Town BOE asks support for school budget

By DAVE WISE

The Springfield Board of Education is seeking public support of its newly adopted 1990-91 school budget, which will be on the election ballot on Tuesday, April 24.

Voters will then decide whether or not to endorse the budget, which allocates $7.5 million in current expenses and $456,000 in capital improvements.

Board of Education Finance Chairman Jeff Rauebach emphasized this week that Springfield residents will incur only a moderate tax increase.

"A modest increase of 6.1 percent in the tax rate for the schools and municipal budget is the smallest increase the town has seen over the past five years," said Rauebach. "And comparative figures of tax rate increases for the schools in the area are much higher than that of Springfield."

According to Springfield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Gary Friedman, when Springfield schools are compared with other schools in the area on the Kindergarten through grade 12 level, the projected 1990-91 tax point increase is lower in the Springfield school district.

In Springfield, there is an increase of 11 tax points; as compared to 16 points for Berkeley Heights, 27 points for Scotch Plains, 32 points for Chatham, and 27 points for Livingston.

The $256,000 state aid cut has made a significant impact upon the budget, board officials said, and it has prompted the board to take action to restore the funds. Last month, the board sent a resolution to the state Legislature to "modify the governor's budget proposal for state aid to education."

"The school board has actively sought the assistance of state legislative representatives to support a reinstatement of the school aid," said Board President Ruth Brinen. "As of April 3, a bill has been sponsored to increase funds to the schools."

Assemblyman Neil Cohen, of the 21st legislative district, is currently sponsoring a bill that would restore the loss of state aid to the school district. The bill, which is now being drafted, requests the state to pay for mandated programs such as asbestos removal, storage tank and fire code retrofit plans in school districts affected by a state aid loss.

Brinen also said the school district would be inspired if Springfield residents reject the budget in favor of a tax break.

"We have come such a long way in rebuilding our reputation as an excellent school system," said Brinen, "and at this time to take a step backward for a $30 to $45 tax savings on the average home would be absolutely devastating to the community."

Dr. Friedman said "this year's budget was one of the most difficult to construct because of the loss of state aid, and a small surplus of $146,000, of which $82,000 has been projected in revenue for tuition."

The rising budget expenses were also caused by a "magnitude of fixed cost increases in operation, maintenance and insurance," according to Dr. Friedman. However, he said the board was able to "curtail increases by cutting the dean of students position and $200,000 from the capital outlay budget, and delaying some changes in program."

Friedland said he is optimistic that the school budget will pass despite the tax hike.

"We know that the citizens of Springfield have supported and will continue to support the schools," Dr. Friedman said. "Our schools — and our township have always lived within the budget, and now we are asking the voters to continue to support their schools and the quality education offered to the young people of Springfield."

Mayor to seek re-election

By DAVE WISE

Springfield Mayor Philip Kurnos announced last Friday that he will seek re-election for another three-year term on the Township Committee this year.

Kurnos, who was sworn in as mayor last January, this week listed the achievements made by the Township Committee during his tenure.

"Springfield today is very different from when I was first elected," the mayor said. "This administration has been very successful in turning around the years of decay and neglect which plagued Springfield prior to my election."

Kurnos cited the hiring of additional members to the Springfield Police Department and Fire Department as one accomplishment of his administration. Last January, the township hired five new police officers to beef up the force.

Furthermore, Kurnos said the Fire Department was provided with new equipment and a fire truck to replace some equipment "which looked like it belonged in the Smithsonian Institute."

The township also received a phone system which allows direct dialing to various municipal offices, said Kurnos. According to the mayor, the new phone system is "modern and up-to-date."

Kurnos mentioned that several improvements to the parks and playgrounds of Springfield have been made, and extensive renovation work to the Town Hall will soon start. Recently, a contractor's bid of approximately $680,000 to perform the renovation work was approved by the township committee.

The mayor also expressed satisfaction in adopting a new $12.1 million municipal budget last month, which calls for a zero percent increase in taxes this year.

Kurnos noted that Springfield is expecting another revenue surplus generated this year from alcohol beverage licenses, construction fees and permits, municipal court fines and costs, cable television franchise fees, and other items.

"We've saved a lot of money for the taxpayer," Kurnos remarked. "In three consecutive years, the budget has increased less than 6 percent."

Other areas of improvement have been the increased manpower in the Springfield Department of Public Works and the new garbage contract which costs less than in previous years.

Kurnos also spoke of programs that he has on the drawing board, which "is the reason I'm running again, because the job isn't complete."

"Some of my goals this year were to institute a municipal drug task force, traffic enforcement bureau and the hiring of a municipal recycling coordinator," said Kurnos.

Kurnos has been on a "crusade against drug abuse" ever since his inaugural address last January. According to Kurnos, however, Springfield does not have the funds to hire the two additional police officers needed to conduct the drug task force.

In March of last year, budgetary constraints forced the Police Department to disband its two-man narcotics bureau.

Furthermore, Kurnos said the Local Government Cap, enacted in 1976, doesn't allow a municipality to spend more than 5 percent over the previous year's budget. The mayor is hoping to get that law changed with regard to drug enforcement, in order to establish "a dedicated drug task force" which would include a treatment and rehabilitation program.

The Police Department has only recently intensified its crack down on speeders in Springfield. Reducing the amount of speeding and traffic accidents continues to be a top priority of Kurnos.

In February, four K-55 mobile radar units were put in service to detect speeders along Route 22 and Springfield's thoroughfares.

Finally, the Township Committee recently passed an ordinance which created the position of municipal recycling coordinator. When the coordinator is hired, that individual will be responsible for the publicity, management and clerical duties associated with the recycling program.

According to Kurnos, the coordinator would "help improve Springfield's recycling efforts."

Kurnos concluded his announcement by saying, "I am very pleased that we're well on our way, but there's so much more to do."

Township Committee member Jeffrey Katz, formerly the mayor of Springfield himself, said that Kurnos "has my 100 percent, unequivocal support. I have never seen anyone who has such a deep love affair with Springfield."

MAX SAFRIN AGENCY — The father/son team at Max Safrin Agency, located at 11 Girard Ave., Vauxhall, keeps on top of a changing business — the company has been successful for over 25 years.

