County manager tapped

By DONNA SCHUSTER

A unanimous vote by the Board of Freeholders has named Joseph A. Martin the Union County manager post. Martin is a former administrator in Essex County where he served as a top official for two county executives. His first day on the job will be Aug. 8.

The five-month search for a manager came to a close June 23 when the board selected Martin from among three finalists. About 50 people applied for the job to replace Donald Anderson, who served for 18 months before announcing his resignation in January, said Freeholder Chairman Michael Lapolla.

"Martin is top-notch. We were lucky to get him," Lapolla said.

Martin served as administrator in Essex for two years under former County Executive Peter Shapiro and current Executive Nicholas Amato. He was responsible for preparing that county's annual budget, which last year exceeded $350 million, and for supervising county operations.

Martin lives in West Caldwell with his wife and three children. He said he will move to Union County.

The Vietnam veteran is currently the managing director of the Hudson River Waterfront Transportation Project which is a state agency involved in planning and financing a major transportation artery system along the Hudson River. Martin was appointed to that post by Gov. Thomas H. Kean.

The new county manager said he is confident that partisan politics will not hinder his ability to do a good job. He steps in as the fourth manager in 13 years; county residents voted in 1975 to change from the commission form of government to the manager plan.

All but one of the former managers left their posts

after falling into discord with freeholders or after a changeover in the political makeup of the board. The county manager serves at the will of the freeholders.

But the fact that Republicans and Democrat freeholders alike demonstrated full support in voting unambiguously to appoint him has put Martin's entrance into the county on a level above political bickering. Martin said he can remain on that level.

"I'm flattered about the way the vote went. It gives everyone a fresh start. What happened in the past is gone," said the appointee.

"I think I'm working with reasonable people. Everyone has to cooperate. The bottom line is the freeholders are the bosses."

Chairman Lapolla said the bipartisan support shows that Martin's appointment is not a political one. He was the unanimous recommendation of the search committee as well, said Lapolla.

"We will unite behind Joe. He has an outstanding background and he has run a county before. And that's what we have to let him do."

Lapolla's sentiments were echoed by all of the freeholders. Freeholder Joe Suliga said the board has to "butt out and let him do his job."

Martin will be doing his job at $95,000 a year. He will also have the use of a county car. The salary figure is $17,000 more than the last manager. Anderson earned $78,000 a year.

Lapolla said the search committee surveyed dozens of county managers around the country and found the average salary in the range of $90,000 to $115,000. The freeholder chairman said Martin's salary at the Hudson River agency is $95,000 and the board decided to match that figure. "We think he's worth it," said Lapolla.

Town annex is ready

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.

The former American Legion facility on Mountain Avenue has become the new workplace for several municipal public works employees.

Dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremonies were held last Thursday with Mayor Jeff Katz and Township Committee members Bill Welsch, Phil Kamos and Jo-Ann Pieper in attendance.

The Public Works Annex, as it is now called, is located across from the Municipal Building and is the result of a $300,000 acquisition and improvement bond ordinance approved by the committee last fall.

"After the township property assessor valued the building and property at $200,000, we purchased it at that price and the additional $100,000 was used for renovation of the facility," said Mayor Katz.

Katz said the American Legion abandoned the building because of declining membership and an unwillingness to maintain the grounds.

"The building had withstood the test of time, but general wear and tear had taken its toll on the floors; the lighting scheme used was not very effective; and the windows were leaky and in need of replacement; and the building lacked modern conveniences such as telephones and air conditioners when we found it," said Township Engineer Leo Eckman, who has been responsible for many of the existing improvements including the wallpapering, room partitioning and other construction work.

Out of gratitude to the township for purchasing, redeeming and maintaining the hall, the American Legion said the money received for the building would be put back into the community. The student government seminar titled Boys State and the recent scholarship given to Jonathan Dayton graduate Becca Hillier for academic pursuits are two such charitable dedications.

The American Legion also plans to refurbish the clock tower which sits atop the town hall. The clock tower was dedicated to the township back in 1959 in memoriam to the men and women who fought in the armed forces.

The Public Works Annex consists of a 50-by-25-foot common room, a 12-by-25 office and 12-by-25 locker room for the road department, a new bathroom, a 12-by-18-foot conference room and two 12-by-18 offices prepared for the township engineer and Building Inspector Harry Kals.

The new building will also house the Board of Adjustment, the Planning Board, the Fire Subcode Official and the Plumbing Inspector.

Carpeting, new electrical wiring, window unit air conditioners, telephones and double-glazed, energy-efficient windows were also installed.

Local officer presides over crime prevention unit

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.

By the unanimous vote of his colleagues in neighboring towns Springfield Police Officer George Hildner has been appointed to the post of Union County Crime Prevention Officers Association president.

The two-month-old crime prevention bureau is a cost-effective effort at opening lines of communication and fighting crime on a countywide basis, said Hildner.

The organization was set up, for example, so that one town's possession of a video tape on how to prevent car thefts may be utilized by all towns in the county through a system of borrowing; video, audiovisual and printed material are among the resources used in exchange. This works to save money and step up crime prevention techniques as well, he said.

"There's no sense in reinventing the wheel," quips Hildner.

So far there are 10 members, including Springfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, Union, Clark, Linden, Roselle, New Providence, Plainfield and Westfield, Hildner said.

Springfield, following in the footsteps of other towns employing a crime prevention bureau, has set up a full-time staff position designed specifically for the purpose that is separate and distinct from the patrol and investigatory services of the Police Department.

ers have gone to work and no one is home; garbage bags should be taken out of the garbage can and carried to the front of the house.

