Auditors doubt 12 areas of budget

By Jay Hochberg
Managing Editor

When they rejected the budget submitted by the Union County Regional High School Board of Education, the auditors said the amount should be reduced to $60,000 because "historically the actual expenditures have been substantially less than the budgeted amount." According to their figures, $60,000 had been budgeted for the current academic year, and less than $50,000 had been spent.

The auditors also targeted the payroll of the operations staff. They called for a $30,000 cut in salary units to be found in the money budgeted for one audio-video-computer technician that is not state-mandated.

The auditors found an additional $30,000 that they said could be cut from the operations and plant maintenance services budget — this time in general supplies.

The regional board has planned to spend $63,000 for supplies in the current year; the auditors called for a reduction to $33,000.

In researching past budgets, the auditors said they found past expenditures for supplies to have been "substantially less than the budgeted amount." Citing figures spent so far in this school year, the auditors said $275,160 has been needed.

For co-curricular activities, the regional board budgeted $24,000, which the auditors said should be eliminated.

The money the Board of Education has planned to spend would cover instruction of school-sponsored student activities. The auditors said they have found that those activities are only supported by the individual high schools, but also the "previous years' appropriations have lapsed to surplus accounts.

For the area of maintenance of plant services, the auditors said 40 percent of the money budgeted for next year should be cut.

High school budget rejected at meeting

By Jay Hochberg
Managing Editor

Representatives from the six constituent municipalities of the Union County Regional High School District rejected the regional budget when they met in Dayton High School May 3.

Each of the six towns dispatched its mayor and three town council members, and in some cases a town attorney or financial officer. The total body of representatives elected Mountaineer Mayor Robert Vigilant as chairman, as they did for past budget summits.

Deregionalization was not to be a topic for discussion during this budget meeting, but the Kenilworth delegation tied the two together.

"This system is not working and it won't work until deregionalization is finished," said Kenilworth Mayor Joseph Rego, almost yelling at the regional Board of Education. "And Kenilworth is prepared to come up with the numbers."

Rego was alluding to a report prepared by the auditing firm Perinelli, Corallo and Cava. The Borough of Kenilworth commissioned the Pompton Lakes-based firm to study the regional budget and to suggest changes and cuts. The firm has suggested $350,000 in budget cuts and changes for the proposed budget. One year ago, those auditors had recommended changes in the regional district's 1994-95 budget, resulting in $1 million in cuts. (See related Page One story.)

While most of those in attendance agreed that spending cuts were necessary, some of the delegates pointed out that the impact of budget cuts should not affect education programs.

"Clerwood passed the budget and won't go along with any cuts in education," said Michael Cronin, that borough's mayor. "We think the education our children is getting is good and we don't want to see that damaged in any way."

Brookley Township Committee member Daniel Paladino suggested saying that his delegation would not vote to cut extra-curricular or athletic programs either.

The regional Board of Education presented numbers of its own. Superintendent Donald Meszick reported to the board and the six delegations that he expected the Legislature to revise its law under which the regional district had been fined earlier this year.

"I believe the Legislature will recede the penalty and will come up with a See BUDGET, Page 2

Brooks found guilty

The Township Committee found Police Officer Walter Brooks guilty of two counts of failure to report for duty.

When the committee met Tuesday night, it ruled on the disciplinary matter that had been brought to its attention on April 24. As punishment, Brooks loses one year of seniority and one paid vacation day.

Brooks and his attorney took the case before the Township Committee last month to show what they said was a matter of the department's only black officer being disciplined for a minor infraction — reporting late to work for which other officers would face discipline if they were similarly disciplined.

Officer Brooks has his legal options. Brooks told the committee. Being more specific after the meeting had adjourned, the lawyer said a civil suit was possible.

In explaining the ruling, Deputy Mayor Herbert Saxe said "the evidence does not show that Chief Chisholm was influenced by bias in his disciplinary action. I believe the change of lateness is simple and clear cut."

The Township Committee also announced that "sensitivity training" will be introduced to the Police Department.

The award was given in conjunction with the Governor's Teacher Recognition Program. "Sandra is a teacher with a capital T," Wickline said of the history teacher and Springfield resident, who is active in a number of student groups.

Boro board hears curricula proposals

Investigating aims and differences of curricula using manipulatives, and an informal solving of equations. The sixth grade will have a one-day 40-minute math period for 10 weeks. The seventh and eighth grades will have five-week cycles.

The seventh and eighth grade math curricula objectives are similar to those of the sixth grade. The new presentation involved the Mountainide Preschool Program for Exceptional Tots curriculum revision. Lori Simandl presented the revised 1995 curriculum to the board.

The curriculum reflects a developmental approach to learning. Areas of instruction include communication, problem solving, measurement and geometry, patterns and relationships, data and analysis, and probability. The revised sixth grade math curriculum will include applied problem solving, identifying, describing, extending, analyzing and creating a wide variety of patterns, applying problem solving strategies to "real world" problems, using a calculator.

Simandl's report further stated that the program focuses on learning environment based upon a developmental perspective. "Children learn through active play which encourages decision making, the ability to take responsibility, emotional and social growth through cooperative play and self-help skills," she said.

Language development is the focus of all daily activities. Children are supported in their efforts by staff therapists who cooperatively engage in play with each child at their own developmental level," she also said. According to her report, a child shall be considered potentially eligible for the MOPPET program when identified to the Board of Education.

Each question of the preschool hand-leaved sheets shall be two and one-half hours, five days per week, for a total of 12-and-one-half hours per week. Maximum class size will be limited to eight students per session with one classroom aide. Classes larger than eight will require an additional aide.

Following are deadlines for news: Church, club and social - Thursday noon. Entertainment - Friday noon. Sports - Monday noon. Letters to the Editor - Monday 9 a.m.

