Dems to meet at Sayre landmark

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.
The owners of one of the township's oldest homes — the Sayre Homestead — have invited all Springfield residents to visit and participate in a star-studded hike this Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.
The event is sponsored by the Springfield Democrats to honor November's Democratic candidates for the Springfield Township Committee, Lee Eisen and Marcia Forman, but is nevertheless open to any interested parties, hosts William and Eleanor Curral said this week.
The hike date will be Oct. 22.
"The event will also celebrate the 10th anniversary of the inclusion of this historic house and property into the State and National Registers of Historic Places, a project initiated and carried through by Mrs. Forman," said Eleanor Curral.
"Mrs. Forman has worked to protect ecologically and historically sensitive areas and to encourage long-term planning during twenty years of community involvement. Mr. Eisen has demonstrated his interest in the town's heritage and future through his work for its future citizens both as school board member and leader of Cub and Boy Scout troops," she continued.

OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY — This is an artist's rendering of the 18th-century Sayre Homestead, a rustic haven located at the edge of Springfield. The Sayre Homestead is probably the only house of its vintage in Union County with a setting that has remained almost as rural as it was when it was first built. The building overlooks a small lake and is surrounded by fields and woodlands. The public is invited to visit the home this weekend during a special event honoring Democratic candidates for Township Committee Lee Eisen and Marcia Forman.

Armed robber still at large

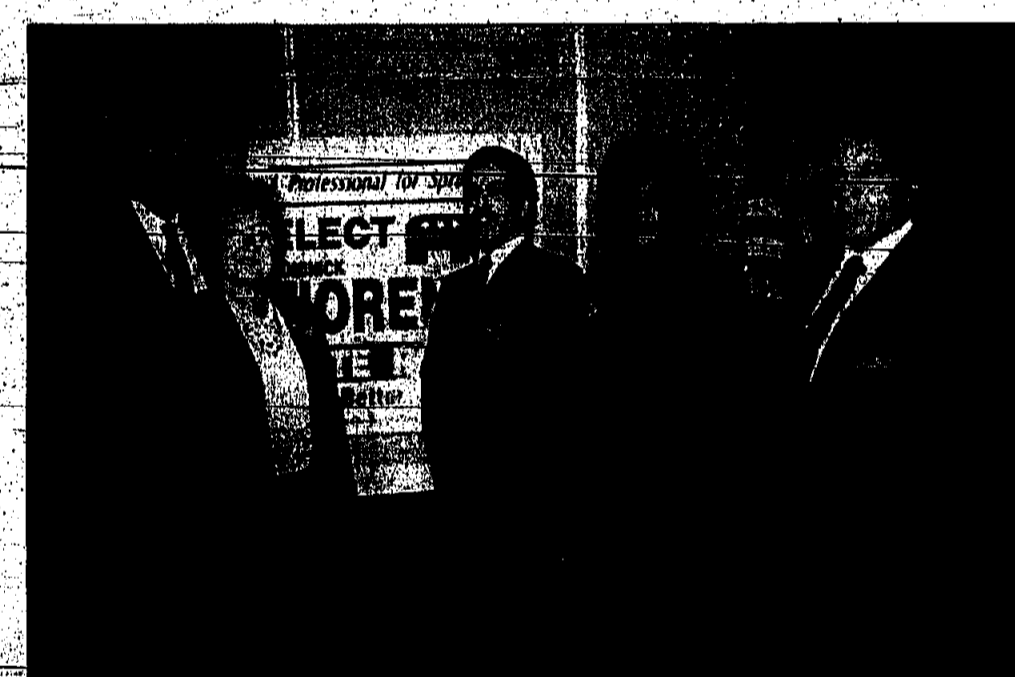

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.
Police are asking for the assistance of residents with regard to the Sept. 22 armed robbery where $60,000 in jewels was stolen from two couriers in the parking lot of the Springfield Post Office.
The thieves, who are still at large, demanded a sack of jewelry from a pair of couriers who are employed with a Union Township jeweler, said Police Chief William Chisholm. The couriers were enroute to mail the jewels at the post office at the time of the 3:50 p.m. incident.
The couriers were approached by two of three Caucasian males, one of whom was carrying a handgun that was hidden beneath a newspaper. After snatching the jewelry sacks, the suspects fled through the parking lot of the adjacent mini-mall to Henshaw Avenue. There they entered into a car, where a third man was waiting.
The suspects, described as being in their late '20's to early '30s, were last seen driving a newer model, two-door Buick Regal with tinted windows and a red object covering the rear license plate.
Police have produced a composite sketch of one of the suspects, who is described as being 5-foot 5 inches tall, between 140 and 170 pounds, with light brown hair and a medium build.
This is an artist's rendering of the armed robbery suspect.
The second suspect was described as being between 5 feet 2 inches and 5 feet 6 inches tall, between 120 and 140 pounds, and of thin build.
Police are asking residents of any age with information which could lead to the suspects' arrest to contact Detectives Judd Levenson and John D'Andrea at the Springfield Police Department, 376-0400.
All information will be kept confidential, police said.

