Brearley closed in 7-2 vote

'93 termination set

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

The Union County Regional High School District Board of Education reversed an April decision and voted 7-2 early Wednesday morning to cease operating David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth in September 1993.

The board rendered its verdict at 1:30 a.m. after a five-hour public hearing at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights. The session, attended by some 1,300 people, was conducted in order to review Superintendent Donald Merachnik's Oct. 20 recommendation to reshape the four-high school, six-community regional district into a three-school configuration — with Brearley the one to go.

The meeting became raucous when, during the tally on the school closing, it became evident that the resolution to close Brearley would be approved. In the uproar by Kenilworth residents, several board members were unable to explain the reasoning behind their votes. Uniformed police officers separated the board, positioned on the auditorium stage, from a sizable contingent of hecklers — rowdy and heart-broken Brearley supporters — in the audience.

Premature R.I.P.?

The obituary for Brearley, the region's newest school which opened its doors in 1966, is not etched in stone.

Representatives from the Kenilworth Committee of Concerned Parents were slated to meet with an attorney Wednesday. James Glynos, the group's president, said the committee would petition the state Commissioner of Education to conduct a review of the closure in an attempt to block it on educational grounds. She said the group hoped to garner "a stay" from an administrative law judge in the interim.

Glynos also indicated just prior to the Tuesday night meeting in Berkeley Heights that the local Kenilworth Board of Education is investigating withdrawing from the region and that "the preliminary numbers look good" from a feasibility study.

Mayor Joseph Rego of Kenilworth also said prior to the meeting that the borough will conduct a public meeting Friday to discuss what steps the borough might take to combat the regional board decision.

Board officials explained during the meeting that the Commissioner of Education does not conduct a formal review of a school closure unless petitioned by residents. The Department of Education's Bureau of Facilities Planning Services will, however, review the planned three-school configuration to determine if adequate space and other physical requirements will be met.

At David Brearley Wednesday, counselors were slated to be available to students to ease what everyone — both proponents and opponents of a closure — concedes will be a traumatic development.

Decisive vote

At 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, after five hours of public hearings, the board started to formally take action on Merachnik's recommendation.

Board Vice President Frederick Soos of Kenilworth unsuccessfully introduced a resolution calling on the board to table a resolution to close Brearley. The resolution was defeated 2-7 with only Joan Toth of Garwood joining Soos in favor.

Toth argued that a vote on a closure that evening would be "an injustice" to the students and communities involved since "we still have lots of questions" and cannot make "an intelligent decision."

The same 7-2 line-up would hold for the next two resolutions.

In a resolution introduced by Carmen Vanes of Mountainside and seconded by Robert Della Sala of Clark, the board ratified a Brearley closure.

Voting in favor of the closure resolution and a subsequent resolution to approve the recommended student reassignments — Kenilworth and Springfield students to Jonathan Dayton, Garwood and Clark students to Arthur L. Johnson, and Mountainside and Berkeley Heights students to Governor Livingston — were Berkeley Heights representatives Barton Zitomer and Jonathan Miller, Springfield representatives Theresa LiCausi and Margaret Hough, Clark representatives Donald Paris and Robert Della Sala, and Mountainside representative Carmine Vanes. Soos and Toth voted against both measures.

The reassignment resolution, which also dispatches certain classes for the handicapped to Arthur L. Johnson, created an ad hoc committee of board members to review the recommendation and modify it if necessary. That committee is scheduled to present its conclusions at a Dec. 15 board meeting.

In addition, board President Zitomer pointed out that passage of the school closure resolution does not mean necessarily that the region will lease David Brearley next year to the Union County Educational Services Commission, a special education agency, as envisioned in the Merachnik recommendation.

"Don't be fearful that this is going to happen right away or at all perhaps," Zitomer said in reference to the lease.

During the prelude to the votes, speaker after speaker from Kenilworth and Garwood blasted the regional board members for proceeding with an alleged "done deal," for going ahead with the closure with little preparation and without a precise educational plan, and for allowing Kenilworth and Garwood to bear the brunt of the region's "sacrifice." Speakers from other communities provided a host of views on the subject.

Kenilworth resident George Schlenker, an educator, repeatedly queried the board about a lack of an educational plan, a project that curriculum head Kenneth Mattfield is currently formulating. "Where is it? Schlenker said. "Did I miss it?"

Kenilworth's Mayor Rego and others implored the board to "do the right thing" because otherwise "there will be no regional district."

Rationale for closing

Board member Miller of Berkeley Heights noted he backed closing Brearley because, with three schools the district can forge improvements. "Cost containment did little but highlight that we were stretching things to the detriment of programs," he said.

Board member LiCausi of Springfield representatives Theresa LiCausi and Margaret Hough, Clark representatives Donald Paris and Robert Della Sala, and Mountainside representative Carmine Vanes. Soos and Toth voted against both measures.

Kurnos will seek non-partisan system

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

Springfield Mayor Philip Kurnos, a Republican who is on the outs with the local party organization, disclosed this week that he will soon undertake a campaign to change the Springfield form of local government to a non-partisan form.

The new structure envisioned by Kurnos would include the direct election of a mayor to a four-year term and the election of governing body members, as well as the mayor, without specified party affiliations.

Any potential change in the local form of government, a process that has been attempted in Springfield in the past, would have to be approved or rejected in a public referendum. Kurnos said he hopes to organize advocates of non-partisan government to conduct a petition drive to place a public referendum on the ballot.

Non-partisan elections, under New Jersey law, take place in May instead of November. This means there would be an additional cost for the township to conduct this type of election. Kurnos said he does not believe the cost would be excessive.

Kurnos stated that he has favored non-partisan elections for at least "two to three years."

"I've always felt that way," Kurnos contended. "Maybe the political atmosphere in the town this year pushed me over the edge on this issue, so I decided maybe I'll do it now."

Kurnos stated that perhaps electing representatives based on party affiliation can be justified on the county level and most assuredly on the state level. He acknowledged that it is beneficial for the township when a local Democrat or Republican official can reach out to a state assemblyman or senator from the same party for assistance.

"But suppose all local governments were unaffiliated," Kurnos said. "Wouldn't that be great."

"People would vote for people based on what they represented rather than by what party they belong to," Kurnos added.

Kurnos contended that his interest in non-partisan elections including the direct election of a mayor — rather than a basically symbolic mayoralty chosen by the Township Committee — was not triggered by self-interest.

"I'm not pushing for me," Kurnos said.

Kurnos said that to date he has spoken to friends about a drive for non-partisan elections and has not spoken to party representatives or other elected officials. He added that he is still researching the issue.

The Springfield Republican Party opted several months ago to kick Kurnos out of its ranks for numerous alleged infractions and improprieties. Kurnos says he remains in good standing with higher levels of the party.

In a related development, Kurnos said he has "no idea" who will head the Township Committee as mayor next year. The committee will include his political enemies, Republicans Jeffrey Katz and Harry Pappas, as well as Democrats Marcia Forman and Councilwoman-elect Jo Ann Holmes.

Regarding speculation on the political line-up of the Township Committee next year, Kurnos said he has always advocated independence. "It's a month-and-a-half until Jan. 1," he said. "Let's wait another week."

First aid squad puts out alarm to residents for financial help

By David Brown
Managing Editor

While the Springfield First Aid Squad is on call 24 hours per day, 365 days per year for 100 percent of the Springfield population, its members this week expressed concern that fewer than one out of every three residents has given financial assistance to the volunteer organization.

"We're very concerned," said Ray Netschert, chairman of the squad's fund-raising campaign. "The response to the first fund-raiser mailing was very poor. Over 65 percent of the people have not contributed to this worthy cause."

The First Aid Squad distributed approximately 6,600 postcards earlier this year, to which it received under 2,000 responses.

Netschert said the squad, which operates solely on charitable contributions, has put a second request in the mail in the hope of getting a better response to fund annual operating costs as well as one major expense — the replacement of an ambulance.

According to Netschert, a replacement vehicle — one of the squad's two — should have been purchased two years ago. A lack of funding has delayed the move.

"There are also everyday expenses," said Netschert, "such as insurance costs as well as fuel, oxygen and other first aid supplies.

"We hope to get a better response with this mailing," Netschert continued. "It amazes me that so few people contribute to this cause."

The First Aid Squad is staffed by about 45 volunteers, and responds to approximately 100 calls every month.

Marty Gornstein, vice president of the organization and co-chairman of the fund-raising effort, also remains puzzled by the public's lack of willingness to give.

"I don't understand it," said Gornstein. "Where are people's priorities? I think people take us for granted."

Netschert urged residents to watch their mailboxes for the squad's second request for contributions.

Local board convenes on regional question

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

Triggered by residents' fears that Jonathan Dayton Regional High School might be a potential target for closure, the Springfield Board of Education conducted a special meeting last week to air the issue.

Some 60 to 70 people attended the Nov. 12 session, which was scheduled with just three days' notice. After gathering citizen input — including frustration that the pro-Dayton sentiment is not more formally organized — regarding the future of the high school, the board established an ad hoc committee to read a statement at Tuesday's meeting of the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education in Berkeley Heights.

The local school board decided that it was not its role to take a stand on the Regional Board of Education's decision on whether to close one of the four high schools in the district. The board confirmed that the quality of education in Springfield elementary schools was its "foremost" focus, Superintendent Gary Friedland said Monday.

The board's planned position statement essentially expressed empathy for the regional board's difficult decision and the amount of work and research the regional board has performed. Without taking a position on Dayton's future, the local board pledged resources to and cooperation with the regional board in facilitating the transition to any new regional high school configuration.

Although the Springfield Board of Education did not take an explicit position on the future of Dayton, located in the township, the local district did send fliers home with elementary school students Monday informing parents about Tuesday's Regional Board of Education meeting at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights. (See accompanying story.)

Sharon Katz, the Jonathan Dayton Parent-Teacher-Student Organization liaison to the regional district, indicated Monday that although Springfield citizens have not established a formal organization to promote the retention of Dayton, "phone squads" were activated this week to promote a large Springfield-Mountainside turnout Tuesday night in Berkeley Heights. She noted that pro-Dayton T-shirts were being disseminated.

Friedland pointed out that the local board scheduled the special Springfield meeting for Nov. 12 after some 20 to 25 residents attended the local board's regular meeting three days earlier and expressed various concerns about the future of Dayton.

Friedland stated that the local board has "a long history" of conducting special meetings to discuss critical issues. The Tuesday night meeting of the regional board fueled the "urgency" of the local board's special session, he said.

The Dayton community turned out in force Tuesday night donning blue shirts that read, "United We Stand," in support of their high school.

Training bolsters local fight against drug abuse

By Michael Wojcik
Staff Writer

The New Jersey State Police last week kicked off a training course for 35 police officers, including Springfield Officer Donald A. Dauser, who will participate in the statewide Drug Awareness Reduction Education program, DARE, in which police officers teach children about drug abuse.

At the Holiday Inn North in Newark, Acting Essex County Prosecutor James Mulvihill welcomed the officers from Essex, Union, Morris and Mercer counties who will learn the anti-drug teaching techniques through an 80-hour course from Nov. 9 to 20 at the motel.

In his opening remarks, Mulvihill praised the DARE program, which trains police officers to teach students in the classroom about substance use.

"DARE helps reduce the demand for drugs and impacts on the young children to resist them," he said. "It teaches them about their bodies and about the consequenses of drugs and alcohol."

He also said DARE is a catalyst for positive interaction between police officers and young people, which helps build a positive image of law enforcement.

The Essex County Prosecutor's Office is underwriting costs for the state police-sponsored program through its Forfeiture Fund, which collects the money and property of drug dealers, Mulvihill said.

He said his office pledged $15,000, which will pay for rental of the hotel facility, student materials, instructor's fees and lodging, and lunch.

"We are proud to help with the DARE program," Mulvihill said. "It is a successful program that lets the police educate kids."

State Police decided to conduct the sessions at the Holiday Inn to provide a "conducive atmosphere" for learning, Mulvihill said.

Review of training

Barry Porterfield, an East Orange police officer who completed DARE training previously, said DARE officers normally present the program material in 17 segments, whereby the officer devotes a full week to each section.

During the training course, officers are required to learn each section quickly and to be able to present the material before the group of fellow officers, Porterfield said.

Instructors of the training course, he said, run through each of the 17 segments in about four hours, which is followed immediately by the officers teaching portions of the new information.

As their "final exam," each officer must teach a 45-minute DARE lesson to a class of school children "it was a very positive program," Porterfield said of the DARE training. "I liked it."

Also speaking at Monday's kickoff, Essex County Superintendent of Schools Peter Carter thanked the officers for participating in the training sessions and called DARE "an outstanding program to assist students in the avoidance of drugs and alcohol."

"The DARE officers will become part of the school setting and friends of the students," he said, adding that the program is worthwhile if it convinces even one student to shun drug use.

Attention residents: First Aid Squad 'wears' blue

Here's a color test for the residents of Springfield. If red means stop and green means go, what does blue stand for? That's the question many motorists ask when they see a blue flashing light coming up behind them.

