BOE election results

I BOE incumbents coast to victory

For Ruth Brinen, Tuesday's election for the Springfield Board-of. Education was a long day. After sweating out the afternoon hoping that the other voters would re-elect her-to-the board-she-sat patiently in the board's conference room later that night waiting for the final tally.

When a preliminary count was made, the result had her holding a . five-vote lead over her closest rival Neb Sambur, another incumbent who vying for the third and last spot available. Obviously, it was nail-biting time for the six-year board member.

However, about 30 minutes later, when the official count had her 64 votes ahead of her nearest rival, she breathed a sigh of relief. In fact, the suspense was so great, that she left the election center by the time the final vote was decided.

"Get over here, you won," said

Brinen the good news.

Needless-to-say, Brinen was back at the board conference room within a few minutes and she expressed delight that she had won a seat on the

Indeed, Springfield voters proved that they were happy with the way the board was operating. Although there were four challengers, they were no match for the three incumbents. In addition to Brinen and Sambur, Myrna R. Wasserman won handily over the other challengers. Wasserman topped all candidates, with 576 votes. Arthur D. Weinberg. who ran unopposed for a one-year term on the board, garnered 478

Students: good grades, no test

By PAUL PEYTON

Union County Regional Board of Education members said they will continue discussions, on a student proposal to exempt some students from final exams.

The proposal would allow seniors who achieve a 3.5 cumulative gradepoint average in a particular course in the last two marking periods of a school year to be excused from taking the final examination in that

Student government representatives from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield and Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights attended Tuesday's board meeting in Springfield to support the measure.

Nathaniel Zoneraich, treasurer of the proposal would give students an incentive to get better grades.

"The purpose of this proposal is to have seniors maintain their level of achievement throughout senior year. he said. "It will add an additional incentive and serve as a motivational

Zoneraich said the proposal should not be considered a privilege to students since they must achieve a relatively high grade point average.

"In order for a student to be exempt from the exam, he would have to be working up to his normal achievement level and above it," he

Jeff Kostal, Student Council president at Governor Livingston, said student leaders believe strongly in the proposal. He said students often suffer from a lack of motivation in the second half of the school year.

Nathaniel Zoneraich

"We really want to support it fully and we really hope the board considers it carefully because we think it would really work well," Kostal said.

Dr. Martin Siegel, district director of curriculum, said the administration sees the proposal as another means of rewarding graduating seniors.

"The major position taken by the administration is that there is value in the final examination as a way of pulling together all the loose ends of a course," said Siegel.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Merachnik said the proposal is designed to motivate students "to be better and more creative and challenging in the classroom."

Siegel said a similar policy did exist in the district about 1/

Auto thefts up by 33 percent

---341

By JOHN A. GAVIN

Although auto thefts have increased by 33 percent over the last year in Springfield, overall crime has decreased by 15 percent, according to report compiled by the New Jersey pte Police Uniform Crime Report. The report revealed there were 113 motor vehicle thefts in 1987 ared to 85 in 1986. However, idy said that there were 443 offenses committed in town in 1987 compared to 519 the year before — a 15 percent decrease.

Although-the overall statistics have decreased, local police are alarmed about the increasing rate of auto thefts in the area. They say that many of the thefts happen along Route 22 where car thieves can easily prey on cars parked in lots along the

"We're getting a tot of people out of Newark who are preaking in cars said Detective along Route 22," Sergeant Robert Mason of the Springfield Police Department. These people are pros. eaid that many of the thieves are "kids about 15 or 16 years old." However, when police arrest the youngsters, he said, they are very seldom prosecuted. "Most of the time the kids aren't even put in a juvenile detention center," explained Mason. "If court authorities can find a parent or adult guardian, they are turned over to juvenile detention, but that doesn't happen because they are

"It's all a game," he said, acknowledging that the overall reason for such crime is drug related. "Many courts look at car theft as a nonviolent crime because no one is physically furt."

Mason said that a common practice is to steal cars and turn them over to "chop shops" for ranney to bay drugs. He said the problem is further complicated because some adults put youngsters up to such crime due to the laxity in the law.

