping up.

If you'd like to keep the lid on your heating bills, there are some simple and inexpensive things that should be done in every home, according to energy specialists at Rutgers Cooperative Extension. How do you identify the really important ways to save energy? A good way is to concentrate on the major energy users in the home, and on the major routes of wintertime energy losses.

The biggest consumers of energy in the home are the heater, the hot water heater and refrigeration equipment. Anything that enhances the efficiency of these appliances can provide significant energy savings. Make sure your oil burner is tuned up and cleaned each year. The hot water heater should have an insulation jacket and the coils on the refrigerator should be cleaned once or twice a year.

Recent research indicates that air leakage is the major culprit in many homes. Blocking those drafts is really important! Attic insulation should also be adequate — 6 to 8 inches of fiberglass, or the equivalent, is recommended. Since windows account for 20-30 percent of the average home's heating bills, some improvement may be in order here; weatherstripping is an excellent way to block drafts, and can make old, loose, windows almost like new again!

For more detailed information on these and other energy savers, ask for the free bulletin, "Controlling Household Energy Costs I and II", available from the Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County office.

Trip planned

A one day trip to New York City to visit the new acclaimed exhibits at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the fully restored birthplace of President Theodore Roosevelt and the historic old Merchants House will take place Dec. 8.

In the morning there will be a guided tour of the Rockefeller Wing and other new features of the museum. In addition there is the exhibit entitled "The American Paradise: The World of the Hudson River School" and the "Treasures of the Ottoman Sultan Suleyman, The Magnificent."

In the afternoon we will visit the elegant Roosevelt Birthplace, built in 1854 and the imposing old Merchants Home in the East Village.

The fee for the trip includes transportation, all admissions, guides and free parking, but does not include lunch. It will leave Millburn at 8 a.m. and return about 5 p.m.

For more information and registration call Sigmund Taft at 978-2570.

AAA offers advice on winter auto maintenance

There's nothing like a severe winter cold snap to bring out the worst in a poorly-maintained car, and nothing more irritating than a car that won't start when you need it the most. According to the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club, now is the time to prepare your car for the cold weather driving season.

Time to put on some polish

On the first warm weekend each spring, auto stores do a brisk business with car cleaner and wax. Sprucing up the family car is a spring ritual as American as the Indianapolis 500. However, winter presents hardships for autos far more drastic.

If you are about to tackle some seasonal car cleaning, watch for parking lot nicks and scratches, especially where bare metal shows, the Car Care Council says. Rust spreads at an alarming rate, so touching up those spots is a good idea any time they show up, not just when the weather breaks.

Cleaning and waxing the car can give it a new lease on life! The finish may have been subjected to any one or all of its worst enemies: air pollution, industrial fall-out, road salt, ocean spray, tree sap, and/or bird droppings. The latter is especially hard on paint because it contains a high percentage of lactic acid.

Some new cars are less vulnerable to all of the above. They are factory finished with a two-step process that provides an extra layer of protection on top of the base coat. According to the National Paint and Coatings Association, this "state-of-the-art" process makes it possible to choose from a selection of colors that previously were unavailable because of their tendency to fade.

If you are in the market for a new car, look into the two-coat finish. If you're not, says the Council, get out your touch-up paint and wax. It's a profitable way to spend a weekend.

Change the motor oil and replace the filter making sure the weight will perform satisfactorily in winter. A multi-grade oil (such as 10W-40 and 50W-40) works well in almost all engines and has a flowing consistency that will adjust itself to varying temperatures. The lower number refers to its ability to flow adequately in cold weather. The lower the number, the more cold it will withstand, while the higher number means the oil will maintain its ability to lubricate when hot. Be sure to check your owner's manual for manufacturer's recommendations on the best type of oil for your car.

Brake fluid level should be within a quarter-inch of the top of the master cylinder. The screwdriver is needed to pry off the clip that holds the cover of the brake fluid chamber.

Check the level and strength of antifreeze in the radiator and inspect hoses and connections for leaks. Some cars have overflow tanks where the coolant level can be checked visually. Strength of antifreeze can be checked easily with the hydrometer. Drain, flush and refill the radiator with a 50-50 solution of antifreeze and water. This should be done at least once a year.

