"As a business person, if traffic increased, the value of real estate goes up; I benefit. But as a homewher, I'm against 24 hour operations," he explained, referring to Stop & Shop's round the clock schedule.

Then the clothes store owner wondered about what kind of shoppers Stop & Shop would bring. "I sell upscale apparel. I don't know what Stop & Shop is aiming to draw into their business."

Another gentleman in the clothes business was Jose De Los Rios. proprietor of J.D Custom Tailor & uxedo Rental. "The traffic doesn't bother me. More traffic is better for because we need traffic. It's very good for us, It's better than nothing. We don't want an empty building. "I'm happy that Stop & Shop will be there. Nobody will be walking around here with dead businesses," stated De Los Rios.

Across the street at Ganny-Russ Opticians, Anthony Russ was also in favor of Stop & Shop coming to Millburn Avenue, "I would prefer to have Bloomingdales' furniture store there, but I'm concerned that it'll end up domnant, like Lord & Taylor," explained Russ. The former Lord & Taylor lot had been empty for six years, but has been purchased recently.

"If it stays vacant, the owners eventually will rent it to anyone, like undesirable stores. They do have a right to rent their property and there are too many vacant stores now on Millburn Avenue," said Russ.

"If the entrance is on Millburn Avenue, it has to help. In the last few years, Saks hasn't been doing the business it used to do. Traffic. from Saks hasn't done anything to help the business community,"

Russ said. . "I understand the residential outlook, but there are businesses here that have to survive," Russ stressed. "If they're going to fight it, it's going to lay dormant and that's the worst thing for the area." Russ' opinion was shared by Lloyd Perkel from Blaustein Furs. "My feeling is the more traffic, the more customers. Trying to control what's going in and out is hurting the merchants who are here already," said Perkel.

"I don't see that there's anything wrong with having a good solid company come in. Alt I see are two emply stores across the street, one next door, and another at the corner. It's no good for business," Perkel

"My business is a destination business, which means that I don't need traffic. People come out of their way to see us. I'm more concerned about other morchants. Everybody who wants to fight against Stop & Shop isn't thinking about the general concern of the area," claimed Perkel.

Directed and dramatized by Creative Theater's Artistic Director Eloise Bruce, the play is a collection of three "Why" stories in which birds are the central characters.

The first, the Japanese story of the "The Crane Maiden," tells why humans should keep their promises The second play originates from the Amazon region of South America and tells the story of how the sparrow hawk is responsible for the jaguar's bright green eyes and how, o this day, jagnars repay the hawk. # Overstepping bounds

The Colonial Association, a resident group from the north end of Springfield and the Glenwood section of Millburn, has been working long and hard to try to prevent Stop & Shop from acquiring and converting property at 92 Millburn Ave., formerly Saks Fifth Avenue. They have expressed concerns that a new supermarket in their residential neighborhood would have an adverse effect on property values and the quality of life.

But while the group certainly should be commended for having the bravery to stand up to big business, some of the rhetoric with which they have attempted to mobilize other citizens smells of something foul.

There is nothing wrong with being concerned about traffic or noise in one's neighborhood. There is nothing wrong with being concerned with declining property val ues and with trying to do something about it. But when you use some of the language that the Colonial Association has used, you run the risk of stepping over the line into outright snobbery.

"I don't want Springfield to turn into another Newark, another Irvington, another Union," Association President Augie Franzoni exclaimed at a recent Township Committee meeting, referring to an "urban domino effect" that has become a common concern of all who live in the shadow of New York City's ever growing megalopolis.

On the surface, this would seem a harmless statement. and it's certainly one of the less inflammatory proclamations from the group. But in its subtext, quite a bit can be revealed about how some association members think.

The reference to Newark is obvious, as it is a symbol of the urban decay that has gripped cities across the country, although to try to compare that city's problems to the proposed Stop & Shop is ludicrous. The prime reasons for Newark's decay were the aftershocks of the 1967 riots and the loss of the city's industrial manufacturing base and early 1970s - Ballantine, Pabst Blue Ribbon and Piels — and the chemical industry in the late 1970s and early 1980s - BASF, Allied. It was this absolute decimation of the job market, and not the introduction of a supermarket, which led to the city's decline.

