

GUTTED HOME — This two-story frame home on Rose Avenue is where Josephine Slenkiewicz, a long-time Springfield resident, was overcome from smoke inhalation following a fire. She later died at Overlook Hospital in Summit.

Cops foil attempted robbery

Springfield police followed an attempted safe deposit robbery when they nabbed two of the suspects at the scene and put out a warrant for another suspect.

On Dec. 17, police arrested Hilbert Gresham, 31, and Herman Williams, 18, both of Newark, and charged them with robbery and conspiracy to commit robbery. Local authorities also issued a criminal warrant for the arrest of Darnell Gresham, 32, also of Newark. Newark police later arrested Darnell Gresham at his residence and turned him over to Springfield authorities.

According to Detective Sgt. Robert Mason, the three men were observed by Lt. James Hietala and patrolman William Stadick approaching an employee of the Springfield Department of Motor Vehicles as she was about to make the department's daily bank deposit. The incident happened at about 8:45 p.m. in the National State Bank parking lot. Hilbert Gresham and Williams were apprehended but Darnell Gresham fled the scene.

According to the report, Williams had a "chrome snub nose" toy gun in his possession when apprehended. Officers Ronald Santolo and Scott Brokaw and Chief William Chisholm also assisted in making the arrests.

On Dec. 19, Thomas N. Fusco, 29, Summit, was arrested for driving with a suspended license and having no insurance. Fusco, a gas station attendant, was arrested by officer Jack Trampler while driving on Mountain Avenue.

On Dec. 19, Patrick Hennessey, 19, East Orange, was arrested for possession of under 30 grams of marijuana. According to a report, Hennessey was arrested when police responded to a domestic disturbance. The marijuana was found when police made a weapons search of the suspect.

On Dec. 16, Earl Powell, 30, Newark, was arrested on Route 22 after being stopped for a motor vehicle violation. According to a report, a subsequent computer check revealed that there was an active warrant for his arrest in Newark.

Alder says calls have also been placed in Westfield. He says because the phone messages are placed on a random basis, it is impossible to have the calls scanned by police.

Terroristic calls are reported

The Mountainside Police Department is once again being faced with numerous phone calls from borough residents reporting terroristic phone calls.

Police Chief William Alder says the calls, usually made between 8 and 10 a.m., have been reported over the last two years.

"The caller says, 'I have your husband. How much money do you have?'" says Alder.

The chief says many residents upon receiving these calls have become terrified. He states anyone receiving such a call should hang up and call their husband or their children's school to be sure that the information is false.

Alder says calls have also been placed in Westfield. He says because the phone messages are placed on a random basis, it is impossible to have the calls scanned by police.

Community spirit is concern

After meeting periodically since May of 1985, the Mountainside 2000 Committee has issued its report to the Borough Council. The committee, appointed by Mayor Bruce Geiger, completed its study on the future of Mountainside emphasizing such areas as declining community spirit and the increasing amount of motorists speeding on side streets.

The committee, chaired by Richard O'Neill, said that community spirit "has eroded over the years" and that it was imperative that steps be taken "to reverse this process."

According to the report, community-wide activities have decreased in recent years. It was noted that memberships in local social, civic, fraternal clubs or organizations have declined or receded.

"It appears to have become increasingly more difficult to identify a pool of residents to call upon when the Borough Council or others are looking for assistance in community projects," the report states.

The 2000 committee recommended that the governing body establish a commission which would represent a cross section of the town. Such a group would be asked to focus on community involvement and interaction as well as history.

The committee suggested that information, including maps, places of worship in town, recreational facilities and a list of clubs and organizations Mountainside be mailed to all residences and places of business.

A roster of those persons who have special skills which could benefit the community should also be developed, the report states.

The committee recommended that a site, such as a veterans' memorial, be established as a symbolic focus for the borough. In addition, an annual event such as 'Mountainside Day' would increase the involvement of residents. A fair, picnic or town meeting could also be established to increase community togetherness.

With regard to speeding, the committee's report said "one of the most serious safety problems facing the borough is that of speeding on residential streets." Speeding was also said to be the major concern of parents with children in the local schools. The committee requested that the local police make a major effort in restricting the 25 mph speed limit on side streets. "This becomes an even more serious problem since the borough does not have sidewalks."

The committee made a request to the governing body to continue negotiations with the state Department of Transportation regarding the New Providence Road-Route 22 intersection. They would like a request for a left turn signal on New Providence Road for turns onto Route 22 to be made to the DOT.

With regard to the housing situation in town, it was noted that the borough should research the need for alternative housing as well as housing for seniors. The committee also was concerned over the fact that families wanting to move into the borough cannot do so because of the high cost of homes.

Dispute ends with stabbing

Police received a call from a North 23rd Street resident that there was a dispute between Abraham Turner, 27, of North 8th Street and Yvette Maney, 26, of North 10th Street on Dec. 17. Traffic was still able to go through, according to police. Railroad workers were on the scene.

On Dec. 17 police reported that a tree branch was in the way at North 18th Street and Washington Avenue and may be hazardous. The DPW was notified.

A Woodland Avenue resident reported on Dec. 15 that there was a chemical odor in her home and also hazarded at an excavation had sunk down. The Elizabethtown Water Company was notified.

Police reported a train derailed on the Railway Valley Line at Market Street and Fairfield Avenue on Dec. 17. Traffic was still able to go through, according to police. Railroad workers were on the scene. DPW flush out the line.

A Boulevard resident reported a sewer problem on Dec. 19. Police contacted Frank Morro of the DPW who will have a crew respond.

A 23rd Street resident also reported a sewer problem on Dec. 19. Police contacted Frank Morro to investigate.

Kenilworth Volunteer Fire Department responded. Michael Iazzetta, health officer, was contacted and he said it was sewer gas odor and it is still under investigation. He has requested the Railway Valley Sewer Authority to check the manhole and will have the DPW flush out the line.

Center is set for the season

There is action going at the Kenilworth Senior Citizens Center. The building had a two-fold use on Dec. 4 when the seniors began decorating the social lounge dining area on the first floor for Christmas while a pinocle tournament was held on the main floor.

The artificial scotch pine tree was donated by G. Joseph Aragona and decorated by members who dropped by.

On the main floor, the pinocle tournament provided competition for all. The final results showed the eight top qualifying scorers: Wanda Peterson, Lena Franciano, Betty Weber, Harry Stewart, George Berger, Carl Jaccetti, John Lakus and Frank Rasinski.

"Holiday season" donations are used as part of the hospital's Umbrella Fund, an annual fund to purchase needed equipment. The Umbrella Fund is a fund-raising program which supports the annual operating budget of the hospital.

TAKE ME HOME — This cute kitty is one of 24 cats and dogs at the Linden Pets Adoption Waiting Station who may have to be put to sleep unless homes can be found for them at the end of the year. The station, which has been a haven for stray and abandoned animals for eight years, is closing because of insufficient funds and a staff shortage.

Christmas list is made

Children's Specialized Hospital, for the third consecutive year, has prepared a "Christmas Wish List" in the form of a letter to Santa Claus, pointing out specific items and their costs, which are needed to help the hospital care for and rehabilitate disabled children.

"Holiday season" donations are used as part of the hospital's Umbrella Fund, an annual fund to purchase needed equipment. The Umbrella Fund is a fund-raising program which supports the annual operating budget of the hospital.

