Dayton sweeps HSPTs

Dr. Donald Meraschuk, Superintendent of Schools for the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, has announced that students from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield scored very well on the High School Proficiency Test, HSPT, administered to ninth-graders in April.

These results were presented to the Regional District Board of Education at its July 11 open public meeting at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

Test results revealed that 100 percent of the Jonathan Dayton students passed the reading portion of the exam; 99.1 percent passed the mathematics segment and 99.1 percent passed the writing component of the HSPT.

All three figures represent an increase in the percentage of students passing, as compared to the 1988 test results.

Substantial across-the-board improvement over last year was found in the mean scores achieved by the Jonathan Dayton students in each of the three parts of the HSPT.

This year, Jonathan Dayton ninth-graders completed a mean score of 96.4 in reading; 86.2 in mathematics and 89.1 in writing. Students passing all three components of the High School Proficiency Test satisfy one of the New Jersey State and Regional District graduation requirements.

Jonathan Dayton is one of the four regional high schools administered by the Union County High School District No. 1. The regional district provides secondary education facilities for over 2,300 students from the communities of Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield.

State asks death for Springfield resident

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.

The Union County Prosecutor's Office will pursue the death penalty against 24-year-old Crest Place resident Rolando Marcelo, who is accused of stabbing to death his mother, brother, neighbor and family friend on Memorial Day.

The state's intention to seek the death penalty was announced by Assistant Prosecutor David J. Hancock during arraignment proceedings July 14 in the Superior Court chambers of Judge Miriam-Span. A pre-trial conference was held by Span for Sept. 11, with a tentative trial date set for April 16, 1990.

Marcelo's attorney, First Assistant Deputy Public Defender James Kervick, said he was not surprised about the decision, "given the track record of the prosecutor's office."

However, Kervick, maintaining his client's innocence, stated that mental health professionals have unanimously declared the Yale honors graduate to be "totally and completely insane," adding that the state's decision to seek the death penalty against him, is "inappropriate, excessive and a waste of taxpayers' money."

Kervick also announced for the first time that his client had "sought and received psychological help" before the incident.

The assistant prosecutor defended the state's decision to pursue the death penalty by quoting from a list of what he called aggravating factors.

"At the time of the murder, he created a grave risk of death to victims other than those of the homicide, and he also committed the murders for the purpose of avoiding detection, apprehension, trial, punishment or confinement," said Hancock.

Surrounded by at least six sheriff's officers, Marcelo was clad in jeans, a blue and white striped shirt and running shoes. His hands were cuffed to a metal chair worn around the waist and his ankles were shackled.

Marcelo, standing alongside Kervick at the defense table, seemed subdued, with a brooding, blank look on his face.

After the proceedings, Marcelo was returned to Forensic Psychiatric Hospital in Ewing Township, the state's most intensively supervised mental health facility, where he has stayed since a June 1 altercation with corrections officers at Union County Jail.

Bail was set at $4 million for Marcelo, who received a 10-count indictment on July 7 for the Memorial Day stabbings.

In addition to four murder counts, Marcelo is charged with the attempted murder of Spring Brook Road resident Richard Hartmann, who survived 10 stab wounds to his upper body, and another man, Robert Maul, who narrowly escaped death by diving into a neighbor's home and shutting a sliding door behind him as the accused allegedly slashed at the glass.

Marcelo was also charged with two counts of aggravated assault, one count of possession of a weapon and one count of possession with intent to use that weapon.

Memorial Day festivities were quickly brought to a halt in the normally quiet neighborhoods of Crest Place and Park Lane when Marcelo, who was training to be an investment banker, used a 10-inch knife to kill his mother and brother, Anita and Raymond Marcelo, a neighbor, Mark Dennis, and a family friend, Nelson Paiva, while dozens of neighbors watched, authorities said.

Marcelo, a summa cum laude graduate of Yale University who was diagnosed as having Eppstein-Barr, a little-known virus characterized by severe depression, was captured in Boylston after a high-speed car chase involving several local and state police units along Routes 22, 287, and 78, police said.

The arraignment was originally scheduled for Aug. 21, but was moved up because of vacation schedules.

Marcelo's family members did not attend the trial, but Kervick said that he had been in communication with them and that they were "all standing behind him."

THE ACCUSED — Springfield resident Rolando Marcelo, charged with having killed four people on Memorial Day, stands cuffed and shackled at his arraignment last week.

Lottery 'makes life easy'

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.

Life's been brighter for eight co-workers at Bigelow Component Corporation on Diamond Road since cashing in on the single-winning ticket of a $3.9 million jackpot two weeks ago.

