State says county must buy quarry or place it at auction

By David Wise
Staff Writer

The state, pressured by the federal government, is requesting that the county pay for the 93-acre parcel of land in Houdaille Quarry in Springfield or it will be placed at public auction, paving the way for private development.

In a published letter to the county, Lester Finch, manager of the state Department of Transportation's bureau of property and relocation, said the federal government is seeking reimbursement for money used to purchase the 163-acre quarry in 1981.

In that year, the state bought the 163-acre site from Houdaille Quarry Co. for about $8 million, with much of the money coming from funds provided by the Federal Highway Administration, in order to acquire land to construct a portion of Route 78.

To recoup these highway construction funds, the federal government is essentially pressuring the state to sell its 93-acres in Houdaille Quarry, still under lease to the county, for approximately $4.5 million.

Ninety-three acres of Houdaille Quarry has remained under state ownership since 1981, while a 70-acre parcel was transferred to the county in the mid-1980s in a land exchange that gave the state a portion of the Watchung Reservation, which later formed a 5.5-mile "missing link" section of Route 78.

At least 50 of the 93 acres leased to the county — with the option to buy — have been used for leaf composting. For two years now, more than 15 communities, including Springfield, Mountainside, and Berkeley Heights, have transported tons of leaves to the composting facility for decomposition. The municipalities pay the county approximately $3.75 for each cubic yard of leaves dumped at the composting site, netting the county about a quarter of a million annually. By all accounts, the county's composting operation is a great success.

Proposals to change the Houdaille Quarry into a commercial venture have always generated much vocal opposition, and county officials have not implemented any plans to alter the land's natural state. Insofar as concluding a deal to purchase this property from the state, however, the county has not undertaken any steps to permanently acquire the 93-acres.

Now, as a result of the state letter, the county is required to buy the property or risk having it sold at public auction, thus opening the door for private development of the land.

Currently, the county has not taken any action on the proposal, and according to Margaret Woliansky, a spokesman for the Union County Board of Freeholders, that body is now evaluating the state's $4.5 million sale price.

"No decision has been reached," explained Woliansky. "It's premature to discuss what the county will do with the land."

In a published report, however, Freeholder Alan Augustine was quoted as saying that he would encourage acquisition of the property, although at a lower asking price. A spokesman for the DOT, Randy Linhurst, on the other hand, went on record as saying the offer was non-negotiable.

The potential sale of the 93-acre parcel is generating controversy anew, since there is a possibility that Houdaille Quarry, the largest area of undeveloped property in Union County, will be turned into a commercial development, destroying the land's natural beauty and wildlife.

Students to dig for artifacts this spring in archaeological project

By David Wise
Staff Writer

Fifth-graders at Florence M. Gaudinier School will engage in a little role-playing this spring, researching and exploring like real archaeologists, when they conduct a study of an actual nearby dig where a sparsely populated village once existed.

The Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, a subdivision of the county's Parks and Recreation Department, is providing the Springfield School District with a grant to allow students the opportunity to perform archaeological work as an exciting, innovative supplement to their curriculum.

This pilot program will integrate several elementary school subjects — math, science and history — in an attempt to give students a holistic view of the past as they explore a deserted village.

The dig will be performed in May at a site in the Mountainside Watchung Reservation, located near the Trailside Museum, where a town once flourished as a stagecoach stop between New York and Philadelphia.

The village, called Felville, was a "company town," according to the school district's curriculum director, Albert LaMorges, in which a wealthy man owned and operated all the private property and municipal services supplied to the residents, who worked as his employees. The town resembled many of the era, started by rich owners who provided housing and jobs to thinly populated communities. In a typical company town, the "owner" provided the school, church, and general store, practically "all of the needs of the community," LaMorges explained.

Fifth-graders will trace the development of these towns by examining one, a microcosm of early American industrial growth, while they dig for artifacts and clues at the excavation site, which will be bulldozed for greater accessibility. The county has hired an archaeologist to assist in the study that will require students to learn at least 32 different lessons, all adapted to the school curriculum.

In math classes, students participating in the program will learn how to graph and apply various other numerical skills in the process of site surveying. Their science background is expected to play a useful role, too, as they learn about rock formations and time periods during the exploration.

The deserted village's long history — the civilized portion — began in the Colonial period approximately 200 years ago, as a "fairly profitable" town, said LaMorges. Later, in the 1800s, it turned into a resort area named Glenside Park, a development that lasted until the early 20th century. Following its decline as a resort town, it was subsequently used for the WPA, the Work Projects Administration, a federal government program that ran throughout the Depression in the '30s.

On the dig, students will employ the same tools, techniques, and research methods, as those used by archaeologists, while uncovering many interesting artifacts, such as household items, broken pieces of pottery and toys. The clues that are discovered in this learning exercise will help students determine how people lived long ago, perhaps as far back as the 18th century. Before students begin work at the site, a few preliminary lessons will have to be taught in the classroom, starting sometime in April. Classroom instruction will also consist of a lot of writing, much of which will be done on 3-by-5 note cards, to keep information handy and concise. When students go to the site, they will stay a half day on each visit, but some archaeology sessions will take a full day to complete. They will work in teams, coming up with their own independent conclusions about the study.

After the site exploration part of the project is over, the students will construct a simulated dig in the school gymnasium, where their work will undergo further evaluation, enhanced by the previous hands-on learning experience.

This is the first year a program of this type has been instituted, and LaMorges is hoping the archaeological project will be a perennial academic event. Besides Gaudinier, the only other school involved in the project is Sherman School in Roselle Park.

Cable television show will feature Summit Area Red Cross activities

By David Wise
Staff Writer

Cable television subscribers in Springfield and surrounding communities will be treated to a program about the history and activities of the Summit Area Red Cross, when two half-hour programs air this month on Channel 36.

Part one, to be broadcast on Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m., has not been completed as yet, but it will tell the history of the Summit Area Red Cross, from its early days to the present. Summit Area Chapter Chairwoman Marjorie Brown said the program is in the final stages of editing, and will air within a few weeks, accompanying part two, which is already showing on Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. and at 12:30 p.m. on Wednesdays.

The Tuesday program provides viewers with interesting information about the Summit Area Red Cross' growing influence in the community. Residents will learn that the International Red Cross, founded in 1863 by a Swiss citizen, and the American Red Cross, organized in 1881, are two separate entities, though they share a common goal and use the same resources — volunteer workers and donated clothing and medical supplies.

The American Red Cross received a charter from Congress in 1905, and in 1917, the Summit chapter was formed as "a volunteer ambulance facility," said Brown.

The Red Cross is a voluntary, non-profit organization which supports itself strictly upon private donations, without funding from any governmental agency. Funds are usually collected during one large fund-raising period, held for the entire month of March, when mass mailings are sent out requesting donations.

Locally, the Summit chapter raised approximately $65,000, down from last year's figure of $70,000. In addition to its charity drives, Summit receives an annual grant from the Eastern Union County United Way, which gave the Red Cross $4,300 last year.

People who tuned into this program, with hosts board member Henry San Filippo and Ed Raftis, president of the Summit Historical Society, will discover that the Red Cross has served in every American war, as well as many peacetime endeavors. It has assisted in transportation services, home nursing, first aid, and collecting clothing for flood and earthquakes. The Summit chapter is staffed with many volunteers and one retired doctor.

These activities will be presented in slides and discussion, geared to give a colorful illustration of the Summit Red Cross chapter's history.

Internationally, there are 156 different kinds of Red Cross organizations around the world, said Brown, who mentioned the "Red Crescent" branches located in Muslim countries. Incidentally, noted Brown, the Red Cross symbol is actually the reverse of the Swiss flag.

In Thursday's program, specific Red Cross activities will be the focus, including the medical service the organization is most famous for providing: blood donation. Disaster relief, health screening, CPR training, and water safety are other areas that will be spotlighted.

The program will also show volunteers responding to a mock disaster, to demonstrate what Red Cross workers do in an emergency situation, such as one involving a large explosion and toxic fumes. The program shows volunteers, assisted by local police, setting up temporary shelters large enough to accommodate 100 people while preparing a makeshift cafeteria for food distribution.

The American Red Cross, a body consisting of 73,000 volunteers, has

Local companies support U.S. troops

Since the Persian Gulf War began, the business community has become involved in the effort of rallying behind soldiers fighting against the Iraqi regime. Two local businesses, in particular, are supporting American troops stationed in the Persian Gulf by assisting their families left at home.

The Inter Community Bank in Springfield and Piscataway-based Faxnet are aiding the cause with special services to spouses and children of soldiers.

InterCommunity Bank is offering two programs, one called Mail America and the other named Financial Advice Program, both of which are free and available to anyone, whether the person is a bank customer or not.

The Mail America program, developed and coordinated by Denise Casale, branch manager of Inter Community Bank, is designed to let individuals send free messages to servicemen by dropping the unstamped letters into postal boxes located at local bank offices decorated with American flags. The Inter Community will pay for all postage for letters addressed to any soldiers participating in Operation Desert Storm, even if the letter is sent to an anonymous serviceman.

Mark Fogt, president of Inter Community Bank, said the program was created simply out of concern for the troops and their relatives and friends. "We believe it's important to motivate our troops and make sure they receive as much support as possible,"

Fogt said. "They need to know we're committed to them on the front and to their families at home."

The second program, Inter Community's Financial Advice Program, provides free financial consultation, such information as checkbook balancing and loans, to relatives of the fighting American soldiers.

Regarding this unique service, Fogt said: "In many cases, our military personnel leave behind spouses who aren't used to taking on all household responsibilities, including budgeting, balancing a checkbook, paying bills and more," he said. "Inter Community Bank recognizes these critical needs and hopes to assist the families by offering financial advice and direction."

Thanks to the Faxnet company, Springfield residents can also send warm messages and expressions of hope, without cost, to the American troops serving in Operation Desert Sword.

Faxnet, in conjunction with AT&T and Park Drugs — located at 225 Morris Ave. in Springfield — will send a message to servicemen in the Gulf within two to five days, faster than it takes to mail a letter in most cases.

As a public service, Faxnet will allow residents to send messages to soldiers through a fax machine placed at Park Drugs. To transmit the fax, Park Drugs needs to have the recipient's name, rank, Social Security number, and the unit or ship to which he or she is assigned.

Quarry may be auctioned off

Consensus on the Springfield Township Committee is generally opposed to sale, for reasons that hinge upon the state's asking price and a number of conservation concerns.

Mayor Marc Marshall, for one, is vehemently against purchasing the parcel for $4.5 million, an amount considered inflated for undeveloped property composed mostly of landfill. When the state originally bought the quarry, the area looked like a moonscape, and it took 70 feet of landfill to smooth out the property.

Marshall said the property, a natural habitat for many wild animals, is not commercially advantageous to develop as a result of its weak soil foundation. To make the property suitable for a business enterprise or housing development, more landfill will be needed on top of the present soil layer. It is too costly to undertake many commercial projects in the quarry, and therefore the land is not worth $4.5 million as asked for by the state, which claims the property is actually worth $20 million.