'Final' Christmas for Linden PAWS

By SUZETTE WALKER

It may be a last Christmas for 19 cats and dogs at Linden's Pet Adoption Waiting Station, unless owners can be found for them before the 8-year-old facility closes at the end of this month.

PAWS vice president Marianne Astalos is urgently appealing to all those interested in adopting a pet to open their homes and hearts to the various breeds available at the Range Road station, who otherwise will have to be put to sleep.

"I'm hoping all the animals can be adopted out," remarks Astalos, who manages the station along with her mother, PAWS president Joanne Astalos, and her sister. She also supervises about a dozen volunteers.

Herself the owner of two dogs and six cats adopted from the station, Astalos says, "Most of them have very good dispositions and just need the shelter to the home."

Among the foundlings awaiting a new "bath" on life are Hope, a female Doberman mix, and Heidi, a 3-year-old German short-haired pointer, who has hemophilia.

Astalos emphasizes that Heidi has a friendly personality and that medication to control her condition costs only $5 per month.

Other special cases include Curly, a 5-year-old beagle who was abused, and Sylvia, a 7-month-old gray and white female tabby who is blind in one eye.

"Curly's come a long way since he's been with us, but he still needs someone who won't move too fast with him," notes the manager. "He'll need some extra TLC."

Astalos adds that Curly's pen would be provided to an owner to strengthen the beagle's sense of security in his new environment.

"We do anything we can to help the animals make a good transition from the shelter to the home," explains Astalos.

This includes having the shelter's veterinarian transfer an animal's records to a doctor familiar with both the pet and the shelter, reports Astalos.

"All of the animals receive a complete examination prior to adoption and are inoculated against common menaces like rabies, distemper and parvo-virus. Pets are also spayed and neutered."

Astalos adds that shelter volunteers are available for consultation and to help with any problems that may arise with a new pet.

Some of the hardest-to-place pets include wild cats who were found along the waterfront by the Arthur Kill, a common drop-off site for cats, according to Astalos.

She notes that while these long-haired felines are often unsuitable as house pets, they can serve very well as barnyard mascots or otherwise live outdoors.

The shelter will close on Jan. 1, a casualty of limited funds and overworked volunteers, confirms Astalos, who reports that the facility has been scheduled to shut down for a year.

"It's a lot of work. The people who have the responsibility are burned out emotionally," Astalos maintains. "They put a lot of time and love into the cats and dogs. It's like a roller coaster here."

"It's not something you leave at five o'clock, either. It stays with you all the time," she continues. "We have emergencies here, too, and people have to be here to handle them."

Audit sought for U.S. oil companies

As a means of generating revenue to reduce the budget deficit, Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-N.J., has called for an audit of all energy companies drilling for oil and gas on federal lands to determine whether they are paying full royalties due the government.

"Earlier reports indicated that some of the companies are not paying royalties, and that the government is losing hundreds of millions of dollars annually," Rinaldo said. "This is inexcusable, especially at a time when monstrous budget deficits are forcing Congress to cut spending for important programs and services."

Congressional investigations contend that in the past, some energy companies underpaid royalties due the U.S. Treasury by more than 20 percent, or nearly twice the rate of underpayment calculated in 1982 following a probe by the Linowes Commission. Investigators said that despite efforts to crack down on the companies, the problem was getting worse each year.

At the time of the 1982 investigation, the Linowes Commission, which was created to probe royalty payment cheating, estimated underpayments at 5 to 10 percent. More recently, the Interior Department's Inspector General put the loss at 6.5 percent.

"Based on these estimates and an income of about $4 billion in gas and oil royalties in 1985, the government's 1986 losses were in the range of $260 million to more than $300 million," the congressman said.

"What I am calling for is a report from the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, as to whether the responsible federal agencies have implemented changes to ensure that the government receives every dollar it is entitled to for oil and gas rights."

He noted that part of the problem of underreporting had been attributed to the Interior Department's auditing procedures which have been described as "totally archaic," and to delays in putting into service a new computer system to better monitor the payments.

A senior member of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, Rinaldo said that if the GAO report finds serious deficiencies in Interior's oversight of the minerals management program, he will propose transferring the royalty-auditing responsibility to the Internal Revenue Service.

"It may be that the IRS is better prepared to handle such matters than is the Mineral Management Services, which was created as part of the shakeup at the Interior Department following the Linowes Commission investigation," the congressman said. "Additionally, I will press for criminal action against any of the energy companies suspected of filing fraudulent production reports for the purpose of reducing their royalty payments."

Wrap it up

Selecting the perfect gift for friends and family for any occasion isn't easy, but, of course, it's the thought that counts. Keeping that in mind, here are some things we'd like our readers to find under their tree on Christmas morning.

For the residents of Springfield, particularly Marilyn Schneider, a neatly wrapped package of blueprints detailing exactly what's going on at the old Houdaille Quarry.

For the residents of Roselle Park, a firm decision on where to put the Borough Hall.

For the borough of Kenilworth, the funds to complete much needed repaving of streets.

For all Union County residents, a place to dump their holiday package wrappings — as well as other garbage — all year long.

For the Roselle Public School System, a camera that takes good, sharp, clear photos. We'd love to use all the pictures that are sent in, but many are just not suitable for publication.

For the Union County Utilities Authority, a shovel to be used to start construction of the Resource Recovery Facility in Rahway.

For the residents of Mountainside, tornado insurance.

For the new mayors of Mountainside, Roselle, Union, Springfield and Kenilworth, the wisdom, patience, understanding and stamina to lead a municipal governing body.

For the Kenilworth Senior Citizens Center, a new kitchen.

For those publicity chairmen who insist on sending in handwritten releases, especially the Union Township Pop Warner Football League, a typewriter. As much as we like to use the news releases, everytime a name is misspelled, we get the blame.

For the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, an empty piggy bank to prevent any more "frivolous" spending on no-show jobs and inflated salaries.

For the city of Linden, a big garbage truck to pick up all the garbage the county and state want to dump in town.

For rescue squads everywhere, enough volunteers to man their squads at all times.

For Mountainside, a Democratic party.

For Linden, a Republican party.

For the New Jersey Highway Authority, the brains to get themselves out of the toll hike mess.

For the members of the state Legislature, the nerve to spend less money on campaigning the next time around.

And for each member of the editorial staff of this newspaper, a new car, or one that operates most of the time.

Most of all, we wish all of our readers a happy and safe holiday season.

Donate blood as a special gift

This is the best time of year to be a child. Bright lights and festive spirits are seen everywhere. Whether a child anxiously awaits Santa Claus' arrival on Christmas Eve or eagerly opens gifts each night of Hanukkah, the spirit of giving is evident during this season.

Unfortunately for some children and "children-at-heart," this isn't the happiest of times. They are coping with serious illness or facing surgery. Many of these individuals require blood transfusions as part of their treatments.

The American Red Cross and New Jersey Blood Services have scheduled several open blood drives during the year-end holiday season that afford area residents the opportunity to give the most precious gift on their wish list. One separated pint of blood may be the most precious gift on their wish list. One separated pint of blood may be the most precious gift on their wish list. One separated pint of blood may be the most precious gift on their wish list.

Prospective donors must be between the ages of 17 and 78, weight at least 110 pounds, and be in general good health. Seventeen-year-olds must have the written permission of a parent before giving, and all potential donors must present proper identification when registering.

