TWO SECTIONS — 50 CENTS

Community Update

A Christmas party

The Mountaineer/Springfield Chapter of UNICO National, the largest Italian-American service organization, is having its annual Christmas party on Dec. 13 at 7 p.m. at L'Affaire on Route 22, Mountaineer.

UNICO is looking for a few good men of Italian heritage, according to membership Chairman Don LaMorgese. If the idea of service to your community and to continue honoring your heritage appeals to you, attend UNICO's Christmas party. Women, wives, girlfriends and women friends of UNICO will be attending.

For dinner reservations, call LaMorgese at 376-5851.

Novel to be presented

Rosellen Brown's 1992 novel "Before and After" will be featured at the next book discussion at the Springfield Public Library. The meeting will take place in the library children's room Tuesday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

The novel tells the harrowing tale of a New Hampshire family whose teen-age son is accused of murdering a young girl. The other members of the family are changed forever as the trial and its aftermath proceed. The book was called a "powerful novel" with "philosophical provocation and literary merit" by The New York Times.

The discussion is free and open to the public. Anyone wishing to read the book may ask for it at the reference desk. "Middlemarch" by George Eliot will be discussed at the next two meetings of the group, Jan. 10 and Feb. 7.

Open house scheduled

A Holiday Open House will be hosted by the Springfield Historical Society on Sunday, Dec. 4, 3-5 p.m. The general public is invited to attend and see its headquarters at the Historic Cannon Ball House, 126 Morris Ave. Docents will be available for guided tours. Refreshments will be served in the newly painted colonial blue dining room.

The house (circa 1740) will be decorated in the fashion of the 1700s for a Christmas celebration. Electrified candles will illuminate fresh pine and evergreen boughs with colorful apples, oranges, and nuts as a means of holiday decorations. The style of a lighted Christmas tree trimmed with ornaments was of German origin, and came in vogue during the mid-1800s.

Additional information may be had by calling Janice Hoogsvan, (201) 379-2634.

Annual dinner set

The Women's League of Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, will hold its annual membership dinner Dec. 5 at 6:30 p.m. at the synagogue, Sandy Cummings, Patsie Weiss and Gayle Rosenbach are co-chairwomen.

Officers include Vicki Kaveberg, president; Doris Ann Markowitz, administration vice president; Paula Gerber and Roberta Gersh, vice presidents of membership; Karen Cohen and Densula Cohen, vice presidents of programming; and Pearl Kaplan, treasurer.

After dinner, Gersh, a membership vice president, will honor the new members.

Membership in Women's League is open to all female members of Temple Beth Ahm, it was announced.

Judy Falkin, dues secretary, will be accepting dues at the door.

Negotiations with employees reach fruition

By Jeffrey C. Turbett
Staff Writer

With partisan bickering of near epic proportion, negotiators for the Springfield Township Committee apparently have reached agreement with all five municipal employee unions on a new three-year contract calling for annual raises of 5 percent, 4.75 percent and 4.5 percent over each of the next three years.

According to Springfield Clerk Helen Keyworth, the raise is the only change in the contract.

But despite the deal, not everyone on the Township Committee is happy. Committeewoman Herb Sloe has indicated concerns with the contract he negotiated with Committeewoman Jeffrey Katz. Early indications suggest that both Sloe and Mayor Marcia Forman will vote against the deal.

Committeewoman Jeffrey Katz said he expects Sloe and Forman to vote against the deal he negotiated. "They are two peas in a pod," he said. "Herb didn't understand the process. He spent more time alienating those people than anything else." Committeewoman Jo Ann Holmes appears to be the deciding vote in favor of the deal. She said on Monday night that she expected the committee to approve the deal last night. Both Katz and Committeewoman Harry Pappas have gone on record in favor of the deal.

In an interview Monday night, Sloe called talk of a deal "gossip" and a "rumor," and said no deal had been reached.

But Keyworth confirmed possession of the contracts on Tuesday morning, and Sloe's peers were baffled at his comment.

When told of Sloe's comment, Holmes said: "I think Mr. Sloe is confused. I think we'll accept the contract Wednesday. I don't understand why he's saying that."

Springfield PBA President Mitch Fonten said he was glad to get a deal done.

"It's a reasonable deal," Fonten said, adding that he was neither ecstatic nor despondent over the agreement. "From the beginning it seemed the town wasn't negotiating in good faith. Once they got rid of their labor counsel, good things happened."

Fonten said there were practical reasons for not going to arbitration. "I'm saving my PBA from spending $5,000," Fonten also said he felt the PBA got the same deal they would have gotten in arbitration.

Marcia Forman disagreed with that. "I think we would have done better in arbitration," she said.

Pappas, however, is agnostic at the idea of arbitration. "We had nothing to lose by bargaining. I think the fact that we got one out of five unions to settle is a home run. To get all five is a grand slam. I think it's marvelous. I attribute it to the foresight of Jeff Katz and Jo Ann Holmes," Pappas said.

But Forman said Katz and Pappas were duping the public into thinking they are saving the town money.

"The town will not be lost without Katz and Pappas. What they wanted to do was show they were having the town scads of money. Harry and Jeff are out to pain me as incompetent," Forman said.

Pappas makes no secret of his disdain for Forman's policies, but he said he was most concerned with the town's well-being.

"We're a small community, we don't need to build a wall of China between us and our employees. We're giving moderate increases."

Pappas also said he felt arbitration would have been a costly mistake. "I was not anxious to spend $50,000 on top of $100,000."

Sloe said his concerns over the contract were largely financial, and he said the combination of the police's salaries and benefits are already high.

"Every few years, each man gets an increase simply for having survived that period of time. When you add in overtime, college reimbursements and other benefits, you can see that the base pay only represents a fraction of what each man makes. In addition, the days off are unusually high. Sick days have been particularly abused in recent years," Sloe said.

He added, "I do not want to begrudge the police anything they make, but I think we must be fair and look at the whole picture. Wages and benefits represent 60 percent of the budget, so when people ask us to cut taxes, I want them to see why we cannot cut taxes."

Katz said Sloe's position is naive. "Herb wanted a 2.7 percent increase or a cost of living increase. That is a fine position if you don't have interest arbitrators behind you. That is why it is important to bargain in good faith."

Springfield resident knows simple joys of jogging

By Michael Ketchum
Staff Writer

Jogging is a funny sport. Many believe the toll that endures there is the only escape from a bulging waistline, and plod through their route in self-imposed misery. Other disciples embrace the struggle and let their run release them from the day's drudgery.

Runners who concoct opponents from their inner weaknesses let a chore swallow their time, but count Springfield resident Art Biber split from his duty-bound kin. The past eight years have seen Biber log between 50 and 60 miles a week on Union County's streets. The Irvington Fire Department deputy chief runs three 10-mile "loops," or routes, to Dow University in Madison, the Blue Star Shopping Center in Winding and Keon College in Union.

Biber stretched his run to a 26-mile loop Nov. 13 when he hit New York City's streets to run the New York Marathon. His 4:01 time propelled him into his age group's top 33 percent, and among the top 40 percent of all 59,000 participants. "On balance, I think I had a very good day," Biber said.

He began running 20 years ago to supplement his weight-lifting regimen and cut his weight. Biber said his first jaunt lasted about 200 yards before he had to stop. That April day in 1974, Biber said, drove him to quit smoking and go on a diet.

"I did all three things at the same time," he said.

Running lends Biber opportunities outside the physical realm, he said. His running routine gives him a "chance to think about things that are important, enjoy the scenery and make plans."

"It gives me a good feeling," Biber said. "I'm very comfortable jogging alone."

His travels have earned him certain celebrity status. People have registered Biber Sightings as far as Chatham and Elizabeth, he said. Shopping excursions and other ventures give strangers the chance to approach him and ask, "Did you go for your run today?" King greetings and friendly car horns took an "invariably" part of his routine, he said.

"All my experiences have been positive with people," Biber said. "If you're in the area, you had to have seen me," he said.

Biber's years running have also netted him more than $500 cash and two jars stuffed with coins. All the cash booty goes to charity, he said.

"You'd be amazed how much people drop," he said. Other notable "finds" include a 27-year-old Ford van and a 1991 New York Marathon shirt.

"It's the most exciting marathon I've ever run," he said. Other notable, Biber said, don't gain the spectator attention the New York Marathon attracts.

"It's the people that make the marathon what it is in New York," he said.

New York's music, people and atmosphere make the marathon "an event," Biber said. Every city neighborhood he encounters, Biber said, offers pockets of people who always exhibit their support.

"There is nothing like it," Biber said. "Each part of the city you run in is different."

Biber has so ingrained running into his routine he feels "something is missing" when injury sidelines him. "It makes me angry; it throws me off. My wife gets mad at me because I get irritated," Biber said.

Injury poses a constant threat to freedom, so every physical edge counts. Biber, a 27-year-old veteran, thinks his stamina and discipline set a good example for other runners because being concerned about health "has a positive influence on the people I work with."

Biber said he would like to see the trend toward cardiovascular fitness manifest itself at the FD through a fitness program. "I think more people are going to be involved in cardiovascular fitness," he said, and providing such a program would give them an alternate venue to increase their fitness level.

Each season offers scenery and weather that prevent Biber's runs from becoming dull, he said. "All the weather you see, I've run in it," he said. "Each season has something different."

Biber said "running in the rain is beautiful," but running in hot, humid weather is like running with a soggy blanket draped to your shoulders. Biber said he usually wears weights or Nov. 13 probably added about 30 minutes to his marathon time.

But these little pitfalls don't discourage him, he said. "My days are planned around my running," Biber said, and his family has followed his cue. His daughter, Tracy, captained the Princeton Cross Country team and is New Jersey's 5K champion.

