Regional District OKs its school fix-up plan

Union- County Regional High School District 1 unanimously approved its comprehensive five-year n for maintaining and improving he buildings of the four area high

The Regional District maintains Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, David Brearley Regional High School in Kenllworth, Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, and Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark.

The State Department of Education requires the school district to file a rehensive maintenance plan every five years, according to district pokesman Thomas Long, who prepared the current report. The 120-page document provides an over-view of the district, including demographic information such as projecons on population growth and stutent over the next five

More importantly, the five-year naster plan performs an assessment of the district's school buildings, as well as offering recommendations for updating them, A copy of this report is forwarded to County Superintenden Vito Gagliardi and the Bureau of Facility Planning Services of the New ersey Department of Education. The ast report was filed with the State Department of Education in 1985. The 1990 report includes a popula-tion estimate within the district to be 62,316, based on an assessment perormed by the State Department of Labor. The school district, comprised of Springfield, Borkeloy Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, and Aountainside, shows a decline of 978 esidents since 1980. In Springfield, the population ncreased from 13,955 in 1980 to 16,100 in 1990. However, it is projected that Springfield's population will decrease to 15,900 in 2000. In -population in Kenilworth increased to 8,900 in 1990 from 8,221 in 1980, although it will decline to 8,800 in 2.000.

Furthermore, the five-year plan notes "a corresponding reduction in student enrollment" with a nine-year enrollment projection. Between 1990 and 1999, the district's student population will drop from 2,204 to 1,955. Although projections show "substantial annual losses of students," the "downward trend will be slowed with a plateauing of enrollment in the early 1990e."

The report cites a number of factor which might slow the district's population decline, such as the Mt. Laurel court decisions that require municipalities to offer a certain amount of low- and moderate-income housing "Enforcement of the Mt. Laure decisions will impact upon communi ties with open available land." read the report. "Some of the larger subur ban lots may even be subdivided t commodate an additional home of two on the land. High density housing may be the wave of the future in some of our Regional District Detailed information is provided in the report about the condition of the district's high school buildings, most of which are given good evaluations. In a few areas, though, the report discloses some slight deficiencies in each high school

At Jonathan Davton Regional. was noted that "on-site" parking is somewhat restricted and the athletic fields are over-taxed by the increasing numbers of students who wish to participate in sport activities ... "

The "school site of 21.5 acres" David Brearley Regional "does not meet the standards required for a comprehensive athletic program," the report disclosed.

With regard to building maintenance, the report outlines several recommendations for Dayton and to fruition because we may 7,300 in 1990 from 7,118 in 1980; but Brearloy high schools. These building enough money to do it."

be made within the next five years. At Dayton Regional, it is recommended that repairs be made to exterior window sashes on the north side of the building; to the 50-year-old slate roof section; and to the oil storage tanks, if needed. The report also mentioned that "environmental concerns should be reviewed and addressed " For Brearley Regional, "the beauty culture room should be enlarged to a minimum of 2,100 square feet. Also, # locker room and storage area required for this educational activity. The report also recommends the installation of a larger elevator for use by handicapped students. And like other high schools, it is suggested that "environmental issues" be "considcred" at Brearley. The report concludes with a "wish list" of districtwide capital improvement projects that may be undertaken. if funding is available in the next five years. Among other things, it is recommended that a new adult school facility be constructed, and a close sircult TV station be developed within the district.

The various building mainter projects are expected to cost the dis trict thousands of dollars during a period of many budget constraints. Because the district high schools are in relatively good condition, however, the cost of repair will be lower. "The district plan reflects that schools are in very good shape, dent of Schools remarked Superinter

Dr. Donald Morachnik of the Union County Regional District 1. "They are structurally sound. They're functional. They need repairs on some roofs and doors. We need different things in each school." The district may not see some of these recommendations realized

according to Merachnik. "It's a plan," said Merachnik of the five-year report. "It may never come

Speaking of 'relevant,' ironically the content of foreign language often turns out to be extremely so. Could it ... guage study confuse the word relevant with the word topical? The plays of Sophocles were 'topical' only dur-. ing the Golden Age of Athens, the essays of Cicero only in Republican Rome. But they are all timely and relevant in every age, for they never lose their power to enrich human experience and deepen one's response

They traced for us the history of technology from Greek theater--building to Roman roads and acqueducts. They showed us history in a network of cause and effect relationships. Our work in the classical languages classrooms formed our esthetic appetites and fostered in us a love for the world of the mind.

