Kurnos defeats Cieri, 2,272 - 2,241

By JOHN A. GAVIN
 For Philip Kurnos, the plan was simple. Give the people a message and they will respond with votes in your corner.
 On Tuesday, Kurnos' plan worked to perfection as he upset former Mayor William Cieri Sr., the Democratic candidate, and won a seat on the Springfield Township Committee. Although Kurnos' margin of victory was small, gaining 2,272 votes to Cieri's 2,241, a 31 vote margin, the impact was big. Cieri, a popular man in town, had served on the township committee for nine years before opting last year not to seek re-election.
 Kurnos, on the other hand, had no political experience. Although the GOP candidate was well known in town, that familiarity was mostly the result of his involvement with the Recreation Committee and the Minuteman football and basketball programs. However, when Springfielders went to the polls on Election Day, they voted heavily for the soft-spoken, graying man even in districts that previously had been considered Democratic strongholds.

 "I feel exhilarated because I feel that the people in Springfield got the message," said Kurnos, moments after having official word that he had won a seat on the committee.

See Page 2 for town-by-town election results in the Legislative District 21 race for the state Assembly and Senate.

See Page 10 for the tally in the race for Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Kurnos, however, won 54 percent of the vote there, tallying 166 votes to Cieri's 150.

Kurnos credited his overall success to his campaign strategy. Instead of printing colorful brochures, he said that he wrote letters to each registered household in the town to explain his platform and how he would handle the issues.

"I felt that the only way that I could get my message to the people would be to write them letters, explain what's happening in this town and what I planned to do about it," Kurnos said. "My campaign was unique in the sense that it was a letter campaign addressed to the people."

Kurnos said that he felt that many town residents were disillusioned with high taxes and the garbage situation and wanted to see new leadership. With his election, the Republicans will now have a three to two majority on the five-person committee and he envisions some changes.

"The people who were in office before, just weren't doing the job," said Kurnos. "They were handling a multi-million dollar business like a mom and pop store. And people were apparently disgruntled about that and they felt that they needed a change."

Tuesday's election turnout, however, was low in Springfield. Only 29.5 percent of the 8,500 registered voters bothered to come out to the polls. Kurnos' candidacy obviously was helped by the success of the other Republican candidates.

Police trained to initiate CPR at accidents

By JOHN A. GAVIN
 As an emergency call blasts on his two-way radio, Officer George Hildner stomps on the brakes, switches on the emergency lights and whirls his patrol car around on Mountain Avenue — all in one fluid motion. As the radio dispatcher gives details of the traffic accident, a summons for help is made to the Springfield First Aid Squad. For Hildner, that plea gives him more incentive to rush to the accident as quickly as possible.

As with the other 39 members of the Springfield Police Department, he has been trained to initiate life saving procedures and administer cardiopulmonary resuscitation. And since members of the police department normally are the first ones to respond to emergency calls, the time that it takes for an emergency medical unit to arrive could be the difference between life and death.

"If you're the first one on the scene when there is cardiac arrest, you start CPR and you keep that CPR going," Hildner says about those initial moments in a life threatening situation. "And if a squad does happen to come from a longer distance, like another town, it's your responsibility to keep it going."

Those precious moments of administering CPR saved the life of a driver who was involved in a traffic accident at Mountain Avenue and Caldwell Place in late September. On that day, Hildner, along with Sgt. Ivan Shapow and Officer Richard Mickles, responded to the accident and found the driver in full cardiac arrest. They administered CPR until members of the First Aid Squad and medical unit arrived.

Just last Tuesday, Officers Peter Fico and Mitchell Fenton administered CPR on a resident who was in full cardiac arrest. Springfield First Aid Captain Elizabeth Fritzen credits their swift action to saving that person's life.

Although such actions may seem routine, they are not. Many police officers do not give first aid or CPR at the scene of an accident. Unfortunately, many towns, including Springfield, do not have enough first aid volunteers to adequately respond to all emergencies. Consequently, police assistance in first aid has been essential to the town in overcoming its first aid manpower problems.

"Having the police officers around is a big help for us," adds Fritzen. "All of our officers are CPR trained. Also, they are a big help because they can give us a hand in manpower and the lifting of victims."

In Union Township for example, police officers don't give first aid or CPR. Consequently, their First Aid Squad has had to call for extra outside help for routine calls. Just last week, the neighboring members of the New Jersey State First Aid Council's Mutual Aid Squads — Springfield, Kenilworth, Maplewood, Short Hills and Millburn — announced that they would no longer service the township except in an emergency requiring full mobilization of area units.

In Springfield, however, local residents have realized that having personnel on the police and fire departments who know first aid and CPR is an asset. On Oct. 27, Mayor Edward Fanning and Police Captain William Chisholm honored Hildner, Shapow and Mickles for their actions by giving them exceptional duty medals. Also honored that night were Police Officer Steven Stockl and Fireman Donald Schwerdt in other life saving incidents.

For those officers, it was a good feeling knowing that the town appreciated the extra efforts they make to serve the community.

"In a job where a lot of things that you do are not gratifying, it's personally uplifting to do something where you will be recognized," says Shapow, an 11-year veteran of the force. "In the past, such awards didn't take place. Chief Chisholm seems to recognize a job well done."

In order to keep up with the latest life saving techniques, local officers take a special CPR course administered by the American Heart Association at Overlook Hospital, Summit. Although the training is an extra responsibility, most officers agree that it's well worth the time spent to learn the updated techniques.

"I don't think that a police department should be without that training," says Hildner, also an 11-year veteran of the force. "You are helping the public in a situation like that. That's a plus for Springfield."

Composting recommended

Town to dispose of leaves in quarry

By PAUL PEYTON and SUZETTE STALKER
 The change of season, and with it the familiar turning of tree leaves to orange, crimson and gold, is creating a serious problem for area residents this year who don't know how to dispose of their leaves.
 Many neighboring communities are being asked to compost leaves in their yards. In the past, private trash collectors picked up leaves which were placed in bags and then hauled to the Edgeboro landfill, which is no longer accepting leaves.

But Springfield is not facing the same type of crisis as many other communities. Officials are presently waiting for word from the county on whether they can begin using the former Houdaille Quarry as a compost site for their leaves.

Sylvester Boettcher, Springfield superintendent of Public Works, says the town is storing its leaves at the township pool's parking lot.

"Hopefully, we will get the OK from county pretty soon," he said.

Town officials should know by the end of the week whether they can begin dumping their leaves at the quarry. The final terms of a permit are currently being worked out between representatives of the state and county.

Boettcher says the town encourages residents not to place their leaves in bags. He did say, however, that leaves will be picked up whether they are in bags or in the street.

Union County Utilities Authority, Union County will accumulate approximately 270,000 cubic yards of leaves this autumn, 150,000 of which must either be disposed of or recycled.

Only four communities are presently equipped to deal with the situation. Cranford, Westfield, and Summit each have state-permitted recycling facilities, while Linden has a private landfill in which to deposit its leaves.

Kazar states that leaves comprise approximately 10 percent of the solid waste generated by the county.

