The invention of a dehumidifying device that can be strapped to one's back like a jet pack during a golf match has yet to be accomplished, but it certainly would have helped last Thursday when 150 gathered in the sweltering heat to commemorate the Springfield Mayor's Golf Day at Baltusrol Golf Course. The annual gathering of businessinen and residents was instituted back in 1958 to honor the mayor and for "political reasons," according to Frank Cardi-

Visually, the men were treated to what many regard as one of the mos beautiful golf course landscapes in the country — the site of six, soon to be seven United States Open Tournaments: rolling fairways, lush forestry, cavernous sandtraps, man-made lakes, well-manicured putting greens groundnogs, geese and deer. Mayor Jeffrey H. Katz, heralded as "The Kid Mayor," was asked to sav a few words before the roast beef dinner by master of ceremonics and forme Springfield official Billy Koonz.

Katz recalled his caddying days at Balmsrol when he was 14: "You ceived $5 plustips for carrying a single bag and $10 film interfor a double." He lauded Balusrol for its prestige and status as Springfield's largest tax payer, with an assessed value of $20 million.

Katz spoke of Baltus Rol, a local farmer and one of the first settlers in Springfield before the country club opened up in 1895, "whose 'good' spirit is said to inhabit these parts - if he is a spirit."

Rol, in whose honor the course is named, was murdered during a robbery of his home sometime before 1895.

"Nearly all the proceeds from Mayor's Day go to a needy high school tudent at Jonathan Dayton Regional," he said, "and this is a worthy cause." Also, Cardinal said that Baltusrol donates greens fees to the charity, and sells drinks and the meal for half price.

Perfect together?

It's hard to go anywhere without seeing Governor Kean hawking New Jersey. In Pennsylvania, Maryland, even as far away as Vermont, television commercials feature the governor in various poses - with New Jersey fruits and vegetables, his jacket slung over his shoulder on a clean, quiet beach or on a tour of mountain forests.

Traveling through the state, it's pretty much the same story with billboards and radio stations singing the praises of the Gar-

But when tourists arrive here, they find a New Jersey that is quite different — endless traffic jams, foul odors and beaches where they can't swim-for-fear of an AIDS-contaminated svringe that has washed ashore as the result of illegal dumping.

Those of us who live here get the added "benefit" of high car insurance rates, the ever-increasing homeless problem, rising taxes and a garbage crisis with no end in sight. What can be going through the minds of our elected officials when they spend more time selling the state to outsiders than they do working to benefit the people they serve? It is only during the last year that we have seen the neardestruction of our beaches, but years of ocean dumping and neglect should have made it clear to public officials that the crisis was coming.

That we would face a trash disposal crisis should have been obvious for years. The state was generating increasing amounts of garbage that it was dumping in a finite amount of space. In the past few months our officials, in a panic over the state Department of Environmental Protection's closing of unsanitary and overstuffed landfills and the prospect of being tossed out of office by angry voters, have decided to do something

What are our public officials doing about these problems? They're making radio and television commercials, trying to lure a major league baseball team to enhance our minor-league selfimage, or giving the go-ahead for yet another shopping mall or several hundred-unit condominium complex.

If the governor spent as much time pursuing solutions to our problems as he does making commercials, maybe we would be well on our way to solving our problems.

If the Legislature had spent more time considering what's best for its constituents and less on ill-conceived projects like the Lyndhurst baseball stadium and silly political infighting, maybe there wouldn't be an insurance crisis and our beaches

If we cannot convince our officials to come to terms with our both control the number of problems, there will soon be no solutions and we will be stuck with our problems forever.

