"The VNHSS began in Elizabeth 80 years ago 'to bring trained nursing within the reach of all who needed it, not only to the poor who needed care, but anyone in the entire county," McLeod said. "They have not changed in that respect, but have grown to bring care to those who need it and to teach the patient and family self-care and provide preventive health services such as screening and health education."

"The VNHSS serves every municipality in Union County," Ertl said. "They are celebrating their anniversary with a fund-raising dinner-dance on Oct. 29 at the Clark Ramsada Inn. I hope many county residents will support them."

Rinaldo earns award for leadership score

Rep. Matthew Rinaldo, R-7, received the 1992 National Security Leadership Award during a ceremony held last week in the U.S. Capitol. The award was made in recognition of his 100 percent score on the American Security Council's National Security Voting Index for the 102nd Congress, and acknowledges his leadership in promoting collective security, international economic growth, and an international role for the United States.

Among those presenting the award to Rinaldo were Representatives George Darden, D-Ga., and Duncan Hunter, R-Cal., who are co-chairmen of the bipartisan National Security Caucus in the Congress, as well as members of the Armed Services Committee. They were joined by John O. Marsh Jr., the former secretary of the Army during the Reagan Administration, and Edward Hidalgo, the former secretary of the Navy during the Carter Administration. Many of Rinaldo's colleagues also attended.

"The discussion will focus on how SAPE provides seniors and their families with information and referrals relating to nursing home placement and available home care services," Ertl said. "SAFE also is an advocate for nursing home residents' rights."

Union County begins two-vehicle system for recycling collection

A two-vehicle collection system has been implemented for municipalities serviced by the Union County Utilities Authority's Regional Curbside Recycling Program.

This new system was implemented by Advanced Recycling Technology Systems Inc. after it began operating the program last month.

The regional program collects six materials—newspapers, glass bottles and jars, aluminum and tin containers, plastic bottles and household corrugated—curbside every other week.

Newspapers, glass bottles and jars, and aluminum and tin containers are picked up by one truck and plastic bottles and household corrugated cardboard are picked up by another.

A packer truck, used exclusively for the collection of recyclable materials, is used for the collection of plastic bottles and household corrugated. These vehicles are the most practical and economical for the collection of these materials since the compaction should be discarded with household corrugated.

- Plastic bottles—must be rinsed well with all caps and lids removed. All bottles should be flattened. Only plastic bottles that contain possible liquid, such as milk, soda, juice or detergent will be accepted. No squeeze bottles, packaging, plastic wrap or containers holding food or hazardous materials, such as motor oil or antifreeze, will be collected. Acceptable materials will have a PET, PETE or HDPE mark or the number 1 or 2 in a triangle imprinted on the bottom of the bottle.
- Aluminum and tin cans—must be well-rinsed and placed in a sturdy, reusable container. Paint cans and spray cans will not be collected.
- Glass and plastic recyclables must be set out in separate, sturdy reusable containers. Aluminum and tin cans can be co-mingled in one container. Materials placed in plastic or paper bags will not be collected.

Residents are reminded to set out their recyclables by 7:30 a.m. the day they are scheduled for collection. Residents should prepare their materials according to the following guidelines:

- Newspapers—must be clean and tied in bundles that are no more than 12 inches thick. The bundles may not include paper bags, magazines, telephone books or junk mail.
- Glass bottles and jars—must be well-rinsed with all caps and lids removed. Glass must be placed at the curb in a sturdy, reusable container. Only bottles and jars will be collected. No windows, glass, dishes, Pyrex, mirrors, crystal or ceramics.
- Corrugated cardboard—must be empty, clean, flattened and tied in bundles. No paper bags, food or beverage packaging, magazines, telephone books, junk mail or newspapers.

Let's get back to the campaign

The campaign for Township Committee has gotten rough — accusations are flying.

Each political camp claims it is responding in kind to character attacks initiated by the other. In any case, the tenor of the campaign is spiraling downward and unsubstantiated accusations and innuendoes — circulating in campaign literature — have gotten into the pages of the Springfield Leader.

While this level of campaigning is only the indirect result of this newspaper as an observer, the reciprocal charge that one candidate on each ticket has been fired from a former position deserves a note.