Marshall, in fact, is incensed that the state would ask Union County to buy the land, considering the ill effects that Route 78 has had on the area. The land swap deal, which gave the state a portion of Watchung Reservation to create Route 78, has produced environmental damage, as well as other problems for neighboring communities. In towns like Springfield and Summit, first aid squads are required to respond to medical emergencies along the long, uninterrupted interstate highway, causing a drain upon municipalities in terms of time and money.

The mayor believes the state owes Union County a favor and ought to transfer title of the quarry without payment. In his opinion, the land was already purchased in 1981 with taxpayers' money, and so an additional payment would constitute a form of double taxation. Marshall said he "met with the DOT six or seven times" last year, but the state would not change its offer of $4.5 million.

If the land must be purchased, Marshall said the cost should be considerably lower, below the $4.5 million regarded as fair market value by the state. According to federal policy, the state must convey the land to Union County if the property represents a high social utility which, in this case, Houdaille Quarry does: it offers a high conservation value to the county.

The prime reason Marshall opposes a proposal to place the land at public auction is that a developer may want to create a business facility on the quarry site, consequently spoiling the area's ecosystem.

Marshall said, "I hate to lose it as a conservation area," adding that Houdaille Quarry is filled with "fox, deer, and birds of prey — animals unique to this area. We can't afford to lose opportunities like this." Losing the quarry to private developers would be disastrous to the county, specifically to residents and the environment, and once the property is altered, it cannot be restored to its original state.

The property should remain as a leaf composting site and conservation center, eventually enhanced with walkways and jogging paths for public use, Marshall concluded.

Committeewoman Marcia Forman's comments about the possible sale are in agreement with Marshall's.

"The state should give it to the county," insisted the committeewoman, who remarked that there is a "tremendous need" for a leaf composting facility and open spaces in this densely populated and congested area.

The state's threat to sell the parcel, said Committeeman Jeffrey Katz, is actually an attempt to close its budget deficit, "to the detriment" of Union County.

Marilyn Schneider, chairwoman of Springfield/Summit Citizens Organized to Protect the Environment (SCOPE), is a longtime activist in the fight to preserve the quarry's natural state. When she heard of the bid to sell the 93 acres, Schneider became "highly suspicious of the state's pressure on the county" to conclude the purchase by a March 1 deadline.

The county, according to information supplied to Schneider from a state official, has until March 1 to buy the property before it is placed at public auction. This move, said the SCOPE chairwoman, is probably orchestrated to help a private developer acquire the 93-acre parcel on a public sale. The state itself has little to gain, only about 10 percent of the sale price, roughly the amount it initially paid to receive the land, she added.

The idea of taking the property from the county defies logic, particularly after the county spent $1.5 million for the leaf composting site, said Schneider.

The federal government is not, in all likelihood, pressuring the state to sell the acres, said Schneider, who sees the whole action as a ruse of private developers.

"I don't believe the federal government wants the money," she declared. If the land sale is being requested by the federal government, "we want to see it in writing," Schneider said.

made a strong impact on the lives of many, even to the present day. When the Persian Gulf crisis started, 65 workers were dispatched to the region, and by next month, the number will increase to 150. Other works, such as helping 2,240 hostages released from Kuwait, were performed by the Red Cross, which is also helping families with relatives stationed in the Gulf. The Summit area chapter, which serves Springfield, Berkeley Heights, Gillette, Millington, New Providence, Passaic Township, Stirling and Summit, is scheduling support group sessions for families of the American troops every Monday night and will send an emergency message — such as a birth or death announcement — to any soldier stationed in the Middle East, free of charge.

Of course, the Red Cross is always looking for more volunteers and if anyone is interested in joining or obtaining more information, the local chapter can be contacted at 273-2076.

'Liaison committee' performs volunteer work and allows students to talk with principal

By David Wise
Florence M. Gaudineer School students are pitching in to help their community via the Principal Liaison Committee, a group that meets once a month with the school's principal, Kenneth Bernabe, to plan local civic activities and discuss academic affairs.

The meetings are conducted informally, over breakfast, before 8 a.m. Attending these meetings are about 30 students, all of whom, with the exception of one — the student council president is an appointee — are volunteers. They sit in a classroom with the principal to talk about school, many times serving as liaison for the general student body.

The liaison committee, promoted by the school as an extracurricular activity, has grown from four members to its present size in four years, and any student can join, said Bernabe. The main "thrust" of the committee, he said, is to perform civic-related services for the community, besides giving the principal an opportunity to converse with students.

Committee members recently thought of a way to help the community and organized a toy drive to benefit the Children's Hospital in Mountainside. According to the two project chairwomen, eighth-graders Sara Eisen and Jamie Luciani, the drive was successful in that many students were informed to bring toys from home, and deposit them in specially marked receptacles located inside classrooms through the school.

It's a worthwhile activity," said

Eisen, echoing Luciani's opinion. "It's going to help a lot of people."

Bernabe would like the committee to eventually visit a veteran's hospital to comfort the disabled by displaying their talents in art, music, and writing.

Opening the lines of communication has not been the only positive step made by the committee. They have established a suggestion box at Gaudineer and installed a bench at a school bus stop. Committee members are extremely active, said Bernabe, and take their work very seriously.

library notes

On Feb. 17 at 2 p.m., the Springfield Public Library, Mountain Avenue, Springfield, will present an origami demonstration and workshop led by Emma Lampariello, a Springfield resident. Lampariello is best known for her decoration of the library's Christmas tree each year.

She attributes her inspiration for this project to the tree in the New York City office of Japan Airlines. Lampariello has travelled to various conferences where she constantly acquires new and more elaborate techniques.

"As a former first grade teacher and Scout den mother, I found that origami was a very effective way to get a child's attention," says Lampariello of her 20-year involvement with the ancient Japanese art of paper folding. "Even very young children can learn to make simple objects."

Anyone interested in attending the workshop should register by calling 376-4930 during library hours or sign up in person at the circulation desk. Participants should bring their own note paper.

The library will sponsor a Bedtime Story program on Feb. 25 from 7 to 7:30 p.m. Children ages 3 1/2 to 5 are invited to attend. The children may wear their pajamas and bring a stuffed animal for company.

Pre-registration is required for these programs. Please stop by the library or call the children's department at 376-4930.

During the month of February, the Springfield Public Library will host an exhibit of underwater photography by local diving enthusiast Don Blair. Blair, who heads the Springfield-based Talbot agency, has travelled extensively to SCUBA dive and photograph what he observes.

His exhibit will include photographs of his excursions to such exotic places as Grand Cayman, Belize; the Great Barrier Reef in Australia; the Coral Sea; Bonaire in the Netherlands Antilles and Papua, New Guinea.

He has accompanied Dr. Eugenie Clark, the famous "Shark Lady" and head of the Marine Biology department at the University of Maryland on some of her expeditions. The display can be seen during library hours.

"I became certified as a SCUBA diver in 1973 on my 50th birthday," Blair proudly related in a recent telephone interview, "and I've been diving and taking pictures ever since."

Heart meeting is slated

The Essex-Union County Chapter of Mended Hearts, Inc., will hold a meeting on Feb. 19. Guest speaker will be Cary-R. Hardy, Esq., a partner in the law firm of Bourne, Noll and Kenyon and an expert on the subject of living wills. The chapter meets on the third Tuesday of each month in the First Aid Squad Building in Springfield at 8 p.m.

Mended Hearts, Inc., has 200 chapters nationwide. It is open to all, and heart disease patients can bring along a mate, companion or family member to meetings.

For any further information, one can call 376-0582.

Cub Scouts participate in 'fiesta'

The Cub Scouts of Pack 82 in Kenilworth recently held a meeting featuring a Fiesta theme, which focused upon Latin American countries.

All scouts passed uniform inspection and a certificate was presented to the pack.

Fashion student visits Europe's design houses

Mountainside resident Maria Francolino was among a group of students from the New Jersey and New York campuses of the Berkeley College of Business who recently visited London and Paris during the annual tour which Berkeley arranges for its fashion students.

A graduate of David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Francolino was enrolled in Berkeley's Middlesex campus in Woodbridge at the time she took the tour.

The students became actual participants in the European fashion scene when they were invited to try on original designs at the couture house of Zandra Rhodes. Rhodes regards herself as a textile designer rather than a fashion designer, and the students had an opportunity to see how textiles are designed.

Rhodes explained to the group that she is inspired in her work by the places she visits. The couture dresses which the Berkeley students tried on cost $5,000, $10,000 or $20,000. Beading, the students were told, is done in the orient by people who have been beading for them for 25 years. The Berkeley visitors learned that couture lines have been negatively affected by recent world events. Middle Easterners, whose wealth comes from oil, are among those declining numbers of individuals who are still able to afford couture attire, the students were told.

The Berkeley group learned about all stages of fashion production at Burberry's of London, which is known for the plaid linings used in their raincoats, which are repeated in pleated skirts for women and scarves for both men and women.

At Kensington Palace, the students saw an exhibition of the wedding dresses of Princess Diana, Princess Anne and, from 1922, Princess Mary, the only daughter of King George V.

The Berkeley students were also invited guests at a fashion show staged at the Galleries Lafayette, where they viewed the autumn and winter collections for the 1990-91 season.

Francolino has since transferred to the Garret Mountain campus in West Paterson to complete requirements for her Associate in Applied Science degree in the fashion marketing and management program.

THE WHOLE TOOTH
Allies for the Tooth Brush

Your tooth brush can't do everything. That's a good starting-point for developing a successful personal dental hygiene program.

The reason is that a brush only takes care of the visible surfaces of your teeth. It doesn't get between the teeth or beneath the gum line. That's where the great enemy of your teeth, dental plaque, hides and conducts its campaign against the health of your teeth. And plaque, as you know, is the primary cause of tooth decay and gum disease.

Perhaps the best supplement to the brush is dental floss. It does take time to use it effectively, but the additional effort will pay off in enhanced protection against plaque's destructive power. Here's how you should use floss —

About eighteen inches of floss will do the job for you. Wrap the ends securely around the middle fingers of each hand, leaving a couple of inches loose between your fingers. Your thumbs should guide it between the top teeth, your index fingers for the lower.

Starting wherever is comfortable for you, slide the floss between the teeth, moving it back and forth to the gum along the side of one tooth. Repeat this for the adjacent tooth, then continue until all teeth are flossed. Don't be discouraged. You'll soon overcome the initial awkwardness.

Your gums also need stimulating, to keep the blood flowing through the tissues. Again, the tooth brush isn't enough because it can't reach between your teeth.

The answer is a gum stimulator. They are available in drug-stores, resemble triangular toothpicks, and come in containers like matchbooks. Think of them as a massage instruments because that's what they do to your gums. They also help clean those in-between places your brush can't reach.

Dental floss and gum stimulators, essential pieces of your defense against tooth damage.

Your mother always said you didn't know how to listen.

Sony bets a FREE COMPACT DISC you do.

When your mother said, "Clean up your room," you didn't listen. If she had said, "Clean up your room and I'll give you a free CD," you would have heard her quite clearly. It's called selective listening, and Sony's putting it into action.

Just come in to any participating Sony autosound dealer and listen to any Sony car CD system. You'll not only hear just how good car stereo can be, you'll get a free CD, while supplies last. Quantities are limited. One to a customer.