Irvington, meanwhile, is a sad case of what the riots' aftermath wrought. As black families from Newark, whose homes had been burned out, were relocated into Irvington, it led to the infamous "white flight." The community of Irvington was utterly abandoned by racists claiming, as the Colonial Association does, that they were concerned about "bad elements" moving into town and the subsequent effect they would have on property values. Newark and Irvington have suffered considerable decay in the past quarter-century, so the references to them, while perhaps unrealistic in regards to Springfield's situation, are nonetheless understandable. But Union? Union is a blue-collar, working-class town, and that's all it's ever been. While the houses there may not be $400,000 palaces of marble and red Spanish tile, it's far from a slum. It's a tightly knit community of hardworking people who want a decent place to raise their children. To refer to it like some diseased pig is to betray the snobbery of people who need to feel superior. Perhaps that is not the Colonial Association's intent, but it certainly looks that way from the outside, and that's exactly how it will be interpreted by every other resident who will join the fight to stop the Stop & Shop, lest they become, gulp, middle-class.

But perhaps the most disturbing thing about this dialogue is the fact that, if one were to think about the most striking change that has occurred in all three of these communities in the past 25 years, the answer invariably would be how all three of them have gone from lily-white communities to a more ethnically diverse situation.

This is not an indictment of the Colonial Association as a bunch of racists, but it wouldn't hurt if they were to look within themselves as to where their motivations are coming from. Coded language, the sort of which they have specialized in, can be a powerful political tool. It preys on people's most basic fears, and although they may not admit it publicly, those fears often have racist connotations

And ultimately, the most important thing they must remember in their fight is that, although property values should be a concern of homeowners, they are immensely more important to those who are ready to abandon their community at the first sign of trouble.

An old-timer's observations

To the Editor: Editor's note: The following is an open letter to Freeholder Linda-Lee

These past few months, I have been reading about our recent deer hunt in the reservation. I'd like to present my observation from an old-timer's point of

As a resident of Mountainside for nearly 45 years, the following is a list of points that I have written down following a slow ride and walk through the eservation on a beautiful Sunday afternoon in July.

. The reservation itself is a total mess. Tree stumps, large branches, very large trees that have rotted or blown down by storms, are all lying about. The ground is soft and covered with years of fallen leaves. How do you expect anything to regenerate? What's the problem, don't you have enough county employees to pick up all the debris? It seems you had plenty of help during the deer hunt spending our tax dollars. The reservation will never regenerate itself unless you spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in new plantings. • The only area that looked fairly up to date is the stables. Why have the freeholders let this beautiful reservation go to pot? There were hundreds of deer in the reservation 20 and 30 years ago and the place was well maintained. It seems to me, when the old-time directors passed on, they were replaced by a bunch of young kids who knew nothing of reservation management. The result --- see what you got --- nothing.

Linda Lee Kelly, I assure you that when a young couple take their kids for a walk in the reservation, they're not looking for herbs, vines, trees or insects. If they spot a deer, out comes the camera. You are the first girl I know that likes

Situation should not continue To the Editor

I read the article on July 21 about the Stiles Street area of Springfield and it infuriated me that this situation is allowed to continue in our town. I, too, love Springfield, having lived here since 1967. Larry Burns was my mail carrier from the day I moved into town until he retired. His retirement was a real loss for the Postal Service. Larry Burns treated people with kindness, consideration and respect, and he deserves to be treated the same way by the town he served for so many years. I think the Township Committee should stop its infighting long enough to hear the pleas of some of the residents. If these residents feel they need street lights and some additional police protection, then I feel they should not have to ask more than once - let's do it now. We need to keep all of Springfield safe for overyone who lives here. Fern Steinberg Springfield

Monopolies must be contained To the Editor

You editorialized two weeks ago on the monolopy of cable television and the new competition of the telephone company in the area of communication. You are correct that competition is the way to keep prices down for the consumer. It is clear that telecommunication and cable companies will succeed or fail based on the decisions they make in the next decade. The communications froutier is constantly being pushed from both a business and technological

The key aspect of the new competition is the conversion of cable service to interactivity, thus pushing the so-called information superhighway construction into high gear.

Where I disagree with your editorial is the seemingly passive position which you imply we should take in awaiting the telecommunications revolution. I have set forth my concern before that Union County residents should be concerned over the charge that a competitive edge was given to the telephone company in the bidding for the initial fiber optics contract for Union County. We should support a careful review by the county in developing a policy on make certain that the cost allocations for new projects don't fall on the tele phone or cable television users. It will be a year this September since the federal government said it would spur development of the National Data Network superhighway. Government has a role in dealing with the companies you call "local trusts. That role is to provide a level playing field which encourages delivery of high quality service at a reasonable price for the consumer.

Representatives don't represent o the Editor

They ask us to call, write or fax to them whatever suggestion or complaint we may have. They ask for citizen participation and volunteer for various civic functions.

