Township shorted in health contract

Studies show Regional Department provides few services

By Jay Hochberg
Managing Editor

According to studies performed by the Summit Regional Health Department, the Township of Springfield has been shorted in its four constituent municipalities.

In seven additional services, Springfield ranked last on both lists.

A town-by-town comparison of public health nurse activities, compiled by former Regional Health Department Director Henry Birme in 1992, shows Springfield ranked last in 11 of 19 categories of services provided in Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights and Springfield.

That 3-year-old study was the most recent made available to Springfield's "Special Activities" Committee in establishing a Local Department of Health.

"We've been throwing money on the table and getting pocket," said committee Chairman Charlie Jacques, during a meeting in January.

The comparison is a two-fold list of child-care services.

On a list of nursing activities performed for infants and pre-school children, Springfield ranked last in 10 of 19 services. On an identical list of nursing activities performed for children ages 5 and older, Springfield ranked last in six.

According to that comparison:

- In the total number of children seen by nurses, Springfield ranked last on both lists.
- In the number of complete physical examinations performed, Springfield ranked last on both lists.
- In the category of nurse counseling, Springfield ranked last on both lists.
- For the number of children immunized, Springfield ranked last on both lists.
- In the total number of immunizations administered, Springfield ranked last on both lists.

Board of Health receives 3 bids

By Jay Hochberg
Managing Editor

In its final act, the Special Advisory Committee on Establishing a Local Department of Health relayed three proposals, submitted by neighboring departments of health, to the Springfield Board of Health for consideration.

Health officers representing the Township of Union, the Township of Millburn and the Westfield Regional Health Department were the respondents to Springfield's advertisements for bids to contract health services. In their proposals, each outlined the types of service that would be available to Springfield and at what cost.

The committee voted to recommend Union's bid — the least expensive of the three — to the Board of Health for discussion. If approved by the board, Springfield would leave the Summit Regional Department of Health for Union's.

The Board of Health had been scheduled to meet last night, after this newspaper had gone to press.

The proposal submitted by Union Health Officer Dennis San Filippo, limited the services that would be provided on an annual basis:

- Health Officer services at $15,000.
- Specific services will include, but not be limited to supervision in administration, adult health services, communicable disease, environmental health, and maternal and child health.
- Health Inspector services — to be provided "on emergency basis only, when Springfield's Inspector is not available" — at $30 per hour.
- San Filippo also told the committee that he would be available for consultation by telephone and for occasional Board of Health meetings at a cost of $2,500 per year.
- In addition, the Union Health officer would visit the Springfield Board of Health for supervision and program development on a weekly basis at a cost of $5,000 per year.

If accepted, that option would render Union's bid the most expensive of the three received.

Union's Department of Health and Environmental Protection also may offer Springfield some of the services it provides locally.

Computerization of paperwork and statistics; inspection of underground tanks; inspection of business, industrial, and food service facilities; and testing of water wells. Currently, the Summit Regional Board of Health is not computerized.

The second half of Springfield's health service program — public health nursing — also was addressed in Union's proposal.

To start up and operate a flu clinic for a first year — until self-sufficiency is attained — Union's bid would cost $10,000.

High school program revives work ethic

By Cynthia B. Gordon
Staff Writer

At Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, traditional work ethics have been revived as the Renaissance Program ties academic achievement to social acceptability.

According to Principal Judith Wickline, the program was created to provide an environment where "students do the right thing, rather than the wrong thing."

The Right Thing is the subject of the program in which teachers reward students whose behavior they consider exemplary.

The Renaissance Program was born last year when Obesingte taught at Jonathan Regional High School in Clark, upon arriving at Dayton, she started over again at Wickline's request.

"I think it's a fantastic program," Obesingte said. "You can't help but be inspired."

Regional board agrees to cuts

By Cynthia B. Gordon
Staff Writer

The Regional Board of Education has agreed to reduce its proposed budget by $350,000, following a meeting Monday night attended by representatives of the high school district and local mayors at the office of the county superintendent of schools.

Approval of the new budget hinges on unanimous agreement among the governing bodies of the six constituent municipalities. If an agreement is reached by tomorrow, the budget will be decided by state Commissioner of Education Leo Klagholz.

According to Regional Board of Education President Iwan Toth, who is also chairperson of the district's budget committee, the board has cut its budget by an additional $200,000 to match the $350,000 in spending reductions proposed by Klagholz's Borough Council.