Other communities, including Mountainside, had hoped to utilize the quarry, but this option has since dissolved following the UCUA's announcement Oct. 9 that the site only had the capacity to deal with leaves from Springfield and the county.

Residents are also being urged to to compost their leaves. A study from Rutgers University states that composting is achieved by piling leaves in a pile where drainage is available. Leaves should be kept damp in order for the leaves to decompose. Decomposed leaves may be removed from the bottom of the pile and fresh leaves can be placed on top.

The study states that the compost area should be contained with either woven wire or slat fencing or cement blocks placed on their sides. Water should be added to the leaves if they are too dry.

Composted leaves can be used as a soil conditioner or soil mulch, the study indicates.

Winning artists listed

The Springfield Recreation Department has announced winners of its Halloween Window Painting contest.

Student artists in grades five through 12 painted the windows Oct. 17 creating Halloween scenes on the storefronts on Morris Avenue in the downtown section of Springfield. Local merchants volunteered the use of their windows.

First-place winners were: Michelle Keller, grade 5, for her painting at the Lighting Den; Karen Auer, grade 8, for her painting at Creative Travel; Linda Remillard, grade 10, for her painting at Clinton Paint; and Ray Foley, grade 12, for his painting at Floral Dreams.

Second-place winners were Jamie Feeley, grade 6, for her painting at Fin and Feather; and Nicole Picciotto, grade 7, for her painting at Jewelry Repair.

Third-place winners were Nick Boyle, grade 6, for his painting at Clinton Paint; and Kelley Hydock, grade 7 for her painting on LTD Printing.

All of the winners will receive trophies from the Recreation Department. First-place winners in each category will also receive a $10 gift certificate from the Leisure Arts Center located at Echo Plaza on Route 22.

Peter Cook completes FAA course

Peter J. Cook recently completed the Federal Aviation Administration's 11-week Air Traffic Control basic screening course at the FAA Academy in Oklahoma City. Cook is the son of Edward and Marie Cook of Washington Avenue, Springfield.

Before coming to the Mike Monroney Aeronautical Center in Oklahoma City, Cook, a former first lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps, passed stringent written and physical examinations under Civil Service. Normally only 60 percent of students complete the intense course which teaches air traffic procedures and handling of large and small aircraft in the nation's airspace system.

Completion of the screening program gives Cook a Civil Service rating GS-9. Upon reporting for duty in FAA's Eastern Region, the new air traffic graduate will work toward the ATC journeyman classification.

The FAA, under the Department of Transportation, is the nation's regulatory agency for aviation. The FAA Academy is the agency's principal source of technical training with resident courses.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat Magnet' Diet Pill Guarantees Fast Weight Loss
BRYCERY HILL, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

No Dieting—Eat Normally
Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods and don't have to change your normal eating habits. You will start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

There has never been anything like it before. It is a totally new, major medical breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patent pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks up thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in fat particles. Then, all that trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body because it cannot be digested.

"Pills Do All the Work"
According to the doctors, the fat-magnet pills do all the work while you quickly lose fat with no starvation diet menus to follow, no calorie counting, no exercising, and no hunger pangs. It is 100% safe. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals.

The fat-magnet pills have just been offered to the American public and are already sweeping the country with record sales and reports of dramatic weight loss. It's the "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public
If you need to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 2016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W32, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unauthorized mail-order sales are prosecuted under 100% anti-fraud). Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) Congratulations...

To both the winners in Tuesday's election and the voters who went to the polls to cast their ballots.

Election Day is the one day during the year when Americans can demonstrate the meaning of Democracy to the rest of the world.

Greater meaning of Veterans Day

Veterans Day, Nov. 11, in a very real sense should be of great significance to all Americans. This is a day established by the Congress of the United States to honor the millions of Americans, men and women, who joined the ranks of our nation's armed forces in defense of liberty and our precious freedoms.

At the same time, let us reaffirm that our nation's strength and greatness rests on a foundation that declares "veteran" an honorable word, a word that symbolizes fulfillment of the highest obligation of citizenship.

Futurist to speak at church

Several developing trends in the national economy and in the workplace will have a profound impact on American families, according to futurist R. Morton Darrow.

Dr. Darrow, author of Family Service America's newly released report, "Work and Family: the Future," will discuss his thought-provoking findings when he speaks at Christ Church, 561 Springfield Ave., Summit, on Nov. 10 at 8 p.m.

This special program will be presented without charge by Family Service Association in Summit as the counseling agency's gift to area residents in a somewhat advance observation of Family Week Nov. 22-28.

R. Morton Darrow, an expert in strategic planning and future studies, is a former vice president and senior officer of Prudential Insurance Company of America. His observations are based on current and future political, social, economic and technological trends. They will cover the effect on families and family values of such changes as corporate accentuation of profit and de-emphasis on providing goods or services or creating jobs; the impact of high-tech methods and the continuing problems for women who mix employment and family.

of the cost. Another $1.9 billion was paid by Medicaid, which provides health insurance for the needy. A Congressional task force recently reported that about 7.5 million of the 28 million elderly were in nursing homes in 1984, and that another 4.5 million were receiving long-term health care services at home.

"There is a serious need today for nursing home insurance and child need will become even greater as the number of Americans 65 and over increases to 65 million by 2030."

Long-term care bill proposed

The vice chairman of the House Aging Committee, Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-N.J., has introduced legislation to expand the availability of "affordable" private insurance covering long-term care at home or in a nursing facility.

The Rinaldo bill, which has the backing of a bipartisan House leadership group, would extend tax credits to insurance companies writing policies that cover costs of an extended stay in a nursing facility and other long-term care services. Companies that included the coverage in their employee health insurance plans would also receive Federal tax credits.

"This protection is essential with nursing home care," Rinaldo said. "This legislation is needed because few people can afford this care — Medicare covers only 100 days of skilled nursing facility care — and the catastrophic health care bill approved by the House and now awaiting action in the Senate does not include a long-term health care provision. This is a serious omission, that must be corrected."

Among the House leaders co-sponsoring the Rinaldo bill are Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., chairman of the Aging Committee, and Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., vice chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee's subcommittee on Health and the Environment, which will have jurisdiction over the measure.

The congressman said he wants to spur the private sector to make long-term health-care insurance available at more affordable rates by offering tax incentives to the underwriters and establishing a reinsurance agency to insulate them against unreasonable losses associated with the long-term nursing care.

It is estimated that the tax incentives, which would cost the U.S. Treasury about $40 million over five years, would permit insurance companies to offer nursing home protection at a monthly premium ranging from $15 or less to $55 for most individuals, depending on their age. The congressman said long-term care premiums currently can exceed $4,000 a year, and the average annual cost of care in a nursing home is about $22,000.

CPR course is offered at hospital

Overlook Hospital, Summit, will offer a four-part Basic Cardiac Life Support Course which is open to anyone over the age of 14. Classes will be held Tuesday, Nov. 17 and 18 from 7 to 10:30 p.m.

