Course in SAT preparation

"It's just one test, but your whole future may ride on it."
 "I wish I had more preparation."
 These were the comments of high school juniors and seniors upon completing their Scholastic Aptitude Test examinations, a three-hour exam which measures vocabulary, comprehension and the ability to reason.

Although the test is not designed to cover specific high school subject matter, a knowledge of algebra and geometry is required.
 "It is possible to prepare for the SAT," said Dr. Ray Huntington, president of the Huntington Learning Centers, "and studies have proven that score increases resulting from coaching can be the determining factor in a college admission officer's decision who is and who is not to be admitted."

The Huntington Learning Center has prepared students since 1977 and offers students three ways to prepare for the SAT exam:
 • A scheduled 24-hour course in which instruction tailored to each student's needs is offered in very small group settings.
 • The instruction is almost one-to-one," Huntington explained. "A thorough discussion of test-taking tips is conducted early in the course and

Area hospital helps via children's fund

More than 32 New Jersey families, including one from Union County, have been helped by the Catastrophic Illness in Children Relief Fund since it distributed its first grants last December. According to the Union County Case Management Unit, opportunities for additional help remain.

"We are still accepting applications for financial aid for medical expenses incurred in 1988 and 1989," explained Susan Danch, coordinator of the Union County Case Management Unit, located at the Children's Specialized Hospital Outpatient Center in Fanwood.

"We're here to help those who may qualify, and all it takes is a phone call to discuss eligibility and request an application."
 "An individual SAT program, available for students who either cannot attend the scheduled course or who decide at the last minute to begin preparation."
 "It consists of everything covered in the scheduled course, but it is conducted at times that are convenient for the student," he continued.

"A practice SAT to be taken and then later reviewed during a four-hour session on a one-to-one basis."
 Interested parents and students are invited to call The Huntington Learning Center in Livingston at 994-2900 or Morristown at 292-9500 for more information on how to prepare for the SAT. Courses begin on Aug. 8 and Sept. 23 and 28.

"However, their work is continuing since applications are accepted on an on-going basis and there are still many families who may benefit from this unique program."
 To date, the Relief Fund Commission has awarded more than $450,000.

Danch noted that to be eligible for the fund families must have been state residents for at least six months; the child with the illness must be under 18 years old; the non-covered medical expenses must be 30 percent of the family income for those earning $100,000 or less annually, or 40 percent for those earning over $100,000.
 Funding for the relief program is provided through an annual $1 assessment per employee collected from all employers subject to the New Jersey Unemployment Compensation Law.

SAT instruction offered

The Huntington Learning Center, a leader in the field of remedial tutoring and enrichment programs, offers students various programs to prepare for the Scholastic Aptitude Test, more commonly known as the SAT. The center offers a 24-hour course which tailors instruction in small group settings.

"The instruction is almost one-to-one," explains Dr. Ray Huntington, a noted education expert and president of the center. "A thorough discussion of test-taking tips is conducted early in the course and applied during each session."

Summer preparation courses, which are ideal for those students who do not want to juggle this course with their regular school work, begins Aug. 8. Fall courses begin Sept. 23 and 28.

An individual SAT program is available for students who either cannot attend the scheduled courses, or who decide at the last minute to begin preparation.

Parents who have questions or who wish to discuss specific problems may contact The Huntington Learning Center in Livingston at 994-2900 or Morristown at 292-9500.

Koldorf paints punk, portrait plus scenery

By BEA SMITH
Lawrence Koldorf of Springfield, a fine portrait artist, enhances his livelihood by working in a book store in the Livingston Mall.

"I love the staff," he says. "And I tolerate the customers. I find I can earn a living while working liberally and pleasantly on my paintings."

He recently had a one-man exhibition of acrylic paintings, portrait and landscape, at the Cafe restaurant in Rossmont. The show, which was called "16 x 20" and which was made up of small pieces, he says, ended on July 12.

Koldorf has had solo exhibitions at the University League of Princeton University, Middlesex County College, Edison, the New Jersey Institute of Technology—in Newark, from which he was graduated in 1981 with a bachelor's degree in architecture with a minor in fine arts; and Crum & Forster Corp., Morristown. In January of next year, he will have a solo exhibition at Schering-Plough in Madison.