Members of the Springfield First Aid Squad are undertaking an information update so that local residents know that when they see a blue flashing light in their rear-view mirror, it's a signal that the motorist is responding to an emergency and the motorist, by law, must pull over and allow the "blue lighter" to pass. "Most of our Springfield people know this, but we do have lots of out-of-town traffic and a small percentage of locals who do not know what is expected when they are confronted with the "blue lighter," states squad Captain Liz Frizzen. President Dan Kalem stated that the blue-lighters could be firefighters, Office of Emergency Management personal as well as the rescue squad members. "The thing to remember," he said, "is that the blue-lighter could be responding to your house or to one of your neighbors and that time is of the essence."

Blue-lighters are required to follow all rules of the road as well as signage and signals.

They must also stop at traffic lights and stop signs. Traveling in traffic and trying to get to the firehouse or squad house and observing all the rules of the road slows the trip down, but if the motorist pulls over to the right when he or she sees the blue light flashing and the road is clear of motor vehicles, response time is cut down dramatically.

Board votes to close Brearley

field backed the measure because she said "I feel our kids are missing out on many things." She said it "bothers" her that four schools result in "classes and courses that our kids are not getting."

The crowd began to get unruly when board member Della Sala of Clark began to explain his affirmative vote. He was unable to deliver his reasoning, but said, "I feel positive in my decision and will have no problem sleeping with that."

Hough of Springfield voted yes and was only able to elaborate — again because of the crowd's vocal dissent — that she done her "homework" and backs quality education.

Paris of Clark, heckled by the audience, said he backed the resolution because cost containment was not a solution to the education needs of the district.

Venes of Mountainside, because to the commotion, could only reveal that he voted "yes." Zitomer of Berkeley Heights also indicated his "yes" vote and was not able to elaborate over the crowd.

The crowd did quiet down, however, when board member Soos of Kenilworth read a statement. He said the board had garnered reams of new information at the hearing and was making its decision too quickly.

"We're an express train that's not making any stops," Soos said. Soos said board members were "just trying to appease politicians" and that Board Secretary Harold Burdge's projection of a $4.3 million annual savings in closing Brearley was "just a guesstimate."

Burdge also noted during the meeting that estimates from last March indicated that regional taxpayers on the average — it would vary from town to town — would save $141 in taxes annually if one school were to be shut.

Soos argued that the vote was the most important decision in the "region's 57-year history" and "if there is any doubt it must be considered."

When the meeting opened a 7 p.m. Tuesday evening, the regional board convened an executive session for 30 minutes to discuss the legal implications of a request by three state legislators that the district delay a decision and hire an independent consultant to evaluate a school closing.

During the course of the public meeting, school board President Zitomer said the board had opted not to pursue an outside study on the advice of counsel because such a review might not enhance the board's legal position in the event of litigation.

Zitomer later contradicted the earlier statement and said the board had not reached a formal decision on an outside consultant.

Storyteller highlighted

Storyteller Melisa Bunce travels from Baltimore to bring her lively tales to the Mountainside Public Library on Nov. 21 in a performance highlighting National Children's Book Week. At 3 p.m., Bunce will present "Imagine That!," a family program recommended for children ages 4 and up. "Imagine That!" invites the audience to help tell the tales, and together they chatter like monkeys, concoct gourmet "stone soup" and conjure a thunderstorm out of thin air. Tricksters and noodleheads, brave lasses and clever lads spring to life in her stories with wit and imagination, as Bunce recreates favorite folk and fairy tales full of mirth and magic.

Since 1980, Bunce has performed for children and families in the Middle Atlantic states. Named the area's best storyteller by Baltimore magazine, she has appeared on the award winning show "Three Stories Tall," as well as the Smithsonian and the National Theater. Her appearance at the Mountainside Library is sponsored by the Friends of the Library and is free and open to the public. For more information, call the library at 233-0115.

Devlin art featured at Palmer Museum

The Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Public Library will hold a reception on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 6, from 2 to 3:30 to inaugurate its new show. The latest exhibit in this very popular local museum will feature toys from the collection of the late Donald Palmer and paintings by Harry and Wende Devlin.

Palmer, an avid collector and connoisseur of Americana, bequeathed his entire collection to the library for the museum which now bears his name. This show will focus on toys from the late 1800s, dolls, a fire engine and a working model yacht from the 1930s.

The Devlins, who reside in Mountainside, are known throughout the world for their beautifully illustrated children's books and major contributions to the world of art. In addition, Wende Devlin is well-known for her portraits and still lifes, while Harry Devlin's cartoons and illustrations have appeared in many magazines and newspapers.

Wasserman nominated for state HEAA post

Springfield resident Robert B. Wasserman has been nominated as a member of the New Jersey Higher Education Assistance Authority, Governor Jim Florio announced.

"I am very pleased to nominate Bob Wasserman," said Governor Florio. "His experience and commitment will make him a valuable member of the authority."

Wasserman, of Laurel Drive, is a partner in the law firm of Lehman, Wasserman, Jurista & Stolz. A former member of the Springfield Township Committee, Wasserman is also a member of the Essex County and state bar associations. He received his undergraduate and law degrees from Rutgers University.

The Higher Education Assistance Authority helps New Jersey residents to obtain loans to finance higher education. Members are unsalaried and serve four-year terms.

Local artist featured

American and international artists, including Springfield resident Doris Kruger, will have their work featured in Focus on Art 1992, the 38th annual art exhibit sponsored by the National Council of Jewish Women, Essex County Section, which will be held Dec. 5 through Dec. 9 at the Jewish Community Center of Metropolitan New Jersey, 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange.

The preview of the show will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday with a patron admission fee of $18. Doors will open to the general public Sunday from 1 to 8 p.m.; Monday and Tuesday from 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.; and Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. General admission tickets, at $5 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens, will be available at the door.

Prosecutor offers precautionary measures against carjacking

Union County Prosecutor Andrew K. Ruotolo Jr. this week urged citizens of Union County to take reasonable precautions in response to a rash of armed automobile robberies in neighboring counties. Ruotolo noted that these incidents have given rise to a new law enforcement phrase, "carjacking," although armed robbery is hardly a new type of offense. Ruotolo noted, however, that what has changed is that armed predators seem to have become more brazen.

"It is important that people understand what is going on around them. Right now, many people are simply afraid to go out in their cars, even in suburban neighborhoods."

Ruotolo, who has a wife and three young children, knows from firsthand experience that the fear of crime can quickly reduce the quality of life. "People should not have to worry about being placed at gunpoint while stopped at a traffic light."

Ruotolo noted, however, that it is important to separate myth from reality. "It serves no purpose to cause undue alarm. But by the same token, people can help to protect themselves by being alert and by taking certain precautions."

The Union County Prosecutor's Office prides itself on its commitment to protecting the rights of crime victims and their families. Ruotolo believes that it is not enough to make certain that victims' rights are respected in Union County courtrooms. Rather, he notes, the ultimate objective of law enforcement is to keep people from becoming victims in the first place.

Ruotolo strongly supported the pending federal legislation which would make carjacking a federal offense, subjecting these criminals to lengthy terms in a federal penitentiary with no possibility of parole or early release. Ruotolo pledged to work closely with Michael Chertoff, the U.S. attorney for the District of New Jersey, in prosecuting federal violators to the full extent of the law.

First Assistant Prosecutor Michael Lapolla offered Union County citizens some specific tips on how to avoid becoming a "carjacking" victim:

• Keep car doors locked at all times and roll up windows if traveling in a neighborhood about which you are unsure. Even a slightly opened window can quickly be pryed open by a robber.

• When stopped at a red light, leave room between cars to provide a means to drive away if someone attempts to enter the car. If that happens, proceed cautiously through a red light, taking great care to avoid a collision with other traffic at an intersection.

• If someone hits your vehicle from the rear at low speed, do not stop or pull over to exchange insurance information until you have reached a well-lighted area where other people are around. Some criminals have been known to use a "bump and rob" technique.

• When parking your vehicle, park only in a well-lighted area. You should know that criminals are looking for vulnerable or distracted victims, such as people holding packages or small children.

• If confronted by a suspicious person, make as much noise as possible. Criminals don't want to draw attention to themselves.

• Finally, and most importantly, be alert and use common sense. Pay attention and try to make a mental picture of any suspicious person.

Lapolla noted in this regard that the best thing that a private citizen can do is to provide a good description to police, helping law enforcement to apprehend these offenders. He said that towns are being terrorized by what are believed to be only a handful of criminals who keep committing the same type of offense again and again. "If we can get this group of hardened offenders off the street and in prison, we can go a long way toward restoring security in our neighborhoods."

Ruotolo added that his office is working to put together a training program for women which will be conducted at the new Union County Police Academy. "We want to show vulnerable citizens how they can best protect themselves."

Ruotolo stressed that buying guns is not the answer. He said statistics show that more often than not, a weapon purchased for self-defense is taken away and actually used against the law-abiding citizen.

Ruotolo emphasized that Union County is well-prepared to address this new type of violent crime. More and more police vehicles, for example, are equipped with mobile data terminals — on-line computers which allow police to determine instantly if a vehicle has been reported stolen or if a particular suspect is wanted for other crimes.

Ruotolo notes that the carjacking problem is related to the much larger problem of automobile theft. The Union County Prosecutor's Office some months ago played a key role in forming the Essex Union Auto Theft Task Force, which uses innovative policing techniques to apprehend automobile thieves and joy-riders. Since its inception, "vehicle theft has dropped by 14 percent in Newark, 20 percent in Elizabeth and 23 percent in Plainfield. The task force has been able to recover 85 percent of all stolen vehicles, valued at $2 million."

Ruotolo added that more than 85 percent of all vehicles stolen in Union County are eventually recovered in neighboring Newark.

Part of the problem, according to Ruotolo, is that for too long, those of us in the criminal justice system treated "joy riding" as a petty offense. Ruotolo noted that this situation is likely to be remedied by the Legislature in the next few weeks.

For further information or questions call Michael J. Lapolla, First Assistant Prosecutor at (908) 527-4525.

Bassano bill would 'severely punish' juvenile car thieves

In the wake of the carjacking murder of Piscataway mother Gail Scholar and the deaths of four Newark residents victimized by rampaging auto thieves on the same day, Senator C. Louis Bassano said "there is no time to waste" on the need to enact laws to severely punish juvenile car thieves.

Bassano, R-Union, is the sponsor of legislation S-1206 that would institute mandatory punishment, including jail terms, for juveniles involved in stealing cars.

One of the most unique aspects of the bill is that it would enable the courts to require parents who neglect to exercise reasonable supervision and control over minors who become involved in car theft to pay restitution to victims. The amount of discretion would be left to the full discretion of the court.

The bill, which unanimously passed the Senate in October, is now awaiting consideration in the Assembly Judiciary, Law and Public Safety Committee.

"What is the single most important thing that must be done for the state to crack down on carjackings?" Bassano asked. "The answer is punish juvenile offenders, because the large majority of auto thefts are being committed by minors."

All of the individuals involved in the Nov. 11 Newark carjackings were teen-agers, Bassano noted, while the 23-year-old charged in the murder of Gail Shollar already had a lengthy criminal record by the time he was 18.

Bassano noted, "If our laws were tougher and required juveniles to spend a month or two behind bars the first or second time they become involved in stealing cars, there would at least be a fighting chance that the criminal justice system could reach them and make them give up thoughts of breaking the law again."

According to Essex County law enforcement officials and Newark police, an estimated 100 juveniles involved in auto theft rings are responsible for an overwhelming number of Essex County's stolen vehicles.

Bassano recently testified before a hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee in Bloomfield during which he cited state Uniform Crime Reports documenting the growing involvement of juveniles in auto theft. According to the 1991 State Police data, those arrested for auto theft included: 496 juveniles compared to 175 adults in Essex County; and 107 juveniles and 73 adults in Union County.

Under the bill, a juvenile adjudicated delinquent would face a mandatory term of 60 days incarceration for aggravated assault if injury is caused in the course of stealing a vehicle or if the individual is a previous offender who eludes arrest and creates a risk of injury.

The bill would also require imposition of 30-day terms for repeat juvenile offenders previously adjudicated delinquent on charges of auto theft or eluding arrest.

Democracy in action

Unnecessary gamble

A bill is being proposed by Assemblyman Anthony Impreveduto, D-Hudson, that would require schools to include a course in their curriculum on the dangers of compulsive gambling.

Perhaps we missed something, but doesn't the state run a lottery? And wouldn't that lottery, in essence, fund the education this bill proposes?

Is the intent of the bill's sponsor to deter our students from being caught in the sticky web of all legalized gambling, or just the card games, roulette wheels and gaming tables of Atlantic City?

If the state feels it is necessary to warn children about gambling, it should first try teaching by example and eliminate the New Jersey lottery — which has undoubtedly contributed enormously to the number of compulsive gamblers in this state.

The New Jersey lottery is not evil in itself. Nor is Impreveduto's proposal. But the two programs just don't work together.

If Impreveduto is genuinely concerned about the effects of compulsive gambling, and his proposal succeeds in reducing the number of regular gamblers, state revenue from the New Jersey lottery will dwindle.

So why not propose to simply eliminate the lottery, Mr. Impreveduto? Why contribute directly to the addiction that bill A-2025 proposes to reduce?

