Holiday celebration

The Springfield Recreation Committee and the Township Committee have invited all township residents to a holiday celebration to ring in the holiday season tonight at 7 at the Town Hall.

Planned activities to ring in the 1993 holiday season are the lighting of the Town Hall holiday decorations, caroling by local choir groups, light refreshments and holiday greetings from local clergymen and dignitaries.

Students create play

Seventh-graders from the P.M. Caudreer School are creating an original play. The opera company is titled "Seventh Grade Sensations." The production will be held on Jan. 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Caudreer School on South Springfield Avenue.

This is a student-created production with minimal faculty supervision. The "Seventh Grade Sensations" is divided into sub-divisions. These sub-divisions are made up of make-up artists, costume designers, set designers, electricians, carpenters, composers, writers, a stage manager, a production manager, performers, and a group of public relations people.

This is a curricular course in which the students are given grades and credit for their participation. The course is supported by the Springfield Board of Education.

Rains cause closures

Sunday morning's deluge, which hit in many parts of the state, forced the closing of the parts of Route 22 and Morris Avenue in Springfield for approximately an hour, police said.

The large amount of rainfall in a short span of time was the main factor for the closing, because the storm catches could not handle the intense rain, according to police.

Keith Amesen, who is the extension staff meteorologist for the Cook College department of meteorology, said that the intensity of the storm was due to a tropical low front. "It was the case of a good tropical low that produced snow back in the Plains States on the cold side of the storm. We were on the warm side of the storm, therefore we got the rain and warmer temperatures."

According to the National Weather Service's office in Newark, 1.4 inches of rain fell in the 24-hour period of last Sunday. The Canoe Brook station, which is part of the Newark Watershed, recorded a total of 2.33 inches from 7 a.m. on Saturday to 7 a.m. on Monday, according to Amesen.

Bicentennial funds being raised

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

"We need publicity and we need money because in bad times people don't have the money," Ernst noted. "But the quality and size of the event will depend on the contributions."

As the Springfield Bicentennial Committee continues to map plans for the town's 200th anniversary party May 14-15, it is conducting a series of fund-raising events to attract the $15,000 that it projects it needs to pull off the event.

Bicentennial Chairman Tom Ernst said this week that the group has already raised some $6,000 to $7,000 and the group hopes to come up with the remaining monies so it can sponsor a quality event, including a reenactment and parade, without seeking to dip into municipal coffers.

The group is sponsoring a country-western dance Jan. 15 at the Holiday Inn on Route 22 West beginning at 9 p.m. The fund-raising dance will feature the Tim O'Neil Band as well as DJ "Bronco" Jim Ward.

The next major fund-raising effort after the country-western event will be a dinner-dance at Balmard country club March 21.

Historical Society President Janice Bongiovanni noted this week that any profits from the bicentennial celebration would reach an agreement on their own so a fact finder would not have to get involved. "Even though some of the issues have been resolved, others still need to be settled, Friedland said.

The fact finder has been agreed upon by the groups and now they are waiting for a date, which should be determined in the next two weeks, he said.

Ultimately, the teams are working for the best outcome for the students and don't want to jeopardize the welfare of the program for the children involved, he said. The financial resources, however, are limited, Friedland said.

Pollack said although once she was hoping for a settlement by Thanksgiving, now she is looking forward to one by Christmas. "If everyone is in the right frame of mind, the next meeting might be our last," she said.

"There has to be a creative way to settle some mutual concerns," Pollack said. "Hopefully, an outsider will determine a settlement that both sides can agree upon," she said.

Berkeley Heights to determine study continuation

By Heather MacGregor
Managing Editor

Berkeley Heights Township Committee holds the deciding vote on the future of the Union County Regional High School District because it would make the majority needed to move a dissolution study to the next phase.

The committee scheduled a special meeting at Governor Livingston Regional High School, yesterday, as both the regional and the local school boards can be heard before a decision is reached, officials said.

According to a state bill supported tion will be directed toward renovating the Cannon Ball House, which was erected circa 1740.

She said the structure needs a new roof, a paint job and other improvements.

To bolster its fund-raising, the committee in October mounted a flea market and last week members solicited donations in town at intersections with heavy volume.

The $10 tickets for the country-western dance can be purchased at the Town Hall or by calling Wayne and Cathy Masello at (201) 564-9535.

Contributions can be mailed to the Springfield Bicentennial Committee, P.O. Box 974, Springfield, NJ 07081.

Happy 100th

William Garner will celebrate his 100th year Tuesday. Garner, who holds his niece, said he is very happy and has nothing to complain about.

By Assemblyman Richard Bagge, R-Union, which establishes a procedure for dissolution, a majority of the boards of education and governing bodies in municipalities served by a regional school district, by separate resolutions, apply to the county superintendent of schools to make an investigation as to the advisability of dissolution.

Springfield, Kenilworth and Mountainside adopted resolutions, however a majority has not been attained because the governing bodies of Berkeley Heights, Garwood and Clark have not taken similar steps. A majority — the boards of education in Mountainside, Springfield, Kenilworth and Berkeley Heights — recently passed separate resolutions to send to the county superintendent. The Garwood and Clark school boards were in favor of keeping the existing regional district. Clark was the only township in the district that did not participate in the DeLaine and Touché dissolution feasibility study.

Ordinance for SID, DMC not yet enacted

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

Some nine months after the Township Committee adopted an ordinance to create a Special Improvement District in the Morris Avenue business area and a District Management Corp. to administer it, Springfield still has neither.

The town had been slated to consider an updated ordinance last week because property owners had not been properly notified when the initial ordinance was considered last February.