Participants will learn one- and two-man CPR, infant and child CPR and Obstructed Airway Techniques for both adults and children. Those who successfully complete the course will receive an American Heart Association certification card.

AIDS and other contagious diseases has made the public more reluctant to begin CPR on strangers, a fear that is understandable. Therefore, all participants in CPR training classes held through Overlook Hospital will receive a microshield protective device to be used first on the training mannikin, and then carried in a convenient and small vinyl case for possible use on a victim if sudden death is encountered. This mask will provide a physical barrier between the victim and prevents biological contamination between victim and rescuer.

There is a fee for this course, with a reduced fee to members of a rescue squad, police or fire department, it was announced. Early registration is suggested because the class size is limited to the first 25 registrants. Anyone interested can call 822-2365 for further information.

Urges parents to be watchful

Human Services Commissioner Drew Altman urges parents throughout New Jersey to be sure that child care centers and nursery schools where their children are enrolled are licensed by the department's Division of Youth and Family Services.

"More families are relying on day care services as adult family members are increasingly joining the workforce. Working parents need to feel secure that the day care services their children are receiving are safe and that the programs offered are appropriate and contribute to the growth and well-being of their children," Altman says.

To qualify for a state license a center must meet comprehensive requirements with respect to life safety, building standards, child supervision, staff, qualifications, staff-to-child ratios, nutrition, health care, program activities and administrative practices.

DYFS' Bureau of Licensing periodically inspects each licensed center to monitor compliance with state standards.

State law requires the licensing of most publicly and privately operated child-care centers that serve six or more children below 6 years of age. Licenses must be renewed every three years.

Licensing regulations also contain safeguards aimed at preventing child abuse and neglect, such as requiring centers to thoroughly screen job applicants.

In addition, licensing regulations require centers to involve parents in center activities and give parents the right to visit the center at any time, without prior notice. They also allow for community involvement in determining how the center will operate.

"The division provides a valuable service to parents in ensuring that the state's day care system meets certain standards of safety and quality. We are committed to helping parents find the best child care for their children," says William Waldman, acting director of DYFS.

At present there are 1,850 licensed child care centers statewide, serving approximately 106,000 children. The division's licensing bureau maintains regional listings of licensed centers and will verify the status of any center.

For more information on licensed centers in your area or on how to secure a license to operate a child care center, contact DYFS' Bureau of Licensing, CN 717, Trenton, 08622, (609) 292-1021.

A copy of the information guide, "How to Choose a Child Care Center," is available free of charge from DYFS' Office of Community Education, One South Montgomery St., Trenton, 08625, (609) 292-8318.

UCUA takes tour of ash disposal site

The Union County Utilities Authority this week sponsored a tour of the Sprout Brook Ashfill, located in New York's Westchester County, for UCUA members and municipal officials.

The tour was designed to provide local officials with a first-hand look at a modern ash residue disposal facility. The Sprout Brook Ashfill is used by Westchester County to dispose of ash from its resource recovery facility and is similar to ash disposal facilities planned for Union County.

Sites in Elizabeth and Linden were identified last year by a county consultant and officially certified in the solid waste plan as being suitable, pending final environmental analysis, for development as landfills. The landfills will be used to dispose of ash residue from Union County's "resource recovery facility, which will be operational in 1991, and leachate and bypass waste generated within the county.

"According to Garland 'Bud' Joothe, chairman of the Union County Solid Waste Advisory Council and commissioner of the Union County Utilities Authority, 'The Sprout Brook Ashfill is a remarkably clean, simple operation. We detected no dust, odor, insects or rodents at the site. The entire area is blanketed by inert ash. Huge tractor trailer combinations drove on it without difficulty, and we understand that the surface is compacted regularly. Engineers I talked with at the site did not think there would be any problem in building a warehouse, truck terminal or other improvements after ash deposits and covering are complete.'

UCUA Chairman Kenneth MacRitchie says that he was delighted with the results of the tour. "The people of Union County would have been reassured to hear the high level of professional statements and questions that were presented during and after this tour by the lawyers, accountants, engineers, and public administrators who comprise the very capable authority. The tour was a useful, productive experience for all of us.

The Sprout Brook Ashfill, currently comprising 17 acres, receives approximately 750 yards of ash per day, six days a week, from a 2,250 ton-per-day resource recovery facility in nearby Peekskill. Leachate (rainwater runoff) is collected and trucked to the local sewage authority. Monitoring wells surrounding the site are used to test ground water on a regular basis.

"We simply don't have any problems with odors, rodents and dust like some other landfills," he stated, "because there is no food waste or organic material dumped here. In fact, metals are separated from the residue because the ash may possibly be approved for use as road construction material."

Situated on Karkowski Road in an industrial area of the city, the proposed Elizabeth landfill site is located within seven miles of the planned Railway resource recovery facility and offers transportation access that would not involve the use of residential roadways. Utilities authority officials point out that the landfill would be buffered by grass-covered earth mounds and trees. State-of-the-art in terms of design and safety, it would contain a liner system, which prevents leachate from contaminating the environment below the landfill.

The proposed Linden site, located off Routes 1 and 9, is also within very close hauling distance of the waste-to-energy plant site. UCUA officials contend that both sites are needed because the Linden tract is too small to handle ash residue for the full operational life of the resource recovery facility — at least 30 years.

YMCA capital campaign nears goal

The beginning of autumn heralds the home stretch for the Capital Campaign of the YMCA of Eastern Union County. The campaign continues to meet with great success due to the hard work of many individuals. To date, over $1.1 million has been raised, but an additional $370,000 is needed to meet their goal by the end of the year.

Corporations, businesses, individuals, civic groups, foundations all have joined together to contribute to the Y's campaign so that its success will be insured.

"Their willingness to participate has been heartwarming," says Thomas D. Sayles Jr., capital campaign chairman. "As we approach the end, there is still an opportunity for those to contribute who have not yet joined in. We welcome all gifts."

Money raised will be used for renovations of the Y facilities in Union and Elizabeth. Those wishing more information on how to contribute may contact Kathy Dunn, executive director of the YMCA of Eastern Union County, 135 Madison Ave., Elizabeth, 07201.

FBI reports auto theft increase nationwide

Crime known to law enforcement agencies rose 1 percent in volume during the first half of 1987 as compared to the same period in 1986, according to statistics released Oct. 17 by the FBI.

The increase was measured by a Crime Index of selected offenses for which law enforcement agencies nationwide provide data to the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting Program.

Violent crime, as measured by the Index, dropped 1 percent in volume, while the property crime total increased 2 percent. Among violent crimes, only reported aggravated assault increased, up 2 percent. The murder total declined 2 percent, robbery dropped 5 percent, and forcible rape showed no change.

In the property crime category, reported larceny-theft increased 2 percent and motor vehicle thefts were up 6 percent. Burglaries declined 1 percent in number, and the arson total dropped by 6 percent. Regionally, this year's semi-annual Crime Index totals showed no change from the first half of 1986 in the midwestern and the western states.