- Keep hedges trimmed low. A thief is less likely to break into a home if he can easily be seen by neighbors.
- Keep a radio on all day tuned to a talk show to give the impression that someone is home.
- Use a pin or brace in windows to make opening them from the outside more difficult.

Hildner is available by appointment for free consultation on ways to safeguard the home against crime.

Recently Hildner coordinated a week-long course on crime prevention techniques for police-officers in Union County under the direction of the New Jersey state Division of Criminal Justice.

"I had to go out of the county to find instructors," Hildner said, "and it was in talking to these individuals that I learned of crime prevention programs in other counties and how useful such a program would be in Union County."

Some of the topics discussed were lock reinforcement, alarm systems, security lighting, shrubbery heights and neighborhood crime watch programs, he said.

According to Springfield police statistics, crime in Springfield has been reduced drastically under the administration of Hildner.

Burglaries, for example, dropped from 200 in 1981 to 66 in 1987 and 36 so far in 1988.

Hildner's main goal locally is to keep burglaries down by eliminating the things that make a thief's job easy.

As deterrent measures, Hildner recommended:

- The use of doors with good, solid construction along with a one-inch dead bolt on all doors with outside access.
- A metal strike plate, which receives the latch or bolt, should be attached solidly to the door frame so that exterior doors close securely in place.
- Proper lighting so that a house is clearly visible at night, and lighting timers which go on automatically to be used when the family is on vacation.
- Overturned garbage cans in front of a house indicate that the home own-

Welcome aboard

Union County turned over a new leaf this week with the appointment of a county manager. It was one of those rare times when Republicans and Democrats agreed with each other.

The intelligence of the freeholder board came shining through with the choice of Joseph Martin, an outstanding chief administrator whose past actions are beyond reproach. One needs only to say his name in the midst of Essex County and state authorities to realize the level of professionalism in Martin's background.

We are delighted to welcome Martin, who enters this position after serving under two county executive administrations in Essex, for the governor in a state commission, and for various private industries.

The freeholders say they will leave Martin to his job with a minimal amount of interference. We hope that the sentiments expressed by the freeholders are more than just the words they think Martin wants to hear.

If they truly want Martin to work out, they have to "butt out," in the words of one freeholder, who took the words right out of our mouths.

Known for his honesty and forthright nature, we are sure Martin will become a valued addition to Union County. We wish him luck.

Keep it safe

Your Fourth of July holiday could be ruined by an exploding firecracker or carelessly handled fireworks.

According to the New Jersey Department of Law and Public Safety, last year, an estimated 9,000 people throughout the United States were treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries associated with fireworks. In New Jersey last year, more than 100 persons were reported injured and received hospital treatment for injuries relating to firecrackers. Many of the victims were under 15 years of age. Blindings, amputations and burns are the most common types of injuries sustained from the use of fireworks.

On the basis of studies made by the U.S. Product Safety Commission and the National Fire Protection Association, most injuries seem to occur in the following ways:

□ Holding a firecracker in the hand too long after lighting the fuse.

□ Throwing a lighted firecracker at another person.

□ Exploding one or more firecrackers stuffed inside a pipe or some other object.

□ Taking a firecracker apart and lighting the powder.

Even the so-called "harmless" sparklers are responsible for a surprisingly large number of injuries to children. The sulfur-coated wire of the sparkler can reach temperatures as high as 2,000 F — and just the afterglow of the sparkler can cause burns and clothing fires.

If that isn't enough to scare you, keep in mind that possession, sale or use of fireworks is illegal in the state of New Jersey and offenders face a fine or possible jail sentence.

Among the items defined as fireworks are sparklers and novelty items such as cigarette loads, trick matches, trick noise makers, smoke grenades, toy propellants, snap and pops, poppets and champagne poppers, as well as firecrackers, Roman candles, rockets, M-80s and other dangerous fireworks, which are illegal in all states, but are easily smuggled in to store owners.

Fireworks laws are enforced by municipal police and the Department of Labor. Usually the fireworks will be confiscated and charges lodged in municipal court.

Anyone deciding to get rid of fireworks should immerse them in water or dampen them with a hose and then drop them off at the local police or fire department.

Any person found guilty of possessing fireworks, including sparklers, with the intention of selling them, can be fined up to $1,000 and/or imprisoned up to six months. Any person found using fireworks illegally can be fined up to $500 and/or imprisoned for up to 30 days.

Additionally, if fireworks cause an accident, no matter who is at fault, the seller of the fireworks may be sued.

Some people believe that fireworks obtained by mail or purchased out of state are permitted. According to state Assistant Commissioner of Labor William Clark, "It doesn't matter where you get them, fireworks are illegal. Only public displays by approved organizations which have been granted permits by local fire and police chiefs are legal."

To prevent fireworks accidents without putting a halt to the July Fourth fun, leave the handling of fireworks to the professionals. Attend a fireworks display conducted by a municipality.

See the Focus section of this week's paper for a complete list of local, county and statewide-sponsored holiday activities.

Focus on natural resources

Hearings emphasize need for space

By HELEN C. FENSKE

The Assembly Committee on Conservation, Natural Resources and Energy held a series of public hearings throughout the state during the past few weeks to hear ideas for preserving open space and providing recreational facilities. Almost every speaker testified called for a need to preserve open space in New Jersey.

Committee Chairman Maureen Ogden, Vice Chairman Joseph M. Kyriillos Jr., and Frank A. Lombardo, David C. Kronick, and Gerard C. Naples heard testimony from state, county, and local government officials, planners, non-profit organizations, the New Jersey Association of Realtors, and the New Jersey Builders Association among others.

These hearings, as Chairman

Ogden said, were held to explore additional steps the state could take to preserve open lands and provide additional recreational facilities. And the committee did hear new ways to come up with funding or to provide recreation.