But the Township Committee, at its session last week, tabled consideration of a revised ordinance because a draft of proposed changes had been improperly drawn up. The committee is expected to take up the matter again at an upcoming meeting.

Last year, a Downtown Redevelopment Committee had issued proposals for creating a SID and DMC in conjunction with facade, road, parking and other improvements to the Morris Avenue business district.

A SID, which many neighboring towns have put into place, raises revenues for business improvements through an 11 percent tax surcharge on commercial property.

Committeeman Jeffrey Katz said this week that he "abstained" to support adoption of the SID and DMC concept for renewing the downtown since "the place looks like a little Appalachia."

He contrasted Springfield's progress for initiating a SID with how other area towns undertook the effort. In other municipalities, Katz said, business leaders approached the town administration to push for the structure. But in Springfield, which doesn't have a Chamber of Commerce or central business organization, it was town leaders who had to approach the business community to jump-start the effort.

Although it is difficult to gauge overall business sentiment, several commercial property owners in the Morris Avenue area have expressed support for creating the new business organization because it is widely viewed that the downtown district can use a more diverse array of stores — as well as a serious shot in the arm generally.

Zimmerman couldn't be reached Tuesday morning for a comment on the matter.

Although it is difficult to gauge overall business sentiment, several commercial property owners in the Morris Avenue area have expressed support for creating the new business organization because it is widely viewed that the downtown district can use a more diverse array of stores — as well as a serious shot in the arm generally.

Beginning this week and continuing for approximately four months, a contractor for Elizabethtown Water Co. will be conducting a hydrogeologic pump test in the Springfield well to determine the quantity and quality of water available from the aquifer.

During the study, the contractor will determine the physical properties of the aquifer and its long-term sustainable yield. In addition, the contractor will predict area ground-water levels during pumping operations, identify possible well interferences, and indicate whether reactivation of the well field would impact the direction of migration of known contaminants. The raw water quality of the individual wells will also be determined during the well-testing phase of the program.

The process of hydrogeologic pump testing begins with the removal of existing well pump equipment. Then the contractor will install bypass piping to carry the pumped water to the sanitary sewer system. Additionally, the wells will be inspected by closed circuit television. When the project is completed, the area will be restored to its original appearance.

The contractor will conduct the test and produce a report upon completion. Work will be done between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. to reduce any inconvenience to homeowners and motorists. The company has notified all customers that will be affected by having bypass pipes on their property.

Elizabethtown Water Co. serves nearly 170,000 customers in 46 municipalities of Haddonfield, Mercer, Middlesex, Morris, Somerset and Union counties.

"Our town was totally backwards," Katz said.

Since the delay in adopting the ordinance properly, Katz said certain commercial property owners have approached the town to express concerns discussed "ad infinitum" at DRC meetings and public hearings over many months.

"They're being stirred up by people who know even less because they never attended any meetings," Katz said.

The committee member indicated that some property owners are unaware about how the tax surcharge would work. He said property owners would only face a tax on the portion of the property that is commercial property, and not the entire entity.

For instance, he said, if a building is part residential and part commercial, the surcharge would only be levied against the commercial segment.

Katz discounted some owners' fears that they will "be taxed to death." He said these owners are unaware of certain tax abatements and the fact that some of the taxes will be phased in over time.

Police check out theft by deception

Springfield police are investigating a possible pattern in crimes between automobile sales people and prospective clients after two arrests were made Nov. 27, police said.

George Dunning, 37, of Maplewood, and Lloyd King, 31, of Philadelphia were arrested and charged with theft by deception as a result of an ongoing investigation, according to police.

King allegedly attempted to lease a 1994 truck with a false identification from Dunning, who was working at a car dealership on Route 22, police said.

King and Dunning were released on bail and are awaiting Union County grand jury action.

Detective Judd Levenson was the arresting officer.

Police arrested Steven Roth, 32, of Springfield, at his residence on Nov. 26 for an outstanding warrant. Springfield police said, for alleged theft by deception and forgery charges.

Police responded to an alarm call that was activated accidentally at Roth's house, records said.

The charges came about after Roth allegedly obtained several thousands of dollars in plumbing equipment by using false identification.

police blotter

He was remanded to the Union County Jail and is pending grand jury action, records said.

Roth was also wanted on similar charges from other police agencies in Union County, police said.

Officer Michael McNary made the arrest, according to police.

Larry Reddick, 22, of Montclair, was arrested and charged with theft by deception, possession and use of stolen credit cards that he allegedly obtained through the mail, Springfield police said. Reddick was released to the United States Postal Inspection Service, according to police.

Reddick allegedly went to a Springfield store to return items he purchased earlier in the week on a credit card and when the card appeared stolen the police were phoned, reports said.

Reddick, who is pending grand jury action, was arrested by Officer James Fine.

Volunteers clean up the community

During the Budget Year of 1993, the borough of Mountainside received $8,569 in state funding for the purpose of cleaning up the community. This is the third year Mountainside has participated in this program and what was noticed this year is that there appears to be more public awareness of the environment and more desire to individually contribute to a better environment by not littering. Obviously, the penalty imposed if caught littering may also have an impact.

For both those reasons, there appeared to be less debris for the Clean Community Volunteers to collect this year. The approximate amount of recyclables collected was 60 pounds.

Joining in the volunteer effort were 19 individuals, ranging in age from Girl Scout age to senior citizens. Specifically, Girl Scout Troop No. 695 participated and comments made were that they had more fun than if they had stayed home and watched cartoons.

All participants have the reward of doing a worthwhile service for the community, but also receive a T-shirt, baseball caps, mugs, and a voucher from Friendly's for an ice cream cone. Lunch at Borough Hall was provided.