Through the discipline of foreign language, students develop an appreciation for the society and heritage of the lands where that particular language is spoken. Short of praveling to nother country, the language classroom is the best place for young people to come into contact with a people different from themselves, with values and traditions different from theirs, and with a heritage that promotes an understanding of their own heritage. Here the student learns tangentially about the art. architecture, literature, music, dress, cuisine, and monetary system of some far off place. The perennial lament of university and business leaders about the linguistic inadequacies of our high school graduates would appear to support Goethe's view. Abundant research shows that, American students make impressive gains in English vocabulary and grammar skills through foreign language. They develop a deeperappreciation for the inherent beauty of language itself and a respect for the normous value of communicative skills.

her post as temple-educator at Temple Sinai of Summit Saturday after 21 years and will provide similar ser vices on a national level as director of continuing education and leadership development for the Department Education for the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in New York. A special Sabbath service honoring the principal was held at the temple on June 8. Many of her friends and associates attended, and they feted her for her work in outreach to interfaith couples and their children, her highly ised curricula to help religious school teachers of all faiths cope with classroom problems encountered when religious values clashed with those of contemporary life. She also was commended for helping to organize and become involved with an interfaith group composed of teachers from all-of Summit's churches and synagogues. They emphasized her work on the steering committee of Jewish-Catholic Dialogue, an annual interfaith program for religious school teachers in the Metro-West area

During a visit to this office, the amiable, soft-spoken, highly educated tion as principal of Temple Sinai Religious School.

"Even before I became principal of the school," she sighs, "I served as an : art teacher and head of the religious school board at the temple. This is what's been so exciting about this job. It really enabled me to do a great deal in the temple community and the whole Jewish community and, sometimes, the secular community. It all began when I was on the Principal's Parent Advisory Council at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield. The principal had put me on the advisory committee. It all runs together, you see."

The Schools Tax

New Jerseyans are facing the largest tax increase in state history. Beginning July 1 the first phase of Governor James -Florio's legislatively-approved tax plan will go into effect, with increases in sales and excise taxes designed to raise $1.5 billion that will be dedicated to help balance the enormous state budget. The second phase starts in January, when income tax hikes will begin to garner an additional $1.3 billion. The bulk of this latter sum - $1.1 billion - is earmarked for Florio's school-aid program.

Nobody likes taxes. Politicians, their nervous eyes on popularity ratings, hate to support tax increases and all the rest of us, for obvious reasons, hate to shoulder the burden. However, in some instances, an increase in taxes is necessary.

War is one such instance - we pay to defend our land. Education is another. To reinvigorate education in certain urban areas in New Jersey is comparable to fighting a war - we must pay to rescue the future. If we do not win the education war we can only expect a continued increase in the underclass, which means a growth in the monsters of poverty, ignorance, homelessness, crime, dependency and despair. And that means anincrease in the threat to civilized life.

Because the future is at stake it is correct that we should fight to improve education in the needlest areas. We agree, that is, with Florio's intent. But we do not agree with the new governor's timing. Now is not the time for an income tax hike.

Three or four years ago, when the former administration was bragging about a surplus --- that would have been an intelligent time to try to resuscitate our poor and struggling schools. But there was no action taken then. Instead the former administration-managed-to-pour-the surplus-down a bottomless pit.-

Now times are not so prosperous. Municipal taxes rise every year, as communities try to cope with enormous garbage costs because the landfills are closed and the incinerators not yet operating. Communities that just a few years ago were healthy and prospering, have now begun the painful business of cutting their education budgets, because of escalating property taxes.