While each agrees that the $19,750 advance check and the $19,750 to be received annually hereafter has not put him on easy street, all agree that his life has been improved by the windfall.

The payments, spread out over 20 years, are worth a sum total of $493,529; $19,750 is what it boils down to annually after federal tax deductions.

The July 5 Pick-6 Lotto winners, six of whom have been playing Pick-6 together for two years, all work with electronic components.

The winners are:

Frank Duce, 53, of Warren who has been the plant manager at Bigelow for two years. He has a wife, Emily, and a son.

John Poltrick, 28, a foreman in the tool and die department. He lives in South Ambury with his wife, Susan, 23.

John Heymer, 56, of Clearwater, Florida. Heymer moved to Florida after retiring from Western Electric in Keamy. He responded to an ad for a tool and die maker at Bigelow and joined the company a month and a half ago, "meeting" Duce as he went through the summer before returning to Florida. He and his wife, Marian, have a daughter.

Osbelio Cortoba, 23, of Elizabeth, an apprentice tool and die maker.

Gladys Zapata, 47, of Elizabeth, a machinist. She and her husband, Jesus, 49, have three children.

Norberto Lemos, 55, of Elizabeth, a machinist. He and his wife, Gloria, have three children.

Paulette R. Roe, 39, of Elizabeth, a machinist. She has six children.

Henry F. Lemarcik, 67, of Linden, a tool maker. He and his wife, Edith, have a daughter.

The winners have already received their initial payments of $19,624. "What did they do with the money?" "I invested the money in stocks and bonds," said Duce. "Also, I was planning a trip to Aruba, and with the money, I just might have a little better time."

Planners approve applications

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.

Several applications were approved during this month's Planning Board meeting.

An application was granted for preliminary and final site plan approval from Investor Savings, located at 169-173 Mountain Ave.

Temple Sha'arey Shalom, located at 78 South Springfield Ave., was granted preliminary and final site plan approval with variances.

The Congregation of Jehovah's Witness, located at 591-595 South Springfield Avenue, was granted preliminary and final site plan approval with variances.

East, was granted preliminary and final site plan approval.

General Mills Restaurant, located at 275 Route 22 East, was denied conditional use with variances.

The board voted to approve an application from CLJ, located at 105 Morris Ave., for resubmission and interpretation.

Malcolm Scharf had his application for a change in zoning at 22 Route 22 recommended to the Township Committee.

Anthony Cioffi withdrew an application regarding final site plan approval with a variance for property located at 762 Mountain Ave.

Wentz Ave. man gets charged with burglaries

A Wentz Avenue man was arrested July 18 charged with burglary, criminal damage and theft from two Route 22 businesses, and more charges may follow as the investigation continues, authorities said.

The Bryan, 23, was apprehended after a month-long investigation conducted by Detective Sgt. Robert Mason and Detective John D'Andrea into burglaries reported at the stores, police said.

After fingerprint evidence was developed by Detective D'Andrea, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was able to make positive identification of Bryan.

On July 11, a Morris Avenue insurance company reported a burglary, including the theft of a Ricoh Copy machine, IBM typewriter and a Canon typewriter.

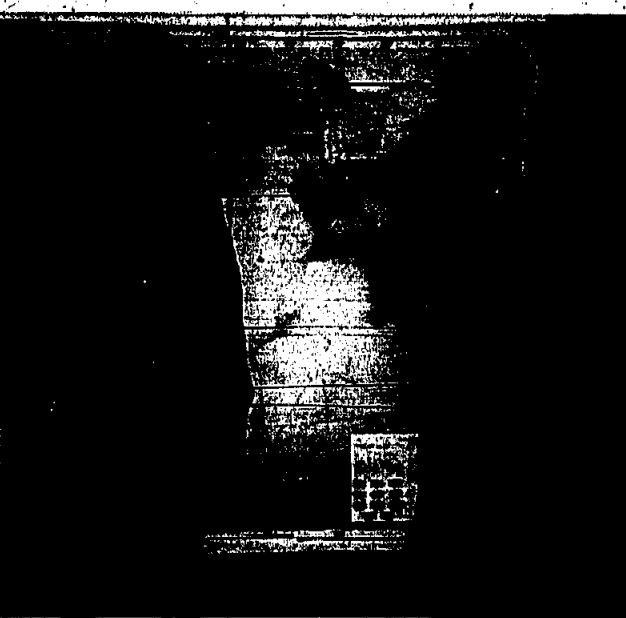

Stephen Tynolia, 43, of Calton, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated on July 11.

Alaazem Muhammad, 35, of Newark, was arrested and charged with theft of movable property on July 11.