In this season of sharing, interested people may contact their local American Red Cross, or call New Jersey Blood Services at 828-9101, and give a part of themselves.

Compliments staff of local library

We moved to Springfield in 1968. But in 1968 a business tenant of mine asked me if I was interested in buying his home in Springfield as he was moving back to his home town of Boston.

When I told my wife that I had looked at a home in Springfield she said "Springfield? That's farm country." Well, we finally did get there, about 20 years later.

But this is really about something I discovered in Springfield in 1986 when I became semi-retired. And that is the Springfield library.

Since then I've been trying to catch up with all the time I've missed. And I am simply astonished at the wealth of reading material our library has, both for entertainment and reference. In addition there is an extensive record collection, and audio tapes and a video rental arrangement and I could go on and on.

But I believe our best asset is the staff - those knowledgeable professionals who bring this library to life! They provide the expertise for us who are either too tired or lazy or just don't know how to look up something. They are great!

Finally, anyone who sometimes wishes for an oasis in the midst of the cacophony of our modern frantic, frenetic lifestyle will find it right there on Mountain Avenue in the Springfield library. I know - I go there.

New Jersey's future depends on growth

By HELEN C. FENSKA

An older man who filled my gas tank the other day must have noticed Department of Environmental Protection brochures in the back of my car, for he asked me, as I signed the receipt, where I was going and what I was going to clean up.

It was an interesting question, I thought. But I explained to him that I was on my way to a press conference that had been organized by citizens to promote a bond that would appear on the ballot in November.

He asked if the bond was for some kind of incinerator.

No, the bond would finance, among other things, the purchase of land for parks or recreation areas.

He looked that concept and smiled.

A majority of New Jersey voters liked that concept, too, and approved the New Jersey Green Acres, Cultural Centers, and Historic Preservation Bond Act of 1987. With it, New Jersey will be able to finance projects that will better the quality of life we enjoy here in the Garden State.

It certainly is encouraging that an overwhelming number of people in New Jersey supported this bond. What is more encouraging is the reaction of the old man in the gas station. He, like most New Jerseyans, is concerned that the state is being overdeveloped. Despite his age, he looks to the future.

Growth and development are essential to continued success for New Jersey's economy. In fact, when President Reagan visited Somerset, Technological Institute, "throughout New Jersey, as throughout the nation, we're seeing

Pastor tells story of 'a great king'

Christmas Message
By The Rev. JEFFREY A. CURTIS
Springfield Presbyterian Church

There once was a great king whose love for his people knew no limits. Everyone felt the people had been a gift given by their king. The people wished to show their love for the king by having a great celebration to honor his birthday. Everyone agreed it was a marvelous idea. The people adorned their homes with lights, decorations and expensive ornaments and gave parties, dinners and celebrations in preparations for this special day. Even the gifts they gave each other were very expensive. In fact more was spent on this celebration than at any other time of the year.

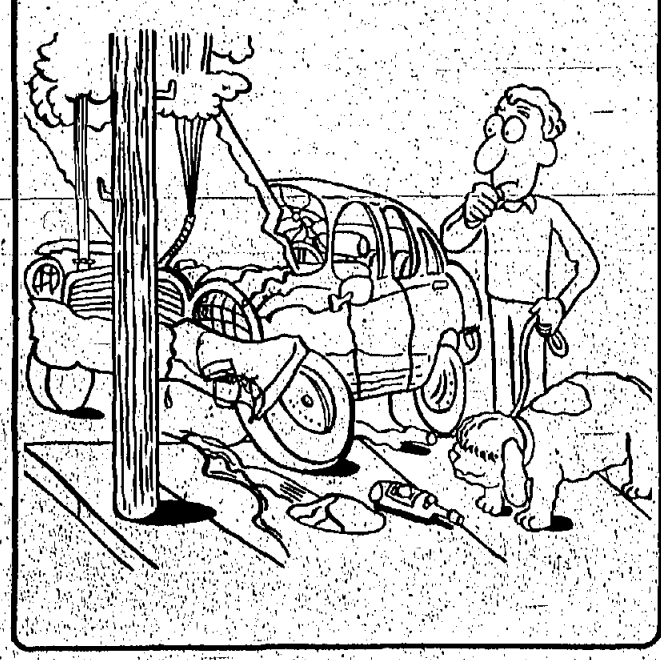

The king watched all this preparation with eager anticipation. He prepared his house to receive the many people who would be coming, with their presents for him. When the great day arrived only a few of the citizens came bringing their loving gifts and were blessed by the king with a priceless gift. While the king was thankful for those who did come, he couldn't help wonder about the vast majority who didn't come. He sent out some messengers who returned with the word that most of the people were too busy with their own celebrations that they had simply forgotten about the king. Others had actually remembered the king, but couldn't work a visit into their schedule or a gift into their budget. And then there were a few who were quite put out with the suggestion that they should visit the king or remember him with a gift.

The king, on hearing these reports, dismissed his messengers, and when he was alone, he wept. In the midst of his tears, he realized that even though many had forgotten him, he had not forgotten them. He resolved to reveal his love for each of them even more this coming year, quite certain that they would respond to these greater blessings next year. And those who had come in love and gratitude, have they not received his priceless gift? A warm smile came across the king's face.

May your celebration of the birthday of Christ the King lift you to God's throne where the eternal King loves his people not because of who they are but because of who He is! Merry Christmas!

Nelson-Rees Survey

Did the Reagan-Gorbachev summit reduce the threat of nuclear war?

(Readers can participate in this survey by calling one of the telephone numbers below.)

Yes

The world is safer, thanks to the nuclear arms control treaty Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev signed December 8. The treaty—which calls for the destruction of an entire class of nuclear weapons—at long last places both Russia and the United States on the path to disarmament. It's the first time the superpowers have agreed to reduce existing nuclear arsenals rather than simply limiting future construction.

Both nations have also agreed to allow inspection of secret facilities. Military information once closely guarded will be exchanged. The Soviets will destroy two of their missiles for every missile the U.S. eliminates from its European arsenals.

This treaty alone should make everyone breathe easier. It also opens the door to future negotiations that should make Armageddon even less likely.

Gorbachev has introduced another welcome, vital element into the equation. It's a principle of "glasnost," or openness in political dealings and expression, makes long-term accord between his country and ours even more likely.

Some right-wingers frets the Soviets can't be trusted, and that the Intermediate Nuclear Forces Treaty plays into their hands. The fact is, each country must learn to treat the other with brotherhood, not suspicion. What better time of year should this miracle happen than during the Christmas season?

Gorbachev called the INF treaty "the first step down the road leading to a nuclear-free world...It is a great step into the future."

Amens to that.

If you feel the Russians CAN be trusted, and that the new arms reduction treaty HAS made the world a safer place, encourage our leaders to continue the arms reduction process by calling now.

No

Santa's sleigh may take a couple of hours to get down here from the North Pole, but Soviet missiles can cover the same distance in minutes. Those thousands of Soviet long-range missiles that were aimed at this country before the summit are still in their silos, cocked and ready—armed with multi-megaton death loads that dwarf the atomic bombing of WWII vintage to firecracker status.

The recent treaty appears to be a big step in the right direction. If you trust the Soviets, it removed all intermediate-range nuclear missiles from Europe with a corresponding removal of SS-20 missiles on the Soviet side of the border. The result: NATO has lost its teeth, not only in standing its ground against a vastly superior Soviet military machine, but also as an ally to the U.S. in the event of a Soviet-USA confrontation.