Local man fires shots at teen

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.
A Springfield incident was charged last week with shooting a 17-year-old youth during a tag football game Oct. 1 in Orange, which had touched off a fight among spectators that took several police departments to quell.
Francesco Romano, 23, of Golf Oval was arrested after allegedly firing three shots from a .25-caliber gun at the unidentified male victim following an apparent argument between the two during the game at Bell Stadium. The shots missed the youth, who was not injured.
Orange Deputy Police Director Anthony Benevento said that the game, played between a group from Orange and one from another community, was being held without permission at the stadium, which was closed to the public at the time.
Benevento said he believed that approximately 150 spectators, who had gathered to watch the game had

Purse snatch warning issued

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.
The Springfield Police Department issued a stern warning to women shoppers this week following two purse snatchings, incidents which occurred within moments of each other Sept. 29, leaving one woman slightly injured.
Police say four black males in a stolen car approached a 37-year-old woman at 5:25 p.m. as she was walking to her car in the parking lot of the Mountain Avenue Bank, stole her bag, and then fled into the Echo Plaza parking lot.
The woman was not harmed by her assailants.
"The suspects then drove past a 41-year-old Meritt Plainfield woman on the way to her vehicle, grabbed her pocketbook and proceeded to drag her through the lot as the man made their exit toward Route 22."
"The woman held on to the bag for some time, according to police, until the strap broke. Authorities say she suffered superficial wounds and abrasions on her body."
"I think the thieves exposed her to the risk of the purse when they drove away — most would in a similar situation. But for some reason she didn't let go," said Police Chief William Chisholm.
"The stolen car believed to have been used in the two purse snatchings was recovered in Belleville, where the police suspect had apparently stopped for a moment. The investigation is continuing."
Police say that the two purse snatchings are now being treated as separate incidents. The victim was not injured.

Teen-aged car thieves drag local cop

By DOMINICK CRINCOLI JR.
A Springfield police officer was dragged 50 feet by two juveniles in a stolen car last week, forcing authorities into a high-speed, two-mile car chase through residential neighborhoods in order to capture the suspects.
The juveniles, a 15- and a 16-year-old, initiated the chase after getting pulled over in a 1988 BMW on Meckes Street by Patrolman Peter Davis for a motor vehicle violation Oct. 3 at 4:46 p.m., said Police Chief William Chisholm.
As Davis approached the car, he reached in to grab the driver, according to police, at which time the suspects began driving away, dragging Davis 50 feet along Meckes Street before turning onto South Springfield Avenue.
Davis, who suffered minor abrasions, was subsequently released and taken to his home. He was charged with receiving stolen property, aiding police, resisting arrest, and aggravated assault on a police officer, Chisholm said. Other charges may be filed later in Carteret. He added, "The juveniles are being held in the

A bad bet

In New Jersey, legal betting is ubiquitous. There's the state lottery in its various mutations, parimutuels at the racetracks and casinos in Atlantic City.

Another form of gambling that is just as well-known, but still illegal in the Garden State, is sports wagering. But that could change.

Eleven years of impressive takes by the casinos have enriched the owners and out-of-town laborers, but haven't done all that much for the citizens of Atlantic City. And now that the initial burst of casino construction has subsided, the boardwalk city's economy has stagnated, causing ripple effects throughout the state and impacting revenues going to Trenton.

So State Sen. C. Louis Bassano, R-21, whose district includes Springfield, has put together a package of bills designed to aid the city. Among them is a proposed state constitutional amendment that, if approved by the voters, would legalize general sports wagering at casinos and racetracks.

Sports wagering, as Bassano has correctly pointed out, is a major industry that people must realize already exists — whether they like it or not — and, if legalized, would generate extra revenue for the state.

But as appealing an argument as that may seem to be, it ignores a crucial difference between wagering on the performances of human beings and wagering on the performances of a card, a steel ball or a horse. That is, the presence of gambling carries a significant potential of corrupting all the individuals involved.

That was true in 1919 when members of the Chicago White Sox threw the World Series; it was true in 1989 in the Pete Rose case.

The concept of introducing sports gambling here seems to have emanated from wealthy casino owners, such as Donald Trump, who feel that New Jersey is losing out on untold revenue to states where sports betting is legal, notably Nevada.

Perhaps, but, given the short history of casino gambling in New Jersey, who would really stand to benefit more — the state or the casino industry itself?

New Jersey is one of the nation's leading states when it comes to legalized wagering. It is also among the national leaders in areas such as excessive auto insurance costs, pollution and lack of affordable housing, and has been for some time.

Somehow, all the state monies generated by the lotteries, racetracks and casinos haven't come close to solving those problems. Other projects — instead have sucked up those revenues, and the once-hefty state surplus of a few years ago has vanished. So is there any reason to believe that extra funds generated by additional forms of gambling would be more successful in alleviating those conditions?

No less important is our belief that society, given its well-established problems with gambling addiction, does not need any further encouragement to bet.

We commend Bassano on several unrelated bills he's preparing that are intended to revitalize the Atlantic City area. No one would argue that this once-great-tourist attraction desperately needs a financial shot in the arm. An infusion of cash would also help the faded resort tackle its chronic problems of poverty, crime and drugs.

If, as Trump and others claim, outside bodies such as the Sports and Exposition Authority are better equipped and better prepared than state government to build a proposed multipurpose convention center in Atlantic City — one that would supposedly result in more tourists, and therefore, more revenue for the city — then that is an area worth examining. But to further encourage gambling under the guise of keeping New Jersey more "competitive" with other states sounds too much like another quick fix for deeply entrenched woes.

Dem candidates can't work together

The 21st Legislative District, which includes Springfield, has maintained a long and enviable record of responsible representation in Trenton — representation which has resulted in millions of dollars for needed community projects.

One of the major reasons why this district has had such a strong voice in Trenton is because of the compatibility of its elected teams. Anyone in political life can play the Lone Ranger. But what about the people who have elected you? What chances do you have to be an effective legislator if your universe is confined to only your own opinion?

A good legislator, while maintaining his own individuality and integrity, must constantly be working towards the compromise which best serves the public interest. The voters of the 21st District are fortunate to have discovered early in the process how ineffective their representation in the Assembly would be with Union County Freeholders Neil Cohen and Brian Fahy. Given the history in office of the two Democratic candidates, it is a wonder their party even nominated them as a team.

Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick and I are an effective leadership team that is capable of delivering for the residents of the 21st District.