Running's imprint will always remain with him, Biber said, and keep him on the road.

"It changed my life," Biber said. "I plan to run forever, as long as I can."

Sharpshooter hunt planned for reservation

By Roy Lehmann
Managing Editor

Barring an unprecedented turn of events, there will be another hunt this year in the Watchung Reservation, but it probably will not be of the same variety that had animal activists so incensed last year.

Two reports — one outlining the majority recommendation of the Watchung Reservation Deer Management Subcommittee and the other summarizing the objectives of the committee's minority contingent — were released this week and will be presented to the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders tonight.

Some of the problems the majority cited as justification for action included residential property damage, a high rate of deer-related accidents, the possible connection between the deer population and incidents of Lyme disease, and the extensive damage to the reservation that is believed to be the result of deer browsing.

Union County Parks Bureau Chief Dan Benner has previously gone on record as saying he considered this last concern to be the most important.

"The majority recommends a controlled hunt this winter to reduce the deer population by 50 individual deer by means of sharp-shooting by selected agents," Benner said, reading from the majority's report abstract.

Benner confirmed that, in conjunction with the hunt, the county will conduct an attitude survey of communities near the reservation — namely Mountaineer, Springfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, Scotch Plains and New Providence — to determine residents' opinions as to the extent of deer-related problems.

This information will be relayed to the committee, who will continue to meet throughout the year, and will coincide with the formation of the Watchung Reservation Management Committee, who will examine ways to try to revitalize the reservation's ecosystem and reduce the dominance of non-native species.

The minority report, signed by six members of the 19-member committee, contends that a number of factors the committee faced has resulted in a biased, unscientific, undocumented, disorganized, premature and misleading conclusion. It urges the freeholders to delay action for at least one year while the committee can deliberate on a course of action without the time constraints it faced this year.

"We recommend that the board reconstitute the committee to include a strong facilitator and a membership that is more conducive to decision-making," said New Jersey Animal Rights Alliance representative Linda Nieboer. "We recommend that they appoint the new committee immediately and that future meetings be recorded with the minutes presented to committee members for approval."

Lehigh representative Sylvia Heron — signed both reports. Gural said she saw no contradiction in that action.

"The majority opinion was a factually report, mostly outlining the history of the issue, while the minority report expressed some concern over the process, which I sympathize with," Gural said. "The only contradictory part is the final recommendation. My first choice would have been to delay, but if an action had to be taken, I think sharp-shooting was the safest, most economical, and most humane way to solve the problem."

Employees accept offer for new three-year deal

(Continued from Page 1) Katz said once resolutions were passed on suspended labor counsel Mark Ruderman and bring the unions in for one on one negotiations, a deal was struck within minutes. "It took seven minutes of bargaining to reach a tentative agreement with the PBA," Katz said. Stone blasted Katz and Pappas for what he said is a deal not in the best interests of Springfield. "We are being locked into a contract that may not be the best for the township by two discredited politicians who have nothing to lose. They will not even be on the committee next year. By firing our labor counsel they have deprived us of the only leverage we had, which was the threat of arbitration."

Pappas said Stone's arguments are disingenuous at best. "The abuse of sick days is the responsibility of the chief. They are beyond our control, if Mr. Stone is so concerned with sick days, he should address the chief, not the committee," Pappas said.

Pappas also added another barb at Stone. "While it is true that Jeff Katz and I will not be on the committee next year, what truly frightens me is that Mr. Stone will be. He has been on the negotiating team for a while, and now he has doubts about what we are doing."

"I'd also like to point out to Mr. Stone that Mr. Katz and myself were supported in this matter by his colleagues, Jo Ann Holmes. Everything the three of us have fought for is the best interests of Springfield."

In light of all the posturing, Fenton said the deal worked out for the best.

"Jo Ann Holmes and Jeff Katz are the two people with the most seniority. They saved everybody a lot of time and a lot of hassle."

Knights award resident

Monsignor Francis X. Coyle Council 5560, Knights of Columbus, of Springfield is a Founders' Award winner, presented for outstanding promotion of the organization's fraternal insurance program during the 1993-94 fraternal year. The announcement was made by the Knights of Columbus international headquarters located in New Haven, Conn. James Donnelly, field agent, presented the engraved plaque award to the council at its business meeting on Nov. 9.

Supreme Knight Virgil C. Dechant, president of the international organization, in recognizing the local winner, said, "Please accept my sincere congratulations upon attaining this prestigious award. The dedication to the principles and aims of the order shown by your officers and members is exemplified by the high standard of excellence you have achieved. At the same time, I encourage you to carry forward this enthusiasm to meet the challenges that will face the Knights of Columbus in the years ahead. May this award be a reminder and an inspiration to the members of your council to continue to promote the ideal of Columbianism for the good of the church, your community and the order."

In accepting the award, Grand Knight Armand Galicchio, head of the local group, said, "Receiving this award is quite an honor. We're very pleased with this accomplishment. I thank all my brother knights for their help and hard work which made this award possible."

The Knights of Columbus is a Catholic, family, fraternal, service organization with 1.5 million dues-paying members worldwide. In 1993, they gave more than 43 million hours of volunteer service and donated $94 million to charitable and benevolent causes.

Most of the holiday performances are by school and church group amateurs, but professional musicians will perform at 2 p.m. on Sunday when the NJ Pope Orchestra comes to Woodbridge Center.

The NJ Pope will perform such holiday standards as "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" in a two-hour free concert.

The "NJ Pope Orchestra is composed of 40 to 75 musicians from the New Jersey and New York area with Michael Buglio as the full-time director. The NJ Pope annually performs a 40 concert season, traveling through

Dr. Leonard and Sandi Strulowitz of Springfield will be honored at the Suburban Essex-Union National Conference of Synagogue Youth Patron Dinner on Dec. 11 at a Congregation Ahavas Achim Brnai Jacob and David, West Orange.

The Erz Chaim New Jersey Region of NCSY also will pay tribute to Rabbi Elazar M. and Elizaveta Taliz of Elizabeth and Jay and Marcia Goldfisher of West Orange at the event, which will benefit NCSY's outreach projects throughout New Jersey.

Sandi and Len Strulowitz initiated the founding of Congregation Israel in Springfield and services were held in their home during its first year. Len was the founding president and is now president emeritus, and Sandi was the first Sisterhood president. Their daughter, Stacy, was the first NCSY president of Springfield and their daughter, Liz, was vice president several years later. Strulowitz served as chairman of the UJA-Federation Optometric Division, chairman of his congregation's Israel Bond section and treasurer of the Springfield Jewish Community Council. An optometrist, he was president of the State Board of Optometry, director of the New Jersey Optometric Association, and president of the Union County Optometric Association. He has been published in national magazines and professional journals and recently received the Scientific Achievement Award and the Distinguished Service Award.

Dr. Leonard and Sandi Strulowitz are honored by NCSY.

San Halpern and Rae Kushner are honorary chairpersons of the event. The dinner chairpersons are Dr. Aryeh and Myra Frank, Joseph and Erica Sauerhoff and Herb and Marilyn Smulowitz. For more information, call the NCSY office at (908) 351-3110.

NJAWC prepares to raise water rates statewide

The New Jersey Board of Public Utilities approved a 5.9 percent rate increase Nov. 21 for New Jersey-American Water Company. The increase, requested in March, will generate approximately $102 million in additional annual revenues. Company officials report that the additional revenues are necessary to comply with government regulations, to meet growing customer demands for water, and to maintain the company's water supply facilities.

"While we remain concerned about keeping water service as affordable as possible for our customers, the fact is that many expenses over which New Jersey-American Water Company has no control continue to rise," company President Daniel L. Kelleher said.

Kelleher explained the increase would help cover operating and maintenance costs such as purchased water, waste disposal, sewage treatment, insurance and taxes, and recovery of investment in new production and distribution facilities. The increase is expected to generate additional annual revenues to help cover the cost of more than $60 million in facility and distribution system construction.

According to Kelleher, in addition to necessary improvements designed to maintain a high level of service, the company's construction costs are being driven by the need to comply with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Act and other mandates such as underground storage tank removal. "More than $9 million of the construction expenses involved in this case are necessary to comply with such regulatory requirements," Kelleher said.

"New Jersey-American is committed to supplying the best service at the lowest possible cost," he added, "and we continue to work to find new ways to contain our costs. Examples include the company's centralized purchasing of supplies, active participation in energy curtailment and conservation programs, and low cost financing of company projects through tax-exempt bonds issued by the company through the state's Economic Development Authority. Through these and other measures, New Jersey-American seeks to minimize the frequency and amount of rate increases."

Under the new rates, residential customers using 21,000 gallons per quarter will realize an increase in their bill as listed below, according to location:

Resident to perform: Carmine Anfero, son of Armando and Salvia Anfero of Springfield, will perform with the Westminister Synagogue Choir in a holiday concert at Carnegie Hall Tuesday, December 13, 1994.

Joined by jazz pianist George Shearing, the choir is under the direction of Joseph Zimmerman. They will also be joined by the critically-acclaimed St. Luke's Orchestra.

The program will include Vaughan Williams' Fantasia on Christmas Carols, Bernstein's Chichester Psalms, Shearing's Shakespeare Songs, and jazz arrangements of Christmas songs.

Composed of students at Westminster Choir College of Rider College, the choir has performed and recorded with most of the great orchestras and conductors of the time, including Bernstein, Nuti, Mehta, Ormandy and Masur. The choir has had over 300 performances with the New York Philharmonic and was the first choir to appear on public television's "Life from Lincoln Center" in a performance of Verdi's Requiem in 1980.