Then, the slogan, "New Jersey and You - Perfect Together," will apply perfectly, because we will truly deserve the mess we

The New Jersey Fire Prevention and Protection Association Guest column d the New Jersey Bureau of Fire Safety remind us that outdoor cooking can lead to tragedy when carelessness causes serious burns. Use common sense and remember to cook safely:

• Use charcoal lighter fluid safely. Never use gasoline to start or freshen a fire. Gasoline is explosive and much too dangerous to use on grills. Be cautious with charcoal lighter fluid. Use on coals only before the fire is lighted. If you try to make a fire bigger by adding more fluid, the heat from the coals can ignite the stream of liquid and burn back into the can, causing it to explode in your hands.

• Try using electric starters in place of lighter fluids. Place grills where they will not tip or ignite objects above them. Do not use on balconies or under awnings.:

• Never bring a grill into the home. The carbon monoxide produced by burning charcoal can be dangerous in an enclosed

• Keep a container of water or garden hose ready to extinguish a fire.

• Keep children away from fires and grills. They may try to climb on the grill to see what is cooking.

• If anyone is burned by outdoor cooking, cool the burn with water immediately. Cover the burn with a clean cloth and call the local rescue squad for emergency help. • Though coals may appear cold, always soak them after cooking. Unsoaked coals can relight a day later.

Water supply funds

The 331 children and ladies and 75 staff members of the Daily Vacation Bible School of Mountainside Gospel Chapel in Mountainside contributed $1,310 to the school's missions proect, which was to make funds available to build a water supply system so that the Bukidnon Bible Training Center in Bukidnon, the Philippines, would have running water.

The Bible Training Center "is a school where Philippine nationals can go to study the Bible to be better equipped to bring the gospel message of the Lord Jesus Christ to their fellow countrymen."

A local businessman, wanting the Philippine people to know the Lord, matched the offering dollar-fordollar, bringing the total that was sent to the Bible Training Center in Bukidnon to $2,620, it was announced by Rod Bowers, chairman of the Christian Education Committee at the chapel, which conducts the

"Who can possibly take care of Mom as well as I can?"

We can. We're not saying we can love her as much as you. No one could ever do that. But we can offer her the kinds of care she just can't get at home.

Therapy. Well-balanced meals. 24hour medical attention. All provided by caring professionals trained to meet the special needs of the elderly... We can offer her friends her own age, social activities, visits from local clergy.

Above all, we can offer 25 years of Jesus made the cover of TIME magazine! In fact, there are two articles in the Religion section of this week's issue (August 15) that attempt to address the age-old question that has recently been raised

Many years ago, when Jesus walked on this earth, He asked His disciples, "Who do people say I am?" (Mark 8:37). In those days some thought that He was John the Baptist. Others speculated that He was Elijah. Still others concluded that He was simply "one of the

And, today, who do people say that He is? Apparently some think that He was a "crazy," "confused," "lust-driven" maniac (as He is reportedly depicted in the film.) Still others (such as those quoted in the TIME magazine article) speculate that He was no more than an "itinerant sage," "hellenistic cynic," "apocalyptic prophet" and an "inspired Rabbi."

However, Jesus also wants to know, "But what about YOU?... Who

In his sermon this coming Sunday, August 21, at 11:00 a.m., Pastor Lombardi will provide a BIBLICAL response to some of the issues

The apostle Peter said that He is "...the Christ, the Son of the living God (Matthew 16:16)! And indeed He is! We invite you to come and learn more about who Jesus REALLY IS!

Staying in football shape

By MARK YABLONSKY In another month or so, football will be back in the limelight, soaking up fan and media attention with hardly a blink. But as you might expect, there's already been a lot of work behind the scenes taking place, even before the official start of practice for many high school teams, which should be pretty much under way by the end of next week. That work is simply known as offseason conditioning, which is vital for athletes of all sports, and especially so in football. It involves sticking to a steady regiment of weight and running exercises and it entails a firm sense of commitment. Otherwise, it's pretty darned tough to be ready for a sport as demanding and challenging as football. But what else