GOP made political appointments

In the Sept. 28 Springfield Leader, Deputy Mayor Phil Kurmos loved a blast at his Democratic colleagues on the Township Committee.

Among other things, he wrote: "In spite of what William Wolsch and Sy Mullin say, we (Republicans) worked hard to appoint the right people for the right jobs, not merely handing out political favors, as did so many administrations before us."

What I find remarkable is how often the "right people" turned out to be Republican party workers, Republican officials or the wives and husbands of Republican officials. Our township boards are populated with them.

The so-called political hacks whom these Republican bigwigs displaced were often people who had served effectively and loyally for many years through many administrations, only to be dumped as part of the Republican purification process.

The very important Planning Board has, among its members and alternates, the current Republican Party chairman, a former Republican township committeewoman, a Republican district leader and the husband of another former Republican township committeewoman. The mayor also appointed himself and Kurmos to serve on the Planning Board. That is not exactly representative government.

The Board of Adjustment has another former Republican candidate and another Republican district leader as members. The Library Board has a Republican township committeewoman's wife and another Republican district leader as members.

Now I am not saying these people can't and don't serve capably. But why pretend their selection was the result of a worldwide talent search? They are political appointments, pure and simple.

To put them on the boards, the Republicans dumped, just to name a few: Richard Colaninno, who had been on the Planning Board for over 20 years; Paul Uslan, who had been one of the drafters of our zoning ordinance many years ago; Marcia Forman, who was a founding member of the Environmental Commission and served as the liaison from the Planning Board to the Environmental Commission; and Dr. Howard Watter, a former chairman and a 10-year member of the Board of Adjustment.

The Republicans also got rid of two qualified health professionals from the Board of Health as members on the Raritan Valley Sewage Authority whom the authority pleaded to have reappointed.

Finally, they dumped Bernard Schwartz from the Community Development Block Grant Committee. All he did was go down to Union County regularly for seven years and bring back more than half a million dollars in grants. These grants provided streets, sidewalks, playgrounds, the senior citizens' lunch program at Chisholm School, the fixing-up of the Sarah Bailey Center, and a host of other projects.

Schwartz's only transgression seemed to be that he is married to a long-time Democratic leader.

So give us a break, Phil. Things aren't quite as perfect in the paradise you have created for us here in Springfield, as you would like us believe.

Dems waging cheap, negative campaign

In an article which appeared in the Sept. 28 edition of the Springfield Leader, the two Democratic candidates for the Township Committee criticized the current Republican administration for the "deplorable conditions of many of the tennis courts, fields and playgrounds."

The truth is that the conditions they are talking about did not happen overnight.

The truth is that before Phil Kurmos was elected to the Township Committee less than two years ago, the Democrats controlled the governing body for 15 of the last 18 years.

The truth is that even though the present administration had to set up priorities to deal with the years of mismanagement, dry rot and neglect, they still managed to make Ruby Field a showplace, add a baseball field at Chisholm Park, and repair or replace much of the playground equipment all over town.

The ploy of it all is that instead of waging a positive campaign, my opponents are resorting to the same old lying and attacking tactics as their predecessors, and I can't understand why they are doing it.

What if they won the election? Don't they want to be team players? Wouldn't it be better for the people of Springfield if they wanted to pull together with the present administration instead of worrying about their previous party?

To hinder and impede progress — is that what they mean by two-party government?

The whole thing doesn't make any sense to me. The labels of Democrat and Republican at this level of government are just that, labels. I found out that there is no financial or any other kind of support given to the local parties from their federal, state or county organizations.

I hope that the voters of Springfield recognize this. And I hope that the Democratic candidates for the Township Committee divorce themselves from the cheap tactics of their predecessors and wage a decent, truthful and honest campaign based on what they hope to accomplish for the people of our town.

Letter on leaf facility had inaccuracies

In my letter to the editor of Sept. 21, I expressed my concern and at the same time alerted the entire community of the township of Springfield in regard to the future problem which could arise from the impact of the leaf-compost facility.

In a letter of Sept. 28, Marilyn Schneider of Springfield's Citizens Organized to Protect the Environment (SCOPE) wrote directly to me, as she is apparently the spokesperson for Union County.

I had no idea that Schneider was hired by the county and by the freeholder board to speak on their behalf.

I had great respect for you, Mrs. Schneider, and I praised you several times, during the many years of planning for the Houdeville quarry's LEAF, for your courage and guts to speak out and let the community be aware of the problem that we are facing.

Now, Mrs. Schneider, it is up to me to let the people of Springfield know all the lies you write in the letter to the editor of Sept. 28:

• I built my house in 1984, and Interstate 78 was completed in the fall of 1985. There were not 90,000 cars or trucks traveling on I-78 when I built my house.

• A drainage swale was built about 3 1/2 years ago and was intended to drain the amphitheater, not the leaf-compost facility.

• The state Department of Transportation did not comply with the original drawing dated Feb. 15, 1982, by stopping the sound barrier short of what it should have been for Tree Top Drive.

• The subdivision approval was given to the developer on Sept. 1, 1981. Therefore, the new street was on the map of the township of Springfield three years before I-78 construction was started.

• On Sept. 14, I did attend the county freeholder meeting in Elizabeth, and after a long wait, from 8 p.m. to midnight, I had my chance to speak to the freeholder board. I did not speak mainly for myself, but I spoke for the concern which I have for the Springfield community by bringing to their attention the problem that we face. I told the board that we should have better fields in town so that our kids can play on them — more recreation, like other towns in Union County have — and have the county build a ballfield in our area of Balfour.

Top to our kids have some place to go and play near our home. But Mrs. Schneider does not care about this, because she does not have small children.