Lee An Baiza, 20, of Springfield was arrested and charged with driving while revoked.

John Liebhouse, 46, of Cranford was arrested and charged with driving while revoked and leaving the scene of an accident.

Craig Cordero, 20, Union was arrested and charged with offering a false document, falsifying an application for a driver's license, and exhibiting the license of another at the Motor Vehicle Agency on Morris Avenue on July 11.

Autoland settles in court

Autoland of Springfield, one of the state's largest car dealerships, acknowledged in Union County Superior Court that some of its 1987 ads violated New Jersey's anti-advertising regulations and the Consumer Fraud Act.

The resulting $30,000 fine paid by the Route 22 dealership consisted of a $2,500 penalty and $27,500 in administrative costs, such as attorney fees.

The firm vowed not to repeat the violation, the subject of a complaint by the state Director of Consumer Affairs. Autoland also agreed to pay an additional $4,855 to a couple who took out a secondary mortgage loan through the dealership as a result of the promotion.

The July 7 consent judgment also precluded the company from offering or soliciting secondary mortgage financing in any future advertisements.

Autoland, which also operates dealerships in Toms River and Easton, Pa., sells Dodge, Ford, Chrysler, Plymouth and Toyota vehicles at its Springfield location, where it has been headquartered for 13 years.

Workers win lottery

"Everybody wanted me to run out and buy a new truck. I've got an '87 Buick and an old truck. The only money I have to spend so far is on a few parties," he said.

"I put the money in the bank until I buy another house; then it will help with the down payment," said Zapata. Heymer said the cash has influenced his decision to retire.

"I would have worked a few more years if I had not won the lottery, but now I am going to retire," he said. "I am planning to buy a house for my two sons, and this will help with the down payment," said Lenoze.

A state of camaraderie welled up in the throat of Duca when reached for further comment.

"It was more of a thrill winning the lottery in a group rather than individually," said an exuberant Duca. "It's great to see each other's happiness and to meet better people."

"We walked around saying, 'How ya doin, half-millionaire?' to each other," said Duca.

The ticket cashed by the co-workers was the only ticket of more than 3.7 million sold that turned up all six numbers: 10, 15, 23, 28, 32 and 38.

Duca said he won $5,000 after getting five of six lottery numbers a few weeks ago; Patriarchy won $4,000 from the five-digit lottery a year ago and Zapata also won $3,000 after getting five out of six digits.

Golf tourney to aid scholarship fund

The Springfield Mayor's Day Golf Committee's annual golf tournament will be held this July 27 at Baltusrol Golf Club.

As a result of Baltusrol Golf Club's generosity and the participation of Springfield business people and residents, approximately $20,000 will be donated this year to the Jonathan Dayton High School Scholarship Fund. This means that several deserving students will be able to pursue a college education in the fall of 1989.

This year, the committee hopes to exceed the results of its 1988 tournament, and needs the community's help. A ticket to participate in this year's event costs $150. For this fee, the subscriber receives a day of golf on golf courses, lunch, a free cocktail hour, dinner, and prizes. There is no profit realized here.

In 1985, the committee established a sign program that was most successful. Approximately 40 signs were placed on buses or walk-off areas from greens that listed the donor's name, or business name, address and phone number.

In 1986 and 1987, 60 people participated in the sign program and 70 in 1988. The goal for 1989 is 100 advertisers. The cost for a sign is $150 and is tax deductible. Every penny of this donation goes directly to a deserving student.

Residents and merchants are asked to purchase a sign, or send a donation to help local young men and women continue their education.

BACK IN TIME — Sean Conte of the Roselle American Legion baseball team returns safely to first base in a recent game with Scotch Plains, as first baseman Dom Cuzzo grabs the throw from pitcher Brad Kaely. Conte's speed at the leadoff position has been a big help to Roselle this summer.

Hospital plans golf day

The Union Hospital Foundation will hold its sixth annual golf outing on Aug. 7 at the Suburban Golf Club in Union. Proceeds from the outing, which is being sponsored through the Union Center National Bank, will go to benefit the services and programs of Union Hospital. Dr. Rudi Wadde of Springfield, a longtime member of the hospital's medical staff, will serve as chairman of the event. The day will begin with a chef's luncheon buffet at 11:30 a.m., with a shotgun start for golfers to follow an hour later. A 1989 Lincoln/Mercury will be awarded to the golfer who scores a hole-in-one on the course's 11th hole. Further information is available by calling the Foundation at 686-8553.

Call-686-7700 each Monday to report your summer league scores.