But are they really? Case in point: I recently asked my assemblyman if he would support A-1125. "Whose bill is that?" he asked. "It's Maureen Ogden's." I said. He retorted back, "Absolutely not." I asked why. He stated that that was a bill that would set up a citizen committee to watch over the deer management in this state, "and that we don't need

So I told him Fish and Game had nearly a hundred years to manage the deer tuation and we have more deer today than when they started to manage deer He stated that he knows and "I don't care" and walked on.

At first he seemed so pleasant, then when he heard that it was a Republican's bill I was asking about, he got testy. I think politics are involved, or animosity toward the citizenry. I left feeling all the worse until I got home and learned that the group of itizens who attempted to attend the deer committee meeting at the Trailside Nature Center in the Watchungs were voted to not be allowed inside. Some of these votes came from those who say to us, "We'll be there for you, call, write, fax and vote for me." Please. Vincent Lehotsky

Let's vote on death penalty

To the Editor: After reading an editorial in a major newspaper titled "The Silent White House," which dealt with the crime that's very much in the news these days, I came to the conclusion that the death penalty does not deter the crime of murder, but it does prevent the perpetrator who committed the murder from murdering again.

But being a country of laws, we cannot live with the "eve for an eye, a tooth for a tooth" mentality. We must live to let the punishment fit the crime. Let the laws on the books, and the judges and juries make the decision. . It seems an accepted fact that with the murder of a police officer, the death penalty is mandatory in most, if not all the states. That is considered murder, one. Premeditated murder is also considered murder one and should be given the death penalty. Murder of passion, self-defense or insanity, is for the jury to decide. If it can't find a reasonable doubt, then that's the time the judge must step in and impose the proper sentence

Inasmuch as there is always a pro and con opinion by the general public on this subject, at times their feelings run away with the sympathy of the family of the victim, which is justified, but what about the family of the perpetrator, who are left to live in disgrace for the rest of their lives ? That leaves only one solution that I can humbly offer.

Sector Sector

The White House should not be the one to make this decision. Let us put the death penalty to a national vote by all the people, once and for all. Do we want the death penalty or not? That would be the way of democracy.

are those with long life expectan cles who have substantial assets. Such individuals would not qualify for Medicaid. If they required expensive long-term care, they would deplete their assets quickly leaving little for a spouse

On the other hand, if you have few assets and a modest income, the strain of paying for long-terr care insurance may not be worth th price. If you reguired long-term care, you would most likely qualify for Medicaid in a relatively short period of time,

In addition to your age, the beno fit amount and deductible period influence the cost of long-term care insurance. Policies will offer you a choice of daily maximum benefits ranging from $50 to $200. You can also select a lifetime maximum benefit which is usually the equivalent of three, five or 10 years a your daily maximum benefit amount. In selecting a benefit amount, consider the average cost of nursing home care in your area and how much of the nursing home bill you anticipate paying yourself. Be aware, too, that some policies offer inflation riders, giving you the option, usually on an annual basis, vices of home health aides, and of increasing your daily and lifeeven housekeeping. Some policies also pay for traditional medical care time maximums by a specific nd for custodial care in cases of The deductible period ---- that is, Monthly premiums for long-term

"straw proposal" was released by offi-cials at the U.S. Environmental Pro-

At first blush, this proposal to temporarily continue the use of an expanded "Mud Dump" and to build a containment island appears to be a positive stop forward. I hope that this proposal is a sincere effort to address the dredging logjam and that three months from now some final version of this proposal will receive the offi-cial endorsement of the BPA and Army Corps so it can be placed on the fast track for implementation.

There is, however, ample reason to be cautious about whether this prop-osal represents real progress. ## Applications accepted The Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Free Public Library is accepting applications for artists who wish to exhibit their works in 1995. Applicants are asked to submit a current resume. 10 slides representative of the work and a stamped self-addressed envelope. Applications will be reviewed by the Museum Commit-the in September. Applications should be mailed to the Donald B. Pelmar Maccum of the Springfield Free Public Library, 66 Mountain Ave., Springfield, 07081, no later than Aug. 29.

The Palmer Collection was started in 1939 when the library board of trustees appropriated $25 to Springfield resident Donald Palmer to purchase pictures of Springfield. The collection grew to include Springfield Lanzi appointed historical mementoes, antique guns, children's toys, tools, glass and china, etc. The museum strives to provide space for the exhibit of art and historical works and to provide a setting for cultural arts presentations and programs. Many artists and craftsmen have displayed their works in the mùscum in recent years. Bookings now exist through the end of 1994.