Recent news reports uncovered nuclear weapons in Israel, creating incentive for the Soviets to maintain Middle East parity by providing nuclear arms to Israel's neighbors. Egypt and Syria might show some restraint, but haven't frozen Iran or Iraq ever getting such weapons.

The Soviet response to Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) has been one of near panic. As the Star Wars defense system becomes reality, the American window of vulnerability is slamming shut, essentially ending a seven-decade Soviet dream of world domination. To salvage the dream, the Soviets must act soon.

Don't panic. If you share my concern that the threat of nuclear war remains as real as ever, perhaps more so, just call the number below to let our leaders know there's a legitimate concern here that needs serious tending. Call:

Drunk driving still a killer

By DIANE K. STEED

Drunk driving remains the number one killer on our roads, striking with a frequency and ferocity that can be national news. If its victims were reported in total each day instead of individually in the obituaries in thousands of cities and towns where the tragedies occur. Its victims are a cross-section of America: the rich, the poor, the young, the old, the safety-conscious and the not-so-safety-conscious. But they share a common desire that is always unexpected, always needed, and often grudgingly tolerated because our social norms won't quite permit them to be characterized as other than accidental deaths.

For many years in this country we talked about drunk driving in statistical terms only: lives lost and public expenditures. The higher the numbers, the more the public would pay attention, so we thought. But the opposite was true. The numbers were largely ignored because they were, after all, just numbers. There were no faces, no shattered lives attached to the heartless statistics.

But something changed all that in the early 1980s. Citizen activist groups, like Mothers Against Drunk Driving, moved drunk driving off the bar graphs and brought it up close and personal, laying its dire consequences squarely on the doorsteps of virtually every American community.

Suddenly the blinders came off, the outrage swelled and things began to change — and change dramatically.

Thanks to that awakening, the United States, to its credit, has made remarkable progress in just a handful of years. Forty-one percent of the total traffic deaths in 1986 involved at least one driver or pedestrian who was intoxicated, a shocking figure, but one that represents a significant decline from the 46 percent that was tallied in 1982. The percentage of intoxicated teen-age drivers involved in fatal crashes also dropped from 28 percent in 1982 to 21 percent in 1986.

The old adage about an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure is particularly appropriate when developing strategies to curb drunk drivers. Remember, drunk driving is preventable and drinking too much and then getting behind the wheel and killing someone is not an accidental event. People know better today, and we should all be held accountable for our actions.

Editor's note: This column was submitted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Novich presided at Investment Forum '87, a discussion group which included many guest panelists from the business community. Novich resides in Troy Village and has been a resident of Springfield for 26 years.

Student reporters' question regional BOE at conference

Some 80 student journalists from the schools of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 recently had an opportunity to ask questions of and interact with the members of the Regional Board of Education during a board-sponsored student-board press conference held at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield.

Representatives from the editorial boards and staffs of the student newspapers at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, the Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark and the David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth were present at the Regional Student-Board press conference.

Dr. Donald Merachnik, regional district superintendent of schools, opened the press conference with a welcome and an introductory message for the student journalists. He stated that the press conference was not only a chance to ask questions of the Board of Education but also a chance to express their own concerns about what the students asked at the press conference.

A second regional student-board press conference is being planned for later in the 1987-1988 school year. Different student groups from the four regional high schools will be invited to meet with the members of the Board of Education under the current nighttime format. The most recent student-board press conference was conducted at night for the first time, thereby allowing a greater number of students and board members to participate in this activity.

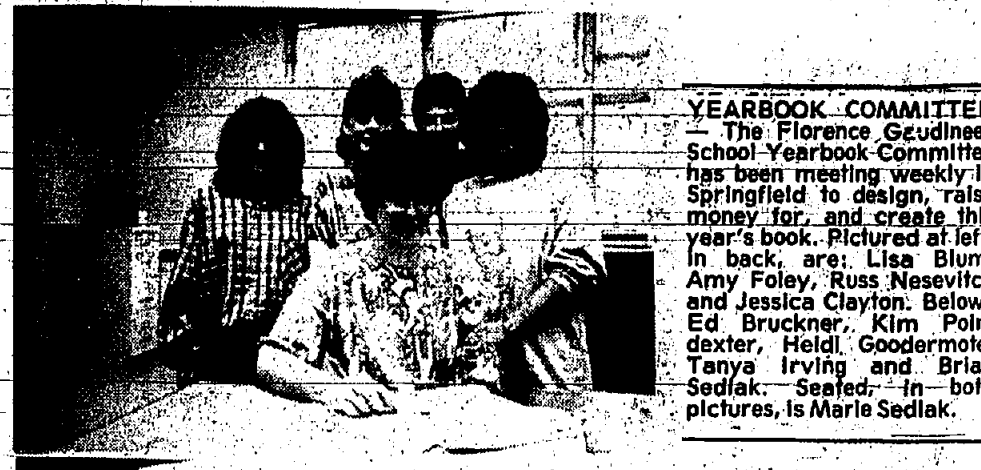

press conference, but at the regular Board of Education meetings. "I believe that a press conference between Board of Education members and students is an extremely important activity of the Regional District," says Merachnik. "I am happy to say that I see our Board of Education as an open-minded, cooperative and concerned group of people and that I look forward to more student-board contact in the future. Though many board members expressed their own personal feelings on subjects, they respected us as student journalists and listened intently to our questions and opinions. The board members were extremely helpful and concerned about what the students asked at the press conference."

The Student-Board Press Conference was a good experience because it gave the students a chance to express themselves before the Board of Education, something which not only leads to the solving of problems but also gives student journalists valuable experience in public speaking," says Alka Patel of The Bear Print, the student newspaper at the David Brearley Regional High School. "We were able to tell the board members about the problems we encounter in our schools. Hopefully, this interaction will lead to an improved learning environment for all students in the regional district."

Matthew Zucker of The Dayton Journal, Jonathan Dayton's school newspaper, had this to say: "I am happy to say that I see our Board of Education as an open-minded, cooperative and concerned group of people and that I look forward to more student-board contact in the future. Though many board members expressed their own personal feelings on subjects, they respected us as student journalists and listened intently to our questions and opinions. School begins winter sports

The Vail-Deane School, Mountaineer, has begun its new winter sports program, which makes both competitive and non-competitive activities available to lower and middle school students. The activities for students in grades 4-6 take place at the end of the school day, allowing them to meet bus transportation or car pools. Middle school students have their program after school.

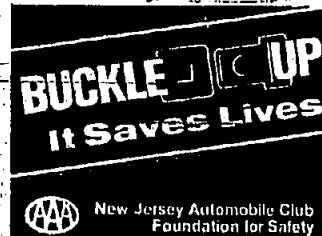

The wrestling program for boys is coached by Scott Karaman, director of athletics and secretary of the Union County Wrestling League. Wrestling team members will be eligible to join the Union County Wrestling League. A middle school girls' cheering team will perform at school wrestling matches. Their coach is Jane Butcher. A new dance program has been made available for girls in the lower and middle schools. Students will be grouped by age and ability while they learn the basics of movement.

"Vail-Deane has worked to develop a program of sports activities that both meets the needs of its students and the schedule of its families," says Joanne Ewars, headmistress.