The state should stop running its own numbers game if it sincerely intends to reduce the number of students who may become compulsive gamblers.

Good time to quit

The Great American Smokeout celebrates its "sweet 16th" birthday today. If you're threatening to quit smoking, it's a great day to start.

One of the moving forces behind a smoke-free environment is the American Cancer Society, which started The Great American Smokeout in 1976. The ACS is offering a wide variety of aids to the public, businesses and schools to educate non-smokers and to help those who are addicted to quit smoking. Schools throughout Union County have been targeted in a campaign to prevent students from starting the unhealthy habit since it's estimated that every day more than 3,000 teen-agers become regular smokers.

There are chilling statistics related to smoking. About 87 percent of lung cancer cases are caused by smoking, says Dr. James Orsini of the Essex Oncology Group. When deaths from heart attacks caused by smoking and other smoking-related diseases are totaled, more than 400,000 people die each year from tobacco use. One would assume that people who smoke would quit simply out of fear.

The good news is that smoking is the No. 1 preventable cause of death in America. Quitting has some other immediate benefits such as less coughing, improved sense of taste, fresh-smelling clothes and fresher breath, to mention a few.

If you need help, it's just a telephone call away. Dial the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society at (908) 354-7373, or the American Lung Association in Union at (908) 687-9340.

The benefits of being a non-smoker are great, but the alternatives could be tragic.

Some medical expenses can be deducted

Money Management

If the cost of your medical expenses has you feeling a bit under the weather, Uncle Sam may provide you with some financial relief.

According to the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants, unreimbursed medical and dental expenses may be deductible to the extent that they exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income. Although you need high medical expenses to qualify for a deduction, there is a wide range of deductible expenses that may help to put you over the 7.5 percent threshold.

Generally, deductible medical expenses are those that are associated with the diagnosis, cure, treatment or prevention of disease. Examples of deductible expenses are the costs for hearing aids, braces, dentures and eyeglasses. Additionally, you may deduct the cost of property purchased for health reasons. This can include a new mattress for an individual suffering from arthritis, or a wheelchair for a handicapped person.

When it comes to medications, only the cost for insulin and physician-prescribed medications are deductible.

In reviewing the medical and dental expenses you incurred during the past year, be sure to include expenses paid for your spouse, if you file jointly, and your dependents. Additionally, if you tapped your own resources to pay the medical bills of your parents or other individuals, you may also be able to add these to your list of expenses, provided the following requirements are met: The individual could be claimed as a dependent on your tax return, does not receive more than $2,150 in gross income for the 1992 tax year, and does not file a joint tax return.

Qualified medical expenses also include the cost of insurance, such as health, dental and hospitalization. If you pay additional insurance premiums in order for your child to participate in a sport at school, this is also a deductible expense. Be aware, too, that the cost for Medicare supplemental insurance is a qualified medical expense.

Whether you drive or travel in a cab, bus, train or plane to see a physician or obtain medical treatment for an illness or disease, your transportation costs are tax deductible. You can calculate your expenses at 9 cents a mile or total the real costs, including what you pay for gas and oil. You may also claim the costs for tolls and parking.

If your medical condition required treatment at an out-of-town hospital and necessitated an overnight stay, you may deduct lodging expenses of up to $50 per night.

Congress also allows you to take a tax deduction for medically related capital improvements to your home, such as guard rails in bathrooms and walkways to accommodate wheelchairs.

However, the amount of our medical expense deduction is affected by the extent to which such improvements increase the value of your home. Your deduction is equal to the difference between your home's increase in value and the cost of your medically related improvement.

Keep in mind that qualified medical expenses are deductible in the year they are incurred. The New Jersey Society of CPAs points out that by grouping substantial amounts of medical expenses into one year, you may be able to reach the 7.5 percent threshold and reduce your tax bill.

Gift of land can yield tax benefits to donor

Tough economic times to the contrary, you can still double conservation benefits of your money.

Gifts of land or conservation easements can be stretched in value through the use of public-private partnership funding, with substantial tax benefits to the donor.

A conservation easement is a restriction placed in a landowner's deed that encourages good conservation practices while prohibiting development. The owner keeps the land, but the recipient of the easement must make sure its restrictions are obeyed.

Sometimes easements provide a public use, such as a trail or fishing access. In that case, the easement's recipient has the obligation to provide insurance, and manage the public usage.

Many towns require easements to be donated as part of a development site, but in that case there is no deduction allowed from the developer's tax for a charitable donation. But when a gift of land or easement is donated freely to a qualified land conservation charity or a public agency, the fair market value is deductible as with a cash gift.

One exception to that rule is that when a taxpayer is subject to the alternative minimum tax, only the original purchase cost of the land is allowed as a deduction. Congress tried to fix that problem. As this is being written, outgoing President Bush vetoed the bill removing that caveat, for the second time in 1992! I'm sure there will be another try in '93, for many donors are put off by the lack of tax advantages.

Now to the doubling part. The Green Acres Program, just reaffirmed again by voters, offers money to land conservation organizations on a 50-50 matching basis, and land donations or cash can be used as the match. If a donation is made of one tract, the conservation group can use that gift to buy another parcel.

A town or county can do the same thing; the state program can give 25 percent grants to communities attracting donations of land. The rest of the town's funding comes in the form of a 20-year, 2 percent loan. And if a land trust works with a town, it is possible to turn such partial purchases into a fund to help the town pay off its Green Acres loan!

Easements can resolve such situations, because the value of the estate can be reduced, a charitable contribution is often realized, and property taxes may be reduced, all with the same donation!

The other reason is that the cost of maintaining land is going up while the values are falling. Many owners feel that they might as well take advantage of the charitable deduction under such circumstances.

'Israel-bashing' must stop

To the Editor:

"Change."

It's become the catchword of the 1990s, not only throughout America but around the world. So why does the General of the United Nations, year after year, pass anti-Israel resolutions that are outdated, one-sided and blind to the changing realities of the Middle East?

Given the emerging regional trends in the direction of peace, it is time that the General Assembly change both the tone and the content of its resolution regarding Israel. With the sole exception of the United States, U.N. member nations continue to pass resolutions which repeatedly have the effect of hindering — not helping — the peace process.

One important case in point is the U.N.'s refusal to allow Israel to assume its rightful place as a member of a regional group. This would allow Israel, like other countries, to hold key positions such as non-permanent membership on the Security Council, the presidency of the General Assembly and chairmanships of various committees. Without this, Israel uniquely continues to be denied full participation in the work of the United Nations, and an opportunity is being missed to grant Israel the international acceptance it needs as it considers the risks it must take in the peace process.

The current (47th) Session of the General Assembly provides the chance to reverse the U.N.'s defamation of Israel. It is crucial that all fair-minded Americans, seeking constructive and beneficial change in the fragile Middle East, encourage our government leaders to work with foreign government representatives whenever possible to help put an end to this trend of "Israel-bashing."

The American Jewish Committee

Historians throw party

The Union County Historical Society will meet Dec. 6 at 3 p.m. at the Abraham Clark House, West 9th and Chestnut streets in Roselle, for its annual Christmas party.

A slide program giving an update on Union County will be presented by Ruth and Bill Frolich of Roselle. The Frolichs have been photographing Union County scenes for many years as well as collecting old photographs of scenes in the county.

The program will trace the history of old Elizabethtown, settled in 1664 by people from the eastern end of Long Island, to the present. It will explore the development of Union County, separated from Essex County in 1857, and its 21 communities, the growth of the industries and the areas along the Central Railroad.

The presentation will include photographs of historic buildings which are still standing. Many of these are open to the public. The Frolichs are well-known for their many slide presentations on historic subjects.

The meeting is free and open to the public. The board of directors will meet at the house at 2 p.m.

Breadbasket resumes

Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich announced this week that his office and Tuscan Dairy will co-sponsor "Operation Breadbasket" for the third consecutive year.

This year, "Operation Breadbasket" will focus on senior citizens in need of assistance. The program provides food baskets to seniors who are experiencing economic hardships. The baskets will contain a turkey, eggs, bread, milk, cheese, orange juice, fruit, vegetables and canned goods.

The baskets will be distributed to private residences, senior citizen centers and community centers. This year's program will be coordinated by Detectives Peter Campanelli and Virginia Fanelli.

Froehlich said the success of this program depends on the benevolence of business and corporations. As of this date, the United Auto Workers Region 9 Cranford, Wakefern Food Corporation and Papetti's High Grade Egg Products have pledged goods and services. The sheriff invites other businesses to join the program and donate products they may have available that would aid senior citizens during these economic times.

The Altas Pythagoras Lodge 10, Free and Accepted Masons of Westfield has donated $1000. Anyone else interested in making a financial donation toward the purchase of food should send a check payable to "Operation Breadbasket" c/o Det. P. Campanelli, Union County Sheriff's Office, 6th Floor, 2 Broad St. Elizabeth, 07207.

The baskets are expected to be delivered during the third and fourth weeks of December.

Lupus group meets

The Union County branch of the Lupus Foundation of New Jersey will hold its monthly meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m., at Union Hospital, 1000 Galloping Hill Road.

Patricia A. Johnson, Lupus Foundation president, will be the guest speaker. The topic will be announced at the meeting.

Lupus Erythematosus is a chronic, inflammatory disease which afflicts an estimated 1 million Americans. Lupus can affect the joints, skin, heart, lungs, kidneys and other parts of the body. Although the disease is controllable in most people, it can be fatal and there is still no known cause or cure.

The meeting is free and open to the public. For further information about the meeting or about lupus, contact the foundation office in Elmwood Park at (201) 791-7868.

RSVP seeks volunteers

RSVP of Union County is looking for bright and caring senior citizens who would be willing to commit their time to act as an advocate for children.

Duties would include interviewing parents, teachers, agency personnel, relatives and foster parents of children who have been placed outside of their home because of abuse or neglect. The reports that the volunteer submits to the court helps decide what is in the best interest of the child and helps ensure that the child is not forgotten in the system.

There are no special requirements to become a volunteer. There will be approximately 15 hours of training by staff, experienced and professionals from related fields.

To volunteer, call Jo-Ann Croteau, RSVP director, at (908) 351-0070.

Legion seeks donors

The American Legion is calling upon citizens of Union County to join in a continuing blood donor program, chairman Jim Daley of Scotch Plains Post 209 announced. The Union County unit has recruited 25 of its members to set the foundation for a communitywide donor program, and is seeking the assistance of others who wish to be a part of this effort.

The county has arranged with the American Red Cross to have one of its mobile units at the post, 237 Park Ave., Scotch Plains, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Nov. 28. To avoid a long waiting period, prospective blood donors are urged to call Daley at (908) 351-3579.

For those who do not have a record of their blood type, this service will be available during the visit of the mobile unit. Each donor will be provided a card with his or her blood type printed on it for future reference and a record will be retained for use in the event of emergency or call for a specific blood type.

"Don't underestimate the value of your blood donation," Daley said. "All types of blood are needed — all the time."

Vets to meet

The Essex County Council, Jewish War Veterans of the U.S.A., will meet Dec. 1 at 8 p.m. at the Service Men's Club House, 1113 Springfield Ave., Irvington.

Th following posts will participate: Milton A. Waldor Post 34 of Union; Col. Norman Meranus Post 78 of Hillside; North Essex Post 146 of Bloomfield; Elin-Unger Post 273 of Springfield; Cpl. Louis Ferdinand Post 309 of Irvington-Union; and Livingston Post 740.

Modern eyes

American Eyes, located next to Dental Center at 1441 Morris Ave., is taking the concept of an optical store in the 1990s in a new direction.

"This store is not an impersonal factory where the customers are not put first," said director Anthony Ciccone, a graduate of Union High School who favors the store having a "friendly atmosphere."

American Eyes has several trained fashion consultants to fit customers' eye care needs with eyewear ranging from the most up to date designer fashions to the traditional.

The independent doctors of optometry, John Scaramia and Walter Bockford, will try to fit all types of contact lenses for everyone's needs, including basic daily wear, extended wear, color contacts and bifocal contacts.

"American Eyes provides good service and prices to go along with today's struggling economy," Ciccone said. "The designer frames and contacts are appropriately priced for the times."

American Eyes has a designer eyewear style show of the Geoffrey Beene and Benelton lines scheduled for Dec. 3 from 6 to 9 p.m.

For more information, call 687-3937.

In a recent article, Susan S. Lederman, immediate past president of the League of Women Voters of the United States and director of the college's master of Public Administration program, states that "the great American democratic experiment is in trouble."

Lederman, a New Providence resident, suggests that the elimination of bureaucratic barriers that keep Americans from voting is a necessary first step in making democracy work.

Man sought in kidnap, sex assault of woman

By Chaz Repak
Staff Writer

The Rahway Police Department, in conjunction with the Union County Crime Stoppers program, is seeking information that will lead to the arrest of a man who allegedly kidnapped and sexually assaulted a woman he abducted from a Rahway intersection Friday.

Capt. Edward Tilton of the Rahway Police Department said a woman told police Saturday she was abducted at about 6:30 p.m. Friday near the intersection of Elm Avenue and Main Street.