The report also cited an increase in armed robberies and assaults. In 1986 there were two such robberies; however, in 1987 that figure rose to three - a 50 percent increase. The study also noted an 8 percent increase in assaults. In 1986 therewere 62 such crimes and in 1987 there were 67. However, the local police department was able to solve all of the robberies and 57 percent of the assault crimes.

The study showed a decrease in burglaries and thefts. In 1986 there were 66 burglaries; however, a year later that figure dropped to 30 - a 55 percent decrease. In 1987, thefts ned by 24 percent to 1986, there were 304 thefts.

Obviously, local police expressed delight that the burglaries and thefts dropped during that period. However, They are concerned with a recent burglary wave that has the present crime rate up by 40 percent over 1987. Already there have been 10 residential burglaries compared to the them. If not, they could be put in . 30 recorded last year for residences and commercial establishments.

Survivor recounts the Holocaust

One of Margie Appel's most treasured possessions is a gift she received for her 50th birthday - a doll with golden braids, "just like I wore when I was growing up in Czechoslovakia." The doll is the first that the Springfield resident has ever owned, except for those she fashjoned as a child from rags and bits of cloth. In those early days, she was Malka

Foldstein, one of nine children of a local cattle merchant and his wife. They lived in the village of Klichano-va, not far from the Hungarian City -taped-Oral History Project, sponsored of Munkacz.

Later, during the years of deportations, forced labor and concentration camps, Appel had another dream to own two dresses. When the war ended, and she was liberated from Bergen-Belsen, all she had was a prison uniform and a blanket she tied around her with a rope. Now, she says, "Whenever I think I have 'nothing to wear,' I remember when that was really true."

Margie will recount her story as part of this year's Central New Jersey Yom Hashoah, Holocaust Remembrance, observance, to be held April 14 at 7:30 p.m. in Wilkins Theater of the Performing Arts, Kean College of New Jersey, Morris Avenue, Union.

Sponsored by the Jewish Community Relations Council of the Central New Jersey Jewish Federation and the Holocaust Resource Center of Kean College, the observance commemorates the tragedy of the Nazi Holocaust. The theme, "In Spite-of-Evil; focuses on significant historical events that mark this era. The program, which will be interproted for the hearing impaired, is open to the public free of charge.

Other speakers include Dr. Hans Fisher, who was a witness to Kristallnacht and a passenger aboard the refugee ship St. Louis, and Ernest-Bokor, who helped Raoul Wallenberg save Jews from the deportations. All three participated in the video-Beth Ahm.

by Yale University and the Holocaust Resource Center of Kean College.

Although Appel's story is one of deprivation and personal tragedy, it reportedly also is "one of courage, spirit and a sustaining faith in the future."

Judaism proved to be an essential aspect of Margie's survival. "Even in the camps I recited the prayers every morning and every night," she said. I always had hope, even in the worst times.'

After the war Margie returned to Czechoslovakia where she was reunited with three of her-brothers and where she met her first husband, Moti Herman Hersh, They decided to go to Germany to await papers for the United States. Twin sons were born there, but only one survived.

They arrived in the United States in 1949 and joined a brother who had settled in New Jersey. Their second son was born in 1952, and they eventually opened a store in Irvington. In November 1970 they fulfilled another dream, celebrating their 25th anniversary in Israel. A month later Moti was killed in a holdup at his store. "For me it was like a second Holocaust," said his wife.

Two years later she married an old friend, David Appel, also a survivor. They have been married for 15 years. Margie and David live in Springfield, where they are members of Temple

Volunteers get rewarded

With warmer weather on the way, local officials have devised a plan they hope will promote community spirit as well as help local residents enjoy the summer season. At a recent Springfield Township Committee meeting, members of the Township Committee announced a program designed to encourage membership in the Springfield Volunteer First Aid Squad and the Volunteer Office of Emergency Management's police reserve.

The program provides free membership at the Springfield township pool to those volunteers who meet each organization's regular duty requirements.