He also has had invitational exhibitions in the Morristown Museum of Arts & Sciences, the Nabisco Brands Headquarters, East Hanover; the George Street Playhouse, New Brunswick; the Monmouth Temple, Monmouth Festival of the Arts, Tinton Falls; and the Art Auction, Mercer County Hospital, Trenton.

"I have a small following that visits me in New York," he says modestly. "Especially Greenwich Village, where I exhibit my works two times a year."

"I've been very much interested in punk. I love how punk works. I have visited the CBGB punk rock club in New York, and I just love the aesthetics of it. It inspired me to paint. I sketched a lot of the people there, including Paul Smith, a punk singer, and Debbie Harry, another punk singer. That was what really inspired me to begin, even though I've been painting and drawing all my life."

Koldorf believes he inherited his artistic talents from his mother, Irene Koldorf of Springfield. "My mother is a sculptress. And one of my sisters, Susan Kolb, is an artist, as well as my brother-in-law, Gary Kolb." His other sister, Karen Paperno, resides in Mt. Kisco, N.Y., with her husband and their daughter, Carolyn, 3.

The 34-year-old artist, who was born in Newark to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Koldorf, moved to Springfield when he was 6 months old. He was graduated from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield.

When did he become an artist? "I just always was an artist," he admits, "under my mother's tutelage. There was no decision. I inherited my talent from my mother, who, incidentally, was last year's president of the Sculptors Association of New Jersey. She's a professional sculptress and still works at home."

He says one of his earliest recollections of his mother was "when she was painting a green mountain, and my mother filmed it while I was painting. My sister also took pictures of me while I was painting. Right now, she is being creative by being into fashion designs in modern jeans, producing and selling."

"While I was in Sandeier School, I did a lot of sketching, and in high school, I did mostly drawing. Actually," Koldorf recalls, "in my freshman year in high school, I learned the color wheel. I understood it immediately. It stayed with me all these years. I could never have painted the way I do otherwise. My work is very dependent on color. It plays a big role in my paintings."

"I sang while I was in school," he says. "I decided to take music courses. I had a beautiful voice," Koldorf grins. "I don't know where it is now, but really, I performed in musicals in school, and I played Stew Pot in 'South Pacific.'"

"But I was drawing all that time...at night in my room in class, expressionistic cartooning. Koldorf believes he inherited his

Ballet set tomorrow

New Jersey Ballet will return to the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, for Paper Mill's annual Summer Festival with a performance tomorrow at 8 p.m.

This year's performance includes the premiere of resident choreographer George Tomal's "Bravo Beethoven!" The ballet evolved from the success of a workshop production earlier this year. It is set to the first movement of Beethoven's third piano concerto.

Also on the program will be the company's recently premiered production of Anthony Tudor's "Jardin Aux Lilas." It will be staged by Sallie Wilson with scenery design by Paper Mill's Michael Anzures.

Returning to the repertory this summer will be the "Fountains of Paris" pas de deux. This work "offers the dancers a showcase for classical fireworks." It will feature principal dancers Rosemary Sabich-Bleich and Ellie Lazar.

Tickets can be purchased by calling the Paper Mill box office at 376-4343.

Funding for New Jersey Ballet's extensive performance schedule has been made possible in part by support from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Department of State, and by corporate, foundation and individual contributions.

Artists Workshop Association and Magenta Gallery. He is listed in the "Encyclopedia of Living Artists in America."

When he isn't working, Koldorf spends time with "a beautiful girl named, Inez Salbe of Elizabeth, who is formerly of Hillsdale. She's a successful accountant for Poe Associates in New Brunswick. We will be engaged any minute," he laughs. "What time is it?"

Koldorf explains that "my manager, Scott McKinley, is a great guy—and he's confident that I can make a living in advertising or computers or something. But I will always be a painter. And with punk, I really feel I've hit on something."

Among his favorite painters, he says, are "Jasper Johns, Jackson Pollock, a genius, and Picasso, another genius, and Chuck Close, a photo realist, who does faces. And I particularly like the work of the late Andy Warhol. I thought he was a great guy—very creative."