Union County Planning Board pays tribute

The Union County Planning Board recently held its 1988 Award Ceremony for Outstanding Renovation Projects. Gita Geigy Corp. Pharmaceutical Division was recognized for the new Chemistry, Science and Medical Research Buildings and awarded a plaque for "Outstanding Interior Environmental Design." The new buildings are within the Gita Geigy Corporate Complex located at 556 Morris Ave. in Summit.

The Summit Housing Authority of Summit was the recipient in the category of "Outstanding Housing Plan" for the Summit Senior Citizen Housing Building located at 12 Chestnut Ave. The five-story brick structure was funded through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and community donations. The Union County Community Development Block Grant Program provided funding to assist in the site improvement which provides 125 apartment units. A four-unit condominium development in Plainfield was the recipient of a plaque for "Outstanding Architectural Design." The condominium development is an excellent example of how new construction can blend with the existing architecture of a historic district.

The award for "Outstanding Facade Renovation" was presented to Frank DiTullo and Mayor Paul LaCorte for the DiTullo and LaCorte Building located at 102-108 Walnut Ave. in Cranford. This renovation project encompasses several storefronts within Cranford's central business district.

The show's host will be Louis Coviello of the Division on Aging of the Department of Human Services, with panelists from the Retired Senior Volunteer Program and S.H.I.P.

The schedule is: TKR Cable, Ch. 12 — Mondays at 6:30 p.m. and Wednesdays at 6 p.m.; Storer Cable, Ch. 20 — Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m.; Suburban Cable Ch. 38 — Tuesdays at 1 p.m. and Fridays at 6 p.m.; Suburban Cable, Ch. 32 — Thursdays at 5:30 p.m.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

By Dr. Byrne
METATARSALGIA

Metatarsalgia is a term used to describe pain in the area of the foot between the toes and the main part of the foot. It can be caused by rheumatoid arthritis (the most common cause) or any number of deformities of the toes. Usually pain is felt in the tip of the toes when standing or when first walking, when the foot "pushes off." It is aggravated by shoes that are too tight, and that squeeze the toes into a narrow toe-box.

If the metatarsalgia is caused by an imbalance of the foot or a correctable deformity, your podiatrist may recommend the use of orthotics; in some cases surgery may be advised to correct the condition and ease the pain. Your podiatrist will also be able to advise you about the best types of shoes for your particular foot.

State directs police to report racial incidents

Attorney General W. Cary Edwards has formally directed all police departments in the state to report all incidents of racial and ethnic bias that take place within their municipalities.

Edwards notes that several years ago, prosecutors began sending to the Division of Criminal Justice statistics regarding such incidents in their counties. That program, however, was voluntary and not all prosecutors kept up with it on a regular basis.

Edwards says that information compiled will be the first such comprehensive data collected by a public agency in New Jersey. With this information, he will be able to determine whether we have a problem in New Jersey and if so where the problem might be. Only when we can identify a problem can we analyze it and deal with it.

Edwards says that he had tried late last year to verify statistics on bias incidents compiled by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. He found, however, that no state agency had complete figures and that an accurate comparison was impossible.

As a result, the attorney general says he created a broad-based ad hoc committee on bias incidents last March to develop a comprehensive but efficient statewide bias incident reporting system. The report form that was developed was the result of many hours of study and discussion.

The panel on Secondary Vocational Education in New Jersey will hold three public hearings this month on the state's future structure and delivery of high school-level vocational education.

Panel to review vocational education

The Governor's School, now entering its sixth year, is a unique honors program for gifted students who want to acquire skills at levels beyond those usually available in high school.

The program operates on the campuses of three New Jersey colleges and universities. Monmouth College in West Long Branch is the site for the Governor's School on Public Issues and the Future of New Jersey. The program will focus on public policy issues affecting the future of New Jersey and the world. The program will run from July 24 to July 30.

Trenton State College located in Ewing, Township, is the site of the Governor's School of the Arts. The program runs from July 10 to Aug. 5 and is dedicated to the artistic enrichment of students gifted in the performing arts - music, dance, and drama - in the graphic arts, and in creative writing.

Drew University, located in Madison, has the Governor's School in the Sciences from July 24 to Aug. 20. Attendees will focus on advanced studies and laboratory work in biological and physical sciences and mathematics.

The program is totally supported by the state of New Jersey and includes tuition, room and board. It is offered at no cost to the scholars. Interested high school juniors should contact their school principal or guidance counselor as soon as possible for more detailed information. The deadline for applying is Jan. 8, 1988.

In times of war and times of peace, these dedicated Americans stood ready to fight and die, so that democracy might live on. On Veterans' Day, we honor them one and all, and proudly, offer our thoughts of gratitude for giving a part of their lives to freedom's cause and playing an important role in America's history.

State gives nursing homes 'rights'

The New Jersey State Department of Health has distributed a plain-language brochure of patient rights, "New Jersey Nursing Home Residents: We Have Rights," to nursing homes statewide. "All New Jersey nursing home residents have rights that must be respected," says state Health Commissioner Holly Joel Cope. "Residents must be treated with courtesy, consideration and respect, and they must be protected from physical and mental abuse." "They have specific rights relating to mail, privacy, visitors, finances, medical care and other areas," Cope adds. "By informing nursing home residents and their families, we hope our brochure will help protect these rights." Developed by the department's License Reform Project, the brochure describes such patient rights as the right to participate in planning medical treatment, the right to access to personal property and a telephone, and the right to organize and participate in a Resident Council that presents resident concerns to the nursing home administration. The list of rights was taken from state law and the department's Manual of Standards for Licensee and Long Term Care Facilities, both of which regulate patient rights in nursing homes. The state enforces these regulations through periodic inspections of all 318 nursing homes in New Jersey. Currently, state law requires all nursing homes to have written policy of patient rights. Copies of the brochure will be available from any nursing home or may be obtained by writing the License Reform Project, New Jersey State Department of Health, Trenton, 08625-0360.

MDA supports some 240 hospital-affiliated clinics throughout the United States and in Puerto Rico. Lawman Ferroni makes no 'Beef' at tackle