"I hope that this free membership will help spark renewed interest in both of these volunteer service organizations so vital to the community, said Mayor-Jeffrey Katz.

In the plan, nlarried individuals would qualify for family memberships while singles would be eligible for individual memberships.

Citizens interested in the plan are encouraged to contact the First Aid Squad at 376-0400 or the Office of Emergency Management at 467-3388 for further details.

Clarifies reading program information

I wish to take the opportunity to respond to a guest column which recently appeared in the Springfield Leader.

In the article, the author, Karen Whalen, indicates that the Superintendent of Schools gave her the names of four school systEms using Super Kids. The names of these communities were supplied to Dr. Friedland by Addison-Wesley personnel and were in fact incorrect. I would like to apologize to the Springfield school administration for causing this embarrassment.

We are currently researching certain charges Ms. Whalen makes in her column and will submit an additional response to the Springfield Leader in the

Her concern-is for children's education

Since I began looking into the Superkids reading program in November, my only concern has been getting the best possible education for our children. I'm ire-that-all-parents-share-that-concer

I recently learned that the Central Avenue School in Madison uses the Superkids Program. When I contacted them and explained my concerns about the program, they suggested that I come in to speak with a first-grade teacher. That meeting was very enlightening.

The teacher that I spoke with had piloted the Superkids Program and had made several intelligent recommendations at that time. All kindergarten child-ren would be evaluated and grouped soon after entering kindergarten so that the readiness level of the series could be climinated for those who had progressed beyond that level.

A phonics oriented book would be introduced after the children had completed the short "a" and "o" vowel sounds. They use Palo, Alto and Modern Curriculum Press. Blends would be taught before reading the Bus Club. A sight series would be introduced before reading Adventures of the Superkids. They use Ginn and others — I was given a copy of the textbook record. Long-vowel-sounds-would-be-introduced as needed. Children would begrouped every day for reading.

This very knowledgeable teacher was aware of the need for adding the Dolch words and for introducing long vowel sounds earlier than the program suggests. She uses a separate spelling series to compliment the "Memory Words" that Addison-Wesley suggests for their spelling program. And she stated that "no reading series can effectively be taught without grouping your children." Her top first-grade groups are now working on Book 6, her lowest on Bus Club 4, and all children are working on their own ability level, without pressure or boredom for any child.

Though we're both using the same reading series, Madison has considered the needs of all children and has taken the time to create a curriculum that covers all of those needs. They were not angry with me for questioning their reading program, but treated me with the respect that every concerned parent

It seems to me that everyone in a community should work together for a better educational system. I'm sure this administration would encourage everyone to see a copy of the curriculum for any subject in any grade so that parents might participate in expanding opportunities for our children.

We should all be interested enough in our children's future to take advantage of our right to know what our children are learning. Few people know what goals have been set or what progress has been made toward achieving those goals for our own children.

It's not necessary to have a PhD to understand and contribute to those goals and to find out how our children's needs are assessed. To take a closer look can only open a more ineaningful dialogue between the parent and the school and that can only benefit our children. The door is now open so that parents can do more than just pay taxes to support education. Ask to see curriculum and make suggestions for improvements. It is your right.

I feel that I must set the record straight on a few points that may have been misunderstood. I saw a reading score of 46 percent on IOWA test averages. Other scores, listening, vocabulary, etc. may have been averaged in to get a verbal average of 63 percent. Livingston has said they are discontinuing the Superkids Program. Praises Mrs. Whalen for her concern

I would-like to offer a few comments on the recent controversy concerning the Super Kids reading program for grades kindergarten and first. On March 3, Karen Whalen wrote a guest editorial criticizing several spects-of-this-program. She-also-questioned-the judgment of our school dministration in implementing it. Her involvement in this area began when she felt her child was not progressing at a satisfactory rate in reading. After speaking with several other parents who shared her veiwpoint she began to research the Super Kids program. The results of this research appeared in her

In the ensuing weeks several people, most notably Albert Lamorges, K-8 rriculum coordinator, Dr. Gary Friedland and Mr. Stein responded to Mrs. Whalen's column. It must be very difficult for a professional administrator to be criticized publicly.