Power steering fluid can be checked on a dipstick similar to the oil. To avoid overfilling, add the fluid gradually and test the level several times.

Hold the carburetor air filter up to the sun or next to light. If you can't see through it, it's time for replacement.

Check the automatic transmission fluid with a dipstick which is located behind the engine on the passenger side of most cars. The car should be parked on a level grade with the engine running.

Test for fan belt tension and look for fraying or cracking. Press your thumb on the middle of each drive belt. If the belt gives more than a half-inch, have it tightened or replaced.

All headlights should be in working order and properly aimed. Tail, brake and directional lights should be checked and cleaned.

By taking care of these tasks now, you should be well prepared for the arrival of winter and your car should operate more efficiently. (For a free copy of the brochure, "The Complete Guide of How to Go on Ice and Snow," write: AAA New Jersey Automobile Club, Safety Department, 1 Hanover Road, Florham Park, 07822-1889.)

is also a good time to rotate tires making sure to follow guidelines provided in the owner's manual. Avoid mixing radial and non-radial tires. Snow tires can be used on all four wheels of rear-wheel drive cars to maintain a front-rear traction balance, but should be mounted only on the front wheels of front-wheel drive cars.

Check tire pressure with a gauge and inspect the tread depth (conventional tires require a minimum of 2/32-inch, must and snow tires need 5/32-inch). Because tire pressure decreases by one pound for every 10-degree drop in temperature, inflate tires to their maximum specified pressure. This

Winter's checklist tips

When the going gets cold this winter, make sure your car keeps going. Get it ready now for better driving, efficiency and improved economy. Start with this easy-to-follow checklist:

• Coolant: Be certain it is strong enough for cold temperatures. Drain and flush cooling system if coolant appears rusty. Periodically add water to maintain proper coolant and water mix.

• Engine oil: Truly the lifeblood of your car. Check for proper oil level by reading oil dip stick found near oil fill cap. Keeping oil level full helps your car run more efficiently. This can now be easily and cleanly done by using Kendall Superb 100 10W-30 or 10W-40 Gasoline Saving Motor Oil in handy FUN-FIL resealable one-quart plastic containers.

• A consistently "full" oil level adds to overall engine performance. For diesel car owners, Kendall Super-DSE, the motor oil engineered for automobile diesel engines, offers complete diesel engine protection.

• Oil change: Oil change every

3,500 miles helps engines run better because 80 percent of driving is of the stop-and-go variety, creating higher running temperatures and increased wear on the engine as well as throat.

• Carburetor and choke: Clean the carburetor and reset the choke to avoid overfueling and a loss of fuel economy. A malfunctioning choke will cause difficult start-up in cold weather.

• Battery: Maintain proper water levels. Use a wire brush to free terminals of any acidic buildup. Carefully tighten cables to terminals.

• Transmission and axle fluids: Hardly ever checked. Both are crucial to vehicle life. Check levels and change at manufacturer recommended intervals.

• Grease: Clean wheel bearings of grease and reapeck with fresh, high quality wheel bearing grease to defend against water and road salt.

• Warm up from a cold start: Avoid extended idling at warm up especially in cold weather. Allow 15 seconds then proceed at moderate speed.

Earth was thrown from the side ditches toward the center. They were called highways. Smaller private roads became known as byways.

New automotive paints need care, too

The second biggest investment made by today's consumer is an automobile.

Appearance plays an important role in the maintenance and resale value of your car. And while many of us believe that today's automotive paints are virtually indestructible, nothing could be further from the truth. In fact, paint needs to be attended to with the same diligence and dedication as the rest of the car.

Megular's, the car care specialists who have been formulating and manufacturing waxes, polishes and preservatives since 1961, recommends the use of Megular's Car Cleaner/Wax which provides exceptional high gloss and protection to acrylic lacquer, enamel, metallic, urethane and clear coat paints, foreign and domestic.

This particular product has been designed to clean aggressively and yet it is as easy to apply in either its soft paste or liquid version, and will not harden or cake like ordinary waxes.