"We are not going along with the cuts suggested," said Toth, referring to the departments targeted by Klagholz for cuts.

During a budget summit held May 3, representatives from Kenilworth, cutting recommendations made by the board were hired by the borough, listed athletic activities, legal and technical services, operations and maintenance services, and employee benefits, among others, for defunding.

"We're not going along with those recommendations," Toth said. "The regional board will cut costs strictly through salaries and continued cost-containment. Nothing will affect the quality of education."

According to Toth, those cuts proposed by Klagholz did not include salaries of teachers, supervisors, administrators, custodians, secretaries or principals.

The regional board is "not cutting from one individual group," but from every group, Toth said. "We may look at some of the areas that were proposed by Klagholz, but educational programs won't be affected."

"We're not going along with those recommendations," Toth said. "The regional board will cut costs strictly through salaries and continued cost-containment. Nothing will affect the quality of education."

A tree grows...for now

The pear trees that line Morris Avenue between Mountain Avenue and Galdwell Place may be cut down, pending a decision by the Township Committee. Business owners on the street have advocated removing the trees, because of both the damage done to sidewalks by the tree roots and the leaves that are often blown into their stores.

Board of Health receives three contract proposals

health department would charge $2,416.
• Union may provide a child health conference, which could be held in Springfield; the details and costs of which were not outlined in the proposal and would have to be negotiated.
• If that conference were to be held in Union, the Township of Springfield would pay $3,748 for a program integrated with Union's. For $5,580, Springfield could have a child health program of its own.
Such a program would include health education; a Women, Infants and Children Program, other established child health conference services; and access to a staff pediatrician and nurses.
• Nursing services would cost the township about $1,550. However, public health nurses would provide 33 visits annually to handle school immunization, adult health supervision, and programs for disease prevention and maternal and child health.
• The health education sessions would cost $1,400. Visits by nurses to check for communicable diseases — tuberculosis, HIV, sexually transmitted diseases and rabies, among others — would cost an additional $344.

succeeded with a program like this. We're striving for excellence."
Her efforts did not go unnoticed. Both Assistant Principal, Manny Pereira and math teacher Stacy Hartnett were among the faculty and administrators instrumental in organizing the program.
They attended a workshop in Princeton where they learned about the Renaissance Program.
"The program that we went to was enlightening and enjoyable," Pereira said. "It's a very positive program for the kids and staff. It's something I think the teachers and students will really benefit from."
According to DiErcole, the program is a viable alternative because it has 4,000 schools participate and each can develop a program to fit its needs. A national network has been established that school staffers can contact in order to be connected to other schools to learn which aspects of the Renaissance Program are most effective.
The private sector is also involved. Both regional businesses and national chains support the schools' efforts by offering discounts and free goods to students who participate in the program.

Most families needed for students

American host families are being sought for high school students from Western and Eastern Europe, Asia, South America, Australia and the former Soviet Union for the 1995-96 school year in a program sponsored by the American International Student Exchange.
Each year, thousands of American families welcome a foreign exchange student into their homes. By continuing this tradition, the families contribute to international relations.
These students, ages 15-18, will arrive in the United States at the end of August, attend a local high school and return to their home countries in June of 1996. The students, all fluent in English, have been carefully screened by the local representatives in their home countries and have their own medical insurance and spending money.
AISE's main focus is teaching young people about the importance of the acceptance of other cultures. If you would like to read some student profiles, call 1-800-SIBLING.

Correction

In the story headlined "Local doctors test for disorders" in the May 4 issue, the Springfield Leader erroneously reported that "maxillary diverticulae have not been linked to genetic traits." According to Laura Segal, a staff psychologist at Springfield Associates, there is evidence connecting the two.