Budget rejected by mayors

Police identified the suspect as 42-year-old Dennis Dipietro, who is employed as a security consultant at an alarm company in Somerset. Other figures presented by the budget surplus of recent years — a point that provoked debate during the meeting.

In discussing the projected 1995-96 surplus — totaling $4,225,000 — Secretary Peter Lanzetta explained how the 1994-95 surplus, added to the proposed surplus of $975,000 for next year, would be needed to prevent tax hikes. "I was embarrassed last year by what happened," said board President John Toth of "hidden" surplus money that could have been used to prevent a tax increase. "We had a very conservative board secretary who knew how to invest, and we found we had extra money."

"This budget does not reflect any excesses as far as we're concerned," she added. "Let's be real. Let's not do it to the kids," said Springfield Township Committee member JoAnn Holmes. "I always believe there are surpluses in budgets and that there are places to cut."

"When the Kenilworth proposal which moved — calling on the six municipalities to reject the budget — Springfield, Mountainide, Clark and Kenilworth voted for it. The regional's budget will be forwarded to County Superintendent of Schools Leonard Pitts, who will meet with representatives of the six member towns, had the regional board on May 18 to try to settle the matter.

Jazz storyteller comes to Deerfield School

On Wednesday, children of Deerfield School will be treated to a performance of "Jazz Orpheus," a musical rendition of the classic Greek myth of Orpheus and Eurydice, by storyteller David Rafael Gonzalez.

Orpheus is traditionally portrayed gently strumming the strings of a golden harp, but in this jazzed-up version, Gonzalez has him swingin' and rockin' on the sax as he ventures into the underworld in search for his beloved Eurydice.

Combining jazz "scat" singing, dramatic voices for his characters and a crafted movement style, Gonzalez's telling brings the ancient story to life for today's kids.

Additional songs sweep into Orpheus' adventure as he encounters a series of heroic tests and meets each one with compassion, cleverness — and of course, music.

"Jazz Orpheus" has been called "imaginative, moving and beautifully performed" by Andrew Berger, artistic director of the Lincoln Center Institute.

Gonzalez comes to the area as part of the institute's aesthetic education program in which many of the teachers are participating.

Gonzalez saves the day in his second story, the ghostly and by turns, hilarious South American tale "Delgadina."

A tailored suit

Get ready to dig deep, Springfield: Mayor Marcia Forman has exposed you to another lawsuit.

During the disciplinary hearing of Police Officer Walter Brooks, the Township Committee presided over a trial-like proceeding in which Brooks' attorney Kirk Rhodes defended and Township Attorney Bruce Bergen prosecuted.

It should have been a simple and quick hearing. Brooks was charged by Chief of Police William Chisholm of two counts of failure to report for duty. In civilian parlance, that's twice arriving late to work, to which the five-year veteran of the department admitted.

Perhaps in another town the case would have been settled right then, but because of the leadership vacuum in Springfield's government, Brooks' attorney was able to recast the hearing to his liking.

Rhodes directed Brooks to testify that he had overheard a police captain make a racial slur, among other incidents worthy of complaint; but separate complaints they should have been.

Thanks to Forman, who ignored repeated objections voiced by Bergen, Rhodes was free to shift focus from the irrefutable evidence of his client's attendance record, to the color of his client's skin. It wasn't until Bergen made his closing argument that many of those in attendance were reminded of what the hearing was about in the first place.

When Forman abdicated her duty as mayor to assume the role of spectator, she showed that Brooks' allegations of racism were relevant to his case. She left Bergen dangling in the cold and invited Rhodes to file a harassment suit — one surely to end in a settlement. Of course, Brooks would have to wait his turn for a day in court; Forman's cronies in the Democratic Party are still stung over the "Bergen ordinance."

A shoe that fits

As an astute litigator should, Bruce Bergen uses tactics similar to Kirk Rhodes' to cloud those issues he deems inconvenient. On this page is a column submitted by Bergen in which he ably poses, blusters and complains about responsibility in a manner that will surely garner him a nomination for the Leader's prestigious, Nikita Khrushchev Award for "Pounding a Shoe on a Desk."

What many of us in Springfield are still waiting to hear is the Democrats' explanation of how its ersatz chair-man and current treasurer managed to incur a 14-count indictment by not filing mandatory financial records for the past four years.

Honest debate of issues beats name calling

I am running for the New Jersey State Assembly in the 21st District. I do this out of deep concern about municipal needs being ignored in the Legislature, and I feel I can make a difference for Springfield.

I will work toward shifting state revenues to the towns to stop tax increases. I would create legislation to barter penalties for criminals and stipend Megan's Law. I would also work toward fair funding of suburban schools and creating reasonable environmental laws.

Whether I win or not, Springfield and the Township Committee in which I still serve, Springfield, are my home and a great place to live.

Other elected officials are questioned by the public and must be responsible, clearly address voters or beliefs. I welcome dialogue and the sharing of views, but I reject those who prefer to present their opinions as actual facts or in make judgements. I have lived in this great town since 1988 and have always been involved with my community. I promised residents we would take action to improve services, and many things have been accomplished by this Township Committee in four months.

Our Recreation Department has new staff, fields and parks are being upgraded. The road department has new men and is getting equipment for safer and cleaner streets, especially in the winter.

I have and will always support the Police, Fire and Emergency Management departments. I strongly support the PBA, and it was I who strongly objected to removing the "four man minimum" clause from their labor contract.

I am trying to negotiate with Prudential an alternative healthcare plan which provides all employees with benefits equal to the current plan. If this plan is adopted, savings to the town are equal to $240,000 in the first year alone.

We have shared an open forum every aspect of this plan. I value every town employee and actively seek their input to work together on these issues.

Tax increases greatly disturb me. I have made it clear at Township Committee meetings that an alternate goal must be to stop tax increases. I did support this year's budget, but many services, facilities and equipment were in a mess from years of Republican neglect.

But the real reason taxes increased is the 5 percent salary increase negotiated last year and more than $1 million in tax abatements. We also had the High Split Sept. for Mr. Laurel's related litigation.