Police offer holiday safety tips

The Springfield Police Department Crime Prevention Unit is issuing the following personal safety tips to ensure an enjoyable holiday season through the month of December.

Personal Safety Tips

- When driving keep all doors locked.
- When stopped at a traffic light or stop sign, make sure there is at least one car length distance between your car and the car in front of you.
- Be aware of your surroundings and what's going on around you. The greatest weapon a criminal has is the element of surprise. Take away the element of surprise and you gain the advantage.
- Always try to go shopping, especially in the malls, with a friend, spouse, etc.
- Park as close to the building as possible.
- If you park your car during daylight and don't expect to be finished shopping until after dark, park under or near a light.
- Never carry more than one shopping bag. Make several trips to your car if you have to and lock your packages in the trunk. Always have at least one free hand.
- If an assailant grabs your purse or packages, do not resist.
- When walking back to your car walk far enough away from the parked cars so that you can see into the spaces between the cars. Always stop and check between your car and the cars parked next to yours.
- Carry a security whistle and keep it ready when walking to your car, unlocking your car, etc.
- When unlocking your car door, always keep one hand free. Check in all directions before you start to unlock your door.
- Learn the proper way to carry your purse.
- Never allow yourself to be boxed in. Make sure you have an avenue of escape.
- Never, never, never get into a car with an assailant.

Accept it

As any therapist can tell you, there is more than one way to handle any problem. One can address it, attack it, delay it, transfer it, compound it with another problem, accept it, or, for all of that, ignore it.

For the Springfield Township Committee, this last option seems to be gaining in popularity. That's not to say the committee does not bring problems to public knowledge; it certainly does. In fact, the committee will spend literally months talking about any topic — going over options, debating ways it could be handled. But what it all too often avoids doing is taking the best available option in handling a problem — to deal with it.

This is exactly why the committee's moves last week to expedite the dragged-out labor negotiations process were such a breath of fresh air. The committee moved first to sever its dealings with the expensive labor counsel — who had not really served them effectively anyway — and then to bring in the union heads to negotiate one last time on a one to one basis.

It worked. At press time, all five unions had accepted the negotiated contracts and the only step that was necessary was to await the committee's approval during a special meeting last night.

Certainly, it is possible that the township might have been able to shave a percentage or two off the deal if it had plugged away and gone to arbitration. But what would also mean is Springfield would have to continue payment of labor counsel, and there is absolutely no guarantee that the township's offer would be accepted by the judge. In binding arbitration, there is no middle ground. Either the union's offer is accepted or the township's, which leaves open the possibility — a very real possibility, considering some of the numbers that have been thrown about — that all this time and money would have been spent for naught.

In the end, fairness and equity have taken rule over litigiousness and bickering. If the committee votes not to accept the negotiated contracts, it will send the township back to square one in a process that has been dragged out far too long as it is.

These contracts are fair. Next year, there will be a 5 percent increase of base salary, the year after will be a 3/4 percent, followed by a 1/2 percent during the final year of the contract. The employees would therefore be locked into a declining scale, which is the best the township could have hoped for.

Springfield should take the deal. It is a bargain. This is finally finished. Why not sit back and just enjoy it?

History of negotiations has been costly

The lead story and the editorial in last week's Springfield Leader spoke volumes. But there are two issues that must be dealt with to make the story complete.

First, Marcia Forman is absolutely wrong in saying that "face-to-face negotiations have been the rule for the past 10 or 15 years." The plain fact is that for the 21 years her party dominated the Township Committee, it never could hack sitting face-to-face across the table from our own town employees. The Democrats had a string of so-called "labor lawyers" representing the town. And in every case, the attorney selected was a political favorite son and specialist in private sector labor law — not in public sector labor law. That difference is critical.

Besides choosing the wrong negotiators, the Democrats loved to negotiate contracts limited to one year duration. Why? Because it let them re-bid their budget every year at a price tag of about $25,000. But the crucial deception of all was the Democrats' love for arbitration. Not only did their budget get to the public, but they would force an arbitrator to award a percentage increase on an offer of 2 percent and then squeal with glee when an arbitrator awarded 6 percent — regardless of the impact on taxes. They'd just shrug their shoulders to the taxpayers and blame it all on the arbitrator, saying, "Don't blame us. The state ordered it." What a cop-out!

letters to the editor

Public was uninformed

To the Editor:
I must admit to a certain bewilderment that a Republican majority on the 1991 Township Committee would find sufficient compassion for the wishes of their Democratic colleagues to vote in favor of light rail after having "argued strongly" that it was wrong for Springfield. This displays a sensitivity to bipartisanship which must have exhausted itself in that single spasm, for I am not aware of any such magnanimous Republican gesture since then.

Whoever may have undertaken Jeff Katz's generosity in voting for a resolution he found so distasteful — and had the power to defeat — the action makes it difficult to accept him as the steadfast opponent of bringing light rail through our town.

It was not I who was uninformed. It was the public.

Herbert Sloie

Put prayer where it belongs

To the Editor:
Let us put prayer where prayer belongs, in its three rightful places — in houses of worship of our faith, in the home, and mostly, in the heart. I can only speak for America, which has the world's best free education system, starting at kindergarten through high school graduation, doing a secular job of education by preparing the graduate to become a learned person and a good citizen, all paid for by our tax dollars. I don't know what good a prayer in school would do to help make things better.

If one chooses to send a child to a religious school where he can receive a secular and a religious education, there are schools of Judeo-Christian faiths that serve that purpose, and do a good job. But they are not being paid by our tax dollars. That cost must be paid by the family.

That makes church and state separate. All I can visualize is that the leaders of all faiths who will want to get their rights of equal time on religion will make the class room the Tower of Babel. This business of the religious rights is

Consider the traffic

I'm opposed to the housing proposal because we have an inadequate amount of traffic in this town already and we also have a problem with overcrowding of our schools.

Val Balleoano
Springfield

It's frustrating

I'm calling about the low to moderate income housing in Springfield. I'm definitely against it. This town, in the years that I have lived here, has changed a great deal, and just as it is for the better, so it that they want all the open space in Springfield built up? We can't have any green area?

I'm not against people, believing themselves, but the someone else wrote in the article in the newspaper, all we work very hard to live in this town and nobody gave us a break. I'm not saying that they shouldn't have housing, but there's plenty of land on Route 22 and there's plenty of land elsewhere. This town is congested.

Have you ever tried to get up Mountain Avenue, S. Springfield Avenue in the morning to try to go to work? It's virtually impossible. Just to get to a public school in the morning takes 10 minutes just sitting in traffic. If you're going to add all this housing to Springfield and bring more people in, it's just adding more cars.

It's gotten to the point that it's frustrating just to get through this town in the morning.

R.D.
Springfield

Let me clarify

My comment was printed in the Nov. 23 issue of the Springfield Leader. I would like an opportunity to correct what was said because I did not mean to exclude all township office people from being deserving of raises. It was emphasizing police and fire should definitely get raises; but I was not sure about the rest of the people. However, it wouldn't be right to say all office people shouldn't get raises because that would exclude a lot of other people that I wanted to include.

Buy your way out

My suggestion is that with the opposition that appears to be building against the affordable housing, why doesn't the town of Springfield buy its way out of it by paying towns like Elizabeth or Newark to take some of the housing. The town of Springfield has a lot of tax dollars to live in a present-ious area like this, and what they're trying to do is make a Socialist kind of thing where everybody can live together.

People pay lots of money to live in nice areas. Make more money and you can live in a prestigious area. It's not fair for us who live in a nice area and have to put up with this.

For services rendered

I'm sending off about whether or not I think the township employees deserve a raise.

Yes I do, for the essential services that are provided by the Road Department, Police Department and Fire Department. They deserve a raise by the township. And no binding arbitration or attorney fees the township is incurring. It should be brought to our taxpayers.

John Foster

Yes, to raises

I think we should give the municipal employees a raise.

Negotiations were a home run for Springfield

In reading last week's Springfield Leader, I was dismayed that Commissioner Sloie had the nerve to accuse me of "having no idea" of what the issues were in our own labor negotiations.

The issues that count are that, for the first time that most can remember, five out of five of our labor unions went to arbitration and labor-related legal bills were incurred amounting to almost $10,000, with another $50,000 in costs to go through arbitration. Mr. Sloie signs those bills at every meeting and not once questioned them. I recall that, earlier in the year, the first mention of hiring a labor attorney was brought up by Mrs. Forman. It was quickly shot down and both Herb and Marcia were not happy campers. It was also clear that our township attorney, Bruce Bergen, was pushing for someone because, out of nowhere, he presented us with resumes of his choices.

Perhaps if Mr. Sloie had his way in offering or giving the employees a simple cost of living increase or 2.8 percent increase, everyone would be dancing in the streets. (Don't think so, Mr. Sloie. You can't treat your employees like mules and expect them to have the best interests of the town and its employees as their goal. The unions have no desire to see their employer in dire financial straits. That could mean layoffs. The town has no desire to put the screws to its employees or to give away the farm. That's counterproductive. And we surely don't need high-priced third parties to shuttle back and forth, fussing along what the other said.

So, when Jeff Katz was named as the Township Committee member who is up to the task, they should be replaced with people who are.

Be Our Guest

Springfield at their fingertips.

When I made my motion to suspend our labor counsel, Herb went through the roof. However, he could not give any reasons why we should continue his services. He and Mrs. Forman wanted more time to think about it and, in the meantime, the clock was racing ahead with a hearing set for Dec. 6. They weren't interested in stopping the bleeding nor did they care about the high legal costs. They voted no, even knowing that we had already spent $10,000 and were looking at another $50,000 plus additional legal costs. All Forman and Sloie ever say when they get confused is "I need more time" or "I am very skeptical."