Vernore, an artist from Holland in the 17th century, and Andy Warhol had something in common. They both painted their lunch. Vernore looked at the ingredients and he saw a still life on his table, and he painted the still life. And that's art.

"Warhol had a Campbell Soup can on his table. That was for his lunch. And he painted that. And that's art, too."

A jazz shop is planned

A group of musicians aspiring to professional careers as jazz performers will have an opportunity to take part in the summer Jazz Opportunity for Youth (JOY) Project at Montclair State College. Some of the metropolitan region's most accomplished jazz artists will provide personal instruction in specialized performance techniques to assist young musicians entering the professional recording and performing industry. It was announced.

Beginning Monday, "up to 40 participants who qualify at the intermediate through advanced levels of performance skills will experience two intensive weeks of performance and instruction in such areas as improvisation, performing in a Big Band setting as well as in ensembles, and learning vocal and jazz bowing techniques." Classes, which are every weekday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., will culminate in a public, outdoor concert.

Project JOY is funded in part by the Montclair State Office of Special Projects and maintains a close affiliation with the New Jersey Jazz Society. Private contributions are being sought from area corporations and individuals. More information can be obtained by calling the Montclair State Office of Special Projects at 893-7000.

In connection with the exhibition, films on Larry Rivers and Jackson Pollock will be shown at a coffee hour at the museum, Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Gifted group has unique style

By MILT HAMMER
Tumble Trouble On Bell Biv DeVoe's MCA LP debut, "Poison," Ricky Bell, Michael "Biv" Bivins and Ronnie DeVoe finally get the chance to make the kind of music they've always wanted to make — an innovative blend of aluminium hip-hop beats and street-wise rapping and singing, all smoothed out on an R & B tip with a decided pop bent.

After nearly a decade of being in the background, as members of one of the most popular singing groups of the 1980s — multi-platinum supergroup, New Edition — these three gifted young men now step into the limelight with their own unique style. "This is our chance to open up people's eyes and show what we can really do," explains Bivins. "People don't expect us to come from this kind of angle, but this is the music we like to listen to and always wanted to do."

There are nine explosive tracks on "Poison." No novices in the recording studio, BBD have enlisted a crew of hitmakers to help shape their sound. The LP's title track, also its first single, features irresistibly hyped beats and sultry vocals. Produced by NYC new jacks Dr. Freeze and Spiderman, the cut is an excellent introduction to the lethal LP. It's also a bona fide hit.

Surely one of BBD's most impressive traits is versatility. With the aid of ground-breaking Public Enemy producers Eric Sadler and Hank and Keith Shocklee, BBD attack the hard-edged hip-hop beats of "Let Me Know Something" and "Ain't Nothin' Changed" head on, and then turn

UNITED JERSEY THE FAST-MOVING BANK

OPINION

Don't Trash Us

Garbage is a subject of great importance to all New Jerseyans. We've nearly run out of space to bury it, we're not yet equipped to burn it, we're struggling to recycle it. We're also trucking hundreds of tons of it out of the state, and paying through the nose while being denounced by the states we truck the garbage to.

The dilemma has been addressed in this space before and will probably be addressed again. But there is another question concerning garbage that does not have to do with its massive disposal, but is nonetheless of great importance to all New Jerseyans, and all Americans.

Should the police be allowed to rummage through your curbside trash without a search warrant? The United States Supreme Court says yes. The Supreme Court of the state of New Jersey — in a 5-to-2 decision of July 17 — says no. We agree with the state Supreme Court.

New Jersey's Attorney General, Robert Del Tufo, does not agree with us. He thinks that the court's decision makes it that much easier for drug dealers to avoid prosecution. He also said that the court had "trivialized the subject."

An individual's privacy is not now and has never been a trivial matter. As long as each of us is required to make crucial decisions directly affecting his or her life, the time and the privacy needed to make those decisions is essential. We are fortunate to live within a civilization that, for the most part, recognizes this need and takes measures to protect it.

That is the point that the attorney general is missing — the conscious protection of an individual's right to privacy. In an age where satellites can read license plates and automatic teller machines 3000 miles away know your name, address and assorted assets, it is especially important to protect what privacy we have left.