As attitudes change, adoption becomes easier

By Cynthia B. Gordon
The process of adoption has been known among prospective parents to be long and tedious, but according to one adoption agency the system is opening up.
Families planning to adopt children have spent between 10 weeks and two years filling paperwork and waiting for results, but according to Diane Proppert, director of Family Options in Lincoln, there are avenues couples can take that appear to be short cuts.
When trying to adopt a child, there are several options available such as adopting privately through an attorney, adopting through a private agency or through the Department of Youth and Family Services, a branch of the Department of Human Services.
Those wishing to adopt, whichever way they choose, would have to go through a home-study program — a six to eight week process that includes fingerprinting for FBI background check. According to Proppert, it is better to complete the home-study process first, so if a child becomes available, the adoptive parents are already approved by the State of New Jersey.
The home-study also involves a number of reports to be completed. An extensive medical and infertility report is required. Three references are needed, including a neighbor, a friend of five years and a personal reference.
Verifications of employment, income, marital history and citizenship are also required. In addition, birth and adoption papers of children in the home, any military discharges and a clearance written by the local police are also required.
The birth parents look through the portfolio to select a family. Once a family is selected, the two parties meet at the Family Options agency, where they begin to develop a relationship. The two parties may have involved a relationship as few, with meeting many times or few.
Both the Family and Children's Service of Elizabeth and Family Options provide adoption and counseling services to both those who want to give their child up for adoption and those who are looking to adopt.
Aside from the home-study process, there are other explanations as to why the adoption process is lengthy.

OPINION PAGE

Your vote doesn't always count

When should a mayor nullify the will of the voters on a school board's budget?

But that's what happened May 3 when the Union County Regional High School Board of Education met with members of the governing bodies of the district's six constituent municipalities.

During that meeting, the delegation from the borough of Kenilworth introduced a motion that called on the six constituent municipalities to support cuts in the regional district's budget.

That motion was needed because voters in the school district rejected the regional board's proposed budget for the 1995-96 school year.

In some of those towns, the vote was a clear mandate reflecting the confidence residents of the school district had in the Board of Education.

In Garwood, the budget passed in a 355-221 vote. When Michael Crincoli, the mayor of that borough, cast his vote against Kenilworth's proposed budget cuts, he said his community supported the regional system and therefore he had to support the budget.

The Berkeley Heights delegation voted against the budget cuts also. When that township's delegation voted for the regional district budget, but that didn't mean to say they were "duty-bound" to support the budget as passed by our electorate.

In the election of April 18, Springfield was the third town to pass the regional district's budget.

In a 695-444 margin, voters in the township supported the high school district budget, but that didn't mean to say they were "duty-bound" to support the budget as passed by our electorate.

In Clark, the popular vote on the budget was tied at 587-587. Mayor Robert Ellenport was entitled to some final say in the matter when he voted during the meeting.

When Mayor Robert Ellenport was asked why he voted against the budget, he said he was "duty-bound" to support the budget as passed by our electorate.

NEWFANGLED BOARD — Board member Thomas Fogger, center, is caught in the middle of Springfield representatives Ned Sambur and Theresa LiCausi during a recent meeting of the Regional High School Board of Education. Sambur, who supported a motion that would have mandated a board vote on issues regarding deregionalization, exchanged words at times acrimonious with LiCausi, one of the members who voted against the motion. Sambur was sworn in as a member of the board during the same meeting. He was elected to the Regional Board of Education in April, after campaigning on a

Orwell's vision of '1984' is ringing true today

When George Orwell wrote "1984" with "Big Brother is watching you" theme, many felt he was depicting a totally unlikely scenario for the future. Not much of what Orwell wrote is active had become reality by the time the year in the title arrived 35 years later.

Unfortunately perhaps for us, no such foreteller was available to write "1985," and prepare us for the bizarre world we have come to inhabit. And if someone had, perhaps 20 years ago written an accurate portrayal of our current existence, he or she or it probably would have been declared mentally deficient and defective, and in those days before we simply considered such people to be liars on the streets, been confined to the proverbial loony bin.

Nothing Personal

map 20 years ago. And my personal favorite, nationwide headlines, many of them critical, concerning a pestilence college which resided in the acceptance of a convicted murderer for lying on her college application.

When this story first broke, it was widely reported that the woman in question had in fact been unaccepted due to the fact she had committed murder. This resulted in howls of protest from those who seek to replace merit with political correctness.

A nickel could take you to another world

To the youngsters growing up today it must be hard to imagine the pleasure their grandparents derived from going to the movies.

Until about 20 years ago there was still a theater building in Roselle, but it had been out of service many years before that time. There were small stores still in business in the front part of the building, but the marquee had been removed.

The Way It Was

here and warn him of impending danger, all without upsetting others in the audience. It seemed odd, however, that no matter how many times he was never seemed to listen and get into trouble. He was, of course, an officer, and in the end he was killed. The play was a success, and the audience was very appreciative.