Megular's Car Cleaner/Wax removes oxidation, revives color and "feeds" the paint with rich natural oils and leave a tough, long lasting protective shield that is detergent resistant—all in one easy step.

But even the best paint finish preservative cannot make up for regular "paint" maintenance, cautions Megular's. Prompt removal of tree sap and bird droppings as well as periodic car washing are essential to the long-term life expectancy of painted surfaces.

Check oil symbol first

Motorists, including new car shoppers, now can look for the American Petroleum Institute's (API) Engine Service Classification Symbol when selecting motor oil for their autos and trucks as an indication of an engine oil's quality and characteristics.

The donut-shaped symbol may be found on the label of motor oil containers, or your vehicle's engine oil fill cap and vehicle owner's manual. The symbol system, developed by the API, describes three things about motor oil: the oil's performance quality; its "viscosity" or thickness; and whether it has demonstrated fuel-saving properties.

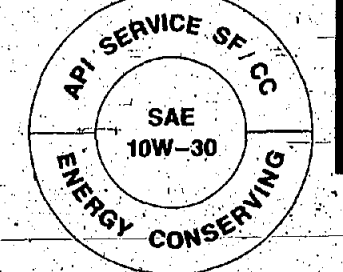

The performance category, described in the top half of the symbol, defines oils for gasoline engines, listed as SE or SF, and for diesel engines, listed as CC, CD or CE. The performance category is determined by carefully controlled engine tests which measure how the oil controls wear, sludge, varnish, oil thickening, rust, bearing corrosion, and piston deposits.

Your car owner's manual may recommend oils with more than one performance rating, such as SF/CC or SF/CD. These oils provide additional protection from high temperature deposits in some newer automobiles, such as those with turbo-charged engines.

The center of the symbol describes an oil's Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE) viscosity grade, the oil's ability to flow, or its thickness at various temperatures. In a 10W-30 oil, for example, the 10W indicates low-temperature viscosity. This describes how quickly an engine will turn over and start in winter or at low temperatures, and how well the oil will flow to lubricate critical engine parts at low temperatures. The lower this number the more easily your engine will start and the better it will run in colder weather.

The second half of the number (30) indicates the oil's ability to keep heavily loaded engine parts separated by an oil film at high engine operating temperatures. The higher this number, the thicker the oil. When an oil is identified with a single viscosity grade, such as SAE 30, the number refers to high-temperature viscosity. A multigrade oil, such as SAE 10W-30 or SAE 5W-30, satisfies most of the engine manufacturer's specifications.

The bottom half of the symbol tells motorists whether the oil has demonstrated fuel-saving properties. If an oil has shown fuel-savings in comparison to an industry reference oil in a carefully controlled test, it can be labeled "energy conserving."

For additional information, contact the American Petroleum Institute, Marketing Department, 1220 L Street, Northwest, Washington, DC 20005.

Tips on high-gloss finishes

During the last few years, there have been dramatic changes in the paint system technology used by the auto industry, which have redefined the way automobiles look and how they must be cared for.

One of the most important changes has been the introduction of a new two-coat finish process, which has been designed to give the car a longer-lasting, high-gloss look. The "color coat/clear coat" system, as it is called, provides the traditional base coat of pigmented paint over which a special clear coat is applied.

This new paint system provides a deeper, more lustrous finish which can keep the car looking, for longer periods of time, as if it just rolled out of the showroom. The beautiful look of the color coat/clear coat finish can leave car owners with the impression that they need never wax their car again. However, as we all have been told, looks can be deceiving. When to wash and wax. With traditional one-coat paint finishes, car owners have always just waited till the finish looked dull as an indicator of when to wash and wax. Unfortunately, the new finish technology does not deliver such telltale signs.

The new color coat/clear finishes have been designed to remain shiny, even while dirt, road stains and weathering are working to damage it.

Effects from this wear and tear generally will not become recognizable until the outer clear coat layer has been broken down. By then, it is too late for basic maintenance work. Sustaining the beauty of these special new finishes can be a relatively simple task, which does not have to be a time-consuming proposition.