from five different players, including three in the fourth quarter, to roll past Union 35-14 in the inaugural News Tribune Middlesex-Union Snapple Bowl, hald last Thursday night before 4,500 at Cooke Memorial Field. Players from Middlesex, that were ineligible to participate in the Snapple Bowl helped the South defeat the North 21-16 in last month's 16th annual North-South contest at Trenton State College. For North Jersey it will have to be wait. 'till next year. All in all the first Snapple Bowl was a huge success. Both stands were full to capacity for the most part and the weather cooperated. Money from the gate was distributed to the Lake-ren's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside. Scoring touchdowns for Middlesex were Khamisi Jackson of Monroe (22-yard run untouchded in the second quarter), Andrew Onder of Edison (2-yard run in the second quarter), Matt Emory of Woodbridge (fumble recovery in the fourth quarter), Jeff Shanaphy of East Brunswick 5-yard run in the fourth quarter) and Roshahn-Witner of Woodbridge (3-yard run in the fourth quarter). Jackson was the sentimental choice for Game MVP. His grandfather Raymond died last Tuesday and the team > first carry of the game he raced around left end, leaving North defenders in his dust; on his way into the end zone, gaining 22 of his 40 rushing Shanaphy gained 69 yards and Whitner carried 13 times for 53. Plainfield's Melvin Brown gets credit for scoring the first-ever Snapple Bowl touchdown and Roselle Park quarterback John Schinestuh gets credit for throwing the first-ever Snapple Bowl touchdown pass. Schinestuhl completed a nifty sevenplay, 55-yard drive when he hit

Brown in the left corner of the end zone for a 14-yard touchdown pass. Schinestuhl directed Union to a score and a 7-0 lead on its second possession and his first at the helm after teammate Chris Peterson of Johnson Regional started the game at Peterson later threw a touchown pass of his own in the fourth quarter as his throw over the middle to tight end Isaac Nelson of Hillside deflected off of two Middlesex defenders and into the lanky receiver's arms. After concentrating on making the catch, Nelson turned around and raced some 40 yards untouched into the end zone to bring Union to with 20-14 with 11:09 remaining. His touchdown reception was good for 73 yards. However, Union's defense could not hold Middlesex as it mixed the run with the pass to drive 70 yards for another score. The drive started when Ish Dakiyal of North Brunswick raced 26 yards on a reverse and ended when in a 30-yard pass from quarterback Anthony Caffiero of Woodbridge two plays carlier. Union's following drive stalled and Middlesex was able to drive down field again to score another touchdown with less than a minute

Mystic Vision Players was formed in 1991 by a group of people in their late teens and early 20s who were active in area community theaters. They believed if they pooled their experiences and talents, they could stage their own

"We saw we had enough strength to do our own shows and we thought we would be successful," said Barbara Greco, an original founder of Mystic Vision Players and the choreographer for its upcoming production of the 1968 rock musical "Hair."

For the troupe's first show, it decided to do "Godspell." It took a year of rehearsals and preparations before the musical was ready for audiences. About 10 of the founders performed onstage.

"We were all strong in acting, singing and dancing," Greco said. " 'Godspell" was a perfect way to highlight each of us. We then started touring area churches."

Out of the 15 founders, 13 are still active. Of the two who are not, one is living in Florida and the other is in college in Pennsylvania. They are, however, on the group's board of directors, which is responsible for selecting the shows. While only a handfull of the Players act in the performances, the others have a strong presence behind the cenes, making it a unified effort. "When we work together, our ideas go hand in hand," Greco said. Director Jil Durbin agrees.

"When you are looking at a stage, you need to fill it up with visuals," she said. "People need to be aroused by what is going on. Because we have the same ideas going, it just Greco and Durbin, both 21 and from Linden, are key players in the show "Hair" and in Mystic Vision Players. Each has a strong arts background.

Greco will be a senior at Kean College in the fall, majoring in physical education and sports medicine. She enrolled in college when her career as a professional dancer - she performed with the New Jersey Ballet. Joffrey Ballet and the New Jersey State Opera - was side lined by a knee injury. atering, right! Until last Monday night, we nev r had been to Alexus Steakhouse Tavem in Mountainside, We knew where it was, heard it was great, but remained stubbornly loval to our usual steakhouse. There's something about having staked out a favorite steakhouse that's sort of special. After all, we had no beef with their beef! Why desert a winner? But since it's our job to check out the competition, we suspended our projudice and decided to try Alexus. Maybe it would turn out to be a burn steer and we would revert to our favorite after all. Alexus Steakhouse & Tavern, onveniently located off exit 140 of the Garden State Parkway on Route 22 West is a delight right from the get-go. From the red checkered ecloths to the patrons' photos on the walls from the 57-foot bar to the pickles and red hot cherry pepers on overy table, Alexus radiates, riendly. Its staff and management cam work together to make sure the customers are delighted and omfortable. "If the staff is uptight, the patrons feel it, and the friendly osphere is gone." And it is right.