The suspect is described as a black male, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing between 170 and 190 pounds and between 25 and 30 years old. He is described as having short wavy hair, brown eyes and a muscular build. He was wearing sneakers, olive green pants, a darker green fleece pullover shirt and a three-quarter length black corduroy coat.

The alleged victim said she was blindfolded and led to a motor vehicle, then taken for a short drive to what appeared to be a small basement apartment. Once in the apartment, she was sexually assaulted several times, police said.

She was held in the apartment overnight and the following morning was again blindfolded and driven to the vicinity of East Scott Avenue and Route 1 in Rahway.

After she told police of the kidnapping and assault, the alleged victim was treated at Rahway Hospital and released.

Union County Crime Stoppers coordinator Lt. Leo Uebelein of the Union County Prosecutor's Office said authorities are seeking information that will lead to the arrest of the suspect for "this most heinous crime."

"We request all citizens who may have knowledge of this suspect to please contact the Union County Crime Stoppers 24-hour hotline at (908) 654-TIPS. Citizens who call will remain anonymous and be eligible for a reward up to $5,000 for the arrest and indictment of this suspect," Uebelein said.

Citizens may also contact the investigating officer, Detective John Kaczor of the Rahway Police Department, at (908) 827-2117.

Police seek clues in accident that disabled county resident

By Robert Wahlers
Staff Writer

The family of Ed Smith, a longtime Hillside resident and freelance newspaper photographer, is seeking information about an accident that occurred earlier this year and left the 67-year-old man permanently disabled.

Smith's daughter, Jean Urban, said two people telephoned police moments after her father's vehicle, a 1981 Oldsmobile Cutlass with Marine license plates, crashed into the concrete divider on Route 22 East near Weequahic Park at approximately 10:15 p.m. March 15.

"We still don't know who those people are who called the police. We know one call was made on a car phone. The second person apparently called from a pay phone. But there's no way we can trace those calls. The family wishes to thank these good Samaritans. My father's life was saved because of their kindness," Urban said.

Urban noted that members of the Hillside Police Department and Fire Department, along with a METS unit, "arrived almost immediately" because they were at another accident scene nearby.

Smith, a resident of Fitzpatrick Street, had driven to that accident scene — on Route 22 East in Hillside — to take a photograph of a Mercury Marquis that had flipped over. The driver of that vehicle did not sustain serious injuries.

Urban said her father, after taking photographs of the disabled automobile, left the scene and began driving to The Star-Ledger newspaper office in Newark to deliver his film when he lost control of his car and crashed into the concrete divider of the highway.

Smith sustained massive head injuries in the accident, which left him with brain damage, Urban said. After being alerted, Hillside emergency personnel responded to the scene and extricated Smith from his vehicle. He was transported to Beth Israel Medical Center in Newark, where he was hospitalized for nearly three months. Smith spent another three months at the Kessler Institute in West Orange undergoing rehabilitation therapy, Urban said.

Recently, her father suffered anxiety attacks as a result of the accident and had to be admitted to Irvington General Hospital for treatment, she said.

Urban said the family is still unclear about the circumstances of the accident. She said her father remembers few details.

Anyone with information about the incident is requested to call the Hillside Leader at (908) 686-7700.

Task force formed to combat auto theft

Democratic Assemblymen Willie Brown, Harry McEnroe and Robert Brown joined three Republican legislators last week in announcing the formation of the Assembly Task Force on Auto Theft.

"Car theft, and its increasingly violent nature, has already reached crisis proportions," said Willie Brown D-Newark. "In the last 24 hours, at least four people have been killed in Newark because of car theft and the reckless driving that follows. Only through the joint efforts of a bipartisan task force can proper and effective solutions be found and implemented."

"Our police are being chased by reckless, underaged drivers," McEnroe added. "Innocent drivers are being attacked in broad daylight. A coordinated anti-car theft program — endorsed by Republicans and Democrats — will address all of the issues related to this epidemic.

"We need to have community involvement. This is a small group of people wreaking havoc on our state. We need to employ every possible tool — peer pressure, parental involvement, tougher penalties — to move the agenda of a safer New Jersey."

"Driving a car has become akin to taking a stagecoach across the Wild West," Robert Brown said. "But just passing stiffer penalties will not solve the problem. We already have a terrible overcrowding problem in our prisons. We can't afford to open the front door for car thieves and open the back door for burglars and rapists."

"Within 90 days," said Willie Brown, who will serve as co-chairman of the task force, "we plan on formulating a package of bills that will address the various issues related to car theft. We will look at the problems with sentencing juveniles, who make up many of the worst offenders. We'll examine the use of peers and parents to help shape the lives of others. And we'll consider the use of boot camps and other forms of non-traditional incarceration."

"This is not just a matter of property damage," McEnroe noted. "This is a plague on society. We're looking at an enormous loss of life and a callousness toward the norms of society."

The three Democrats will be joined by Republican Assembly members Monroe Lay Justbader, chairman of the Task Force, Marion Crecco and Paul DeGaetano.

Police seek gift horses to renew patrol

In an era when local police departments are making an effort to be more accessible to the public, the Union County Police Department is looking to do its part by revitalizing the Mounted Patrol Unit through the donation or acquisition of suitable horses.

Dating back to the origination of the Union County Park Police, and through the many changes that have taken place over nearly 60 years, a full-time or auxiliary mounted patrol unit has been an important part of the Union County Police Department.

After a short period without a mounted patrol, the department re-established the unit in 1985 with one suitable police horse, Track, and an enthusiastic equestrian officer. As the unit started to expand with the addition of a second trained officer, the program came to an abrupt halt with Track's untimely demise.

The Union County Police Department is now planning to continue the unit through the donation or acquisition of new horses to be used for police work. To be accepted into the program, a horse should be a dark colored gelding, at least 15.3 hands high, between 5 and 12 years old and have a good temperament.

According to Freeholder Chairman Louis Santagata, "Union County's Mounted Unit is used primarily for patrolling recreational paths and areas in the 2,000-acre Watchung Reservation. Its usefulness, however, extends far beyond that, to include use in other parks, and at numerous county and municipal functions such as parades, festivals, school appearances, etc."

Anyone with information, or an interest in donating such a horse, is asked to call the Union County Police Department at 654-9800.

Personal safety tips

These personal safety tips were prepared by the Springfield Police Department's Crime Prevention Bureau.

• When driving keep all doors locked.

• When stopped at a traffic light or stop sign make sure there is at least one car length distance between your car and the car in front of you.

• Be aware of your surroundings and what's going on around you. The greatest weapon a criminal has is the element of surprise. Take away the element of surprise and you gain the advantage.

• Always try to go shopping, especially in the malls, with a friend, spouse, etc., and park as close to the building as possible. If you park your car during daylight and don't expect to be finished shopping until after dark, park under or near a light.

Never carry more than one shopping bag. Make several trips to your car if you have to and lock your packages in the trunk. Always have at least one free hand.

If an assailant grabs your purse or packages, do not resist.

When walking back to your car walk far enough away from the parked cars so that you can see into the spaces between the cars. Always stop and check between your car and the cars parked next to yours.

• Carry a security whistle and keep it ready when walking to your car, unlocking your car, etc.

• When unlocking your car door, always keep one free hand. Check in all directions before you start to unlock your door.

• Learn the proper way to carry your purse.

• Never allow yourself to be boxed in. Make sure you have an avenue of escape.

• Never, never, never get into a car with an assailant. If an assailant surprises you, drop to the ground. Try and position yourself so your feet are facing the assailant. Use your security whistle.

Douglas Felter and Roland Marionni, department supervisors in the Union County Regional High School District, recently served as curriculum fair presenters at the annual workshop of the New Jersey School Boards Association in Atlantic City.

Felter, the district's department supervisor of English and basic skills, and Marionni, department supervisor of science and environmental safety, conducted a workshop titled "Science/English-Connection: Using Thinking Skills to Cross Disciplines." The presentation was an outgrowth of an interdisciplinary project developed by Felter and Marionni when the two educators were teaching at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark.

Intended for students at the high school and middle school levels, "Science/English Connection" was designed to help youngsters to respond to scientific and sociological dilemmas by building critical thinking and decision-making skills.

Iammatteo elected board president

Gail Iammatteo of Scotch Plains has been elected president of the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in Union County. She becomes the first woman to serve as leader of the board.

Charles S. Mancuso, president for the past six years, was named vice president. Iammatteo was initially seated on the board in 1987-88, rejoining the panel in 1989 and was vice president from 1991.

Other members of the board include Robert H. Schmidt of Linden, Leonard D. Fitts, Union County Superintendent of Schools, and Jane Lorber of Scotch Plains. The latter was chosen to replace Elaine Chipperson of Union, whose term had expired.

Appointed to board posts were Donald DiFrancesco of Scotch Plains, attorney, and Edward H. Mellage of Elizabeth, treasurer.

Iammatteo has been involved in county and Scotch Plains activities. She is a member of the Scotch Plains Board of Adjustment, the Union Republic Finance Committee and serves as Republican delegate to Union County for Scotch Plains. Past affiliations include the Scotch Plains Cultural Arts Committee. For 14 years she was co-owner of Johanna's Bridal Shops in Edison, North Plainfield and Matawan.

The holder of a bachelor's degree in mathematics/education, awarded cum laude by Richmond College/SUNY, Staten Island, N.Y., Iammatteo also earned 28 credits in education and mathematics at the Richmond College Graduate School.

Mancuso is executive director of the Linden Economic Development Corporation. The former mayor of Hillside has many years of experience in the banking and management professions. He currently acts as consultant to professional groups regarding financial management and planning as well as educational policies and procedures. Mancuso has been active on the County Vocational Education Board for the past 27 years.

The board governs the operations of the Union County Vocational Technical Schools, 1776 Raritan Road in Scotch Plains.

Academy chosen for pilot project

Union County Prosecutor Andrew K. Ruotolo Jr. has announced that the John H. Stamler Police Academy has been selected to participate in a pilot project which allows for an Alternate Route Basic Course for police officers.

Fifteen participants will be chosen to be part of the recruit class that begins its 17-week program on Jan. 29, 1993.

"In essence, this program allows individuals interested in becoming police officers the opportunity to attend a police academy prior to being hired by a police department," Ruotolo said. "It is our hope that this pilot project will create a pool of trained officers who could then be hired by local departments, sparing these departments the costs associated with officer training, especially the payment of salaries during the recruits' training period," he added.

First Assistant Prosecutor Michael J. Lapolla noted that while successful completion of the program does not guarantee a participant a job in law enforcement, graduates will have met all state requirements necessary to become a police officer. In addition, all successful graduates will receive 12 credits from Union County College.

Anyone who meets the following requirements are eligible for consideration for the Alternate Route Basic Course for Police Officers:

- is a citizen of the United States;
- is sound in body and of good health sufficient to satisfy the board of trustees of the police and firemen's retirement system of New Jersey as to his or her eligibility for members in the retirement system;
- is able to read, write and speak the English language well and intelligently;
- is of good moral character, and has not been convicted of any criminal offense involving moral turpitude.
- is of the age of 18 to 35 years;
- completion of 60 credits at an institution of higher learning with a minimum of nine credits in criminal justice courses.

Anyone interested in applying for the Alternate Route Basic Course for Police Officers may obtain an application by calling the John H. Stamler Police Academy at (908) 889-6112. All completed applications must be returned no later than Dec. 10.

Bill removes barriers for regionalization

Legislation that would remove barriers to school regionalization by permitting regional school districts to allocate costs with more flexibility was approved Monday by the General Assembly.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Richard H. Bagger, R-Union, would also hold newly regionalized districts harmless from any loss of foundation aid as a result of combining.

"Currently, regional districts must apportion costs among the constituent districts on the basis of property tax ratables," Bagger said. "This acts as a disincentive to regionalization for districts which have high property values and a small pupil population when these districts consider joining with a municipality that has low property values and a large pupil population."

"This bill would encourage the formation of regional school districts by allowing school districts considering regionalization greater freedom in determining how costs should be apportioned among the constituent districts," Bagger stated.

The legislation would allow school districts to allocate costs based upon any combination of equalized valuable or pupil enrollments. The voters of a proposed regional school district would determine the cost apportionment basis at the same time the question of forming a regional district is determined.

"This bill will give districts the freedom to apportion costs in the manner which best suits the circumstances in the proposed regional district," Bagger said.

Bagger said the bill also provides that districts which regionalize will be held harmless against any loss of state foundation aid from the merger.

"Regionalization of schools should not be mandated by state government. However, current law actually creates great impediments to local school districts which desire to merge voluntarily. This bill would eliminate those barriers," Bagger said.

The bill, A-1822/1063, now heads to the Senate for further consideration.

SIGNS OF TENSION

How can you tell if you are suffering from nervous tension?

There are certain signals you should be aware of that tell you relief is needed from this condition. Talking in a loud voice, raising your voice to a higher pitch, and talking more rapidly than normal may be signs of nervous tension. Do you frown more often than usual? Are you irritable and "out of sorts?" And when you lie down to rest, do you have difficulty in falling asleep because of an overall tenseness in your body?