Max Safrin Agency is on top

If you feel like you've been taken for a ride by your automobile insurance company, Max Safrin Agency can show you a better way.

Max Safrin Agency, located at 11 Girard Ave. in Vauxhall, Union, is an independent general insurance agent.

The company is a family-owned and -operated business which has been successful in satisfying its customers for over 25 years.

As an independent insurance agent, Max Safrin makes use of a number of reliable insurance companies in order to find an insurance policy that will meet the specific needs of each individual client.

Although it can be difficult for independent insurance agents to find the perfect policy for each client, it is complete customer satisfaction that Max Safrin has been able to pride itself on for decades.

"Our clients aren't just policy numbers," says Harold Safrin, who has been working closely with his father, Max, for the past 12 years. "Unlike most other insurance agents, we build a personal rapport with each of our clients — most of them we know on a first-name basis."

"When one of our customers calls us, we ask them their name, not their policy number."

Twenty-five years ago, Max Safrin started out in the insurance business as a peddler, going from door to door selling policies throughout the neighborhood. Since then, his business has grown steadily with many of his clients using his services from generation to generation.

Once his clientele had grown into a full-blown business, Safrin set up shop in Irvington. Several years later, with the number of satisfied customers growing steadily, he moved his business to a larger office just down the street to its current location.

Since then, Max Safrin Agency has continued to pick up local business, in addition to retaining veteran clients. But although his location and clientele have changed, his customer service and business ethic have remained the same.

"The insurance business can sometimes get chaotic," says Harold Safrin, formerly a vice president of another major insurance agency, "especially now, with all of these insurance reforms going on."

"But keeping on top of a changing industry is our specialty. We constantly review our clients' policies to make sure that they are up to date and in conformance with state laws."

To many of its customers, Max Safrin Agency is a symbol of stability in an atmosphere of change. As part of their policy, the father/son business likes to treat its clients like friends.

"To personalize our services to the maximum, we have to build a personal rapport with our customers themselves," Safrin says. "Finding an insurance policy that is right for our clients is something we take seriously."

Springfield's first woman Rotarian lauded by peers

By DAVE WISE

The Springfield Rotary Club recently inducted its first woman member into the chapter, three years after the Supreme Court ruled that Rotary International could not exclude female members from its ranks.

The local Rotary Club's newest member is Marilyn Hullfish, manager of a Morris Avenue bank. Through her various business contacts, Hullfish became interested in the Rotary Club. And after attending several of the Rotary meetings, she was accepted into the chapter.

Since the landmark Supreme Court decision, Rotary International has declared that its membership is no longer open only to men. Many chapters, like those in Union and Kenton, have already extended membership to women.

Although Rotary International, founded in 1905 by Paul Harris, has barred women for a long time, attitudes about admitting women have changed.

"All the fears went down the drain," said Rev. Robert Johnson, a member of the Springfield Rotary, as he spoke of the gender barrier being broken at Rotary International. "Women are treated just like the men."

The induction of women into Rotary International "is nowadays commonplace," according to Rev. Johnson.

"It's the law of the land," Johnson said of the Supreme Court ruling. "The law of the Rotary. Other clubs in the area now have women."

Allowing women into the business-oriented Rotary Club may have paved the way for its expansion.

"The pool of young men who can make the meetings is limited," remarked Rev. Johnson. He said now that the female exclusion rule has been lifted, more people may join the Rotary.

Hullfish was inducted into the Springfield Rotary in mid-March and "she is a wonderful addition to the club," said Rev. Johnson. The local Rotary has been having 98 percent attendance, he added, since she became a member.

Hullfish is now involved in the Rotary chapter's charity and civic efforts, which include raising scholarship funds and promoting environmental causes.

The Rotary Club has been the largest contributor of scholarship money to needy graduating seniors at Dayton Regional High School in Springfield for the past 40 years. On April 29, the chapter is sponsoring the 10th annual Rotary Flea Market at Dayton in an effort to generate more funds for college-bound seniors.

There also will be a huge benefit event with a drawing of up to $5,000 awarded to several ticket holders. Rev. Johnson said Hullfish is "working with our flea market and scholarship," and he expects Hullfish to spend "two or three years of learning all the basic rules of the Rotary. She might even end up a Rotary chairman if she learns the ropes."

As a chapter member, Hullfish will also participate in the Earth Day clean-up effort on April 22, which is now being organized.

Hullfish does not place any significance on her admittance into the Rotary Club.

"I just happen to be the first woman," Hullfish Johnson said. "I think they'll be other women."

IT'S THE EASTER BUNNY! — Little Zachary Marshall of Springfield, 15 months old, enjoys a special visit with the Easter Bunny, who came to the Springfield Center last Friday. The bunny entertained adults and children alike, and free holiday treats were provided.

at the library

On Monday, April 23, at 7 p.m., the Springfield Public Library will present Frances Elmwood, a certified handwriting analyst.

Elmwood, who holds a master's degree in guidance and a bachelor's degree in education, as well as certification by the International Graphology Society, will explain the process, basis and benefits of handwriting analysis.

According to Elmwood, since handwriting is a function of the brain, it is possible to determine over 100 traits about an individual from his or her writing.

Handwriting analysis is a scientific tool which is now accepted by the courts and used widely in crime detection and vocational guidance.

During the course of the evening, Elmwood will do a brief handwriting analysis based on samples from participants.

To register for this program, one can visit the library at 66 Mountain Avenue or phone 376-4930.

The Springfield Public Library's Children's Department has announced that several story and craft programs are being planned for this spring.

A spring vacation day special, titled "M-m-m-m, good food" will be held on Wednesday, April 18, from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. for children ages five through nine.

The program will focus on stories about food and will be followed by a craft project using food as the medium for creation.

A Saturday story time is planned for May 5, from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. It is entitled "The sun and the moon and the stars in the sky," and is designed for children ages four and up.

The next story/craft program will be held on Wednesday, May 23, from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. "Folk tales, fairy tales and just plain tales" will be the theme for this program for children ages five to nine.

Advance registration is required for all special programs. One can stop by the library or call the Children's Department at 376-4930.

The library has announced that Springfield residents can help the library observe National Library Week, April 22-28, by voting for their favorite books. Displays of the top vote-getters will be made in both the children's and adult departments during the week.