Democratic candidate Jo Ann Holmes' teaching contract with the Springfield School District was not renewed. Some — her competition for the most part — equate that scenario with being fired. The exact reason for the non-renewal of her contract is not known. She has explained it as a "professional difference of opinion." So be it. Holmes may feel the necessity to disclose the details of the separation to the voters. That would be her personal and political decision.

If and until such clarification is offered by an authoritative source, we consider her departure as it is officially described — a non-renewal of contract that may have occurred for any number of reasons.

This accusation was returned by Holmes and leveled at Republican candidate Judith Blitzer. No proof has been presented defining the departure terms of any professional position Blitzer has ever held.

Blitzer, like Holmes, has asserted the integrity of her past professional relationships and performance, stating the accusation is false.

Until definitive proof is presented to support these or any other accusations, voters should put little faith in the barbs flying between the two campaign camps.

Regardless of who "started" the mudslinging, it is undermining the credibility of both sides and should stop, for the candidates' benefit and the public's.

It's time both parties stopped the verbal assaults on each other and began running their campaigns so the citizens of Springfield will know they are seeking seats on the Township Committee.

The time has come to close a school

As the parents, staff members and administrators of the Regional High School District await Superintendent Donald Merachnik's report to the Board of Education Tuesday on the need for further cost containment, we commend the Board for realizing that it will have to close one of its four high schools.

The reasons are educational as well as fiscal. The number of students in each school is too low, ranging from the 622 at Governor Livingston in Berkeley Heights to the 423 at David Brearley in Kenilworth. Classrooms remain empty and dark during the peak instructional hours of the day. And students are being denied advanced and specialized courses because each school cannot muster enough participation to justify staffing the classes.

In light of such realities, a majority of board members have realized that a school closing is inevitable. However, we are concerned that the board will put the residents of the Regional District through another edition of the soap opera that seized Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield earlier this year, when the board visited each community and warned of the consequences of not passing the district budget.

The episode could have been avoided had the board voted April 28 to close a school, rather than make cost cuts without a firm plan. The board would have been able to make the decision to close a school, and then decide which school to close.

Campaigning Clinton shows he understands

Every poll in the Garden State has Bill Clinton running ahead of President Bush by at least 10 points. Without Ross Perot in the race, it would be much higher.

Much of Clinton's success here is due to the sorry state of the economy as well as the misdirected efforts of the Bush campaign. These guys seem convinced that the way to win New Jersey is to come here as often as possible. The focus has been on quantity rather than quality. Every time he's come here, Bush's message has been all wrong.

As I said here last week, Bush can't beat Clinton by bashing Jim Florio when voters dislike Bush even more than our much-maligned governor. And that "draft" stuff about Clinton is meaningless to people who are worried about paying their mortgage or putting food on the table. In 1991, alone, our state lost 150,000 jobs. The president doesn't seem to understand or, worse yet, doesn't care about that depressing reality.

Some people believe that Bush would probably lose in a year like this, no matter who his opponent was. Even an "official" candidate like Michael Dukakis would have a shot. I don't concur.

I figure you can't win, even against a vulnerable incumbent, unless you have something to offer, a legislative alternative. And while his speeches outlining bold ideas for change often sound good, Clinton's record is not so impressive.

Clinton's health care proposal calls for a "private insurance" system, but with a national limit on health care costs, established by the federal government.

"This is a private system," he said. "It does not require new taxes. It will preserve what is best about our present system and incorporate what we have learned from the private sector."

Such health care rhetoric plays well with voters. But what does it mean? Clinton is comfortable telling people that "government is the enemy" — especially in New Jersey, where the government is the largest employer. He's comfortable telling people that "government is the enemy" — especially in New Jersey, where the government is the largest employer.

Screening New Jersey

New Jersey is putting people back to work

When I was a boy, I found my first job delivering the Brooklyn Eagle newspaper and later working at a delivery boy for Louis Balistrieri's Kosher Meat Market and Goodman's Grocery Store in the Flatbush neighborhood where I grew up. While the stores and the newspaper may be long gone, the values those jobs instilled in me — responsibility, pride, self-esteem — still remain today.

It's been said before and it's true — the best social program is a job. There is nothing more important that we can do for people than put them to work and allow them to take care of themselves and their families. That's why I have made job-creation and economic development a cornerstone of our efforts to beat this national recession and get New Jersey working again.