We understand Del Tufo's reasoning. He feels that police officers would be better protecting the decent citizenry from the bad guys by being able to inspect the garbage of suspects. A decent citizen, he implies, should have nothing to fear.

That might be true if every law officer were a paragon of virtue. But let's not fool ourselves. Although the majority of officers are decent people doing their best in trying and dangerous jobs, there are "bad cops." There are also "good cops" who make mistakes. The chance that a bad or unwise officer would be the one searching through our trash is not comforting.

Until the court ruled, officers searching garbage not only did not need a warrant, they did not even need a "probable cause." They could just suspect this person or that, or simply be curious about certain houses. They could also have acted as the FBI and the federal Drug Enforcement Agency have been known to act — that is, sweeping a neighborhood where drug dealing is suspected, and gathering up and going through everyone's trash once a week or twice a week or whenever.

In the garbage are any number of indicators of a person's private life: bank receipts, credit card receipts, prescription drug vials, a variety of intimate correspondences, and so on. Let's suppose that a member of your family had been hospitalized at a mental institution and was on prescribed medication. Let's further suppose that a less-than-good cop came across evidence of this while on a routine search of your trash. Because a reputation could easily be stigmatized by disclosures of such information, you and your family — none of whom are drug dealers — could find yourselves the victims of blackmail.

These and other disconcerting scenarios do not usually happen, but could happen. That is the point. Corruption, deceit, blackmail, character assassination and the whole litany of wickedness are all facts of the dark side of human nature, as just a glance at history proves. Therefore, it is right that our court-system, whose business is the dispensing of justice, is sensitive to the presence of these evils and the possibilities they create for injustice.

Let's not forget that one of the main reasons for the American Revolution was the invasion of privacy occasioned by the Writ of Assistance. The New Jersey Supreme Court in prohibiting unwarranted searches of garbage is more closely in tune with the Spirit of '76 than is the federal government and the rest of the states, with the exception of Hawaii. That state agrees with us. Two out of fifty is better than none.

Working at the sink by my kitchen window, I sense a change outside. Trees that rustled gently all day stand motionless. The birds are still. Black clouds are piling up in the west. I set aside my pots and hurry out the back door, not wanting to miss a minute of the approaching storm.

Ever since I was a child I've loved thunderstorms. I would lie on the porch glider waiting eagerly for the approaching storm to arrive with its kaleidoscope of color and sound, retreating only when I became soaked by needles of rain.

Sparrows are perched in a row on the telephone line, silent, waiting. I always wonder where they hide to escape the wild winds and driving rain. So small and vulnerable, yet they are the first to reappear happy and chirping after the rain subsides. Other times, as a storm approaches, the yard is filled with wildly chattering birds. Is their decibel level somehow an indication of how severe a storm will be?

Remember first aid squad

You may not be aware that volunteer first aid squads in the state of New Jersey are in a crisis situation. The lack of volunteers is overpowering, and has forced many of the squads to curtail services to their host communities. Volunteer first aid squads, while providing the overwhelming bulk of emergency first aid services to our entire state, are ignored for the most part by the media. Your article is just another example of this situation, and while I am sure that your oversight is unintentional, it is certainly disconcerting.

Was Mrs. Ingaro taken to the hospital in a tow truck? Did she travel in a friend's car? Did a passing truck driver stop and pick her up? Was there a nearby fire truck with extra room available on top of the hoose or did a helicopter swoop down and miraculously "transport" her????

Who supplied all the emergency medical care for the patient in your article? Who left their homes and families to take care of the accident victim? In whose ambulance was the victim of the accident transported?

Why are the first aid volunteers, who donate thousands of hours each year in a most every community in this state, ignored? Why are we taken for granted? If the press sees fit to ignore us, is it any wonder that large numbers of the people in our communities do not even know we exist until that one day when a member of their family has a medical emergency.

It would certainly be appreciated if you could give credit where credit is due in your future articles.

Airport hocus-pocus

Senators Lautenberg and D'Amato are jumping up and down again, complaining bitterly about how abysmal airline delays have become in the metropolitan area and how the FAA is responsible for the mess! Both senators are making lots of frantic noise about how FAA controllers aren't getting their job done, and how the system isn't safe. These two either have very short memories, or they must think we have.