And if you do buy a Sony car CD player before January 31, you'll receive 3 additional CD's, absolutely free. Thus proving what mothers everywhere have been saying for years: it pays to listen.

A SPINE OUT OF BALANCE

If you're feeling out of sorts, with a vague discomfort in your back, your spine may be out of balance.

Your spine serves a vital function in many ways. The spine and nervous system attached to it, in fact, have a direct effect on any of the functions of your body. It's important to keep the spine in proper balance.

The spine is connected to a foundation made up of your pelvis and legs. If this foundation is well-balanced and working normally, it helps to keep your spine in balance, otherwise it can cause pain and discomfort.

For example, if a house's foundation is crooked or unsteady, it will distort the walls. You'll see cracks in the plaster. Doors won't fit properly. Windows may not open. You can repair the cracked plaster and trim the doors and windows to fit again. But how long will these "cover-ups" last?

Your body also needs a good foundation. If your spine is out of balance, seek the treatment you need to put it right again.

Bowling match planned

The Kenilworth Senior Citizen Club, Inc. has announced that the third annual mixed bowling match between the Kenilworth seniors and borough officials and employees will be held on Feb. 21 at 9 p.m. at the Echo Lanes Bowling Alley, Route 22 East, Mountainside.

The seniors will be led by Charles Vitale, with Natalie Moscatell and Helen Steel as co-captains, and are hoping this year's match will bring them a third consecutive victory.

One hundred sixty-eight members attended the club's Feb. 6 meeting, during which Kenilworth Mayor Joseph Rego announced that because of the overhaul of the sewer system and a garbage site change a good savings will come to the borough.

Club members Joe and Evelyn Mindas are celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary this month and Joe and Laura Angen are celebrating 54 years together. The couples received a round of applause from fellow club members during the meeting.

It was announced during the meeting that the Nutrition Luncheon Program held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays still has plenty of room for any senior citizen 60 years old and up. The suggested donation is $1.50.

The club's monthly birthday party will be held on Feb. 19, during which the organization's own quartette will sing.

Bingo will be held on the first and third Fridays of the month beginning in March, and Battenburg Lace and Body Revival classes will also start in March. One can see May Yohannan for further information.

A one-day trip to the Fiesta in Woodbridge to see the play "Two by Two," a musical play about Noah's Ark, will be held on March 12. The fee for the trip includes bus transportation, the play and lunch.

For lunch, participants will have their choice of roast top sirloin of beef, broiled fresh lemon sole and fresh boneless breast of capon with fiesta dressing. The bus will leave from the 21st Street parking lot in Kenilworth at 10 a.m. and will return there about 5 p.m.

Anyone interested in going on the trip can call Betty McCrea at 245-0624 or see her at the Kenilworth Senior Citizens Club, 526 Boulevard, Kenilworth, on Monday, Wednesday or Friday. The deadline for tickets is Wednesday, Feb. 27.

A trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., from May 19-25, is also being planned. One can also see Betty McCrea to sign up for this trip.

Nine club members who belong to the Retired Senior Volunteers Program donated 36 hours to the American Lung Association.

One hundred one hours were recently volunteered by club members at the Cranford Extended Care Center.

Prizes were donated by Helen Bancy, Elvina Barbarich, Clara Cherenche, Nancy Ciano, Julia Caforia, Mary Dulamba, Elsie Harth, Catherine Hudak, Ann LaCosta, Florence and Ben Larbor, Lucille Lucaderna, Lillian Pilat, Stella Rasinski and May Yohannan.

Eighteen club members donated 83 hours to the borough's SHARE nutrition program. A food pickup will be held Feb. 23 at the Kenilworth Civil Defense Building, 14th Street, Kenilworth. Any interested resident can contact Minnie Leikauskas at 272-7743.

The Kenilworth seniors play Mah-Jongg every Wednesday and Friday at the Kenilworth Senior Center, where they have two game sets and two tables. A Chinese game played during the time of Confucius, 551-478 B.C., Mah-Jongg was popular in the United States from 1920-24 and is played with 144 tiles.

One can check with Ann LaCosta at the center for Mah-Jongg instructions.

IMPORTANT LESSON — Firefighter Wayne Masiello, center, gives a fire safety lesson to students during a recent assembly which was held at James Caldwell School in Springfield. The youngsters learned about how to prevent fires from starting and what to do in the event that a fire should occur. The program was presented at the school in order to instill in students the importance of fire safety. Joining Masiello are, left to right, James Caldwell students Kate Ciuillo, Jason Carlson, and J.T. Weatherston.

Embroidery to be exhibited Sunday

The Miller-Cory House Museum, 614 Mountain Ave., Westfield, will feature the craft of crewel embroidery on Sunday, Feb. 17, from 2-4 p.m. Crewel is a type of loosely twisted worsted yarn used for fancywork and embroidery.

Virginia Morbeck of Westfield will explain this attractive form of needlework while working on an acorn design. In early America, women generally used hand-dyed yarn and left much of the background material showing on their crewelwork.

Caroline Barna of Scotch Plains will discuss the many types of herbs used in cooking during the 18th and 19th centuries. Barna is a member of the museum's open hearth cooking committee.

Authentically costumed docents will be conducting tours through the furnished rooms of the restored farmhouse.

The Museum Shop, coordinated by Irene Heckler of Westfield, contains many books on early America as well as craft kits and numerous gift items. For further information, one is invited to call the office at 232-1776.

PRESIDENTS DAY

Here we are again

When Gov. Jim Florio presented his Quality Education Act to the Legislature in June 1990, only one month after he drew the plan, the Senate and Assembly spent less than one week before they approved the measure and changed the way school districts would be funded.

In order to comply with the ruling handed down by the state Supreme Court in Abbott vs. Burke, a case which ordered the state to provide an equal education to all students, the Quality Education became the response that ensured all school districts across the state would be funded equally.

The Quality Education Act was nothing more than a display of power among the Democrats in the Senate and Assembly, which, back in June 1990, had recently regained control of the Legislature. As many recall, most Democrats backed the governor, while just as many Republicans called for more time to study the impact of the proposed measure.

The method of providing equal funding to school districts was to take from the rich and give to the poor — or take from suburbia and give to the urban and rural districts. When the method was announced, New Jerseyans who were classified as living in "wealthy" municipalities throughout the state but who felt they could not live up to the designation, revolted.

When the governor apparently did not listen to their pleas, the same New Jerseyans rebelled by going to the polls in November 1990 and wiping out many Democrats from local, county and state government. Even a very comfortable U.S. Sen. Bill Bradley escaped defeat by a narrow margin. Residents were not looking forward to higher property taxes.

That was last year. The message hit home among Florio and the Democrats in the Legislature. Since then, the Quality Education Act — and the method by which it will be funded — has been undergoing some changes.

A plan proposed by Senate President John Lynch and Senate Majority Leader Daniel Dalton — both Democrats — would divert $395 million in funds from the new school aid to assist in lowering property taxes.

Providing an equal education to all students across the state without raising property taxes should have been considered last year when the plan was proposed. No elected official could have thought for one minute that the Quality Education Act, in its original form, would have been accepted by his or her constituents.

In 1991, the Quality Education Act is again rearing its head, almost coincidentally, at a time when a quick fix is needed.

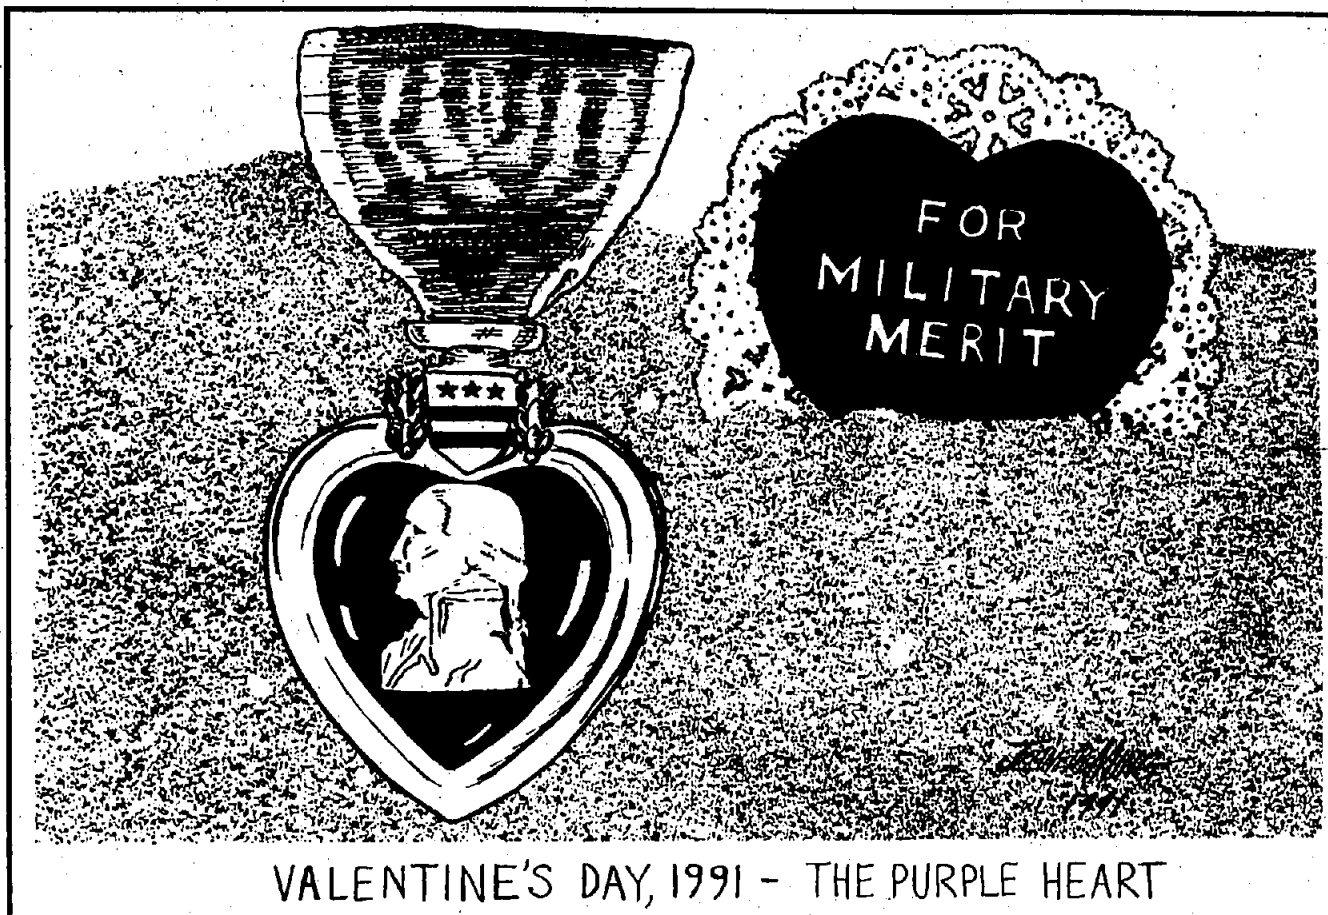

The governor signed a bill last week that would postpone the school board elections by four weeks. That's because many school board elections include the public's vote on the current expense and capital outlay portions of the district's budget.