Now is not the time to increase income taxes, even if individuals earning $35,000 a year and under, and couples earning $70,000 a year and under, are exempt from the new levies. These people are not exempt from the sales tax, nor the rise in prices that tax-bitten businesses will impose, nor from continually increasing property taxes, nor from all the already high and rising costs of living. If this were only a Robin Hood scenario - if it were only rob from the rich and give to the poor -- then we could find it easier to support Florio's tax package. But taking from the rich, and the semi-rich, impacts in several sharp, hard ways on the middle class. And the middle class cannot, atpresent. bear it.

We also have serious questions concerning the state's ability to carry out what it is proposing with the income tax funds. Will the money earmarked for distressed education systems actually get to those systems? And will those distressed systems actually use the money for improvements in education?

_Yes, the governor's tax package does have provisions to ensure proper use of the funds. But, at the risk of sounding cyn- "fighting words" --- words so objectionable as to be likely to provoke a violent ical, we have heard this song before. There were protective provisions in the legislation setting up the Joint Underwriters Association. Yes, there were provisions and safeguards, but there were not enough capable individuals on the job as official watchdogs. For which lack we all have paid, and still pay. Florio, of course, cannot be blamed for the JUA boondoggle or the frittering away of the surplus. Rather, he appears to be earnestly trying to put the state back on solid ground. But he is moving too fast regarding the income tax hike. Let him prove himself first. Let him allow the incinerators to be built and, thereby, lift the garbage burden off the backs of property owners. Let him tackle the state employees' unions and make their members share in the payment of their health benefits, like many of the rest of us do. And let his administration prove that it is not just another bureaucracy shoveling our money into a black hole. We know that disadvantaged schools must be revived. We realize the great danger to us all if they are not. But the governor should first have revived the economy before he clobbered us with his taxes.

Golfers' appreciation

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School golf team has just completed a very successful season with 19 wins and 11 losses. A great measure of this success is due to the cooperation of the Baitusrol Golf Club, which allows the team to practice and hold matches at their course.

The golf season is put in motion far in advance with the approval of the team schedule by the Board of Governors under the leadership of President Davo Baldwin, greens chairman Harold Reintjas, and golf chairman Art Zimmerman. Club manager Mark DeNoble is our direct contact with Baltusrol members Greens superintendent Joe Flaherty had the course in unbelievable shape for assistance and encouragement. Caddy Director Hugo Parrotte kept the tce open for high school matches.

Security chief Don Scherdt checked our progress on the course. The season finished with the traditional team luncheon, held in Baltusrol's club house and hosted-by member Bill Koonz. Each team member was presented with a gift at this time.

We would like to thank everyone for their efforts. RAY YANCHUS

March for the flag

I felt compelled to comment on the recent Supreme Court decision that struck down a law against desecration of the American flag. While we all acknowledge that First Amendment rights are fundamental cornerstones of the freedom we enjoy, the Court's all too liberal interpretation of these rights has led to a decision that is legally questionable and morally repulsive,

Our right to freedom of expression is not absolute and completely unchecked. Our founding fathers certainly did not intend it to be so. Indeed, the Court has acknowledged that First Amendment rights can be reasonably restrained when absolutely necessary, to further an important public purpose or societal good, Past decisions indicate that you cannot yell "Fire!" In a crowded theater, and nerson --- can he r suggest that the burning of our flag is certainly obscene. Also, it would seem to It into the fighting words category, as most reasonable Americans would be likely to strike out at any misguided cretin who would attempt such a deplorable

The beauty of our nation is that any unhappy citizen can jump up on a soapbox and rail away against real or perceived societal or governmental injustices. They can speak out through the press, in letters like this. The burning of our flag simply not necessary to get any point across. Civil libertarians state that the flag is "simply a piece of fabric." To know that they are wrong, one only has to think of the famous picture of our boys at Iwo Jima, fighting and dying to raise our flag. Or to think of the flag-draped coffinsof brave young servicemen who made the ultimate sacrifice to preserve our freedom

The American flag is a symbol of our people, our freedoms and our sacrifices. To desecrate that symbol does not further those freedoms. Rather, it demoans those sacrifices and insults the collective will and spirit of the American neonle

Amendment, yes

I would like to express a non-demagogue's dissent to your June 21 editorial, which cautioned against a Constitutional amendment that would allow criminal. prosecution of flag desecrators and that would also legislatively overturn the U.S. Supreme Court's recent ruling. Although the editorial is correct in stating that there are many demagogues who are ardently pushing for such an amon ment, it is also true that there are many who likewise support prohibition of flag desceration who base their support on reason and experience. One would hardly characterize the four dissenting Supreme Court justices, for instance, as demagogues.