I am always willing to talk to and meet with concerned citizens. I believe in open dialogue — no name calling or scapegoating. I am and shall always remain at the service of the people of Springfield, doing what's right in their best interests.

Roy Hirschfeld is a member of the Springfield Township Committee.

Coverage in Leader is unfair, inaccurate

Once again, the Springfield Leader has failed to report accurately and fairly on the filing of the ELEC.

In your edition of April 20, you ran a headline claiming that the state had fined the Democratic Party of Springfield a substantial sum of money. Your article then goes on to detail the matter. Unfortunately, many of your inaccuracies, printed as facts, are just not true.

Though it is true that I declined to make comment prior to the article due to the still pending action, in an effort to have the blatant and numerous mistakes corrected, I called the reporter on the following Monday. I spent a substantial period of time explaining to him, but at your next edition, not only was there no article correcting the errors, there was no even a mention of the mistakes. The failure to print a retraction or correction in a timely manner, in as prominent a position as

When the reporter was asked where he had found the information concerning the filing, he said he had found the information in the ELEC. This is absolutely untrue. In fact, within a few days of the filing, I received a copy of the ELEC and a paper written response was filed within the 20-day time period allowed.

The more outrageous falsehood in your story is the portion where your reporter indicates that the ELEC was accusing the 1991, 1992, 1993 and 1994 local Democratic candidates of not filing all of their forms. This is completely false.

The administrative action is against only the Springfield Democratic Party, and in no way has any connection with ELEC requirements and all filed reports time, the Democratic Party had failed to contact the Election Law Enforcement Commission in response to the filing.

This is absolutely untrue. In fact, I have attempted to hold my tongue the many times the Leader has reported in a biased or slanted manner.

I have tried to expect that, but in light of the clear, factual errors which were made, and then the refusal to correct them, I felt I must again speak out. It is only when the only source of local news cannot be relied upon to be accurate or fair.

Letters to the editor

Public input is appreciated, needed

To the Editor:

I wish to thank all of the people of Springfield who helped get out the vote in the last election and helped get me elected to the Union County Regional Board of Education.

This was not only a victory for myself, it was a victory for the democratic process.

I want to reassure those citizens who think that I only have the single goal of deprofessionalization. This is not so. My goal is an improved education for all of the students in Springfield.

I believe in an open dialogue and allowing the process to move toward a public vote on deprofessionalization. This should be done without additional legal battles. In other words, let's bring this problem to citizens as quickly as possible eye the water. Whether the public votes for or against deprofessionalization, my first priority will be the students of Springfield.

This is not one of many important issues which face us in the next few years. I look forward to your comments and questions at board meetings and by phone.

A call for a confession

To the Editor:

Wouldn't it be refreshing if one day Springfield's mayor and deputy mayor could muster the fortitude to admit their addictions?

Their admission might follow this scenario:

"Hello, I am Marcia Forman, mayor of Springfield, and this is Deputy Mayor Herb Stone. We are here today to admit our addictions.

"While Herb and I, as candidates, alleged to be for efficient government, lower taxes and a higher standard of living for the residents of Springfield, it is clear from our actions on the Township Committee we have done nothing to attain this goal.

"Since elected, we have steadily raised taxes while lowering the level of

American justice is now separate from law

An article which appeared in the daily newspapers last week does not paint a very picture of our judicial system. Many respondents to a poll said they were disillusioned, have lost respect for the system and were not quite certain the judiciary always rules in a Solomon-like manner. Unfortunately, we agree to a great extent.

Item: Daryl Strawberry, that perennial loser who calls himself a baseball player and seems to have programmed himself to self-destruction, was charged with failing to pay some $356,000 in income tax "earned" by signing his autograph for autograph fans. The judge in the case gave Daryl a slap on the wrist by "sentencing" him to probation, a fine totaling the money he owes and house arrest, which would be called off by the time he had never even seen. For several months, the wrangling went on when the Illinois Supreme Court decided that the little boy should be turned over to his biological parents. Last Sunday, the police came and forced the foster parents to turn over the little boy, whom they had taken care of since he was four days old, to two court-ordered, screaming and crying when he was so-called father has no more right to that child than I have. What about the child's feelings?

What about the life of the foster parents? They don't count because, I quote from the court's decision, "It is customary for the courts in cases like this to turn a child back to his biological parents." If that isn't the most inhumane and illogical decision ever, I'd like to know what is. If this biological father means what he says, he'd be a good father, he would have permitted the foster parents to keep the child. After all, they are the only parents the boy has ever had. We wonder what this traumatic switch will do to the boy as he grows up. Justice? I don't think so. Cruel meddling is more like it.

As I See It

By Norman Rauscher

Item: The biggest judicial frustration on the public's collective ear is the O.J. Simpson case, which seems to go on and on with no end in sight. The poll mentioned above, 43 percent of those interviewed said the case has weakened Americans' respect for the criminal justice system. Many look upon the trial as a farce, people by self-serving cloaks, in an atmosphere resembling a Roman bacchanal. Many fail to remember that the case is about two people who met violent death. But what seems to be remembered is a cast of characters from the prosecution to the defense who resemble kindergarten at play. The case, according to trial groups, may linger on to August. They don't say what year.

The O.J. Simpson case is a troubling circus and justice has been pushed to the wings. There is no justice in this case; but a continuous display of cheap melodrama.

Though we have to admit it, there is something wrong in our judicial system when we permit the above "items" to occur and undermine our most important underpinning of government.

Norman Rauscher, a former newspaper publisher in Summit, is an active member of the Summit Community.

Senior volunteers enrich us all

To the Editor:

Announcement of April 26 as National RSVP Day brings to mind the many ways our own Retired and Senior Volunteer Program is working with nonprofit groups in Union County.