Because the state cannot determine how much aid will be distributed to the districts, how can the districts prepare a budget and how can the public decide if the expense is reasonable?

By March 15, local school officials should know how much their districts will receive in state aid. The figures would include funding as a result of changes in the Quality Education Act.

So here we are again. Another deadline to devise a plan that will affect millions of New Jersey residents, and the Democrats in the Legislature who acted politically with the original plan are back. Just as they voted to appease the governor, will they now vote to appease the electorate to try to regain their popularity?

As we watch the clock once again tick away, are we to be reminded that the same clock began ticking this way in 1990? Let's hope the Legislature acts more thoughtfully and more prudently when revamping the Quality Education Act to avoid changes in the future. The more a system is changed, the less credible it becomes.

TV had invasion of its own in Persian Gulf

They're at it again. The television media have taken a serious situation and are treating it like a mini-series. The Persian Gulf War is just another ratings war for the TV moguls and no matter who wins, the viewers lose. One can only imagine what goes on at those high level meetings between the TV moguls and their creative staff. However, it isn't too far-fetched to picture the following behind-the-scenes action taking place to create "The War in the Gulf — A Mini-Series."

Let's peek into a private meeting with mogul "TT" and his people. TT: The deadline is getting close. What have you got for me? His people: Well TT, it's like this. What does our audience want? They want violence, action, bright lights, a hero and a villain. We've got that and more for them. How about a prime-time war? TT: That sounds promising. Tell me more.

Be Our Guest

By Ron Ghillino

His people: You see, TT, once the deadline passes, we'll wait a day. The anticipation will build to a frenzy, you know Americanism and all that. Then prime-time on Wednesday the bombs drop and the cameras roll. TT: Prime time? Is that New York time or L.A. time? His people: New York time. It will be 4 p.m. in L.A. and we can cut into Oprah. What an audience. TT: Hey, now you're thinking. His people: Yeah, picture this. We put the title in big Stonehenge graphic letters and use that swoosh sound from "A Current Affair." TT: Right. Use big block letters, "OPERATION DESERT STORM." I like it.

His people: Well, I think the name can be catchier, sexier, more patriotic. You know, say...I've got it! Bob Hope goes to all these war things. Let's call it, "The Bob Hope Desert Storm Classic." Maybe we could do a golf thing with it. TT: Yeah, and doesn't Bob Hope always hang around with Brooke Shields? Maybe we can call it, "Operation Brooke Desert Shields" until the bombs hit. His people: That's why you get the big money, boss. TT: OK, let's pick our stars. Who's available to go to Baghdad to report live from the action? His people: That's the beauty of this thing, TT, all we have to do is watch CNN. They'll have some guy sitting in the middle of the bombing anyway. TT: This all sounds great. We throw in a little terrorist propaganda, maybe a threat to the Super Bowl. Wow, imagine the ratings share we'll pull if we can cut in right at game time. It boggles the mind. His people: We can run reports on every station — except MTV. I think we've got ourselves a winner. TT: All right, I'm almost ready to say "Go." Now, you don't think it will bother some viewers that these bombings and killings are for real? His people: Are you kidding? You're talking about people who got upset when Yankee games were taken off WPIX. You're talking about people who made Roseanne Barr a star. They can stomach anything. TT: I'm convinced. Say, there's just one more thing. What did you come up with for an ending? His people: Ending? Now that's funny, an ending totally slipped my mind. Never even thought about it. An ending...let me think. TT: Well, let's not worry. I'm sure CNN will think of something. Now what about commercials... Ron Ghillino is a resident of Springfield.

letters to the editor

Congrats to Florio for action

To the Editor: The New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society wholeheartedly congratulates Gov. Florio for "doing the right thing" in vetoing bill S-2232. If passed, this piece of legislation would have elevated tobacco addiction to the level of a civil right in New Jersey. The American Cancer Society encourages the Legislature to be equally sensible and reject any override attempt. Smoking, as we know, is a matter of choice and should never be compared with a civil right. The American Cancer Society realizes that smoking is an addiction and offers programs to help the smoker during this difficult time in his or her life. The governor further sent a message to the youth of our state, discouraging them from smokers in his statement which read in part, "The energies and resources of New Jersey should be directed toward helping people quit and toward making sure that our children do not take up this harmful addiction." Stuart C. Finch, M.D. President, New Jersey Division Inc. American Cancer Society

Thanks for generosity

To the Editor: The Salvation Army of New Jersey extends a warm and sincere thank you to New Jerseyans throughout the state who have given generously toward the relief of poverty and suffering experienced by their neighbors during the holidays. Your donations of time and money have enabled The Salvation Army to provide a hearty meal; new, warm clothing; coats for school-aged children; toys for children who might not have had a Christmas this year; emergency lodging or assistance to prevent a family from becoming homeless because of a crisis with which it is suddenly faced. These are a few of the things that we at The Salvation Army did this Christmas time will continue to do all year long because of the people of New Jersey who care. Lt. Col. William A. Bamford State Commander, The Salvation Army New Jersey Divisional Headquarters

Maintain unity and resolve

To the Editor: At a time when the men and women in our armed forces are facing their greatest test, we at home are facing a test as well. Our test is to maintain our unity and resolve, as our troops are doing in the Persian Gulf. We don't want Saddam Hussein to take this country's tolerance for anti-war demonstrators as a signal he should wait out our resolve in a long and bloody war. I'm outraged at the brutal treatment of our POW's. And I'm saddened to see the media give so much attention to the small number of anti-war protesters who have sprung into action. It seems that every time a few protesters pick up their signs, the cameras swarm around them, and they end up on the news. Our soldiers have said that they have a job to do and are going to get it done. I feel I have a job to do, too. And that's to stand up in strong support to our troops.

I want them to know that I and the American people are very proud of them. We are all inspired by their bravery. I hope that you'll print my letter, and others like it, in the days ahead. Thousands of local American newspapers are reaching our men and women in uniform every day. Your newspaper may be one of them. I want the troops to know that we hold them in our thoughts and prayers every day. Demetri K. Garofallou Springfield

A REAL BUNCH OF CHARACTERS — Fourth-grade students at Thelma L. Sandmeier School in Springfield recently participated in a dress-up Book Report Day. Each student dressed up as his or her favorite character in the books they read, and also gave an oral presentation about their books to their classmates, teachers and the principal. The activity allowed students to be creative while developing their literary and language skills. Teachers pictured are, left to right, Corinne Magliaro, Deborah Ricardo and Helen Grayson.

World Day of Prayer is scheduled

Women from various churches in the Twin Boroughs will come together next month for a World Day of Prayer. World Day of Prayer is an international worship event that bonds Christian women of all major denominations and faiths into a simultaneous day of prayer for peace and justice. This global chain of informed prayer and prayerful action, which began in the United States 104 years ago, has spread to 170 countries and regions of the world.

Church Women United of Roselle/Roselle Park will hold their service at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Roselle at 1:15 p.m. on March 1. The church is located at the corner of Walnut and E. Fourth Avenue and a snow date for the service will be March 8. A Bible Study led by the Rev. Susan Hill will be held at noon. Ehel M. Pulley, President of Church Women United Roselle/Roselle Park Unit, will welcome those in attendance; Jean Rayner, Vice President, is in charge of the program; and the St. Luke's Episcopal Church Women will greet the participants at a tea following the service. The Friendship Club will display their handmade items.

This year's service was written by women of Kenya, West Africa. Its theme, "On the Journey Together," inspired the authors to travel extensively throughout their country talking and listening to their Kenyan sisters share the stories of their lives. The global service of worship they created has woven the joys, pain, concerns, and sorrows of these women into an experience that reflects what Kenyans call "Harambee," or a spirit of togetherness. It is a call for women to be caring of others as they "journey" together and work for political, economic and social progress in their lives.

Church Women United (CWU),

since its founding in 1941, has been the official sponsor of World Day of Prayer in the United States. Each year, CWU prepares and distributes the worship resources for more than 6,000 U.S. communities and churches where the event is observed. Church Women United is the ecumenical movement that brings Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women together into one community of prayer, advocacy and service. It represents a broad spectrum of religious traditions, race, age, economic status and ethnic background and works through a national unit, 52 state units, including those in greater Washington, D.C. and Puerto Rico, and 1,750 local units. Unified by a common faith in Christ, the women of Church Women United work for the elimination of poverty of women and children, through Assignment: Poverty of Women, and issues of justice and peace.

The human foot is a complex structure consisting of 26 bones and 33 joints in addition to an arch, tendons, muscles and ligaments. Since this delicate structure has to support the weight of the human body, it is no wonder that many people suffer an endless variety of foot-related problems including bunions, ingrown toenails, corns, callouses and hammertoes.

The area's leading podiatrists are Dr. Frederick D. Rosencranz and Dr. Wayne J. Caputo, and their office is located at 318 Chestnut Street in Roselle Park, phone 687-5757 and 241-7272. Their years of schooling and experience enable them to help you with your foot-related problems. They can counsel you on which podiatric treatments may be necessary including medications, major or minor surgery, and orthotics, which are prescription corrective devices individually molded to the foot and worn inside the shoe. These devices coordinate the function of the various parts of the foot.

If you are one of those people who have been procrastinating about the care of your feet, it is time to consult with this outstanding professional. Remember, no part of the body receives the physical punishment that your feet are required to take. Dr. Rosencranz and Dr. Caputo are available to help, regardless of whether you have an ingrown toenail, corns, bunions or any other foot-related problem. Call the office today for an appointment or more information.

Youth reap benefits of educational/business project

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor

When a teenager reaches for the newspaper over the breakfast table and turns to the stock market pages rather than the comics, to the astonishment of his parents, then one knows that the Junior Achievement Program is working.

At least, this is what happened to one youngster in Union County, and the teenagers' growing interest in business and industry and the stock markets is making business and economic and history teachers very happy. And proud!

Particularly, says J. Kenneth Rodan, president of the Junior Achievement of Central New Jersey, which encompasses Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties, "with Project Business in our school system."

The Junior Achievement has been helping youngsters since 1919 to step into the future, and according to the brochures provided by Junior Achievement Inc., that helping hand today "comes from computer-based management simulations in high school Applied Economics, learning to operate a mini-company in the original Junior Achievement Company program, lessons in basic economic principles in junior high through Project Business, and an introduction to business fundamentals for elementary school pupils in Business Basics. At all age levels, Junior Achievement is helping millions of young people to develop skills and knowledge for a future of success."

"Project Business," says Rodan, says, during a recent visit to this office, "is a partnership between the business community and schools."

He has been with the program since 1949, and he says that "the acceptance of this program by the business and financial organizations that supply the consultants as well as interest from students and teachers indicates that Project Business will continue to grow in central New Jersey. We believe that the American free enterprise system is still the best economic system in the world, and it's important that our teenagers understand and appreciate its basic principals. Project Business is one of the most effective ways to reach our young people. Not only does it teach the free enterprise system, it lives it."