Special ballots for listing favorite titles will be available in the library for the next two weeks, until April 19," said Nancy Byonik, Springfield Library director. "We hope all our patrons will take part in the contest, and we're looking forward to seeing the results."

National Library Week was established in 1958 to promote the use and support of all types of libraries and to let the public know of the many services at their local library.

ART LESSON — Third- and fourth-grade students from James Caldwell School and Thelma L. Sandmeyer School in Springfield view a piece of 19th century artwork during a recent trip to the Newark Museum. ### School elections on the way

The school election being conducted by Union County Regional High School District 1 on Tuesday, April 24, is just one of 550 school district elections being held on that day.

These elections will decide the fate of school budgets for the 1990-91 school year and, in many districts, there will be contests for seats on the local Board of Education.

These include Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark and Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

This figure represents a zero-percent increase over the current regional district school budget. All six regional district communities share in the total budget appropriations.

The regional school budget vote is different than the elections being held by the elementary school districts, which cover kindergarten through Grade 8, of the six constituent communities which are served by the regional high schools.

Therefore, regional district residents vote in the two school elections — regional and local.

Voters in Kenilworth, Berkeley Heights, and Clark will also be asked to choose one person to fill a three-year term on the regional board of education. The incumbent from Kenilworth, Frederick J. Soos, is running unopposed.

The Union County Regional Board of Education consists of nine members, elected for three-year terms. Springfield, Berkeley Heights, and Clark are each represented by two board members, while Kenilworth, Mountainside, and Garwood send one representative each to the board. The polls will be open from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. on April 24, for the annual school election. A list of polling places in each regional district municipality, follows:

Springfield: Districts 1-6: James Caldwell School, Caldwell Place; Districts 7-10: Florence M. Gaudinor School, South Springfield Avenue, and Districts 11-14: Thelma L. Sandmeyer School, South Springfield Avenue.

Mountainside: All districts go to Deerfield School, located on School Drive at Central Avenue.

Kenilworth: All districts go to Harding School, located on the Boulevard.

For more information, one can call 376-6300, extension 328.

Hospital volunteers are cited

Volunteers honored during the tribute included:

Mountainside residents who were recognized included Betty Anson, Jean Callagher, Susan Haase, Albertine Knight, Peggy Lott, Betty Ann Naulty, Sue Scott and Betty Wintermute.

Springfield residents Isabelle Bosman, Barbara Pullis and Annalisa Torry were also honored, as well as Viola Coppola of Kenilworth.

"Our volunteers are an important part of the care we provide to our young patients," commented Richard B. Anfield, president of the pediatric rehabilitation hospital. "We are very proud and appreciative of the volunteers' on-going dedication and service."

Over 60 area residents were honored for volunteering over 500 hours each at Children's Specialized Hospital.

"Our volunteers are men and women of all ages who devote part of their busy weeks to our patients," explained Shirley Biegler, community resource coordinator for the hospital. "They perform services in all areas of the hospital and outpatient center, and their efforts are felt daily by the patients and the staff. We truly thank them for their tireless devotion."

Children's Specialized Hospital is a comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital with 60 acute rehab beds and 25 long term care beds. In addition, the hospital provides extensive outpatient and community services at its outpatient center in nearby Fairwood, and has received state approval to develop a 30-bed inpatient facility in Ocean County.

Jeff, who is manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Susan, a former Miss New Jersey, assisted by making public-service announcements during the radiothon.

"Operation Heartbeat" has been held by the radio station for the past eight years for the benefit of the American Heart Association of Union County. "Operation Heartbeat" raises funds through phone-in pledges from the station's audience.

To encourage listeners to donate, WERA offered a variety of gifts to be given away to donors based on the amount of money they pledged. Prizes were donated by local businesses.

Additional donations to "Operation Heartbeat" are always welcome. To make a donation, one can contact the American Heart Association located at 1 Bleeker Street, Millburn, 07041 or call 376-3636.

INFLAMED ARCHES

By Dr. Michael Eglow

Do you know what the strongest ligament in the human body is? Well, it happens to be the plantar fascia, a ligament that starts on the bottom surface of the heel bone and extends forward to the bottom of the foot to just behind the toes. It acts to maintain the integrity of the foot structure, as well as protecting the softer muscles and tissues on the bottom of the foot from injury.

If this powerful ligament becomes stretched or strained—or in some cases actually torn—this is called PLANTAR FASCITIS. The arch area becomes tender and swollen, and will likely cause some pain from the heel through the arch.

This is an injury common to athletes—though by no means exclusive to them—and the key to treatment of plantar fasciitis is to reduce movement of the foot in such a way as to allow functioning while ensuring that it fully heals. In most cases, your podiatrist can keep you on your feet-and-running-while treating this condition.

For injuries which are job-related, Worker's Compensation will compensate the patient. This includes chiropractic treatment as well as other types of health care. In fact, because of the savings in both time lost and costs, insurance companies are very favorably disposed to chiropractic treatment of injuries.

What kind of savings? Well, for every day a worker is off the job because of a job-related injury, it costs Worker's Comp, the company, and the individual money. Anything which can reduce the amount of time lost is a money-saver; and,

Hospital seeking memorabilia

Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountaintide will be celebrating 100 years of caring for children and adolescents in 1991.

To celebrate the centennial, a committee has been formed to plan special events and activities to be held throughout 1991. Headed by hospital trustee Kay Reeves of Summit, the committee is comprised of area business leaders, volunteers and staff.

Currently, information is being sought for centennial materials. The hospital would appreciate hearing from anyone who may have photographs, letters, or other items concerning the history of the facility.

The facility was founded as the Children's Country Home in 1891 in Mountaintide. Throughout its history, treatment and care has been provided by skilled medical professionals.

"The centennial provides Children's Specialized with a wonderful opportunity to take a look at our past and a peek into the future," Reeves commented. "The hospital has been a part of the community for 100 years.

If area residents have any materials they would like to share, they can call the hospital's foundation office at 233-3720 ext. 310.

Children's Specialized is a comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital with 60 acute beds and 25 long term care beds. In addition, extensive outpatient and community services are provided at the hospital's outpatient center in Fairwood.