All the volunteers are issued cotton gloves, pickup sticks, bags, and for those working near busy streets, safety vests. The areas where litter was

AAA invites holiday donations

Want to make this holiday season a little brighter for area children? Until Dec. 15, the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club invites citizens to drop off a new, unwrapped toy for the annual Marine Corps Reserve "Toys for Tots" drive at its office in Springfield.

"This marks our third year of participation in the 'Toys for Tots' program," said AAA President Frederick E. Great. "The holidays are a time for children, and this program provides joy to youngsters who might not otherwise receive a holiday gift.

"We're proud to once again join in this effort and are making a donation of new toys to the 'Toys for Tots' program on behalf of our employees."

Through the "Toys for Tots" program, the Marine Corps Reserve collects new toys and distributes them to nonprofit organizations nationwide. This marks the program's 46th year of brightening the lives of America's underprivileged youngsters during the holidays.

AAA New Jersey Automobile Club's office is located at 191 Mountain Ave.

Meteor shower nears earth

Each year in mid-December, the earth passes through an area full of meteoroids. These tiny rocks and dust are remnants of a comet. As these objects burn in the atmosphere, what are commonly referred to as "shooting stars" can be seen in the night sky. On the evenings and early mornings of Dec. 12, 13 and 14, the Orionids will offer an excellent opportunity to view such a meteor shower. It is not unusual to see between 40 and 60 meteors an hour.

The name "Orionids" comes from the fact that meteors seem to radiate from the constellation Gemini. Most Orionids are very bright and easily seen. Some are even fireballs.

Trailside Nature and Science Center will host a Gemini Meteor Watch on Dec. 13 from 8 to 11 p.m. The program will begin at Trailside's Planetarium with an orientation to the current night sky and tips on where to look for the meteors. Once outside, participants can locate the real thing and keep warm around a campfire. Meteor watchers should bring a blanket or lawn chair.

Registration is required and a fee of $3 per person will be charged. For registration or other information, call Trailside at (908) 789-3670. Trailside is a facility of Union County Division of Parks and Recreation.

Pollution laws may save costs

By Sean P. Carr
Staff Writer

A recent study by the state Department of Environmental Protection and Energy indicates that environmental regulations are economically beneficial in the long run has drawn a mixed local reaction.

In the study, laws and regulations for clean water, trash disposal alternatives and sewage-treatment initiatives will cost taxpayers and utility customers $3.6 billion by 1995 but will save $15.6 billion in lower health care costs and landfill fees and create 2.5 billion in jobs, according to reports.

Some officials cited pollution prevention laws as an example of the type of environmental regulation that helps both companies and communities.

"I think there are clearly economic costs associated with environmental regulations," said Frank Regan, Deputy Economic Development director. "I think many companies have become more responsible," he said. "They're proud to once again join in this effort and are making a donation of new toys to the 'Toys for Tots' program on behalf of our employees."

become more level in the next couple of years, primarily because of the 1990 Clean Air Act."

Kevin Schierman, director of the Regulatory Commission, cited environmental technology as an industry that benefits from environmental regulations. "If we advance in environmental controls, we can sell that technology," he said.

Referring to the Union County Resource Recovery Facility soon to be operating in Rahway, he said, "That $200 million facility certainly creates jobs and certainly results from environmental restrictions."

Schierman said many companies outside of environmental fields can also benefit from environmental laws, as such restrictions cause them to be more efficient in their operations. During a recession, he said, companies are looking even more closely for ways to improve efficiency.

"There are many benefits to a cleaner economy," he said.

Small companies do face a burden from such regulation. "It does add to their costs. It affects each one differently," he said.

Companies that do face added costs can pass them along to the consumer, Schierman said. "The public is not opposed to paying the actual costs of a product," he said. "If it results in less pollution and waste."

Rahway Mayor James Kennedy said environmental regulation "has a tendency to create new industries, which in the long run is healthy for the environment and healthy for the manufacturer. I firmly believe that."

Kennedy said forcing companies to upgrade their facilities can be an economic benefit. "All of those improvements trickle down into the local economy," he said, citing the example of Rahway Hospital's new incinerator, which replaced an outdated, dirty model. The hospital's investment was spent in the local economy, he said.

The results of the DEP study have been confirmed again and again elsewhere," said Bob Carson, vice chair of the Concerned Citizens of Union County, a grass-roots environmental organization.

"Jobs are lost because companies are interested in short-term profits," he said. "In the long-term, environmental restrictions are the best thing" for companies and citizens, Carson said.

"On the not very long run, they're improving economically by reducing solvents emitted into the environment," he said, by becoming more efficient.

Carson said the economy-environment link has not been considered with the Union County incinerator. "I think what's been ignored here in Rahway is the effect the incinerator will have on property values, the effect it will have on the quality of life," he said. Once an area has an operating incinerator, he said, it is writing-off and stood for more potentially destructive facilities.

"If you can stop pollution to the environment, it will be more cost-effective than having to clean up environmental pollutants once they're released," said William Fidanek, vice chair of the township's environmental commission. "You have less remediation after the fact if you stop it at the source."

Sessions set for community dispute program

Union County College is hosting an 18-hour training course designed to prepare volunteers to serve as mediators in Community Dispute Resolution Programs. The sessions began yesterday at the college's Cranford campus.

The course will be conducted by the Municipal Court Division of New Jersey Superior Court. All New Jersey municipalities are required to implement such Community Dispute Resolution Programs as pursuant to a New Jersey Supreme Court directive.

The training course is presented after one offered by the Administrative Office of the Courts, covering the nature and management of conflict; effective communication techniques, and the role of the mediator, and how to conduct mediation sessions including role playing exercises to simulate real-life situations. Matters such as neighbors' disputes, small business claims, and other such areas generally are the types of cases addressed by municipal mediators.