"I think they should continue with their weights to make sure they maintain their strength," answered Westfield High athletic director and former head football coach Gary Kehler, when asked to outline the most important areas of off-season-workfor gridiron athletes, "I think it's mportant for them to keep their legs and feet in good condition, which they can do by wearing the proper shoes. They should make sure their shoes are broken in properly, and I think camps are excellent because it gives them an extra edge." Kehler, who was a head coach at Westfield High for 22 years, has conducted a "mini-camp" prior to the start of football season for several years now, and is aided by other local head coaches such as Brearley Regional's Bob Taylor Roselle Park's John Wagner, and Union's Lou Rettino. The one-week event is open to players not only from Union County, but other surrounding counties as well, including Essex and Middlesex.

The camp, these coaches say, is beneficial not only in providing players with that extra edge, but also in acclimating them with other players, many of whom they will wind up competing against sometime down months away from the distant sunlight and inevitable chill of late November and early December, when the state playoffs are in progress. While this summer has been exceptionally hot, however, football players are used to playing in 90-degree weather, along with high humidity. Kehler feels that with proper coaching and preparation, players benefit from acclimating themselves to heat, since occasional warm spells have been known to spring up every now and then in middle, or even late September, too.

For sure, he agrees, it's still better to take your chances in warm weather than in cold. Again, with enough water and proper breaks, players can usually adjust to heat, whereas in cold weather, they can't always adjust to difficulties such as potential frostbite or cramps, two ailments that could arise if the conditions are bad

For perhaps the best - or worst example of how exceptionally cold weather can cause difficulties, simply refer back to last Nov. 21, a day in which harsh wind-chill factors kent the temperatures well below zero and had an indisputable impact on the semifinal-round state playoff games that day statewide.

"It was the most extremely cold day I've ever seen," Kehler agreed. That extreme in temperature is, I think, more difficult to adjust to than

"There is no way I would have been able to go as far as I did in football if I hadn't played basketball," continued Rettino, who later signed with the Green Bay Packers of the old NFL, after the other team that drafted him, the New York Titans who later became the Jets - of the old AFL, nearly went out of business for good, before the entire league was eventually rescued by a multi-million dollar television contract-with NBC

"Knowing first aid is important for everyone," says Dr. Randolph London of Christ Hospital in Jersey City. "First aid isn't just learning how to bandage a cut or treat a burn. It makes you aware of injury and accident . prevention — the first steps in first aid."

London is a participating physician with Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey, which is currently sponsoring a billboard advertising campaign supporting the work done by major health and safety organizations in the state. The billboard message tells New Jerseyans that "It never hurts to know first aid." It supports the work of the American Red Cross.

Even without formal first aid training, a large dose of common sense can help you in many situations. First, use that common sense to prevent injury from occurring. That means wearing a seat belt in the car and obeying traffic and speed laws. In the office, wear protective clothing and eyewear when you work with sensitive or dangerous materials, and always push, not pull, heavy

In your home you have the most control to prevent accidents. Falls can be avoided if you do sensible things like use non-skid mats in the tub, keep stairs welllighted and pick up toys or tools that could cause people to trip. You can prevent fires by discarding old paint or solvent, throwing out old papers and emptying trash cans and wastebaskets regularly. Keep all poisonous materials locked away.

According to Dick Wagener, president of the American Red Cross, Essex Chapter, being prepared is impor-tant. "If you know first aid, have taken the right precau-

Keep the name, address and telephone number of the closest hospital, ambulance service and blood bank near the telephone for ready reference.

A local chapter of the American Red Cross is a good place to receive formal training in first aid. There usually are courses on cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), the Heimlich Maneuver, lifesaving and basic first aid.

THE WESTMINSTER DANCE THEATER, a non-profit group, has performed throughout the area for the past 14 years. The theater opens its doors in Union on Sept. 10.

Culture comes to town

More culture will be added to the community when the Westminster Dance Theater, a non-profit company, opens in Union at 969 Stuyvesant Ave. on Sept. 10.