Last June, I signed legislation creating the Economic Recovery Fund — a $225 million hammer we can put in New Jersey's toolbox, and use to create jobs. The Economic Recovery Fund is the biggest, boldest initiative ever undertaken by state government to reinvigorate investment in the state, build business and create jobs. The people of New Jersey want to work and they can compete with anyone — anywhere in the world — if they have the tools and opportunity.

By investing more than $200 million in bonds in economic projects and programs, we can generate up to $800 million in private sector investment. More important, we will create 20,000 construction and 75,000 permanent jobs over the next three years.

How? By investing in areas that will generate the kind of economic development a community needs to survive and thrive.

Some of our economic projects and programs, we can generate up to $800 million in private sector investment. More important, we will create 20,000 construction and 75,000 permanent jobs over the next three years.

Franks deserves support

To the Editor:

The people of the 7th Congressional District have the opportunity this year to again elect a representative who is responsive to the needs of the people of the district.

That person, Bob Franks, is literally a local man who came out of the public schools, and after receiving his additional education, including college and law degrees, he returned to his home turf for service to his community.

He is very aware of the problems which affect the next Congress. He knows many members of Congress who have forgotten who elected them to their appointed life of perks and privileges.

Bob Franks knows the voters of the 7th District want the abuses of Congress to stop and for Congress to come to grips with the real problems that face our nation and our district. Jobs, paying off failed banks, trying to educate children with decreasing funds available, reducing the deficit and government spending.

And above all, Bob Franks understands that more government is not better government. More government is bureaucracy at its worst. And Bob Franks knows that as a member of the state Assembly.

I urge support for the election of Bob Franks to state and congressional parks and to reiterate a responsibility that Congress must take the blame for what it does; but more importantly, what it does not do. I know Bob Franks can help bail us out of the mess we're in. Please vote for him on Election Day. He deserves our support.

 Springfield

Thanks for support

To the Editor:

As the former children's librarian of the Springfield Public Library, I would like to take this one last opportunity to thank all of the residents of Springfield for their patronage and support of the Children's Department.

As someone of my age, after the recent turmoil and upheaval at the Library, with reluctance I elected to resign and accept a job elsewhere. When my resignation became known the entire director of the Board of Trustees of the Library was such that the Board insisted upon my abrupt departure. I did not have the chance to say goodbye to all of you.

So many of you in the community helped make the Children's Department such a vital and exciting place to be.

Take deduction for portion of casualty loss

If your personal property was destroyed as a result of a flood, earthquake or vandalism, you probably weren't thinking about your taxes as you surveyed the damage.

However, as the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants points out, you may be able to obtain some financial relief by taking a tax deduction for a portion of your casualty loss.

For tax purposes, casualty losses are those that result from sudden, unexpected or unusual events, such as tornadoes, hurricanes, floods and fires. You cannot take a deduction for damage to your property that occurs as a result of gradual deterioration or normal wear-and-tear, such as soil erosion that weakens the structure of your home, damage from termites, or even a leaky roof.

In some instances, you may claim a casualty loss for a car accident, provided the accident did not result from your own willful negligence. Deductions are also allowed for losses caused by theft, including robbery and embezzlement. However, you must be able to prove that a theft has taken place.

If you had money deposited in a personal savings or checking account in a bank or credit union that later went bankrupt or became insolvent, you may elect to take a casualty loss deduction for the money you lost.

Tax deductions are allowed only for uninsured losses. The deduction for each casualty is then limited to the uninsured amount in excess of $100. The $100 base applies to the total amount of damages per casualty — not per item. The aggregate uninsured losses in excess of $100 are then deductible as an itemized deduction to the extent that the total exceeds 10 percent of your adjusted gross income.

As a rule, the amount of a loss is the lesser of the property's adjusted basis or fair market value. The adjusted basis is what you paid for the property, minus depreciation and plus an increase in value as a result of improvements.

Here's an example. A sudden storm hits your area causing a tree to crash through a window, thereby damaging your stereo equipment. The stereo system was purchased for $6,000 six years ago. However, its fair market value before the casualty was only $3,000. You are therefore entitled to a deduction of $3,000 less $100, assuming this amount exceeds 10 percent of your adjusted gross income.