TOPIC: BREAST CANCER

Some Good Advice From The American Cancer Society . . . And Some Great News From St. Elizabeth-Hospital

First, the good advice. Statistics show that one of every 11 women will develop breast cancer, and that every 15 minutes, three women develop breast cancer and one dies of the disease. The American Cancer Society recommends monthly breast self-examination for women age 20 and older, regular examinations by a physician, and mammography in order to detect breast cancer in its earliest and most treatable stages. In fact, the cancer society's National Task Force on Breast Cancer Control states clearly that mammography in trained hands is a most valuable tool in the detection and diagnosis of breast cancer. Found early enough, the cure rate for breast cancer approaches 100 percent. Otherwise, the five-year survival rate drops to less than 60 percent. Mammography can spot cancers before they can be found by examination, thus greatly increasing your chances of cure.

Now, for the great news. St. Elizabeth Hospital has Union County's most effective tool against breast cancer. St. Elizabeth Hospital's state-of-the-art mammography equipment provides the highest quality X-Ray image while using the lowest possible radiation dosage. No other hospital has a machine that is safer or more powerful. Plus, you have the reassurance of St. Elizabeth Hospital's quality, compassionate health care. This is true to St. Elizabeth Hospital's on-going mission of uniting the most modern medical technology with human caring. If you are a woman over the age of 35 and have never had a mammogram, consult your physician. He can help you make an appointment for a mammogram through St. Elizabeth Hospital's Testing Registration Area. If you do not have a doctor, St. Elizabeth Hospital's physician referral service, the most complete in eastern Union County, can provide you with a referral or a free directory. Your Guide To Local Physicians. This is the only directory of its kind in the Elizabeth area. St. Elizabeth Hospital also offers on-going instruction in monthly breast self-examination through the Education Division of the Nursing Department. County gets jobs grant County Manager Donald F. Anderson announces that Union County is the recipient of a $58,249 incentive grant from the state Department of Labor. The grant is a reward for a job well done in providing employment and training services for county residents.

"The program, under the auspices of the County Division of Employment and Training received the award for passing all seven standards set by the state," says Ann Baran, director of the Department of Human Services. The award was presented to the division for its achievement as well as to provide an incentive to keep up the commendable work.

This is not the first time that such efforts have been acknowledged in a tangible fashion such as this. Incentive award grants received the last two years totaled $287,270. These funds were put back into the program to increase employment and training services.

Alternative approach helps classified youths

An alternative school program located in Westfield, Centennial High School, focuses on adolescents who have been classified emotionally disturbed or neurologically impaired by the child study teams of their local school districts and have met failure in traditional school settings.

In operation since the fall of 1980 under the administration of the Union County Educational Services Commission, Centennial High School emphasizes academic achievement as well as interpersonal development. Alan Squitieri, principal, describes the program as a comprehensive one which includes instruction in art, physical education, home economics and wood shop.

Further vocational training is available at the Union County Vocational School on a shared-time basis for qualified students. "Other students," according to Squitieri, "participate in a Food Services Program, wherein they are taught by preparing school lunches for their fellow students. This is a work-study program and students are paid under the Job Training Partnership Act."

Centennial High School is currently operating a Food Services Program from the Brewer School cafeteria in Clark. The project is being funded by a grant from the Union County Private Industrial Council's Employment and Training Division.

Garry Grimley, supervisor of instruction at Centennial High School, authored the proposal for this grant after identifying a need to monitor students' employability work habits and to develop a marketable skill for employment.

The Food Services Program teaches students entry level job skills in occupations which deal with food preparation. Students receive paid work experience and "hands on" training while developing skills in soup, salad, sandwich and dessert making.

Participating students prepare food on a daily basis for 75 to 100 people at Westside School in Clark, Centennial High School in Westfield, and the Day Treatment Program in Berkeley Heights.

Kyle Lettis, a graduate of Johnson and Wales Culinary Arts College, and his assistant, Joanne Baglieri, provide the training and guidance for students in this program. Through their efforts, students have already been placed in unsubsidized employment at locations such as National State Bank in Elizabeth and Union County College in Cranford.

"Centennial High School invites the business community to observe this program in action and to draw from this newly trained food service work force," says Edward Hartnett, executive director/superintendent of the Union County Educational Services Commission.

"This program is but one example of the ways Centennial High School benefits students, who have gained the valuable tool of motivation for the world of work," Hartnett observes.

The Union County Educational Services Commission was created in the late 1960s when the superintendents of several school districts recognized that many state and federally mandated educational services could be provided more cost effectively and with greater quality on a coordinated, county-wide basis.

The governing body of the commission is a board of directors comprised of a representative from each school district's Board of Education, plus the county superintendent of schools.

Deeds office extends hours

Union County Register of Deeds Joanne Rajoppi announces that beginning in January 1988 her office will maintain extended operating hours twice a month to accommodate those clients who are unable to visit the office during normal working hours.

Beginning Jan. 5, Rajoppi says, the office will be open the first and third Tuesday of each month from 8 a.m. through 5:30 p.m. to accept documents for recording. Currently, the office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Rajoppi says this is a pilot program to determine the need for longer hours. In January 1987, she says, the office hours which had been 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. were extended to 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

"When we extended the hours last January," she explains, "we noticed a small, but perceptible change in the number of clients coming to the office. We believe an additional half hour at the start of the day and another hour at the end of the day will afford more clients an opportunity to present documents for same-day recording."

The Register adds that initially the office will provide only recording services during the extended time. If the program proves successful, other services will be added. The Union County Office of Register is located in the Union County Courthouse, Room 115, 2 Broad St., Elizabeth.

Phobia is focus

The Mental Health Association of Union County announces that they are now accepting applications for their Phobia Release Education Program to be held in Cranford.

PREP is open to anyone suffering from phobia. Screening of all participants for the group is being done during December with classes beginning Jan. 14, 1988, for the evening group, which will meet on Tuesdays from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Working in a mutual help group, PREP offers an intensive learning experience in a variety of fear management techniques for persons suffering from panic disorder, agoraphobia, or individual fears of elevators, dentists, crowded places, flying and many other situations.

Anyone who would like to receive an information packet and application should call the Mental Health Association of Union County at 272-0333 Monday through Friday. The Mental Health Association is an information, referral, and advocacy service.

To train tax help

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program, sponsored by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program of Union County, is providing training sessions dealing with income tax preparation on Jan. 26, 27, 28 and 29, 1988, in Elizabeth.

Volunteers will be trained to provide free assistance to taxpayers who cannot afford professional tax help. Interested seniors should call 351-0770 as soon as possible.

Weinerman nets 50 as Dayton wins, 70-55

By MARK YABLONSKY
In a game characterized by personal glory, aggressive rebounding, tenacity and countless fouls, among other things, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High girls' basketball team, behind the strength of an "awesome" 50-point performance from guard Stacy Weinerman, defeated Briarcliff Regional, 70-55, in the season-opener for both teams last Friday night in Springfield.

Weinerman, who entered the contest needing just 65 points to become the fourth 1,000-point female scorer in Dayton basketball history, overcame a modest start and ended up with the school's highest individual point-scoring performance for one game, including boys' play as well.

And in a 60-44 win over Middlesex the following day, Weinerman added 18 points to reach the coveted 1,000-point mark.