The course will provide the trainees with information on the theories of mediation, enabling them the opportunity to practice related techniques. Other topics covered in the course include the mediation session itself, how to manage conflict, identifying the primary source of conflict, and handling defensive, hostile, suspicious and manipulative clients.

Trainers will be James Lovett of Summit, Erwin Rausch of Cranford, Dr. Richard L. Samuel of Linden, and Audrey Winkler of Jersey City.

The following time slots will be available from which participants may select to attend class: 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Dec. 14, 15 and 17, or 7 to 10 p.m. on Jan. 4, 6, 11, 13 and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Jan. 8, all in the Union County Room, MacKey Library, Cranford campus.

Those interested in further information should call either Robert Schip, dean of continuing education and community services, at 709-7603 or C. Wylly Cas, manager of the Municipal Court Division in the New Jersey Superior Court, at 527-4303.

Pre-appoint

Now that the Democrats officially hold the majority on the Township Committee, many key personnel changes are expected to occur as the governing body prepares for its annual reorganization meeting on Jan. 2. As history indicates, when a party assumes the majority, it appoints its supporters to fill roles on major committees.

To prevent the debacle that occurred during last year's reorganization meeting, a day that should be set aside for harmony, we request that the Township Committee meet before January to discuss the appointments proposed for that day. If the governing body can finalize appointments before the annual meeting, its members could start the year with open dialogue and unity within the committee.

An earlier meeting would be commendable because it could mean there is hope for harmony and improved communication among the committee and, as a result, better government for the residents of Springfield.

If the committee holds a pre-reorganization meeting to discuss appointments, perhaps the January meeting would run more smoothly. At the very least, having knowledge of who will and who will not be reappointed will prevent surprises when the time comes to vote on nominations.

And we're certain there will be surprises if recent allegations of who is and who is not going to be reappointed are any indications.

There has been talk that Democratic Chairman Bruce Bergen will replace Rebecca Donington as township attorney. While there is nothing wrong or unusual about the majority party appointing a supporter to a position, there is something wrong when the majority cannot confirm or deny those allegations.

Springfield is known as a very political town and it's time for that reputation to be put to rest. Politics can interfere with responsible government and it is becoming extremely evident throughout the town, as issues are put aside because of internal feuding among committee members.

Lack of communication does not reflect open government, and it's more destructive when open government cannot even occur among the committee members themselves.

The reorganization meeting is less than one month away. Perhaps the Democrats on the committee would be willing to accept this suggestion and meet to discuss the appointments. We're sure they would not want to go on record as being the party of exclusion.

Regional district costs are highest in state

I am writing this letter in reference to Dr. Merschnik, superintendent of the Union County Regional District's, letter which has appeared in papers all over Union County, concerning the per pupil cost of the Union County Regional District. Dr. Merschnik claims that the reason for the per pupil cost of the Union County Regional is $16,000 is because the regional is only a 9-12 high school district — that if you combined the cost of the students of the high and the cost of the pupils of the local districts the cost would decrease. He also claims that the cost of educating a high school student is more expensive than that of an elementary school student.

While Dr. Merschnik in theory is not incorrect, I would like Dr. Merschnik to explain why there are 21 9-12 regional high school districts throughout New Jersey whose costs are under $16,000 per pupil. Some of these districts are in the same size range, and some are even much smaller. Last year on the witness stand in court, in the case of Kenilworth vs. The Regional, Dr. Merschnik testified that it would be too expensive to run small high schools, that Ken Matfield, the Regional District curriculum supervisor, was wrong and had not given consideration to the expense of running smaller schools in a study performed by Mr. Matfield. Mr. Matfield had stated in his study the regional district would be taking a step backward if it closed a school because smaller is better. Why is this true for the Union County Regional, that running smaller schools is more expensive, but this is not true in many other districts.

Be Our Guest

By Janet Glynos

Here is a sample of some of the 9-12 regional school districts in New Jersey and their per pupil cost and enrollment figures.

- Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional, 410 students, $12,238 per pupil
- Shore Regional, 574 students, $12,115 per pupil
- Rumson-Fair Haven Regional, 590 students, $10,893 per pupil
- Walkill Valley Regional, 622 students, $11,321 per pupil
- Sterling Regional, 680 students, $9,356 per pupil
- High Point Regional, 929 students, $11,086 per pupil
- Weehawken Hills Regional, 942 students, $11,522 per pupil
- West Morris Regional, 1,878 students, $11,104 per pupil
- North Hunterdon Regional, 1,891 students, $10,895 per pupil
- Morris Hill Regional, 2,065 students, $10,400 per pupil

Some of these schools are even listed in the top 20 schools as far as academics. So, Dr. Merschnik, what are you trying to say? The Union County Regional District is the most expensive district in the state of New Jersey as far as per pupil cost no matter how you add, subtract, multiply or divide. There are 31 regional districts doing a more cost efficient education in this state — even more evidence that dissolution may be the answer to end this cost-prohibitive district and to be able to provide a superior education in a cost-efficient manner.

So, Dr. Merschnik, if we are going to provide the facts, let's provide the facts. It's time you stop hiding behind twisted numbers and twisted justifications. Again, I'll put the question before you. Are we paying $16,000 per pupil for quality or are we getting quality for $16,000 per pupil?

Whitman supports the State Development and Redevelopment Plan, saying "It is high time we go where we plan to go, and not just where we are headed. The State Plan makes sense." She pledged to "help local governments plot their course for the community they want in the next century, using the State Plan for guidance."