Administrator of the Office of Natural Lands Management in the Department of Environmental Protection, Thomas Hampton, mentioned a program that worked to purchase property for Shenandoah National Park in Virginia during the height of the Depression. The Virginia Legislature appropriated $1.2 million to buy this property, provided that matching funds came from private donations. Over 24,000 people contributed to this "Buy An Acre" campaign, Mr. Hampton said. "Perhaps this type of campaign, in coordination with private conservation groups, such as the Nature Conservancy, can launch a similar campaign," he concluded.

Director George Howard of the Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife spoke about the rising demand for public access for all types of recreation, especially for water activities. The Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife, he said, has recommended the development of 27 new fishing launch facilities, the construction or renovation of 29 fishing piers, and the acquisition of 22 high-priority stream corridors.

In other testimony, Gregory A. Marshall, director of the Division of Parks and Forestry, like many others who testified, urged the Legislature to pass a bill that would provide a stable source of funding for natural resources. "Among our 36 parks, 11 forests, 13 natural areas, five recreation areas, 24 historic sites, three burial grounds, four marinas, one forest nursery and one golf course, we have 400 miles of roads, 100 miles of water, sewer and electric lines and over 1,635 structures from restroom facilities to historic monuments."

"When you think about these statistics and relate them to facility needs, I trust you can understand our concerns for not 'baldly' adequate funding levels for acquisition, capital improvements and maintenance, but funding that we can rely on from one year to the next," Marshall said.

Fenske is assistant columnist for Natural Resources, N.J. Department of Environmental Protection.

Drug use among high schoolers declines

By RON GAETANO

Drug use among high school seniors nationwide during 1987 was the lowest in 13 years, according to the annual University of Michigan substance abuse research survey.

The federally funded survey, which was released earlier this year, showed that 42 percent of all graduating high school seniors used an illegal drug at least once during the previous year. This is a drop from 44 percent in 1986 and is the lowest percentage recorded since the survey was initiated in 1975.

Nearly 17,000 students from 130 high schools, representing all geographical and economic regions across the nation, participated in the survey.

In addition, 1,200 college students and young adults, who had taken part in earlier surveys, were contacted for updated information.

While this drop in drug abuse is certainly good news, we must note that the survey does not include the 15 to 20 percent of the students who dropped out of high school during 1987. Other research has shown that drug use is extremely high among high school dropouts.

Included among the survey's statistical information for 1987 was:

- Marijuana use dropped from 39 to 36 percent;
- Marijuana was used daily by 3.3 percent.

high of 10.7 percent;

- Cocaine use dropped from 12.7 to 10.3 percent;
- 97 percent of the students disapproved of regular cocaine use while 87 percent warned against ever using this particular drug;
- PCP use dropped from 1.4 to 1.3 percent;
- Barbiturate use dropped from 5.2 to 4.1 percent;
- Heroin use remained at 0.5 percent.

The survey noted, however, that heroin use is more prevalent among high school dropouts;

- Alcohol use rose from 84.5 to 85.7 percent. Alcohol use, however, has varied little over the history of the survey. Its high was 88.1 percent in 1979 while its low was last year's 84.5 percentage.

- LSD use rose from 4.5 to 5.2 percent;
- Only 57 percent of the students stated that they had used drugs at least once while only 36 percent had tried a drug other than marijuana.

An internationally known expert in the fields of drug and alcohol abuse, Ron Gaetano has addressed over 150,000 parents, teachers, teenagers, college students and senior citizens on these and other related topics. Gaetano is the director of the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program at Union Hospital, Union.

Senior enjoys bus and its driver

I would like to express my sincere appreciation for a blessing that I have, namely the Senior Citizen Bus.

It is not only a source of transportation for me, it has enabled me to see more of our beautiful town and also to become acquainted with some very nice folks. Our driver Ruthie, God bless her, gives us entertainment, too, with her wit and charm. All in all it has become a highlight in my life — I am sure to many others also.

May we have this privilege for many more years. Those of you that haven't availed yourself to ride with Ruthie have missed a lot.

Theresa and Millie are very cooperative when we call for a pickup and we are all very grateful for this service.

Seat belts save lives

By DIANE K. STEED

National Highway Traffic Safety Administration

For the most part, Americans are a practical people, disinclined to take things at face value, and suspicious of inflated claims. Long ago, one group of citizens earned Missouri the nickname of the "Show Me" state through their notorious refusal to accept anything on faith.

Many Americans have another tendency, too. Whenever a person or idea attracts more than a certain amount of popular support, suddenly there appears a swarm of critics, anxious to present a negative opposing view. But criticism is healthy and the truth will always prevail, we say.

Well, in that spirit, let me give you a few practical truths about a very good idea that should have much greater support, but which is beginning to attract some corrosive, ill-founded criticism. And that idea is safety belt use in automobiles.

For decades, there was not much thing as a safety belt in an automobile. It took a long period of education, legislation and regulation to bring us to where we are today — a national consensus that safety belts save lives, that children should be buckled up (laws in every state say so), and that adult safety belt use is a very good idea (31 states and the District of Columbia have safety belt use laws).

Today, 42 percent of Americans are buckling up, the highest belt usage ever. But we are already beginning to hear critics and naysayers. Lately, some television and newspaper reports have especially taken aim at rear seat lap belts—the ones that don't have a second-part coming down over the shoulder. They are even calling them "killer belts."

What are the facts? If you are in the back seat of a car, should you buckle the lap belt?