Plan to tap Group champ a farce

By MARK YABLONSKY
Like the NCAA, the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association is often the target of scorn, ridicule and even outright contempt. Sometimes such negativism is warranted, and sometimes it is not. But this time, the NJSIAA ought to seriously consider just what its priorities are, and will be, at least as far as high school football is concerned. Really, as the official governing body of high school athletics in New Jersey, it's high time that the NJSIAA took a firmer hand in establishing itself as such.

The problem this time is a recent proposal that would finally bring about Group championships in football, but in a rather bizarre, ridiculous way—a way that would already pre-determine a sectional champion, while at the same time, designate the remaining "playoff" teams in each section.

As of now, each section seeds four teams to compete for a sectional crown, with the highest-seeded team earning absolute home-field advantage throughout the entire playoffs. In existence since 1974, this current format, even with the difficulties and inequities that the present power-point system contains, still makes fairly good sense. The problem with power points, of course, is that teams, no matter how good they are, can suffer greatly if one or more sectional rivals are fortunate to play teams with higher group affiliation.

But if this ridiculous proposal ever gains passage, here's what would happen. Instead of four teams from each section being seeded for post-season play, there would now be five instead. Then, one of those five teams—and that would presumably be the top seed—would automatically be granted the right to compete for a group championship, while the remaining four teams would be allowed to fight it out for a meaningless "sectional" title. Can you imagine the chaos that will ensue when it comes time to picking a sectional champion—sit on the field, but in some room, to accurately paraphrase Brearley Regional head coach Bob Taylor?

For example, how might schools such as Summit and Elizabeth—schools that won titles last year, despite being seeded second and third, respectively, in their sections—have felt about being denied the right to become true sectional champs in 1988?

Most, if not all, of the football coaches from this immediate area have their own adjectives to describe this proposal, including Union High head coach Lou Rettino, who calls it "garbage." One avid local follower labels it "preposterous." And Taylor feels that it may be a "red herring" approach of sorts, in order to bring about another format.

Between the lines

No matter what you call it, this proposal is one that should never, ever have received the approval of both the NJSIAA's advisory and executive committees—approval which allowed the proposal to be targeted for a full membership vote (of some 440 schools) in early December. According to NJSIAA executive director Robert F. Kenaby, the idea arose from an eight-member football committee in mid-winter, which then sent it on for preliminary approval.

First of all, a format of deciding a group champion in football is probably long overdue. Being the only major high school sport that stops at the sectional level, it makes sense that football, being the "marquee" sport it is, deserves to have group, and not just sectional winners crowned each December. But in such a haphazard, stupid arrangement? No way.

Perhaps unlike any other sport on the high school calendar, football has unique needs and difficulties. Since you only play once a week, rescheduling games, in the event that a stated opponent later is forced to cancel out, is quite difficult to do. More importantly, the growing disparity of group size within certain conferences statewide—including the Watchung—is putting the squeeze on teams such as Union, which is earning fewer power points these days because some WC schools have dropped in enrollment over the past year or two.

This fall, several conferences, including both the Watchung and Mountain Valley, will have new teams, since the six schools from the defunct Newark Schools City League won their battle with the NJSIAA a year ago, and gained admittance, albeit begrudgingly, to other leagues. As such, schools like Brearley, in order to make room for a new opponent, have had to drop contests with other league foes.

Certainly, if a group format is to be adopted, it ought to be one that pits true sectional winners in both semifinal and final rounds, just as it works in basketball, baseball, soccer and softball.

But the underlying problem is that, inevitably, politics come into play. In football, not only are many schools reluctant to start football practice earlier, but they are also hesitant to lose out on the revenue from Thanksgiving Day games. Understandably, some coaches working throughout the summer months to supplement regular-season incomes aren't thrilled with the prospect of losing a paycheck or two, just to begin practice a week or two ahead of time—without being compensated for it. And understandably, Turkey Day rivalries are, for many schools, tantamount to post-season play itself.

But if you want to decide true group championships, then somewhere along the line you'll have to make concessions. One solution for Thanksgiving games is simply for schools to agree beforehand that in the event one or both happens to qualify for advanced post-season play, that year's Turkey Day game will be voluntarily cancelled. In the meantime, schools with losing records who thrive on playing the holiday game can still do so.

To be fair, the NJSIAA has in many ways tried to be sensitive to the pressures it faces as an organization can sometimes be tremendous. But it should consider the welfare of student-athletes and the schools they represent above anything else—not some insane alternative that seems to cast serious questions on the NJSIAA's credibility.

For whatever reason, this group format proposal ought to be scrapped. If you're going to do it, do it right—or leave things as they are. In short, "if it ain't broke, don't fix it."