Untreated or unrelieved nervous tension may affect your whole body as well as your disposition. It may pull your spine out of alignment, or cause a tightening of the muscle in your neck, back, shoulders and pelvic muscles or your thighs. Nervous tension may cause "insults" to nerve tissue in these areas as well as other parts of your body. This results in aches and pains as well as mental irritation until you get the relief you need to feel well again.

Panthers gain berth with 8-0 mark

Roselle Park will play at Cedar Grove in section semis Saturday at 1 p.m.

Roselle Park High School junior quarterback John Schinestuhl looks to hand off behind the blocking of No. 65 Ryan Vanderkooy, No. 62 Shaun Bradley and No. 78 Rob Frazier.

SPRINGFIELD — The last time the Roselle Park High School football team, prior to this year, was 8-0 at the playoff cutoff date was 1979. That is also the only year that the Panthers have won a sectional title.

Roselle Park trimmed Dayton Regional 42-0 last Saturday to reach the 8-0 level for the second time at the cutoff date and clinch its second consecutive playoff appearance in North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1.

The 1979 team, however, did not have to win a playoff game to win the sectional title. Roselle Park was the only team that year to qualify in the section because the criteria back then was that a team needed six wins to make it.

This year's squad will need to win two playoff games on the road in order to lay claim to its second sectional championship. Why? Because Roselle Park received the fourth seed.

Here's how the sectional playoffs shaped up in North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1.

1. Cedar Grove (8-0)
2. Butler (5-2-1)
3. Verona (7-1)
4. Roselle Park (8-0)

"The only disadvantage about getting the fourth seed is that you already know you'll only be able to play on the road," Roselle Park head coach John Wagner said. "If you beat the No. 1 seed in the first game then you still have to play on the road."

A criteria determined by the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, based on strength of schedule, put Verona as the third seed and Roselle Park as the fourth. Both had the same number of power points, 38, and did not play each other head-to-head.

The next tie-breaker was common opponents and neither team had one. So the tie was broken by what was determined as strength of schedule. Numbers were added based on group size of schools each team played and Roselle Park had the edge 38-36. However, Verona was given credit, points-wise, for its loss to Kinnelon, a 5-3 team.

So that's why Roselle Park will be going to Cedar Grove and Verona will be going to Butler this Saturday for 1 p.m. semifinal round contests.

"In the past, teams have been penalized for losing and now Verona gets credit for a win?" Wagner said.

Last year Roselle Park, the only team to make it again this year among 1991's four playoff teams, earned the third seed with a 7-1 record. A 7-1 record this year would probably have kept the Panthers at home.

The sectional final will take place Saturday, Dec. 5 at the winner of the higher seeded team.

H.S. Football

Dayton latest victim

Roselle Park received two touchdowns each from junior running backs Nick Fowler, Kevin Kirby and Mark Carlson against Dayton and made the Bulldogs its fourth shutout victim.

Fowler, who rushed for 178 yards on 18 carries, scored on a two-yard run and one-yard burst.

Kirby, who gained 124 yards, scored on a 38-yard run and 73-yard sprint.

Carlson, 60 yards on the ground, scored on a six-yard run and caught a 14-yard touchdown pass from junior quarterback John Schinestuhl.

Schinestuhl completed 4-of-6 passes for 52 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Dayton senior defensive back Jim Basile intercepted a Schinestuhl pass in the second quarter. It was the first and only interception thrown by Schinestuhl this year.

Jon Nitche was a perfect 6-for-6 on extra-points.

Roselle Park, which lost a fumble in the season-opener, has turned the ball over just twice in eight games this season.

Saturday's opponent

Cedar Grove is averaging 33 points a game and giving up five. They began the year with wins over Mountain Lakes, a playoff team last year, and Kinnelon.

"Offensively, they're a lot like us," Wagner said. "They run the Wing-T and sweep and boot counter. Preparation-wise, that's helpful to us."

Cedar Grove, also knicknamed the Panthers, are lead by junior halfback Keith Izsa. He rushed for three touchdowns in Cedar Grove's 39-0 win at Bernards last Saturday and leads Essex County with 16 touchdowns.

Cedar Grove's offense is run by senior signal-caller Jim LaCapra. He completed 5-of-6 passes for 96 yards and one touchdown against Bernards. He also gained 63 yards on the ground in seven carries.

Junior tackle Ken Dinolfo is a standout on defense for Cedar Grove. He had three sacks, four solo tackles and three assists against Bernards.

"Defensively, they're similar to New Providence," Wagner said. "They play excellent team defense and have great size on both sides of the ball — something we've had to combat all year."

Roselle Park has outscored the opposition by a 325-61 count — an average win of 41-8.

The weapons on offense include Fowler (14 touchdowns), Kirby (14) and Carlson (10). Schinestuhl has excelled beyond expectations his first year starting at quarterback for Wagner.

The Panthers also have three viable wideouts in Tim Burbago, Marc Leonardis and John Lyons.

Linemen that have been consistent all year long include Shaun Bradley, Ryan Vanderkooy, Anthony Barra, Rob Frazier, Mike Petrosky and Romeo Antonuccio. The linebacking corps is strengthened by Jeff Freyre, Chad Hemenway and Ryan Vanderkooy.

Roselle Park playoff history

Roselle Park has appeared in the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 playoffs, including the 1979 sectional championship, six times: 1979, 1980, 1984, 1985, 1986 and 1991. Saturday will be its seventh appearance.

Roselle Park has captured one sectional title and has also missed the playoffs twice by slim margins. The 1988 team was 6-2 at the cutoff date (finished 6-3 overall) and missed by a half of a power point. The 1989 team was 7-1 at the cutoff date (finished 7-2 overall) and missed by one-and-a-half power points.

Other teams in North Jersey to miss the playoffs with a 7-1 record at the cutoff date in recent years include:

1989: Roselle Park, Union (Group 4).

1990: Brearley Regional, Elizabeth (Group 4).

1991: Orange (Group 3).

1992: Caldwell (Group 2).

Below is a look at how the Panthers have fared in post-season play.

1979: Roselle Park wins the sectional championship with an 8-0 record at the cutoff date. The Panthers were the only team to earn a playoff berth because no one else in the section had at least six wins, which was needed. Roselle Park beat Roselle on Thanksgiving to finish 9-0, the Panthers' last unbeaten team. John Wagner was an assistant coach that year for Roselle Park under head coach Geoff Hill.

1980: Roselle Park was 6-2 at the cutoff date and only one of two teams to make the playoffs in the section along with Glen Ridge. The title game was played in Kenilworth and Glen Ridge won 20-6. The Panthers finished the season, Hill's last as head coach, with an overall record of 6-4.

1984: Roselle Park earned the fourth seed with a 6-2 record and lost at top-seeded Chatham Borough in the first round 30-22. Chatham Borough went on to win the sectional final and Roselle Park finished the season at 7-3.

1985: Roselle Park earned the fourth seed again with a 6-2 record and won at top-seeded Mountain Lakes 21-7 in the semifinals. The Panthers lost at Brearley 28-7 in the final and finished 7-3-1 overall.

1986: Roselle Park earned the top seed with a 7-1 record and beat fourth-seeded Mountain Lakes 10-7 in overtime at home. Brearley beat Roselle Park 35-7 at Roselle Park in the final and the Panthers finished 9-2 overall.

1991: Roselle Park earned the third seed with a 7-1 record and lost at second-seeded Mountain Lakes 34-27. Roselle Park finished the season at 7-3.

Prediction

The Panthers will win Saturday.

Patterson, Taylor spark Tigers

NEW HAVEN, CONN. — Although the Princeton University freshman football team lost at Yale 13-7 last Friday, two local players enjoyed fine games for the Tigers.

Defensive back Dave Patterson of Roselle Park registered a team-high 13 tackles, 10 of which were solo and two of them for losses.

Linebacker Bob Taylor of Kenilworth made four tackles.

Princeton finished its season at 3-3.

Patterson paced the team in tackles this year, recording 51 in the club's last five games, and also was No. 1 on the squad in solo tackles with 27. He had five tackles for losses, two interceptions, two forced fumbles and one sack.

Taylor finished the season with 16 tackles, including one for a loss. He had two pass breakups and one interception.

Miceli's four touchdowns lead Bears to second straight win

NORTH PLAINFIELD — Although the Brearley Regional High School football team did not make the playoffs in North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1, the Bears have been able to make great strides the past two weeks. After suffering two straight high-scoring losses at home, Brearley has managed to come back with two wins.

The latest triumph took place last Friday night when the Bears trimmed North Plainfield 33-7. Senior halfback Steven Miceli, no longer suffering from a nagging ankle injury, scored four touchdowns and rushed for 113 yards on 20 carries to help Brearley improve to 4-3-1.

The Bears can clinch their third consecutive winning season with a Thanksgiving Day victory at Johnson Regional on Thursday, Nov. 26. The two met in Clark on Thanksgiving two years ago and Brearley came out with a 41-35 win.

Brearley tied Johnson last year 14-14 in Kenilworth in the last regular season game for both. The following week Brearley, seeded fourth, bested top-seeded Johnson 35-7 in the sectional semifinals in Clark. Brearley followed that victory with a come-from-behind 14-13 win at Mountain Lakes for the sectional championship, the school's fourth.

"There's always a lot of pride involved in our Thanksgiving Day game," Brearley head coach Bob Taylor said. "We have an alumni dinner the night before and a lot of people come back for the game."

Johnson will enter the contest with a 3-4-1 record. The Crusaders were Immaculata's eighth shutout victim last Saturday night, falling 35-0 in Somerville.

"They have a nice option offense and an outstanding quarterback in Chris Peterson," said Taylor, whose assistant coach Carl Peterson is Chris' father. "They have some nice players on defense and it's a big rivalry.

"They'll be ready for us and both teams will have a lot of time to prepare."

Offensive line plays well

Taylor cited the play of Brearley's offensive line in the win against North Plainfield.

"We did a nice job of ball-control offense," Taylor said. "Mike Wright was back in the lineup and we ran behind him a bit."

Senior quarterback Bill Picone paced all rushers with 114 yards on 12 carries. He threw a touchdown pass to Miceli and ran for one.

"Picone ran the option extemely well," Taylor said.

The guys providing the necessary blocking up front were Wright, Matt Guzovich, Brian Harms, Frank Patella and Mark Wells. Vinny Volpe has been consistent at tight end.

"They did a solid job and sure molded together pretty fast," Taylor said.

Brearley falls in sectional final

H.S. Boys' Soccer

KENILWORTH — Last Friday the 13th was not the luckiest of days for the Brearley Regional High School boys' soccer team. That's because the Bears were defeated by New Providence 1-0 in overtime in the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 final.

Brearley, which finished its season at 16-3-1, had previously beaten New Providence twice during regular-season Mountain Valley Conference-Valley Division action.

New Providence scored the game's only goal with less than a minute left in the first 10-minute overtime period.

Brearley, which won the Group 1 state championship in 1990, was making its fifth consecutive appearance in the sectional final. The Bears had lost to Whippany Park in the final in 1988 and had beaten the Wildcats in each of the past three seasons.

Although the Bears fell short in the Union County Tournament and state playoffs, Brearley did win its second consecutive MVC-Valley crown with an 11-1 conference record. The Bears opened their season with a 1-0 win at home against New Providence and later beat the Pioneers 4-1 in New Providence to help insure their conference title.

Brearley had reached its fifth consecutive sectional final by blanking Butler 2-0 in Kenilworth on Nov. 10 in the semifinals.

Phil Ruggerio (first half) and Nick Chonko (second half) scored unassisted goals for the Bears.

Brearley goalkeeper Scott Jankunas made 10 saves for the shutout. Rob Hamilton made 10 saves for Butler.

Hoop, wrestling registration Saturday

The Springfield Recreation Department will hold registration for its winter youth basketball and wrestling programs this Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center on Church Mall in Springfield.

LaBarca College Day

More than 500 New Jersey high school football players are expected to take advantage of the free First Fidelity-Frank LaBarca College Day on Sunday, Dec. 13 at Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth.

And more than 40 colleges, junior colleges and prep schools are expected to send representatives to interview the players and provide them with information about football and academic programs.

One of the top players in the state and a leading candidate to win the singles title next year, Union's Tammy Zawacki, heads Worrall Community Newspapers' fifth annual All-Area Girls' Tennis Team.

The following high schools covered by Worrall Community Newspapers include: Union, Dayton Regional, Brearley Regional, Roselle Park, Hillside, Johnson Regional, Mother Seton, Roselle, Roselle Catholic, Linden and Rahway.

Worrall Community Newspapers'

All-Area Girls' Tennis

include the: Union Leader, Springfield Leader, Mountainside Echo, Kenilworth Leader, Roselle Park Leader, Hillside Leader, Clark Eagle, Roselle Spectator, Linden Leader and Rahway Progress.

Here is Worrall Community Newspapers' 1992 All-Area Girls' Tennis Team:

FIRST SINGLES

Tammy Zawacki, Union: The junior, an All-Area selection for the third straight year, finished 27-2 this season and is 79-4 for her career. She posted a 52-2 mark the past two years at second singles. Zawacki won the Union County Tournament title by beating Lisa Taub of Dayton 7-6 (7-4), 7-5.