When I made my second motion to bring back the leaders of the five labor unions to negotiate, both Forman and Sloie went through the roof. While Herb was in orbit, I asked him what we had to lose and he couldn't answer the question. While he did a 360-degree turn on his position and voted in favor of my motion, Mrs. Forman voted no and questioned Herb if he knew what he was doing.

All this took place Monday evening, Nov. 21. By 10 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 22, two of the five union leaders met with the Township Committee and accepted a settlement on behalf of their memberships. During the meeting of the Township Committee, I overheard Mr. Sloie tell Mrs. Forman that it "was a done deal." After the statement was made, I asked Marcia what Herb said and she smiled and said, "It's a done deal." It seems to me that Mr. Sloie was crowing like a satisfied rooster. It was as though he was taking credit for something into which he had very little input.

I am hopeful that by the time this letter is published, all five unions will have returned and accepted our offer, putting an end to the extensive legal bills and the need to spend $50,000 for arbitration or additional legal fees.

If Mr. Sloie spent half as much time trying to understand municipal government and speaking to our employees on a "one to one" basis as he spent on having the township pay for his personal business cards, we might not have been put in this position in the first place.

Several meetings ago, the name of Bernard Schwartz of 52 Warwick Circle was raised by Mrs. Forman to serve on one of our boards in town. Herb objected, saying, "Who is this person? I've never heard of him."

Eisenberg named year's top woman

By Pia Wilson
Staff Writer

Estelle Eisenberg says the members of the Hillside chapter of Hadassah feel like an extended family after 45 years of dedication in the Jewish service organization.

Eisenberg, a Springfield resident of 22 years, has been chosen by the Hillside chapter as the recipient of the Woman of the Year Award for 1994. The presentation will be made at the Myrtle West Luncheon on Dec. 11 at the Hanover Marriott Hotel, Whippany, by the Northern New Jersey Region of Hadassah, which she served as corresponding secretary, vice president, donor co-chairperson, area chairperson and as a member of the speaker's bureau. Eisenberg, a former resident of Hillside, became involved with the Hillside chapter through her sister, who was already a member. "I liked the concepts, and I joined. I've been a member ever since," Eisenberg said, adding that many of her "roots and ties" are still in Hillside.

As a past president of the chapter and a member of various committees, Eisenberg has worked extensively with the group which primarily maintains hospitals in Israel but has also aided children during wartime in that nation and maintained technological colleges there.

In the United States, Hadassah has educational groups and American Zionist groups. According to Eisenberg, Hadassah has an ongoing program, "so people are aware of what we do."

"Hadassah is worldwide known," said Eisenberg, adding that the organization boasts a 185,000 membership throughout the United States and has raised $85 million during the past year.

Eisenberg went on to say that Hadassah has one of the lowest overhead costs of any similar organization.

"Most of what we raise goes for our work," Eisenberg said. Eisenberg and her husband, Merino, a Hadassah associate, traveled to Israel in 1970, visiting some of the institutions the organization supports. She said the trip "rededicated myself and my husband."

"Merino has always been very helpful to me in all the years I've been active," Eisenberg said, adding that she and her husband have two children, Marilyn and Jerry.

Early retirees may not qualify for Medicare

John O'Brien thought he'd finally have some relaxation and security in his golden years. He retired after spending 30 years of his life working for a major computer manufacturing company. His employer lured him into early retirement with a promise of generous benefits, including health insurance and a pension. It sounded like a good deal: a guaranteed steady income and comprehensive medical coverage for him and his wife.

Suddenly, everything changed for John O'Brien. His former employer announced that it was no longer honoring its full commitment to its retirees. It would no longer pay retiree health care costs for O'Brien's company. He would have to pay for his own health care costs for O'Brien's company. He would have to pay for his own health care costs for O'Brien's company.

O'Brien's former employer is not the only corporation to have backed out on such promises to its retirees. Major automobile companies, farm equipment manufacturers, food producers and mining companies have also cut back or dropped health benefits for retirees. With health insurance premiums skyrocketing out of control, the truth is that no retiree can have the peace of mind that health benefits won't be slashed or dropped altogether.

Those lured into early retirement have it especially tough. Most people wouldn't retire at an early age without the guarantee of comprehensive health coverage for life. But O'Brien and hundreds of thousands like him now face years without health protection. Early retirees are not old enough to qualify for Medicare. So when your retiree benefits are cut out from under you, you face a grim choice.

What happened to John O'Brien can happen to almost any retiree. With health insurance premiums so high, corporations are looking for ways to cut their costs. Two easy ways are to lay off older workers because they're more expensive to insure — and to slash retiree health benefits.

With health costs so high, workers have good reason to worry about their future health security. In the case of O'Brien's employer, 24,000 retirees were abandoned by the company. They now must live each day knowing that they may be one illness away from complete financial devastation.

You can keep your health insurance by picking up the hefty premium just at a time when your income is reduced. Or, you can try to go without insurance until Medicare kicks in, even though your risk of costly illness grows every month. Because Congress failed to pass health reform, retiree health costs for O'Brien's company likely will be about $9,000 a year per retiree by 1996. That's $750 a month — more than the entire average monthly pension paid by O'Brien's former employer.

County council launches senior program

The Union County Division on Aging, Department of Human Services, and the Senior Citizens Council of Union County, have launched separate employment programs for seniors, with the aim of matching prospective employers with appropriate employees, announced Friedhelm Elmer, Executive Director of the Senior Citizens Council.

"The Older Worker Program is aimed at bringing workers and jobs together," Elmer said. "It was started also because statistics covering more than 14 million senior workers indicate that most employers using older workers find them to be more reliable and having better than average work attitudes."

On-the-job and/or classroom training is also available through the Job Training Partnership Act. "This program enthusiastically moves to match capable senior workers with available job opportunities, giving employees quality workers and helping seniors supplement fixed incomes while remaining in touch with society," Elmer said. "Now there are two programs for seniors to contact for employment opportunities."

For the Union County Division on Aging Older Worker Program, call Donna Farrell, coordinator, at (908) 527-4875 or 527-4872. For the Senior Citizens Council Program, call Richard Felber or Richard Stone at (908) 964-7555.

ing job skills will be provided if necessary. These in the program will be monitored on a regular basis to determine their job performance.

Union County Manager Ann Baran said contacts with seniors have shown that many of them have been unable to obtain positions, even though openings have been identified.

Area athletes earn honors in Mt. Valley Conference

WINNING SEASON — Mountside's Deerfield School field hockey team finished with a winning record of 6-2-1 this year, its second year of existence. Gina DeCastro led the team in goals with 11, including four in one game. Robyn Zubo had four goals and goalscoper Nicole Kress had four shutouts. Front row, from left, are Stephanie Scasso, Christina Grammenos, Shannon Murphy, Shannon Moore, Kim Geraghty, Alison DeVito, Lauren Brasley and Jaclyn Orlando. Top row, from left, are manager Jimmy DeCastro, coach Patricia DeCastro, Gina DeCastro, Danielle Derry, Cindy Fisher, Nicole Kress, Robyn Zubo, Keri Ciasulli, Marisa Rivieccio, Katie Britt and Anne Trimmer. Dayton improved this year by recording a 4-4-1 mark

Although the season ended on a down note for the Dayton Regional High School football team — the Bulldogs lost to visiting Immaculate 41-6 on Thanksgiving Day — Dayton improved in leaps and bounds this year.

Not only did the Bulldogs finish with a non-losing record of 4-4-1, but Dayton managed to outscore the opposition for a first time in three years. The Bulldogs outscored their nine opponents by a 171-133 margin and recorded three shutouts.

Dayton went 1-18 the past two years and both seasons were outscored by very large margins. The Bulldogs were competitive in seven of their nine games this year and posted their biggest win of the season over a team that finished over 500. Dayton blanked Roselle Park 41-0 and the Panthers went on to finish 5-4.

Immaculate, the Mountain Valley Conference-Mountain Division champions, snapped Dayton's brief two-game winning streak behind the play of Tony Gault and Michael Bates. Gault caught a touchdown pass and scored on a 34-yard run and Bates ran for a touchdown and returned an interception for another.

Immaculate (9-1) will play at Delaware (9-1) in the State's (I) NISIAA Parochial Group 3 championship game in Morristown.

Dayton senior running back Chris Reno of Kenilworth scored the Bulldogs' only touchdown in the fourth quarter. Reno broke free for a 55-yard touchdown run.

After losing a 28-7 decision in the season-opener to Hillsdale, Dayton bounced back by posting its first shutout, a 27-0 win at home vs. Newark Central.

Johnson beat Dayton by a touchdown, 20-13, in their annual game in Springfield and then Dayton was tied by Governor Livingston 9-9 in Berkeley Heights.

After evening Roselle Park 41-0 at home, Roselle blanked the Bulldogs 22-0 in Roselle. Dayton rebounded by winning its next two. Dayton blanked Bound Brook 42-0 and defeated Millersville 26-13.

Johnson crushes Central to conclude campaign 7-3

Although the Johnson Regional High School football team entered its Thanksgiving Day game against winless Newark Central with a 6-3 record, the Crusaders had still given up more points than they had scored.

Not only did Johnson ace to winning the football game but the Crusaders made sure they surpassed the six-point differential they had in points-for compared to points-against.

Johnson crushed Central 36-6 in Clark to record its first seven-victory season in three years. The Crusaders finished 7-3, while Central completed a dismal 0-9 campaign.