Perry named assistant

Fred Perry of Roselle, the women's basketball coach at Union County College, is serving as an assistant coach for the U.S. Olympic Festival's West Team in Oklahoma. The event will begin tomorrow at the University of Oklahoma in Norman, and will last through July 30. In addition, Perry has been nominated by the National Junior College Athletic Association to coach women's basketball in the 1990 Goodwill Games in Seattle.

"I'm thrilled," said Perry, who was the only male coach chosen for the festival. "It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for me. I never anticipated I would get involved in the Olympic movement."

Kean soccer camp set

The two remaining sessions of the Kean College Cougars Soccer Camp will be held in the coming two weeks, July 24-28 and July 31-August 4 on the grounds on the school's East Campus in Hillside. The first session is for participants between the ages of 6-17, and is available on both a day and overnight basis. The second session, for those between the ages of 18 to 17, is a day camp only.

Among the camp's special features include video tape as a teaching tool, individual evaluations, and a free camp jersey. Nine different trophies, including one for MVP, will be awarded. Further information is available by calling Tony Ochrimenko at 527-2936, or 527-2435.

By JEROME F. WALTERS

To hear Michael David Shapiro manipulate his trumpet could leave both his audience and instructors alike with the feeling that the Mountside musician has found his life's calling. They are wrong. Shapiro, 16 years old, is quick to point out that while his love for music and the trumpet is unwavering, it will remain, at least for now, an avocation. After seven years of music lessons, he will turn to "another area to find his vocation, he says.

"It's my enjoyment," Shapiro says, "not my whole life." He, of course, means not his whole life after high school. Music has been his life for a long time, he says, but not initially by his own choice. "I was forced to do it at first, but once I got started—and it took a while before I enjoyed it—I really did enjoy it," Shapiro said.

Enjoyment gave way to mastery in Shapiro's case. The junior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, has been piling up honors usually reserved for committed lifelong musicians. He plays first chair trumpet in the New Jersey Youth Symphony; his quintet, the Brass Menagerie, was selected to perform at the Galden State Arts Center in Holmdel recently; he joined the symphony on its acclaimed performance at Carnegie Hall in New York City; and he was selected to participate in the Instrumental Music Program in the Governor's Honors School for the Arts at Trenton State College. The Governor's School, incidentally, is an intensive, four-week summer session during which talented high school students between their junior and senior years pursue specialized college-level studies in either the sciences, the arts or public issues. Shapiro is one of only 100 students from throughout the state to be chosen to participate in—the Governor's School of the Arts. Those accomplishments notwithstanding, Shapiro says his music has always been akin to a labor of love, but falling in love with it was hard at the start. "It's a lot of aggravation the first year because it's a lot to learn," he says, adding that while he had no particular inclination toward playing music, it was a family tradition. Both his brother and sister took music lessons, and he was expected to also, despite his feelings on the matter.

Shapiro doesn't regret one note, nor a single lesson, however. He even encourages parents to stick to their guns when it comes to music lessons. "I would keep the kid with the music for at least a good year before giving up, no matter what they say," he said, drawing on his own experience. "Before that, you really can't judge just how you feel about music and lessons." If Shapiro's parents had heeded his pleas to stop taking lessons, he would never have known the thrill of performing nor the excitement of being acknowledged as a master, albeit young master, of an instrument. "It's sort of like an education because it's all so intellectual and everything," he says. His education has taken him from the tutelage of Jack Trager of Union to the Manhattan School of Music, where his skill was keenly honed. The instruction Shapiro received at the school of music, he says, was "excellent," heightening his appreciation of music in general.

That appreciation is what he takes from the years of music lessons and performances. When he listens to a song, be it jazz, rap or classical, he hears something beyond the lyrics and beat. "His mind races through the music," especially the hard part," as he prepares for a concert. He does a quick evaluation of his preparedness and his audience before each performance. The hardest audience is one composed of people knowledgeable about music, Shapiro says. "The person who doesn't know music or the piece you're performing is less critical of what you're doing," he adds. "Those who know music are more critical of the work." For his solo performances, he prefers an audience that doesn't know music, he says, because they are more inclined to sit back and enjoy the music. In group performances, however, he seeks a more knowledgeable audience. Shapiro's approach to music is based on his decision that it is simply a part of his youth. He talks of engineering or other fields when asked about his future, but for now he continues to devote about an hour a day to practicing his music. "You've just got to keep practicing," he said. "It sounds simple, but you've just got to keep practicing."

'Anything Goes' in Linden

Mary Ann Falas of Union, a student at Burnet Junior-High School, Union, will appear as one of Reno's Angels, featured dancers in the Linden Summer Playhouse production of Cole Porter's "Anything Goes." Falas, who was "Miss Union" of 1981, has dancing and modeling awards including the 1989 title of "Miss Teen Super Model."