Incidentally, the senior guard shot a whopping 65 percent from the foul line against Briarcliff, converting 23 of 35 free throw opportunities against a team that tried desperately to contain her, but simply couldn't. The Lady Bears.

Briarcliff — Loblanc 5, Egan 20, Frolch 6, Londino 2, Ghidella 7, Rogakos 2, Paucher 8, Roman 4.
Dayton — Francis 0, Drummond 6, Melner 6, Pabst 6, Thompson 2, Weinerman 50.

Dayton: 18 22 14 16 70

who fought gallantly for much of the evening, were done in by a total of 34 personal fouls, aggressive rebounding and Weinerman, although not necessarily in that order.

After assisting sophomore teammate Lauren Melner as a layup just 23 seconds into the game, Weinerman, despite committing a few early turnovers, began to take charge by scoring Dayton's next seven points with five of them coming from the foul line — to give the Lady Bulldogs an early 9-4 lead. Melner, who grabbed 24 rebounds and added six points of her own, then took a pretty pass from Weinerman underneath the basket and converted a layup for a 13-4 Dayton edge only seconds after teammate Colleen Drummond had connected on a free throw to give her team a seven-point lead.

Briarcliff, after capping a 9-0 spurt via a pair of free throws from forward Lisa Faucher, soon fell behind again for good when Weinerman scored first on a layup, and then on a three-point jumper for an 18-13 Dayton lead after one quarter of play. With Weinerman going on to score 26 of her team's first 33 points, the Lady Bulldogs, who enjoyed an impressive 65-27 edge in rebounding, walked off the court at halftime with a 40-33 advantage.

By the time the night was over, Weinerman ended up with 50 points and a total of seven players, with five of them wearing Briarcliff uniforms, had fouled out, thus forcing the 91 Lady Bears to finish the last 38 seconds of play with just three players.

UNSTOPPABLE — And that's pretty much what Stacy Weinerman was in last Friday night's game with Briarcliff. Weinerman, who moved to Dayton from Briarcliff's Kim Egan, set a new Dayton single-game scoring mark with 50 points, 29 of which came from the foul line.

Chalenski to appear on national TV

By MARK YABLONSKY
For the past four years, Mike Chalenski has done everything for the Briarcliff Regional varsity football team both offensively and defensively. He's also been interviewed countless times, both in print and on local television. But now, Big Mike is going to be on national TV, too.

Just two days ago, a three-member crew from the ESPN Sports Network, a nationally independent sports packaging network, spent more than three hours at Briarcliff filming the easy-going, towering, senior gridiron star as he went about his normal, everyday activities.

The purpose of all this, in case you're wondering, is to prepare all the outlets and intakes for studio editing, in order for the final product to be shown twice on big-time television. The first airing will come one week from tonight, on Dec. 30, during halftime of the Freedom Bowl, when Mizlou will present its defensive All-American team, of which Big Mike is a member. This airing will come during prime time, on either Channel 9 or 11, according to information received from the Union County Regional High School district as of press time.

The second airing will come on Sunday, Jan. 3 at high noon on ESPN, when Chalenski will be cited as a member of the cable giant's All-American show.

Truly, it is more than fitting for this football wonder to receive such national recognition, considering that he has been such an easy—and obvious — selection for numerous

All-County and All-State honors as well. And as usual, Big Mike has managed to maintain a calm demeanor during all of this, even as Mizlou filmed him, and spoke to his classmates, classmates and coaches alike.

"He's handling it pretty well," said Bear skipper Bob Taylor, who is certain to be seen on both shows as well. "Mike's a real professional. He's been in his classes, and I think they've found an interesting insight into the guy."

Chalenski, it should be noted, is not the first Briarcliff/Kenilworth football star to receive such attention, considering that former Bears Anthony Siragusa and Ed Miller, two of whom now play for the University of Pittsburgh, were on many a big-time school's list of blue chip prospects just a few, short years ago. But for sure, if it's every year that a local football standout receives national acclaim, either.

'Dawgs lose to Verona, 74-69 Wrestlers drop pair in opener

By MARK YABLONSKY
Despite playing with a largely untested lineup, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High boys' basketball team slugged it out in their season-opener, battling back from deficits several times, before finally losing to Verona, 74-69, last Friday night in Verona.

A 22-point effort from forward Mike Feder, who sank four of his team's six 3-point field goals, and a 22-17 edge in foul shots enabled the Hillbillies to hold off a determined Bulldog squad, which actually registered a 26-23 advantage when it came to regular two-point field goals.

Down by a 54-53 count after three quarters of play, the Bulldogs went ahead, 59-58, early in the final period on a pair of free throws from both Pele Kozubal and Peter Sadin, who finished with 21 and 18 points, respectively. But with Sadin fouling out shortly afterward and junior forward Dave Lisay later doing likewise, Dayton never got any closer than two points the rest of the way, after Verona had countered with four free throws of its own, with two of them coming from Jeff Sprengel, who scored 20 points on the night.

The final blow to Dayton came when Kozubal's three-point attempt was blocked just four seconds before the final buzzer sounded.

Verona has nearly the same makeup that it did last winter, with four of five starters returning from the club that fell to Dayton in the opening round of the North Jersey Group 2, Section 2 playoffs. All of Dayton's starters from last season, meanwhile, were lost to graduation. Sadin and Lisay, both of whom came off the bench, impressed head coach Ray Yanchus, who liked what he saw in his newer, senior-dominated team.

"I think we've found some people who can play under game conditions," said Yanchus, whose club was scheduled to play its home opener against New Providence yesterday afternoon. "Yes, I was happy with the way we played. It was a war. Basically, we battled them all the way. I was pleased with what we accomplished in that game."

Lisay finished with 10 points and Sadin added eight rebounds, while John Saraka pulled down 10 more rebounds.

Taking to the mats for the first time this season, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High wrestling team lost to Bridgewater-West, 40-19, and to Rahway, 56-13, in a triangular match this past Saturday in Bridgewater.

While losing decisively both times, however, Dayton was able to salvage some bright moments when three of its senior wrestlers each won a pair of matches, with two coming by way of a pin.

Brandt Hersh, competing at 112 pounds, pinned Shawn Straka of Bridgewater West at the 5:08 mark, and later walloped Rah-way's John Wozniak, 10-0. In the 119-pound class, Matt Magee slipped Dominick Fortuna of Bridgewater West, 2-1, and then came back to blank Randy Hurford of Rahway, 4-0.

Finally, in the 188-pound class, Chris Klisch pinned Bill Gresham of Bridgewater West at the 1:19 mark, and won his second match by way of forfeit when Rahway did not send an opponent to face him.

For the Bulldogs, nine of their 13 team members wrestled for the first time on the varsity level against two teams that are considered to be of top caliber.

Bridgewater West, as Dayton coach Rick Taccone pointed out, held a high pre-season ranking in Central Jersey competition.

"We're not ready yet, especially for that level of competition," Taccone said. "I think we're going to be okay. I think as soon as we get everybody back healthy and untracked, I think we'll be okay."

Dayton's only other individual winner on the day was 105-pound Steve Cohn, who beat Terry Cramer of Bridgewater West, 15-5.

Dayton — Kozubal 21, Saraka 6, Reyna 3, Dan Lisay 1, Walsh 2, Monaco 5, Sadin 18, Dave Lisay 10, Glassman 1.