By DAN BLACKWELL
He's known as "Beef" to his friends and for those who only heard of him, he's known as a member of "The Law," which is what the defensive line of the Union High School football team calls itself. And if you have any beefs about "The Law," then you'll probably have to confront the lawmaker himself, Mike Ferroni.
Ferroni is the line's biggest member and if you're smart, you had better count on the 6-foot-3-inch, 290-pound center with respect. And not just on the football field, either. Ferroni is by far the most highly touted offensive lineman in the state, and ranks with the best in the country at his tackle position. Union Head Coach Lou Rettoni sees Ferroni as "one of the best offensive tackles in the country." He also plays defense and in 1987 was named second team All State as a junior for his outstanding play at defensive tackle. This year he'll be on the first team offense.
That he itself should tell you a lot about the 18-year-old boy monster, who terrorizes opposing defenses, allowing the running backs at Union to average over 100 yards a game. "Beef" came back later in the year since his freshman year, but has since a lot of varsity playing time since his sophomore year. He became a starter as a junior.
"When I was 15 years old I played against guys who were 18," said Ferroni. He also jokes that "some of the guys I played were probably fathers with their kids in the stands."
But for Ferroni, that was still no major task because he handles every situation quite the same: Always prepared.
He learned that valuable lesson two years ago when he found himself on the wrestling mats, where is also a standout.
"Wrestling is the sport that I grew up on," Ferroni said. "Because that's the only one of two sports that my grammar school, St. Joseph's in Maplewood, allowed. Wrestling taught me that I always have to be prepared. Mostly because it's a one-on-one ordeal. If you're not ready, you lose."
Ferroni was reminded of that again last year, after coming off the football field from his second consecutive state championship season, when he tried to make the transition to wrestling in one week.
He lost his first two matches of the season, with one coming by a pin, before he could get into wrestling condition.
"Last year I matured a lot," the "Beef" said. "I learned the hard way, by losing, but I learned."
Stengel spent a lot of time with not only me but the whole defense, and taught us how to execute," said Ferroni. "A couple of years ago when coach Rettoni went to Stengel and told him that he would need a solid defense, Stengel treated us like his own."
Now the Union team has the best defense in the state and has only surrendered 23 points this year.
In Union's grueling match with Elizabeth last week, Ferroni approached defeated quarterback Raymond Graham and congratulated him for his "super" three-touchdown passing effort.
"He played a super game and I wanted him to know that he should keep his head up because he's going to go a long way," said Ferroni.
But if you ask Ferroni about his possible future stardom, he'll reply, "I don't know where I'll be or what I'll be doing. That's too far up the road for me. If I make it, great. If I don't, there will be no disappointment."
In the meantime, Ferroni continues stacking business envelopes on the football, wrestling and track logos on them into a crate at home from colleges ranked in the top 20, to colleges who don't rank quite that high.
"Stu Ferroni is taking it one day at a time in pursuit of his third state championship, and if it's up to the Law, Ferroni will make way for 'The Jury,' which is what the Union running backs call themselves; and 'The Judge,' which is what the quarterback calls himself; and they will all have their day in court."

MEET 'THE BEEF' — And fans of Union High know that's one other than tackle Mike Ferroni, who plays a vital role to the success of the undefeated Farmers, who hold a number one ranking statewide.

Casale files lawsuit against Dolphins

By DAN BLACKWELL
Union resident Mark Casale has filed suit against the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League for "breach of contract," with cousin Mike Casale assisting him as his attorney.
Early last summer, Casale, a former standout quarterback at Montclair State College, gave it one more shot at trying to become a fixture in the NFL after he signed a contract with the Dolphins. Casale left for Florida in the early spring months to try and impress Dolphins coach Don Shula with his quarterback skills.
"Things went well with the coach scheduled a practice for just quarterbacks and receivers," Casale claimed. "But when few receivers showed up for the practice, Shula suggested that a few guys run the routes of a receiver. I was one of those guys. I wanted to make the squad and I was under contract, so I did what coach Shula asked."
"On one occasion I was thrown a bad pass and I had to jump for it," Casale continued. "Upon landing, I hurt my knee. It was examined by Miami's doctor, Dr. Virgin, who had declared that I had torn some cartilage and that I would need an operation to correct it."
"I wanted a second opinion from my doctor here in New Jersey. But the organization wouldn't grant my request, stating that 'it's Miami's problem because you're under contract. We have to take care of it.'"
"Doctor Virgin operated on my knee on May 5, and put me on rehabilitation for 14 months. On July 15, I was put on a Cybex machine that registers the strength of the knee, but it doesn't look inside the knee."
"I was allowed to play again and on July 25, I hurt my knee again, and because I was unable to perform, I was released on July 31. Shula told me he didn't think I could help the team."
"After returning home, I was still limping and my knee constantly bothered me so I went and got a second opinion from an NFL doctor, Dr. Moyer, in Philadelphia, who told me I definitely had torn ligaments for quite some time. When he put me on the Cybex, my knee was not even 50% healthy. I then went to MSC to get examined by my college doctor, Dr. Becker, who said I needed 4 to 9 weeks more rehabilitation."
"That period of time was a crucial time for Casale simply because the player has a right to a second opinion; and the contract also states that a player cannot be released if he is injured."

Brearley, Dayton prepare for start of state playoff action

By MARK YABLONSKY
Believe it or not, it is already time for post-season state playoff action to begin for both the David Brearley and Jonathan Dayton Regional High School boys' soccer teams, both of whom have received high seedings in their respective sectors.
Brearley, which concluded regular-season play with a 3-0 victory over Bound Brook last Thursday afternoon, has been seeded third out of four teams in North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2 competition, since only four teams from that sector have qualified for post-season activity this year. The 8-6 Bears will travel to New Providence on Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 2:30 p.m. for a Group 1 semifinal round showdown with the Pioneers, who finished their regular season with an 8-3 record and a number two seeding.
Dayton, on the other hand, has been seeded second in an eight-team field, and will play host to seventh-seeded Governor Livingston Regional of Berkeley Heights tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the North Jersey, Group 2, Section 2 quarterfinals.
If the Bears can defeat New Providence, then it will be on to meet the winner of the Chatham Township-Mountain Lakes semifinal round match on Friday, Nov. 13 at a still-to-be-determined neutral site. Led by top scorers John DePalma and Chris Jordan, Brearley will be seeking to avenge two regular-season losses to the Pioneers this season, by scores of 5-1 on Oct. 13 and 1-0 on Oct. 23.
"I'm very excited about the possibilities," said Brearley coach Alan Czaya, whose team beat Mountain Lakes in quarterfinal round play a year ago, before losing to Chatham Borough in the semifinals. "The one-week layoff HAULING IT IN — Brearley Regional's Mike Chalenski grabs a pass from quarterback Gary Faucher during last Saturday's action with Middlesex at Ward Field in Kenilworth. Despite several untimely offensive mistakes, the undefeated Bears won, 14-6, to clinch both the Mountain Valley Conference title, and a North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2 playoff berth.

Dayton Player of the Week
William Lee is coach John LeDome's choice as Dayton Regional Player of the week, for pulling in five catches for 122 yards in last Saturday's 28-7 loss to Ridge. It is the second time this season that Lee has been selected.

'Sesame Street' opens 19th season

A romance, a baby sister Snuffleupagus and a visit to the Bronx Zoo are among many happy surprises in store for young viewers when Sesame Street, the award-winning educational series for pre-schoolers, begins an eventful 19th season on PBS on Monday, Nov. 16.

Sesame Street's audience also will be introduced to the fun and rewards of reading aloud and learning to write, as the series continues to pursue its goal of preparing youngsters for a successful transition from home to school. The show's learning goals have been upgraded to keep up with changes in early school curriculum, according to executive producer Dulcy Singer.

Sesame Street's enduring blend of education and entertainment garnered two new Emmy awards last year, including the Emmy for outstanding children's series for the third consecutive year. To date the program has received 33 Emmy awards.

Once again, many well-known personalities will lend their talents to help Sesame Street achieve its teaching goals. Among those scheduled to appear during the 19th season are Paul Simon, Martina Navratilova, the Kronos Quartet, Jay Leno, the Ladysmith Black Mombazza group and members of the New York Giants football team.