Over 55, but far from being "over the hill," these 1,000 energetic men and women, whom Catholic Community Services has been proud to locally sponsor for 22 years, volunteer nearly 150,000 hours of community service a year. They can be found working with the elderly, children and the ages in-between. "Season of Service," I can only add that thanks to their good works all of us, young and old, are enriched.

Address letters for consideration to: Letters to the Editor, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., P.O. Box 3169, Union, 07083. The deadline for letters is 9 a.m. Monday.

Letter writers

Readers are encouraged to write letters to the editor expressing views on topics of interest. Letters should be typed, double spaced or legibly handwritten and no longer than 2 1/2 pages. When necessary, letters will be edited for length, clarity and fairness.

Both major parties utilize politics of fear

Republicans and Democrats are now using fear instead of common sense to appeal to independent-minded voters.

According to a recent nationwide poll, 37 percent of Americans consider themselves to be an Independent, 31 percent consider themselves a Republican and 28 percent consider themselves a Democrat.

On the front page of Monday's edition of The New York Times, Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich was quoted as saying, "The only person helped by a third party is President Clinton and the liberal Democrats."

In reality, the traditional two-party is no longer popular with voters. A comprehensive poll conducted before the November 1994 elections showed that 45 percent of Democrats would like to have a new major political party.

For the truth behind Speaker Gingrich's quote, let's look at the facts, not the fictitious fear created by the political parties.

The day after the 1992 presidential election, The New York Times ran the results of an exit poll. Over 15,000 voters were individually surveyed; those who had voted for Ross Perot were asked who they would vote for if Perot's name had not been on the ballot. Thirty-eight percent of the people who voted for Perot said they would have voted for George Bush. An identical percentage said Bill Clinton was their alternate choice.

Simply put, the outcome of the 1992 election would have been the same without Ross Perot on the ballot.

An additional question, that did not appear in the Times, asked the people who did not vote for Perot, "If you thought Ross Perot could win, would you have voted for Ross Perot?" According to voter pollster

Be Our Guest

By Russell J. Verney

Gordon Black's analysis of the 1992 exit polling data, if Americans had voted their real choice for president, the outcome would have been 40 percent for Perot, 31 for Bill Clinton, and 27 percent for George Bush.

Ross Perot would have won the 1992 presidential election if people had not followed the fear tactics of the political parties.

This is solid proof that Ross Perot was supported by Independents, Democrats and Republicans alike because his campaign was based on economic and government reform issues that would benefit the entire nation. At stake was not the partisan ambition of one person for political power, but the future that we are leaving our children and grandchildren.

Instead of correcting our nation's ills, politicians try to polarize voters. Ross Perot's 1992 candidacy created the emergence of a new political awareness, a force to fix a government that does not work in the interest of the hard-working man and women of our great nation.

As the political parties continue and ignore the issues, United We Stand America will clear the air and fight for real reforms. The best gift we can leave our children and grandchildren is a fiscally sound government that works in the interest of every American.

Russell J. Verney is the national executive director of the United We Stand America.

Hazy shade of winter

Summit Explorers set for more action

The date is Oct. 6, beginning at 8 p.m. The Tim Glin Band will be starting in this event, along with special guest Doc Holiday and the Most Wanted Band.

United Way honors three

The United Way of Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights will be honoring three area high school seniors for their volunteer activities. Kevin Pepper, Carol Satchell and Karen Chu will all be honored at the United Way's annual meeting and awards dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Pepper, a senior at Summit High School, has an outstanding record of leadership and commitment to a number of organizations both near and far. During Pepper's junior year he helped to establish a new student club at Summit High School called Summit Outreach Volunteers Association. With Pepper's leadership, this club has organized a holiday gift and book drive for children from low-income families, and "Thanksgiving on the Mayflower," which collected food for needy families during Thanksgiving.

Earth Day brings out the nature-lover in everyone

Earth Day was last month. Did you hug a tree? Did you plant a flower? How about litter, pick up any of that stuff? Or perhaps you did something around the yard.

"We're going home after this to work in the garden. Jeff's going to help me dig some holes so we can plant some shrubs," said Gialino, who added that Jeff needs a little more schooling on the meaning of Earth Day.

"I've already chased some ducks; I don't think that's a good sportmanship on Earth Day," she said.

"Earth Day is a day when you are conscious of the environment. Remember when I was little and in the park, I'd take care of the earth," explained Rose.

"I'm something that we continually have to make the public aware of — the environment. We can't be vigilant enough," stated Test.

"It's really important that people respect the earth. It's wonderful that we take one day to recognize it, but we should take the rest of the days as well," Johnson said.

"People need to be more aware of what we are throwing away and what we use so they can take care of the earth so we can pass it on to the little ones," said Petro, pointing to her nephew.

WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1995 SECTION B

From The Editor's Notebook

By Tom Conaway

I'm a prominent citizen.

I've been so dubbed by the American Heart Association because I've elected to take part in its annual Cardiac Arrest, which means on a given night, I will not be released until I can pay $300 bill, which will be presented to the American Heart Association to be used to further their research and education.

"When I signed up to be a 'prominent citizen' I was aware of the fact that I would be asked to contribute to the American Heart Association's research and education fund."

But now I'm not so sure. I've been asked to contribute to the American Heart Association's research and education fund. I've been asked to contribute to the American Heart Association's research and education fund.

Along party lines, freeholders OK spending plan

By Chris Gatto

This year, like last year, the freeholders approved a county budget. And this year, again like last year, the budget would have decreased rather than increased, or at least remained within the 2.5 percent cap mandated by the state because of some of the reduction the county has realized during the last year.

Also, like last year, the freeholders' approval of the budget could have a negative effect on the county's borrowing. Union County, which has a debt of about $12 million in the county that has a AAA bond rating, may lose its bond rating as a result.

Freeholder Frank Lehr, a Republican, who argued with the freeholders that the county's surplus funds should be used to pay for the county's debt, said that the county's surplus funds should be used to pay for the county's debt.