Also, the editorial's characterization of an amendment as "tampering" with the Bill of Rights is more emotional than historical. The freedom of speech and press secured in the Bill of Rights has been the subject of many interpretations by the Supreme Court over the years. In the area of obscenity law, for example, it has swing back and forth in expanded and narrow interpretations several

There have always been limits on the absolute freedom of expression. What has changed over the years has been the nature of the limits and the justification that those who enact limits must meet. The Freedom of Expression provision o tampering, and it is probably much more democratic. The issue of whether or not a Constitutional Amendment should be emacted should be decided on the merits of the proposed amendment, not on a predisposition against amendments or personal support for or animosity against those who are supporting it or opposing it. Regarding flag desceration, I believe that a narrow amendment permitting Congress to prohibit such conduct in public would be justified. I do not forsee such an amendment as setting a basis for other amendments that would curtail freedom of speech or freedom of the press, and I would hope that any and all proposed amendments would be judged on their merits rather than on fear that ne amendment would lead to another.

The public desecration of a United States flag carries with it a dangerous potential of infuriation beyond the communication of ideas, and this renders the act similar to others which are apparently not protected by the First Amend-ment. Public exhibition of one's sex organs at a Memorial Day ceremony for the purpose of protest would hardly be regarded as Constitutionally protected expression. The public offense would be too great to justify such a form of protest, and protest can be communicated in many other less offensive ways. Yet I envision that a flag desecration at the Roselle Park Memorial Day Ceremony would be just as offensive. It would go beyond expression of protesti-it-would deeply hurt people and would also create the danger of a physical

I am a staunch supporter of the First Amendment protections of the freedom of expression. I also, however, believe that enjoyment of freedom should entail the freedom from intense public offense. Those who wish to publish "unpatriotic" material are free to do so, and those who read it are free to disagree and toss it in the garbage if they choose. But there is hardly an effective form of disagreement with an instantaneous public physical display that, by its nature, incites strong emotion. Must we run away? Humans have their limits, and we are discussing an area of conduct that can lead to physical retallation, wrong as t would se

I agree that it is incorrect to label every person who opposes the amendment "unpatriotic," especially elected officials who have taken an oath of patriotism as a precondition for holding office. But I would characterize them as less than protective of the sensibilities of citizens at the expanse of an overly abstract view of the freedom of expression.

I also would not base my vote on the single issue of flag desecration, as I did not base my vote for governor on the most heated issue in the recent election --abortion. But I sense the fact that there are quite a few "demagogues," as you call them, emerging on this issue, as well as your estimate of 80 American public supports restrictions on flag desecration, as a strong indication that the conduct under discussion is to most people as offensive as I have described. I believe that it would be taken as such in Roselle Park, and I believe that our citizens would not feel that their freedoms are abridged by an amendment empowering the Congress to prohibit public flag desecration.

Washington Report How to deal with traffic hell? By FRANK LAUTENBERG

Americans waste two billion hours every year sitting in traffic, according to the Federal Highway-Administra tion. Commuting shouldn't be a second career. But more people are pending productive hours in their ars, stuck in traffic. It is time that ould be spent at home with their families, at the office, or just enjoying the nany attractions of New Jersey. As chairman of the Senate Trans rtation Appropriations Subcommit ce, I recently asked the Genera ecounting Office to look at the prob lem of traffic, and what is being done about it. Their findings were troubling. GAO found that, barring significant action, traffic delays could triple by the year 2005. Other studies have jected increases of as much as 436

This is proof that our thinkin about transportation has to change This country has, for years, made a priority of building a national syster of roads and highways. But now thos roads are turning into the world's largest parking lots. We've succeeded in moving people from coast to coast. But we need to do a lot more to get people from uptown to downtown. and from suburb to suburb.