Medicare can be saved by GOP Congress

Be Our Guest

Medicare has been a blessing for New Jersey senior citizens by providing them with health care coverage during retirement. As an older American and someone who has worked for Medicare, I am greatly disturbed.

Unfortunately, Clinton immediately dismissed the idea, indicating that he was not prepared to join in finding a solution to the crisis until he sees Republican proposals. In short, our president expects Republicans to come up with the answers despite the fact that he has more than 4,000 government employees on his payroll at the Health Care Financing Administration that deal with nothing but Medicare.

Country must rebel against all violence

The Senate Report

There are few words to describe the outrage and helplessness we have felt during the past month as we've watched rescuers will victim after victim from the rubble of the federal office building in Oklahoma City.

It would be difficult to find anyone in America who hasn't been deeply affected by the bombing. The scenes of injured children, and families waiting in desperation for news of their loved ones will stay with us forever, as we try to come to grips with the kind of anger and hatred that could have given rise to such an evil act.

Governor appoints Perrin

The New Jersey Department of Human Services, with the approval of Gov. Christine Whitman, has appointed Mark Perrin, M.D., of the Summit Medical Group to serve on the Community Mental Health Advisory Board of trustees.

Perrin was recommended for the position by Congressman Bob Franks, 7th District of New Jersey. Dr. Perrin is an accomplished physician, citizen and father, with extensive knowledge and experience in the field of mental health. Franks said, "The congressman pointed out that Perrin has taken post-graduate courses in mental health to expand his understanding; he served on the Warren County Mental Health Board for many years, and is totally committed to improving conditions for the mentally ill."

Perrin helped to formulate a nine-step statement that was recently adopted by the board: "The mission of the Community Mental Health Advisory Board is to advise state government, advocate for consumer survivors, educate ourselves and others, and effect liaison in order to pursue excellence in mental health care."

Perrin is a proponent of local group homes—as opposed to hospitalization—for certain people who suffer from mental illness. "Many mentally ill individuals do very well when given a chance to live in a supervised, structured environment within the community. They need the support of physicians as well as members of the local community in order to live more meaningful and productive lives," said Perrin.

An internist, Perrin has been a member of the Summit Medical Group since 1966. He received a bachelor of science from Princeton University and his M.D. from New York School of Medicine. Upon completion of his residency in internal medicine at Baltimore City Hospital, Perrin took additional training as a fellow in internal medicine at Boston Veterans Affairs Medical Center.

Established in 1923, Summit Medical Group has an outstanding staff of primary care physicians, specialists and sub-specialists in virtually all areas of medicine.

In addition to the Wauchope office where Perrin practices, Summit Medical maintains offices in Summit, Morristown, Westfield, Short Hills and Millburn. Perrin is a resident of Blairtown.

Futurekids garners loan

Futurekids, a provider of computer training for children and adults, has received a $5,000 microloan from the Union County Economic Development Corporation to purchase new office and computer equipment.

Liz Zolner, owner of Futurekids, started her business in January. The company uses educational software in a personalized classroom setting to teach children and adults all about computers.

"This summer we will have a Computer Camp for children of the age 4 to 13," said Zolner.

The Microloan Program was designed to help promising startup and newly established businesses like Futurekids by providing seed capital of $5,000 to $25,000.

"We started the program last summer by borrowing $300,000 from the U.S. Small Business Administration to lend to entrepreneurs."

"Since then, we have approved 18 microloans totaling $286,500," said Christopher Patrick, who handles the loan applications.

The corporation will borrow $300,000 more from the Small Business Administration this year to continue the program.

Microloan funds may be used to purchase equipment, furniture and other fixtures for the business. Other eligible uses include working capital, renovations to privately owned commercial real estate, and business material and supply purchases.

Additional business assistance programs offered by the Union County Economic Development Corporation include loan programs for companies with larger capital needs, up to $100,000, and a technical assistance team to help small businesses bid on government contracts using a computerized matching system. The development corporation also provides demographic and business information, and offers a real estate program to help new, expanding and existing companies identify potential sites in Union County.

Business owners who want to learn more about the Microloan Program should call Christopher Patrick at 527-1166. To learn more about Futurekids' Computer Camp, call 277-3336.

UCC students assigned Summit for homework

Twenty-three Union County College architecture students had their original renderings unveiled at a noon presentation on Wednesday in Summit City Hall, following development of workable designs for a facade upgrade of the city's midtown business district.