Practically everyone, including the Port Authority and the FAA, has acknowledged that the problem is simply that our region lacks airport capacity. Nevertheless, Senator Lautenberg single-handedly authored a midnight rider to a recent budget bill which allows local politicians to close Linden airport. Since Senator Alfonse D'Amato doesn't live in New Jersey and couldn't care less about New Jersey airports, the New York senator gave his wholehearted approval. We lack capacity, so these two act to reduce it further!

Danger in banning "wrong" ideas

Editor's note: The following article is reprinted with permission of Editor and Publisher magazine.

There is an alarming, growing tendency in this country among politicians and the public alike to call for something to be banned if they don't like it. Proliferating pressure groups in the arts and letters are proclaiming their view as the "right" one, and anything to the contrary is unacceptable. Unfortunately, much of this trend has to do with the freedom of obscenity. It is difficult to argue that the American people should accept obscenity as an expression of free speech, but efforts to ban it are getting close to censorship.

A museum curator in Cincinnati is on trial for violating the obscenity laws by showing an exhibit of photographs that had already been shown elsewhere. The National Endowment for the Arts is under attack for permitting government funds to be used for such exhibits of which some people disapprove. The music and lyrics of "2 Live Crew" have been banned by a federal court in Florida, and a retailer who sold some of their records is charged with violating the law. Some members of Congress are intent on enforcing their views on what they call "unsuitable programming" by television networks. Book publishers report that more and more printers are exercising a censorship role by refusing to print material with which they disagree or which they find offensive. A New York judge has banned

Linden Airport has tremendous untapped potential. It is the only airport left in the metro area that will support growth. If properly developed, it would not only draw off some of the congestion that impacts Newark, LaGuardia and JFK but, in so doing, it would become a major source of much needed revenue for the citizens of Linden. It could be a centerpiece for industry and a cornerstone for revitalizing a valuable community. Politicians would do otherwise: First, they shoot our airport system in the foot. Then they try to grab headlines and blame the FAA for aviation's inability to dance How's that for integrity! Will someone please tell me why we continue to send people like this to Washington? With upwards of 20 million people living in New Jersey and New York, there must be better candidates for U.S. senator. Are these two really the best representation the Democrats and Republicans can come up with? ART BIANCONI

Leaders need awareness

In response to your July 12 article regarding equality awareness training for county employees, I am absolutely appalled that the county manager and the freeholders would even consider a program costing the taxpayers $16,500, which is a figure quoted from the Star-Ledger on July 3. The purpose of the program was described as being "to sensitize and educate the county's work force to function in a multi-racial and multi-cultural environment."

How sensitive are our county leaders when they allow their employees to work in deplorable working conditions and only make an attempt to improve them when they are pressured and embarrassed into making a move? How sensitive are they when some county employees have been working without a contract since 1986?

We do not need "sensitivity" training. We need a pay increase to meet the ever-rising costs of food, housing, and taxes!

County employees, minority or not, can work far more sensitively when they are working in a safe, clean, well-ventilated environment. I believe county minority employees would prefer a signed contract and an improvement in their working conditions instead of "sensitivity" training."

In case-management training, I was taught to "prioritize" my work. The Union County manager and Board of Chosen Freeholders should do the same.

Legion has playoffs to determine third state team

By SUSAN KRAKOWIECKI

The last week of regular-season play did little to clear up the playoff picture in Union County American Legion baseball. If anything, things just seemed to get more confusing.

Rahway and Scotch Plains each finished the season with a 17-3 record and 34 points. The two teams share the league championship and each earned an automatic bid to the tournament.

The third and final representative from Union County was decided by playoff games among four teams: Roselle, Union, Westfield and Elizabeth. The semifinals and the final were decided after we went to press.

All of this may appear simple enough, but appearances can be deceiving. According to Bob Catullo, Union County Legion Chairman, a combination of events added a few twists to the conclusion of the 1990 Legion season.

According to Catullo, Rahway thought it had won the League championship outright after a victory over Elizabeth. But a protest lodged by Elizabeth during the game was upheld and Rahway was forced to resume the game on Saturday.

By the time that game was resumed, Rahway was no longer playing for the championship. A victory over Elizabeth this time around would give them nothing more than a share of the league title.