Follow regular maintenance program. Although car care experts recommend a maintenance program that includes the seasonal use of a well-formulated car wax for both color coat/clear coat and conventional car finishes, regular washing is a real plus to help keep cars looking beautiful longer. Special one-step products have been designed to bring something extra to this all-important step.

Clean motor oil is a 'must'

Clean oil, at the right level on the dipstick, is the lifeblood of your car's engine. Not only does it lubricate those precision internal engine parts, oil also serves as a cleaning agent.

Because it has detergent capabilities, a quality grade of motor oil will clean harmful contaminants and grill inside the engine and carry them to the oil filter where they are trapped.

Beyond failure to change oil, people are not even raising their hoods and checking their engine dipsticks as often as they should. An American Automobile Association survey of 5,147 vehicles in seven states showed 21 percent at least one quart low on oil. In another AAA test, 44 percent were found in that condition. Check oil regularly, keep the oil level up to or near the full mark, and when buying oil, pay attention to the label on the container. Your best bet; select a brand you recognize of the type specified for your car. A product with the SF code on the container is required for most cars. Diesel engines and some turbocharged or high-performance engines require special types. Check your owner's manual to be sure.

Oil does not wear out, but its chemical additives do. Consequently, it's wise to change oil regularly for maximum protection. Every owner's manual describes driving circumstances that demand more frequent maintenance. Those conditions, usually referred to as "severe service" operation, may prove to be normal driving conditions for many drivers. A good rule of thumb, says Car Care Council, is to change oil seasonally or every three to four thousand miles. For added protection, change the filter each time you change the oil.

Gas quality is vexing drivers

Millions of Americans will take a trip by car this winter, but some of them may not get very far because of gasoline quality problems, the American Automobile Association said.

With colder winter temperatures and excessive gasoline volatility caused by fuel additives, some cars will not operate properly under winter driving conditions, AAA said. Butane, a petroleum derivative added to enhance octane, improperly blended alcohols, or insufficient detergents in some brands of regular unleaded gasoline can result in fuel problems.

Butane and alcohol additives can increase the volatility of gasoline above levels for which cars were designed, causing auto engines to stall, stumble or hesitate under normal driving conditions. Vapor lock, which occurs when liquid gasoline in the fuel system turns to vapor at higher engine temperatures, may cause stalling and hard starting problems if fuel pumps are unable to supply enough fuel for the engine.

Late-model cars with multi-part, fuel-injector systems also may require a high-detergent gasoline to keep fuel injectors free of gummy deposits. Major refiners are adding detergents to premium grades of gasoline to help reduce fuel-injector clogging.

Excessive gasoline volatility, AAA said, poses both safety and convenience problems for motorists. Cars that stall at highway speeds, or at street intersections in city traffic, could become hazardous. AAA said motorists should not automatically authorize mechanical repairs or a tune-up if a properly maintained car in good condition exhibits vapor lock symptoms. They may be buying unnecessary repair work. Normally, cars that stall or will not start because of excessive gasoline volatility will start properly when the engine cools down.

Gasoline volatility has increased in recent years as refiners maintain octane quality with relatively cheap additives. AAA noted that fuel quality is not subject to periodic inspections by most states, and many refiners cannot always control fuel blending by distributors.

Group helps find a good mechanic

Buying and maintaining a car today is costly — so costly, it makes good sense to take care of it properly. Fortunately for motorists there is a non-profit group which has

A/C OK in compacts

Air conditioning, considered a "must" by most car buyers, now is an option on even the smallest of vehicles. Lightweight, miniaturized compressors are more efficient, making it possible for small engines to handle the load.

However, because these downsized power plants work harder than their big brothers to carry a family plus luggage on a summer vacation trip, the added burden of an air conditioner may warrant a change in driving habits.

Here are a few suggestions from engine and air condition experts:

□ When you see a long, hard pull coming ahead, adjust the air conditioner to a warmer setting or temporarily shut it off completely.

□ In a passing situation, where emergency acceleration power may be necessary, turn off the air conditioner to remove that added load from the engine.

□ If yours is a manual shift, avoid "lugging" the engine (allowing it to strain at too low engine speeds). Shift to lower gears more frequently to ease the strain on the engine.