The midtown facade redevelopment project is the sixth such project to which UCC architecture students have contributed their work in efforts coordinated by the Union County Economic Development Corp.

The students first toured Summit's midtown business district to see the existing facade, and then developed their own design adapted to the individual store owners' needs and tastes.

UCC students whose renderings will be unveiled are: Second-year students — Steven Giampietro of Newark, Roberto Hernandez, Ciro Monteverde, and Luis Torres of Elizabeth, Arthur Hoover of Union, Donald Linden of Millburn, Carmine Rizzo of Clifton, Richard Soltanov of North Bergen and Calvin Fontane of Rahway and first-year students — Claudio Almeida of Newark, Michael Anello, Carmine Critchello, George Ducasian, Holder Santos, and Chin Wing Shi of Hightstown, Michael Dickman and Cidalia Lampridge of Hillside, Abdullah Chafet of Bloomfield, Roger Garcia of Clifton, Debra Hoy of Newark, Debbie Herron of Union, Victor Jaramilla of Plainfield, and James Wicel of Bayonne.

Springfield group warns of dangers of summertime activities

More than 3,500 spinal cord injuries will occur during the summer, and more than half will happen on weekends, says the American Paralysis Association, a Springfield-based resource group.

Of the average 11,000 spinal cord injuries reported yearly, more than one-third occur in the summer, as a result of the increase in activities, with high accident rates — diving, swimming, surfing, surfing, motorboat racing and motor biking.

Almost 40 percent of these spinal cord injuries are caused by vehicular accidents, 25 percent result from falls, and 21 percent result from violence. Diving accidents account for 10 percent of these injuries. The remaining injuries result from either work-related or sports-related accidents, including surfing, skateboarding, roller skating, bicycling, rock climbing and motor biking.

SCC primarily effect a younger, often more active group of individuals. Sixty percent of the SCI sufferers were injured between the ages of 16 and 30, 70 percent are male and 50 percent are married.

Another major cause of spinal cord injuries are motor vehicle accidents, which account for almost half of all injuries each year.

APF recommends that divers always wear a crash helmet when riding a motorcycle, dirt bike or bicycle. Fasten your seat

Springfield's Taub sparked Boston U. women's tennis

Finished career as one of school's best ever

Susan Taub of Springfield, a former standout at Dayton Regional High School, helped the Boston University women's tennis team enjoy its most successful season in program history.

The 1991 Dayton graduate sparked the Terriers to a 12-2 record, North Atlantic Conference championship and first-ever national ranking.

Brown University concluded the 1994-95 campaign ranked 40th in the ITA national rankings.

The Terriers were ranked fourth in the 24-team Eastern Regional, which also marks their highest regional standing.

Individually, Taub capped a highly successful career by posting an overall single mark of 22-4 and a doubles mark of 14-6.

The senior advanced to the D-Flight final at the Eastern Collegiate and Brown Invitational tournaments and capped Fourth Flight at the NAC championships.

In doubles action, Taub teamed with teammate Amber Cause to capture the D-Flight at the Brown Invitational and advanced to the finals of the D-Flight at the Eastern Collegiate championships.

Taub began her collegiate career by winning 16 consecutive matches before suffering her first defeat in the D-Flight final at the NAC championships.

She compiled an overall mark of 26-1 as a freshman and finished her career with an overall record of 88-12 in singles and 49-30 in doubles.

She will go down in Boston University history as one of the best singles players the women's tennis team has ever produced.

As a junior Taub won the D-Flight singles title and claimed the D-Flight title at the NAC championships.

In recognition of her accomplishments, Taub has been a three-time member of the All-NAC Team.

She is graduating this spring with a bachelor of science degree in accounting.

Taub was one of the top three singles players in the state during her junior and senior years at Dayton Regional.

Braves reel off 3 Mountaineers wins

Cubs defeat Cardinals

The Braves reeled off three more wins in Mountaineers Youth Baseball League Major League action. They beat the Cubs 15-3, the Blue Stars 8-1 and the Mets 15-2.