Businessman to be cited

On April 26, Our House, Inc. of Berkeley Heights will honor Henry Freudenberger, president of Springfield Tool and Die, as Employer of the Year for his hiring of developmentally-disabled employees at his company.

Our House will be celebrating its 10th year of service to people with developmental disabilities. The evening's festivities, commencing at 7:00 p.m., will honor the founder, past presidents, residents, employees, employers and volunteers of Our House, Inc.

Henry Freudenberger, a Berkeley Heights resident, will be honored as Employer of the Year. The family-run business, which manufactures pot products, has been employing people with developmental disabilities for one year.

Eight mentally retarded adults have been working at Springfield Tool and Die as either permanent employees or members of a job sampling crew.

Freudenberger and the non-disabled employees have made the employees from the OHI Employment Services Program feel at home. The workers do packing, assembly work, and operate machinery.

"When they started, I wasn't sure how much they would be able to do, but I have been pleasantly surprised. They have far exceeded my expectations. They are dependable and hard-working," said Freudenberger.

"I hope to add additional disabled employees to my payroll."

Johanna Solmssen, an OHI client added, "I like machine work, I not only like it, I love it."

OHI's Employment Services Program offers on-going training and support to employees in group and individual job placements. Those in group settings such as Springfield Tool and Die are trained by an employment specialist, and enjoy the benefits of insurance coverage, transportation, and long-term follow-up services.

All of this is offered at no extra cost to the employer.

For further information about the Our House, Inc. Employment Services Program, one can contact Ellen Ball Nalven at 464-8008.

Pap smears will be available

The Kenilworth Board of Health, in cooperation with Union Hospital, will be providing free Pap smears for female residents over 16 years of age who are living in Kenilworth, announced Dr. Edmund A. Jankins, M.D., board president.

The dates for the screening program are Tuesday, April 17, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Thursday, April 19, from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. Participants must call for an appointment between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, at 851-7014.

"The Pap smear is a simple, painless test for uterine cancer," explained Dr. Jankins. In the test, cells that the body sheds from the uterus are collected on a cotton swab and examined under a microscope.

If any abnormal or suspicious cells are found, further tests are conducted.

"Early detection in uterine cancer is very important," according to Dr. Jankins. "If left untreated, the abnormal cells may multiply and spread to other parts of the body, eventually causing death."

Breast examinations will also be performed in conjunction with the Pap smears. Cancer of the breast, if found early and treated properly, is curable in most cases.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, DR. SEUSS — These children enjoy a 'Happy Birthday Dr. Seuss' party which was held recently at the Springfield Public Library, honoring the children's book author who created such memorable characters as 'The Cat in the Hat' and 'The Grinch.' The youngsters were treated to a Dr. Seuss book and video, followed by refreshments.

The yearly assembly brings together the DAR, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Westfield Historical Society, the Genesee Historical Society of the West, and the Miller-Cory Museum Volunteers. The meeting will be open and free to the public.

YWCA to offer spring courses

The Summit YWCA, located on 79 Maple Street in Summit, has announced that its spring term of classes and programs will begin on Monday, April 16. These activities will cover a wide range of topics and interests, according to the YWCA.

People who would like to "get in shape" for the summer or want to learn a skill, take a trip or learn "tricks" to help one look better will have an opportunity to pursue their interests at the YWCA's spring programs.

The Adult Fitness classes will feature a wide range of aerobics classes, a completely equipped weight room, which is open all day from early morning to night, dancing and swimming.

New this term are two Fitness Combo packages: one can sign up for swimming, pilates and the Aerobics Extravaganza, and receive unlimited change visits and the aerobics classes for 10 weeks for one low fee; or combine weight training in the weight room and the aerobics classes for a complete exercise workout with unlimited visits for the term, without a one price.

On-the-pool exercise classes will include Aquatics, an ideal class for people with back problems; Aquanatal for the pregnant woman; Water Walking, using water resistance to improve muscle tone, and Arthritis Therapy for those who need a therapeutic program.

Also featured this term will be the YW's regular classes in Pre-Natal and Post-Partum Fitness, Yoga and Backcare, Jazz Dancing and Tapercobics, and for older adults, Silvercetics and Weight Training for Women 50 plus.

The younger set can take a cooking course, learn proper behavior, learn tumbling and apparatus in the YW's complete Gymnastics Center at Wilson Center, take a ballet or jazz dance class, learn to dive, improve their swimming strokes in the Stokes Clinic or Competitive Clinic, learn basic water safety or advanced lifesaving and learn karate.

"Kids in the Kitchen" is a cooking and nutrition series for children ages 7-10, where they'll learn about good food and healthy eating. "The Proper Place" will teach behavioral skills for social situations. The YW's ballet class follows the strict standards of the Royal Academy of Dancing in London, where the instructor was trained; the Jazz Dance program features the basics for beginners and the Lynn Simonson technique for the more advanced.

In the pool, the older children and teens can improve their strokes and learn flip turns, starts and racing techniques in the "Camp Clinic." Water Safety teaches prevention of aquatic accidents and encourages safe water recreation, while Advanced Lifesaving, for teens 15 and older, is the American Red Cross-certified "lifesaving" course.

Young children can take the Y's Tots and Live Y's — a craft, gym and movement series; Kindergarten and Swim-Pre-School-Dance, including tap, ballet and creative movement; and Kindergarten and Dance Combo for the more advanced. In the pool, the little ones can learn to adjust to the water in Tiny Tots and Water Tots, before they move on to Flippers and Kenderwin and the Graded Swim Classes.

In the non-physical area, adults can learn French in Conversational

French with Mme. Forbringer, a native of France; English As A Second Language in day and evening classes; Needlework, Cooking With Taste and Thrift, and sewing in "A Stitch in Time."

For those who wish to look their best, Judith Kane of East Coast Images is offering "What Looks Good on You?", "Start-Tying, and Color Analysis For Women."

Trips are planned to the theatre, Baltimore and Kutztown, Pa. One can also take a trip "down memory lane" with the YW through a trip to the Keen-Brown Centre Stage for its production of "Williams and Walker," a look at Black vaudeville in the early days of theatre.

Baltimore's Inner Harbor and the Kutztown Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival are the other offerings this spring.