Unless we do, we could be ion fo scrious trouble. Our environment in suffering as exhaust pours out from the thousands of cars stuck on our roads each day. Automobiles are the single largest source of air pollution in this country. We've got to do more to clean up our air. Better, more efficient transportation has to be a part of the

There are a few areas where we need to work more aggressively. We need a more coordinated approach to improving transportation including both of our neighbors in New York and Pennsylvania. The goal of our coordinated effort should be action. In too many cases - and the Hudson Riverfront is a stark example - the state department of transportation has developed more plans than action." We need to look at alternatives. We need better mass transit, and a truly high-speed rail system. Within a decade, we could have in place new innovative systems like the clean efficient and modern monorails, similar to the elevated, automated trains running in Disney World. New systems like this can help keep New Jersey on the move. We also need to make better use of old ideas that still work, like ferries.

We need to research, develop and deploy new technologies. For several years, I've been pushing the U.S. Department of Transportation to get nto the development of what some call "smart cars and smart highways." This concept would put technology to use in cars and on the roadside, tomanage and even avoid congestion. It can alsomean improvements, like automated tollbooths. ## Race begins in legion action

By MARK YABLONSKY As tricky as the weather may have been at times, there were still a number of baseball games played this past week in American Legion activity. Some, of course, had a direct bearing

But the game to watch on Saturday turned out to be a dandy between both, Roselle and Union: a rescheduled contest from June 15 that was played in Rahway. Union, which dropped a doubleheader to Rahway the following day, prevailed on the strength of an eight-run outburst in the top of the 12th inning, breaking what had been a 2-2 tic. In a game marked by clutch pitching from eventual winning hurler Bill DiGiovanni and a 10-minute rain delay, among other things, Union broke it open on seven hits and four errors in the 12th. With one out, Ken Dehart doubled and came in on Pete Simko's single. Frank Napolitano reached on an error, Matt McMurdo singled in Simko for a 4-2 lead, and after that, it became academic. Roselle had prolonged the deadlock on a pop-fly single from Dan Kuczynski in the bottom of the eighth, after Chris Dunbar's solo homer to right had given Union a 2-1 advantage in the top of the inning. Dave Sawicki, following more than a week of inactivity, walked eight, but struck out six and allowed only six hits until giving way to DiGiovanni with one out in the ninth.

day doubleheader to Scotch Plains. 4-1 and 3-2, on Sunday in Kenilworth In the opener, all of Scotch Plains' mins were uncarned, including two that came in by way of a wild throw in the top of the second inng when the visitors made it a 3-0 contest. Kyle Bilcher held Kenilworth with a four-hitter, outdueling Kevin Bell. who pitched well in what was his first start of the season. Mike Emery singled home Kenilworth's lone run in the seventh inning.

In the nightcap, it was simply a matter of leaving too many men on base - 11 to be exact. Kenilworth did grab a 2-0 lead in the top of the first when Mike Archibald's run-scoring single followed an error, but missed out on putting Scotch Plains starter Noel Sirdashney away when Chris Carcy's hard smash to third resulted in an inning-ending double play. After making it a 2-1 game in the second, Scotch Plains tied it with two out in the fifth when Ed Barlow tripled home Andy Brown, who had walked earlier. Then in the sixth, Sirdashney singled, took second on a sacrifice, made it to third on a wild pitch, and then scored on Frank Cuc caro's sacrifico fly. Sirdashney walked four and struck out-three to best Rob Baker, who walked only two and struck out four. Kenilworth had an 8-5 advantage in hits, but left at least two men on base three different times.