• Last, but not least, in the Springfield Leader dated Sept. 21, Marilyn Schneider made another false statement claiming that her house on Skyline Road borders the quarry. Instead, her house is approximately half a mile away from the boundary line of the quarry. And I do not live on Hillside Road. That is where my business is located. I live on Tree Top Drive. My property line is adjacent to the quarry. Therefore, noise from heavy machinery has been heard by us for over two months.

Mrs. Schneider, before you make false statements, please go to town hall and look through the archives so that you could get correct information, and it will save you a lot of embarrassment toward myself and the community.

I do hope this letter will clear some of the misstatements given by Marilyn Schneider and will allow our community of Springfield to have the correct facts.

Stand up for reproductive choice

On July 3, the United States Supreme Court severely altered the landmark decision of 1973, Roe v. Wade, which legalized abortion.

Using Webster v. Reproductive Health Services of Missouri, the court started chipping away at women's reproductive lives.

Since July 3, I have been asked over and over again what the situation is in New Jersey and what people can do to help. I thought I would share my answers with your readers.

Abortion is still legal in New Jersey. However, there are some restrictions in the second trimester concerning when an abortion may be performed. Medicaid funding is available for indigent women seeking a medically necessary abortion, and pregnant minors may consent to their own medical treatment, whatever option they choose.

The phone at our offices and those of many, many groups have been ringing constantly since July with citizens asking how they can be of help — what can they do. People have been writing letters and signing petitions, and now there is another way to express your anger and outrage.

On Sunday, Oct. 15, at the Statehouse in Trenton, Choice-NJ is sponsoring "Stand Up and Be Counted for Choice," a rally in support of reproductive freedom. Large numbers of pro-choice advocates are expected at the rally, which starts at 1 p.m.

Choice-NJ represents 32 pro-choice organizations throughout New Jersey. Groups such as the YWCAs, the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters, Planned Parenthood of New Jersey, the Union of Hebrew Congregations, the NAACP, the New Jersey Rainbow Coalition, the New Jersey Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights, NOW, Right to Choose, the New Jersey Coalition of Labor Union Women, and many others.

We urge you to be a voice for choice and attend the "Stand Up and Be Counted for Choice" rally. For more information about travel arrangements, call Planned Parenthood of Union County Area at 756-3765.

JAIL-A-THON HONORS — John Quinn, left, owner and general manager of radio station WJDM, is presented with a Union County resolution of honor by county Freeholder Joseph Suliga. Quinn was feted for his contributions to the recent three-day Jail-A-Thon fundraiser which raised more than $115,000 for the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. In the Jail-A-Thon, prominent local residents were "arrested" and sat in a makeshift jail in Elizabeth with a telephone to call friends and relatives for donations, and were freed once they raised their "bail."

Telecourses, videocourse offered

Union County College is offering five telecourses and a videocourse during the fall semester to broaden opportunities for students — especially the handicapped and homebound — to earn college credits.

The telecourses are regular college courses that use television as a basic delivery system for instruction. Upon completion of these courses, students earn designated course credit equivalent to classroom instruction, which may be transferred to an appropriate four-year college program.

The fall semester telecourses are: "Introduction to Contemporary Business," "Organization and Management," "Business Law I," "Principals of Marketing" and "Focus on Society." Another course, "The Mind," is a telecourse not being televised this term, but available on videotape.

The first four courses are offered through the college's Business Department; the latter two courses are sociology and psychology courses, respectively.

Each of the telecourses and the videocourse will require attendance at three on-campus seminars for orientation, and the passing of mid-term and final examinations. Optional review classes will be available before each examination.

Telecourses combine televised lessons viewed one hour weekly with textbook and study guide readings. A faculty member coordinates the instructional activities and assignments and is available to meet individually with students.

Students are given at least two opportunities weekly to view the lessons on either local Public Broadcasting System channels or on cable television. In addition, videotapes of the courses may be viewed in the campus library or borrowed for home viewing, as available, from the college's Scotch Plains campus.

"Business and the Law" emphasizes instruction on contracts and the legal system. Offered new this semester, it includes modules on the law of sales, commercial paper, agency and property. Students will examine such critical legal environmental topics as government regulation, employment practices, and consumer and environmental protection.

"The Mind," another recent addition to the curriculum, offers a comprehensive look at the mind and its corollary behavior. The course will examine central concerns of basic and applied psychology with new research providing scientific journeys into the world of the mind, as explained by leading scientists.

Those interested in further information, including broadcasting schedules and examination dates, should call 889-8676.

UCC offers range of computer courses

An open house highlighting Union County College's medical record technology program will be conducted today at 7 p.m. in Room H-539 of the Health Technologies Building on the Scotch Plains campus.

The event will feature a video outlining careers in medical record technology, student displays, and computer demonstrations. For further information, call 889-8490.

New county jail dedicated

By SHARON CATES
 Union County's new Sheriff-Ralph Orisello Correctional Facility, which took 3 1/2 years to construct, claimed the title of "one construction worker and cost $30 million to build," was officially dedicated Friday.

County Freeholder Chairman Brian Fahy served as master of ceremonies for the hour-long ribbon-cutting ceremony that was held in Elizabethtown Plaza in Elizabeth — the street between the old, overcrowded county jail and the new facility.

Amid the sounds of screaming inmates still housed in the old jail, a line of county dignitaries spoke on behalf of Orisello and the need for a new facility.

"This is a great day for Union County and for everyone involved with the planning and construction of the Sheriff Ralph Orisello Correctional Facility," Fahy said. "We have needed a new jail for a long time. Now we have the first contemporary, high-security in the state, designed for the security and safety of the inmates, corrections officers and ancillary staff."

The facility, which contains 520 cells, was named for former county Sheriff Ralph Orisello, who served in that post from 1959 to 1977. Orisello, who died in 1983, had envisioned the necessity of a new county jail approximately 30 years ago.