To their credit Dr. Friedland and Mr. Lamorges replied in a dignified and professional manner. Each person attempted to explain why he felt Superkids was the best reading program available for our children. Dr. Friedland also instituted district-wide meetings between parents and teachers in order for parents to better ascertain the positive points of this program from the administration's point of view. Even though I do not understand how a teacher can objectively evaluate a program instituted by his/her employer in a public forum I feel this was a positive and constructive response to parents' concerns clating to this program. lowever, in my opinion, Mr. Stein's comments were both regrettable and infortunate. Mr. Stein states that in her guest column, Mrs. Whalen was very critical of our teachers.

This is simply not true. Mrs. Whalen states quite-clearly "Springfield's eachers are the best." Much more disturbing to me than Mr. Stein's incomrehension is his rather awkward and transparent attempt to reduce Mrs. Whalen's legitimate and sincere concerns about the education-of-her-child-to-apersonal level. Mr. Stein also points out the proximity in time between the appearance of Mrs. Whalen's comments and board elections and passage of the school budget, implying that Mrs. Whalen's comments may have been politically motivated. In my opinion Mrs. Whalen truly feels there are better alternatives than Addison-Wesley. The presentation of this information in the fall would have been premature. To present it in the late spring would have been meaningless as far as modifying and supplementing this program in order to better benefit students this year. Perhaps if Mr. Stein were not so concerned with politics he would better be able to understand that when a parent feels a child's educational welfare is in jeopardy, rectification should be initiated as soon as possible regardless of how people, such as Mr. Stein, may feel about it politically. I truly believe that these regrettable comments tell us more about Mr. Stein's character than they do about Mrs. Whalen's.

The foundation of our society is based upon the right of individuals to estion our elected officials and public servants and to speak out when they feel an injustice has been committed. Whether one agrees with her or not I feel Mrs. Whalen should be congratulated for having the courage to speak out. against the shortcomings of the Addison-Wesley reading program and more importantly for having the fortitude to spend so many of her days researching this subject before doing so. It seems very evident that Mrs. Whalen is a truly cally, the state has failed and continues to fail to maintain its property along Mountview Road which borders the former Houdaille Quarry. This property was acquired by the state as part of the Interstate 78 project. In Writing to you directly, I am assuming the DOT's policy is to obey the law rather than to violate it. I am assuming further that DOT recognizes its obligations as a property owner and that it is DOT's responsibility to prevent dumping and to identify and prosecute violators. The fact is that trash, debris, construction material and other waste has b allowed to accumulate on this DOT property as well as on adjacent properties both the county and Baltusrol-recognize-their-responsibility to maintain their property within the requirements of the Public Health and Nuisance Code and within regulations promulgated by the New Jersey State Department of Health as well as by local Boards of Health.

The response from DOT, however, has been that it lacks the "time and nanpower" to maintain this property and that the local police should under take the burden of preventing dumping. Frankly, I'm tired of shake-and-fake blame shifting like this. The property owner is responsible and accountable —

The county and Baltusrol also must dedicate "time and manpower" to maintain their properties. They also understand that they have choices, such as assigning the County Police to observe violations or moving their fences closer to the pavement. DOT has similar choices. It may contract for the services of the Springfield Police on an "at cost" basis or relocate its property fences closer to the pavement. But failure to exercise these choices does not excuse DOT's consistent failure to act.

In view of DOT's persistent violation of the law, I have asked our township administrator to instruct our health official to issue an abatement order immediately. A compliance period of 10 days will be permitted. If the property is not in conformance with applicable statutes, regulations and ordinances at the expiration of that period, complaints will be filed and summonant will be issued. Naturally, I hope that court action will not be necessary, but understand that this Township will pursue every available remedy to ensure the public's health and safety.