In most instances, you must deduct the loss in the year in which it occurred. However, if you live in an area that the federal government declares a disaster area, you can claim your loss either in the year the loss occurred or during the previous year. To take a loss in the previous year, file an amended tax return.

The IRS expects you to be able to document the amount of the deduction by what you paid for the property, minus depreciation and plus an increase in value as a result of improvements. Documentation can consist of photographs of your home or property before and after the damage occurred, receipts for items lost or destroyed, or even newspaper clippings about a particular event. Appraiser's estimates of the damage can also help you to make your case before the IRS.

CPAs recommend that after suffering a casualty loss you carefully record and file your repair bills and insurance reports. These will help you prove the extent of the damage to your property to the IRS and help you substantiate your tax deduction.

102nd Congress was not very productive

The 102nd Congress, which adjourned earlier this month, certainly was not rank among the most productive meetings of the nation's lawmakers.

Overall, the Congress that has just concluded was marred by embarrassing scandals and a continuing political feud between Congressional leaders and the president.

Even so, federal lawmakers managed to pass a handful of key bills, an achievement all the more noteworthy because of the heightened, election-year partisanship that complicated the legislative process.

Despite a lot of hard work, the noisy give and take of the presidential race threatened to obscure those legislative accomplishments of the 102nd Congress.

Important bills such as the job-creating Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act, extensions for unemployment benefits and the reauthorization of the Job Training Partnership Act addressed major needs confronting our nation — assisting those who are jobless, mass transit projects. A significant portion of this federal transit assistance will come home to this area of New Jersey to fund transit improvements such as the New Jersey Urban Core Project linking Newark Airport and Elizabeth.

Earlier this year, Congress approved an overhaul of the nation's largest job training program, providing increased opportunities for the tens of thousands of unemployed workers in New Jersey. In addition, the bill most recently passed by Congress, unemployed workers in New Jersey can be eligible for up to 26 weeks of extended benefits in addition to their regular unemployment compensation.

Unquestionably, the 102nd Congress provided disappointments to me and to many of my colleagues in the House. Those of us who wanted to see the problems of the economy addressed more aggressively along with health care reform, education reform and a host of other necessary measures were frustrated.

One can only hope that legislation in these vital areas will top the agenda of the new 103rd Congress when it convenes in January.

Report From Washington

Improving job training programs and boosting our nation's economic competitiveness.

For instance, last year, with my strong support, Congress passed the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act, landmark legislation that is creating an estimated 1.1 million new jobs in this country and preserving another 1 million existing jobs, including 600,000 new and existing jobs in 1992.

The act authorized $155 billion over the next six years for highways and road improvements, highway safety, and mass transportation.

A key feature was the authorization of $31.5 billion over six years for mass transit projects. A significant portion of this federal transit assistance will come home to this area of New Jersey to fund transit improvements such as the New Jersey Urban Core Project linking Newark Airport and Elizabeth.

Thanks for helping Red Cross

To the Editor:

The Westfield/Mountainside Chapter would like to thank all of the people who generously responded to the Red Cross Disaster Relief Campaign for Hurricane Andrew, Hurricane Iniki and Typhoon Omar in Guam.

Since Aug. 24, over 5,000,000 meals have been served to the victims in the affected areas. The kindness and generosity of the American public, nationally and locally, has been overwhelming; however, the needs still continue, with more and more disasters occurring each day throughout the country. The estimated costs of Hurricane Andrew in Florida are now $70.2 million with costs of Iniki at $12.1 million.

With the continued support of the American people, the Red Cross Disaster Services can help people prepare for and cope with emergencies whenever they may strike.

Bush's agenda is strong medicine

To the Editor:

Most Americans know that an overweight government serves itself first and the people last. President Bush's Agenda for American Renewal is the strong medicine needed to cure a bloated bureaucracy.

It will restructure the executive branch by consolidating departments, agencies and bureaus; continue the president's moratorium on new regulations to relieve the paperwork burden on American businesses and free up capital; allow federal payrolls to be reduced by attrition resulting in 162,000 fewer bureaucrats, and eliminate 246 unnecessary and wasteful programs.

Bill Clinton, on the other hand, is a bureaucrat's best friend. His "play-or-pay" health care plan will create a national commission of health bureaucracy to

Senator pushes for mandatory terms for juvenile auto thieves

Senator C. Louis Bassano, R-Union, testified before a special hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee recently to seek legislative support for a bill he has drafted to impose mandatory jail time for juvenile auto thieves.