The Westminster Dance Theater, which has been active for 14 years in Elizabeth, with two studios at the same location, has decided to add a swith studio in Union in order to reach a wider

Its faculty, which is under the direction of Karen Silva and Maryann Battell, is and always has been composed of professional members from the dance and theater world. Among the classes offered, according to Silva and Battell, are ballet, jazz, tap and aerobics. "There are classes for every dance and fitness level to help meet any goal. Each student is given the opportunity to receive a superior dance education, regardless of the reason for studying dance." Often the school provides an opportunity for its students to demonstrate their class-learned skills by coordinating programs for local schools and civic groups. Some Westminster dance students have been accepted into the School of American Ballet, Joffrey II Co., Alvin Ailey, and the Pittsburg Ballet Theater.

The Westminster Dance Co., which is a division of the theater, performs throughout New Jersey and New York and specializes in giving demon-strations. Its members have performed full-scale concerts at the Garden State Arts Center, the Dancers, says Battell, must audition and be nvited into the company before being able to perform. "The dance company performs mostly cen-temporary jazz with a classical background." There are 10 dancers in the company who are 20 years of age and older.

The Westminster Dance Theater is partially funded through the Union County office of Cultural-and-Heritago-Affairs, which is funded by the New Jersey State Council of the Arts Department of the State. A grant is given to the dance theater annually for its performance expenses. Frank Flisak, company manager, explains that "the grant only makes up 15 to 20 percent of the total contributions we receive; we heavily rely on corpora-tions and foundations to enable us to provide culture for the community." Some of the money the dancers, choreographers and some travel expenses.

The new Westminster Dance studio has relied on contributions in order to become established. Flisak indicates. The dance floors, mirrors and ballet bars all have been donated.

Selecting apples is exciting art

Selecting fruit today has become an art. Produce shelves are bursting with a colorful array of new and exciting crops which, a decade ago, would have seemed unimaginable.

and a lust for just-harvested freshness, fruits from around the world now can be enjoyed at their peak season. Knowing when those seasons are, though, is the key.

This summer, one of the tasiest temptations comes from

New Zealand, Exactly opposite to our growing season, New Zealand celebrates its apple harvest in What makes these particular MANICURED LANDSCARE—A beautifully manicured landscape like this is easy to actieve and maintain with the use of various organic mulches. The wood chips shown here were produced by running fallen branches and tree prunings through an electric garden chipper.

Commercial mulch is made of everything from corn cobs to pea-nut shells. The mulch that's sold at garden centers is generally pine barki but you can make excellent mulch from material you've already got on your property. Here are some tips from the experts at Vornado Power Products on how to make and use your own mulches.

Wood chips, autumn leaves, grass clippings, pine needles—all make good mulches and are readily available. Your lawn-mower will provide you with all the grass clippings you'll ever need. A good garden shredder leaning up brush piles, leaves, ment dealers.

Getting ready for the S.A.T. "Score High on the S.A.T." That's what Mark

Walters, executive director of Learning Tree Associates, believes students can do — provided, of course, they have prepared properly for the Walters has been preparing students to take the test for more than 25 years as a teacher, vice principal and principal in the New York City schools. Learning Tree Associates was formed in 1982 as an outgrowth of the successful results experienced y Walters. He believes that in coaching for the A.T. one must teach for the test.

He feels that such an approach is entirely valid for the purpose of achieving the highest possible

S.A.T. score, Through the years, Walters and his staff of certified teachers have developed countless strategies, shortcuts, and techniques to boost confidence, all designed with one purpose in mind - to outsmart the S.A.T.

Walters also uses many of the techniques in the Princeton Review book, "Cracking the System" which is one of the three texts the students receive. Learning Tree claims that it has been able to 200. And Walters guarantees a score increase, or the student may take the course again — free. For more information, call toll free, 1-800-THE EXAM, 1-800-843-3926.