Thank you for your anticipated cooperation in climinating this unsightly. JEFFREY H. KATZ

The search for County Manager Donald Anderson's replacement is moving along, according to county officials. About three dozen resumes of job candidates have been received by the search committee, Freeholder Walter Boright said Tuesday.

"The committee has been active with prospective applicants. They hope to narrow the list down to a dozen by the end of this month, and then narrow it again in mid-May to five or so." Boright said. Those five will be interviewed and a final selection for the $80,000 per year job is expected by early June.

Anderson announced his resignation in January and said he will remain on the job until a replacement is hired. Freeholder Chairman Michael Lapolla appointed the committee which consists of himself. Union County has won its appeal to the state Department of Health for higher Medicaid reimbursement rates at Runnells Hospital - a decision that its autonomous standing April 30 one in 1973, have nearly $1 million brought $1.2 million in retroactive adjustment payments for nursing home

The announcement came this week from Freeholder Walter Boright, liaison to the hospital and member of the Runnells Hospital Advisory Board of Managers. Boright initiated county legislation which resulted in the 1984 appeal. The county freeholders learned of its success last December and this week

The legislation requested an appeal be filed with the Health Department calling for a review of Medicaid rates for specific areas where costs exceeded

The reimbursement rates are specifically for intermediate and skilled-lovels of nursing home care - rates that the county administration said had been significantly below the actual costs but are now realistic and fair, according to

Boright said the reimbursement "is not a one-time windfall."

Old flags could be burned under Bassano law

Legislation that would allow fraternal or veterans organizations to burn old American Flags out in the open, was released today by the Senate Law and

Sponsored by Senator C. Louis Bassano, the bill would require that the old flags be burned on June 14 of each year, in accordance with-federal law. 'According to United States law, when the American flag is 'no longer a tting emblem for display, it should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning," Senator Bassano said.

"New Jersey law currently prohibits the burning of anything outdoors. This presents a problem for those who would like to dispose of deteriorated American flags in a proper, lawful manner," Senator Bassano said.

The Senator continued, "Veterans' groups, lodges and other fratemal organizations frequently come across a number of old, wom American flags. This legislation would allow groups such as these to dispose of old American flags by burnings them on Flag Day," said Senator Bassano.

"That way, we would be sure that our stars and stripes are retired in the most dignified way possible," Senator Bassano said.

A bill sponsored by Assemblyman Peter J. Genova that is designed to prevent the spread of contagious diseases on New Jersey's college campuses has cleared its first legislative hurdle. The measure, A-546, would require out-of-state and foreign students under the age of 30 to submit to their college or university a complete and up-to-date inoculation record as a prerequisite to admission

The information would have to be received by the college or university by the end of the student's first semester.

"While some colleges have already adopted this policy, a majority do not maintain records of their students' immunization background," noted Genova. "This information is critical because it could have an impact on the health of -thousands of students attending New Jersey institutions of higher education." "Every country's consulate requires different health information from students who wish to travel abroad to study," the assemblyman said. "Health records of those who immigrate to this country for the purpose-o attending a college or university are discretionary with their country's consulates. My bill will, therefore, ensure that our foreign-students-have placed on ecord with their college or university their most recently updated immigration

The bill won release from the Assembly Higher Education and Regulated ofessions Committee by a 5-0 vote. It now advances to the full Assembly for consideration at a later date.

Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwickwill make the second in a series of testify on behalf of legislation requiring the state to pay for all future programs

Several local and county officials from northern New Jersey counties are expected to appear at the committee hearing, to be held at the Bergen County Administration Building in Hackensack today at 10:30 a.m. Hardwick will estify on a constitutional amendment he is sponsoring which would require that all future programs mandated for municipalities be paid for by the state.

Speaker Hardwick said, "The time has come for state government to start dealing fairly with municipalities. If the state wants a particular program or service to be mandatory for the counties and local communities, then the state is going to have to find a way to fund it.

"The eventual enactment of this proposal would enable the state to become more responsible in better serving the needs of municipalities-and constituents. Under this plan, the situation of placing local communities in the predicament of being forced to implement a program-without-the-necessary financing would be completely eliminated." Hardwick added.