From the first day to the last, Sesame Street's 19th season will be filled with special events.

In the season's opening show, viewers will accompany Miles, the on-screen son of Susan (Loretta Long) and Gordon (Roscoe Orman) and the real-life son of Orman, as the 3-year-old goes off with his father and Muppet friend Elmo for his first visit to the Bronx Zoo. Miles will also enter day care this year.

The season will end with the wedding of Maria (Sonia Manzano) and Luis (Emilio Delgado) as the long-time partners in Sesame Street's Fix-It Shop discover over the year that they have fallen in love.

During this year youngsters will meet a delightful addition to the block, Alice Snuffleupagus, the 2-year-old little sister of Big Bird's oversized best friend.

Other new characters will include a teen-ager, Gina (Allison Bartlett), who finds the answer to her need for a part-time job working with David (Northern Calloway) at the store on the block, and a new blond-haired Muppet with a dramatic flair and a vaguely familiar name — Meryl Sheep.

The research department at Sesame Street is constantly analyzing beginning school curricula around the country—and suggesting changes in the show's content to keep it up to date," according to Dr. Valeria Lovelace, director of research. The reading skills taught on screen have been upgraded to meet higher expectations in school, she explained.

The show aims to give all of its 3 to 5-year-old viewers pre-reading skills by teaching on a range of levels. For example, segments may help the youngest viewers learn awareness of sounds, and recognition of letters, the first steps toward reading.

while the oldest viewers are learning to read words and sentences.

Because research shows that children who are read aloud to become better readers, many segments this year will model this activity. Special studies were done to identify the techniques and the storybooks that would best hold young viewers' attention for these segments, Dr. Lovelace said.

The series will not only emphasize learning basic skills but will try to motivate children to want to learn by showing them the pleasures reading and writing can bring, she added. The rewards of writing will be emphasized with segments that demonstrate the delight of receiving a letter.

A special study on preschoolers' perceptions of love and marriage guided writers in their presentation of the courtship and marriage of Luis and Maria on Sesame Street.

Sesame Street continues to supplement its TV curriculum off-screen in many ways.

One of the most important media has been the safety education messages distributed by the Community Education Services division.

A new project this year, funded by the Federal Emergency Management Agency of the U.S. government, will help families prepare for natural emergencies. The first edition in the series, "Big Bird Gets Ready for Hurricanes" kit, is designed for families to use together to learn accurate facts about hurricanes and how to prepare for them.

Included in the materials are a 16-page, four-color booklet, a board game, "Hurricane Force," and a record, "Hurricane Blues."

A similar kit for earthquake awareness will be available in 1988.

N.J. targets business tourism

Matching state funds totaling $50,000 are being made available by Governor Thomas H. Kean as part of a new program to increase business tourism in New Jersey.
 Victoria D. Schmidt, director of the New Jersey Office of Business Tourism Development, announces that matching funds may be used as seed money enabling the hospitality industry to establish "area convention and visitor bureaus."
 The grants will be available next year for CVBs whose funding applications are submitted by March 15, 1988.
 "Business tourism, which includes corporate and association meetings and conventions, is the fastest growing segment of the tourism industry," Schmidt explains in announcing the new funding program. "The greater part of the dollar value of business tourism is derived from associations and conventions, which are developed primarily through the services of convention and visitor bureaus."
 Although New Jersey ranks high in attracting corporate business, the state lags far behind in luring the more lucrative association-conventions, Schmidt noted.
 "States which draw the most association business have a number of convention and visitor bureaus to solicit and service that market," she says. "With only one CVB, New Jersey is at a disadvantage to penetrate this important aspect of the industry."
 Governor Kean created the Office of Business Tourism Development in February "to help bolster New Jersey's share of the $35 billion convention and meeting market," Schmidt said. "When the governor made these funds available, he confirmed his strong interest in and support for the state's business and tourism industry."
 The primary objective of the office is to attract more meetings and conventions to New Jersey through an aggressive marketing campaign by a public/private sector partnership.

With this goal in mind, the governor's advisor has established an Advisory Council comprised of business tourism professionals. The council is acting to establish convention and visitor bureaus in areas of New Jersey where a concentration of lodging and meeting facilities would suit the needs of meeting and convention planners. Currently, only Atlantic City has an operating convention and visitor bureau to market and service conventions and meetings. The funding program will facilitate the operation of other bureaus in New Jersey.
 "Representatives from the 12 other potential convention- and visitor bureau areas serve on our Advisory Council," Schmidt says. "The council members represent hotels, statewide tourism trade associations, transportation facilities and agencies meeting industry professionals and local state officials."
 According to Schmidt, the council's representatives initially plan to identify marketable facilities, services and attractions in their respective areas. In addition, committees will be formed to work with the Office of Business Tourism Development in fostering growth of the convention and meeting business in the state.

 The committees will also focus on a convention center feasibility study, legislative and funding issues, public relations and publicity, and developing a cooperative program of trade show exhibitions.
 The results of a survey by the Office of Business Tourism Development indicated that the state could be divided into 13 convention bureau areas. These are: Asbury Park, Atlantic City, Cape May, Cherry Hill, Princeton, The Meadowlands, Morristown/Parlissippany, Newark, New Brunswick/Lower Somerset County, Park Ridge, Wildwood, Woodbridge and "Washington Crossing County," along the Delaware River in Hunterdon, Mercer and Warren counties.
 Further information on matching funds and other programs to promote New Jersey as a meeting and convention destination are available from the Office of Business Tourism Development, 101 Commerce St., Newark, 07102; 648-3129.

Theater for school holidays

A beast who lacks friends because of his bad manners is the central character in the musical version of "Beauty and the Lonely Beast," to be presented by the Children's Theater Group of the Junior League of Morristown at the Morris Museum. Performances are scheduled for Nov. 13 and 15, which are school holidays, at 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. each day.
 The live production will sparkle with whimsical sets, colorful costumes and original music, all combined to entertain a young audience in this humorous presentation of the classic fairy tale.
 The Junior League of Morristown has been performing for elementary-age students since 1986, and for over 10 years has presented an annual production as a benefit for The Morris Museum.
 This program is recommended for ages 4-12, and children must be accompanied by an adult. No babies in arms are permitted in the theater. Tickets which are $3.50 each, may be ordered by sending a check, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to The Morris Museum, 6 Normandy Heights Rd., Morristown, 17960.

 Literally the biggest new book this year will be "Big Bird's Big Book," a 2-foot-high picture book. "Monsters, Monsters" and

"Oscar's Silly ABCs" are among the titles in a new series which also includes "Wait for Me," "A Visit to the Sesame Street Museum," and two videos, "I Want to Go Home" and "Ernie's Big Mess and Other Stories."
 Four new titles in the Sesame Street educational home video cassette series are "Getting Ready for School," "Sing-a-Long," "Big Bird's Story Time" and "Learning to Add and Subtract."