While in office, Orisello pleaded with the Board of Freeholders to have a new jail constructed. His efforts at that time, however, were to no avail.

A federal court eventually ordered the county to limit the number of prisoners in the old jail which lead the Freeholders to approve construction of the new jail.

Following a recommendation from Sheriff Ralph Orisello, the board earlier this year voted unanimously to name the facility for Orisello.

"I don't know that you could have sought a better name for this facility than the one you have selected," noted Elizabeth Mayor Thomas G. Dunn.

"I think what this is about," Freeholder Michael LaPolla said in reference to the resolution, which he co-sponsored, "is a thank-you to Ralph Orisello."

"This is a permanent, tangible tribute to his honor," Freeholder Joseph Sulliga, the resolution's other co-sponsor, said.

Orisello's widow, Amette, and his family were on hand at the ceremony.

"It is the happiest thing that ever happened to me," exclaimed Mrs. Orisello. "I'm a walker, and one day I looked up at this building and said 'If Ralph could see this now.' A week later, I received a telephone call informing me that the building would be named after him.

"This would be the happiest moment of his life," Mrs. Orisello continued. "This is what he wanted a new jail."

"This is the ultimate tribute to a life well-lived and a job well-done," remarked Ralph G. Orisello, the son of the late sheriff.

The 14-story, two-tower facility, planned by the design firm CUHZA, is under a unit management-based CORRECTIONAL FACILITY DEDICATED—Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich, left, and county Freeholder Chairman Brian Fahy, behind him, lead the salute to the flag during dedication ceremonies for the county's new Sheriff Ralph Orisello Correctional Facility on Friday in Elizabeth.

This situation has prompted a lawsuit against the county by the municipalities of Elizabeth and Union, which are seeking reimbursement for inmates they are spending to house inmates who would normally be sentenced to time in the county jail.

"If the inmate population continues to grow, the county has not made space next to the new facility to build another tower. This third tower would be a possible solution for the county if it faced with more overcrowding in the future, officials say.

Officials are uncertain what will become of the old county jail. Although there is speculation that it will house state prisoners or become a juvenile detention center in the future, a final decision has not been made.

The county has received inquiries from officials in Essex and Hudson counties, who are asking to use part of the old jail to eliminate some of their own overcrowding problems.

Part-time poet isn't too busy to win awards

By BEA SMITH
 Why does a person who writes beautiful and meaningful poetry seem to end up in the engineering business or architecture or other business that he dislikes?

According to Anthony P. Longo of Union, "You can't earn a living writing poetry." It's as simple as that. "But one day you make up your mind and you decide to enter poetry contests," he says. "And then you find out what I did a year ago, and I'm glad I did," he smiles, "because I actually won some awards."

He says, "I had never in my life entered poetry contests, but last year, I decided to do it. So, I had entered my poetry in two different contests, which I had read about in various papers in the Union County area. One of my poems, 'Heaven's Gift,' was given honorable mention, and was given a place in the published book on poetry by the Great Lakes Poetry Press.

"The other poem, 'Heaven's Gift,' was entered in the World of Poetry contest, sponsored by Eddie-Lou Cole, an 81-year-old poetry editor. For this poem, I was given honorable mention and was asked for permission to have it included in their book, 'The Golden Treasury of Great Poems.' When this was done," Longo says, "I was then informed that the board of directors had unanimously agreed to elect me as the Golden Poet for 1988 for which I received a certificate and was asked to appear at the award ceremony in California.

"Unfortunately," he explains, "I did not attend since my health would not allow it at the time. However, I was informed that the board of directors voted unanimously to elect me the Silver Poet for 1989 for the same poem previously submitted, which was 'Heaven's Gift.'"

Longo considers it truly as a gift from heaven to be able to express himself in poetry. "I love poetry," he murmurs. "You know, there's poetry in all of life. If you look for it."

Longo says that "I have been writing poetry since far back as I care to remember. I really had a lot of poetry written. I'm the youngest of five children, and I always loved poetry. I would write it, put it aside, then go back to it. Then all of a sudden, there was this radio show called 'Musical Tapes,' which was run by the older John Gambiling. He had asked for the public to submit poetry. We all my side, Angelo Longo, who was creative, inspired me, and I wrote a poem about her, and John Gambiling accepted it. My sister died 15 years ago."

Longo says that he had many of his poems read on that Gambiling radio show "when I was a youngster. They used to put background music in the poems," he laughs. "I remember the 'Moonlight Sonata' musical background as they read one of my poems called 'Earth.' And on another, they played 'A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody.' I used to get letters from a lot of people, including offers from publishing houses. But I never pursued it.

"I also had collected antiques, did decorations, and wrote short stories in addition to my poetry. I had always done it.

"I never liked architecture, but since I was 25 years old I would end up in engineering offices," he laughs. "From clerk-to-office manager-in-matter of months, and I happened all the time. I hated it, but I'm still in it. Now I work part-time for this firm in East Orange called Zywotow & Eckert, and again I'm an architectural engineer and I manage a whole office."

Longo, who was born in the Ironbound section of Newark, attended Barringer High School for a year and a half. I had to go to work at the age of 12. Prior to that, I had attended Central Avenue Public School, then when we moved to Roselle Park, I went to Aldene School and Robert Gordon School. After attending Barringer for a brief time, I quit, but I went back to Barringer and was graduated as class

Aquino writes poetry due to need to share

By BEA SMITH
 An accomplished teacher in Roselle Park, who has written poetry all of his life, recently decided to submit his poetry to a poetry contest, not for recognition but because of a need to share.