Whitman also promised to push for urban revitalization, using urban heritage districts to concentrate state and federal grants for transportation and wastewater improvements, and expediting decisions on development applications.

Like most of the rest of us, but too seldom the New Jersey Legislature, she knows that "environmental protection is imperative to economic prosperity." She also will push for a stable source of funding for open space acquisition and recreational development as a lower-cost alternative to bonding.

The 32-year-old Green Acres Program has been remarkably successful and inventive in its execution, but cannot keep up with the demands on it, she said.

Whitman will support legislation for statewide transfer of development rights program, which the Legislature has failed to deal with since the bill's first introduction 16 years ago.

Transfer of development rights is a way to concentrate development in specific areas of a municipality. It is working well in the Pinelands and David F. Moore is executive director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation.

Whitman must fulfill environmental pledge

With Christine Todd Whitman elected governor, I expect we can look to four years of undiminished public support for environmental causes.

Neither Whitman nor Gov. Jim Florio in their campaigns dwelt as much on the environment as on taxes, crime, jobs and the economy. But Whitman remains environmentally sophisticated and concerned.

Evidence of this came from Warren County on Nov. 2 when voters favored by 3-1 authorizing the county freeholders to establish a fund to buy open space. Two of the three freeholders are on record favoring a 2-cent tax per hundred dollars of assessed valuation to provide the fund.

I have known the Todd and Whitman families through the donation of a conservation easement by Whitman's mother, the late Eleanor Todd, on the 230-acre family farm to the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, which I head.

When Whitman states that her countryside upbringing provided her with an environmental ethic "as innate as instinct in a dog," I believe her.

It's not too late to make that contribution

It's not too late to make a contribution to your favorite charity and qualify for a tax deduction on your 1993 tax return. The amount and nature of your gift, as well as your income level and amount of itemized deductions, determines the tax benefits of your generosity.

Before making any charitable contributions, be sure the recipient meets IRS standards. Generally, organizations opened solely for charitable, religious, educational, literary or scientific purposes — such as nonprofit hospitals, churches, synagogues and nonprofit medical research organizations — fit the bill. Contributions made directly for the benefit of a particular individual are not deductible.

You should be able to substantiate gifts of cash with receipts and canceled checks. In most cases, you can deduct the full amount of your cash contribution. However, contributions of cash and property — excluding appreciated property — to most charitable organizations may not exceed 50 percent of your adjusted gross income. For certain types of charities, such as private nonoperating foundations and fraternal organizations, the limit is 30 percent of your AGI. You may, however, carry over charitable contributions in excess of this amount to the next five tax years.

Your deduction for a gift of property, such as used clothing and furniture, is limited to the fair market value of the property at the time of your contribution. This amount is generally far less than what you originally paid for the item.

When the value of the property you donate totals more than $500, you must file Form 8283, Noncash Charitable Contributions. On this form you indicate what and when you contributed, to whom you contributed, and how you acquired the property, your cost or adjusted basis, and the method used to value property.

If you are donating a single item or group of items valued over $5,000 — you must have an appraisal prepared to determine the value of the property.

Gifts of appreciated property are generally limited to 30 percent of your AGI. However, if the gift would result in a long-term capital gain and it been sold, and the gift is to a private nonoperating foundation or fraternal organization, the limit is 20 percent of AGI.

When you donate appreciated property, such as stocks and bonds, you can take a tax deduction for the full market value of the property at the time of the gift, provided you have held onto the property for more than one year. What's more, you needn't pay tax on the gains that has built up since you bought the securities.

For stock or other capital assets that you have held for less than a year, your deduction is limited to your cost. Charitable contributions are considered itemized deductions, which are subject to certain phase-out rules. For 1993, itemized deductions must be reduced by 3 percent of the amount by which your AGI exceeds $108,450.

Money Management

— $54,225 for married individuals filing separately. In no event, however, can your itemized deductions, including medical expenses, casualty and theft deductions, and gambling losses, be reduced by more than 80 percent. Be aware that the new tax law left most of the rules affecting charitable contributions intact, so you will not face greater limitations on tax deductible contributions. However, the New Jersey Society of CPAs points out that the new law has more stringent requirements for substantiating donations. For example, beginning next year, taxpayers may not rely solely on a canceled check to substantiate charitable donations of $250 or more. Instead, you will need a receipt or other written substantiation from the recipient charity each time you make a contribution of this amount. Keep this in mind when planning your 1994 charitable contributions.

Money Management is a weekly column on personal finance distributed by the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Something has to give in the budget game

Screening New Jersey

By Steve Acubato Jr.

Such fiscal shenanigans have produced what is called a structural deficit that threatens our credit rating, the rate at which the state borrows money and cuts into any day's surplus, usually considered a sound fiscal practice. It also makes it more difficult to make good on a promise to cut taxes, and that deficit sooner or later must be paid off.

So much for the lesson in public budgeting. Now, let's talk about why this latest fiscal mess will make Christine Whitman's life as governor so difficult. We're talking revenue from at least two major sources — income and corporate taxes — that will be way down from what overly optimistic Florio budget "experts" had projected last June.

Specifically, what was expected the income tax was going to bring $4.8 billion into the state treasury. That's a projected increase of almost 11 percent over last year. This, while so many folks are out of work. So far, it has brought in only 6 percent more.

Worse yet, corporate taxes were projected to grow by 15.4 percent this year, but only have increased 5.7 percent. Sales tax revenues have brought in 3.9 percent more than last year. That doesn't sound too bad in these difficult economic days. Except, the "experts" estimated a 7.5 percent increase.

Bottom line? If this economic trend continues, the state could wind up more than $200 million short in revenue, on top of a budget deficit of $1.5 billion. The revenue helps to pay for the state's programs and services — stuff like state parks, rebates and state aid to municipalities for increased police protection.