The answer is yes, absolutely. Safety belts aren't magic, but they will help you survive a crash. Basing criticism on the relatively few times when they don't help is like con-will have lap and shoulder belt combinations in the rear seats. Manufacturers are already installing them voluntarily because safety has become an important marketing consideration in America. The critics will counter that the government has been "too slow" in advocating rear lap-shoulder belts. But keep in mind that it has only been recently that Americans began using safety belts at all. In 1982, only 11 percent of Americans buckled up, and even fewer did so in the rear seats. Safety belts had not come of age. Now that close to half of all Americans are belted routinely, rear lap-shoulder belts are beginning to enter the marketplace.

Those are the facts. Life has no guarantees and there will be crashes which no lap belt, shoulder belt, or airbag can protect against. There may even be a situation in which a lap belt causes an injury. But the evidence is clear: front seat or rear seat, you are better off with a properly adjusted safety belt than without one. Buckle up!

denning antibiotics for an entire population because a few people have an adverse reaction to them. Here are the facts, which, as practical Americans, you can evaluate for yourselves:

- Last year, more than 2,100 persons were killed because they were not wearing belts in the rear seat of an automobile.
- The overall fatality risk of back seat passengers is reduced by 17 to 26 percent through lap belt use.
- The back seat is generally a much safer place to be than the front seat. That's especially true in a frontal crash. And in a non-frontal crash, such as a rollover, you are 34 to 43 percent safer in the rear seat with a buckled belt than with the belt unbuckled.
- Lap belts in the rear seat could have saved an estimated 660 lives and prevented 10,200 serious injuries in 1987, if usage had been 100 percent.

It's important to wear the belt properly. Place the belt snug and low on the bones of the pelvis, not across the soft organs of the abdomen.

Would it be better to have three point lap and shoulder belts in the rear seats? Yes. By 1990, virtually every passenger car sold in the U.S.

New Jersey and the Constitution

Can you name the first 10 amendments to the Constitution?

For over 200 years we have lived under a set of rules known as the United States Constitution. But, how much do we really know about the laws that govern our everyday lives?

New Jersey became the first state to ratify the Bill of Rights on Nov. 20, 1789.

New Jersey's first state Constitution, adopted by the Legislature in 1776, incorporated a Bill of Rights.

New Jersey's first state Constitution, in 1776, included four amendments that were later incorporated into the U.S. Bill of Rights.

We would like to congratulate the East Brunswick High School class of John Calimano. They represented New Jersey at the first National Bicentennial Competition held during April in Washington, D.C. They earned second place, finishing ahead of class teams from 42 other states.

The Constitutional Bicentennial Commission was established to promote learning concerning the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

through free information packets, celebrations, re-enactments and commemorations through 1989. Free materials the commission has available are: U.S. and N.J. Constitutions, Bicentennial Calendars, Bill of Rights Posters printed in English and Spanish, a speakers bureau and information packets.

The New Jersey Constitutional Bicentennial Commission was established through an executive order by Governor Thomas H. Kean to plan, promote and coordinate commemorative programs and activities for New Jersey residents through 1989.

Spotlight on Union County

Deserted Village may come alive

Plans are under way for the restoration of the Deserted Village of Felville, a 130-acre historic district nestled within the Watchung Reservation, said Jeffrey W. Maccarelli, Union County freeholder.

"The restoration of Felville is extremely important, in order to preserve its place in history," Maccarelli said. "The village was first settled in 1736, over 250 years ago, and besides the 10 existing buildings, evidence shows that other structures also existed there, meaning a program of archeology could be instituted to unearth more historical information and artifacts."

The 10 buildings in need of restoration include nine neoclassical Greek Revival Buildings and the Victorian Barn. "We look forward to the restoration of Felville," Maccarelli said. "Plans are under way to apply for a grant under the Green Acres Historic Restoration and Arts Center Rehabilitation Bond Issue."

There are several existing restored villages in the state and the restoration of Felville would interest visitors that would bring in added revenue to offset the cost. For example, the Deserted Village of Ailaire in South Jersey receives 200,000 visitors annually.

A master plan for the restoration of the village was prepared by an outside consulting company, Oppenheimer and Vogelstein. Recommendations of the Department of Parks and Recreation, including the Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board, and the Cultural and Heritage Program Advisory Board were submitted to the Board of Chosen Freeholders, and the plan was adopted.

Where's Gonor?

Throughout the recent campaign, Freeholder Robert Gonor of Linden was conspicuous by his absence. In fact, he has been absent from Board of Freeholder meetings more than half the time during the past year. Yet, he continues to collect his $17,899.33 salary from the county. During the past campaign, we judged Freeholder Brian Fahey's attendance at meetings as "poor." He had missed approximately 18 percent of the freeholder meetings during his tenure on the board. If that's a poor attendance record, what would Gonor's be considered? According to the clerk of the Freeholder Board, as of Oct. 22, he had missed 12 of 22 regular meetings and 21 of 41 agenda sessions during 1987. Seems as though Gonor, who unsuccessfully ran for mayor of Linden last year, has lost interest. We think he should lose some of his salary.

Major, minor league action

The following are the results of recent play in the Springfield Junior Baseball League. MINOR LEAGUE Liberty Van Lines, 35, Farnella Construction, 18 Liberty United Van Lines clinched second place in the playoffs by defeating Farnella Construction, 35-18. Rich McNamee hit two home runs. Josh Goldfarb also hit a homerun. Fine pitching performances were turned in by Josh Goldfarb, Rich

McNamee, Chris Carliello and Mike DeCaro. Matt Grady, Jeff Cummings, Adam Schuyler and Kevin Murray had fine hitting performances for Farnella Construction which helped score the 18 runs. MAJOR LEAGUE OKSNIORON JEWELLERS 8, AMICO 7 A double, triple and three RBIs by Vic Prignano paced Oksniorn to catch up to a tough-hitting Amico team. Mike Goodfriend's three-run homer sealed the victory. For Oksniorn, Yousha Patel's two hits along with Chris Jorda and David Gubern's hits set up the go-ahead runs.