Hardwick made his first appearance before the committee to testify on the issue in a hearing held in Vineland on March 30.

The state mandate/state pay legislation is part of a sweeping agenda of programs initiated by the Speaker to improve the fiscal responsibility of state government. Other measures initiated by Hardwick under that agenda include proposals which would: place a cap on state spending; call for state takeover of county court costs; provide direct aid to local governments as a priority. appearances before the Assembly State Government Committee next week to item in the state budget; and establish a permanent taxpayer relief fund.

AUTOMOTIVE CHECKLIST — Ernest Andersen, right, and his son Ernie, center go over a checklist for a car about to be sold to a customer at Andy's Auto Sales, 2486

No ordinary used car dealer

At Andy's Auto Sales, at 2486 Vauxhall Road, Union, last Friday, owner Emest Andersen was busy performing a brake job on a Chrysler LeBaron he sold to a customer two years ago.

That type of service, something that many other used car dealers don't offer, is routine for Andersen. who has been a licensed used car dealer since 1952. For Andersen and his son, Emic, service begins long before the customer drives the car off the lot.

"We handpick our ears," he said. "We look a 5,000 cars a week on the used car markets." Virtually all of the vehicles offered at Andy's Auto Sales are purchaseti at wholesale auctions or dealer exchanges where cars are brought in by wholesalers in the business of obtaining quality

"Rarely does anybody come in here privately and sell us a used car," said Andersen. "Maybe one a

When looking at cars, the Andersens go over them with a fine-tooth comb. "The first thing we look at is appearance," he said. "We look at the upholstery, the interior. We want to see a car that shows a previous owner's care." "Then," Andersen continued, "we check out the mechanical end of the car." That includes giving the engine a thorough onceover and checking for oil and grease leaks. Anderson said he looks for cars "as new as possible," although "we may go as far back as 10 years."

Unlike many dealers who try to move as many cars in and out of their businesses as quickly as possible, Andy's Auto Sales prefers an approach that caters to buyers who are particular about the cars

nable-Treat: "Hidden-Path ways," by Bruce Mitchell, on the Narada Mystique label.

Bruce Mitchell's first compact disc LP album is a musical homecoming for the versatile and talented Canadian artist, who has achieved renown as a composer, > musician, arranger, producer and engineer. For with "Hidden Pathways," Mitchell feels that he is finally. coming back to writing the kind of music that is truly in his heart -- "a music that unites all timbral possibilities and styles in a warm and o healing environment, a music that inspires and uplifts people." The upbeat, celebratory and often mystical sounds of "Hidden Pathways" were recorded by Mitchell at DV Productions in Milwaukee under the direction of Narada's creative staff.

As is his style, Mitchell worked on the album while surrounded by an arsenal of audio equipment. It is a familiar environment for this musical and technological wizard, who has built a reputation for himself in his native Canada with his soundtracks for films, corporate commercials and children's television_programming,_and_his_ computer music consulting/ designing. Keyboardists such as among those that use original

BRUCE MITCHELL

Born on March 26, 1952, Mitchell began his study of music at the age of 8 with an accordion, picked up guitar at 12 and formed his first band at 15. In high school he learned the alto and tenor saxophones, and-at-the Royal Conservatory in Toronto he studied classical piano and electronic music.

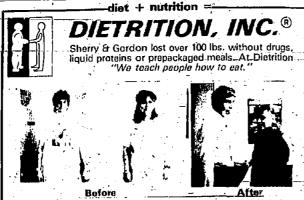

At the age of 21, Mitchell played solo piano in nightclubs and restored pianos and harpsichords to making a living. A few years later he bought an eight-track recorder and a synthesizer and won a job scoring a Canadian children's TV show, "The Adventures of tracks for the TV series, "The Law and You," then followed that with scores for television documentaries including Alvin Toffler's "The Third Wave" and the "Science Edition" series, commercials for IBM, Control Data and others, and

Work as a computer_music consultant and programmer came later. Mitchell currently has his own music software company and is a member of NAMM, National Association of Music Merchants. He also is on contract with KORG U.S.A. to provide with software disks. And his own compositions have been attracting growing attention. His music has been featured on Canadian radio arts programs and he has performed on the plane as a solo improvisationalist at such venues as the University Concert Halls in Ontario.