The other bottom line is that in order for Whitman to deliver on her promise to cut income taxes 10 percent by July 1, 1994, the choices she and the GOP Legislature will have to make will be even more painful than originally thought.

And since Whitman believes it would be political suicide to reneg on a promise to deliver on her tax cut pledge, she better be prepared to make an awful lot of people, many of whom voted for her, unhappy.

While it is unclear what areas will be most vulnerable to the Whitman budget ax, this week's sobering revenue picture makes it crystal clear that the budget process is in desperate need of real reform. Specifically, there must be active citizen education and involvement in this weekly numbers game that for too long has been controlled and manipulated by political insiders, bureaucrats and special interests.

I'm not talking about simply telling folks after the fact, "We're sorry, our revenue projections were off. But don't worry, we'll take care of it."

Are committee Dems Bergen's tools?

To the Editor:
Recently I challenged local Democratic Party boss Bruce Bergen to confirm or deny that he is "pulling out all stops" in maneuvering himself to become the next township attorney.

Bergen, as chairman of the local party, is putting committee members Forstman, Holmes and Sileo in a position of perhaps having to deliver the almost $100,000-a-year position regardless of their true beliefs. Bergen, who has run some of the most vile campaigns in Springfield, knows that he controls who runs on the party line and should any of "his" elected officials go against his wishes, they'd be politically dead. Knowing Bergen's style, it is easy to see how he could put his Democrat-elected officials in that position.

The township attorney is expected to provide legal advice to the entire Township Committee. How can a party boss who owns the votes of the Democratic members ever provide unbiased advice?

Putting a party boss like Bergen in the most sensitive position in municipal government clearly is not in the best interests of Springfield. The public has an absolute right to know if that position is up for sale. The question that every taxpayer must ask is will the three Democrats on the Township Committee now become Bergen's tools?

There are other suggestions that Bergen will step down as party chairman and assume a lesser political role, just to give the appearance that he will not use the position as a political asset. This doesn't erase a potential conflict of interest. After all, he orchestrated the campaigns of each Democrat on the committee. He even had to proff and approve the vice personal attacks made in this year's campaign as well as last year's campaign. How can he possibly work with all the members of the committee when he is telling the truth or perhaps lying to Bergen? During the public portion of the Township Committee meeting, I requested that we as a township place out for public bid our attorney services for an experienced professional with a background in dealing with a $16 million public corporation. Mrs. Forstman and Mrs. Holmes stated that they would consider it; however, I do not believe that Bergen will permit it.

Toy guns should be banned too

To the Editor:
The Brady bill, which took almost 17 years to pass, should have been proposed to Congress just as the doctors were pulling the bullet from the body of President Reagan. But things for the better sometimes take long to accomplish. Here's another gun law that needs attention.

The manufacturers of toys should be banned from manufacturing a toy gun of any size, shape or that even resembles a gun.

A child does not need a gun to help develop his mind. Many toy guns are used in roleplay. The victim facing a robber with a gun in his hand pointing to his head does not have to ask the robber — is this a toy gun or is it for real? Also the distribution or sale of toy guns manufactured out of the U.S.A. should be banned.

I think I made my point.

Will fulfill voters' trust

To the Editor:
I would like to thank all the voters in Union County who supported me and, in fact, put me at the top in the Nov. 2 election. With the strong endorsement I received from the electorate, I feel confident that the citizens in the county's 21 municipalities want to continue the policies, procedures and programs which the freeholders have begun to implement.

Now I look forward to three years of more progress. I intend to help complete the reform of county government, hold the line on taxes and improve the quality of all county programs and services. I will do my best to fulfill the trust the voters have placed in me as I work to make Union County a better place for all our residents.

What about Rostenkowski case?

To the Editor:
Last April, Jay Stephens, the U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia, was on the verge of announcing whether or not he would seek the indictment of Dan Rostenkowski, the powerful chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Stephens was promptly fired, along with 92 other U.S. attorneys. Stephens suspected that this unusual purge was connected to Steve Rostenkowski, who was needed to get the Clinton budget passed.

Seven months have passed and no disclosure on Rostenkowski's indictment has been announced, even though the case against him is strong and getting stronger. The grand jury, looking for "ghosts" on the congressman's payroll, discovered that 210 personnel and payroll files were missing from his office. Why aren't the media exposing this scandal?

Why is everyone jumping all over Christine Whitman, who has broken no law. Just hired a jerk for a manager.

Blood center prepares for countywide drives

The North Jersey Blood Center is asking healthy adults to roll up their sleeves and give a very precious gift this holiday season — a pint of blood.

"While people are hustling and bustling this season, there are children and adults in hospitals, totally dependent on the availability of blood," said Carl Clough, director of donor services for the Blood Center.

"Blood donations fall dramatically during this time, and we are counting on the generosity and compassion of community residents to see us through," he added.

"Our primary concern is having enough platelets, the component that is essential for blood clotting," Clough continued.

"Platelets will expire after just five days, which is why blood must be collected every day of the year," he said.

Potential donors should be in good health, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be at least 18 years old. Seventeen-year-olds may donate with a signed parental permission slip. No flu symptoms should be evident. People who recently had a flu vaccination are eligible to donate.

According to the American Association of Blood Banks, this year more than 12 million units of blood were provided to nearly 4 million patients suffering from cancer, leukemia, severe anemia, bone and joint problems, heart disease or trauma, and to persons having organ transplants.

Two donor centers in West Orange and Parsippany welcome donors six days a week. Other blood mobile and community drives are held throughout the region. For more information, to make a reservation, or to locate a convenient drive, call the North Jersey Blood Center's donor services department at 1-800-433-6222, Ext. 140.