Even President George Bush, in a keynote address two years ago at the 15th National Business Leadership Conference was impressed enough to consider Junior Achievement a "phenomenally successful enterprise by any measure." And back in 1982, when he was vice president, during a dinner in Pittsburgh, he praised the Junior Achievement work in economic education. "I've been an admirer of Junior Achievement and all it's done to advance economic education for many years...There's no doubt that Junior Achievement has a positive impact."

Among the public schools in Union County that are implementing and continuing the Junior Achievement programs are Union High School, Union; Deerfield School, Mountainside; Harding School, Kenilworth; McKinley McManus and Soehl schools in Linden, Roselle Park High School, Rahway High School, Carl Kumpf Junior High School in Clark and Hillside High School.

Among the parochial schools participating are St. Elizabeth's School, Linden, and St. John the Apostle School, Clark.

And among the local businesses volunteering their assistance and personal services are the GAF Corp., Linden; Ulrich Copper Inc., Kenilworth; The Summit Trust Co., Elizabeth and Clark; Schering-Plough Corp., Union; General Motors Corp., Linden; New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., Union and Middlesex counties; Bristol-Myers-Squibb Co., Hillside; Exxon Co., USA, Linden; Coopers & Lybrand, tri-county; American Cyanamid Co., Linden, and Merck & Co. Inc., Rahway and Clark.

Rodan, who maintains his office in Elizabeth, is credited with building the Junior Achievement programs in the tri-county area to what they are today. He is frequently commended for his efforts and his devotion to his tasks.

"I came to Elizabeth via Colgate-Palmolive in 1949," says the soft-spoken gentleman. "I had been active in the National Junior Achievement organization. Apparently, the Junior Achievement organization in Elizabeth was bankrupt and they needed someone to rebuild and revitalize the program."

"I was contacted, and a friend of mine and I put this thing together. So," he smiles, "I came here in 1949, and I've been here ever since. And," Rodan explains modestly, "we now have one of the best — one of the most outstanding programs in the country."

"We're the only Junior Achievement organization in the country to win for 21 consecutive years the Freedom Foundation Medal for Economic Education programs, and we initiated what we called Youth Incentive Awards projects. The students were selected as winners in the projects by their leadership, ability to get along with adults and their peers, attendance at company meetings, top sales of Junior Achievement products and overall outstanding performance as a teenager. The winner was selected based on that criteria by a panel of business and community leaders, represented by the Society of Certified Public Accountants and the Young President's Organization, YPO, which is a national organization of corporate presidents doing more than a million dollars in business before the age of 36."

The winners, Rodan explains, "would get an all-expense paid trip to Germany, Ireland, Great Britain, Holland, Belgium, Aruba, Puerto Rico, Nassau and Germany. And they would be guests of the Royal Family of Holland, United States Ambassador Ammenberg of Great Britain and be taken to the Court of St. James in London."

"Then they spend one day with business executives or political leaders, one night with their families and the ret of the week they visit business and financial organizations," says Rodan. "There also are meetings with students and business and government leaders to get the flavor of international business and international relations."

The Junior Achievement president explains that "there are usually about 34 to 36 students with about 10 business leaders who serve as chaperons. They and the parents are there to encourage young people to participate in the administration and the business community to support the program."

Through the years, Rodan says, "we have had celebrities, all friends of mine, to meet at the Junior Achievement headquarters in Elizabeth to talk to the students and to encourage them to participate actively and inspire them to higher goals. Among the celebrities are Kim Novak, Maureen O'Hara, Ginger Rogers, Tony Randall and David Hartman."

Rodan adds, "there is one very important thing I would like to make perfectly clear. There are no funds used from the United Way, local state or federal tax monies. The entire cost of the Junior Achievement is borne by business, professional and financial organizations and some foundations and some individuals."

When Rodan first joined Junior Achievement, he came in as executive director and became president 10 years ago. "During that time," he recalls, "times were changing, so we started to develop new programs. The national organization in Colorado Springs, Col., developed new programs through foundation grants, and we established Project Business, and that's for the eighth and ninth grade students. We have Applied Economics for 11th and 12th graders, and Business Bonus for the fifth graders. And we are presently working on our programs for kindergarten through sixth grade, so that we will be reaching the children and educating them with economic information and career opportunities as early as kindergarten."

Rodan says proudly, "We have a new program in a pilot stage which we will be presenting to the public shortly. The Girl Scouts have to prepare for all kinds of badges. Right? So, we're going to have business basic classes for the Girl Scouts so they can earn their business badges through a Junior Achievement basic program."

"Right now it's a pilot and we're going to do it all in one day in Union or at Kean College. The Girl Scouts will work this out. There will be about 120 of them through 10 classes of about 20 each. Then we'll make it available to the Boy Scouts."

Junior Achievement, Rodan states, "has been in existence for about 70 years, and since 1945 in the tri-county area. I've dedicated a good portion of my life to it. It's effective in giving teenagers an opportunity for a quality of life as they grow older and if they take advantage of it."

"I know of former Junior Achievers who are now practicing lawyers, ad executives, accountants, members of religious organizations. They are in all facets of our economic world."

In the Project Business and Business Basics, Rodan says, "we recommend that they be in a social studies curriculum. The school principals select the teachers he wants to participate. And that's when we come in."

Rodan emphasizes, "None of this would be possible without the support of such companies as Exxon, IBM, General Motors, New Jersey B'Vell, Coopers and Lybrand, Dupont, GAF Co., PSG&E, Schering-Plough, Merck & Co., and other outstanding companies and businesses. We get lots of volunteers and lots of money from these businesses."

Joseph Guglielmo, history teacher at Roselle Park High School, has been in charge of the Junior Achievement program for the past three years, and he says with pride, "I have 25 students in class this semester. And they are predominately juniors and seniors."

"We meet every day during the last period class. We establish a little knowledge and background material."

Guglielmo explains that "we start with financing a business and how the liquidation of a business comes about. In the last three years, we've been able to give back about 20 percent of stockholders' profits plus their original investments. It's popular. And," he chuckles, "it's unique."

"We run the business," he says. "Students are actually paid to come to class because under the Junior Achievement program, each vice president receives $4 for a semester. The class makes 40 cents a production period plus 10 percent of what the students sell. We finance it with stocks and sell to the student body and faculty. What makes it so interesting is that we produce and sell our product. And we get a nice profit. We pay all our expenses that way. We also give bonuses," explains Guglielmo.

"With Project Business," he says, "we work with Michael La Brach, vice president of Harmonia Bank in Kenilworth. But Project Business is strictly elementary school, eighth graders."

"Junior Achievement is different. No only can the students learn about economics, but they have to participate in it. With the computer and our simulation of running a business, this is truly a hands on teaching or hands on learning."

"I'm in my third year," he smiles. "And it's fun. It's a little different from teaching United States History. Or even from coaching...I coach the football team...I'm one of the assistants."

"It's really a fine program!"

The GFWC Woman's Club of Connecticut Farms, Union, will meet at the American Legion on Bond Drive tonight at 8. Phillip Ritter, Connecticut Farms president, will preside over the business section of the meeting.

A benefit sale will follow the business meeting. Joseph Fitzgerald, vice president, will conduct the sale. Funds from the sale will be donated to the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs State Project CHAP.

Each year the woman's clubs throughout New Jersey select a project to which they donate money, volunteer hours and materials. This year's project, the Children's Hospital AIDS Program, benefits hospitals across the state caring for young AIDS patients.

The New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs represents more than 23,000 members statewide, working on projects and programs to improve communities, state, nation and the world, it was announced.

The Woman's Club of Connecticut Farms has been a part of the volunteer spirit for more than 60 years. "Residents interested in learning about the community while forming new friendships and gaining leadership skills, can call Linda at 686-3488."

The combined 6th, 7th and 8th districts of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs will hold their program assistance day Tuesday in St. Cloud Presbyterian Church, Ridgeway Avenue and Old Indian Road, West Orange.

The Seventh District will serve as host district with Mrs. Patrick Pizza, Seventh District Program Assistance chairman, in charge. Registration will begin at 9:15 a.m. Mrs. Joseph Fitzgerald, program chairman of the GFWC Woman's Club of Connecticut Farms, will attend with the president, Mrs. Philip Ritter, and Mrs. Homer Dukes, Seventh District Communications chairman.

Mountainside Woman's Club, Inc., member of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs and the General Federation of Women's Clubs will meet at L'Affaire Route 22, Mountainside, Wednesday at noon.

A benefit event will be conducted by Ruth Goense following the business luncheon.

Reservations should be made by today, it was announced, by calling Fritz Walcher at 233-9396 or Jeannie Blackburn at 232-7583. Donations of items can be given to any board member or can be brought to the meeting.

The Springfield Chapter of Hadassah will meet Tuesday at noon in Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield. A mini-lunch will be served.

Reporting will be Dorothea Schwartz on donor, Marilyn Shrensel on "Entertainment" books and Edith Callen on a trip to Ellis Island scheduled April 22.

Evelyn Gingell, program vice-president, will present Dr. and Mrs. Martin Siegel. Norma Siegel is the region program coordinator and is past president of the Bloomfield Chapter. She also is co-chairman of the National Hadassah convention, which will take place in Israel in July.

Dr. Siegel will discuss "Sculpture: From The Bible to the Holocaust." He is an award-winning artist and sculptor whose sculptures feature heroes from the Bible and are displayed in museums and private collections. Frances Ostrofsky is president of the group.

Landau will speak

Stephen Landau, who is with Jews for Jesus, will answer the question, "What do the Jewish Passover and Jesus' last supper have in common?" as he presents "Christ in the Passover" at the Orchard Park Church, 1264 Victor Ave., Union, Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

For more information, one can call the church at 687-0364.

Sacrament observed

Battle-Hill Community-Moravian Church, 777 Liberty Ave., Union, will observe the Sacrament of Holy Communion at its 10:30 a.m. service of worship Sunday.

It was announced that "the first Sunday in Lent has been traditionally observed by offering the elements of Holy Communion as a way of preparing our lives for the upcoming 40 days of Lent," said the Rev. Jeffrey D. Gehris, pastor. "Join us. All are welcome."

The Moravian Church has an open policy toward people who receive communion. "Any professing Christian is welcome at the Table of Our Lord," said the pastor. "The service begins with a short liturgy to prepare our lives for receiving the elements. During the service of Holy Communion, the pastor, as the Shepherd of the flock, comes forward to the people seated in the pew and serves the elements of bread and grape juice. The service is filled with word and song. Most first-time visitors are impressed by the simplicity of our service." More information can be obtained by calling the minister at 686-5262.

Proudly, we present the...