□ Turn off the air conditioner when inching along in bumper-to-bumper traffic. This may make you and your passengers uncomfortable for a while, but it can prevent overheating of the engine. Sometimes, in extreme heat, one must resort to opening all of the windows and turning on the heater just to maximize circulation of coolant.

□ Be sure the car is kept in good mechanical condition. Cooling system maintenance along with a tune-up are especially critical for small engines operating under these conditions.

taken the guess work out of finding a good mechanic.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (better known as ASE) was founded with one goal in mind: to certify the competency of mechanics by means of tough exams. ASE conducts exams in eight different automobile specialty areas, and each exam tests the mechanic's diagnostic and repair skills. Upon passing at least one test and having two years' hands-on work experience under his belt, a mechanic becomes an "ASE Certified Auto Technician," one of proven pros.

ASE has certified thousands of mechanics since it was founded in 1972. In order to stay certified, each ASE technician must retest every five years to stay abreast of changing technology — with today's high-tech cars, that's mighty reassuring to the average car owner.

Right now, there are over 100,000 ASE proven pros at work in 50 states. Finding an ASE certified automobile technician should not be hard. Simply look for the sign at thousands of repair establishments. The blue and white ASE outdoor sign means that the shop employs at least one certified technician. Most employ more. Since there are eight ASE specialties, be sure to request that your repairs be performed by an ASE technician certified in the problem area, say brakes or electrical systems.

With today's expensive cars, it makes sense to take them to the proven pros, the ASE certified auto technicians. Going anywhere else could be a costly mistake.

Transmission 'sniff test' is helpful

It is possible to tell if an automatic transmission has been overheating by the appearance and odor of the fluid. When fluid has become excessively hot, it may have a burned odor and be brown rather than red in color.

What causes the transmission to overheat? Abuse — typically, improperly "flogging" the car out of snow or mud, also by operating under severe load, such as with trailer towing in hilly areas, without having added a transmission cooler.

'Normal' or 'severe' driver test quiz

Are you a "severe driver?" The Road Ahead publication explains that if you frequently operate your vehicle under severe driving conditions, as outlined in your owner's manual, then the answer is yes. It is important that each motorist understand the difference between normal and severe driving in order, to follow the correct scheduled maintenance procedures for your vehicle.

Who are severe drivers? Although most people would not consider themselves in that category, the Filter Council said that only about 20 percent of all cars are regularly driven under "normal" conditions; i.e., highway driving for extended periods of time. That means that 80 percent of all cars are operated under abnormal or "severe" conditions. According to Road Ahead, frequently taking short trips of less than four miles, particularly in cold weather, is one of the most common forms of severe driving. If you operate your car under this condition, and seldom do any highway driving, be sure to change your oil often. Refer to your owner's manual for recommendations on engine oil changes. Typically, a three-month/3,000-mile interval is recommended for gasoline engines in cases of severe driving. Other cases of severe driving cited by the publication include:

 - Idling for long periods of time, such as stop-and-go driving in heavy traffic. Many cars are subjected to this type of driving in rush hour twice each day.
 - Sustained highway driving in hot weather, such as occurs during vacation travel.
 - Carrying heavy objects on a rooftop rack or towing a trailer or boat.

- Driving in dusty conditions, such as over dirt or gravel roads or where sand or volcanic ash is blowing.
 - Prolonged operation at sub-zero temperatures.
 - Driving on steep hills or mountains on a regular basis.
 By performing routine maintenance at scheduled intervals that take into account whether you are a normal or severe driver, you will operate your car more safely and economically, the Road Ahead publication stated. These precautions will also keep your vehicle properly maintained to qualify for warranties.

Did you know?

If your automatic car wash uses liquid waxes, be sure to clean the wax from your windshield and windshield wipers right after you go through the car wash. When it rains, water mixes with the wax and smears the windshield, making it difficult to see.
 An old broom and garden hose may be the best automotive tools in the average garage. Winter often leaves a supply of packed mud and salt in the wheel wells of a vehicle. This mixture can eat away at the metal, causing severe rust problems later on. Using that old broom as a brush and directing that hose with a full force of water at those areas will clean out an accumulation of rust-causing debris.