The North Jersey Blood Center has scheduled open blood drives in Union County on the following dates:

- Dec. 13: Union Memorial Hospital, Gallop Hill Road, Union, from 3 to 7 p.m.
- Dec. 15: Hillside Elks Lodge 1591, 244 Hillside Ave., Hillside, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Dec. 16: First Baptist Church of Hillside, 92 Hillside Ave., Hillside, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
- Dec. 19: McDonald's, Route 1 and East Scott Street, Rahway, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.
- Dec. 20: Union Memorial Hospital, Gallop Hill Road, from 3 to 7 p.m.

Serta Mattress Company locates in Union County

The Union County Economic Development Co. recently helped Serta Mattress Co., a division of Sleepmaster Products Co. L.P. of Newark, and Precision Industries, an Omaha-based distributor of bearings and power transmission components, locate in Union County.

Serta leased 240,000 square feet at 2001 Lower Road on the Linden and Rahway border. The Union County Economic Development Program was asked to meet with Serta by real estate brokers of Sholom, Zucker, Welles and Evans to introduce the company to programs and services in Union County.

Serta currently has 165 employees. The company will relocate in early January 1994. Serta officials anticipate that the company will double its production during its first year of operation in the new facility, creating an additional 50 to 100 positions.

The Union County Economic Development Corp. has been working with Serta since early September to help the company take advantage of job placement, job training and training reimbursement programs made available through the Elizabeth Development Co. and the Suburban Chambers of Commerce, as well as from the New Jersey Department of Labor.

The Union County Economic Development Corp. also convened meetings for Serta with PSE&G and Elizabethtown Gas to discuss energy services and incentive programs.

Precision Industries, a family-owned company, is already up and running in their newly leased 65,000-square-foot facility at 410 Allen St., which borders Linden and Elizabeth.

Precision has distribution centers in 35 other cities. The company found their newest location through the Union County Economic Development Corporation's Site Selection Assistance Program. "The Allen Street location is perfect because Precision is fulfilling a major equipment maintenance and service contract for Exxon which is only a few miles away," said UCEDC President Matthew Tizze.

Precision Industries currently has nine employees and expects to employ approximately 15 persons by the end of 1994.

County college pays tribute to Merck

Union County College paid tribute Nov. 18 to Merck and Co., Inc., the Union County-based pharmaceutical firm, for its three decades of support for the college at dedication ceremonies for the biology laboratory on the Elizabeth campus.

The science facility on the seventh floor of the Sidney F. Lesser Building was designated as the Merck Biology Laboratory.

"We are most appreciative that Merck has again agreed to support our college and its efforts to develop a first-rate campus in Elizabeth with comprehensive facilities and state-of-the-art equipment," said Frank A. Bolden, chairman of the Board of Trustees. "They have done this by making a grant of $100,000 to help provide a biology laboratory for the Elizabeth campus."

"The development of a college is evolutionary. It grows gradually, but it always grows and changes to meet the needs of society, or it dies," Bolden said. "Union County College has had a 60-year tradition for gradual growth and development and a unique ability to change with the times and with the needs of its students. Such growth and development requires support from many people and many agencies. Union has been fortunate over the years to have among its supporters Merck and Co., Inc., which has a major facility in nearby Rahway."

Bolden said Merck's support included the first major gift to the college's first fund-raising effort in 1977, which led to the development of its main campus in Cranford and the first building on that campus. Merck also has supported the UCC board chairman said, other capital campaigns for facilities on the Cranford campus, the Science Seminars for Academically Talented High School Students, faculty exchange programs and the Minorities in Engineering Project.

"Our Elizabeth campus, of which we are very proud, is a fascinating story of success," Bolden said. "Less than two years ago, our Elizabeth facility served about 1,000 students. Today, we have tripled that number with more than 3,000 students attending classes in the daytime, in the evening and on weekends — a major advance in the redevelopment of downtown Elizabeth."

In many ways our Elizabeth campus epitomizes what a community college is all about: opportunities for all segments of the society and meeting the specific needs of its constituents. We have two very innovative examples: our highly recognized Institute for Intensive English, one of the largest programs of English as a Second Language in New Jersey, and our Career Institute, which provides jobs training and basic skills to help the unemployed and the underemployed prepare for employment. The campus also provides career programs as well as traditional programs in the arts and sciences.

Spersert placed among Kent scholars

Twenty students at Kent Place School have been named AP scholars by the college board in recognition of their exceptional achievements on the college-level Advanced Placement examinations.
Only about 11 percent of the 424,000 students who took AP examinations in May performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.
The college board recognizes three levels of achievement: the AP Scholar with Distinction, the AP Scholar with Honor and the AP Scholar.
Twelve students from Kent Place School qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor award by earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP exams, with an average grade of at least 3.25. Among them is Springfield resident Suzanne Spersert, who graduated last year.

Edelman appointed

Saint Barnabas Medical Center in Livingston announced the appointment of Samuel B. Edelman of Springfield as director of the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit. Edelman also directs a four-bed step-down unit for the less critically ill child and adolescent. The Pediatric Intensive Care Unit is a new addition to the intensive care and pediatric services available at Saint Barnabas Medical Center, which has been created to meet the needs of critically ill infants, children and adolescents.

Samuel Edelman

Edelman came to Saint Barnabas after completing his fellowship in Pediatric Critical Care at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in Camden. He completed his pediatric residency at Maimonides Medical Center in Brooklyn, from 1987 to 1990, after graduating from the University of the New England College of Osteopathy in Biddeford, Maine. He has presented his research at the New Jersey Society of Critical Care and was the recipient of the fellowship research award for 1991. He most recently presented his research at the annual meeting of the Society of Critical Care Medicine in New York.