They are "Big Bird in China," "Christmas on Sesame Street," and "Don't Eat the Pictures: Sesame Street at the Metropolitan Museum of Art." Grass clippings grow as disposal problem

By STEPHEN BACHELDER
 The Board of Chosen Freeholders has suggested that since refuse disposal costs have dramatically increased, and some landfills no longer accept grass clippings, many individuals and government agencies are seeking other methods for the disposal of their grass clippings.
 During the maximum grass growing period the municipal refuse land in some New Jersey suburban municipalities may be composed of nearly one-third grass clippings. Collected clippings become anaerobic rather quickly because of their high demand for oxygen. After they have become anaerobic they emit very unpleasant odors. Therefore, grass clippings in quantity are difficult to handle and to process.
 For experience with handling and disposal of grass clippings and discussions with others, we suggest that when landfilling is not desired or available, the following methods for disposal of grass clippings might be used.
 Return to lawn — It is desirable to leave them on the lawn uncollected so that they will be recycled into new lawn and supply part of the fertilizer need of the lawn. Adopt a mowing schedule which will keep the clippings short. If the grass clippings are short enough they will filter through the growing grass and not remain as a mat on top of the grass. It is recommended that only 1/4 to 1/2 the grass length be removed during a mowing or never allow the lawn grass to double its mowing height between mowings.
 Garden mulch — Grass clippings can be used as a garden mulch. It is recommended that they be dried for a day prior to being used as a mulch to minimize slug infestation. They can be put on the garden soil to keep down weed growth, reduce soil splatter, moderate soil temperatures, etc. Do not use grass clippings from a herbicide-treated lawn until after two grass cuttings have been made.
 Soil incorporation — Clippings can serve as a source of organic matter for soil improvement when incorporated into the garden.
 Backyard composting — Grass clippings can be composted, and we recommend that they be incorporated into the backyard compost pile. However, because grass has a high nitrogen content, it has a much higher demand for oxygen than leaves, and tends to mat — thereby greatly reducing the passage of oxygen into the grass pile — composting piles containing grass clippings readily turn anaerobic. This in turn can produce large amounts of very unpleasant odors. These odors are particularly noticeable when the pile is disturbed.
 Because of these problems it is recommended that the grass be mixed into leaf compost. The composting leaves which now, 6-8 months after leaf fall, have a low demand for oxygen, will serve as a bulking agent permitting more oxygen to reach the grass. The grass, since it is high in nitrogen, will provide for a more rapid decomposition of the remaining leaves as long as it remains under aerobic conditions. Grass will also contribute to a better end product — higher nitrogen content — than that obtained from composting leaves alone. However, one must always be aware that too much damp grass in the pile will soon become anaerobic and a greatly reduced rate of decomposition. The objective is to keep the grass aerobic.
 The resulting compost can be used as a soil amendment and/or as a garden mulch.
 Clipping reduction — The amount of grass growth might be reduced by reducing lawn fertilizing and watering. Do not reduce to the point where the lawn dies. Your County Agricultural Agent can help you with this.

Your Horoscope

For week of Nov. 5

ARIES (3/21-4/19) This is your week to spill up your surroundings and make improvements at home. However, in doing so, don't be too extravagant. Some of the things you have in mind are just not possible at this time. Beware of a cranky loved one.

TAURUS (4/20-5/20) Those around you seem to be brimming with good ideas, but there may be trouble brewing with a certain cantankerous co-worker. Be careful when relating events to others. You have a tendency to exaggerate.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20) Although you're making terrific headway at work, you've been far too headless when it comes to your social life. Take time to think things through and sort out what's been happening in your life.

CANCER (6/21-7/22) This is a week of mixed pursuits for you — both recreational and career-wise. Someone close to you is having a hard time with something and may have a tendency to be snappy.

LEO (7/23-8/22) An invitation for a social outing has you in somewhat of a quandary. Trust your instincts. It's best to stick close to home right now. Don't attach too much weight to certain remarks made by a loved one. They are meaningless.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) It's a good time to socialize with friends, but beware. You have a tendency to overdo these things, which is not wise for you. Your mate and you will have a disagreement about a money matter, but your intuition is clearly good.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Things are definitely looking up for you financially and you can breathe a bit more easily. However, stop planning on how to spend this money. Think of ways to invest it instead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) While you're looking forward to that pleasure trip, don't let thoughts of it interfere with your everyday activities. You will be asked to complete something at work which will require all your talents and efforts, but you succeed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You seem to be doing a lot of vacillating about your finances and you're not quite sure whether to spend or to save. The best approach is to do nothing and just explore all the possibilities. If need be, seek an expert's advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Any venture taken in conjunction with another person is particularly favored this week. However, don't let tempers flare when minor disagreements arise. In light of this, you may have a tendency to stink domestic duties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) A friend who seems to be constantly in a crisis is merely seeking your attention and you may find yourself somewhat manipulated by this.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) This week is a potentially taxing one in terms of your pulling out all the stops and going hog-wild socially.

A 'country boy who sings'

Pick of the LPs: "Still Within the Sound of My Voice," by Glen Campbell.

Whether "live" or on records, you can always count on Glen for a top-notch performance — and you have it all and then some on this album.

"I'm not a country singer per se — I'm a country boy who sings," Glen once told an interviewer. And maybe that explains why he has been able to bridge the gap between country and pop for over two decades, carving out a unique niche for himself in the music world. His philosophy for success has been quite simple: "Never try to categorize music — simply pick the best from it, whether it's country, pop, rock, jazz or whatever."

or less decided to do it on the spot. We were down in Austin, Texas, doing a session, just horsing around. I asked him to do the song with me. He came up to Nashville to record, and it turned out great."

Recorded digitally in a 32-track studio, "Still Within the Sound of My Voice" is perhaps Campbell's best-sounding album to date as well as his first recording made for compact disc release. Most importantly, the heartfelt quality of his singing comes through consistently strong and clear. Whether it's the LP's yearning title track, penned by Jimmy Webb, the writer of such early Campbell hits as "By the Time I Get to Phoenix" or an upbeat workout like "I'm a One-Woman Man," the feeling rings true.

Disc 'n' data

Campbell has made this ability to interpret the right song in a personal way one of his trademarks. On "Still Within the Sound of My Voice," his first LP from MCA, he upholds this tradition exceptionally well. The album offers a set of outstandingly crafted, emotionally uplifting songs to complement Campbell's masterful vocals. Reminding the singer with producer Jimmy Bowen who worked with Campbell extensively in the '60s and '70s, the LP is truly a landmark release.

"I took the beginning of this year off to work on the album," Campbell says. "Stopping off that road made a difference — I was able to concentrate, listen to a lot of tunes and go through the whole record-making process." Working with Bowen again was particularly satisfying: "We'd done sessions together 20 years ago — I played guitar on a lot

Concert set Saturday

RUTH LAREDO

The Livingston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Istvan Jaray, will open its 1987-1988 season with a concert Saturday, at 8:30 p.m. at Livingston High School. The program will feature Ruth Laredo, pianist, who will perform Saint-Saens Piano Concerto No. 2 in G minor.