Here's a look at all three games:

Braves 15, Cubs 3: The Braves' attack was paced by Jason Gionta and Mark Cantagallo, who had three hits each. Kenny Sullivan and Eric Cantagallo had two hits. Leadoff batter Brandon Cantagallo had one hit and scored three runs. Peter Klebaner made another fine defensive play at second base and has played well there all season long. Winning pitcher Mark Cantagallo struck out 13 Cubs. Eric Coy and John Jungwonen both had hits for the Cubs. Jungwonen struck out 12 Braves.

Braves 8, Blue Stars 1: The Braves scored five runs in the fourth and everyone on the team had at least one hit. Kenny Kolanko hit the top of the center field fence, missing a grand slam by inches. His hit was followed by key hits by Tim Scofield, Patrick Barrett and Peter Klebaner. Catchers Eric Cantagallo and Kenny Sullivan had two hits each. Mark Cantagallo played well at shortstop, turning one grand ball into a double play. Steve Bergski was on base four times for the Blue Stars and teammate Chris Frasco had two hits.

Braves 13, Mets 2: Kenny Sullivan had three hits, two of them home runs. Jason Gionta and Sullivan hit back-to-back round-trippers in the fourth inning. Mark Cantagallo, Gionta and Tom Fernandez had two hits each. Leads-off pitcher Steve Bergski was deployed by Patrick Barrett, Kenny Kolanko and Craig Anderson. They combined to throw out two runners at third base, with third baseman Fernandez making the tag. Steve Brown scored both Mets runs.

And next, for those of you who are wondering why my name is appearing here this week instead of that of my boss, Tom Cameron, don't fret — he'll be back next week. Tom and I will be splitting this column and what will probably be a bi-weekly basis. But don't hold me to that. If many things depending on intangibles.

So far this column sounds pretty straight, but Tom and I felt it best to let all of you know what was happening to avoid confusion when readers see my words instead of his.

Now that I'm beginning to settle into my new role, I hope I can begin to focus more on some matters of interest throughout Union County, and that doesn't mean just city government. It means matters that are of concern to residents generally.

I'm feeling refreshed now that I'm back from vacation, which was more of a "try-to-get-something-out-of-it-and-get-the-break-than-a-vacation-and-ready-to-go" thing last week's trip off allowed me to do was catch up on some reading. I read through an assortment of news magazines which had piled up in my room, and found some interesting bits of news regarding the Oklahoma City explosion.

As I was reading through the pages of Time magazine and U.S. News, I was reminded of Union County and Essex counties. A pair of moments in particular came to mind — Alan Shelton, an Elizabeth resident, and Andrew Bloesch, a Belleville resident who used to be employed at the General Motors plant in Linden.

The two came to mind because I was reading about how federal investigators were working to see if there was a connection between right-wing activists and accused federal-bulldozing bomber Tim McLaughlin. The two men, according to news magazines, were suggested that militias, survivalists, shortwave radio users and anti-tax groups may have had some involvement in organizing last month's bombing.

It was noted in both magazines that McLaughlin had attempted to "self-organize" through Springfield, a newspaper published by Liberty Lobby. The right-wing publication would, however, be published by McLaughlin with assistance to which he could all access, it was alleged in the magazines.

When I saw the name Spotlight, WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS, I was reminded of the name of the newspaper that was published in the town of Springfield, N.J. in the late 1950s.

Susan Taub

88-12 singles mark

During her junior year in the fall of 1991, Taub was ranked second in the state.

As a senior in the fall of 1990, Taub earned All-State recognition, enabling her to attend Boston University on a tennis scholarship.

Scholar-athletes honored

Dayton Regional's Gubernat and Carrelli selected

Many youngsters find it easier to pay attention to their studies because of their involvement in an after-school extra-curricular activity.

Some high school students realize that their time is limited when participating in a sport and that still need to find the time to put their studies first no matter what.

These kids may be called scholar-athletes. The cream of the crop in Union County are set to be honored.

When the time comes to shine a spotlight on the best and brightest Union County athletes has to offer, the Union County Interscholastic Athletic Association steps to the forefront.

The 18th annual Scholar-Athlete Awards Dinner, sponsored by the UCIAC, will take place tonight at the Westwood Banquet Center in Garwood.

The UCIAC, established 57 years ago, honors boy and girl scholar-athletes from each school and honors two athletes from the county each year with a Distinguished Athlete Award and an Outstanding Educator Award.

Earl C. Hargrave, retired teacher, coach and athletic director at Rollway High School, has been selected to receive the 1995 Distinguished Athlete Award.