Tailback Rashawn Stovall had quite a final game for Johnson as the senior rushed 16 times for 160 yards and four touchdowns. He scored on runs of four, one, 63 and eight yards as Johnson posted 270 on the ground and 316 total.

Frank Ventresca scored Johnson's other touchdowns on a seven-yard run. The sectional championship game will take place at the highest-seeded team remaining on Saturday, Dec. 10 at 1 p.m.

Springfield's Brunnacker knows skiing

Martha Brunnacker of Springfield knows skiing. Brunnacker, competing in the Badweiser Challenge NASTAR (National Standard Race) in the 1993-94 season, placed first among all of New Jersey's age 50-59 women as part of the Badweiser All-Stars rankings program.

The Badweiser All-Stars honors the top men and women NASTAR racers in all 50 states. Skiers are ranked by state in one of six age groups, based on their single best race of the 1993-94 season.

Springfield's Cooperman triumphs
Cory Cooperman, 11, of Springfield won two wrestling tournaments during back-to-back Sundays.

On Nov. 20 at the Scott Van Dusen Memorial Tournament, Cooperman won the Junior Division 70-pound weight class by winning matches by 4-1, 16-2 and 5-3 scores.

Last Sunday at the Voorhees Tournament, Cooperman by state in one of six age groups, based on their single best race of the 1993-94 season.

WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1994 SECTION B

From The Editor's Notebook

By Tom Canavan Editor in Chief

"Frankie called." These two words arguably were the most frequently stated words in our newsroom during the last several years. But just like when you hear the silence, it took an obituary to remind us that we hadn't uttered those two words — "Frankie called" — in quite some time.

Frankie was Frank Manuara, a resident of the college's campus in Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield. Representatives from the more than 50 student organizations started the celebration by collecting and decorating the Commons on the Cranford campus on Monday. The Hot House Jazz Quartet performed on Tuesday in the Commons. Richard Ramirez, a New York City musician, performed on Wednesday in the Plainfield campus cafeteria. He has been highlighted on NBC's "Showtime at the Apollo," VH-1's "Standup Spotlight," and the television program, "Law and Order."

Members of the Student Nurses Society will commemorate World AIDS Awareness Day today by managing tables around the perimeter of the Commons on the Cranford campus, during daytime and evening hours. Representatives of the Hyacinth Foundation and the state Department of Health will disseminate information and answer questions to promote awareness and caution of the disease.

Flory Cruz, an HIV counselor with the Plainfield chapter of Planned Parenthood, will speak on HIV awareness, at 12:30 p.m. today in the Plainfield campus cafeteria. Refreshments will be served.

A Kwanzaa festival, an African-American holiday tradition marking the fruits of the harvest, will be celebrated from 5 to 9 p.m. on Friday, in the Commons. It will be conducted by the Union African Students.

The guest speaker, Lakeman Koj, a noted specialist on Kwanzaa, will give a history of the celebration, while Valerie Mitchell of Plainfield will deliver a recitation of her original poem. Dozens of vendors will display and sell Afrocentric items, including dolls, artifacts, baskets, personalized calendars, clothing, fabric, Kente hats, Kente fabric, print pillows, jewelry, incense and baby oils, teddy bears, books and pottery.

Entertainment at the Kwanzaa festival will include African singers and dancers. A newly formed choir consisting of Union of African Students members will make a debut presentation. A table display of events highlighting African-American contributions to society will be available for visitors to society will be available for Another Kwanzaa festival with similar types of activities will be presented by members of the college's Performing Arts Club from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday at the college's Plainfield campus cafeteria. The event will be highlighted by poetry readings, singing and a presentation of the principles of Kwanzaa complete with a table layout of symbolic items.

The Elizabethtown campus will sponsor a day trip to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, which will offer a special holiday display of artifacts, with a bus leaving at 8:45 a.m. on Saturday and returning about 5 p.m. Family members of all ages are welcome.

Hope Hospice sees growing need in county

Need for hospice care is growing in Union County, according to Peggy Lugo, president of the Center for Hope Hospice.

"Yesterday is gone, and tomorrow may never be mine," words Michelle Lugo and her patients repeat often at the college's campus in Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield. The Center for Hope Hospice serves like Lugo and Rosa Barbas and the entire community of caregivers at The Center for Hope treat patients who are in the final stages of a terminal illness.

"All of the suffering that goes along with terminal illness is a very kind of pain for our patients and their families. People need support — physical, emotional and spiritual support — to cope with a pain that they've never felt before. The patient's needs, the family's needs, whoever they are, they must be met for acceptance and healing to take place," said Lugo.

It is this level of commitment and compassion that has enabled The Center for Hope, which is based in Linden, to bring its unique approach of caring for the terminally ill to thousands of families in Union County. "We are dedicated to providing patients with the natural, humane and holistic kind of care that is known as hospice. We completely support the individual's right to live out the remainder of his or her life with dignity and in comfort," said Peggy Lugo, who founded The Center with the Rev. Charles Hudson in the late 1970s.

The center is dedicated to providing services to everyone regardless of race, creed, color or status in life. To fulfill its commitment, The Center is making a special effort to reach the county's growing Hispanic community. Coloney emphasized, "We want to care for terminally ill people regardless of their language."

Coupe Gonzalez, a secretary at The Center, agreed. "The language barrier must be overcome so that we can educate people about hospice in a way that they understand and are comfortable with." She explained that in many European cultures, the family struggles to keep and care for the patient at home, and that the European interpretation of "hospice" is very negative, meaning "to put away, in an asylum." By communicating in Spanish, The Center hopes that families will come to understand that hospice provides what they, as family, want for the patient — natural, dignified care in the comfort of their home. Anyone who lives in Union County who desires to remain at home during their illness is eligible for hospice care. Also necessary is the availability of a primary care person, plus a referral from a patient, patient's family, physician, nurse or social worker.

Hospice care encompasses many different issues. Treatment of the physical, emotional, financial, spiritual and social needs of the patient and family is shared by each member of the hospice team. While there is no aggressive treatment of the illness, medical care, directed by the patient's physician, ensures the patient's comfort at all times. This care is enhanced by a hand-selected support team, including a nurse, social worker, pastoral counselor, home health aide, spiritual volunteers, grief support counselors and hospice volunteers.

The personal nature of hospice care enables nurses, aides and volunteers to give patients all the time they need. Time may be spent writing letters, running errands, answering the phone or just talking. "It is a one-to-one care experience that you won't find anywhere else," said Barbas. "Hospice

UCUA to extend hand to county's businesses

The Board of Commissioners of the Union County Utilities Authority has adopted a resolution supporting by Chairman Blanche Baniasiak establishing a business liaison committee.

The committee was created to improve communication between the UCUA and Union County's business community. The members will act as liaisons with their individual organizations, keeping them informed of the UCUA's activities. It will meet every other month with the UCUA's office.

They are: Baniasiak, Chairman; Eric T. Ross, president of the Union County Economic Development Corporation; Joseph Corchillo, manager of Environs; and executive director. The chairman will appoint its 14 members. Nine already have been designated.

Schools net grant for worklink

The Union County Vocational-Technical Schools have received a $100,000 grant from the New Jersey State Department of Education, Office of School-to-Work Initiatives.

The announcement was made by Thomas J. Bistocchi, UCVT's superintendent, who said the funding will be used to implement a computer-based student record system that makes school performance count in the workplace.

Designated as Worklink, the system is a regional database of student records that can be accessed by employers during the hiring process.

Bistocchi explained, The Worklink data includes teacher ratings of students' work habits, workplace skill assessments, previous work experience, and job-related education and training.

According to Bistocchi, using a touch-tone telephone to access a computer database, participating Union County businesses can select job candidates by choosing student work-related skills or prior work experience. The computer will respond by generating a list of potential candidates and fax the requested data along with the student transcripts to the inquiring business. Meteor showers

Each year in mid-December, the earth passes through an area full of meteoroids. These tiny rocks and dust are remnants of a comet. As these objects burn in the atmosphere, they are commonly referred to as "shooting stars" and can be seen in the night skies.

On the evenings and early mornings of Dec. 12, 13 and 14, the Geminiids will offer an excellent opportunity to view such a meteor shower. It is not unusual to see between 40 and 60 meteors an hour. The name "Gemini-

Weekend to target drug abuse

A "Superstar Substance Abuse Awareness Weekend" will be held Jan. 6-8 to benefit the Boys & Girls Clubs of Union County "Kure-A-Kid" Campaign.

Proceeds from the event, to be held in conjunction with the Union County Chamber of Commerce, will go to the Joey Marella Scholarship Fund. The program will begin at Tralidase's planetarium with an orientation to the current night sky and tips on where to look for the meteors. One outside, participants can locate the real thing and keep warm around a campfire. Meteor watchers should bring a blanket or lawn chair.

Registration is required and a fee of $3 per person will be charged. For registration or other information, call Tralidase at (908) 789-3670. Tralidase is a facility of Union County Division of Parks and Recreation.

On the evenings and early mornings of Dec. 12, 13 and 14, the Geminiids will offer an excellent opportunity to view such a meteor shower. It is not unusual to see between 40 and 60 meteors an hour. The name "Geminiid" comes from the fact that the meteors seem to radiate from the constellation Gemini. Most Geminiids are very bright and can be easily seen. Some are even fireballs.

Tralidase Nature and Science Center will have a Geminiid Meteor Watch on Dec. 13 from 9 to 11:30 p.m. The program will begin at Tralidase's planetarium with an orientation to the current night sky and tips on where to look for the meteors. One outside, participants can locate the real thing and keep warm around a campfire. Meteor watchers should bring a blanket or lawn chair.