Bassano said he is helping lead the effort to pass stiff penalties for auto theft in light of recent news reports about incidents of "car jacking."

"In a car jacking, an auto thief may employ threats and/or use of physical assault or weapons to force a motorist from the wheel of an automobile while it is in operation. Increasingly, car thieves are stealing cars while they are in operation so as to avoid breaking the steering column, or otherwise damaging the vehicle, to gain easy access and make a fast getaway."

"The Legislature has to act now to pass tougher laws and punish the juveniles involved in this activity because the auto theft problem is raging out of control," Bassano said. "Now, law-abiding citizens face concern not just about the potential loss of their property — but the very real danger that there are individuals out there who will stop at nothing, even if it means taking someone's life, just to steal a car."

Under the Bassano bill, S-1093, juveniles adjudicated delinquent for auto theft would receive a mandatory term of at least 30 days' incarceration and could be sentenced to serve up to a maximum of one year. A second offense would carry a minimum term of at least 90 days and up to two years, while third and subsequent offenses would require minors to serve manwhile the overall incidence of auto theft fell by 9 percent in 1991, the number of juveniles arrested on auto theft charges increased by 10 percent last year.

According to the state's Uniform Crime Reports, quoted by Bassano in his statement to the Judiciary Committee, there were 175 adults arrested in Essex County on auto theft all of last year, compared to 496 minors. In Union County, 73 adults were arrested for the same charge compared to 107 juveniles.

The senator stressed that juveniles are increasingly relying on auto theft rings to carry out the front-line work of stealing cars precisely because of the fact that state law does not enable youthful car thieves to be sentenced to jail if their age prevents them from being tried as an adult.

"The organizers and leaders of such car theft rings try to shield themselves from prosecution by hiring minors to steal the merchandise," Bassano said. "Youths involved in this activity typically end up back on the streets, resuming their criminal behavior, slothily after their arrest."

Bassano noted that the auto theft plague is one of the leading causes of the continued escalation in New Jersey's auto insurance rates, among the highest in the country. In relating some of his own personal experience with his testimony, Bassano said he had had two vehicles stolen in the past five years, the losses for which were both covered by his auto insurance policy.

C. Louis Bassano 'Need action now'

"It is the auto insurance system that ultimately ends up paying the bill," Bassano said.

"If the auto insurance system that ultimately ends up paying the bill," Bassano said.

Franks has plan to stimulate economy

After touring Kullman Industries in Avenel today, Assemblyman Bob Franks, candidate for Congress in the 7th District, released his comprehensive plan to stimulate economic growth and create new job opportunities.

"There is no issue of greater importance to the people of the 7th Congressional District than creating new jobs," Franks said. "Promoting economic growth and good, secure, high-paying jobs will require an all-out commitment and change in attitude by all levels of government."

Franks said, "The time has come for Congress to recognize that our national economy will not fully rebound on its own. The federal government must lend a hand by providing the private sector with the tools it needs to grow and start hiring new employees."

Franks' plan has four major components:

- Changes in the tax code to encourage job creation, including a

Bill assures coverage

The Senate Health and Human Services Committee cleared legislation last week that assures continued benefits for patients in a chronic renal dialysis center in a hospital that is being converted to a long-term care facility.

"This bill restores those funds," Franks said. "This bill requires hospitals that provide dialysis-related benefits to submit a claim to the Department of Health for reimbursement from the Health Care Cost Reduction Fund."

"The hospital would not be compensated for any administrative costs incurred by providing the service."

S-1063 now advances to the full Senate for a vote.

State funding bolsters outplacement program

By Chaz Repak
Staff Writer

Note: Following is the first of three parts exploring county services for workers displaced by layoffs and business closings.

Union County's worker relocation program received a major shot in the arm last week, as the state Department of Labor granted the county an additional $500,000 in Dislocated Job Training Partnership Act Title III funding.

The grant helps the county's Department of Human Services provide further job training services and retraining to employees affected by plant closings and layoffs. Human Services Director Frank Guzzo said the county's original funding for the program was already gone.

"We used up our base allocation of $566,101 by Sept. 30," said Guzzo, who noted that the funding year runs from July 1, 1992 to June 30, 1993. "We needed the additional dollars to help with the mess layoffs in Union County in recent years."