"American International Girl" and in the recent MBC competitions in Pennsylvania placed first as "Teen Miss MBC Model." In the same competitions she placed first in the dance categories of tap, ethnic, novelty, lyrical, ballet and jazz.

Andrew Boris of Union, a student at Roselle Catholic High School, also joined the cast of 40 young performers from the Union County area who will perform in the show.

"Anything Goes" will be staged at the Linden High School auditorium July 27, 28 and 29 at 8 p.m. Tickets can be purchased by calling 925-1389 or 925-4935.

The Playhouse, in its 11th summer of presenting all-student musicals, is funded, in part, by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts through a grant administered by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

All performances are presented in cooperation with the Linden Recreation Department and the Linden Board of Education.

New TOBI officers slated

The TOBI group, a fund-raising organization under the auspices of the Union Hospital Foundation, has elected a new slate of officers for the 1989-1990 term.

Installed at a recent meeting of TOBI were Ed Black Jr., president; Emma Clemons, vice president; Susan Furlong, secretary; Pat Fuzia of Union, treasurer; and Barbara Zagler of Linden, corresponding secretary.

The name TOBI, an acronym for The Oncology Benefit Institute, "is a not-for-profit organization which raises funds to help cancer patients at Union Hospital defray the costs of medicines and medical equipment." The group is known for its sponsorship of various sporting events throughout the year.

TOBI has been nationally recognized by the American Hospital Association as an "innovative and dynamic example of volunteerism."

"Those interested in volunteering or learning more about TOBI can contact the Union Hospital Foundation at 686-8553. It is located at 695 Chestnut St., Union.

In a month-long celebration of Independence Day, Swain Galleries, 703 Waching Ave., Plainfield, will exhibit, through Aug. 11, Bill Wallace's photographic series tracing the bicentennial re-enactment of George Washington's "Journey to New Jersey."

Wallace's color photo essay includes landmark sites and crowds while retaining as much historical flavor as possible. "I isolated each shot to avoid photographing evidence of modern times," Wallace noted.

Among the 40 color prints in the show are scenes of the Old Barracks and Samuel Henry's City Tavern in Trenton; Morven and Nassau House in Princeton; Buccleuch Park in New Brunswick; Boxwood Hall; the First Presbyterian Church and its graveyards and the docks and boats at Elizabeth.

ROBERTA ALEXANDER, lyric soprano, will be soloist with Waterloo Festival Orchestra July 22 at 8:30 p.m. under the festival tent at Waterloo Village. Gerard Schwarz will conduct the orchestra.

Stageworks/Summit season to open

The role of Figaro in the comedy farce about mismatched love will be played by Thomas Gilpin, the count by returning Ken Wolf and the countess by London-trained actress, Kim Francis.

"The Marriage of Figaro" will open today and run through July 23, with special matinee performances scheduled at 2 p.m. on Saturday and July 22.

The final production of the season, the American premiere of Pridham's "Freud in Vienna," adapted from Sartre's "The End of a Game," will feature company newcomer Brian Markinson in the title role.

Markinson has appeared in New York, London and regional theaters. The patient will be played by newcomer Jacqueline Knox, a graduate of Montclair State College with credits in regional, stock and touring companies.

"Freud" will open July 27 and continue through Aug. 12, with Pridham directing.

Stageworks/Summit productions are at 8 p.m. in the "air-conditioned Arts Center Theater," of Kent Place School, 42 Norwood Ave., Summit. Matinees are at 2 o'clock. Additional information can be obtained by calling the box office at 273-9383.

Funding has been made possible in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts through a grant administered by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

Stageworks/Summit, the professional theater company founded in the Arts Center Theater of Kent Place School, Summit, five years ago by art director Robert Pridham and managing director Susannah Halston, became an Actors' Equity theater when it opens Friday for an eight-week theatrical season.

"The scope and range of the theater has increased and our mission to the public has become larger, so it has become necessary to expand our pool of talent by becoming an Equity company," says Pridham. "It's a big step for us."

The 1989 company blends new Equity actors with audience favorites from previous years, including James Cronin — "Amadeus," "Insignificance," "Frankenstein," — who heads the cast of the season opener, Eric Bogosian's comedy, "Talk Radio," about a Morton Downey Jr.-style talk show host, Barry Champlain, who becomes enveloped in his own cynicism.

Cronin is joined in "Talk Radio" by two of the newcomers, Thomas Gilpin and Donna Conroy Island, who also are members of the comedy troupe, "Style Without Substance."