Center for Hope sees growing need

(Continued from Page B1) strong advocate of the need to bring hospice to Hispanic residents. "Most people are unaware of the multitude of services available through hospice, particularly the complexity and professionalism of the care given. It is truly an interdisciplinary approach."

The Center for Hope also operates The House, a live-in hospice residence in Elizabeth, the first of its kind in the state. Here, patients receive the same kind of all-encompassing hospice care that they would at home, and are encouraged to live as independently as possible. Gonzalez explained that there is a tremendous need to provide additional live-in facilities for patients who are unable to remain at home. Plans are under way to open a comprehensive in-patient residence and new headquarters in Cranford.

For additional information about hospice care or The Center's bereavement programs, call The Center for Hope at (908) 486-0700.

In addition to its hospice program, The Center for Hope also provides bereavement programs. With the support of specially trained counselors and volunteers, family survivors of families who have embraced their hospice experience has been a powerful tool in educating others about our services. With "Una Mano De Apoyo," Colony said the words are reviewed and answered within 30 days.

Letters should be sent to the Boys & Girls Clubs of Union County, Inc., "Kure-A-Kid" Campaign, Corporate Office, 2143 Morris Ave., Suite 108, Union, 07083.

Schools 'in step' with learning progress

More than 200 persons were in attendance when the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools held a dinner meeting for members of the advisory committees to its learning programs. The event took place Nov. 17 at the Schools and was labeled "In Step With Learning Progress."

A welcoming message was given by Thomas J. Bistocchi, UCVT's superintendent, who also introduced the notables in hall. Special announcements were made by Carol A. Hopper, principal.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Max Feldman's theatrical interest stemmed from youthful attendance

By Ben Smith
Lifestyle Editor

Whether it was the time when Max Feldman was a little boy and accompanied his parents to the Yiddish theater on Second Avenue, or the Metropolitan Theater in Newark for its Jewish musical programs, that his interest in theater was born and cultivated, he can't really say. But what the founder and chairman of the Israeli Festival of Union can say is that he became interested in entertainment "as a little boy" and that interest has grown to fruition.

Max Feldman

"The Israeli Festival," explained the 70-year-old Feldman the other afternoon, "is finishing its 10th year and will be presented in its Hanukkah concert on Saturday evening, Dec. 10 in the Union High School auditorium. This is an independent nonprofit organization which attempts to make the Jewish community a few times each year by providing cultural and social programs. In the winter, we have the Hanukkah concert and in the spring, Jewish Music Under the Stars."

"I all started when the personable, very active in civic events Feldman was attending a township meeting in Union and former Mayor Anthony Russo "was head of the Union Recreation Department. He was putting out the Music Under the Stars program with different ethnic backgrounds. I asked him for Jewish representation in Union. OK, Mr. Feldman," he said, "Next year, you have it." Of course, now he calls me Max," Feldman laughed.

"And sure enough," he continued, "we had it the following year. When we started out 10 years ago I called upon Rabbi Meyer Korbman of Temple Israel of Union for his help on how to get started. He suggested we have it on Israel's anniversary. That would be a good way to start, he told me. And we did. We did not have a sense at that time, and what would be then we bring them to our group to make the final decisions.

"Also," Feldman said, "we listen to two Jewish programs on the air. One program is from Uptala 91.1 every day in the morning, and also the station at Seton Hall, 85.9 Charlie Berkman Program on Sunday evening. The input from performers that we choose can come from recommendations. And Amy has had a good recommendation of artists, which is very helpful. We work together days and sometimes into the nights trying to figure out what to do to promote the program, how to make attractive flyers and selecting the best cultural performers."

Feldman beamed. "Take for example our program on Dec. 10. We have the best comedian around in Joey Russell. He was with Paul Zimm five years ago here at the festival, and we had the largest crowd we ever had with 11,000 people practically filling the high school auditorium. His comedy and humor and talents are never ending, and he has spread his humor nationwide as well as abroad for several decades."

The second entertainer on the program is Hal Jeffin, "who is no stranger to the stage. He has performed nationwide as an entertainer in the style of Tom Jones, Engelbert Humperdinck and Robert Goulet rolled into one dynamic person. Hal was recommended to us by somebody who came to our show and had seen him in a performance in Florida. And on their recommendation, we took him."

Feldman explained that Jeffin "presents Broadway show-stoppers, nostalgic numbers, international favorites popular chart hits as well as an exciting program of songs from Israel, favorites of the Yiddish theater and classics from the cantorial tradition. He also is a professional cantor and graduated from the Cantors Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He often appeared on television soap operas."

Harry Devlin of Mountainside relaxes in his study at home. He will display his varied works at the Westfield Art Gallery, 152 East Broad St., from Dec. 4 to Jan. 6, 1995.

Devlin shows work

The Westfield Art Gallery, in association with the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts, has announced that Harry Devlin, illustrator, cartoonist, painter and architectural historian from Mountainside, will exhibit his work at the gallery from Dec. 4 through Jan. 6, 1995.

An opening reception for the exhibit will be held Dec. 4, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The exhibit will feature a variety of drawings for children, both from Devlin's 32 books and from other sources. The work is prepared in watercolor, ink and pen on special acid-free drawing boards.

"We are honored and very proud to have an artist of Harry Devlin's stature exhibit at the Westfield Art Gallery," said Anna Hertzberg, curator of the gallery. "His work is of enduring quality and the content of the pieces in the show are truly representative of the artist's work over the past decade. Harry Devlin's art shows a keen insight into the world of children, how to attract and retain their attention, and how to teach life's lessons with a soft touch."

Born in Jersey City, Devlin has had one-man shows at the New Jersey Historical Society, the Morris Museum, General Electric, World Headquarters, the Union League Club, New York Scherling-Plough Corp, Jane Voorhees Zimmerli Art Museum Rutgers University, the Hensertson Art Center, St. Paul's

The exhibition is free and is open Monday to Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Photos set in Summit

New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, 68 Elm St., Summit, will be host to the new work of photographer Howard Nathanson in the member gallery opening Dec. 2 and continuing through Jan. 5, 1995.

Nathanson is an instructor of drawing, painting and photography at the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts. He also teaches at the Parsons School of Design, New York City, Mount St. Mary's University, Morristown, and is curator of photography at the Bergen Museum of Art and Science, Bergen County.

The exhibition is free and is open Monday to Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Benefit concert set

The Orchestra of St. Peter by the Sea, with its conductor, Father Alphonse Stephenson, will perform a benefit concert for Rahway Hospital Foundation Dec. 14 at 8 p.m. at Union County Arts Center, Rahway. Tickets are available at the box office at 1601 Irving St., Rahway, 499-8226 or at the foundation office at the hospital, 499-6135.

Concert set by Keimach

Brad Keimach will conduct the Kean Chamber Symphony at Kean College of New Jersey, Union, on Dec. 1. The program which is part of the college's Cultural Arts series, will be held in the Wilkens Theater at 8 p.m.

Now in his 12th season as music director of the Westfield Symphony, Keimach "has built his orchestra into one of the cultural jewels of the metropolitan area," it was reported. Under his leadership, the Westfield Symphony has appeared twice at Carnegie Hall.

Keimach has served as a guest conductor with the Cathedral Symphony, the Cosmopolitan Orchestra, the Merck Symphony and the Shevoret Opera, where he conducted a fully staged production of "Tosca." He is listed in "Who's Who in Music," "Who's Who in Entertainment," and "Who's Who in Emerging Leaders."

Single ticket prices for the public are $13, faculty-staff alumni and senior citizens $9, and students $6. All seating is reserved, it was announced.

For further information, one can contact the box office at (908) 527-2337.

Chorale plans community sing

The Summit Chorale will be host to a community sing of Handel's "Messiah" on Dec. 20 at 8 p.m. in Central Presbyterian Church, 70 Maple St., Summit. The event will be co-sponsored by Central Presbyterian Church of the Holy Trinity in Manhattan, and organist at Temple Shalom in Plainfield.

The audience will join Chorale members in singing the Christmas portion of the oratorio and the "Hallelujah" chorus. Scores will be available at the church for a $2 deposit, it was reported. Singers and non-singers alike are invited to attend.

Conductors will be Gary Nair, music director of Summit Chorale and associate professor of music at Drew University, where he conducts the Drew orchestra and chorus, and David Macfarlane, assistant conductor of Summit Chorale, director of music for Church of the Holy Trinity in Manhattan, and organist at Temple Shalom in Plainfield.

Funding has been made possible in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State and by the Summit Area Public Foundation, the Junior League of Summit and Hoehst Celanese.

Question about the event can be directed to Chorale member Miriam Keogig of Summit at (908) 273-7448.

DINING REVIEW

By Ray Lehmann
Staff Writer

New Jerseyans who have grown tired of having to endure bleak winters these past few years can take heart; help is available. All they need to do is look to the east — Eastern Europe, that is.

Eastern Europeans, it seems, know a thing or two about cold weather and the ways to survive. They can't make the wind stop blowing or the snow stop falling, but at least they can keep their bodies warm faster than a hot bowl of borscht with sour cream or some potato pierogies fried in oil.

That unique taste of Eastern European cooking can be found tucked amid the charming brick-lined sidewalks and red brick porches of the Cranford business district at Margie's Place, 27 North Union Ave. In a rare blend of "old country" cooking and "new world" convenience, Margie's somehow manages to offer the best of both worlds.

The atmosphere is rather unassuming; it is neat and comfortable, with none of the attention-grabbing mirrors or eye-popping decorations that seem to bog down so many modern restaurants in a mire of glitz and pretension. The people at Margie's definitely show a belief in function over form, making up in the quality and affordability of the food and service whatever pomp and circumstance they may lack in appearance.