Verona — Feder 23, Zingali 5, Marshallah 8, Sprengel 20, Baumgard 14, McGinley 1, O'Hara 3.

Olenick, as a nose guard, then made the MVC's Valley Division defensive squad, along with linebacker Mike Chalinski and safety Mike Ramos. Ken Kinney and Chuck Mogensen received Honorable Mention.

For Dayton, safety Gregg Walsh was an All-MVC defensive team member in the Mountain Division, while linebacker Jeff Stoffer, and safeties William Lee and Jeff Debbie were Honorable Mention honorees. On offense, tackle Chris Klisch and placekicker Glenn Mlake also received Honorable Mention.

Hawks finish season with 5 wins
The Harding School soccer team of Kenilworth recently concluded its third season.

The team played a total of 14 games this season, with the Hawks registering a total of five wins over Roselle Park twice, Winfield Park twice, and Mountinside. The Hawks' other strong opponents were Union, Cranford, Clark, Garwood, and Orange Avenue and Hillside Avenue schools from Cranford.

Eighth-grader Jason Fennes, playing his third season, led the Hawks in scoring with 18 goals from his center-forward position. Another third-year player, Chris Hogan, had 13 goals from his center-halfback position. Other third-year players included Aimee Socresse and Robert Laibio. Eighth-grade students in their second season were Brian Howarth, David Egorola and Mike Emery, who turned in a strong job as goalies.

The team consisted of four 7th-graders who made major contributions to the success of the team. Paul Zema scored two goals from the wing position. Craig Rapczynski played the stopper position. Danny Gocel played halfback and Jeff Karlovitch played the dual positions of halfback and goalie.

UP WITH PEOPLE...High-flying choreography, hard driving music and the non-stop energy of an international cast of 100 are hallmarks of "Time for the Music," Up With People's all new show now on world tour. The group is seeking host families in the area to house members between 18 and 25 years of age during performances in Roselle next month.

Group seeks host families

Up With People, the international performing group most known for its performance at the 1985 Superbowl, is looking for local host families in and around Roselle during its two-day visit to the borough in January.

On Jan. 13 the group will do a benefit in the auditorium of the Abraham Clark High School at 8 p.m. to benefit the Roselle Volunteer Ambulance Corps.

However, the Up With People group needs host families for 135 castmembers between the ages of 18 and 25 from 14 countries including Mexico, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Japan, Germany and America.

"So far we've had beds for 25 kids but need beds for about 110," said Mike March, a castmember who has been in Roselle for the past few weeks doing promotion for the upcoming event.

Anyone who would like to house an Up With People student can call the office at 245-5600, Ext. 70.

Tickets for the performance will be available at the Roselle Ambulance Corps, Roselle Borough Hall and at the Mr. Ticket outlet in Cranford.

Joseph Cotten captured many hearts

By BEA SMITH

For several decades actor Joseph Cotten was the epitome of the male every woman wanted for her own. With his perfectly handsome features, his fine, patient, "Southern gentlemanly" manners, his deference to the female sex, his deep, soft, drawing voice, even his special walk, which was more of a stroll, Cotten captured the hearts of every movie-going girl and woman.

This reviewer, who had fallen in love with him way back when he starred opposite Deanna Durbin in a movie called "Hers to Hold," was flabbergasted at the number of women who confessed to being in love with Jo Cotten throughout the years.

The perfect male specimen, every one of them agreed. And this adoration among women, young and old, was not limited to his fans. Apparently, his co-stars reportedly felt the same way. And Cotten's co-stars included such females as Ingrid Bergman, Jennifer Jones, Bette Davis, Katharine Hepburn, Loretta Young, Joan Fontaine, Marilyn Monroe, Thelma Wright, Claudette Colbert, Ann Baxter, Ginger Rogers and British actress Patricia Medina. Medina became his second wife.

Surprisingly, even the movie-going men admired Cotten, perhaps not for all the reasons the women had, but for his intent masculine interpretations of all of his roles and that special something he had that attracted women to him.

And so, with so much going for him, it isn't any wonder that the super star of his day would write an autobiography called "Vanity Will Get You Somewhere." The book was published this year by Mercury House in San Francisco, Calif. What? Joseph Cotten? Vanity? Oh, no!

The book "Vanity Will Get You Somewhere," in hard cover, contains an array of photographs that would turn any movie buff's head — from Cotten as a baby in his hometown of Tidewater, Va., his beginnings as a growing boy, his association with Orson Welles, and their movies together, "Citizen Kane," "The Magnificent Ambersons" and

"The Third Man"; the behind-the-scenes antics of Jo Cotten, as his family members and friends called him, and those with whom he worked, such as Alfred Hitchcock, and David O. Selznick, his employer and one of his closest friends. There also are pictures of his first wife, Lenore, to whom he was not entirely faithful, and his second wife, Medina, whose overwhelming love and support sustained him throughout his career, his illnesses, his entire life, in fact, — and apparently, still does. Cotten dedicates his book "For Patricia, who is my world."

The actor writes about his early years, his relationship with his parents, his brothers, his uncles and cousins. He talks about his early interest in journalism and acting, and how he managed to put together enough money to go to New York. He struggled, as many a fine actor did, until he found his way to the New York stage and the Mercury Theater with Welles.

In the course of his life in New York, although Cotten doesn't dwell on his brief affairs with women, he does mention them in passing. He also mentions a brief period in his life when he thought he would go into the potato salad business in Florida because he felt that he was the best mayonnaise mixer in the country.

He unveils his early associations with Bergman, his friend and his co-star in "Gaslight," and with Selznick and his wife, Jennifer Jones, with whom Cotten made several movies. Their chemistry sizzled on screen in such films as "A Portrait of Jeannie," "Love Letters," "Since You Went Away" and "Duel in the Sun."

In most of his screen classics, he played the Southern gentleman, so attractive to his female audiences, who also had to tolerate his roles as a skillful murderer in such films as "Shadow of a Doubt" and "Niagara."

Cotten also discusses in length his return to the Broadway stage and the plays in which he appeared with his wife, Patricia. He mentions his near-fatal illness, — and the strong support and undying love of his wife. And he concludes his book with his philosophy that he and his wife are "ordinary, extraordinarily lucky people."

This "ordinary, extraordinary" 82-year-old gentleman, now retired in Florida with his Patricia, who made more than 59 films and who has written one of the finer, more informative and witty autobiographies of a super star, is still able to reveal his fabulous personality — just by flashing that engaging Cotten smile.

What a man!

On the shelf

Cotten writes a fine, informative, often amusing, readable book about what he is all about. And despite the fact that a sensitive, loving fan might find it offensive to see him reveal his foibles, his weaknesses, his

Bill could aid center

A bill sponsored by Assemblyman Peter J. Genova that would appropriate $75,000 to help restore the Railway Theater, which is known as the Union County Arts Center, was recently released by an Assembly Committee.

"This grand old theater, which has been nominated for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places, is ideally suited for an arts center," Genova, R-21, observed.

"The theater, which opened in 1928, is still active and will survive for years to come, providing it receives proper care. A campaign was launched last year to raise the $1.3 million needed to renovate the structure, but only some $400,000 has been collected to date," the assemblyman noted.

"This project will add to the cultural enrichment of Union County and is worthy of state support," he added.