Returning to Stageworks/Summit for the 1989 season is Steve Merkel, who plays the role of Kent in "Talk Radio" and will finish the season as a technical director working under returning production manager and set designer Richard Saxon.

The New Jersey premiere of "Amadeus," "Insignificance," "Frankenstein," "The Marriage of Figaro," will feature stage and film veteran Kendall Zwill-man as Figaro's girlfriend, Suzanne Zwillman, returns to Summit after appearing in Hollywood films, "Staying Alive," "Romancing the Stone," "Prince of the City" and "Desperately Seeking Susan." Previously, she starred in a Summit production of "Joan of Lorraine," which was directed by Pridham at Kent Place in the early 1980s.

Greenwood's new album is an 'ear-pleaser'

By MILT HAMMER
Ear-Pleaser "If Only For One Night," by Lee Greenwood, MCA Records, Greenwood's latest LP album, deserves a place in your goodie collection. Through his eight years and 11 albums on MCA, Grammy Award winner Greenwood has stretched and pushed in many musical directions, ranging from rock to easy country. In assembling material for the album, however, Greenwood looked to the heart of his artistry rather than to the edges. He chose the best songs from some of the best songwriters in the business, and then he sang them with the emotional intensity that has become his trademark.

Ironically, in making a trademark Lee Greenwood album, he did things differently from the way he has in the past. "We took more time in the selection of songs, and fortunately, the songwriters were at their peak writing good things," he said. "I have a new record producer, James Stroud, and, this time I used my own touring band to play on the album, augmented with some session players. Using the road band in the studio gives the album something special," Greenwood feels. "The band is called Night Shift and they have all expanded from musicians to performers without sacrificing any musical integrity. They all had studio experience and really breathed a fresh new approach into the music on this album."

Musically, Greenwood explained, "There is more focus on this album. It's aimed at the group of people who love Lee Greenwood music and buy records. They represent a wide demographic range. Across-the-country, span in age from 14 to 50, and like the kind of good music that my voice implies. This time, I think we've captured the magic that was present in some of our earlier albums."

Greenwood is co-producer of this album and is working for the first time with Stroud. "James and I are very close to the same age, so we grow up listening to the same music, which made it easy to relate to each other," he said. "We understood each other about the usage of background singers and, moreover, James' contributed his knowledge of rhythm. Not just the rhythm from the drums, though. All the instruments, background voices and even my voice have a distinctive rhythm from the drums, though. All the instruments, background voices and even my voice have a distinctive rhythm that mesh together to form musical patterns that flow. Even the ballads have a beat and a syncopation. Also, for the first time in several albums, we've used live strings. Synthesizers can be very effective, but live players are like the Western skies, they're bigger."

Greenwood weaves his vocal magic on Mac McAnally's intricate story of the overchanging faces of love, "Opinions On Love." He works out with a Caribbean-tinged, feel-good rhythm on "Anyway the Way Allow's," and he conveys all the tension and frustration of trying to carry out a love affair over the telephone in "My Heart Is on the Line."

"My guitar player wrote this song," Greenwood explains, "and it's about being on the road, staying in touch with the girl he loves, and saying fragile, intimate things when they're miles away from each other." Greenwood himself penned the inspirational album-closer "Home To Alaska." It's a tribute to the state's natural beauties and it's dedicated to the Alaska National Guard. Greenwood's feelings about the music in "If Only For One Night" are easily expressed. "In this album I feel my voice is at its best...and overall, I believe it's the finest collection of songs we've ever assembled for an album."

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) While you make major strides at work this week, you may find a co-worker to be a bit too demanding. Let this person know that you take orders only from those in authority. Romance and renewed harmony loom on the homefront this weekend. Be happy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Romance is in the stars this week for you lucky bulls. Take advantage of this and plan something special for you and your loved one. However, don't daydream too much on the job this week because big-wigs are paying close attention to your job productivity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Certain relatives will be in rather cantankerous moods this week, so it's best to keep your feelings to yourself until moods lighten up. An exciting new career opportunity may be just the thing to take your mind off of this. Dress your best now.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The watchword this week is caution in all things. Make sure that everything is out in the open at work, and that you understand everything that is being asked of you. On the homefront, be wary of a nosy neighbor who is closely monitoring your comings and goings.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) Your busy social life could lead to an important business introduction this week. Luck is with you now regarding your career interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Be wary of a moody relative this week. Strife could exist with a partner over a financial matter. Shopping is favored now, but do spend wisely. Take time this weekend for an outing with that special someone in your life. The element of surprise looms later this week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Some of this week's career developments are confusing, and you should really take some extra time out to evaluate them. Though you needn't be paranoid, keep some things to yourself — especially around co-workers. Travel is imminent. A friend will aggravate you this week.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Despite some unexpected financial luck this week, you may be at odds with a jealous partner. Those looking for a new home this week have tremendous luck. Good news will ring this week via a telephone call or a letter. Benefits reap from a family member.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The lure and enchantment of distant places appeals to you now. A spontaneous outing is in. Freshness could pay work efforts this week. Slow down and be extremely thorough on the job as honchos are "watching." Don't let temperament undermine efficiency.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) A boss is not quite ready to give you an affirmative answer this week. However, you're quite effective at stating your views now. An argument could occur with a family member this weekend over ignored clues on the homefront. Don't bring up controversial subjects at present.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) A partner's attitude has you befuddled for the moment, but overall your instincts are good now and should be trusted. Though discussions with those in high places are favored, you may have trouble concentrating on the daily routine. Be careful if you travel this week.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) This is not the week for heavy socializing — it would be best this week to stick close to home. At work, pay close attention to details, as you may have a tendency to overlook things. Big-wigs will not be pleased.