His many years of experience in music and studio technology have enabled Mitchell to craft a masterful debut album for Narada Mystique. His expertise in studio electronics and talented-playing of piano, guitar, flute, saxophone, harp, harpsichord, synthesizer and percussive instruments imbue his music with a variegated richness, as does his personal interest in areas such as philosophy, ancient history and world religious.

MILLION DOLLAR CLUB WINNERS

The James F. White Realty Co., the oldest family-owned real estate office in Union, announces with pride its Million Dollar Sales Club Members for 1987. Located at 1423 Stuyvesant Avenue in Union for nearly 40 years, REALTOR Joan White says, "We're part of Union and Union is a part of us. All of our agents live in Union. We care about this town. We've sold more houses in Union than any other office. People come back to us. They trust White Realty's quality service and consistent performance by our dedicated agents, like these Million Dollar Performers."

PLUSH LAWNS - like this one can be created chemical free and maintained naturally. Ringer Lawn Restore eliminates fungus diseases and promotes_natural growth of healthy turf.

Get plush lawns naturally

Transforming a tancred lawn Ringer Lawn Restore contains into a plush carpet can be high-protein concentrates and achieved naturally without relying on potentially harmful chemicals or synthetics.

Spring is the time to begin, so that by midsummer your lawn is healthy and vigorous enough-towithstand hot weather and the outdoor activities that go with it.

A natural and safe program of with a test for soil pH. Most lawn grasses grow best in slightly acid soil (around pH 6.5).

Soil test kits available at garden centers or your local exten-sion service will help determine your lawn's precise needs. In the past, applying chemical fertilizers was generally considered the only practical and convenient method of supplying lawns with needed nutrients. Thatch - the layer of undecomposed roots and stems that builds up at ground level, and prevents nutrients and moisture rem reaching the roots — had to be removed by hand-raking or a=powerdriven, and sometimes ineffective, dethatcher: Now an all-natural, completely safe bio-organic alternative is available. It increases soil fertility, while also decreasing thatch, beneficial micro-organisms. which together recreate the natural cycle of growth that occurs in

A healthy soil then supports a healthy lawn. The microorganisms also break down thatch into usable nutrients that are absorbed by grass roots.

In addition, Lawn Restore gradually releases nitrogen, pho-sphorous and potassium, the nutrients needed in greatest amounts by all turf grasses.

Lawn Restore can be applied easily with an ordinary push-type, drop spreader. For best results on a tattered lawn, make three applications each year, in early spring, midsummer and early fall.

If disease or thatch problem is very severe, make an additional spring application 30 days after the first. Once your lawn, is healthy, apply no more than twice a year, in spring and fall.

Along with the right soil additives, some of the best preventive medicine against disease, insects and weeds is proper watering and mowing, Occasional thorough sprinklings.

A good way to monitor your lawn's needs is to place a coffee can on the lawn in the sprinkler's path and water until the can is filled up, 6-8 inches. It is best to water before midday, so grass can'dry before evening. Wet grass at night promotes fungus disease.

Lawns should be kept at a height of from 1 1/2-3 1/2 inches, depending on type of grass. A good general rule is to mow about once a week, whenever grass grows much above two inches Grass can be kept somewhat' higher-in-midsummer to reduce heat buildup in the turf. But avoid cutting more than one-third of the grass height at a time, or tender young growth may be exposed to damaging sunscald.

Be sure to keep the mower blades sharp and balanced, Dull blades rip rather than cut, fraying and browning grass tips and making the lawn more prone to

Rotary blades can be sharpened easily with a file or sharpening stone. For safety's sake, always disconnect the spark plug wire waterings, are more beneficial before touching the blade.