The versatile Louis T. Aquino, who teaches English as a second language at the Aldene School in Roselle Park, really needs no recognition, he says. He just felt he had to share his poetry with more than his family, associates and friends. So, recently, he submitted some of his poetry to an organization called World Poetry in Sacramento, Calif. and as a result, received the organization's Golden Poet Award for 1989. He was informed that his poem, "The Cuckoo Clock," has been published in an anthology to be released worldwide called "World Treasury of Great Poems."

This man of many talents says he has been writing poetry since he was 7 years old. "I'm very fortunate that they like my poem," he says humbly, meaning World Poetry. He says, "Over one million poets from all over the world are part of this organization. And of these people, a lot of their lives were changed. They came from all walks of life. Personally, I'm proud and flattered that my poetry has been acknowledged in this way.

"And the other people who have changed my life," Aquino says, "are those in Roselle Park. I feel that this is the greatest school system in the world to have for."

Aquino, who began in Aldene School in January, says he teaches "Indians and Hispanics, a few Egyptians, a few Greeks. I speak Spanish, English, French and Italian fluently, and I understand Portuguese. I've studied about 10 languages," he smiles. "I taught French and Spanish by the time I was 15 years old."

"What inspired him to write his award-winning 'The Cuckoo Clock,' he admits, was "a woman in a nursing home. I had taken the kids from Orange Avenue School to visit a nursing home about six or seven years ago, and a very old woman touched me on the arm and said, 'Can you tell me when my sister's coming to see me?' Apparently, the woman hadn't had any visitors for years."

Born and raised in Kearny, Aquino, a third generation Italian-American, resides in Scotch Plains. He says ever since he was in fourth grade he wanted to be a school teacher. "I wrote my first published poem when I was 12. It was 'A Tribute to Mother,' and it was published by a newspaper in 1975."

After he was graduated from Essex Catholic High School in 1968, Aquino attended Montclair State College, majoring in French and Spanish. He received a bachelor of arts degree in 1972, and began his teaching career at the Sacred Heart School in Kearny. He was an English, reading, art and social studies instructor in grades 5 through 8. "That was the same year I had my poem, 'Somebody's Mother,' published by New Jersey Boys' Town magazine."

Aquino taught Spanish and French in the Cranford public schools from 1974 through 1988. Last year, he decided to expand his teaching credentials to include English as a second language and bilingual education. He is working on a master's degree in ESL at Keane College of New Jersey, Union.

"Aldene School had no no music teacher, Edna Bailey, approached me and asked me to write an official song for the school. So, I wrote it and it was announced at a fifth-grade luncheon this year by the principal that the alma mater would be sung at the event. I also wrote a kindergarten chant for the school."

"Aquino says he also has written three plays and completed one which is called 'Kittens,' a patriotic play. He is the second-grade teacher, will perform 'Kittens,' next. Actually, my first play is called 'Pedro and the First Pinata.' I'm in the middle of another play called 'Mrs. Clark's Garden.'"

Where does he get his ideas or inspiration for his poetry?

"Sometimes," he says, "it just comes in a dream or when I see somebody who's hurting. I have poems dedicated to the elderly, handicapped and the homeless.

"You see, I've worked with blind and deaf people, with those who have cerebral palsy, from first grade through high school. I have spent eight summers as a counselor at camps for the underprivileged and severely handicapped children and adults. "I've served as general counselor, supervisor of arts and crafts at the camps, and I've even entertained them with songs which I play on my guitar.

"Basically, I escort them through their daily events. I've worked with different types from year to year. And really," he smiles complacently, "it's so rewarding. It helps just to appreciate your own circumstances. You form such a bond with them, and it doesn't end with the end of summer camp. They write to you, through the years. I've kept in touch with many of them."

"I wrote a special poem for a physically challenged young girl in Newark, whom I call occasionally just to cheer her up. It's called 'A Retarded Child's Wish.'"

"Aquino smiles. "My parents inspired me from the time I was born," he says. "They taught me that the beauty and fulfillment of life and what we experience are proportionate to the extent we go to help other people."

Aquino's mother, Rose, who is now deceased, and his father, Louis, and his brother James, a schoolmaster, who is working toward a degree in industrial arts education, were all part of his inspiration, he explains.

"The 39-year-old Aquino says that his "first experience with underprivileged children was in 1970. I assisted at the Bonnie Brae Camp, sponsored by the Fresh Air Fund." He also helped youngsters in Camp Lighthouse in Warrenton, which was run by the New York Association of the Blind, in 1974 and 1976. In 1979, I worked at the vacation Camp for the Blind, in Spring Valley, N.Y. In the summer of 1981, I worked at Camp Star in Echo Lake Park in Westfield, run by the New Jersey Association of Retarded Children. And in 1982 and 1983 worked in the summer program at the Cerebral Palsy Center in Bellevue."

The following year, Aquino took the summer off and toured Europe with his father. We visited over 50 cities in 12 countries. All the cities have so much individual charm in their people, their culture."

"Paris, Madrid, Venice, Lucerne, Vienna."

"And the year after that, we did a tour of the United States. It was a summer bus tour."

Aquino says that he "was in the glee club all through school. I was in the church choir. I also had written a few songs, and two of my plays with music. There was one original song in each play. The plays are just for school use."

He says he recently "got an invitation to join Kappa Delta Pi, the counterpart of Phi Delta Kappa. I had a 4.0 average in my graduate school. I hopefully intend to go for a doctorate degree in language education at Rutgers University. I was inspired by Dr. Betsy Ritzig-Bachiller, a professor of linguistics at Keane College here in Union. I had her for three courses and she was so brilliant. She's definitely one of the greatest teachers I've ever had."

"Winning contests in poetry hasn't changed his life very much, Aquino admits. "The professors I've studied with have changed his life. The youngsters in the summer camps have changed my life.