Training sessions halted by county's firefighters

By Chris Gatto

The county's firefighters have halted their training sessions because they were not paid for the time they spent on the job.

The firefighters' union, the International Brotherhood of Firefighters, said that the county's firefighters were not paid for the time they spent on the job.

Best records

Pro-English nets compensation medal

The New Jersey Sons of the American Revolution, Abraham Clarke Chapter, selected Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich as the recipient of the Law Enforcement Commemorative Medal.

Russell K. Datcher III, Awards Committee chairman, said "this award recognizes significant contributions made by law enforcement officials that add to the greater good of society as a whole."

The recipient of the award was chosen from a highly qualified and skilled group of law enforcement professionals.

Flags to be available for Memorial Day

American flags will again be available in all communities in the county for Memorial Day, sponsored by the Office of Veterans' Affairs, Department of Human Services, and supported by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, the County Manager's Office and the Union County Flag Guardian Committee, said Freeholder Linda Stender, liaison to the POW/MIA Citizens Committee.

"With the cooperation of all involved, including the many veterans' organizations in the county, citizens can decorate veterans' graves with an appropriate marker flag prior to Memorial Day, May 29, free of charge," Stender said. "This is a small tribute to make up for the high price our veterans paid."

By Lisa Ann Battilo Arts and Entertainment Editor
It wasn't the Olympics, and the winners didn't receive gold medals, but a new sports competition show has turned two young adults into household celebrities.

Rayway High School graduates Eric Headley and Amy Alfano made it to the quarterfinals in MTV's new sports competition show 'Sandblast'.

They threw us in Spandex and I didn't want my love handles showing, Headley said.
After being selected for the show, Alfano and Headley, along with the other contestants, were flown to Orlando, Fla., for the taping of 'Sandblast'.

horoscope

May 14-20

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Success will come through social contacts this week. Don't make it a point to meet with those whom you don't see often. Better communication is necessary in a family relationship. Don't be afraid to express your true feelings. Give young children the encouragement they need.

Taurus - April 21/May 21
Don't feel sorry for someone you can't count on. Look at the big picture before getting down on yourself. Avoid leaving a project to the last minute or you could find yourself in a heap of trouble. An unusual opportunity worth pursuing may come your way.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
A new project may seem overwhelming at first, but you're sure to get a wealth of satisfaction from it. Your optimistic attitude will guide you as you work. Don't let a busy week schedule keep you from important family matters. Remember to keep your priorities straight.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Get the blues? Take some time out to do something special for yourself. A little self-indulgence is probably all you need to lift your spirits. Money matters are looking up. That dream purchase is looking more like a reality. A little rest will bring some excellent news.

LEO - July 23/August 23
An old institution will please your interest. Just be sure you know what you're getting yourself into before making any financial commitments. An unorthodox approach to a difficult situation may be necessary later in the week. A heated argument may surprise you.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Overcoming a difficult situation will only make matters worse. You'll need to be more cooperative if you want to get out of the blue with surprising news. You'll marvel at the way time changes people. Cultivate a positive attitude to find yourself a winner by the end of the year. Rely on your intuition when it comes to making important decisions. Sometimes feelings are more telling than facts. The answer to a difficult situation is simpler than you would have thought. Feeling tired? Seek relaxation by watching soccer all night. It will do wonders for your outlook — and your figure, too.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Dishonest behavior of any kind could lead to trouble. Don't take any such chances. If you're looking for career advancement, this could be a lucky week. You could find yourself in the right place at the right time. A favorite sport or activity will add a playful flavor to the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
The thing some may not all it's cracked up to be. Do a single Sagittarius. But don't let it get you down. Remember, good things come to those who wait. Avoid spending on frivolous items. There could be some unexpected expenses coming up. Keep up on current events.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Instead of forcing an issue with a loved one, try to let it develop on its own. Think of long-term goals this week. Prepare for the future now or it will catch up on you and you'll have nothing accomplished. Remember, you're the master of your own fate.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Try not to divulge personal information to a misgiving associate. He/she may have your best interests in mind. A loved one who's going through a hard time may need your support and encouragement. You have a good understanding of the other person's situation. A surprise invitation is likely.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20
Someone you thought you knew with whom you share a close relationship may be deceiving you. You'll realize that even the most predictable people can be untrustworthy. A new hobby or interest will take up more time and money — but you had expected that. Make sure you know what's in store.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months:
Time will pass by quickly this year, so if there are goals you want to accomplish, you'll have to be extremely organized. Make a plan. Without one, you may find yourself frustrated 365 days of the year. Problems may arise with a loved one throughout the year. This is especially true if you're in a new relationship. Try hard to understand how someone else is feeling. You're a business for yourself; this could be a profitable year. Again, organization is the key. Your lack of motivation will be the December highlight. These are the things to pay after big things.

Theater group slates playwrights' workshop

A seminar series for writers titled "A Playwright's Survival Kit" will conclude with a look at "Surviving the Development Process." Though the discussion targets playwrights, it is also of interest to Playwrights Theater audiences who are always involved in the new play development process. Set for Monday at 8 p.m., the seminar features a panel of playwrights moderated by Playwrights Theater Associate Artistic Director Joseph Megel.

The panel includes playwrights Keith Glover, Mark St. Germain and Kitty Chene theater administrator Gerry Manning, literary manager at the New York Theater Workshop, Carlos Mirillo, literary manager at the Joseph Papp Public Theater in New York; and John Pietrowski, producing artistic director at Playwrights Theater.

"We hope to take the discussion beyond survival," Megel said, "so writers can learn to use the development process in a more productive way. As ever, the end result should be stronger plays, ready to thrive in the realities of the theatrical community."

Megel selected the panel to include writers who have had both supportive and disastrous development experiences and know the difference.