Her only two losses were to Marjorie Gantman of Columbia, the NJSIAA singles champion.

Zawacki, who won county championships at second singles as a freshman and sophomore, will be one of the favorites to win the state's singles title next year, since Gantman will have graduated.

"I played pretty well this year and improved on my mental game," Zawacki said. "I think I have a great opportunity to win the singles title next year."

SECOND SINGLES

Wendy Saladino, Dayton: The senior three-sport standout finished 20-3 this year and 81-9 lifetime. She is considering playing in college. She also excels in basketball and softball.

"I felt I had a good season," Saladino said.

She finished second in the county and made it into the state's singles tournament. She lost in the UCT final to Susan Santola of Kent Place 6-1, 6-2.

"I played her (Santola) last year and lost 7-6, 7-6," Saladino said. "I was confident going into this year's match but it just didn't happen."

THIRD SINGLES

Lauren DeNoia, Johnson: DeNoia moved up to the third singles position from the first doubles team, where she was an All-Area selection last season, along with partner Sherry Stolack.

This season, the senior posted a 13-4 overall record for the Lady Crusaders, tying her with two other players for the best mark at this position in the Mountain Valley Conference-Valley Division. She advanced to the UCT quarterfinals before being eliminated.

FIRST DOUBLES

Jill Margulies and Melissa Cohen, Johnson: Margulies switched places with teammate DeNoia. Margulies took over the first doubles spot DeNoia played last season and DeNoia moved into Margulies' third singles spot. Cohen moved up from the second doubles team.

As a duo, the two seniors posted an 11-4 overall record. Margulies also played a couple of matches without Cohen as a partner and had a 2-0 mark in those matches. The pair advanced to the UCT quarterfinals.

Margulies is hoping to attend the University of Pennsylvania next year, while Cohen is aiming for the University of Virginia. But only Cohen wants to continue playing in college.

"I'd like to play tennis next year in college, but at the intramural level," Cohen said.

SECOND DOUBLES

D.J. Farawell and Aimee Gibeault, Roselle Park: The two juniors, competing on the varsity level for the first time, compiled a 17-3 record for the Panthers and helped Roselle Park capture its fifth consecutive MVC-Valley Division crown.

Petrecca sets sophomore cross-country record

Union's Danielle Petrecca completed a fine season by establishing a new sophomore course record at last Saturday's NJSIAA girls' group cross-country championships at Holmdel County Park. Her time of 22:57 was only 27 seconds off the all-time UHS course record and placed her 87th out of 148 runners in the Group 4 race.

Union's boys' and girls' teams both finished 19th in their respective Group 4 races. Ridgewood won the boys' Group 4 title and Bob Keino of Ridgewood won the race in 15:55. Ridgewood also captured the girls' Group 4 title and Heather Bury of West Orange won the race in 19:08.

Petrecca was followed by Erica Behrens, 102nd in 23:34; Barbara Della Salla, 110th in 23:37, Erica Schmitt, 128th in 24:32, Erin Kelly, 142nd in 27:00 and Kim Moellner, 143rd in 27:44.

"It was a terrific season for a good, young team," Union girls' coach Bill Soranno said. "With everyone returning next year, this squad should be an outstanding one."

Plagued by injuries

Union's boys' team finished the season the same way as it started the campaign, plagued by injuries. Terry Brown, who made an impact in the sectional and county championships, was unable to run in the Group 4 race due to a back injury.

The young Farmer runners showed that they will be a force to be reckoned with next year by finishing 19th.

Geck crossed the finish line first for Union, placing 65th in a time of 18:11. Union's only senior, John Vieira, was next in 18:17 for 70th place.

Sherod Mangum set a new UHS freshman record for the course with a time of 18:42 for 99th.

Jeff Budney followed Mangum in 129th place in 19:33. Menes Kizoulis was 131st in 19:37, Carlos Estevez 140th in 20:15 and Brian Byrne 143rd in 20:48.

Union finished with a 7-3 dual-meet record this year and placed second in the Union County meet. The Farmers also placed third in the Watchung Conference meet and fourth in the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 4 race.

Clark Soccer Club tryouts

The Clark Soccer Club will hold tryouts for its Division II Traveling Soccer Team on Nov. 21, at 2 p.m., at Bartell Park. Girls under the age of 16 are eligible to try out for this competitive team, and need not be residents of Clark.

Union youth soccer

The Union Youth Soccer League crowned champions in two divisions last weekend. The Steelers earned the boys' Junior Division title with a come-from-behind 3-1 win over the Majors. The Spitfires edged the Gales 1-0 in the girls' Senior Division championship game.

Marc Weres scored twice and Manny Albuquerque once for the Steelers. Goalkeepers Steve Petzinger of the Steelers and Greg DeTrolio of the Majors each turned in fine performances.

Chris Fernandes and Steven Andriola played well for the Majors. The Steelers received solid performances from Mark Axelrod, Nicholas Canes, Andrew Dawadiuk, Brian Hahn and Gary Kauffmann.

The Steelers advanced to the championship game by beating the Panthers 5-1. Hahn scored three goals and Weres had the other two. Chris Hummer, Jonathan Sundy and Jason Albenesius also played well for the Steelers. Anthony Pastore had a fine game for the Panthers.

Cifelli scores

Christin Cifelli scored the game's only goal off an excellent centering pass from Dana Sisbarro to spark the Spitfires to their title. Both teams played well in a very exciting championship game.

Non-violent actor is 'cutthroat'

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor

When George Hearn was a young lad in Memphis, Tenn., and he and his family members cozily sat around the piano and sang lively homespun tunes together, he never dreamed he'd be cutting throats on stage and singing about it.

"Actually," the star of the Paper Mill's "Sweeney Todd, the Demon Barber of Fleet Street," said during a recent chat, "I never would have believed I'd be doing any of this. After all, I have a degree in philosophy from Southwestern University in Memphis. I studied voice on the side because I was always interested in music. But my loves were 'Desert Song' and 'The Student Prince.' I never believed in a million years that I would be doing such musicals as 'La Cage Aux Folles' and 'Sweeney Todd,' let alone playing the lead roles of Albin in 'La Cage' and 'Todd' in the present play."

Hearn, whose soft, resonant voice and gentle manner belie the grotesque, maddened, fiery character he portrays on stage in Millburn, explained that "'Sweeney' is my favorite character. As far as I'm concerned, the play is a love story overlapped with a recurring tragedy and the bloodiness of the motive. It is interesting to learn why Todd turned into a socio-pathological killer.

"The truth is," Hearn said, "I don't like violence. The man's love story could be anyone's. Not the violence, however."

Hearn performed the role on Broadway and in the National Tour and did a television video for which he won an Emmy Award. "The video," he said, "can still be purchased in video stores.

"It's been 10 or 11 years since I did 'Sweeney Todd' on Broadway. Now in the Paper Mill production, I want to find the human side more than the anger. And," he exclaimed, "let me tell you, I have the best company to work with. Judy Kaye is an absolutely magnificent lady. She's generous, funny...a great joy!"

In the 14 months that he played the title role on Broadway, Hearn played opposite Dorothy Louden for seven months and Angela Lansbury for another seven months. "They're both pros," he said. "Angela is a lovely lady to work with. I just did 'Murder She Wrote,' the third in two years, with her. She's the best. And a very loyal friend."

The performer, who won a Tony Award as Best Actor in a Musical for his role of Albin in "La Cage Aux Folles" on Broadway, repeated the role in London's West End. He also appeared on Broadway in "I Remember Mama," with Liv Ullman, "Ah! Wilderness," "A Doll's House," for which he received a Tony nomination; "An Almost Perfect Person," with Colleen Dewhurst; "The Changing Room," "Meet Me in St. Louis" and "Watch on the Rhine," for which he got another Tony nomination. He also has appeared at the New York City Opera, the Avery Fisher Hall, off-Broadway in Shakespearean plays, in television series shows and in such movies as "Sneakers" and "See You in the Morning."

"I don't like movies as much as the theater, but I'm learning to like it more," he said. "You can do more things on camera than on the stage."

Hearn was born in St. Louis, Mo., but "I grew up in Memphis. I began doing plays in college in a regional theater in Memphis. Then I was drafted into the Army for a couple of years. After that, I came to New York and started an acting career." He had a long association with the Long Wharf Theater in New Haven, and he said, "I got my basic training in the regional theater. It's a great training ground for kids.

"In New York," he mused, "I got my first Equity job — my first paying job. I had to kill James Earl Jones in 'Macbeth.'"

He has since performed "about 130 plays in 30 years in the theater. The first time he performed at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Hearn said, "was in 1967 before the fire. I did 'Man For All Seasons.' Now that the Paper Mill has been rebuilt, it's much larger, more modern. It's a great theater. What I like particularly about them is that they can go from 'Wizard of Oz' directly to 'Sweeney Todd.' I think it's a great gift to the members of the subscription series and to the other theater-goers."

Hearn said that the last decade or so "has been a great time in my life. I've been so lucky to have two such important roles in so short a time. There was a lot of joy in 'La Cage,' but with 'Sweeney,' it was a completely different kind of job. I loved them both.

"Still with 'Sweeney,'" he explained, "it's the role of a lifetime. It absolutely consumes you. And playing it at the Paper Mill twice on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays and once on Friday makes it a pretty long weekend. After this run, I would love to come back. I love the theater, and Angelo Del Rossi and Robert Johanson have done a wonderful job. And the ensemble really works hard. I wouldn't mind playing 'Sweeney' again. There has been some talk of a movie version, and if they want me for the role I would do it. But," he smiled, "I don't think they will ask me. They need someone better known in films to sell tickets."

Hearn said that his wife, Leslie, will be coming in from California for Thanksgiving. "And I can't wait. I met her about nine years ago when she was a dancer in 'La Cage.' She now does voice-overs in Los Angeles." He has a "grown son, David, from my first marriage. He's 30 years old, and he's not interested in the theater. He wants to be a doctor."

After spending two years in Los Angeles, Hearn said, "I want to come back East. Maybe I'll find a new musical. Maybe I'll come back to the Paper Mill and do a play with Judy.

"You know, I'm like the 'Man for All Seasons.' I miss October in the East. I miss the changing colors, and most of all, I miss the changing seasons. Those are some of the reasons I'd like to move back here. And, of course," he smiled, "there's the Paper Mill — and Broadway!"

ARC presents highest award to center

At its annual convention, The ARC, Association for Retarded Citizens of New Jersey, awarded the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, Summit, its highest honor for outstanding leadership and success in promoting personal growth and a sense of well-being among individuals with disabilities, the Fitzhugh W. Boggs Award.

The award "recognizes the tremendous success" of the Art Center's Artists with Disabilities program, which has received full underwriting support from Panasonic Industrial Co., Secaucus.

Now entering its third year, the Artists with Disabilities program is led by Joseph Scorsolo, its founding instructor. Scorsolo is a painter with New York gallery shows and exhibitions to his credit. He has been invited by educational groups to lecture on his research and experience in exploring new methods for teaching the disabled by fostering creativity in order to maximize potential and self-esteem.

This year, NJCVA's Artists with Disabilities Program has tripled in size to include participants from the ARC of Essex County in addition to those already involved from the ARC of Union County. The expanded 1992-93 Artists with Disabilities program will serve approximately 45 individuals each week from throughout Northern and Central New Jersey.

As the recipient of the prestigious Fitzhugh W. Boggs award, the Arts Center is among a select few organizations from throughout the United States now eligible for national award recognition.

According to the NJGVA executive director, George S. Bolge, "The New Jersey Center for Visual Arts is pleased and honored to be recognized by the ARC of New Jersey for making available this outstanding community outreach opportunity which fosters artistic creativity and improves the quality of life for citizens with developmental and physical disabilities."

Scorsolo, the founder and instructor of New Jersey Center for Visual Arts' Artists with Disabilities Program is exhibiting recent works on paper at the Arts Center.

The Singing Boys of Pennsylvania

Boys' concert set

The Singing Boys of Pennsylvania, formerly known as The Pocono Boy Singers, will present a concert Sunday afternoon at 4, in the First Congregational Church, 1340 Burnet Ave., Union, under the direction of Dr. K. Bernard Schade, who founded the group of young artists — ages 10 to 14. They will present selections ranging from sacred to secular classics, American folk music and musical theater. A highlight of this year's repertoire will be a 20-minute opera, "Christopher Columbus," written especially for them.

The choral group has performed throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, England and Japan. A special feature of this past summer's tour to the Orient was a medley of Stephen Foster's folk songs sung in Japanese.

Schade is professor of music at East Stroudsburg University in Pennsylvania. A former choir boy, he is a graduate of the University of Texas at El Paso, Union Theological Seminary in New York and the Pennsylvania State University. An organist as well as conductor, teacher and vocal coach, Schade has also served as an associate staff member of the Texas Boys Choir and the St. Kilian Boy Choir.

The musical experience, which is the final event in the 1992 Benefit Cultural series sponsored by the host church, will mark the third appearance in Union of this group of young singers, who have been selected from the organization's training choir and prepared for two or more years. They have appeared with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the National Symphony Orchestra, Rochester, Northeastern and Corning Philharmonics as well as many regional orchestras.