For the career woman — or those who wish to be — the YWCA's TWIN program is offering four workshops this term: Developing Volunteer Leadership is set for April 17, Managerial Techniques for Office Professionals is an all-day seminar on April 27, Alternatives for Teachers will take place May 3, and the Myers-Briggs seminar is planned for May 5.

Scholarships for all classes are available; requests are confidential and can be handled by any program director.

Registration is being held now at the YWCA. One may register by phone with a Visa or Mastercard during the morning hours only from 9 a.m.-noon or in person at the front desk between the hours of 8:30 a.m.-8:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. For additional information, one can call the YW at 273-4242.

Chaplain sets special events for Holy Week

By BEA SMITH

While many people will be observing Holy Week and Easter in their churches and with their families at home, the residents in the Manor Care Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Mountaintop will be involved in similar activities. In fact, their Easter observances will be especially appealing to them because the center's new chaplain, the Rev. Terry Ruth Culbertson, has all sorts of events planned.

Culbertson, who has been with the center for the past year, says, "This is going to be my first Easter service here in Mountaintop, and I'm hoping it's going to be one that the residents participate in, enjoy and remember for a long time. You see," she explains in a kind but firm voice, "one of the problems that people have when they're in an institution is just not being at home. And when they pray in a chapel in an institution, it seems strange to them. They come to a room that doesn't have stained glass or any of the little things that make up a church."

"That's why," she sighs, "I'm going to have a whole group of lilies on the altar. And we'll have an outside service, vesting, a 'perilling,' Culbertson laughs. "I'm inviting the whole community to come to the 11 a.m. service. We need volunteer singers and musicians. And we have some residents participating as a choir. We could have such a good service!"

The minister says that many of the residents enjoy being a part of the planning and the actual service. "I'm having the residents make banners out of felt to decorate the chapel and make it really look festive — to make it more of a sacred space."

Culbertson is seriously concerned about how the residents feel about

SPECIAL SERVICES — The Rev. Terry Ruth Culbertson, chaplain at the Manor Care Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, Mountaintop, conducts Holy Week services for the residents in holiday-decorated chapel. Family members also attend services.

"We have some wonderful volunteers. And we have a great Rosary group. People come on weekends to do volunteer work."

Manor Care, says the chaplain, "is a really new home. It's not even 2 years old. We have three different types of units. We have a nursing home unit, a rehabilitation unit for people 18 to 65 who have spinal cord injuries, head trauma, people with chronic disabilities, and a residential unit for older people, which is an independent kind of situation. It's called assisted personal care unit, and it's for people who can take care of themselves for the most part. We have very mixed groups," she says. "There are 150 beds, and we have about 100 people here. It's still filling up."

Born in Baltimore, Md., Culbertson at first decided she wanted to be an illustrator. She was graduated from Towson State College in Baltimore, where she received an art degree.

"For example," she says, "we had a St. Patrick's night, and families came out and had a wonderful time. We like to do that for everyone in what we do."

On April 9, the chaplain conducted a Monday 9 a.m. and a Passover lunch at the center. "One of the residents, who is Jewish, helped me to coordinate the lunch," Culbertson says. "Twenty percent of the residents are Jewish. And we have two volunteers who come faithfully every week for a Sabbath service. They're from Temple Emanuel in Westfield. They are George Lieberberg and Fred Penzner. They did a Model Seder and Passover lunch. They're very good men," beams Culbertson.

"I had been in the ministry since 1976, when I was ordained by the Church of God, which is considered a movement of the Church of God Restorative Movement. The church, which is definitely Protestant, was created in the 1890s."

"I have specialized training in the chaplaincy," she says. "I had two years of what is called clinical training, and I learned how to work with institutions. I am a fellow in the Col-

'Fanny' is a joy

By BEA SMITH

Leave it to the Paper Mill Playhouse and Angelo Del Rossi, its executive producer, to elaborate on an elaborate musical play, "Fanny," revived for the first time in many years on the stage. The enchanting production is Millburn has so much going for it that it's no wonder it packs the theater at every performance.

The S.N. Behrman-Joshua Logan musical play, based on a trilogy by Marcel Pagnol, with music and lyrics by Harold Rome, offers such top volume and award-winning actors as Jose Ferrer and George S. Irving. It also overflows with an unusual array of scenery with three-dimensional depth and authenticity, a la Michael Annala, and a spectacular circus that engulfs the entire audience.

Over about three hours, the show's musical numbers, among them, the memorable title song, "Fanny," "Restless Heart," "Never Too Late for Love," "Welcome Home" and "Love Is a Very Light Thing."

The story, a universal one, is set on the Mediterranean coast of France, and concerns the simple people who live and work there, selling fish in a fish market, selling spirits in a waterfront cafe to the townspeople and the seaman who stop at the port. It tells of a young woman, Fanny, who is in love with Marius, the son of Cesar, a cafe owner. Marius is shyly in love with Fanny, but his love for the sea is greater, and so he, unknowingly, leaves her with child and sails out to sea.

Fanny's hair-tearing mother is ultimately subdued when Fanny agrees to marry an elderly widower, who also is a wealthy shipping magnate. He is ecstatic about caring for his young wife and bringing up her son, Cesar, as his own. Marius' father, who is in constant disagreement with Panisse, calls a temporary halt to their strife when he is asked to be the baby's godfather.

Ferrer, who plays Cesar, has a stage presence that makes the Paper Mill a very special place to be. He underplays his role but shows a versatility long displayed in his many plays and films. Ferrer, surprisingly, has a very good singing voice and can turn a hair-raising scene into a "Welcome Home" or "Like You" with Panisse.

Irving, who is the stronger of the two characters, does a marvelous job of playing his character's strange dances through his numbers, and he captures the audience's complete attention with his warm personality.

IN ELABORATE MUSICAL — Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, has revived enchanting musical, 'Fanny,' Stars include, from left, George S. Irving as Panisse, John Loona as Marius, Teri Bibb in the title role of Fanny, and Jose Ferrer as Cesar. The musical play will continue its run through Sunday, May 6.

theater review

and his thoughtfulness, kindness and ever-growing love for Fanny and son Cesar.

Teri Bibb, a very fine and talented young actress, who plays the title role, has a splendid singing voice, and is completely believable as the forlorn, low-sick girl who against her feelings follows the advice of her anxious mother, and ends up living a comfortable, but somehow, disquieted life of wealth.