For first-time samplers of Polish, Russian or Ukrainian cuisines, it should be noted that Eastern European food is not for wimps. There's no soft, buttery, melt-in-your-mouth food here. This is for real "meat and potatoes" people.

Some of the tastiest of these "meat and potatoes" dishes include Beef Stroganoff, thin strips of boneless steak cooked with onions and mushrooms in a sour cream sauce. The slightly more adventurous soul might want to try Zraz, a ground chicken and beef concoction that is sauteed with onions, sandwiched between mashed potatoes, and served with a creamy mushroom sauce on top.

On my last trip to the restaurant, I enjoyed the Hungarian Goulash — big, tender chunks of beef doused in a thick, rich gravy and served over noodles — and the "varaniki knedliczek," or potato pierogies. Pierogies are the Ukrainian version of meat dumplings, with potatoes deep-fried inside of a fresh, homemade dough, and these particular pierogies — thick and moist, with loads of sauteed onions and fresh sour cream — were among the best I'd ever tasted.

For those whose tastes run to more standard American cuisine, Margie's also offers roasted turkey, meatloaf and flounder dinners and even a spectacular Chicken Milanese for those with a taste for Italian. Most attractive of all about Margie's is their prices. No dish is priced at more than $6.95, and most include a choice of rice, noodles or potatoes and any one of a number of delicious soups like vegetable cabbage, borscht, and beef lentil.

All in all, Margie's offers a unique, inexpensive break from the American norm of fried chicken and hamburgers. (Glasnost has come to Union County, and it is delicious.)

This column is intended to inform our readers about dining opportunities in the area.

Union High School students, members of the Artists' Workshop Theater, get ready for this year's 'Playwrights' Festival, which will be staged Dec. 1, 2 and 3 in the auditorium. This is the group's seventh season at UHS.

100 work in 'King'

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor
More than 100 students are involved in a production at Union High School that they believe in and worked immensely hard to prove it. They will, tonight, tomorrow and Saturday at 7:30, when the Young Artists' Workshop Theater presents "Playwrights' Festival."

"This is the group's seventh annual show," said Greg Bock, a senior who also serves as president of his graduating class and executive producer of the production. "It's going to be the biggest yet."

"We have eight original one act plays, written, directed and produced by the students," he explained. They are "DMV," "Searching For Summer," "My Fairy Tooth Genie," "Terminal Conversations," "Sidelines Through the Streets of Love," "Words Can't Tell," "Magic Show," and "Acropolis Now."

Joanne Liebhauser, executive director, has served as advisor of the Young Artists Workshop Theater ever since she founded it in 1989. "This has been an opportunity for students to write, direct, act in and produce their own original one-act plays," she stated. "Each play has a focus and a tone set by the writer, whether it be comedic or tragic. We get to see the students' view as opposed to the adult's view of a situation."

Melissa Haselmann, one of the YAWT members, declared, "I've had the pleasure of being involved in the 'Playwrights' Festival' for the past three years, and this year's 'Festival' looks like the best seven years combined into one. And we've been rehearsing like crazy. Every day after school until 5 p.m. in the auditorium."

Art shown small scale

Fifteen gallery artists primarily from New Jersey will show their small-scale art in a multi-media "Christmas Miniatures" exhibit, Dec. 3 to 31 at Swain Galleries in Plainfield.

Among the arts, who will each show at least three works, are Douglas Allen, exhibiting pen and ink drawings of animals; Patricia Brennan, watercolor landscapes; Nancy Brangaccio, pastel still lifes; Valeri Lasko of Summit, oils of industrial sites; George Goodwin, color photographs of cityscapes and interiors; Nat Lewis, watercolor still lifes; Robert Leber, oils of cityscapes, including Columbus Circle and Central Park; Paul McCormack, oils of still lifes and portraits; Michael McInley, oils of Scotch Plains, the Shakespeare Park and the Great Swamp in Morris County; Ken Mitchell, seascapes of landscapes; Rhoda Yuwof, figurative paintings of dancers, and Frank Zuccarelli, landscape paintings.

Christmas Miniatures will open with a reception Dec. 3, from 5 to 7 p.m. and will continue weekdays, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Swain Galleries, 703 Watchung Ave., Plainfield, in the Crescent Historic District.

Holmes is host to County Festival

Vaudville and Broadway will be represented in Union County when Clint Holmes of Summit, club and Emmy Award-Winning TV entertainer, is host to the second Union County Festival of the Arts on Dec. 11 at 4 p.m. in Union County Arts Center at Rahway. The spotlight will be on 17 artists and groups in an entertainment showcase.

"The 'Cabaret of Stars' will feature artists from Cranford, Elizabeth, Plainfield, Roselle, Summit and Westfield. A variety show in this style made famous by Ed Sullivan, the afternoon program will offer the sounds of Broadway show tunes; 'Pop,' jazz rhythms, pop, folk, and modern dance, showcasing new artists and accomplished professionals."

"Thanks to the generosity of Merck & Co. Inc., of Rahway, a true supporter of the arts, the concert is a gift to the community," said Linda Loco-Kelly, executive and liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board.

"The Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs has coordinated, for the second year in a row, a fantastic show," Kelly said. "The artists and groups from Union County residents were chosen through an audition process that was uncompromising in its insistence on excellence."

Festival host Holmes has three times been named Atlantic City's Entertainer of the Year. Born in England, Holmes is the son of an African-American jazz musician and a British opera singer. Holmes' first break came when Joan Rivers invited him to be her sidekick on the now defunct "The Late Show." This was followed by a two-year association with "Entertainment Tonight," and finally his own Emmy Award-winning talk and variety show, "New York at Night." Holmes' new hit CD, "Edgewise" features a remake of Pele Like Kicking Love."

Selected to participate in the show with Holmes are the Rick Langmack Jazz Quartet of Elizabeth, pianists Geraldine Pagaoa and Marcus Prasley of Roselle, vocalist William Robinson of Summit, Irish Step Dancers, Kaitlin Zimmerman and Mauna and Ellen Kelly, jazz rhythms, pop, folk, and modern dance, showcasing new artists and accomplished professionals."

Classic concert set for families

"Simple Gifts: A Concert for Children and Families" is the title of a special performance to be given by the Westfield Symphony Orchestra Dec. 3 at Westfield High School. "Its purpose is to introduce young people to classical music in live performance by a full professional orchestra," it was announced.

Performance are at 2 p.m. and again at 3:30 p.m. The orchestra will perform works by Beethoven, Aaron Copland, Victor Herbert and, in a special narrated highlight of the concert, "The Story of Babar." The children's classic will be read by an actor to music written by Francis Poulenc.

Brad Koenig, conductor and music director of the Westfield Symphony Orchestra, also will "guide the audience of young listeners through background and descriptions of the music throughout the one-hour concert, making the concert experience entertaining, as well as educational."

The concert is produced by the Westfield Symphony Friends, the volunteer group that supports the Westfield Symphony. Esperanza Betancourt, president of the Westfield Symphony Friends, has announced that the organization has received "a significant underwriting donation from Paine Webber which will enable the volunteers to produce the concert."

"Putting together a quality classical music concert for children has been a goal of the Symphony Friends for some time," said Betancourt. "We are most grateful to Paine Webber whose gift has helped make this concert a reality. Economic realities are such that the symphony is not able to offer a children's concert as part of its regular season. We are very proud to be making this one come to life. It's a logical next step for our organization which is devoted to involving the community with the Westfield Symphony. As volunteers we can open a new door to the world of music for children to enter. We hope this is the first of an exciting series of concerts for young people."

For information and to obtain tickets, contact the Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, 613 Pearl St., Elizabeth, (908) 558-2550 or the Union County Arts Center, 1601 Irving St., Rahway, (908) 499-8226.

A subscription to your newspaper keeps your college student close to hometown activities. Call 908-686-7753 for a special college rate.

Betancourt said. "The theme of this concert comes from an old Shaker tune called 'Simple Gifts,' which the audience will hear in Aaron Copland's music. We've chosen the work not only for its simple melody and its appeal to children, but for its meaning to us as volunteers. Our simple gift is the joy of music, beautiful, close to home and inexpensive, as some of the best gifts are."

The Symphony Friends also provided tickets to the Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield which will arrange for families related to the community projects and the schools they work with to attend the special musical event.

The Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield, which serves greater Union County, will be host to families associated with the music programs of the Elizabeth and Plainfield schools and the Family Outreach Program of St. Clare's Home for Children in Elizabeth, a residential facility for children with AIDS. They will have 50 guests at each of the concerts that day.

According to Lesley Miller of the Westfield Symphony Friends, chairwoman of the children's concert, "Working together with the Junior League makes it possible to share the concert with children who wouldn't otherwise be able to attend. We are particularly pleased to have the families of St. Clare's Outreach Center. Having a child with HIV is a tremendous daily challenge. We hope that coming to the concert and hearing beautiful music will be good medicine for the entire family."

The two performances are 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Tickets are $6 for children and $10 for adults. Tickets are available for both shows at ticket outlets in Cranford, Clark, Scotch Plains, Summit and Westfield or can be charged by telephone order. For tickets or more information one can call the Westfield Symphony office at (908) 232-9490.

Two Russians to perform in Y concert

The YM-YWHA of Union County, 501 Green Lane, Union, will announce that Dec. 6 at noon, it will present Malvina Popov on piano, and Roman Smolin on the violin in a special concert.

The cost will be $1 a person. A meal and spaghetti lunch will be served at 11:30 a.m. The donation for lunch is $1.50, it also was announced. One must sign in for lunch by 11 a.m.