HAPPY PICNICKERS — The Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors held their annual picnic on June 4. Picnic-Committee members are, from left, Dwight Hathaway of Hathaway Agency Board; Treasurer, Joan Koenig of Alliance Realty; Terry DeCarlo of Pascale Agency; Maria and Fernando Rivera of Femmar Realty and Valeri Darring of Ratzman Realty.

Realtor picnic succeeds

The Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors held their annual picnic on June 4 at Roosevelt Park, Edison. The picnic groves were a sea of blue balloons, sponsored by Fred Koenig & Co., CPA's, decorating the picnic tables, and blue t-shirts provided by the Board for the first 150 lucky arrivals. The food was plentiful and even the weather cooperated, after a cloudy start, to make the festivities a success.

Entertainment consisted of a puppet show and a mime show provided by Pandango Productions. Children, young and old sat entranced watching the performers weave their own brand of magic. Games and competitions were held throughout the day as prizes were claimed by winners with happy and eager smiles.

hand to provide intriguing face designs, and a children's egg hunt was held in the afternoon. Game prizes and equipment were sponsored by Bogard Studios and The Summit Trust Co., both of Elizabeth. Plenty of other prizes were also awarded throughout the day, sponsored by Greater Metro Financial Services. The day's competition was concluded with a volleyball tournament, with trophies awarded to the winning team.

Putting off move to a bigger home unwise

Procrastination often leads to disappointment, but putting off a 'move up' to a bigger, better home can have even more serious consequences in today's market, according to Bruce Graham of Burgdorf Realtors in Warren.

"Everyone's talking about 'first-time buyers,'" he observes, "and there are a number of programs in the works to address their special needs, but what about the move-up market?" Graham notes that in New Jersey upward mobility has long been one of the mainstays of the real estate business. "The concept of the 'starter' leading to a larger, newer home and then on to a 'dream house' is a tradition here," he says, but concedes that in the general slow-down of Garden State real estate sales, "this market has flattened out, as well."

"People are holding back, postponing their dreams," agrees Bonnie Martel of Joan Parent Realtors in Monmouth Beach. "Besides the emotional wear-and-tear that comes with waiting," she adds, "there's the very real danger of missing the opportunity that a buyer's market, which we have now, temporarily provides to those who already own a home of their own."

Graham thinks he understands the motivation of homeowners who are reluctant to sell at this time. "They're waiting for the market to turn around," he says, "and of course it will. In fact, there's every reason to believe that's turning around already."

But you have to remember that a rising tide raises all boats, as they say. Prices will increase across the board, creating a sellers' market. Ironically, Martel claims, a sellers' market works against individuals who will be selling one home and buying another. "Clients sometimes reason that, because they'll be getting more for their home, they'll have more to spend on another one."

Graham concurs, offering an example: "Suppose you have a house valued at $200,000 in today's market. It's perfectly adequate for your needs but you want to move up to one with a furnace, let's say, and Palladian windows, perhaps a separate study for your computer, and that costs $265,000. You may be tempted to postpone selling until your own home appreciates to, say, $225,000. Then you'd have an additional mortgage of $40,000. At today's rates, that's $365.90 more per month, which you know you can handle.

"The trouble with this thinking is that, as your house gains in value, the house you want does, too. As a matter of fact, larger, newer homes appreciate even faster, but for the sake of this example, let's assume the same rate of growth. The house you want will now cost you $298,000 and you'll have an additional mortgage of $73,000, or $667.77 more per month, whereas, if you'd sold your house at $200,000 and bought the new one at $265,000, you'd have an additional mortgage of $65,000 for $594.59 a month.