"It's between Rahway's two meetings with Elizabeth two teams forfeited out of our league," Catullo explained. "Cranford and Clark had too many forfeits during the season and had to leave the league."

The league by-laws state that any team forfeiting out of the league never existed, and games against them don't count. Games against them were wiped off of everyone's record."

Rahway lost eight points in the standings, the result of two wins over both Cranford and Clark. Scotch Plains lost five points, but also had a loss and a tie erased from its record.

elevating the team into a first-place tie with Rahway.

The two forfeits also played havoc with Roselle's post-season plans. "We secured a state tournament bid on Thursday night," said Catullo, who is also the coach of the Roselle Legion team. "But we lost eight points in the standings because of four wins being wiped out, and now we're in a playoff for that spot."

Roselle finished the regular season at 16-3-1, with 33 points. "It was very happy with the season we had," Catullo said. "I thought we played very well as a team and came through when we had to."

"I'm also happy that we're in the league playoffs because we get to play two more games. It was a great season with great competition. I'm sorry it had to end with controversy, but I think the best two teams won."

Union American Legion assistant coach Jerry Shaw is also pleased with his team's performance during the 1990 season. "We had to deal with a lot of injuries this season," Shaw said. "But we have a number of very versatile players who filled in wherever we needed them."

Union finished with a record of 16-6 for 28 points. They headed into the league-playoffs with a very impressive 5-1 record last six regular season games.

On Tuesday, Union beat Berkeley Heights 17-2. The next day, they defeated league co-champion Scotch Plains 7-1. On Thursday they were beaten by Elizabeth 15-3.

On Friday Union won a double header of sorts, defeating Westfield 4-2 in the first game and Kenilworth 11-8 in the second game.

Union wrapped up the regular season on Saturday by bouncing back for a big win over Elizabeth, 10-6.

"Last week gave us an indication of what we can expect to do in the playoffs," Shaw said. "The players know how crucial those games were and they responded. They pulled together when they had to. We feel we've got a good chance of winning the playoff and going to the state tournament."

The Springfield American Legion team wasn't as fortunate and didn't qualify for post-season play. The team finished at 8-11 for 17 points.

"We struggled early on this season," said Springfield assistant coach Tom Long. "We struggled all through June. On July 2, we were 4-9-1. We were experimenting with different batting orders and people in different positions. Things started to come together and we went 3-1 over our last 10 games."

That includes going 1-2 last week to close out the regular season. On Monday, Springfield suffered a 13-2 loss at the hands of Union. Both the Springfield runs scored on Glen Miske's two-run home run.

Springfield went down again on Tuesday, 9-1 to Elizabeth. Miske scored the only run on Mike Fronzak's single in the fourth inning.

Fronzak was the hero on Thursday, pitching seven innings of shut out ball, as Springfield defeated Summit 4-0. In his first start of the season, Fronzak faced 23 batters, only two more than the minimum, allowing two hits and striking out four.

"The team has come along way since the beginning of the season," Long said. "The younger players matured and the veterans stepped forward to provide stability. We just came up a little short. We dug ourselves in too deep at the start of the season."

First-time home buyers can get mortgage help

Information for county residents interested in financing the purchase of their first home through the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Financing Agency is now available in the Legislative District Office of Assemblyman Neil M. Cohen.

"The New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency has a wide range of financial packages aimed at helping first-time home buyers, because I would like to see used by the residents of Union County," Cohen said.

"These programs include low-interest mortgage loan rates, higher income limits, and down payments as low as zero to 5 percent," Cohen continued.

"NHMFA has made home ownership a reality for thousands of residents throughout New Jersey," Cohen added. "I would like to see that dream become real for Union County residents, especially our young citizens just starting out on their own."

The information provided includes eligibility requirements, participating lenders and even a program on 100 percent financing. Those interested are encouraged to call or write Cohen's district office at 964-4387. The address is 1435 Morris Ave., Union, 07083.

Farinella homebuilder elected to board of directors of HOW

Mary Farinella-Caporsio, president of the Springfield-based Farinella Construction Company, has been elected to the board of directors of the Home Owners Warranty (HOW) Corporation of New Jersey. She joins other leading homebuilders from around the state on the new home warranty/insurance company's board.