Steve Van Hecke of the Union County Economic Development Corporation said the county employment rate as of Aug. 30 was 9.7 percent, outdistancing the state figure of 9.1 percent.

Guzzo said that figure stems from the layoffs of some 1,700 employees from firms within the county since July of last year. He emphasized that the number will rise with the closing of a Sears, Roebuck accounting department in Cranford, which will put 420 employees out of work, and the layoff of 100 employees from Thomas & Betts Co., an electrical contractor construction concern in Elizabethtown.

Jean Koszmalik, director of the Private Industry Council and Employment and Training for the county, said the Department of Human Services requested $800,000 in additional funding to aid the individuals on an active waiting list for services, totaling to the $500,000 grant of available funds.

Measure to fund lead removal moves ahead

Legislation that will make New Jersey eligible for a $6 million federal grant for removing lead-based paint from the state's low- and middle-income housing units was approved by the Senate Health and Human Services Committee today.

"Lead poisoning is the nation's most common, yet most ignored and least understood health care problem," said Senator C. Louis Bassano, sponsor of the bill. "There are 57 million dwellings across the country that contain lead-based paint. In New Jersey alone, approximately 177,000 children could be at risk of being exposed to health hazards as a result of lead poisoning."

"These problems persist and can adversely affect the child's chances for success in school and life," said Bassano. "Even low levels of lead exposure can cause subtle neurological changes, reduced concentration and attentiveness, reduced IQ scores, behavioral problems and learning disabilities."

The effects of lead poisoning in children include learning disabilities, mental retardation, behavioral disorders, hyper-irritability, lack of coordination, loss of appetite, vomiting, abdominal pain, convulsions, permanent brain damage and death," said Bassano. "Even low levels of lead exposure can cause subtle neurological changes, reduced concentration and attentiveness, reduced IQ scores, behavioral problems and learning disabilities."

"Lead poisoning is caused by environmental exposure to lead and the most significant sources are lead-based paint in older housing and leaded solder in plumbing fixtures. The Department of Health estimates that approximately 65 percent of New Jersey's public housing may contain lead-based paint."

The investment in removing this hazard now will result in unlimited benefits in the future," the senator said.

S-1083 now moves to the full Senate for a vote.

Ivy League standouts here

Patterson, Taylor excel on Princeton freshman team

Dave Patterson and Bob Taylor are two that they played for the last freshman football team at Princeton University. The 1992 scholar-athletes at Roselle Park and Dayton Regional High School, respectively, are two of 14 players from New Jersey on this year's 52-man roster.

Both 1992 graduates earned All-Area, All-County and All-State recognition at the high school level, in addition to facing each other several times as two of the state's top 171-pound wrestlers.

Princeton began its final season of the Ivy League football history for the first time in Ivy League history. The policy of barring freshmen from Ivy League football in place since formal league play began in 1956, was overturned by a June 1991 vote of the league presidents.

"We all know that this is the last team, but we really don't talk about it a whole lot," said second-year head coach Harry Bush, a veteran with more than 40 years of coaching experience.

Beginnings in 1993, freshmen will be eligible to play on the varsity squad for the first time in Ivy League history. The policy of barring freshmen from Ivy League football in place since formal league play began in 1956, was overturned by a June 1991 vote of the league presidents.

"It's a good group of football players with a nice attitude," Bush said. "We have some solid players."

Patterson and Taylor are two of eight players on the roster from North Jersey and two from the Center West area of the collegiate and high school ranks.

As always, participation will be the key in freshman football. The best players of "staters" and "reserve" are meaningful.

Bears' football team steadily improving

KENILWORTH — Although coaches and players would probably disagree, it's becoming clear that this season is becoming a minor image of last season for the Roselle Park Regional High School football team.

Here's how the two seasons compare so far:

Rawlin to 1991 — The season starts with a loss to Hackensack on a 19-15 score. After a week off, Roselle Park shut out Middlesex 36-0. Roselle then comes back from a 14-10 third-quarter deficit to halt Bound Brook 30-14.

Fast forward to 1992 — The season starts with a loss to Hackensack on a 19-15 score. After a week off, Roselle Park shut out Middlesex 22-0. Roselle then comes back from a 12-0 second-quarter deficit to halt Bound Brook 26-18.