Mausoleum of the Good Shepherd

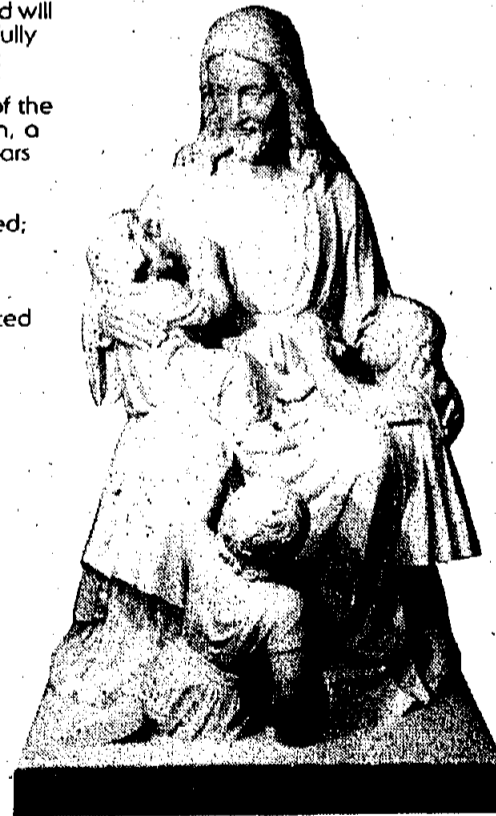

A classic addition to Hollywood Memorial Park.

Construction is almost complete on our newest structure, the Mausoleum of the Good Shepherd, and it has been designed to present families with a reassuring and consoling environment... and as a cost-saving alternative to in-ground burial.

Containing 2,250 crypts, the Mausoleum of the Good Shepherd will offer an interior of the finest Italian marble and will be beautifully carpeted throughout. Visitors will be awed by the magnificent life-sized statue of "Christ with Children" sculpted of beautiful Carrara marble... and will find that the overall atmosphere of the mausoleum will be conducive to relaxation and contemplation, a presence we have cultivated throughout our more than 50 years of service to the community.

The Mausoleum of the Good Shepherd will soon be completed; we welcome you to contact us before March 31st in order to take advantage of our pre-completion prices.

Simply call Hollywood Memorial Park or send us the completed coupon for full information.

Park wins UCT; 'Dawgs 10th

By Mark Yablonsky
 Sports Editor

Led by its top two wrestlers, both of whom are unbeaten, the Roselle Park High wrestling team accrued 161.5 points and won this year's Union County Tournament last weekend at the Dunn Sports Center in Elizabeth.

Dayton, meanwhile, which had placed a strong third in last year's tournament, came in 10th this year with 71.5 points.

Also, Panther coach Sam Appello was presented with the Coach of the Year Award by the Union County Wrestling Coaches Association.

Park, which had also won the tournament in 1983 and 1988, got strong efforts from 152-pounder John Ranieri and 171-pounder Dave Patterson, both of whom won titles as the top seeds. Ranieri, who is 21-0, won the 152-pound title by pinning Scott DuBeau of Brearley at the 3:13 mark. It was the only match that Platt had to wrestle; in addition to missing the preliminaries as the No. 1 seed, he also won by forfeit prior to meeting DuBeau.

In the 112-pound final, Rick Ortega won a title by injury default over Dante Puorro of Dayton, who had won a county title last year as a 103-pound competitor. Puorro, who went in as the top seed, was forced to exit at the 5:09 mark of the match due to a minor concussion. He was expected to recover fully as of press time.

points, crowned three champions: Dan Lilley at 140 pounds, Mike Francesca at 145 and Scott Platt at heavyweight.

Union won the tournament in 1989, and Westfield, which placed sixth this year, won it a year ago.

'Dawgs win, 66-56

By Mark Yablonsky
 Sports Editor

Led by 16-point efforts from both Courtney Benjamin and Joe Perez, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High boys' basketball team defeated Governor Livingston Regional of Berkeley Heights, 66-56, this past Monday in a Union County Tournament preliminary-round game at the Dunn Sports Center in Elizabeth.

The win enabled Dayton, now 9-11, to advance to a first-round tournament game last night against Linden, the No. 2 seed, in Elizabeth. The Bulldogs were seeded 15th, while G.L. came in at No. 18.

Boys' Basketball

Benjamin, who has led the team in scoring for much of the season, dropped in six of his points during the first quarter when the Bulldogs were outgunning the Highlanders by a 20-11 margin. Steve Prozmirski and Jason Mullman contributed with five points each in the first quarter, and Perez scored 10 of his 16 points in the final period when Dayton outscored G.L., 23-17, to put it away.

"We had a lot of goals this year," Theis said on Monday night. "We're playing pretty well right now. We'll just go down there and do the best we can on Wednesday."

Coach steps down

John LeDonne, who led the Dayton Regional High football team to its first-ever Mountain Valley Conference championship in 1988, recently resigned as head coach of the Springfield-based school's varsity gridiron squad. The resignation was accepted at a recent meeting of the Union County Regional Board of Education.

LeDonne, who cited personal reasons for his decision, compiled a 16-18 record over four seasons at the Dayton Regional helm. His best season was the 8-2 campaign of '88, in which the Bulldogs went a perfect 6-0 in conference play and earned a berth in North Jersey, Group 2, Section 2. Dayton lost to Dover, 23-7, in first-round playoff action that year.

Softball official needed

The Springfield Recreation Department is looking for a supervisor to run the township's youth girls' softball program this spring.

Candidates must be at least 20 years of age and have prior softball or baseball experience. The supervisor will be responsible for organizing coaches, rosters, schedules and umpires. Girls in grades 3-8 play in the league.

Further information is available by contacting the recreation department at 912-2226.

Endler excels

Roselle Park resident Amy Endler, a sophomore starter for the Moravian College women's basketball team, is among the Middle Atlantic Conference leaders in three categories.

Endler is fourth in three-point field goal percentage, with 38 percent. She is also fourth in three-point field goals per game with 1.6. Endler ranks fifth in the conference with a 75 percent free throw completion average.

Moravian College, located in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, had a 14-2 overall record and a perfect 7-0 mark in the MAC as of recently.

*Union County Tournament Game.

WHO'S ON FIRST?

This week's question: Back to basketball this week. Who is the NBA's all-time leader in steals? (We mean the total number, not his average). Interestingly, he has never led the league in that category in any one season, either numerically or by average.

Last week's answer: Billy Taylor of the Detroit Red Wings recorded seven assists in a game against the Chicago Blackhawks back on March 16, 1947. Taylor shares this record with, who else, Wayne Gretzky. The Great One, who surely must hold the record for holding the most NHL records, tallied seven assists in a single game not once, but three times, all of them as a member of the Edmonton Oilers. The first time was on February 15, 1980 in a game against the Washington Capitals. Gretzky equalled the record a second time on December 11, 1985 against the Chicago Blackhawks. He tied the record a third time on February 14, 1986 against the Quebec Nordiques. This week, Henry Haseup of Lodi submitted a correct answer. Please have your responses in our Union offices — at 1291 Stuyvesant Ave. — by no later than noon each Monday.

High seeds go to Linden

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

As expected, Elizabeth and Linden both fared well when it came down to seedings for this year's Union County Basketball Tournament. Elizabeth, which has won six of the last seven tournaments in boys' basketball, was accorded the No. 1 seed this year, while Linden, which was 19-1 when the seeding took place, received the top spot in the 16-team girls' field. Also, the Linden boys' squad, led by its sensational junior, Waliyy Dixon, was seeded second, while Hillside came in at No. 3. Seeding took place last Wednesday, Feb. 6, at the Stage House Inn in Scotch Plains.

"I think they're true seedings," commented Bob Shapiro, an athletics supervisor at Elizabeth who will be the site manager for both basketball tournaments. "I think the seeding committee did their homework." The seedings are as follows: Boys — 1) Elizabeth, 2) Linden, 3) Hillside, 4) Roselle, 5) Roselle Catholic, 6) Roselle Park, 7) Scotch Plains, 8) Plainfield, 9) St. Patrick's, 10) New Providence, 11) Union Catholic, 12) St. Mary's, 13) Summit, 14) Westfield, 15) Dayton Regional, 16) Union, 17) Oratory Prep, 18) Governor Livingston Regional, 19) Rahway, 20) Cranford, 21) Brearely Regional. Girls — 1) Linden, 2) Governor Livingston, 3) Union Catholic, 4) Union, 5) Brearely Regional, 6) Scotch Plains.

Bears place seventh in UCT

By Bob Taylor Jr.
Sports Correspondent

Led by their four upper weight classes, the Bears of Brearely Regional High bounced back from a 37-28 defeat to Elizabeth with a strong showing in the Union County Wrestling Tournament this past weekend. Brearely, which placed a wrestler in each title bout from 160 pounds and up, ended up with 126.5 team points and a seventh-place finish in the county tournament.

At 160 pounds, senior captain Vic Verno (17-2) scored two early pins on Friday night, and then edged past Justin LaSala of Arthur Johnson Regional, 11-9, early on Saturday to reach the finals later that afternoon. Verno was outpointed, 17-10, by Paul Jordan of Westfield in the title match.

Junior Bob Taylor (16-2) also opened up with a pin on Friday at 171 pounds and defeated Dorian Giles of Elizabeth for the second time in four days in the quarterfinals. Taylor avenged his only previous loss by beating Rahway's Steve Marcantonio in the semifinals, before losing the final, 9-6, to Dave Patterson of Roselle Park.

At 189 pounds, Jose Rodriguez's road to the finals was more difficult.

Rodriguez (16-0) beat John Howard of Elizabeth in the opening round and followed up with quick falls over John Tilton of Roselle Catholic and Gary Jones of Rahway. Then in the finals against Vinnie Alberto of Union, Rodriguez won it within the final 30 seconds when he engineered a reversal and then proceeded to hold on for a 7-6 decision.

Heavyweight Scott DuBeau also fought his way to the finals. Despite giving at least 20 pounds to every opponent he faced, DuBeau got pins in every bout along the way, including a 30-second defeat of Dayton's DeJohn Cataldo in the semifinals.

DuBeau then met Union's Scott Platt in the heavyweight title bout and hung tough before being pinned in the second period.

At 135 pounds, Ron Cagno lost a tough 14-12 overtime match to Roselle Park's Pat McCafferty in the semis, and senior Andy Kimmel moved up one weight class to 152 pounds and wrestled back to the consolation finals, where he lost to Scott Rossander of Scotch Plains.

Clint Kaminski, following a disqualification due to a slam, wrestled back to sixth place at 140 pounds. Brearely, which is 9-2-1 and the

Brearely tops Manville

By Kim Eagan
Sports Correspondent

The Brearely Regional High girls' basketball team played its best game of the season last Friday night in beating Manville, 53-50, thus avenging an earlier 74-42 loss to the Lady Mustangs.

This time, Brearely was ready for Manville and its top scorer, Gabika Hlinka, who had scored 43 points against the Lady Bears last month. With Karen Savage contributing strong defense, Hlinka was held to 17 points and Brearely, after trailing by a 28-22 margin at the half, rallied in the second half to pull it out.