This program is open to the public. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Officers' slate elected by Westfield Glee Club

As the Westfield Glee Club begins its 68th season, the members recently elected new officers. They are Harry Allen, president; Farrell Haunschild, vice president; Edward Dilts, treasurer; George Thomas, librarian; Donald Tino, corresponding secretary, and George Cosmoglos, financial secretary.

Also elected to the executive board were John Nightingale, and Robert Ottoson. Howard Dreizler will be accompanist for the Christmas concerts. Evelyn Bleeke is the director.

The regular Christmas concert dates are Dec. 12 at Roosevelt Intermediate School, Westfield, and Dec. 13 at Cranford Presbyterian Church. The Glee Club also will sing at The Mount Saint Mary Academy Christmas concert Dec. 9, to which the public is invited.

Art grants awarded to 8 county groups

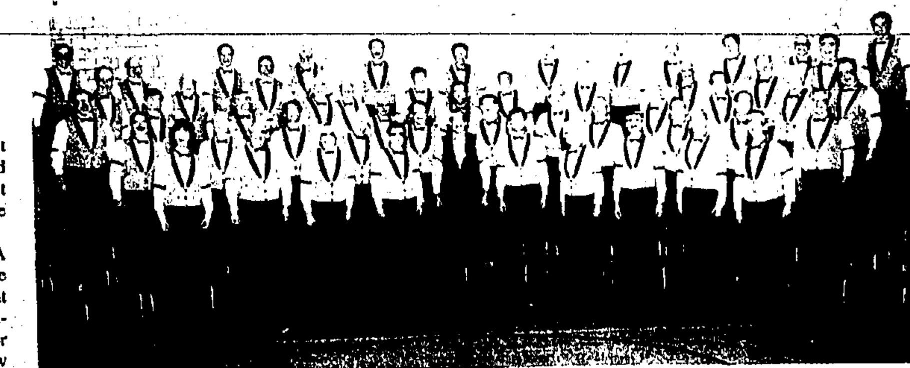
The New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Department of State, has made grants to eight Union County organizations totaling $179,208 for fiscal year 1993. In addition, the council also designated two county groups as Distinguished Arts Organizations.

The Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, Division of Parks and Recreation, will receive $66,491 for arts activities in 1992-93. This award is made through the State/County Partnership Program of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and supplemented with an $11,850 cash match provided by the County's Board of Chosen Freeholders.

"Most of the funds support the Union County Arts Grant Program," said Linda-Lee Kelly, vice chairman of the Board of Chosen Freeholders and liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board. "The grant also enables the office to present technical assistance workshops, and provide other programs for the benefit of Union County residents," she added.

Other county recipients of NJSCA funding are Carolyn Dorfman Dance Company, Union, $19,042; Grant Avenue Community Center, Plainfield, $27,964; New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, Summit, $20,000; New Jersey Youth Symphony, Summit, $15,165; Ric-Charles Choral Ensemble, Plainfield, $7,000; Summit Chorale, $3,690, and Westfield Symphony Orchestra, $19,858.

Commended as Distinguished Arts Organizations are Carolyn Dorfman Dance Company and the Westfield Symphony Orchestra. These two groups serve as "examples of excellence in artistry in the state of New Jersey," according to the NJSCA definition of this honor.

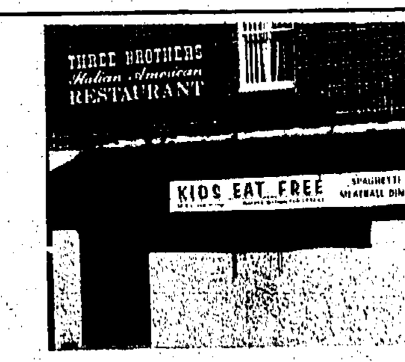


JERSEYAIRES BARBERSHOP CHORUS will entertain in the 45th annual harmony show, 'Strike It Rich,' Dec. 4 and Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in Westfield High School, Rahway Avenue and Dorian Road. The musical production will include performances by barbershop quartets presented by the Rahway Valley Chapter of the Barbershop Harmony Society. More information can be obtained by calling 272-6610.

DINING REVIEW

Three Brothers

Friendly atmosphere, delicious homemade food and low, low prices



By Chaz Repak

According to Ron Scorese, owner and operator of Three Brothers Tavern and Restaurant in Kenilworth, "We're going to make sure nobody goes out hungry." Three Brothers certainly fulfills that promise, with the added bonus of letting you leave with some money left in your wallet.

Three Brothers, which opened its doors in August 1991 as an adjunct to the popular tavern on Boulevard and 21st Street, offers a satisfying array of Italian dishes, seafood and steaks. The restaurant lacks pretension: it's all about food — homemade and lots of it.

Scorese, a lifelong Kenilworth resident whose nephew David is co-manager and cook, said the establishment is meant as "a working man's place, a family place." As such, the prices don't break the bank — most of the 16 pasta dishes range between $4.50 and $6.50, with steaks, parmigianas and seafoods up to $13.50, and the restaurant offers free spaghetti dinners for kids 12 and under.

But cheaply priced does not mean cheaply prepared. Most of the pastas are homemade. The best veal is used in the house specialty veal parmigiana — no patties allowed. The eggplant parmigiana is homemade, and the shrimp are freshly peeled.

The effect is delicious. David Scorese plied his trade in Navy mess halls and, for the past 10 years, in managing restaurants up and down the East Coast. Some of the highlights are veal, mussels marinara and baby-back ribs Ron called "the best you're going to find anywhere," but the sauces, cheeses and pastas render every Italian dish a treat, and the careful preparation of the steaks — with onions, gravy and mushrooms for the asking — make them menu standouts.

Every entree gets the added help of a fresh salad and plenty of Italian bread. It's actually French bread, but served piping hot and with a melt-in-the-mouth middle, you won't complain.

For less formal dining, Three Brothers serves a number of hot and cold sandwiches, and such burgers as the massive 8-ounce Three Brothers Burger, served with fixings, cole slaw and fries for only $4.75.

Although each portion is generous enough to make the heartiest appetite waddle back to the car, try to leave room for dessert. Headed by cheesecakes and assorted pies — every one of them homemade — dessert is served in enormous portions. The chocolate cream pie in particular will send the hardcore sweet-tooth into blissful delight.

The alcoholic offerings are extensive, including nearly a dozen beers and wines priced no higher than $20 a bottle.

The fine food at Three Brothers is accentuated by friendly, responsive and quick service. Though Ron emphasized that cooking to order means "if you don't want to wait, don't order it," the wait staff makes sure the delay is minor.

"We want it to be a place you can come back to," said Ron. Three Brothers Restaurant is that indeed.

Open six days: Tuesday through Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 3 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Free delivery, on- and off-premises catering available.

horoscope

For week of Nov. 22-Nov. 28

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) If you are involved in creative work you should be very successful. You will be full of enthusiasm about making home improvements and/or decorating enhancements. You may even be taking steps to purchase a new home. You will develop a closer bond to your partner as mutual plans are discussed.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) It's unlikely that this will turn into a significant week, but you have no difficulty in dealing with everyday matters. Now's the right time for going ahead with any business transactions you have in mind. Discussions going on at home in the evenings make for a happy home atmosphere. A younger family member will ask you for advice.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) By this time you're probably full of anticipation for the upcoming holidays. Many Geminis have creative hobbies, and yours is most likely in full swing now as you love to give holiday gifts fit you created yourself. This will keep you quite busy, but you will have some extra time to share with close friends and family.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22) Many Cancers experience the "holiday blues." They start to wonder who really cares for them and what life is all about, anyway. There's always a danger of being so crabby and gloomy that nobody wants to be around them. Don't let this happen to you! Loosen up, you could have a lot more fun!

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) Money matters are going to be much emphasized in the coming days. Negotiations at work should turn out in your favor. Your bright ideas make you more creative and romantic. Although you hate doctors, you must make that dental appointment before it's too late!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 22) Keep long-range aims in mind and plan accordingly. It will be worthwhile cutting down on luxuries in order to store more cash into investments. Virgos taking on marriage or parenthood will have good luck. Try to be a little more personable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You feel more enthusiastic about achieving more success at work in the future and, with the right approach, you could land a super job or promotion. Socially, it's an exciting week with people from the past reappearing in your life. Adventure fills your evenings!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Don't count your chickens before they're hatched. Put more gumption into your efforts to steer your career ahead. This is a time when hopes might come to nothing because you're relying to much on wishful thinking. Confusions abound in legal matters, dealings with in-laws, education and travel.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Rely on your own resources for pleasure. Steer clear of friends as they might ask for favors which you are unable to grant, and this might lead to mutual embarrassment. If there's anything special that you want to do, Wednesday would be a good time for new adventures.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The company of friends will be a boon if your morale needs any boosting. But if you are discussing plans, minor problems will have to be overcome before they can be set in motion. Try to keep sudden impulses under very tight control, especially on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. A very interesting Aquarius will enter your life (and confuse it a bit, too).

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) Life has much to offer you, and you will become bolder and quite ambitious. You should attempt to spread your interests and aims much further than you've been doing lately. This is an excellent time to step up on the contacts you've recently made. Something you said to cheer up a friend serves as an inspiration as well as be comfort you'd intended.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) You really must try to unwind and take it easy or you will become irritable. Don't let a workmate's behavior upset you. If you have been looking for a new job, you could hear something during the early days of the week which helps steer you in the right direction. Remember that nothing comes easy and you have to fight for what you want.

Your birthday this week You really must learn to stay focused when dealing with business matters. Your tendency to leave things until the very last moment will backfire early this year unless you change your ways. It would be wise to consult with a financial expert. Romance will have a great deal of significance for you, especially at the beginning of the New Year. There will be a lot of travel in store for you throughout the year.

Sinofsky film offered locally

By Lisa Ballito
Staff Writer

Residents of Essex and Union counties can view a special film titled "Brother's Keeper," which opened Nov. 13 in two local theaters.

The film was produced, directed and edited by Bruce Sinofsky of Montclair and formerly of Boston, Mass., and Joe Berlinger of New York, and is the true story of Delbert Ward, who is accused of killing his ailing older brother Bill while he slept in the bed they both shared. The four Ward brothers live in the tiny, rural town of Munnsville, N.Y., in an unkempt two-room shack devoid of running water or a telephone. Brothers Delbert and Bill are semi-literate and toothless.

The pair decided to create the piece after working together at Maysles Films Inc., a New York-based nonfiction film studio that was responsible for such films as "Gimme Shelter" in 1970 and "Sports Illustrated: The Making of the Swimsuit Issue" in 1989.

"We worked really well together," said Sinofsky, who received his knowledge from the New York University film school. "We were looking to make a story with certain qualities, and one was to have it in present tense. Most documentaries are about things that have happened already.

"We saw a photograph in The New York Times of three brothers and we read about the community that was rallying around one of them after ignoring them for 50 years. We thought it would be great to follow it because one was about to be arraigned for the murder of a fourth brother," he said.

Sinofsky said that when they approached Ralph Cognitti, attorney for Delbart, they were told that six other production companies were also interested in covering the case.

"They wanted to do made-for-TV movies with actors portraying the brothers. Cognitti was leery because he knew those movies would be out before the trial was over and he thought it might have a negative effect on the outcome.

"But he saw that we weren't out to make a sensational film and that we wanted to show both sides of the situation. Also we planned on following the case to the end of the trial," Sinofsky said. Because he and Berlinger had full-time jobs, they filmed on weekends.

When the filmmakers were given permission to approach the Ward brothers on their farm, they decided not to bring out the cameras right away. Rather, they got to know the Wards by cleaning out their barn, bailing hay and chewing tobacco. After the third weekend, they felt comfortable enough to ask the brothers tough questions about the situation.

"The experience broke down stereotypes we had about rural communities. We were frightened of these men at first, but by the end of the nine-month shoot, we were friends. It proves that you shouldn't judge a book by its cover; they were gentle human beings with very fascinating lives. The movie is a portrait of a way of life that we choose not to see anymore," Sinofsky said.

The residents of Munnsville — all 499 of them — were also leery of the young filmmakers at first, but when they were assured that the film would be an honest portrayal of the Wards and the community, they welcomed them warmly.

"These people have values that haven't changed and do not exist here," Sinofsky said. "They protect their neighbors. But they came to trust us and we trusted them. The doors were always open."

Sinofsky said they had the most difficult time getting law enforcement officials to cooperate with them because they felt misrepresented in television reports of the case.

"Part of the problem with television journalism is that they see everything in black and white. The police felt 'burned' from the coverage," he said. Eventually the pair got the Madison State County Police and the district attorney to cooperate, giving them the balanced story they wanted.

Sinofsky said that he and Berlinger "struck gold" with the story, finding it to be more multi-layered than they originally thought.

"The first message is that it breaks down stereotypes of people who live on farms. Many people think rural residents are stupid. Second, it tells people to question authority. The case against Delbert Ward seems open and shut at first, but there is enough evidence on the other side to raise doubts.

"People will never forget Delbert," he said, "because he is unforgettable."