Laredo, an artist who has formed throughout the world is known for her historic recordings and performances of works by Rachmaninoff, Scriabin and Ravel. She is a soloist, recitalist, three-time Grammy-nominated recording artist and chamber musician.

Jaray, music director and conductor, is in his fourth season with the Livingston Symphony. He has been invited to be guest conductor for two concerts with the Budapest Concert Orchestra and the Savaria Symphony Orchestra, both in Hungary, in January 1988.

The concert is free to the public. Further information can be obtained by calling 731-2841.

'No Strings' unlike original

The Princeton Triangle Club will stage "No Strings," a musical comedy, set in the contemporary Paris fashion world which had its premiere on Broadway 25 years ago. Unlike the original version starring Diahann Carroll, Triangle's presentation of "No Strings," opening tonight, will be "unconventional. Such routine articles as curtains and off-stage dressing rooms have been abolished. Once the 16 cast members are on stage, they never leave—even if the script requires them to shed one costume for another."

Jeff Jennings, a Princeton senior, will serve as director.

"No Strings" will run for two weekends, now to Monday and Nov. 12 to 15 at the Triangle Breadmeat Theater, 171 Broadmead, Princeton. Reservations can be made by calling (609) 452-5300.

Family concert to be presented Sunday

The New Jersey Youth Symphony Orchestra will present a family concert, "Journey Inside a Musical Composition." The orchestra, conducted by Youth Symphony music director George Marinore Mauli, will perform Hector Berlioz' "Roman Carnival Overture" on Sunday at 3 p.m. in the South Orange Middle School, 70 North Ridgewood Road. Admission will be free of charge.

Among the students performing with the orchestra will be Adina Lubotkin of Springfield.

Fall season

The New Jersey Shakespeare Festival's fall season at Drew University, Route 24, Madison, will feature productions of "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "The Diary of Anne Frank." In response to teachers' requests, special school matinees have been added this year.

"Streetcar" has had two school matinees presented already. Directed by Davey Marlin-Jones, the festival's production will continue through Nov. 14. "Anne Frank" will be presented Dec. 15 through Jan. 3, 1988, co-produced by AT&T and directed by Ken Costigan.

Further information about the festival's fall season, which includes Brian Friel's Irish play "Translations" and a one-man reading of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" can be obtained by contacting the festival box office at 377-4487.

The Crossroads Theater Co., 220 Memorial Parkway, New Brunswick, opened with the New Jersey premiere of "Woza Albert!" by Percy Mtwa, Mbongeni Ngema and Barney Simon recently. The show will run through Nov. 22. Additional information can be obtained by calling 249-5550.

Doing your own thing

Here's the perfect gift for that good little boy or girl during the holidays or any time of the year. Our pony rocker features a sturdy design with limited rocking motion, and smooth rounded ends for your child's safety. Our step-by-step plans include instructions, photos, full-size traceable patterns and finishing tips.

This design is made from 1 inch or 2 inch pine lumber. Just trace the patterns onto the wood, cut out, and assemble. Wood stirrups give your little one the boost they need to hop in the saddle...and the easy-grip handles allow them to ride off into the sunset safe and secure. The mane and tail are made of rag yarn and the ears of scrap leather. To obtain pony rocker, Pattern No. 738, please send $4.50.

Prices include postage and prompt handling. Send check or money order to Steve Ellingson, c/o County Leader Newspapers, P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409-2383.

It's a fact

America is going native. According to National Wildlife magazine, native plants are back in vogue for landscaping and wildlife habitat. Along Florida beaches, for instance, local groups are replanting sea grasses essential for small fish. And in the Southwest, they're restoring thorn forests to provide habitat for ocelots and jaguars.

Buying a house is a big step

Buying a house — any house — is a big step. Once a decision is made to do it, the buyer sets in motion a string of events that eventually leads to closing on the sale and taking possession of the property.

A title search is one of the most critical steps that occurs between the time a buyer decides to purchase and when he or she moves in. It is made to determine that the person who is selling the property really has the right to sell it, and that the buyer is getting all the rights to the property (title) that he or she is paying for.

The most accurate description of title is a bundle of rights in real property. A title search is the process of discovering from public records just what these rights are, and who owns them, says Michael A. Lewis, senior vice president and northeastern regional manager for Chicago Title Insurance Co., the nation's leading insurer of property titles.

Title insurance pays for any losses to the insured if it is later discovered that the property was subject to claims of other parties not previously disclosed to the owner. The title insurer pays the legal expenses of defending the title against adverse claims, even if a claim proves to be groundless and eventually is defeated in court.

Lewis defined some "common terms" associated with the title search process:

Chain of title: This is simply a history of the ownership of a particular piece of property, telling who bought it and sold it, and when. The information may be derived from public records — usually a county clerk's or recorder's office — or obtained from title plants privately owned and maintained by title companies. There are great varieties of these plants — index cards, punch cards, tract books, even sophisticated computerized plants. However, they all contain essentially the same information from which the history of the title may be secured.

Title search: This is a search to determine the present status of general real estate taxes against the property. The tax search will indicate the existence of any special assessments against the land and, if so, whether or not these assessments are current or past due.

A due and unpaid tax or special assessment: A prior lien or claim on the property that supersedes all others. If a buyer purchases property with unpaid and past due taxes or assessments, he or she is likely to find a government body — the village, county or state — placing the property up for sale to pay those taxes or assessments.

Report on possessions: In some areas, title company inspectors may want to look at the property to verify the lot size, check the location of improvements, look for evidence of easements that are not shown of record, and check on who is living there. In the eyes of the law, any buyer of real estate is assumed to have notice of all matters properly shown in the public records as well as any information that an actual inspection may reveal.

If an unrecorded easement or other evidence of outstanding rights that could affect the owner's title and possibly the value and intended use is detected, the title insurer will inform the buyer before the closing. Either these matters are disposed of or they are shown as exceptions in the title insurance policy.

Sometimes, when an acceptable survey and appropriate affidavits are received, an inspection can be waived.

Judgment and name search: One of the most important parts of the title search determines if there are any unsatisfied judgments against the seller or previous owners that were in existence while they owned the property. A judgment is a general lien against the debtor's real estate and constitutes security for any money owed under the judgment.

Rights established by judgment decrees, unpaid federal income taxes, and mechanics' liens all may be prior claims against the property that come ahead of the buyer's or lender's rights.

In an effort to help taxpayers learn about the sweeping changes brought about by the Tax Reform Act of 1986, the Internal Revenue Service has published a free 94-page booklet explaining some of those changes.

Publication 820, written in an easy-to-understand style, features a chart illustrating the differences between the new and old law. It also graphically depicts how the changes affect dependents.

It includes a reprint of Publication 928, which is designed to assist taxpayers in making sure that enough tax is being withheld from their wages.

In the event the publication doesn't address a certain issue, taxpayers can consult the directory in the back of the booklet and call the toll-free taxpayer assistance number for their area.

Copies of Publication 820 can be obtained by visiting one of the 14 IRS offices in New Jersey or by calling toll-free: 1-800-424-3678.