Marius, the young man who loves and leaves Fanny for the son and returns to find his first love unavailable to him, is charmingly played by John Loona. Loona gives the role of Marius a sensitive portrayal, and as a result, one feels more sympathy than contempt.

Karen Shallo is excellent as Honorio, the fish-selling mother of Fanny, who provides most of the show's comedy, particularly when she sings "Oysters, Cockles & Mussels."

The others, young Jonathan Gold as Cesar, Mitchell Greenberg as M. Brun, Paul Kandol as The Admiral, and K.C. Wilson as Escarrique, offer strong supporting roles.

This is Robert Johnson's 22nd play at the Paper Mill Playhouse, and he, once more, has outdone himself as a director. If it isn't enough to offer such a fine, fun-loving, truly entertaining musical, with Jim Coleman as musical director and Sharon Halley as choreographer, Johnson has added a spectacular circus attraction as one of the birthday scenes. It is reminiscent of "Barnum," with colorfully funny clowns, trapeze artists climbing ropes right in the auditorium of the theater, swinging on swings high above the stage, and exciting singing and dancing away to the awe and delight of the audience.

It cuts into the tragedy that is part of "Fanny," and one doesn't walk away from the production with the address that is inherent in the final scene. That is the magic of the Paper Mill's version of the more than 30-year-old musical.

It has been revived with a verve, and it will remain with audiences as a truly fine offering...one of the best I have seen. "Fanny." It's a winner!

Save the Earth

"All things are interconnected. Whatever befalls the Earth befalls the people of Earth. Man didn't weave the web of life; he is merely a strand in it. Whatever he does to the web, he does to himself." — Chief Seattle.

Hope for future life on Earth depends on our taking decisive action now to manage environmental resources. With Earth Day 1990 only 10 days away, more and more groups are forming to spread the word about ways to save our planet, not only on April 22, but for the future.

The composition of the groups is no longer limited to professional environmentalists and scientists who have studied the Earth. There are groups made up of people who are simply concerned about the changes that have occurred to our planet — changes that are reducing our tropical rain forests, depleting our ozone and forcing us to recycle. They are taking their awareness campaigns to schools, colleges, churches and businesses in an effort to enlighten others about what we can do to save our planet.

This year is the 20th anniversary of Earth Day, and its importance has never been so evident.

In 1970, when former U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin spearheaded a campaign that created the movement, it became a way for people to send a message to their politicians that it was time to clean up the environment.

It may have taken 20 years, but now politicians are listening to the people and recognizing that our home — Earth — is in need of spring cleaning.

Global warming is creating a greenhouse effect on the planet. Scientists have determined that unprecedented amounts of greenhouse gases, such as carbon dioxide, methane, chlorofluorocarbons and nitrous oxide, have been released into the atmosphere and have increased the global temperature by 1 degree Fahrenheit. By the middle of the next century, they predict a further increase of between 4 degrees and 9 degrees Fahrenheit.

When President Bush signed a resolution last year proclaiming April 22 as Earth Day 1990, he also declared the 1990s as the "decade of the environment."

On the state level, former governor Tom Kean in 1987 mandated that every municipality devise a recycling program.

Three years later, recycling, which was once met with much opposition, is now being accepted as a way of life. Some municipalities in the state have even devised innovative programs in order to make the routine of separating recyclables and waste disposal creative.

In municipalities themselves, the Global Cities Project, which was formed in response to the growing trend of municipal activism, has recruited cities and counties that want to develop local solutions to global environmental problems.

Close to home, Kean College, Union County College and listener-sponsored radio station WBAI are planning many programs next week in Union and in Cranford to heighten environmental consciousness.

These proclamations, mandates and projects were not created so that we can recognize their intentions for one day, and then go back to being careless about our environment. We need to incorporate into our daily routine the best information that is being disseminated about our planet and how to save it.

Take part in this year's Earth Day activities in and around Springfield. Make recycling a part of your daily routine, and don't stop once Earth Day has passed. The Earth and its future must be in our minds, if life on it is to survive and prosper.

Vote down budget, close two schools

So Superintendent Donald Merachuk doesn't know any other way of running Union County Regional High School District 1, which includes Springfield, with $873,012 less in state aid than to raise our taxes!

Is this solution worth our paying him more than $100,000 in salary? Well, I will tell him and the entire regional school board how to solve their dilemma: Close two schools!

The four regional schools once held 5,500 students. Today, there are only 2,200 students. Isn't the answer obvious, taxpayers?

If Merachuk were running a private company, he would have been in Chapter 11 years ago.

It is waste like this that gives us no choice but to vote "no" on the school budget.

And where is the state? They went after Jersey City for its no-show jobs, etc. What about us, with two no-show schools?

I understand that three principals are retiring this year. What better time to close two schools?

Citizens of the regional school district, get smart. Vote "no" on the school budget!

Approval of school budget needed

Our schools serve the entire community, because the reputation of the schools is still the most important factor in supporting property values that draw home buyers and new business to the town.

Furthermore, more than $169,000 comes into the district, because our reputation is attracting tuition-paying students from Summit, Chatham, Millburn, Livingston and Warren.

In order to maintain this attraction, we need to support the programs that create the reputation. That support must come in the form of a "yes" vote for the budget.

Our board has acted responsibly by preparing a budget which is only 8.2 percent over the revised budget for this year.

You'll remember the state reports that showed that our Board of Education spends less than many other communities in the area, including Winfield Park. While our board may spend less than some, our schools are still prestigious, as shown by their appeal to out-of-town students and the laudable state monitoring report this fall.

Living in the James Caldwell School district, of course we're interested in seeing that the much-needed repairs to the Caldwell gym are made. The proposed budget shows that those repairs, state-required asbestos removal, plus compliance with recent fire code and Department of Environmental Protection regulations, will account for more than $100,000 of this conservative change.

As a parent, I want the best schools for my children. As a homeowner, I want schools that boost my property value. As a taxpayer, I want a school reputation that attracts out-of-town students whose tuition offsets my tax burden.

As citizens with a vested interest in Springfield, I ask you to join me in voting "yes" for the Board of Education budget, so that all these things keep happening.