"And here in Roselle Park," he says, "I believe the district is exemplary in the job it is doing with its youngsters. There is a spirit of respect, enthusiasm and pride in accomplishments. That is pervasive throughout the district. It emanates from the superintendent, Ernest Finnizio, and seems to work its way around the town. He's just about the greatest. I respect him and the system."

"It's the greatest school system to work for. That's the way I feel. And that's why I want to remain teaching and to continue to write poetry and plays on the side."

GO JETS! — The Kenilworth Jets may not quite be the Brearley Bears; but they are an important part of the Kenilworth Recreation program just the same. Here, two Jets defenders try to prevent the pass from reaching the grasp of an enemy receiver during a recent game with the Bridgewater Boulders.

6-1 Bears off and running

By MARK YABLONSKY
The Brearley High soccer team of Kenilworth has been one of the state's most competitive Group 1 squads for the better part of the past 20 years. But partly because of the school's football success and partly because of the presence of bigger, successful soccer powers nearby, such as Westfield and Scotch Plains, not many have noticed.

Until, maybe, this year. Things such as a blistering 6-1 start, including a season-opening win over the two-time defending Mountain Valley Conference champions, North Plainfield, can't be ignored. Not for a team that has reached the sectional final recorded during the 15-5-2 season of 1977. But junior Luan Ahintaja is now between the pipes.

Now don't get the wrong idea. It's not that Brearley can field the kind of depth that Group 4 schools can. It's just that the likes of Neapolitano and fellow captain Chris Jardon and Brian Molten, along with midfielder sophomore forward Matt O'Donnell, among others, don't have to see their talents downgraded just because they play for a Group 1 school.

CHRIS JARDON

MIKE NAPOLITANO

Not for a team that has a very good chance to win not only that elusive first-ever sectional title, but maybe even an overall Group 1 championship as well in 1989.

"I don't know too many coaches who can say they love going out to practice every day. But my kids are lovers of the game. They just love to play soccer."

And the way many players have adapted to position changes would prove it, Mike Napolitano, for example, was a midfielder-forward for last year's 16-5-1 Brearley team that set a new school record in wins. But when graduation claimed sweeper Mike Sikucinski and stopper Tony Romano, both of whom had been vital cogs in the team's record 12 shutouts, Czaya asked Napolitano to give up the offense he had displayed in 1988 in order to fill the gap at sweeper.

"He accepted it wholeheartedly," pointed out Czaya.

"He accepted it wholeheartedly," pointed out Czaya, whose team has outscored its opponents by a collective 32-5 margin to date, with four of the goals scored coming in a 4-1 defeat to Arthur L. Johnson Regional of Clark on Saturday, the first and only defeat for the Bears this season.

Plainfield by way of carpool. That's because the team bus, with a new company under contract, had somehow failed to arrive on time, causing the team some undue worry prior to one of the biggest opening nights in school history.

"The only thing I see differently between Group 1 and Group 4 is depth," explained Czaya in calculating that both the school's football and soccer programs account for 100 players, roughly half of the student body's male population. "We feel our first 11 can compete with anybody in Union County, however, the (overall) edge would undoubtedly go to the bigger school."

"But the 21-year Brearley skipper reiterated, "with the numbers returning in our favor here in Brearley, we feel we can compete with anybody right now."

Certainly, beating North Plainfield,

1-0, on Sept. 15 underscored that point. Playing against a team that had won Mountain Valley titles in 1987 and 1988 largely because of head-to-head victories over Brearley, both years, the Bears prevailed on the strength of a third-period penalty shot from O'Donnell, the sophomore soccer wunderkind who tallied 20 times as a freshman last fall.

But as dramatic as the win may have been, it seemed overshadowed somewhat by some earlier adversity on the part of Brearley, which actually had to make the journey to North

"That final last fall, that hurt. But in the big game plan of life, people test you. And maybe all of those tests are going to turn around and pay off for us."
Al Czaya

When we say leader we mean way out front. Let us elaborate. Sutter Home White Zinfandel is number one, outelling the next biggest brand by 150 percent. In fact, Sutter Home White Zinfandel is the best selling varietal wine in the nation. You can't be more of a leader than that.
Sutter Home Zinfandel and Muscat Alexandria are the number one sellers in their categories. And our Cabernet Sauvignon, Chateau Blanc and Sauvignon Blanc are all among the top five sellers in their categories.
The point is if you want to enjoy wine, follow the leader. Or all six of them.

Bears take first loss, 4-1, to A.L. Johnson

By MARK YABLONSKY
As well as the Brearley High boy's soccer team has been playing, it would be unfair to expect them to go undefeated. And that strain, real or imagined, was finally alleviated in a 4-1 loss to Arthur L. Johnson of Clark on Saturday at Ward Field.

Having allowed just one goal all season prior to gametime, the Bears, coming in off a 7-0 win at Roselle Park two days earlier, simply didn't have a Brearley-type game. Sweeper-back John Heller became the first player to score twice in one game against Brearley this season by tallying twice in the first quarter to get the Crusaders off and running to a 2-0 advantage.

Brearley's only goal was by Chris Jardon, who netted his eighth tally of the year midway through the third period on a cross from Chris Hogan.

Bulldog Player of the Week
Jim Morrison is this week's choice as Dayton Player of the Week by the Dayton Regional High School coaching staff. The senior tight end caught four passes for a total of 115 yards, including one for a nine-yard touchdown in Dayton's 13-6 loss at Roselle.

Goalie Luan Ahintaja, saddled with his first defeat of the season, had to leave the game toward the end of the first half when he was accidentally kicked in the nose by an opposing player on an indirect free kick. But he returned for the entire second half, and was prepared to defend the Brearley goal in Tuesday's scheduled rematch with North Plainfield, whom the Bears defeated on opening night, 1-0.