The Tropicana is 'on a roll'

Tropicana Hotel/Casino is "On A Roll!" I'm talking about the aerial sculpture, by world renowned artist Michael Hayden. This thing is humongous and is now hanging in the atrium above the Slot City section of the casino floor.

It has a two-dimensional tumbling dice effect that will never repeat the same pattern. The work is 182 feet in length, contains 128 four-foot-long neon light elements that in combination form 32 quadrants. Each of the elements is colored in varied groupings so that no combination will duplicate another.

"On A Roll" has 42 colors that when lighted, run through the entire color spectrum. The sculpture is controlled by a computer that runs a program of over 30,000 different light sequences. It is hung over eight miles of wire including 264 electrical connections. It overwhelmed me and when you see it, I'm sure it will have the same effect. Things like this are slowly but surely making this city by the sea the mecca for worldwide gambling.

Whenever I mention anything worldwide, I immediately think of Donald Trump. He's just finished a book with Tony Schwartz titled "Trump: The Art of the Deal," released Dec. 14. Why does he do all these things? Well, Donald sums it up in one succinct quote: "I don't do it for money, I've got enough, more than I'll ever need; I do it, to do it. Deals are my art form."

There you have it! I don't know about you, but I can identify with the man, I mean, I don't write this column for money, it brings me much less than I always need. I do it because I happen to have a typewriter and some space to fill in a few publications. Writing is my art form. So if you're interested in how to do it, whatever it is that you do, just pick up a copy at the Trump Plaza Gift Shop. Unfortunately, unlike Mr. Trump, Random House is the publisher and his art form is making deals to make money. Oh, well — $19.95 isn't much to pay to find out how to do things for art's sake.

For those of you who have more art than you'll ever need and are interested in doing things that make money, check out "Rueda's Room" at Harrah's Marina Hotel/Casino. They just opened a high limit slot area section in honor of Slot Operations Director Mando Rueda. The "Rueda Room" features $5 poker machines, $1 highboy machines, $5 slot machines, $1 poker machines and $1 bartop poker machines along with customized seating at the machines. Now you slot addicts can get it on in a big, big comfortable way.

Speaking of getting it on, the Sands signed Jay Leno through mid-1990. He'll appear at both the Copa Room, Stage in Atlantic City, and the Calypso Room of the Sands/San Juan in Puerto Rico. Jay, right now, is about the best there is in his field. The Sands also found time to sign up Jackie Mason who has to be the hottest act in the business today. He's presently on Broadway with his award-winning "The World According to Me," is appearing on the Jack Parr Special this month, and in the January 1988 film "Caddyshack II" with Chevy Chase, Dan Ackroyd and Madelyn Kahn. In February he'll make his "The World According to Me" into an HBO special.

It gives one pause to think. After all, he's been doing pretty much the same schtick for the past 25 years — why this sudden recognition? It proves that there's still hope for all of us. It's never too late, even after the fat lady sings.

Horoscope

For week of Dec. 23

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone you haven't seen for quite a while is on your mind now. Perhaps you should get in touch and wish that person a happy new year. Arguments occur over monetary matters.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) There is something going on over which you have no clear idea as of yet. Don't force the issue, as it will come into focus soon enough to be dealt with. Another's demands should be heeded.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) While you've been so careful to analyze the actions of others, it's your own reactions which need to be monitored. Your self-perceptions are closely and self-serving right now. Avoid anger this week.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is not a good week in terms of heavy socializing. You may want to think about a quiet, new-year celebration this weekend. Family tensions might be high, but you will have the diplomatic means to solve differences.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) While you might feel as though your weekly schedule is firmly in place, something will occur to throw everything off. Just go with this for now, as things will work out for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Someone close to you has some financial advice for you, but you just might be in the mood to argue rather than listen. While you're usually forthright in your approach, this is a good time to utilize tact and diplomacy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If there is a chance of anything happening this week to mar harmony with others, it will be arguments over money. Rather than clinging to and taking a stubborn stance, examine the aspects of this to see where you can compromise. Once the air is cleared, you'll feel better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You're going to have a tendency this week to be rather pushy with others. Resist that dominant side of you as it won't go over well with others and cooperation will come to a screeching halt.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) This will be a week in which you'll feel absolutely nothing is going your way. However, let things run on their own course and don't get excited about it. Patience will pay off in the end and everything will resolve itself.

Plan spring planting now

Now is the time to be planning ahead for the tree-planting projects next spring, and a free brochure is available from The National Arbor Day Foundation to assist.

The free brochure, called "Conservation Trees," uses colorful photos and illustrations and easy-to-understand descriptions to guide tree planting and care.

The Conservation Trees brochure includes these sections:

- How to use windbreaks and shade trees to save energy in your home.
- How to attract songbirds to your yard.
- How to save topsoil and help from profits with shelterbelts.

The right way to plant trees. The right way to prune trees.

"The National Arbor Day Foundation's Conservation Trees program encourages Americans to plant and manage trees to conserve soil, energy, water, and wildlife," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said.

"The Conservation Trees brochure is a central part of this educational project. It serves as a useful guide for people in all areas, whether they live in America's largest cities or in the country," Rosenow added.

For your free brochure, send your name and address to: Conservation Trees, The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410.

SHOWCASE OF HOMES

Be honest about finances when buying a home

The New Jersey Association of Realtors advises potential homebuyers: To avoid wasting time and to ensure getting that which best suits your needs, you should be willing to talk openly and honestly with a Realtor or Realtor-associate about your income and credit status before beginning your search for a home.

Says NJAR President-Elect Anthony Camassa of West Long Branch, "The real estate agent is not trying to pry, but is seeking to obtain, in confidence, the pertinent details that will eventually enable you to purchase the property."

By frankly discussing this financial information, you will be shown homes you can afford. Otherwise, you are placing the real estate agent in the role of a tour guide, not someone who can help you find a home within your budget.

Camassa suggests that being prepared and bringing along such items as previous tax return forms, savings account numbers, a list of assets and liabilities, auto loans, personal loans, etc., the name and address of your employer and whom to speak to at your job for verification of employment are "the little things that really make the difference in how quickly you can obtain loan approval."

Once you have signed a contract to purchase a home, you must choose a lending institution or mortgage company. According to NJAR member and Realtor Ken Diener of Mercer County, "Realtors are in a very good position to make recommendations on different types of mortgages and the firms that are offering the lowest rates and the best service in the area."

Diener states that "hundreds" of mortgage representatives solicit realty firms, providing agents with an abundance of information on institutions' services, rates, and everything the consumer needs to know about mortgages.

Know that if you have held back important financial information from the Realtor, it will not get past the lender. How you pay your bills, and if you have been sued, arrested or have filed for bankruptcy, among other information, will be revealed through a report on your credit history, compiled by a credit reporting agency.

Thus, you should not borrow the down payment without disclosing the loan, submit fake letters-of-credit or gift letters, or make secret financial arrangements.

You should accurately list your income and assets, and all debts and the approximate amounts you owe.

If your financing terms have been adversely affected by the credit report, you may inspect a summary of the report for free or for a nominal fee, and you have the right to challenge its accuracy and seek corrections.

If you are serious about your home purchase, you will be honest with both the real estate agent and the lender. It can make the difference between hearing "It's yours!" or "I'm sorry, but..."

The New Jersey Association of Realtors, based in Edison, is comprised of over 43,000 real estate licensees covering all of the recognized specializations within the industry, and is the state's largest trade association.