Glover's play "Dancing on Moonlight" opened this month at the Public Theater, marking his New York debut as a playwright. Another of his plays, "The Coming of the Hurricane," was produced this fall at the Denver Theater Center after earlier development work at Playwrights Theater.

"Camping with Henry & Tom" by St. Germain, currently playing in New York, was selected as the Best Play winner of the Lucille Lortel Award and has been nominated for an additional award by the Outer Critics Circle. His award may "kick" his play "run" earlier this season at Playwrights Theater.

Chene has had two plays in the development process at Playwrights Theater, "Biting Chicken Feet" was subsequently produced in New York by Pan

Aslan Rep and the Women's Project. Another of her plays, "I See My Bones," has been in development at Playwrights Theater this year — at first under the working title of "An Unlucky Work about Old Folks." Originally scheduled for production this May, it has been postponed until September, with an interim concert reading on May 20.

Directors Manning, Mirillo and Pietrowski have each had considerable experience working with new plays.

These panelists have had many different encounters with the development process," Megel said. "The dialogue promises to be lively, interesting, informative and productive." Reservations for the seminar should be made by calling the theater box office at (201) 514-1940. Admission is free to those who have been part of the playwrighting classes for adults at Playwrights Theater and open to the public for a fee of $25.

Playwrights Theater of New Jersey, a non-profit theater located in Madison, is the only theater in the state dedicated solely to the development of new plays and writers for the stage. In addition to the New Play Development Program that takes plays by professional writers through a development process, an extensive educational program reaches more than 17,000 young people annually throughout the state of New Jersey.

The New Play Development season at Playwrights Theater concludes with concert readings of "I See My Bones" by Chene on May 20 and "The River Love Story" by Jett Parley on June 10.

Playhouse benefit will aid historic preservation

Elizabeth PLANI, a local non-profit citizens group committed to historic preservation, is sponsoring a theater party benefit at the Elizabeth Playhouse, 1110 East Jersey St., on May 21 at 2 p.m.

The event will feature a performance of "Kinkadee," an original comedy written by Karen Semones, co-owner of the Elizabeth Playhouse, followed by a reception to meet the cast and crew. Reservations will be served.

The price of admission will be covered by membership in Elizabeth PLANI to support the organization's preservation projects. Elizabeth PLANI plans to save the Landmark Architecture and Neighborhoods, is dedicated to preserving, restoring and promoting Elizabeth's rich architectural heritage and improving the character of its neighborhoods.

"This community effort is sponsored by people who care about Elizabeth, value its heritage and are optimistic about its future," Nancy Altemberg, PLANI president, said.

Tickets for the performance of "Kinkadee" are $4 without PLANI membership. Benefit and membership information may be obtained by calling Nancy Altemberg, evenings at (908) 688-4656, Phyllis Broecker during business hours at (908) 620-4037, or the Elizabeth Playhouse at (908) 355-0077.

Elizabeth PLANI has chosen this occasion, during the observance of National Preservation Week, May 14-21, to highlight the creation of a community theater in the former Third Presbyterian Church.

Elizabeth PLANI also sponsors walking tours of the Historic Millstone District on May 20 and 21 sponsored by the Jerseyman Club of Elizabeth High School. Tours which last about one hour will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. on Sunday, and are free of charge.

"This should be a positive inspiration to other property owners in the City," said Katherine Craig of Bowwood Hall, state-historic site.

Art contest winners announced

The New Jersey Workshop for the Arts announced the seven winners of its first course book award contest. The winning artwork was featured in the recently released Westfield summer workshop course booklets, available from the workshop.

The art contest was based on dozens of submissions from past students of the Westfield summer workshop. The winners received a $100 gift certificate which can be used toward this year's tuition for the workshop.

The works of art are placed in each of the course guide's sections. A drawing by Marie Strino of Woodbridge is in the category of communication arts. In the arts and crafts section, there is a piece by Lori Hill of Westfield. A drawing by Laurin McCarthy of Clark is in dance. Amy Ondeyka of Fairwood is in the music category. A drawing by Aaina Ingram of Scotch Plains is in the music category.

Wendy Schullinger of Westfield's drawing is in the musical theater category. A drawing by Kevin Niam of Westfield is in the special interests category.

"All of the contestants did a marvelous job in their artistic endeavor," Schullinger said. "The challenge in their art work," Director Theodor Schullinger said, "was to create a work of art that would be a challenge to the viewer and especially the winners who rose to the challenge in their art work."

A copy of the Westfield summer workshop course booklets can be obtained by calling the workshop at (908) 789-9096.

The New Jersey Workshop for the Arts is a non-profit organization founded in 1972 by Schullinger to provide creative experiences in the arts for children and adults alike. Divisions of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts include the Art Gallery, Kid 'N' Arts, the Music Studio, Westfield Fencing Club and the Westfield Summer Workshop.

Dining Review May 11, 1995

By Andrew J. Stewart
Staff Writer

For a good meal at a good price, you really cannot go wrong with a New Jersey diner.

The state's suburban landscape is littered with these establishments, a testimony to their quality and economy. It seems as though there is at least one on every main thoroughfare.

West Westfield Avenue in Roselle Park certainly qualifies as a busy road, and the Midas Touch Diner and Restaurant lives up to the hallowed reputation of the Northern New Jersey diner.

The Midas Touch Diner, located at the corner of West Westfield Avenue and Locust Street, is a spacious place, with seating for about 140 people available. A "no smoking" section is provided by the ownership for those who do not care for the thicker atmosphere provided by tobacco enthusiasts, the numerous walks and the bright but not blinding lighting provides a cheery atmosphere, which is aided by the pink seats and booths.

The Midas Touch tries to treat its customers right as well as the daily specials and a separate set of offerings for senior citizens showed. They make sure they have something for everyone, and are putting together a special menu for Mother's Day, including prime rib and my own mother's favorite, roast leg of lamb.