Both played well

Bush said that Patterson and Taylor both excelled in Princeton's first game, Saturday's 16-15 setback at Dartmouth.

Patterson, who was chosen as the team's game captain for the contest, returned an interception 37 yards to set up a second-quarter field goal that gave Princeton a 6-0 lead.

"He's one of the best hitters on the team," Bush said. "He's even injured two of our players with his during practice."

Princeton held a 15-3 lead in the fourth quarter before Dartmouth came back with two touchdowns for the victory. The Tigers limited Roselle Park to 220 yards on offense.

"Taylor played well and is a good hitter," said Bush, who coached against Taylor's father Bob Sr. on the Bears' 1974 team.

Bush was the head coach at Ridge and Taylor has been at the helm of the Roselle Regional program since 1974.

Great Pumpkin Sail set

Imagine a sea of candle-lit jack-o-lanterns floating along the darkened water as you listen to the ghostly legends of Halloween. Then your imagination into reality at the Union County Division of Parks and Recreation's Great Pumpkin Sail Nov. 1 in Echo Lake Park in Mountaintop.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m., families who have registered for this program will be able to bring their jack-o-lanterns to Echo Lake Park, where specially designed boats will put their pumpkins afloat. This is the third year for this event.

According to a Parks Division spokesperson, while enjoying this sea of jack-o-lanterns, participants will gather around a campfire where Jim Rhee, a professional storyteller, will intrigue everyone with engaging tales. Hot chocolate and refreshments, donated by The Olive Garden Restaurant of Springfield, will be available throughout the evening.

Families interested in the Great Pumpkin Sail must pre-register at the Traditions-Nature-Science Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road. The cost is $5 per family and is limited to 125 families. Each family may bring one pumpkin. All jack-o-lanterns must have lids, and cannot exceed 8 pounds after carving. The Parks Division will provide the proper candles for illumination.

CDC Theater begins its 74th

The 74th season of live theater productions at the CDC Theater has been selected by its program committee. The 1992-93 includes a mystery/comedy, a hit Broadway comedy and a hit musical.

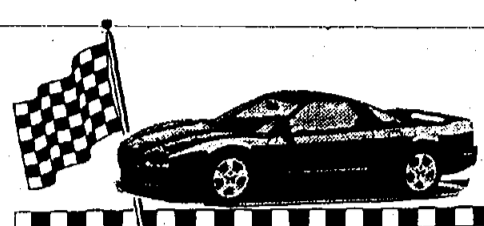

The fun begins on Saturday with Anthony Shaffer's "Whodunnit?," a comic mystery play by the author of the hit, "Sleuth." The play, a tongue-in-cheek look at "classic country house murder mysteries," will run Fridays and Saturdays through Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. It is directed by Bill Wickham of Cranford.

Winter doldrums will be cured by the humor of Andrew Bergman's "Social Security." Directed by New York City resident Michelle Massa, the play will run Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m., from Feb. 16 through March 6, 1993.

The season will close with the musical, "Little Shop of Horrors," based on the 1950s science fiction class-movie. The musical features songs by Howard Ashman and Alan Menken, who also wrote scores for the films "The Little Mermaid" and "Beauty and the Beast." The hit musical, which was also a major motion picture, will be directed by Barbara Heitman of Cranford, and will run Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m., from March 6 through March 16, 1993.

Ford Probe has a different look for 1993

The redesigned 1993 Ford Probe features a new, more contemporary design and a higher level of technical sophistication than its predecessor. Together with the Ford Mustang, it is expected to give Ford an even stronger presence in the small specialty segment of the new car market.

The 1993 Probe will be available in two models - Probe and Probe GT - each with its own unique engine and styling cues. All 1993 Probes have four-valve engines; the Probe GT, a state-of-the-art, 24-valve V-6 unit. They are built at the MMUC facility in Flat Rock, Mich., and were introduced to the public in Ford dealerships on July 9.

The initial Probe was introduced in May 1988, as a 1989 model, and to date, more than 400,000 have been sold. The 1993 Probe is, like its predecessor, the result of a joint effort between Ford and Mazda. But the 1993 Probe is not only a very different car from the one it replaces, it is very different from the Mazda 626/MX-6 models with which it shares its platform.