Alcoholism is biggest drug problem

A great deal has been said lately about America's "war on drugs." But the discussion seldom includes our number-one drug problem which, as hard as it may be for many of us to admit, is alcohol.

While no one can deny the catastrophic consequences of illegal drug use, we should not turn our eyes away from the toll exacted by a substance that is both legal and heavily abused.

And what better time than April, Alcohol Awareness Month, to examine the impact alcohol consumption has on this country.

The Seventh Special Report to the U.S. Congress on Alcohol and Health, released in February, contained this startling information:

• Although U.S. per-capita consumption of alcohol is at its lowest level since 1970, alcohol is used by more Americans than any other drug, including tobacco. Even with the decline, this represents 29.8 gallons — approximately 318 12-ounce cans — of beer; 3.0 gallons — 77 five-ounce glasses — of wine; and 2.1 gallons — 179 1.5-ounce drinks — of spirits for each person age 14 and over!

• An estimated 10.5 million U.S. adults exhibit some symptoms of alcoholism. An additional 7.2 million abuse alcohol, but do not show symptoms of dependence.

• Despite a downward trend during the past decade in alcohol use by high school seniors — for whom alcohol, like marijuana and cocaine, is an illegal drug — they still use alcohol at disturbingly high rates. In 1988, 92 percent had tried alcohol, nearly two-thirds were current drinkers, and more than one-third were occasional heavy drinkers.

• Nearly half of all deaths from motor vehicle crashes are related to alcohol. It has been estimated that the risk of a fatal crash per mile driven is at least eight times higher for a drunk driver than for a sober one.

• It is estimated that 25 percent of all hospitalized persons have alcohol-related problems.

• The economic cost of alcohol abuse and dependence was estimated to be $116.9 billion in 1983, and the cost is estimated at $136.3 billion in 1990.

• Untreated alcoholics and their families have higher general health care costs than non-alcoholics and their families. These costs tend to decrease following alcoholism treatment.

• Total exposure to alcohol is one of the leading known causes of mental retardation in the Western world. Treatment costs associated with such exposure total nearly one-third of a billion dollars annually.

• The damaging effects of offspring of maternal drinking during pregnancy are long-lasting. Although a follow-up study of fetal alcohol syndrome cases showed some improvement, learning deficiencies persisted.

The next time your readers drink to somebody's health, I hope that they will remember a few of these facts.

Only when Americans begin to re-evaluate their attitudes about alcohol and put this legal drug into proper perspective can we expect to make any progress in treating the epidemic of addiction now destroying the very fabric of our society.

Enforce law and save on car insurance

A lot is being said about the auto insurance problems in New Jersey, but nothing is being said about an area that can have a significant impact in reducing premiums. That area is law enforcement.

We all know that the major reason for the increased cost of insurance is the amount of money that is paid out in claims. The major reason we have claims is accidents.

Experts agree that in nearly all accidents, at least one driver had been violating a traffic law.

It seems obvious to me that to decrease accidents and decrease insurance costs we could enforce the traffic laws. Yet no one seems to talk about law enforcement as contributing to the solution.

In my line of work, I travel New Jersey's roads every day and at different times of the day. I can cite many examples, but I'll just use the Garden State Parkway, as it is typical and representative of the situation.

At least half the people on the Parkway go 10 mph to 15 mph over the speed limit, which is 55 mph.

The speed is not the problem, though. The problem is that the other half of the people are still doing between 55 mph and 60 mph. Now you have the situation where the people doing 70 have to weave between the people doing 55 in order to maintain their speed, and this creates very unsafe conditions.

The solution goes even worse in the posted 45 mph zones in Essex and Union counties and on the Raritan River Bridge. The people doing 70 continue to do 70 mph, while law-abiding citizens drop down to 45 mph or 50 mph. I'm sure this speed differential has contributed to the majority of accidents on the Parkway, especially the multi-car accidents that occur in good weather. Those accidents increase my insurance rates and yours.

The state and local police departments can quote figures on how many speeding tickets they issue. The fact is that the number of tickets issued means nothing if more than 50 percent of the people still speed.

I've talked to people who speed. Their feeling is that the odds of getting a ticket are so slim that speeding is worth the risk. The ironic thing is that many speeders are not in but rather cause many accidents.

I feel that enforcement of traffic laws by local and state police by considered a major part of the effort to reduce accidents and insurance rates in New Jersey. We need to give out enough tickets to encourage at least 70 percent to 80 percent of the people to drive within the law at all times of the day, including rush hours.

Treat Parkinson's victims naturally

The month of April has been designated as "Parkinson Awareness Month," a month in which we should give special thought to victims of Parkinson's and any other debilitating disease.

As a caretaker of a victim of Parkinson's, I know the tension and anxiety associated with this condition, the embarrassment and particularly to the victim, and how he or she is perceived.

Friends and relatives who have been constant associates of a victim of Parkinson's or any other debilitating disease tend to avoid contact with the victim, because of their uneasiness in facing and conversing with a disabled person who they know to be healthy and independent before the illness struck.

The manner in which a disabled person desires to be treated is naturally: Give your whole attention, make eye contact and the patient when speaking to a disabled person. Offer to help a person with a disability if you want to do so, but wait until your offer is accepted.

When speaking to a person in a wheelchair, get down to the level of the wheelchair user's eye and speak directly to the victim, not to their companion. This will spare both of you a great deal.

Above all, be relaxed and patient in the presence of a disabled or handicapped person.

Chain president visiting fellow

Meroy Syms, president of Syms Corporation, a 22-store clothing retail chain, will be the New Jersey Visiting Fellow at Kean College of New Jersey in Union next week.

The visiting fellows program is administered by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation of Princeton and is funded by the state Department of Higher Education to demonstrate the value of the humanities and liberal arts as preparation for careers.

Syms said some of the issues she would like to address for Kean students include how to succeed in a family business, what consumerism means to them, the history of her company, and how to keep up with the competition.

Syms joined the Syms Corporation in 1978. In early 1979, she joined her father, Syms, as the second spokesperson for Syms on TV and radio. She became president of the firm in 1984.

James Jandrovitz, assistant to the dean of the Kean College School of Liberal Arts, is coordinating the visit.

Jail space is leased to feds

By SHARON CATES — Since the new Ralph Orscollo Correctional Facility opened in October, Union County had been faced with the dilemma of operating two jails.