The service at the Midas Touch is prompt and courteous, no doubt due to the fact that this is a veteran waiting staff. Many, one of the owners, says the place has had many of the same servers for years now, and there is not a great amount of turnover.

And might I add, a waitress was on hand to take the order. In fact, this particular waitress was so prompt she did not even give Mommy the chance to give her lunch recommendation, grilled chicken on a pizza.

While the grilled chicken on a pizza is not available for dinner, just about everything else is, from fried omelets at $16.75 on down the line. Most of the lunch items, hamburgers, split sandwiches for $4.99 on up, including prime rib and my own mother's favorite, roast leg of lamb.

Dental care puts gum disease under arrest

The year was 1995. I was working the dental beat out of Roselle Park. Things had gotten pretty bad. Talk around the office was that people were losing teeth. Loss of teeth...

The Dental Advisor

By Drs. Vincent and Glenda Tavorina

Oh, we knew who the culprit was alright. His name was Periodontal, a.k.a. "Gum" Disease. This Party was one sharp cookie. He knew we couldn't drag him in without a positive ID. So, with typical criminal arrogance, he left an unmistakable trail. Tell-tale clues.

The clues were pretty subtle at first. A sticky, colorless, bacteria-laden film all over the teeth. Gums that bled during brushing or flossing. That sort of thing. And they became more and more obvious as the crime developed.

ital dentures fit together, and persistent bad taste or bad breath. Pa seen them all. I had Perry pegged. Yeah, I could spot his modus operandi from a mile away.

The jawbones said that our man was getting careless. They said this was getting careless. They said this was getting careless. They said this was getting careless.

me. Heck, I knew he was out there, lurking in the mouths of ordinary private citizens. I could smell it. Another crime was in the works. But by the time Joe Citizen wised up, came forward and fingered the culprit on his own, it was too late. The teeth were gone. All that was left was a mass of tangled tissue, decayed bone.

I came up with a plan. We put together a "task force" of dentists, hygienists — trained foot soldiers in the battle against gum disease. Don't let their clothes fool you, they're one tough bunch. We posted them at strategic points throughout the territory. Then we went to work, educating the public. The truth is, old Perry doesn't stand a chance against a public that knows how to fight back.

I'm going to clean up the mouths of this territory if it's the last thing I do. They don't call me a gum shoe for nothing.

We hope you enjoyed our crime story. We look forward to providing you in the future, on a regular basis,

CHIROPRACTIC FOR BETTER HEALTH

DR. DONALD ANTONELLI
HEADACHES AREN'T "NORMAL"

Just about everybody gets a headache once in awhile, so why should you be easily upset if you happen to be suffering from one? If you've been experiencing such headaches on a regular basis, a certain amount of frustration may be in order. Headaches usually go away as soon as you're eating and drinking normally again and getting enough sleep. But what about the other kind of headache?

Some disorders, such as flu, include headaches among the symptoms. But if you're in reasonably good health, you have a right to wonder why you suffer from headaches. A

Tips on Premenstrual Syndrome from St. Barnabas

By Dr. Arthur Howard
Premenstrual Syndrome is a condition that has come into prominence in medical literature over the past 20 years. Prior to this, premenstrual changes were ascribed to fluid retention with three major components:
• Changes in personality.
• Environmental stress.
• Shifting ovarian physiology which pushes the woman over the edge.

Today, PMS encompasses as many as 150 different symptoms. Each woman experiences a different pattern of symptoms that may include both physical and psychological complaints. Since there are many variations of symptoms associated with PMS, this does not mean they are exclusive to PMS. Individual symptoms may be of unrelated conditions that may or may not occur concurrently with PMS, or may be aggravated by PMS. For example, a woman who suffers from depression may be much more symptomatic after ovulation.

The most common PMS symptoms are: headache — including migraines, irritability, mood swings, anxiety, weeping, bloating, weight gain and breast tenderness.

It is still a mystery why some women experience PMS symptoms and other do not. Despite much research, controversy remains over the "cause" of PMS. Most authorities agree PMS has to do with the hormone progesterone since signs and symptoms of PMS correlate with the second half of the menstrual cycle when progesterone is produced by the ovaries.

PMS can be difficult to identify because the symptoms encompass so many areas of the body. PMS is diagnosed by excluding other medical disorders which can be a difficult and lengthy procedure. Clearing your symptoms on a monthly basis, according to the type and severity, will aid your physician in making a proper diagnosis. Once again, there are multiple choices depending on the symptoms and the severity of the symptoms. No one mode of treatment works for everyone. Individualization is the key to good results. Stating this, however, there are diet and lifestyle changes that can help all PMS sufferers to some extent. Recommendations for PMS include fresh fruits and vegetables, and low-salt and low-fat foods.

• Taking a Vitamin-B-complex, potassium, and magnesium vitamins may also alleviate symptoms.

Miata Speedster makes a great debut at NYAS

The nation's best-loved sports car is set to make a splash in the country's largest sports car market. The dramatically styled Miata M Speedster concept car and the new, aluminum-alloyed, foldable Miata M Edition were on display at the New York Auto Show, which runs from April 15 to 23 at the Jacob Javits Center.

"One of every four sports cars sold in the United States is a Miata," said George McCabe, senior vice president and general manager of Mazda Motor of America. "With Mazda celebrating its 25th year of operation in the United States, you can think of no better way to kick things off than through the introduction of our collectible Miata M Edition, that consumers can buy now, and the debut of the M Speedster concept car."

In addition to the M Speedster being an exciting attraction for consumers visiting the show, Mazda is initiating a nationwide post-1994 Tri-State area residents and people across the country to weigh in with their opinions on the Miata. The M Edition and M Speedster concept car. People can vote by calling a special toll-free number, or by filling out a postcard.

The aggressive styling of the M Speedster was developed by the same Irvine, Calif., design facility that penned the original shape of the Miata. In addition to the car's show windfield, the M Speedster features large "checkers" on both sides of the front fascia that house powerful driving lights, flared and re-contoured fenders and integrated exhaust tailpipes that contain heat shields painted to match the body.