While the duo was convinced that the story of the Ward brothers needed to be told, their project was almost stalled by financial difficulties. Sinofsky took out a second mortgage in an effort to get cash and both ran up high credit card bills. Two weeks before Delbert's trial was set to start, they ran out of film and did not have enough money to obtain more. They were saved by American Playhouse, a company that financed the film "A Thin Blue Line."

"We showed them 100 minutes of raw material from the film, and they loved it. They gave us a $400,000 budget," Sinofsky said.

The filmmakers were able to capture the trial on film because New York was in the midst of conducting a one-year experiment that allowed cameras in courtrooms.

The film has opened in cities across the United States, including Boston, where it opened Nov. 6. Rave reviews and word-of-mouth have brought people to the theaters, and it is now playing at the Claridge in Montclair and the Lost Picture Show in Union. Sinofsky, who made appearances at both theaters to answer viewer questions about the film, expects it to play on 200 screens throughout the country. He said that he enjoyed attending the premiere in Boston and he hoped to see his neighbors at the Montclair shows.

"I received calls from school friends, and it was nice to know that I made some sort of impression on them and they wanted to connect. It's very flattering," he said.

Besides wooing critics and audiences, "Brother's Keeper" won awards at major film festivals in France, Montreal and San Francisco, among others. But Sinofsky keeps these honors in perspective.

"It's nice to win but it doesn't mean anything if you do not fill the seats of the theaters," he said.

Before launching other projects, Sinofsky and Berlinger are concentrating on distributing "Brother's Keeper." After that, they will work on one of the many other ideas they have. Will it be another documentary or a fiction film?

"It could be anything," Sinofsky said. "We do not limit ourselves."

Landscape art is seen

A private collection of 19th century American and European paintings will be exhibited exclusively at Swain Galleries in Plainfield, now through Nov. 28. The late 19th-century, pre-Impressionist period, when European academy art officially reigned, will be seen in the collection of landscapes and seascapes.

The exhibit will be open weekdays, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Saturdays to 4 p.m. at Swain Galleries, 203 Watchung Ave., in the Crescent Historic District of Plainfield.

For more information one can call 756-1707.

Professor demonstrates painting

W. Carl Burger, newly retired Kean College of New Jersey, Union, fine arts professor, recently will demonstrate watercolor painting for Monmouth Museum of Brookdale Community College, Lincroft.

Arts Center, Kean to stage 'Chorus'

A benefit performance of the Broadway musical "A Chorus Line" will be performed at, and for, the landmark Union County Arts Center, Rahway, Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. by the Kean College Theater Department. Proceeds will help support the non-profit host theater's existence "as an important cultural entity."

A Kean alumnus, Thomas E. Connell, voluntary president of the Rahway showplace, has noted that "the Dec. 5 event represents the successful completing of a unique partnership between the Arts Center, the Kean College Theater Department and the Kean College Alumni Association."

"A Chorus Line," previously presented by the Union County Education Association, is a musical tribute to the chorus dancer, depicting the varied backgrounds of eight young people with show business aspirations. It was one of Broadway's longest running hits.

The "partnership" affords Kean students an opportunity to perform as a touring company in a fully equipped professional theater. The 1,300-seat Union County Arts Center regularly sponsors performances by "world class stage and recording stars."

Tickets are $18, $15 and $12 and can be purchased directly at the Arts Center box office, 1601 Irving St., or by calling 499-8226. There also will be a special $35 ticket entitling the bearer to attendance at a champagne reception/buffet at a neighboring restaurant, El Bodegon, as well as a loge seat for the performance.

The Arts Center, a national landmark, is a professionally restored 1920s movie-vaudeville palace situated at the junction of Central Avenue and Irving and Main streets in the heart of Rahway's historic restoration district.

It was announced that there is ample free parking in the immediate vicinity.

AUTOMOTIVE MARKETPLACE

The Ranger look for 1993 is totally new — sleek, sporty and contemporary. The new look starts with a more refined front end appearance. The hood is four-inches longer and there is more overhang. Also, there is a new, wider "stance" that gives the 1993 Ford Ranger greater "road presence" than previous models.

1993 Ranger: Next generation sales leader

The Ford Ranger, North America's best-seller in the highly competitive compact pickup truck segment since 1987, features an all-new exterior design, along with completely redesigned interior for 1993.

With sales approaching 200,000 so far this year, Ranger has cornered a 25.7 percent share of the compact pickup segment with a customer-pleasing style and ruggedness that has helped to make Ford number one in overall truck sales for six years running. In fact, Ford sells more of the four best-selling trucks in the country.

Ranger is the fourth best-selling truck in the U.S. and the seventh best-selling vehicle overall. The trio of Ford truck best-sellers is led by first-place F-Series, America's best-selling vehicle for the 10th year running and third-ranking Explorer.

Significantly, Ranger captures its commanding segmented lead in a market once dominated by Japanese products. Japanese share of the compact pickup truck market topped 63 percent in 1981, just prior to Ranger's introduction. Today the Japanese market share is down to under 38 percent.

Meanwhile, the market has grown ten-fold in the two decades since Ford entered the compact pickup field in 1972. Overall compact pickup sales — 82,000 in 1971 — reached to nearly a million last year.

By 1986, the consumer's love affair with the fuel-efficient compact truck newcomers pushed the market segment to more than 1.4 million units and led overall truck sales to a record-breaking 4.9 million.

And both the growth and the affection continue. Last year's overall compact pickup truck sales claimed nearly 23 percent of total truck sales, close to double the 13 percent share of a decade ago.

From its beginning — in March 1982 as a 1983 model — Ranger captured the fancy of drivers who wanted an everyday vehicle with the versatility of a pickup yet the handling ease of a passenger car.

While the typical Ranger driver has been a 40-year old married man earning about $40,000 a year, the 1993 model has increased appeal to younger buyers, sports enthusiasts and suburban homemakers.

And the versatile Ranger SuperCab — with its extended cab and additional rear seating — provides the space to haul a few extra friends, without leaving the sports and recreation gear behind.

Company has a personal touch

Today's car care means detail and that begins with American Classics. Newly located at 711 Fairfield Ave. in Kenilworth, they are rapidly becoming a well-known business not only in our area, but throughout New Jersey.

"Your automobile is not a small investment," said the owner. Here at American Classics, we help protect your investment through our personal touch.

American Classics has been in operation since 1988, but the owner is no stranger to the business. Being in car detailing for 15 years, the owner has had cars featured in well-known magazines such as Car and Driver, Road and Track and American Rodder.

Meticulous care is taken when your car is brought in, from the engine compartment down to the undercarriage. The exact treatment is determined for your paint, while your wheels and trim are polished, so they look like new.

All the rubbers bumpers, seals and tires are also cleaned and treated.

A complete vacuuming is done on the interior, from the application of special cleaning agents and spot removers for carpet, mats and upholstery, all the way to the removal of dirt from the air conditioning vents.

After completion of the interior, a deep, lustrous shine is achieved by special compounding and polishing materials. These products are not chemically based and are environmentally safe.

This already sounds like a lot, but the specialty of American Classics are the classics. These vintage cars are taken care of like they were the owner's personal vehicles.

At this unique place, not only can you have your car detailed, but they also offer window tinting, pinstriping and they also sell burglar alarm systems.

For more information or for an appointment, call 908-241-6067 or just stop by. Prices may vary. American Classics is the place to go to keep your car looking "showroom new."

DVA loans available to reservists

President George Bush on Oct. 28 signed into law a veteran's benefits bill making home loans guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs available to reservists. The bill creates an adjustable-rate mortgage program guaranteed by the DVA, and allows the interest rate charged for DVA loans to be negotiable. According to Maurice H. Hageman II, president of the New Jersey Association of Realtors, the legislation enacted will greatly enhance the viability of the DVA home loan guaranty program.

"The provision signed into law by the president had long been supported by Realtors," said Hageman. "These changes, which will substantially strengthen the DVA program, are a fitting tribute to everyone who has served or is serving in our nation's armed forces."

Previously, DVA-guaranteed loans were limited by law to active-duty military personnel and veterans who met requirements for program eligibility. Under the new legislation, the home loan program has been extended to people who have served in the nation's reserve forces and the National Guard, and who have been honorably discharged. The funding fee paid to DVA by reservists would depend on the size of the down payment made. The program would be opened up to reservists for a seven year period, which began in October and continues through September 1999.

The tens of thousands of reservists called to serve in Operation Desert Storm provide ample proof of the reserve forces' crucial role in protecting the United States, notes Hageman. "The commitment of our reservists to protect and defend their country on short notice and in the face of significant disruption in their personal lives was vividly demonstrated in the Persian Gulf," said Hageman. "Entitlement programs such as the DVA home loan guaranty program should be recognized as a tangible repayment of the nation's debt to all men and women, including reservists, who have volunteered to serve."

According to DVA estimates, the expansion could make the home loan guaranty program available to as many as 500,000 individuals in the reserve forces and the National Guard.

Hageman points out that extending the program to all reservists would benefit the DVA guaranty fund, from which lenders' claims against defaulted DVA-guaranteed mortgages are paid. The additional funding fees paid by reservists will help build up the guaranty fund, and help offset the need for congressional appropriations to keep reinforcing the fund, Hageman says. "Opening up DVA to reservists will bring in much needed cash to help keep the fund operating," Hageman added.

Another portion of the legislation provides for a demonstration program through which the DVA would, for the first time, offer adjustable-rate mortgages. The program covers a period that began in September and lasts through September 1995. Until now, the DVA was the sole national mortgage financing source without an ARM program. "We have long supported a DVA ARM as an option to meet the borrowing needs of veterans," Hageman said.

The legislation also provides for the deregulation of the interest rate charged for DVA-guaranteed mortgages. This change repeals the authority of the DVA secretary to set a maximum rate. Previously, when the DVA-set interest rate lapsed below the market rates charged for other types of mortgages, lenders would often charge a high number of loan discount points to make the DVA loans attractive to investors. Because the DVA prohibits borrowers from applying any points, sellers were forced to either pay the points or pass up offers from buyers using DVA financing.

42 artists' works exhibited at firm

The works of 42 Union County artists, chosen from more than 90 entries, are on exhibit at Merck & Co., Rahway, through Dec. 11, it was announced by Freeholder Linda-Lee Kelly, freeholder liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board.

Kaaren Patterson serves as curator for the annual exhibit, sponsored by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, Division of Parks and Recreation, and Merck & Co. Inc.

Among the works of the artists in the Visual Arts 92 exhibition are fabric by Nancy Asher, and charcoal by Pearl Piegari, both of Hillside; oil by Harry Devlin and Alice B. Hondru, both of Mountainside; mixed media by Rashid Arshed; photography, Yolanda Avila; mixed media, Christine Dolinich; collage, Marcel Trappa; assemblage, Matthew Wade, and watercolor, Gary Wiemick, all of Rahway; graphite, Judith Banyas, of Roselle Park; acrylic, Denise DeVono, of Springfield; fabric, Pearl Greenberg; watercolor, Frank Lacino, acrylic, Tobin Meyers and Lenny Pierro, all of Union.

Paterson, an adjunct art history instructor at Kean College of New Jersey, Union, is a guest lecturer at New York University and at the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, Summit, and an instructor in the Elizabeth public schools. She is a recipient of a New Jersey State Council on the Arts Fellowship and is known for her graphic designs on handmade paper.

Judges selected winners at a reception Nov. 10 of cash prizes provided by Merck & Co. Inc. Works were chosen to hang in the Freeholders Meeting Room early next year. The judges were Patterson, Donald Lokuta of Union and William Ruby.

Lokuta, a photographer and painter, has won NJSCA fellowships in both disciplines. Michael Hartnett, artist and owner/director of Art Studio/Gallery, Rahway, selected works to hang in the Union County Arts Center.

It was announced that viewing hours are by appointment only, and more information can be obtained by calling 558-2550.

Mixed arts set at Kean

A mixed media installation by Lynne Yamamoto of New York, "I Hung My Hat Up After Work," is being presented at the James Howe Gallery at Kean College of New Jersey, Union, through Dec. 18. There will be a reception for the artist on Nov. 23 from 4 to 6 p.m.

The installation refers to the artist's family history, specifically to the "lives and struggles of women in the family who worked on a sugar plantation in Hawaii." The largest part of the installation, "One Hundred Years," was specifically made for the space in the James Howe Gallery and consists of 100 hanks of black hair hanging from rows of clothesline. "The hair alludes to women from Japan who emigrated to Hawaii in the early part of this century and harvested sugar on plantations," said Yamamoto. "Those women had to efface their femininity by wrapping their heads and dressing a certain way."

The artist regards the "hanks of hair as that aspect of themselves the women had to hang up when they went to work." The clothesline evokes the artist's grandmother, who worked as a laundress on a sugar plantation.

In addition to the installation in the main gallery, two cast glass works are on view. "Listening," composed of seven heart-shaped pieces resting in pots of grass, was cast from a model of the artist's ear; "Daikon Ashi," translated as white radishes, is composed of casts of the artist's legs.

Ice park open

Warinanco Ice Skating Center, a facility of the Union County Division of Parks and Recreation, is open for the 1992-93 season, according to Freeholder Chairman Louis A. Santagata.