Chris Jorda and Brad Mullman sparked on the mound and Jason Perez's defensive plays at the plate stalled Amico. Amico's bats were alive with a triple and double by David Nitello and two hits by Seth Aphrian, Evin Schacter and Roberto Taramita. Joey Claffi pitched outstanding for Amico and also had a hit as did Brett Cohen, Jade Rahmani and Rick Morales. All students registered for the UCC tennis clinic should supply their own tennis rackets and sneakers. The college will provide the tennis balls. In Mountainside Yankees win title

The Mountainside baseball season came to a conclusion as the long ball hitting of Shaun Fahrion and the relief pitching of Mike Soutles led the American League Yankees to a sweep of the Red Sox and Angels to win the town championship. In the finals, the Yankees came out ahead, 11-6, but only after the Angels had jumped off to a six-run first inning lead. Danielle Criscicello, Jim Lopez, Anthony Santos and Chad Vignillanti delivered the key blows for the Angels before reliever Soutles came in to restore order. The Yankees answered back in the second inning with five runs featuring a grand slam by Shaun Fahrion. The Yankees picked up six runs in an inning later as Fahrion again had a grand slam. Jim DeBbio, Ryan McManamin and Christine Klaskin aided the winning cause with two hits each.

The Angels topped the Dodgers, 5-2, to reach the finals thanks to the strong pitching of Jim Lopez and Sal Russo, a two-run single by Joe Leone and RBI doubles by Laurence Chiswick, Carlos Santos and Amanda Wladyska. The Dodgers were led by the hitting of Matt Farrington, Rob Giannotti and Mark Laylor. The Yankees managed a last-inning rally to squeeze by the Red Sox, 5-3, in the other semi-final. Once again it was a home run by Fahrion this time a three-run shot with Adam Perle and Jim DeBbio aboard that provided the margin of victory. Mike Soutles picked up the win with two perfect innings of relief.

The Red Sox had picked up an early lead thanks to RBI singles by Todd Benninger, Kevin McDonough and a triple by Jonathan Case. In the Major League playoff final Blair Gardner of the Mets hurled a one-hitter and struck out 17 as the Mets beat the Cubs, 5-2. Gardner was matchless almost pitch-for-pitch by Cub pitcher Anthony Caprigione who whiffed 15 while giving up just two hits. Both teams scored early on during base running, with the Mets going ahead to stay on an RBI single by Jamie Kuperman. Jim Forker then put the game out of reach with a two-run homerun. The Cubs got their final run on Keith Kennedy's double.

In the semi-finals, the Mets held off the Pirates, 6-4, as the bats of Blair Gardner, Bob McSulla, and Lee Bessley combined for two runs in the first inning, three runs in the third and a final run in the sixth inning. Blair Gardner again was dominant on the mound, striking out 15, but lost his stuff momentarily in the fourth inning when a double by Jim Hurley, a triple by Chris Giannotti and singles by Scott and Brian Juba gave the Pirates their four runs. In the other semi-final game, Anthony Caprigione again threw well, this time striking out 12 and got a two-hit, 2 RBI offensive effort from Dave Hamlett and Brian Burke as the Cubs took the Orioles, 7-3. Jason Zoller, Keith Kennedy and Mark Sieffert all had RBI singles. Ryan Davis and Joe Parente provided the bulk of the offense for the Orioles with Davis also coming up with two strong innings of relief pitching.

Shallcross ends 40-year athletic career

By MARK YABLONSKY

It was 1949 when Walter A. Shallcross began what evolved into a long and illustrious career in high school athletics by becoming a physical education instructor at Union High School. Now, nearly 40 years later, he's calling it quits. Today is his final day on the job as Union High's athletic director. Shallcross, who will be succeeded tomorrow by the school's varsity head football coach, Lou Retino, has a record that is long, impressive and indicative of the kind of hard work and dedication he's put into his responsibilities as head of one of the country's top-ranked high school athletic departments. Shallcross, who will soon turn 62, is leaving to embark on something that millions of Americans his age someday hope to achieve, but don't or can't always do: a fulfilling retirement.

It's just that simple. "I can't wait," said Shallcross, leaning back in his chair, hands folded behind the back of his head, in what is pretty much a classic Shallcross pose. "To be relieved of the pressure, the stress, the responsibility. There are a lot of things I want to do, and I look forward to doing them. "The year that I stopped coaching," he continued, "I started jogging, playing tennis and skiing, and I'm still doing those things. I have other interests that I'd like to pursue, too, including grandchildren and travel and reading. I still love athletics, the kids. I don't want to do other things. You don't have any time when you're a director."

Indeed, the world of today's high school athletic director is becoming "more complex," in Shallcross's words, and for several reasons, not the least of which involves "the unavailability of quality coaches, lighter budgets, enrollment dropping," and so on and so forth. There are schedules to plan, budgets to live within, plans to be made, games to attend, and yes, even sports-writers to deal with. "But just ask anyone who's ever worked with Shallcross in any way, and you're almost certain to hear the same things being said about him. "I think the important thing is that he was really so dedicated to all the sports, and to the entire program and all levels," explained Union High's baseball coach, Gordon LeMay, who emphasized that Shallcross was not "provincial" or "parochial" to any one sport or two, but to all sports with equal concern. "Not only that, but his organizational skills were excellent. You always knew where you stood with the guy. He set a very-high standard of performance, I think, for high school athletic directors. He wanted a first-class athletic environment, and he did it."