Ragosa promoted

Diane Ragosa of Springfield was appointed vice president and general manager of the Johnson & Johnson Health Management Division of Johnson & Johnson Advanced Behavioral Technologies Inc. Ragosa's expanded responsibilities include the marketing and delivery of all Live For Life branded products and services to the corporate worksite and retail markets.
Ragosa joined Ethicon Inc. in 1974 as an industrial engineer. She progressed through a variety of operations, sales and product management positions during her 15 years' experience at Ethicon, joining Johnson & Johnson Health Management in 1990 as vice president of operations. Her performance and dedication to the development of the company's health promotion business warranted the advancement.
Ragosa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ragosa of Springfield.

Panthers down rival Rams, 26-12

Roselle Park High School extended its state-leading winning streak by beating Roselle's Abraham Clark High School on Thanksgiving Day, 26-12, in Roselle Park. More than 3,500 fans looked on as Roselle Park, 10-0, was led once again by running back Nick Fowler and quarterback John Schinaitel. The two backs, along with the rest of the Panthers, were coming off only five days rest after beating Mountain Lakes the previous Saturday in the NISIAA North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 playoffs. The team did not play like it needed rest though. The Panthers were off to an early start when they blocked a first quarter Ram punt, taking possession on the Ram 1-yard line. Schinaitel then dove the yard for the opening touchdown. The extra-point attempt failed, leaving the score 6-0 after the first quarter. Schinaitel then led his squad 46 yards in eight plays in the second quarter, ending with a 3-yard TD run. His conversion pass to Marc Leonardis gave the Panthers a 14-0 lead. Roselle pulled to 14-6 when Mike Smith intercepted Schinaitel at the Ram goal line and returned it 100 yards to the touchdown. Nick Fowler, who carried 27 times for 140 yards, assumed the scoring burden for Park in the second half. His touchdown runs of six and 46 yards helped push him over the 1,000-yard mark for the third straight season. Smith scored for Roselle again, this time on a 4-yard run, in between the two Park TDs. Panther halfback Mark Carlson carried 12 times for 85 yards to help the Panthers gain 328 yards on the ground. Schinaitel completed four of eight passes for 74 yards to round out the Park offense. Roselle still leads the Thanksgiving football rivalry 42-37 which they will host next November.

Farmers stop Scotch Plains, give Rettino 200th career win

The Union High School football team stopped in Scotch Plains Thanksgiving Day on its way to the NISIAA North Jersey, Section 2, Group 4 finals, which will be against Randolph on Saturday. With only five days to prepare after a playoff win against Elizabeth the previous Saturday, the Farmers used a simplified game plan to beat Scotch Plains High School, 46-7. The win was the 200th in head coach Lou Rettino's illustrious career. He is 200-54-5 overall, and 155-20-3 at Union. Ed Collins passed for a pair of touchdowns and Marco Caban ran for three more to lead the 9-1 Farmers. Caban began the onslaught by cap-

Pacifico is artist, designer

By Ben Smith
Lifestyle Editor

Years ago, the Springfield librarian used to look forward to visits from a little boy named Sal Pacifico, who would sit on the floor every day to read the library, pull out every book he could find on art, and sit on the floor reading and studying each book. Years later, when he was an accomplished artist, the librarian gave him a show in the halls of the library.

"That was two years ago," recalled Pacifico, formerly of Union and Springfield, whose abstract art, "Works on Canvas," is being exhibited at the Lea Malamut Gallery in the Union Public Library in Friberger Park to Jan. 6.

The 39-year-old artist, who now resides in Flemington, where he has a studio, also is employed as a computer aid designer at Bell Laboratories. Holmdel. On a visit to this office the other afternoon, he spoke of his early interest in art. "Ever since I was able to ride a bike, I've gotten it," he said in the library, first in Union, then when he moved to Springfield, in Springfield, into books and art. "I took a three-year curriculum at duCret and did it over a 20-year span. I used to go to duCret in the mornings and he'd take me to the evening. It's been a long, hard trip," Pacifico admitted.

"When I was at duCret, they taught every type of painting and the painting styles of the artists. All that was fundamental. I studied with Dr. Frank Finck. He was in his 90s then. He did Holen Hayes' portrait, and President Dwight Eisenhower, and as far as I know, he teaches at the Art Academy in New York.

"All those years with him I learned discipline in my work — from abstract to technical — and I still have an even balance. I studied all the masters and I began looking at life from an artist's eye. I learned that as an artist matures, he develops into an abstract style. And as a designer, I got involved in the computer, using technical designs."

Pacifico said that "my uncle, Thomas Pacifico, is a professor of literature at the University of Naples. He wanted to be a painter, but he became a professor. He was a big influence on my studying in Europe and on my life. I visited the castles in Rome that had been converted to museums. The art work is cut right into the walls. Incredible! It's interesting to see the old castles with modern art."

The artist declared that his family has shown pride in him. "My parents, Rose and John Pacifico, live in Springfield. So does my brother, Thomas, who also lives in Springfield. He helps me with my shows. He's a carpenter.

telephone news brochure. It was an assignment at the art school, and eventually wound up at the Trenton State Museum.

He said he received his formal art education at the duCret School of Art, Kean College of New Jersey, Union, and the New Jersey Center for Art, Summit. He also studied privately in Rome, Naples and New York City.

"I took a three-year curriculum at duCret and did it over a 20-year span. I used to go to duCret in the mornings and he'd take me to the evening. It's been a long, hard trip," Pacifico admitted.