"A good team beat us today," acknowledged Brearley head coach Al Czaya late on Saturday. "Take nothing away from Clark. We just had a poor game. But we'll bounce back."

Letter To The Publisher:
I am writing this letter to say thank you to Lisa Schetlch, a very lovely young lady who works in Advertising for the County Leader Newspapers.

We, the merchants in Springfield, needed to let the residents of Springfield know that we are here and what we have to offer so we asked Lisa for some help. Lisa took it upon herself to go see all the merchants who were interested, gave us a form letter to fill out, explaining our services, etc. Then Lisa and Ralph, (the Advertising Director), came to all the merchants. Ralph took pictures of our store-front signs for the ad. Thank you Ralph, and in my case thank you for your suggestions.

Thanks to Lisa and Ralph we had a nice page in the August 24th issue of the Springfield Leader with a nice write up for several businesses. And it's not going to stop there! Lisa has a lot more ideas for us and she is the kind of person who follows through with her suggestions and her promises.

Again, thank you, Lisa, and everyone involved, for a job well done in our page in the Springfield Leader, August 24th, for the Springfield Merchants!

Free halloween bags available

The Howard Savings Bank is joining the effort to make Halloween safe and fun for youngsters by distributing free trick-or-treat bags through all of its 72 branch locations, including one in Springfield and two in Union. Aside from providing young ghosts and goblins with a place to stash Halloween goodies, the bags warn children and their parents that despite a holiday tradition of fun-making and masquerading, dangers can occur. The Howard Halloween tote reminds young trick-or-treaters to carry a flashlight for use after dark, to visit the homes of friends and to have fun safely.

To locate the office nearest you, the bank offers a toll-free customer service number, 1-800-4-Howard, or 1-800-446-9273.

Harmonia Savings Bank to present capital stock

Harmonia Savings Bank of Kenilworth has received approval from the state Department of Banking to begin Harmonia Bancorp Inc.'s offering of capital stock, a step in the bank's conversion from a mutual to a capital stock savings institution.

After the conversion, Harmonia Savings Bank will be held as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Harmonia Bancorp Inc., a holding company formed by the bank.

Harmonia Bancorp Inc. is offering 4.75 million shares at a maximum price of $11.50 per share.

Stock is being offered through a subscription and community offering to certain eligible customers, through employee stock benefit plans, to persons residing in Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean and Union counties; and to other persons determined to have business or other relationships with the bank.

The subscription and community offering will terminate on Monday,

Oct. 30. It is anticipated that any remaining shares of stock will be sold through an underwritten public offering to be managed by Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. and Alex Brown and Sons Inc.

The holding company will infuse 50 percent of the net proceeds from the stock sale into Harmonia. The additional equity capital will support Harmonia's growth and will increase our ability to provide mortgage loans and other services to the communities we serve," according to Walter D. Tombs, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Harmonia Savings Bank.

Other information, details of the offering and Harmonia's operation are described in a prospectus that is available from the bank upon request by calling Harmonia Stock Sales Center at 241-0449, or by calling from New Jersey, but outside the immediate calling area, 1-800-223-4429, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Hurricane fury, equinox may be interconnected

By JOHN B. WOLF
Professor, Union County College
Guadeloupe, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and other islands in the Caribbean area shattered when Hurricane Hugo hit them before it moved north and damaged Charleston, S.C. Listed by the National Hurricane Center as one of the strongest hurricanes to hit the Atlantic and Gulf coasts this century, Hugo's fury was devastating.

On Sept. 23, the sun crosses the equator. Known as the autumnal equinox, this event heralds the start of fall. Seemingly, the Hurricane Season is synchronized with this movement of the sun. Some mystics claim that they are intertwined. Sometimes scudbugs are pulled into the swirling winds of a hurricane; only to be released after the storm moves 1,000 or more miles north of the equator.

The magnificent frigate bird also is known as the Hurricane Bird. Often, some of them are pulled into the center of fast-moving storms as they soar in the air currents that precede a hurricane. The frigate bird is impressive. Its long, narrow wings are 7 1/2 feet across. Above the mangroves where they nest, great flocks of these aerial gliders are visible in the skies just before a hurricane unleashes its fury on some tropical island.

A brownish-black bird with a long hooked beak and a deeply forked tail, the frigate bird is a predator. It steals food from other seabirds by chasing them and forcing them to drop their food just before it hits the water.

But stealing food from your neighbors is "For the Birds."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) You may find yourself involved in new projects this week. What you have to offer in the way of ideas and implementation will please bigwigs. Since you'll have their ear this week, it's a good time to address other concerns you might be harboring.

Hicks latest album is a "vocal turntable treat"

By MILT HÄMMER
Pick of the LP: Coming across the desk this week is a vocal turntable treat by D'Atra Hicks on her debut LP, "Sing." The record is a well-rounded album of pop and R&B that illuminates the best of all D'Atra's tremendous talents. So give a listen and enjoy. One listen to the first single, "Sweet Talk," the assured vocal workout on "I Green's" Love and Happiness," or the emotion-packed "You Make Me Want to Give It Up," and it's clear that this 21-year-old is a real find. Her five-octave range is used with a style and flair that reveals a rich musical background... and there it is. Produced by Grammy Award-winning Narada Michael Walden, producer of Aretha Franklin, Whitney Houston, and Patti LaBelle, Nick Martinelli (Stephani Mills, Regina Belle), Jellybean Benitez (Madonna, Whitney Houston), and Elliot Wolff (Paula Abdul). "Each producer brought out a different side of me. It was a new experience, and each time I went into the studio I learned something new," remembers Hicks, who also experienced co-writing her first songs, "One Touch." The real showstopper, "Everything I Feel," was the first song