Now, due to a county Board of Freeholders resolution authorizing the county to lease space to the U.S. Marshall's Office, that dilemma has been resolved.

In what the resolution's sponsor, Freeholder Neil Cohen, called "a win-win situation for the county and the federal government," the freeholders voted unanimously last Thursday to approve the leasing arrangement.

Cohen explained that the county would house a maximum of 180 federal prisoners in the old county jail, and the U.S. Marshall Office would compensate the county with an estimated annual payment of $5 million.

"The agreement is a substantial monetary benefit," Cohen said. "The federal government will provide us with a certain amount of money for each federal prisoner incarcerated in the old jail. First, we are eligible to receive federal grant monies to renovate the old jail."

"It is believed that this is the first county-federal partnership initiated by a county in the state," Cohen added.

"There will be no cost to the county, as it will save hundreds of thousands of dollars that will be used to offset the costs of extra employees and overtime in our present correctional system," the freeholder explained.

Cohen explained that the federal government will also save money under the agreement.

"It will be more convenient and cost-effective for federal authorities to house prisoners locally while they are awaiting action in federal court in Newark," Cohen said. "Federal tax dollars will be saved when the costs associated with transporting inmates are diminished."

In addition to the maximum of 180 federal prisoners that would be housed in the old jail, the county will be allowed, under the agreement, to put approximately 200 municipal and county inmates there. The additional cell space that the county will still be able to use in the old jail is expected to alleviate the jail overcrowding problem that is facing Union County and most of the 21 municipalities in the county.

"We have a phase-in plan to hire the staff, starting this month," Salem explained. "Then we will begin to phase in female federal prisoners in May and male federal prisoners in June."

Bears rally, win opener

By MARK YABLONSKY Experienced or not, young or old, solid or developing, Ralph Laconte's Brearley Regional baseball team always is ready to play. And play the Bears did in overcoming an early 7-0 deficit on opening day last Thursday to defeat St. Mary's, 8-7, in eight innings. It was the first game at newly-renovated Ward Field since May 14, 1988, when the Bears defeated Scotch Plains 9-3, in Union County Tournament play. Oddly enough, however, Laconte felt his team gave a better accounting of itself in a 4-3 loss at Bound Brook on Friday. "We didn't play well in victory, but we played well in defeat," said the Brearley coach, who was pleased nonetheless with the comeback against St. Mary's. "Sometimes you don't win games, you lose them, and that's the difference. I think St. Mary's lost the game on Thursday. I think we lost the game on Friday. "They showed me a lot coming back on Thursday," LaConte added, also saying his team is going through a "maturity process" right now. "It was probably one of the biggest comebacks at Brearley in my four years (as coach). The first hero was reliever Chris Parent, who took over for starter Brian Moleen, after the latter had been reached for seven runs in the top of the third. With two out and two on, Parent walked his first batter, Tony Freitas, to fill the bases, but then retired St. Mary's hurler Chris Arencibia on a fly ball to right to end the inning.

Park diamond squads open

By MARK YABLONSKY It was a mixed bag for the start of the spring season in Roselle Park. The baseball team was held to three hits in a loss to Middlesex last Thursday, while the softball team couldn't stop hitting against Newark Tech one day later. And after being shut out twice, the boy's tennis team rebounded to shut out Green Brook, 5-0, last Friday in Green Brook. Despite sustaining a knee injury toward the end of the season, Endler, a freshman guard, led the MAC's South Division in three-point field goal percentage (.364), while placing second in three-pointers a game (1.5). Endler also finished third on the team in points (372), free throws (45) and assists (55), and second in scoring (14.9). In 10 different games this past winter, Endler was the leading scorer for the Lady Greyhounds, who finished at 23-4 and a seventh consecutive MAC Southeast Section title.

BASEBALL The Panthers, who victimized so many teams with top-notch pitching performances last season, this time were the victims. Middlesex, behind a neat three-hitter from Roger Nepton, took a 9-2 decision over Park on opening day last Thursday in Middlesex, two days after the scheduled opener had been washed out in Manville. Nepton also singled, was hit by a pitch and reached base on a walk, but the real damage was done by catcher Jay Laidl, who went 3-for-4, including a two-run single to center in the sixth that finished off scoring on the afternoon. The Panthers did close to within a 3-2 margin of the Blue Jays in the top of the fourth, during which time Park got its first two hits. Chloer Ray Jankowski delivered a sacrifice fly to short right field to score Jim Freeman, who had singled. Park's second and final run-scoring followed when Scott Birmingham, who had also singled, crossed home plate on an error by Laidl. Scott Perrette had Park's other hit. Following yesterday's home makeup game with Middlesex, the Lady Panthers will visit New Providence in a 4 p.m. start this afternoon. And then ace pitcher Melko Salto and the rest of her Westfield teammates will be in town for an 11 a.m. start on Saturday. "It was a good opener from the fact that we hit the ball," R.P. skipper John Wagner said. "And defensively, we played errorless ball."

BOY'S TENNIS The score of 5-0 may have been wild for the Panthers, but after being blanked against both Johnson Regional on April 2 in Clark and North Plainfield on April 5, the Panthers did the same to Green Brook one day later.

Endler among MAC leaders

Four members of this year's Moravian College women's basketball team were among the top statistical leaders in the Middle Atlantic Conference, including Amy Endler of Roselle Park.

Play opens

Act One's "Other Side of History" series, with a partial grant from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, New Jersey Regional Office, opened its new play, "Break the Silence!" last month. It is a one-act play about the Allied Forces who liberated the concentration camps of World War II.

"The play is a tribute to our friend Jack Coulston," says Isaac Dostis, co-author and editor with Diana Surisio. "He urged us to write about these heroes the way we wrote about the Christian who saved the Jews during the Holocaust. I'm just sorry he is not here to share it with us."

Also in repertory, in its fourth year, is "Lives to Save: Righteous Gentiles," which is about those Christians who risked their lives to save the Jews during the Holocaust. "Break the Silence!" will be staged April 20 in Temple Sha'arey Shalom, 78 South Springfield Ave., Springfield, and May 24 in Abraham Clark High School, 122 East 6th Ave., Roselle.

More information about either play can be obtained by calling Dostis at 292-0775.