The 1993 Probe has a more aggressive stance than the car it is replacing, a result of increasing the front overhang by two inches and lengthening the wheelbase by almost four inches. By relocating the coil height almost three inches and pulling the base of the windshield forward almost four inches, the new Probe has been given a distinctly "cut-forward" look. The interior has been totally redesigned, as well, with an all-new instrument panel that is integrated with the door panels for a pronounced wraparound appearance. There is a new center console armrest with storage area and cup holder that is standard on the GT and optional on the standard model. And, for the first time, a driver-side airbag supplemental restraint system, which is most effective when safety belts are worn, is available, standard on both models. Functionally, the 1993 Probe has more advanced, smoother-opening twin-cam engines and more sophisticated suspension geometry than the current model.

Under the hood of the standard model is a new 2.0-liter four-cylinder engine featuring twin overhead camshafts, four valves per cylinder and an aluminum head. It produces 115 horsepower at 5,500 rpm and 124 foot-pounds of torque at 3,500 rpm. A five-speed manual transaxle is standard and a significantly upgraded, electronically controlled four-speed automatic transaxle is optional.

The Probe GT is equipped with a new twin-cam, four-valve per cylinder V-6 with a cast aluminum block and cylinder heads. It generates 164 horsepower at 6,000 rpm and 156 foot-pounds of torque at 4,000. Acceleration times are virtually identical to those of the current Probe GT with its turbocharged engine. It, too, has a five-speed manual transaxle as standard and an electronically controlled four-speed automatic transaxle is optional.

The Probe GT suspension is further refined to provide the handling, maneuverability and cornering capability expected of a true driver's car. The GT gets revised springs, rear coil springs, additional shock strut louche and rebound control, and front and rear stabilizer bars. Four-wheel disc brakes are standard on the GT, and anti-lock brakes are optional on both models.

Buyers will have their choice of 10 exterior colors, six of which are new for 1993 - electric red clearcoat metallic, electric blue clearcoat metallic, steel blue front clearcoat metallic, bright yellow-tinted clearcoat, vibrant white and silver clearcoat metallic.

For week of Oct. 18-Oct. 24
ARIES (March 21 to April 20) The enthusiasm you put into your work, coupled with your organizational ability, may spill over into your leisure time, making you the center of attention now. However, there could be some argument with a relative, as there might be an element of jealousy involved. You might have to be firm in the face of being rude.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) Planning events for the no-no-holiday season could be your most immediate concern this week. But the expectation of romance and adventure, which may characterize your thinking now, will probably not be realized to the extent that you would wish.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) Making your mind up about a definite course of action may be particularly hard for you right now, but the rewards that might be gained by choosing an target and sticking to it could be inestimable. In both the social and business arenas, once you have decided on a goal, you should put all your energies into making sure that it is attained.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) This week you'll feel like life is really worth living, as your inner nature is totally in harmony with your way of life. You'll feel like adopting a new and more positive approach and should need no urging from your friends to join in social events. Good news from a close friend will lift your spirits even more.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) That interesting person you've been looking for may be closer than you think; just open your eyes a little wider. At work, there could be some problems concerning overtime or bonus payments, and you may have to be forceful in order to get your just rewards.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) The activities of other people might make you angry right now, for they might appear to be acting irresponsibly. You may feel an almost overwhelming desire to tell them what to do, but make sure the advice you give does not lead to hard feelings in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) Gardening can be a passion for some Scorpios. If you are blessed with a green thumb, this week may be a good time to get things ready for next year's crop. That's a good time for money-making or business; leisure or recreation in general will keep you happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) Somebody close to you at work might suffer from a malfunction. Don't reveal their discomfort; try to help. You will find that you are starting to achieve goals set in the past. It may be good time to look for some new objectives. You've had fun with your money all summer; it's time to start saving again.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20) If you are in a profession or involved in skilled work of any sort, you should be thinking about a refresher course or some extra study. Romantically, this week tends to improve as it goes on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) If you are planning a major purchase, it would be sensible to shop around for the best deal available. Wednesday and Thursday are favorable days for entertaining company.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) This week it would be wise to take careful stock of your financial situation and to reorganize your priorities.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) If you have been on a fitness program, then you may be seeing the results now. The renewed self-confidence you feel will allow you to shun socially. You will be very much in demand and you may find it difficult to fulfill all social obligations.