Representing a new generation of homebuilders, Caporsio brings to New Jersey HOW's keen knowledge of building codes and residential construction, especially in the area of multifamily housing, experience in apartment management, and a successful management style, which has enabled Farinella Construction Co. to rapidly expand and flourish in recent years.

Caporsio's firm, Farinella Construction Company, was originally founded by her father, Frank Farinella, in 1955. Since that time the firm has built more than 3,000 new homes and approximately 200,000 square feet of office space throughout northern and central New Jersey.

Caporsio recently accepted the HOW Corporation of New Jersey's "Builder of the Year Award" in the "10 million or More Annual Sales Volume" category on behalf of Farinella Construction Co., in recognition of the firm's commitment to quality construction and customer service, its overall track record with HOW, and its level of involvement with N.J. HOW, building industry trade associations and civic and charitable organizations.

The nation's oldest and largest new home warranty insurance program, HOW offers a comprehensive 10-year protection plan. HOW builders warrant their homes against family workmanship and materials for the first year of the program in compliance with the Program's Approved Standards. During years one and two, the builder also warrants against major structural defects and against defects in the wiring, piping and ductwork in the electrical, plumbing, heating, cooling, ventilating and mechanical systems. In addition, builders carry insurance to cover the cost of repairing major structural defects for the last eight years of the plan.

How also offers a five-year Remodeler's Program, which consists of a two-year contractor warranty, insured by the HOW Insurance Company, with three additional years of insurance against major structural defects on the remodeled portion of the home.

More information about the HOW Program can be obtained by calling 329-8525.

Unionite wins poetry contest

When Cornell Hall resident Helen Hedley won a poetry contest sponsored by the World of Poetry Organization, she said, "I would at least try my luck." She said, according to Cornell Hall Director of Recreation Shirley Spelman, "Miss Hedley, who is the Resident of the Season, enjoys sharing her poems and stories with Recreational Assistant Anne O'Brien. In fact, we will place her poem in our display case in the lobby along with a copy of the certificate she has hanging on the wall in her room."

The subject and title of her award winning poem is "Death." "I don't remember what magazine I was reading when I came across the poetry contest, but when I read the ad I thought I would at least try my luck," she said. "But one year when it rained during my entire stay, I decided it would be my last trip out to California," she said. However, her decision to stop traveling to California did not keep her from being close with her nephew Frank and his family. One afternoon, Miss Hedley said she was sitting in her Cornell Hall room watching television, "I happened to look away from the set and in the doorway was Frank and his son Brian. It was the best surprise I ever received."

Edward H. Bauer, Chairman & Chief Executive Officer
Robert W. Downes, Senior Vice President

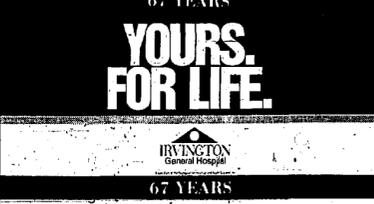

In 1864, We Opened Our First Branch to Provide Safe and Sound Banking Services. Today, We Still Adhere to These Principles.

With rising concern over the stability of our nation's financial institutions, United Counties Trust Company is pleased to report that Sheshunoff Information Systems Inc., and Veribanc, Inc., both recognized independent evaluators of banking institutions, have awarded the Bank their "A+" and "Blue Ribbon Bank" ratings, respectively. These highest designations, based on standards of safety and soundness, place United Counties Trust Company among the most creditworthy institutions in the country. Since our first branch opened in 1864, 34 branches have been added to the network. We believe that banking means offering broad-based services, progressive product lines, a knowledgeable staff and accessible locations.

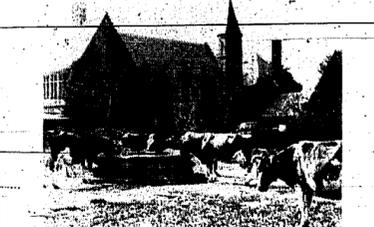

The United Advantage... a continuing tradition of financial service to our customers.

When the cows roamed freely at Green Lane Farm, we were here!