The Rev. Paul R. Manning from Orange Prep in Summit will receive the Outstanding Educator Award.

A total of 46 Union County scholar-athletes for the 1994-95 school year will also be honored. From this group of youngsters recommended by their principals, the prestigious Walter "Gardner" Award Trophy and a $1,000 Distinguished Athlete Award will be selected. Both Gardner and Dumas were former executive directors of the UCIAC.

In addition, the 15th Sam Saborakis Memorial Scholarship will be presented to a worthy scholar-athlete from Union County who shows need and active involvement in sports.

Elizabeth High School athletic director Ray Kim will serve as toastmaster. Union County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Leonard D. Pitts will be the featured speaker.

The dinner, set to start at 7, is open to the public. Frank Ciccarelli, executive director of the UCIAC for the past 18 years, can be contacted for ticket information at 908-558-3014.

The UCIAC is a forum for the professional growth of coaches and athletic administrators in the county, which sponsors more than 30 tournaments for boys and girls.

It ranks as the grand-daddy of athletic associations in New Jersey and is recognized as a model for one of the most successful scholar-athlete awards programs in the state.

County Seat

(Continued from Page 1) The first thing that came to mind was the name Alan Shelton. That's because Shelton has been planning for a number of years about the whole "Spotlight affair" that allegedly occurred at Kean College.

Holocaust perspective offered by family

(Continued from Page 1) is the lone survivor. The rest of the family perished in the crematoriums. Zylberman noted that "thousands of books have been written about the atrocities and deeds of evil men. My book is different, because it shows the life, the indifference of the world at large, to let it happen. It also shows how evil had to be taught and that no one, not even the clergy could hear or see. It was only when the conflagration started to reach them that the world decided to destroy the least that caused it."

Boy's life captured in book

bitness prevails at the thought that his parents, brothers and sisters were among the 6 million slaughtered by Hitler's people, he beseeches God. In fact, there is a whole chapter about his conversation with God.
Still, Jacob's religion sustains to what happened to his fellow man, his family, "while God slept." He implores the heavens, asks millions of questions of why the world allowed the devastation to happen, and becomes embittered, loses his faith in God and thus has religious beliefs. When the war is over, Jacob goes to Germany in search of his one surviving brother, Levi, and discovers that he has left for America.
His adventures throughout Europe are interspersed with tales of romantic encounters, rampant dangers brought about by conditions, and the different road to freedom.

NATIONAL NURSING HOME WEEK

LONG TERM CARE

MAY 14-20, 1995

Affiliation will extend services

Visiting Nurse and Health Services and Tri-County, Virginia, have announced the completion of an affiliation that will strengthen the breadth and scope of home and hospice services in Middlesex, Somerset and Union counties.

Both agencies have a long history of providing high-quality programs

Fat reduction keeps body healthy

Once you have figured out how to eat a low-fat diet, sticking to it is a whole new challenge. It is a whole new challenge because it is not just about reducing the amount of fat in your diet, but also about reducing the amount of fat in your body.

Killean recommends getting no more than 30 percent of your calories from fat, but the American Dietetic Association reports that the national average is closer to 37 percent. Many people misinterpret the 30 percent guideline to mean that they should not eat any food or any meal that derives more than 30 percent of its calories from fat, Killean said. "That is not correct. The guideline applies to total calories eaten per day—you can even average it over a few days."

"Food labels now list fat content, but Killean stresses to be careful that you understand what the numbers mean. One of the most straightforward options for determining what percentage of calories you get from fat is to count up your total calories and your total grams of fat eaten over a day. Killean provides the following formula when figuring out how to limit your fat. Assuming you eat 2,000 calories a day, multiply 30 percent times the total number of calories to get the maximum number of grams of fat you should eat. Since each gram of fat supplies nine calories, divide your "fat calories" by nine to come up with the total number of grams of fat allowable per day. For example, if your total calorie intake is 1,500, then you should limit fat to 50 grams.

For more information about creating a healthy diet and lowering health risks through nutrition, search for upcoming lectures offered by Union Hospital. Recent lectures have included "Healthy Cooking: The Healthy Way," "Get Your Children On the Right Nutrition Track," "Good Nutrition: Just for the Health of It," "Nutrition and Cancer," and more. The lectures are usually in the evening and most are free of charge. For information on current lectures, call Killean at 908-851-7222.