Events slated for July 4th

July Fourth, or Independence Day, is a civic holiday which celebrates the anniversary of our national independence and the adoption of the Declaration of Independence. Its celebration is often associated with barbecues, going to the beach, and visiting family and friends. To celebrate the Fourth of July, Union County is offering fireworks displays in the following towns:

Mountainside

There will be a fireworks demonstration on the 4th at Our Lady of Lourdes Field, on Central Avenue at dusk. There will be no cost.

Springfield

A fireworks display will be held on the 4th at Meisel Field at dusk. There will be a $2 per person donation that will be collected at the gates to help pay for the cost.

Union

A fireworks exhibit will be held on July 3 at Biertempfel Memorial Park, located between Winslow Avenue and Vauxhall Road, at dusk. The raindate is the 4th. There will be no cost.

Cranford

A fireworks show will be presented on the 4th at Nomahegan Park beginning at dusk. There will be no cost.

People are encouraged to bring their own chairs and blankets to the fireworks events, and no alcoholic beverages will be permitted on the premises.

For a list of holiday events throughout the state, see Page 2. The information about the local events was compiled by Mary McKinlay.

ON HOLIDAY GRILL — Cheese stuffed sausage kabobs — Any neighbor within sniffing distance will covet a place on your guest list on the Fourth of July weekend when the sweet scent of barbecued sausages cozing with cheese wafts through their open windows. Round out the meal with sour cream-dressed Austrian noodle salad, buttered rolls, fresh fruit and cold milk. Barbecued lamb shanks also will appeal to your guests' taste buds, particularly to those who prefer lamb to the tiresome frankfurters and hamburgers. Toss a generous salad in place of pickles and relish and you'll be the talk of the town — or at least, the neighborhood! See page 2 for recipes of the kabobs and lamb shanks.

Cheese-stuffed kabobs

Firing up the grill...it's synonymous with the Fourth of July weekend and families coming together; friends gathering. In honor of the occasion, the American Dairy Association has concocted and kitchen-tested this menu that's as easy on the cook as it is delicious for the guests.

Forget the hot dogs and hamburgers. Try something different. In fact, here's why Festive Kabobs with Buttery Barbecue Sauce and Austrian Noodle Salad are so perfect for laid-back summer entertaining.

First of all, the whole menu is make-ahead. Toss together the salad, cut up the vegetables and marinate sausages up to six hours before meal time. In fact, the longer the chunks of sausage soak up the buttery tomato marinade, the luster their flavor will be.

Need more convincing? What could be simpler than letting your guests cook their own meat? They'll think it's great fun to customize their kabobs. Simply supply what's needed — long, metal skewers, cheese-filled sausages, cut-up vegetables and the hot grill — and let them thread and barbecue their own meal on a stick. Advise your guests that their meat and vegetables will cook more evenly if they leave a little bit of space between each piece when threading the skew-ers. For easier turning of the sausage kabobs, you may wish to invest in an inexpensive skewer and holder set. The set, available in most supermarkets, includes four to six skewers and a rack that holds the skewers on the grill rack.

As the kabobs come off the grill, crackly-skinned and bronzed, invite your guests to file by a table lined with the curley noodle salad, a pitcher of chilled milk, buttered rolls, fresh fruit, plates, glasses and utensils. Next stop...a lawn chair or picnic table, where your guests will appreciate that a meal this good is also bite-sized and easy to eat.

FESTIVE KABOBS

Knockwurst, precooked. Barbecue sauce. Green pepper pieces, about 2-inches square. Swiss cheese. Cherry tomatoes.

Cut each sausage into thirds. Split each piece lengthwise almost through to outer edge. Marinate in barbecue sauce several hours. Cut cheese wedges to fit into split sausage. Alternate sausage and vegetables on metal skewers. Brush with barbecue sauce. Grill over medium heat, cheese side down until cheese is soft. Turn; continue grilling until sausage is hot and cheese begins to melt. Serve with additional heated barbecue sauce, if desired.

BUTTERED BARBECUE SAUCE

1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon EACH: Worcestershire sauce, firmly packed brown sugar

1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/8 teaspoon salt
Melt butter in a small saucepan; saute onion until tender, about 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes. Yield, 1 1/4 cups.

AUSTRIAN NOODLE SALAD

2 1/2 cups uncooked curly pasta
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup sliced radishes
1/2 cup shredded carrot
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/3 cup sliced green onion
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon caraway seed
3/4 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Lettuce

Cook pasta according to package directions; rinse and drain well. Combine pasta, cottage cheese and vegetables; mix well. Combine sour cream and seasonings; mix well. Stir sour cream mixture into pasta mixture. Refrigerate, covered, 2 to 3 hours to allow flavors to blend. Serve in lettuce-lined bowl. Garnish with carrot curls and watercress, if desired. Six to eight servings.

Lamb shanks on barbecue

For the Fourth of July weekend try something different this year. You can get the unbeatable flavor of outdoor grilling without the usual hamburger and hot dogs, while spending less time over the hot coals.

Just precook your favorite barbecue recipes in the microwave with a moistened Bounty Microwave paper towel. Bounty Microwave is specifically designed for microwave cooking, containing only natural fibers and no artificial dyes or colors.

Enjoy these recipes for zesty barbecued lamb shanks, golden corn-on-the-cob, grilled in the husk and juicy baked apples bubbling with melted marshmallows.

Barbecued Lamb Shanks
12 thin lemon slices
4 lamb shanks (about 3-1/2 lbs.)
Barbecue sauce
8 Bounty Microwave paper towel sheets

For each lamb shank, place 2 Bounty Microwave paper towel sheets, one on top of the other, on the counter. Place three lemon slices diagonally across center of paper towel sheets. Place lamb shank on lemon slices. Fold three corners toward center, covering lamb like an envelope. Roll up over remaining corner. Hold under running water until soaked, but not dripping. Place loose corner down on microwave-safe plate.