Don Tre, the driving professionals

Learning to drive on the heavily traveled roadways of the New York metropolitan area, such as Routes 22 and 78, the Garden State Parkway and Morris Avenue takes a lot of practice. More importantly, it requires an experienced teacher schooled in every aspect of driving, from the working of the car's instrument panel to navigating the busiest highways. Don-Tre Driving School, the driving professionals, can offer teachers with experience that includes giving teen-age drivers their first taste of life behind the wheel. The school is the idea of Don Carpenter, an assistant football coach and driver education instructor at New Providence High School. "What prompted us to start the school is the fact that school systems have done away with driver ed because of budget cuts," said Carpenter, who started the school about two years ago with his daughters, Carol and Nancy. Today, NPHS football coach Frank Bottone also teaches at Don-Tre. One dozen area high schools currently recommend Don-Tre to their students for behind-the-wheel education, including Union, Roselle Park, Linden and Westfield high schools. Don-Tre has also been recognized and endorsed by AAA. All teachers at Don-Tre are certified to teach driver education by the state Division of Motor Vehicles and the state Department of Education. To be certified by the DMV requires having a license for three years and passing a stringent road test and written exam. "This is the only course in school that kids have to apply in life that could be a life or death situation," Carpenter said. Instruction at Don-Tre is not limited to first-time or young drivers. "We cater to all ages," is the company's motto. Office hours for Don-Tre are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Weekend instruction is also available. For expert training in driving technique, call Don-Tre School of Professional Driving at 376-8118.

House features crewel

The Miller-Cory House in Westfield will feature the craft of crewel embroidery on Sunday from 2-4 p.m. Crewel is a type of loosely-twisted, worsted yarn used for fancywork and embroidery.

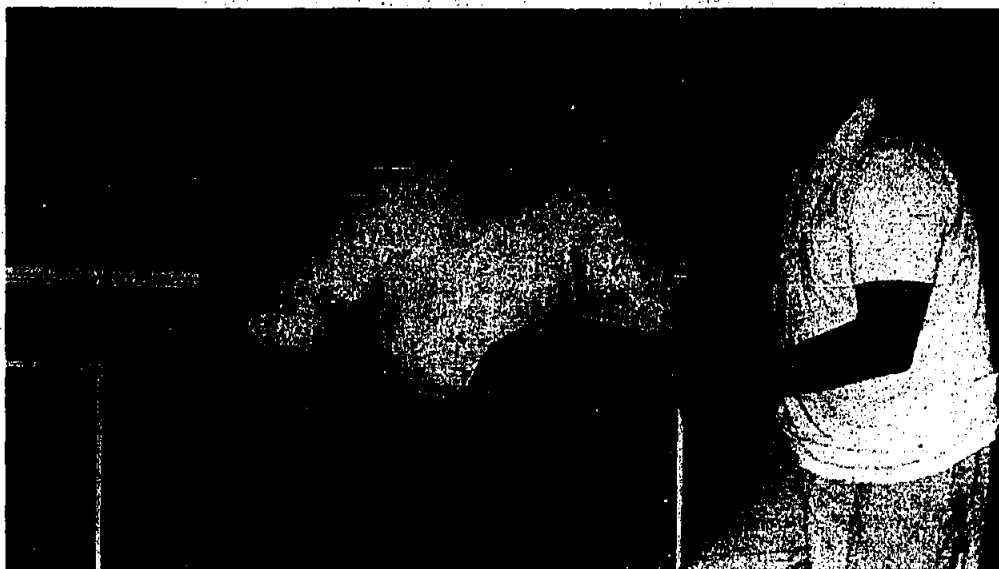

Virginia Morbeck of Westfield will explain this form of needlework while working on an acon design. In early America, women generally used hand-dyed yarn and left much of the background material showing on their crewelwork, while in Europe, the design usually covered the material. Linen cloth spun from flax fibers was the material most often used.

Women skilled in crewel embroidery were sure to impress suitors at a time when wives were often responsible for making the clothes, bed linens and towels for their families.

In addition to this program on crewel, Caroline Barna of Scotch Plains will discuss the many types of herbs used in cooking during the 18th and 19th centuries. Barna is a member of the museum's open hearth cooking committee.

Authentically-costumed docents will be conducting tours through the furnished rooms of the restored farmhouse, originally part of a thriving 100-acre farm.

The Museum Shop, coordinated by Irene Hekeler of Westfield, contains many books on early America as well as craft kits and numerous gift items. Visitors are invited to spend a winter afternoon at the Miller-Cory House Museum. For further information, call the office at 232-1776. The museum is located at 614 Mountain Ave. in Westfield.

Bernie Weinstein, as the judge, rehearses with John Duryee as Brady and Bob Pellis as Drummond in the courtroom of "Inherit the Wind."

Annual 'stomp' slated

The 22nd annual Pee Wee Russell Memorial Stomp is scheduled to take place on Feb. 24, beginning at 12 p.m. in New Brunswick's Hyatt Regency Hotel. Refreshments will be available at what is being called the "biggest jazz bargain in the new year."

Sponsored by the non-profit New Jersey Jazz Society, this event celebrates the life and music of one of America's most unique and beloved jazz clarinetists, Pee Wee Russell, who was active in jazz from 1917 until his death in 1967.

Featured in this edition of the Stomp are bands from throughout the tri-state area. The line-up includes The Smith Street Society plus Two, Dick Sudhalter's Vintage Jazz Band, Frank Vignola's All Stars and Stan Rubin's Tigertown Five plus Two.

Two distinguished jazz personalities will be honored by the society for their many contributions to the world of jazz over the years. They are Marian McPartland, considered by many to be the premiere female jazz pianist of her time; and Hank O'Neal, who, over many years, has — as a promoter, producer, agent and recording executive — helped keep jazz a vital musical force.

Tickets can be purchased in advance: $12 for NJJS members; $15 for non-members, or $15 at the door; student price is $2. For tickets by mail, write to: Mary Robertson, Box 173, Brookside, N.J. 07926. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Membership in the NJJS is open to all. For information, contact membership secretary Shirley Klingler, 142 Tappan Avenue, North Plainfield, NJ 07060.

Pastels color playhouse

The Renee Foosner Art Gallery at the Paper Mill Playhouse is presenting an exhibition featuring works by members of the Pastel Society of America. The show will be on display from Wednesday through March 23.

The Pastel Society of America is the only national pastel society formed since William Merritt Chase organized one in 1884. The society's members include some of the most famous and innovative pastelists in America.

Pastel is pure pigment, the same as used in making all fine art paints. A work of pastel art is created by stroking streaks of dry pigment across an abrasive background, embedding the color in the "tooth" of the paper, sandboard or canvas.

The exhibition can be seen one hour before performances and during intermissions of "To Kill A Mockingbird" and on Fridays from 12 to 3 p.m. Call 379-3636 for a more complete schedule.

Donation funds poetry prize

William Kurry of Scotch Plains, a masters graduate of Kean College of New Jersey, has endowed the Kean College Poetry Prize through a $2,500 donation to the Academy of American Poets.

The endowment will provide a $100 prize each year for the best poem written by a Kean student. The contest will be judged locally, according to Dr. William Evans of Union, a professor of English, who will coordinate the event on campus.

Kurry is a 1990 graduate of the college's master of arts and liberal studies program. He received a bachelor of business administration degree from the University of Georgia in 1962, and is the owner of Kurry's Men's Clothes in Union City.

In an autobiographical essay prepared for his MALS program, Kurry wrote, "There must be more to life than just making a buck." He said he entered the MALS program because he felt it was time "to put some concentrated intellectual effort into his studies."

As one of the speakers at the 1990 MALS Colloquium, Kurry gave a reading of the poetry of Francois Villon.

Evans said the academy is highly prestigious and is internationally known for its roster of poets and for its commitment to the art of poetry and young poets.

According to Beth McCabe, director of the New York City based-academy, 176 institutions nationwide have been enrolled in its university and college poetry prize program.

Contest results are published in the academy's monthly newsletter.

Cranford set to stage 'monkey trial'

The Cranford Dramatic Club, a community repertory theater that has been offering live theatre for more than 70 years, will next tackle the tense courtroom drama of "Inherit the Wind." Based on the actual Scopes "Monkey Trials" of the 1920s, the play was written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert Lee.

The Cranford production is being directed by club president Maurice Moran. Doris Polito will serve as assistant director and Leslie Ricci is the production manager.

The large cast includes Bob Pellis as Henry Drummond and John Duryee as Matthew Harrison Brady, the two lawyers at opposite ends of the case; they are based on the real-life attorneys Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan. Mark McLane is Bertram Cates, the teacher accused of instructing his students in the work of Charles Darwin and the theories of evolution, as opposed to the teachings of the Book of Genesis. Kristen Massa is his girlfriend Rachel, the daughter of the local preacher.

Making up the rest of the cast are Dennis Freeland, Bernie Weinstein, Sohel Sachek, Terry Weinstein, Barbara Goldstein, Elaine Doorman, Judy Kawaguchi, Megan Joyce, Alan Gershenson, Ed McGregor, Matt Ruple, Julie Zakow, Mike Burd, Dennis Bat-ish, Ed Wittel, Marc Chandler, Marilyn Vice and Greg Weber.

Performances of this drama will begin Friday and Saturday, and continue on Feb. 22, 23, March 1 and 2. All showtimes are 8 p.m. Tickets are priced at $9 and can be reserved by calling the box office at 276-7611. The theater is located at 78 Winans Ave. in Cranford.

In addition to the performance, an exhibition of photographs taken by Jay Smith — supervisor of art and industrial arts for the Cranford school system — will be on display in the theater lobby throughout the run of the show.

Brooks makes a return in 'Robeson'

"Paul Robeson," Phillip Hayes Dean's one-man drama starring Avery Brooks as the extraordinary artist and activist, returns to New Brunswick for a five-performance engagement at the State Theatre on Livingston Avenue Feb. 21 to March 3.

Presented by Crossroads Theatre Company, in association with Eric Krebs Theatrical Management, "Paul Robeson" will be performed at 8 p.m. on Feb. 21 and 22, 3 p.m. on Feb. 24, 8 p.m. on March 1 and 7:30 p.m. on March 3.

This production of "Paul Robeson," which also stars New Brunswick musician Eric Scott as the accompanist Lawrence Brown, was first produced at Crossroads in 1982 with Brooks and Scott. A revival of Dean's 1978 drama, it received critical acclaim and has gone on to be performed around the country.

In 1988, it was produced off-Broadway by Eric Krebs at the South-street Theatre and on Broadway at the Golden Theatre. Last year, Krebs produced "Paul Robeson" at the John F. Kennedy for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C. and last summer at the National Black Arts Festival in Atlanta. Krebs is a co-founder of the George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick.

Brooks' portrayal of one of history's most intriguing figures has been called "electrifying" and "incredibly powerful and riveting." He brings life to the mythic Robeson in a series of vignettes that capture his oratorical, musical and dramatic achievements.

The life of Paul Robeson unfolds in the brief scenes that follow him through his early achievements and disappointments at Rutgers University, where he was the school's first all-American in football in 1917 and distinguished himself in academics; his brief stint as a lawyer; his acclaimed career on stage and film; and his international political activism — and support of Communism — that ultimately led to his censure in the United States.

Brooks — an accomplished actor, director, musician and teacher — is widely known as Hawk on television's "Spenser For Hire" and the spin-off series, "A Man Called Hawk." His stage credits include "Are You Now or Have You Ever Been?" as Paul Robeson, "The Offering" at the Negro Ensemble Company and as Malcolm X in the opera "X: The Life and Times of Malcolm X." He is a professor of theater at the Mason Gross School of the Arts at Rutgers University where he was the first black M.F.A. graduate in acting and directing.