Bargain brake service is not total service

Car owners are often tempted to take advantage of "$49.95 specials" or other low-priced offers when their auto's brakes need repair. Such specials may look good, but they work around good. Auto technicians say that's because the specials generally don't include a complete examination of what can go wrong with the brakes. Most times, they only change the pads and rotors.

"While the M Speedster does include many interesting and exciting ideas, it is a concept car. And through there are currently no plans to produce the vehicle, we are interested what people think of the M Speedster," said McCabe. "We encourage everyone to call 1-800-884-MIATA with their thoughts," stated McCabe. The 1995.5 Miata M Edition, which will only be produced for six months, features an elegant Merlot Mica paint treatment, complemented by 15-inch BBS alloy wheels — a North American first for the Miata — and a tan leather interior and tan vinyl top.

The M Edition boasts unique sport bucket seats with adjustable headrests — a world's first for the Miata — and a tan leather interior and tan vinyl top. ## Fette Ford/Imports to test a novel lease program

Through June 3, 1995, Fette Ford/Imports is participating in a Ford Motor Company test of a novel lease program for the 1995 and 1996 Taurus that will allow customers to drive two new cars within one three-year lease period. According to Larry Fette, "This three-month Ford test is being conducted in only nine markets across the country, including New Jersey."

Participants will make one case outlay at the inception of a 12-month lease on a 1995 Taurus and will receive a certificate that guarantees pre-approved credit (assuming successful completion of the initial lease) and the same monthly payment for a 24-month lease on a comparably equipped 1996 Taurus.

The program allows for a model upgrade at the end of the 12-month lease period, with the monthly payment revised accordingly. Similarly, if a customer wants additional factory installed equipment on the 1996 Taurus, she or he can choose between paying the difference upfront to keep the same monthly payment or paying the increase over the term of the lease.

Customers who choose not to participate in the Drive Two Lease Program have the option of a standard lease arrangement. Fette Ford/Imports, recently recognized by Ford Motor Company for its exceptional customer satisfaction ranking, has over 600 Ford, Isuzu, Subaru and Select Pro-Jeweled vehicles in stock. A family business for three generations, Fette serves Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Morris and Hudson counties and beyond. Fette is located on Route 46 in Cliffon near Routes 3 and 80 and the Garden State Parkway. For more information call Jim Ruzianski at 773-7000.

Why is the Discovery considered the best family 4x4? "Because I said so."

Land Rover of North America increases offerings by four

Land Rover North America, Inc. the only exclusive supplier of four-wheel drive vehicles in the U.S. market, increases its offerings to four this year as the new Range Rover 4.0 SE and Range Rover County Classic join the Land Rover Discovery and Defender 90 models. Sales of Land Rover's premium British-built sport utility vehicles nearly tripled in 1994, and Land Rover North America is continuing this sweeping growth into 1995 with the most expansive product lineup in the company's nine year history.

RANGE ROVER 4.0 SE On also since March 17, the all-new Range Rover 4.0 SE made its New York debut April 12 at the New York Auto Show. This entirely new flagship model, which takes the place of the discontinued Range Rover County LWB model, is the first completely redesigned Range Rover in the vehicle's twenty-five year history.

The Range Rover 4.0 SE is the first completely redesigned Range Rover in the vehicle's twenty-five year history. Named "Best Sport Utility of 1995" by Playboy Magazine, the Range Rover 4.0 SE is the new benchmark sport utility vehicle. It is the result of a $500 million investment program to develop the world's most advanced dual purpose vehicle.

The Range Rover 4.0 SE builds on the concept of the original Range Rover to not only surpass that vehicle's renowned off-road capability, but to also provide superior on-road performance. It will come at least a partial failure of the braking system.

A soft pedal or excessive pedal effort can mean any one of several problems, including a leak in the hydraulic system, low fluid level or a failed brake booster. You or your dealer should check for a total brake service, inspecting and replacing the brake fluid and bearings packed or replaced, in addition to the service that is usually included in the "bang and turn" jobs.

Another thing to keep in mind, says Linbeck: The advertised price is often for one axle and not all four wheels. Settling for the inspection of just the front or rear axle may not cover problems occurring elsewhere in the brake system.

Car owners should insist on complete brake service for their vehicles, says Linbeck. "Getting the brake fluid flushed and replaced by cheap insurance companies to get a $1,000-plus refund on an anti-lock brake system," he says.

"Sometimes the service people are afraid to offer complete brake service because they've had to compete with 'bang and turn' prices, but a good technician will tell you what needs to be replaced and why."

Kelke lists the following top seven brake problems:

1. Grinding noises can be signs of worn pads or shoes. Delay in replacing pads or shoes can damage expensive rotors and drums, requiring their replacement.
2. Brake squeal may also be a sign of dragging shoes or pads, which can result in poor gas mileage, premature wear of linings and damage to drums or rotors.
3. Brake chatter and pedal pulsation can indicate a warped rotor or drum surface.
4. "Sticking out" of your pedal can indicate a fluid leak or master cylinder problem.
5. Unreliable and inconsistent stopping or grabbing brakes are often signs of a leaking caliper, master cylinder or wheel cylinder. If this occurs on an irregular, it could cause at least a partial failure of the braking system.
6. A soft pedal or excessive pedal effort can mean any one of several problems, including a leak in the hydraulic system, low fluid level or a failed brake booster. You or your dealer should check for a total brake service, inspecting and replacing the brake fluid and bearings packed or replaced, in addition to the service that is usually included in the "bang and turn" jobs.
7. Excessive pad wear could be the result of the wrong friction material grade for your vehicle or a type of driving. Towing or heavy hauling wears pads out faster than normal driving. This also applies to driving in hilly or mountainous areas and making quick or sudden stops. A premium-quality pad or shoe should be installed for these conditions.