The former Green Lane Farm mansion pictured above is now the Hamilton Fish Kean Library at Kean College. The former Newark State College purchased the estate in 1953 and opened on the grounds in 1958. At the time, the Union Center National Bank was celebrating its 35th anniversary.

Over the past 65 years we have seen the "cows come home". We've been part of many changes in Union Township and we'll continue to be part of its future development.

We're The Union Center National Bank, the bank with a heart... the only bank in town with a 65 year old commitment to the community. Remember, if your needs are financial... ALL YOU REALLY NEED IS HEART.

THE SAMUELS-FAMILY PROGRESSES WITH UNION!

1932 In Our 58TH Year 1990

SERVING UNION AND THE SURROUNDING AREA

The Samuels Family started in business in 1932 when Jacob Samuels opened a used car lot at 2801 Springfield Ave. in the Vauxhall section of Linden. As his 3 sons grew older they joined the family business and helped it grow to one of N.J.'s largest. All went well until World War II when business conditions forced them to close. At this point "Pop" Samuels retired.

The 3 boys reopened the business in 1946 and in 1951 added a new car showroom and automotive service facility. As the business kept growing an auto body and painting facility (the largest in Union) was added in 1952. The Samuels boys became the largest Studebaker-Packard Sales & Service showroom on the Eastern seaboard. When Studebaker ceased production in 1964 the boys continued their service and body shop business.

The firm is presently run by Ervin Samuels with the able assistance of Robert Samuels & Matt Plano and assisted by Jr. Stradford, Julius Lewler, James Fasolo, Ron McDuffie and Amodeo Malvarca, Curtis Croach, Paul Rodriguez, Jose Rodriguez, Theron Echtil, and Robert Jackson, who have matured with the constant growth of the firm and are a part of the great future that has made Buy Wise Auto Parts known by the phrase "If it's automotive... most likely we have it." Five acres of facilities to serve you with 30 employees.

Bob Sekule, home remodeling expert

BOB SEKULE, home remodeling specialist, has been brightening homes throughout Union County for over 11 years. Specializing in deck work and custom kitchens, Sekule guarantees his work for customer satisfaction.

Tired of that old front stoop? Need a back deck to lounge on by poolside? Or how about a new kitchen with matching appliances?

If upgrading your home or remodeling your kitchen is what you need, Bob Sekule, the remodeling specialist, can make your home perfect for you — guaranteed.

Bob Sekule of Union has been in the home remodeling business for most of his career. After more than a decade in the trade, he has made scores of homeowners happy with their homes for the first time.

"A lot of people who want to build additions or remodel their homes can't afford to do it all at once," Sekule said. "They want a new deck or new kitchen, or maybe a dormer to brighten up a dull room, but they want to do it one step at a time.

"Well, that's our specialty. We are a full-scale home remodeling company specializing in quality workmanship at affordable prices."

Sekule, a master carpenter for over 11 years, has helped brighten homes throughout Union County. Working as a fully ensured home remodeling company, Sekule guarantees all of his workmanship and appliances.

"Over the summer months, we tend to specialize in decking," says Sekule, "but we don't really like to limit ourselves. We're a highly versatile company and all of our work and appliances are guaranteed under the manufacturer's warranty."

As a policy, Sekule makes sure all of his customers are happy with what they pay for. A specialized team of salespersons is sent to your home with samples you can see for yourself. Customers can also choose from an extensive line of materials and name brand appliances — all of which are neatly displayed in a catalog for your convenience.

While some homeowners choose to have a standard deck built with lifetime-guaranteed, pressure-treated lumber, others want a customized look and choose redwood or cedar. The price for a standard deck is about $13 per square foot. Customized work ranges from about $13 to $18 per square foot.

"A lot of people are choosing to build new, elaborate decks around their homes that match the style of their houses and their landscaping, giving a whole new look to the entire home," Sekule said. "Usually people want their decks to be personalized to suit their particular tastes, so customized work is what many have in mind."

Sekule and his partner and fellow tradesman, Jim Breheny, have found that most prefer to have a minimal number of people working inside their homes at a time.

"We were both professionals working independently at one time," Breheny said. "But we found that it would be better for us and for our customers if we put our skills together."

Homeowners interested in speaking with Sekule about deck work, remodeling or expanding any portion of their home can call 688-5971 for an appointment.