Microwave on HIGH for 5 minutes. Rotate plate half turn. Microwave on MEDIUM (50 percent power) for 5 minutes per pound, rotating plate once. Remove the paper towel sheets. Brush lamb shanks with barbecue sauce. Place lamb on hot grill. Grill to desired doneness, 20 to 30 minutes, turning and brushing occasionally with barbecue sauce. Serves four.

Corn-On-The-Cob
4 medium ears of corn (in husk)
8 Bounty Microwave paper towel sheets

For each ear, hold 2 connected Bounty Microwave paper towel sheets under running water until soaked, but not dripping. Squeeze gently to remove excess water. Spread paper towel sheets flat on counter. Place corn (in husk) lengthwise in center of 2 connected paper towel sheets. Fold one long side over corn. Fold both ends toward center. Roll up over corn. Place loose edge of packet down on microwave-safe platter. Microwave on HIGH for 9 to 15 minutes, or until tender, rearranging ears once. Let stand for two minutes. Remove the paper towel sheets. If desired, place corn in husks on edge of grill to keep warm, turning ears once or twice. Serves four.

Spicy Baked Apples
4 medium cooking apples (8 to 10 oz. each)
4 large marshmallows
2 tsp. finely chopped nuts
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
4 Bounty Microwave paper towel sheets

Core apples. Using paring knife, cut saw-toothed design around top of apples, if desired. Place each apple in 10 to 12 oz. glass custard cup or small microwave-safe bowl. Sprinkle 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon in center of apples. Hold each Bounty Microwave paper towel sheet under running water until soaked, but not dripping. Place 1 wet paper towel sheet over each apple, tucking edges into custard cup. Microwave on HIGH for 8 to 11 minutes, or until apples are tender, rotating cups once or twice. Remove the paper towel sheets.

In small bowl, mix nuts and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon. Set aside. Press one marshmallow into center of each apple. Microwave on HIGH for 1 to 2 minutes, or until marshmallows puff and melt, rotating cups once. Sprinkle nut and cinnamon mixture on apples. Serve immediately. Serves four.

RANDY HALL

Hall album

By MILT HAMMER
Pick of the LPs: From the batch of new LP albums coming across our desk this week, we liked Randy Hall's "Love You Like a Stranger."

Disc 'n' data

defies labeling. There are elements of jazz, classical, modern R&B and pop laced throughout his highly personal brand of music. Randy's latest LP album on the MCA Records label, is a creatively ambitious release of impressive depth and richness. "I really wanted this album to capture my sound," says Hall. "I produced it and played most of the instruments, not because I'm ego-tripping, but because it's hard to get other musicians to play your own feel. I wanted to be true to myself and to stretch-out a bit this time. I like taking chances and getting a little 'outside' with the music."

Hall achieved his goals on "Love You Like a Stranger." The album is noteworthy for its diversity, yet manages to always be accessible. "Slow Starter," the LP's first single, is a simmering midtempo tune that's a natural radio hit. "Perfect Beast" and "All Night" ride irresistible dance grooves, contrasted by the sensuality of "As Long As I Can Last." Hall's moodier side is well-displayed on the LP's title track, featuring his graceful acoustic guitar work, and "Missing Children," a softly jazz-tinged tune with a socially aware lyric.

Besides his self-produced tracks, Hall co-wrote and produced "Slow Starter" with Zane Giles, whose credits include work with the Emotions, the Jacksons and Earth, Wind and Fire and "All Night" with Raymond Jones, formerly with Chic. Hitmaker Ray Parker Jr., who produced Hall's first album, along with Louil Silas Jr., was involved this time as co-executive producer.

Chocolate' calcium

Research has found that calcium from chocolate milk is absorbed equally as well as calcium from other dairy foods such as whole milk, cheese and yogurt. The oxalates, calcium blockers, in chocolate milk can be safely ignored. Also, some people who absorb calcium adequately from food sources may be less able to utilize the calcium from calcium carbonate.

Weather, low rates boosted April sales

Spring weather and low interest rates boosted sales of existing single-family homes 4.5 percent from March to April, the most rapid increase since November of 1986, to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.48 million units, the National Association of Realtors reported today. "What we are seeing here in April is really the outgrowth of two different effects: Continued low interest rates made homebuying more attractive earlier in the month, and quite paradoxically, fears of increasing interest rates spurred sales late in the month. The net is the highest rate of existing-home sales in a year," said Dr. John A. Tuccillo, chief economist for NAR. "Another factor contributing to the rise in sales is that springtime is traditionally a strong buying period," he added. "The April numbers are healthy and in concert with the other readings we are getting from the housing market. The first quarter was not as flat as we had expected," said Tuccillo. Despite last month's increase, April existing-home sales activity remained 3.1 percent below the 3.59 million-unit pace of a year earlier. "With the exception of the West, which is virtually unchanged, sales have expanded in all of the regions," said Tuccillo. "The majority of the increase for April occurred in the Northeast, South and Midwest, with the West down slightly. This signifies deep underlying strength in the housing market and creates the impetus for a healthy spring home-buying season," the chief economist said. In the Northeast, the seasonally adjusted annual rate of existing single-family home sales rose 6.2 percent from March to April to 690,000 units, 1.5 percent below the pace of a year earlier. The South increased 5.7 percent in April to an annual rate of 1.3 million units, and was up 1.6 percent from a year earlier. The Midwest saw a 2.3 percent rise in April to a 900,000-unit pace, but was down 12.6 percent from a year ago. In the West, the annual rate dropped 1.8 percent to a rate of 560,000 units, 8.2 percent below that of April 1987. The national median existing single-family home price declined $200 from March to April to $87,700, up 2.0 percent from the $86,000 of a year earlier. Half of the existing single-family homes sold in April cost more than the median price and half cost less. Just 1.7 percent carried prices of less than $20,000, while 6.4 percent had prices of $250,000 or higher. More than 35.0 percent of the homes sold in the $50,000-$90,000 range. Of the four regions, the Northeast, again, was the leader in annual appreciation with a 10.7 percent increase during the past year to a median price of $145,100 last month. In the West, the median price of $113,700, was 3.0 percent higher than the April 1987 price. The Midwest posted a 0.7 percent annual appreciation rate to a median price of $67,500, followed by the South with a 0.2 percent decline to $82,100. "The slight decline in prices, which occurred this month, is indicative of the general leveling off of home prices that is occurring on a national basis. The large changes that occurred in the Northeast and West, are aberrations, which we expect to see corrected in the coming months. Our current forecast is for home prices nationwide to increase only modestly for the remainder of the year," Tuccillo said. During April, 17.7 percent of the existing single-family homes sold had one or two bedrooms, 53.8 percent had three bedrooms and 28.5 percent had four bedrooms or more. "The increase in resales during April was due largely to consumers taking advantage of lower mortgage interest rates. However, we would expect the rate of existing-home sales to decline in the coming months due to the recent rise in interest rates," predicted Tuccillo.