Smolin is a 14-year-old boy attending Elizabeth High School. He was born in Leningrad in 1980 and came to America about four months ago with his parents and grandparents.

He first started playing the violin nine years ago and studied in Russia, finishing music school the year before coming to America. He played in concert and in the Leningrad Synagogue.

Popov arrived in the United States this past April. She is originally from Leningrad, Russia, where she attended the Conservatory in Leningrad. She was employed by the Palace of Creation School of Music from 1966 until 1993. While there, as instructor and later as principal of the school, Popov distinguished herself equally in classical piano arrangements and composition. It was reported. She also organized a frequent musical group which performed concerts in and around the Leningrad area. Since she arrived in America, Popov teaches privately and frequently performs concerts in New Jersey with various organizations.

Her program will include classical selections from Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Tchaikovsky and Schumann.

Maplewood Nursery in bloom

"It's more than just a nursery," says Wayne Maudsley, owner and proprietor of Maplewood Nursery in Springfield. "In addition to flowers, trees and shrubs, we also sell an entire array of lawn and garden care products, topsoil and mulches, and paving stones."

Maudsley, who is the third generation of nursery operators in his family, says business is as good as ever this season, and more and more people are coming to Maplewood Nursery, located at 160 Springfield Ave., for a variety of items to make their homes and yards look fresh.

Maplewood Nursery also carries at least nine different styles of paving stones from which to choose, and all are easy to install and reasonably priced.

"They don't need mortar so the homeowner can do the installation easily," says Maudsley. "They are already cut to fit together like puzzle pieces, and once they're down, they stay put."

"It seems like everyone needs at least a little help," he says. "They usually want to know how much of something they need and where it will grow best."

Maudsley stays on top in the highly competitive nursery business by keeping prices low and selling products in bulk.

Maudsley added that although his stock moves out at a quick pace, he does a few extra things with his live shrubbery to keep it fresh.

"We use one of the few nurseries that water the stock in the ground. We plant the tops and water them there."

Another unique feature he offers is the sale of items in bulk, which drops the price considerably. "We can sell things by the cubic yard instead of the bag," he says. "Selling items by the truckload can mean big savings for the customer."

Of course, the nursery business isn't the type of industry that stays open all year. Maplewood Nursery sells Christmas trees in December, but right after the holidays Maudsley has a two-month vacation until the weather warms up again.

Homeowners may think a little gravel along the driveway or a few bushes under the bay window may be just what the job requires. But before you run out to buy a shovel, it may be a good idea to stop at the Maplewood Nursery and pick up a few hints from Wayne Maudsley, or call the nursery at 376-7698.

Suzuki used by pianist

The New Jersey Workshop for the Arts in Westfield recently hired Liana Smolenski, a piano teacher and pianist in the Suzuki Talent Education approach.

The Suzuki approach is based on the philosophies of Dr. Shinichi Suzuki of Japan. The Suzuki method emphasizes learning music in a manner similar to learning language.

"The goal of the program is to give each child a positive, happy experience in music with an emphasis on cooperation rather than competition," said Smolenski. "The program works for any child can develop a high ability when exposed to a nurturing environment."

Smolenski teaches both Suzuki and traditional piano methods as a basis for lessons for a variety of styles and periods. Theory and Ear Training plays an instrumental role in the lesson, it was announced.

One can call the New Jersey Workshop office at (908)232-3230 for additional information.

The New Jersey Workshop for the Arts Inc. is a nonprofit organization founded in 1972 by Theodore Schenberg to provide creative experiences in the arts for children and adults.

Divisions of the New Jersey Workshop include the Art Gallery, Kid 'N' Arts, the Music Studio, Union County Music Theater, Westfield Fencing Club, and the Westfield Summer Workshop.

horoscope

December 4-10

ARIES - March 21/April 20 Don't let negative thoughts get the better of you. Maintaining a positive outlook helps you get through troubling times. Charming people with your wit and sense of humor enables you to get your way. Financial success is achieved by saving your pennies for a rainy day.

Taurus - April 21/May 21 It's time to truly pursue your life changes you've been considering. Expanding your interests into new ventures makes you a happier, more stimulating person. Don't let minor worries get you or your friends aggravated. Consider a new approach to your financial future.

Gemini - May 22/June 21 Reach for new heights, as the Gemini can often charm his way to fame and fortune. Be sure to keep an open eye for potentially hidden opportunities. Education will provide you with a sense of accomplishment and encouragement. Family life provides support and comfort in the coming week.

Cancer - June 22/July 22 Overanalyzing past events or over-anticipating future ones may produce anxiety. Relaxation and concentration are best achieved when thoughts are focused on the present. Meditation calms the mind and the body. Leisure time is best invested in fitness-related activities.

Leo - July 23/August 23 Lead the way to fun and happiness. Provide the inspiration and motivation on the town with friends. Your warm heart may be an inspirational force in cheering up a disheartened friend. Watch out for credit card bills that may be piling up. Watch your weight in the coming weeks.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22 This will be a fine week to make use of extra time. Be careful, however, not to gamble on a personal venture at the workplace or at home. Try not to expose your weaknesses to those who may not be concerned with your best interests. Sharing meal moments with loved ones brings peace of mind.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23 Your hard work and passion may off with high acclaim and success. It's possible that a big raise or an interesting new job is in your immediate future. Keep looking towards new opportunities to expand your educational horizons. Don't be dragged down by the indecisiveness of someone close to you. Good news comes your way.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22 The cycle for change is high throughout the next few months. A new domestic situation is likely. Since so much will be happening all at once, there will be times when you'll feel as if you're not in control of your own life. In these instances, it's best to step back, take a deep breath, and take charge of what you can. If you are a career-oriented person, try not to make any moves until later in the year when luck will be at your side.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20 A long-lasting period of activity may soon come to an end. Taking time out for a moment of solitude recharges important intellectual batteries. Keep a careful eye out for those who may be taking advantage of you.

Music concert set

The new Chinese Mission of St. Luke's and All Saints Church at 398 Chestnut St., Union, will feature the Hai Yun Chorus performing Chinese and Western songs, Dec. 3 from 3 to 5 p.m. The concert is free of charge. The mission's focus is to bring cultures together and it offers events and classes to all Chinese and non-Chinese people in the community.

The Township of Union Recreation Department's current production of "The King and I" will be staged Dec. 2 and 3 at Burnet Middle School, Union. Two Union residents will be highlighted in both key and supporting roles.

The residents who have established a history with the Recreation Department productions are Gretchen Melinda Roth and Bill Hausmann.

Roth, who is a graduate of Union High School and attends Union County College, will be featured in the role of Tuptim in "The King and I." She played Meg Brockie in the Recreation Department's production of "Brigadoon" and "Moonbeam Melville" in "It's a Wonderful Life."

"I have a love of the theater," she said. "I live to act and live to perform." She said she prepared for her current role by enrolling in a ballroom dance class.

Bill, 21, and Jennifer, 18. He is a local businessman. "My wife and family support my stage life, even though they do get a bit tired of me watching the tapes," he said.

"The King and I" will be presented at 8 p.m. on Dec. 2 and Dec. 3. A special matinee is scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Reserve seat tickets are available by calling the Recreation Department at (908) 686-4200.

Three plays scheduled by Community Players The Westfield Community Players announced that the three remaining 1994-1995 season productions are: "The Other Half Loves," "Beau Jest," a comedy by James Sherman, and the dramatic "Agnes of God" by John Pielmeier. The shows will run Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 o'clock with scheduled Sunday matinees at 2 at the theater at 1000 North Avenue West, Westfield.

Unionites have key roles in the musical, 'The King and I' which will be staged Dec. 2 and 3 at Burnet Middle School, Union. Gretchen Melinda Roth, center, and Bill Hausmann, surround themselves with members of the cast.

Two Unionites have leads in 'The King and I' show

The Township of Union Recreation Department's current production of "The King and I" will be staged Dec. 2 and 3 at Burnet Middle School, Union. Two Union residents will be highlighted in both key and supporting roles.

The residents who have established a history with the Recreation Department productions are Gretchen Melinda Roth and Bill Hausmann.

Roth, who is a graduate of Union High School and attends Union County College, will be featured in the role of Tuptim in "The King and I." She played Meg Brockie in the Recreation Department's production of "Brigadoon" and "Moonbeam Melville" in "It's a Wonderful Life."

"I have a love of the theater," she said. "I live to act and live to perform." She said she prepared for her current role by enrolling in a ballroom dance class.

Bill, 21, and Jennifer, 18. He is a local businessman. "My wife and family support my stage life, even though they do get a bit tired of me watching the tapes," he said.

"The King and I" will be presented at 8 p.m. on Dec. 2 and Dec. 3. A special matinee is scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Reserve seat tickets are available by calling the Recreation Department at (908) 686-4200.

Three plays scheduled by Community Players The Westfield Community Players announced that the three remaining 1994-1995 season productions are: "The Other Half Loves," "Beau Jest," a comedy by James Sherman, and the dramatic "Agnes of God" by John Pielmeier. The shows will run Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 o'clock with scheduled Sunday matinees at 2 at the theater at 1000 North Avenue West, Westfield.

Put less money into your boiler. A new Model 68 oil boiler from Weil-McLain could save you hundreds of dollars on your heating bills—this winter alone!

Your oil boiler is more than 10 years old, it could be operating at only 60% efficiency—or less. That means 40% of your heating dollars could be going right up the chimney.

The new 68 boiler from Weil-McLain operates at 84% efficiency which means it can pay for itself in a low start-up cost. That means more money in your pocket—and less in your boiler.

Find out how much you can save with a Weil-McLain 68 oil boiler. Call us today!