"I'm hoping that things will be worked out," said Nickel, whose team will be at Summit tomorrow in a 5:45 p.m. start. "We're just one run away." We're just missing the one hit or the

Roches' album all in family

By MILT HAMMER

disc 'n' data-

Turntable Treat, "Speak;" by The Roches, MCA Records. Music for The Roches was a family affair. The group grew up in nearby Park Ridge, the daughters of teacher/inventor Jack Roche and his wife, Jude, an advertising copywriter. Maggie taught herself to play her mother's piano to best 5-year-old Terre, who had impressed everybody one day by spontaneously picking out "The First Noel." Both girls learned guitar from a weekly how-to-play show on television. Bolstered by a youthful stint with their father composing and perform ing campaign ditties for local Democratic candidates, Terre and Maggie hit the American folk circuit while still in their teens. They released the first album, "Seductive Reasoning," in 1975. Afterwards, they retreated to a martial arts center in Hammond, La., for a period of R and R. The following year, younger sister Suzy, a drama major at SUNY Purchase in New York, joined the other two for some Christmas caroling on New York City streets. They have performed as a trio over since, Although the Roches have covered such disparate works as Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," a showstopper in their live performance, and "Come Softly To Me." their own music-sounds like no one else's today. Critics have compared their intricate harmonics and polyphonic song structures to 16th-century madrigals, and their spirit to that of "holy fools." Eccentric, uncompromising, with an abiding taste for surprise, The Roches specialize in making musical and verbal fireworks.

Their songs have deceptive surfaces. On their new album, "Speak," for example, "Cloud Dancing's" deadpan elegance becomes an exquisite joke, while "Losing Our Job" promises a sendup of country music bathos but ends by delivering the kind of desperate lament of everyday life that is country music's great gift. Never trust a simple tune if it comes from-The Roches; there's always more there than meets the ear.

Anticipating some of the questions they are most frequently asked. The Roches would like to note that among them they have had eight boyfriends, 4.5 cats, four record companies, 17 guitars; and a daughter "Speak" is their seventh album.

The Roches are: Maggie, singing, piano, synthesizers, keyboard bass; Terre, singing, gultars; and Suzy, singing, synthesizers, guitars.

Players' workshop to be held July 7

Maplewood Nursery in bloom

"It's more than just a nursery," says Wayne Maudsley. wher and proprietor of Maplewood Nursery in Springfield. "In addition to flowers, trees and shrubs, we also sell an entire array of lawn and gardon care products, topsoil and mulches, and paving stones."

Maudsley says business is as good as over this season, and more and more people are coming to Maplewood Nursery, located at 160 Springfield Ave., for a variety of items to make their homes and yards look fresh for the coming season.

"This is the time of year people like to start making their homes look nice," says Maudsley, who is the third generation of nursery operators in his family. "That's why a lot of people come to my nursery to pick out decorative stone or gravel for walkways, or new trees for their yard."

Maplewood Nursery also carries at least nine different styles of paving stones from which to choose, and all are easy to install and reasonably priced.

'They don't need mortar so the homeowner can do the installation easily." says Maudsley. "They are already cut to fit together like puzzle pieces, and once they're down, they stay put."

But while most customers know they need something to give the exterior a facelift, many are lost as to where to begin.

says. "They usually want to know how much of some thing they need and where it will grow best."

Maudsley-stays-on-top-in-the-highly-competitive nursery business by keeping prices low and selling products in bulk.

Maudsloy added that although his stock moves out at a quick pace, he does a few extra things with his live shrubbery to keep it fresh.

"We are one of the few nurseries that water the stock in the ground. We plant the trees and water them there." Another unique feature he offers is the sale of items inbulk, which drops the price considerably.

"We can sell things by the cubic yard instead of the bag," he says. "Selling items by the truckload can mean big savings for the customer."

Of course, the nursery business isn't the type of industry that stays open all year long. Maplewood Nurserysells Christmas trees in December, but right after the holidays Maudsley has a two-month vacation until the weather warms up again.

With summer already upon us, homeowners may think a little gravel along the driveway or a few bushes under the bay window may be just what the old house needs. But before you pick up a rake or shovel, it may be a good idea to stop at the Maplewood Nursery and pick up a few hints from Wayne Maudsley, or call the nursery at