NJBA reviews state development plan

In its recently released formal comments on the January 1988 draft of the State, Development and Redevelopment Plan, the New Jersey Builders Association (NJBA) addressed concerns ranging from the plan's lack of necessary information and forecasts to the basic approach used to control the state's future.

The January draft follows an initial version of the plan which received markedly poor reviews from elected officials and private citizens alike. Based on a seven-tier division of the state into areas which are assigned various levels of growth or non-growth, the draft plan proposes detailed restrictions to concentrate growth in specified areas.

In extensive comments supported by a number of studies and expert opinions, the NJBA described the draft plan as a very complicated document that is unresponsive to many of the needs of New Jersey residents. "This can be attributed in large part to the way in which this plan was developed," said NJBA President Anthony Ziccardi. "Almost all major public policy decisions seek to respond to issues of equity and efficiency. In addressing neither of these concerns, this plan has failed to achieve any measure of balance in its public policy proposals."

According to NJBA, the plan does not have a database of existing conditions in New Jersey with regard to infrastructure, housing and economic development. No growth projections for the state have been identified in the plan. There has been no analysis of the existing conditions and projections to establish the needs analysis to both correct existing deficiencies and provide for growth. The plan contains specific strategies, standards and policies to control growth in New Jersey, but does not assess alternatives and their costs.

"The plan contains no impact analyses of the proposed strategies. In many cases these strategies will aggravate the very conditions they seek to correct," noted Ziccardi. "The plan's housing and economic development goals appear to be mere window dressing. The strategies, policies and standards which have been developed for the plan do not support these goals."

Although the State Planning

Act requires housing to be a major focus of the plan, the draft does not address housing in any meaningful way, according to the NJBA comments. In fact, its policies "will actually exacerbate housing affordability problems."

The NJBA called on the State Planning Commission to develop housing objectives and strategies which are responsive to New Jersey's varied housing needs, after determining the extent of such needs in relation to projected population, household size, demographic changes, existing housing stock, job locations and income levels.

The State Plan's inflexibility and use of restriction rather than inducement were also criticized. New Jersey, despite its small size, has a very complicated and varied economy, the NJBA noted. In addition, its system of government, spanning several levels and involving numerous entities, is

Hi-tech helper for the garden Plan review reveals concerns

Today, Americans who'd like to raise their own flowers and vegetables don't have to give up their jobs and go into agriculture full-time. Modern, hi-tech garden equipment lets us achieve in minutes what used to take long, hot hours.

One of the most versatile new garden labor-savers on the market is The Green Machine electric Weeder/Cultivator. The name only hints at this machine's talents. This garden helper weeds, cultivates, dyes planting holes, cuts sod and more. Lightweight, and easy to handle, the machine churns up even hard, compacted soil with its oscillating steel tines. It's perfect for cultivating large areas before seeding.

The Green Machine Weeder/Cultivator is available at hardware stores and chain retailers. Suggested retail price is under $120.

extraordinarily complex. Imposition of a rigid plan, such as the tier concept, will radically alter economic and governmental structures in ways that cannot be forecast. The NJBA pointed out that government is much more effective in encouraging desired behavior with inducements than it is in discouraging unwanted activities through restrictions and prohibitions.

The NJBA urged the State

Planning Commission to reconsider the conceptual framework for its plan. Rather than developing an excessively detailed tier-based plan containing numerous strategies, policies and standards which are to meet the needs of diverse regions, the planning effort should be redirected. The plan should be based upon goals that are supported by general strategies. The details, specific policies and standards would then be developed at the local level.

Buy Now And Get A Four-Month Vacation From Car Payments.

Wyman Ford Introduces Ford Credit's Deferred First Payment Plan.

Imagine the feeling. You, driving a brand new car. And making no new-car monthly payments for four long months. 120 days. One third of an entire year. What a break! What a deal! That's what you get with Ford Credit's deferred first payment plan!

Qualified buyers can get a four-month deferral of their first Ford Credit monthly finance payment when they purchase any new Ford Car or Light Truck*. Finance charges accrue from the date of purchase. See your participating Ford dealer for full details.

*Deferral of payment is not available in connection with other Ford Credit programs, or on vehicles with a cash selling price of $10,000 or less in New Jersey.

One of the Oldest Ford Dealers in New Jersey

We're an In-Town No-Hassle, Down-to-Earth Dealership with Over 50 Years of Honesty & Integrity.