Scott, who also is music director for "Paul Robeson," most recently has been appearing in August Wilson's "The Piano Lesson" on Broadway. At Crossroads, he was in "Lady Day at Emerson's Bar and Grill." Scott teaches in the city school system and has served as music director for the Sharon Baptist Church in New Brunswick and Shiloh Baptist Church in Trenton.

"Paul Robeson" is directed by Harold Scott, whose work at Crossroads includes "Sty of the Blind Pig" and "Agnes of God." He also directed

Artist makes music for his own opening

The abstract expressionist urban landscapes of New York City artist Carmen Cicero will be on exhibition beginning Friday — and continuing through March 15 — in the James Howe Gallery of Vaughn-Eames Hall at Kean College of New Jersey.

A reception honoring Cicero, who was graduated from Newark State College — now Kean — in 1951, will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. on Feb. 24 in the gallery.

The exhibit will showcase the artist's abstract expressionist urban landscapes. In addition to Cicero's pastels and watercolors, which are for sale, the reception will feature the Cicero Jazz Quartet. The artist will lead his own musical group in entertaining visitors to the gallery reception. The quartet — saxophone, clarinet, drums, piano and bass — is noted for its repertoire of jazz standards and be-bop classics.

Cicero was the recipient of a Kean College outstanding alumnus award in October, 1990. He did graduate work at Hunter College, City University of New York.

He has been exhibited widely in one-man shows in New York City, as well as nationally and internationally. His works were part of a recent drawings exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art. He also exhibited at the New York World's Fair and contributed to three Kean College Alumni Exhibits — in 1969, 1973 and 1980.

His works are in the collections of the National Museum of American Art in Washington D.C. and the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery, University of Nebraska in Lincoln. His works also hang in the Museum of Modern Art.

He has taught at Sarah Lawrence College and at Montclair State College.

The reception is free and open to the public. During regular hours, admission to the gallery is free. Hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m., Monday through Thursday; and 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Friday.

Geetlein opens concert series

The first in a series of concerts to be presented by the Second Presbyterian Church of Rahway will feature a recital by noted soprano Georgyn Geetlein. This varied musical program will be presented on Sunday at 4 p.m. at the church, 1221 New Brunswick Ave.

Geetlein is returning to the area for the first time since leaving her hometown of Scotch Plains to embark on her professional operatic career. She lists among her credits 22 performed roles in Verdi, Puccini and Mozart pieces — as the leading soprano — with opera companies in both Italy and the United States.

Pianist Victoria Griswold will accompany Geetlein. Griswold has performed both as a soloist and accompanist frequently in the Plainfield area, as well as touring throughout Europe and South America.

The Rahway concert will include a Mozart concert aria; lieder of Mahler, Strauss and Wolf; an excerpt from Debussy's cantata, "La damoiselle elue," songs by Copeland, Moussorsky, Gates and Malotte; and operatic selections from "Luísa Miller" and "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Rev. Josephine Cameron, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church of Rahway, and Wallington Hankerson Jr., director of music, noted that this inaugural performance is open to the public.

For week of Feb. 17-Feb. 23

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Let your cheerful demeanor emerge. Shine the spotlight on your key relationships. Collect your thoughts before undertaking any new projects. Outline a realistic budget.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Do not worry about those mundane affairs. Renew your faith in the "larger picture." Attract allies through the written word. Whip your body back into good physical shape.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Trust in your own judgement. Someone who is inadvertently missing will reappear. Be an amateur detective. Solve those nagging riddles. Be a workhorse.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Put any old business to rest. Clown around with your friends. Catch up on your reading. Keep a watch out for any "loose cannons." What you thought was settled was not.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) A chaotic home front is a reflection of a cluttered mind. Clean up on all fronts. Reap the benefits of recent kudos at work. Be sure to schedule your medical check-ups.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Do not fall for any sob stories. A co-worker will try to take advantage of you. Check your source material. Make yourself into a "state-of-the-art" model.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Brainstorms abound. Success is indicated through cooperation you get. Stay away from bullying tactics. Instead, use some words of wisdom. Solve your own personal mysteries.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A wider audience is revealed. An emotional catharsis will clear your thinking. Weigh your words carefully. They can either be words of healing or harm.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Turn over a new leaf when it comes to partnerships. Put the emphasis on your independence. Get to the heart of matters. Make a fresh start. Be the life of the party.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Watch out for self-serving tactics. Manipulation is equal to psychic strangulation. Offer advice only when it is sought. Your popularity remains high. Seek an audience.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Watch out for over-optimism and scattered thinking. Be a steamroller when it comes to practical affairs. A young person sees you as a role model. Stay steady.

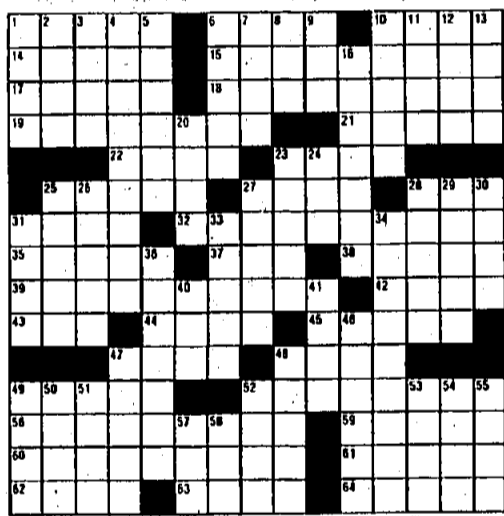

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) Big changes are due on the romantic front. Give your feelings of pride and jealousy the ax. Reject superficiality. Stimulating ideas arrive. Stay objective about things.

Children's concert set in Plainfield

The Plainfield Symphony Orchestra will perform its annual free children's concert on Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, Watchung Avenue and Seventh Street in Plainfield.

The orchestra — under the baton of its musical director, maestro Sabin Pautza — will perform several favorites, including Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf," "Humoresque" by Dvorak, Anderson's "The Syncopated Clock" and Schubert's "Moment Musicalc."

For the past six years, the Plainfield Symphony has held a youth concerto competition. A special award to an outstanding applicant of the competition is an opportunity to perform with the orchestra. This year, the honor goes to Cheryl Lin, a 17-year-old resident of Edison.

Lin will perform Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 for harpsichord. The young musician began her studies on the piano when she was six years old. Presently, she studies piano with Leonard Eisner in the pre-college program at the Juillard School, where she will be performing a solo recital this month. She began her work on the harpsichord this past summer at the Governor's School in Trenton.

Her coach for the competition was Gabriel Imreh, internationally acclaimed pianist, who was a featured soloist with the Plainfield Symphony last October. Lin attends I.P. Stevens High School in Edison where she is first violinist and pianist for the Edison Strings under the direction of Alice Lindsay.

Tickets are not needed but as the concert is always well-attended, it is advisable to arrive early in order to get a seat. A reception for the children will immediately follow the performance. The musicians will display their instruments, talk with the children and take requests.

For further information, call the symphony office at 561-5140 or board member Anna Marie Johansen at 756-6980.

JCC celebrates Bernstein

The JCC of Central New Jersey will present "A Tribute to Leonard Bernstein," a program celebrating the late composer in an afternoon of songs and instrumental music on Feb. 24 at 2 p.m.

The program, arranged by pianist Lenore Fishman Davis, who has performed throughout the U.S., Israel, Germany, Switzerland and Italy, includes "Halil," "Meditations" and songs from "West Side Story" and "La Bonne Cuisine." Joining her will be flutist Laura Gilbert, percussionist Adrienne Ostrander, violist Jonathan Waleson and soprano Rose Smerchia.

For further information, call 889-8800. The JCC is located at 1391 Martine Ave. in Scotch Plains.

Restaurant review The Wallington Exchange

If authentic Slavic food and entertainment is your passion, then The Wallington Exchange, located at 365 Main Ave. in Wallington, is the place for you. Stepping into The Wallington Exchange, a Slavic cabaret restaurant just minutes from Garden State Parkway, Exit 153, is like stepping into another country. The restaurant is steeped in Slavic and Hungarian culture, and the perfect combination of authentic food and lively entertainment makes dinner at The Wallington Exchange a true dining experience. My companion and I were pleasantly surprised when we walked into the restaurant for the first time. The dining room was spacious and simple, but a small stage at the top of the room shimmered with Slavic cabaret decor. Stretched across the wall to our left was a long, clean bar, at which we were quickly seated for a cocktail. New and interesting liquors from halfway around the world stocked the shelves, but I decided to make a selection from the array of imported and domestic beers offered. The decision was difficult — should I begin with a German weiss beer? A Grolsch from Holland? Or perhaps a Czechoslovakian pilsner? Finally, the choice was made, not by myself, but by the bartender, and I started off with a tall, tasty bottle of Russkove Lager, imported directly from Russia. After a few minutes, with the evening's show about to begin, we were seated at our table with neatly arranged silverware and plates, and a crisply folded napkin. A basket of fresh pumpernickel and rye bread and a bowl of butter was brought to our table immediately. Our waitress, a charming and experienced server with a distinctly Slavic accent, recommended my choice — the Slavic Food Festival for $20. This choice was a complete 10-course meal with an all-you-can-eat policy attached to each genuinely Eastern European delicacy. My companion ordered the Potato Pierogi dinner with sauteed onions and sour cream for $16.95.

Real Estate Facts

Welchert Realtors

Buy Low - Sell High!

A common goal of investors in the stock market is "Buy low - sell high". Determining what is "low" and what is "high" can be difficult yet, if you know the difference, investing can be easy. The same "Buy low-sell high" philosophy can work when buying or selling a home too, but there is a difference. Stock market investors may buy at will when prices are "down" and sell when they are "up", while you were probably not free to determine whether the housing market was "up" or "down" before buying your present home. Your home purchase was predicated on some event, wasn't it? Perhaps a job transfer, an addition to the family, or a strong desire to "move up" created the need to purchase. A similar event may also prompt you to sell your home based on a time frame over which you have little control. When that happens, the price you receive may have little relation to the price you paid. Historically, real estate has risen in value. It has also experienced periodic up and down cycles, lasting from 3-10 years depending on the geographic market. If you purchased your home during the "down" portion of a cycle, and sell during the "high" cycle, a sizeable profit may be realized. You may just as easily have made your purchase just as homes reached the peak of a cycle. This does not mean you paid too much, but only that, at the time of your purchase, you paid the going price-the highest price in that price cycle. If you sell your home just a few years later, you may find that prices are the low end of the cycle, possibly resulting in a loss. Either way-high or low - the value of your home today is whatever a "ready, willing and able" buyer is currently paying for similar homes in your area. This can be determined by asking a REALTOR® to perform a "Competitive Market Analysis" on your home. The results can help you make an informed decision about the sale of your home.

IF YOU'RE PLANNING TO SELL YOUR HOME SOON AND WOULD LIKE INFORMATION ON ITS CURRENT VALUE, GIVE ME A CALL AT 688-1340 every. THERE IS NO COST OR OBLIGATION.
