Stop & Shop set to appeal 1994 Zoning Board ruling

By Kathryn Fitzgerald

On Nov. 21, representatives of the Stop & Shop Supermarket Co. will make an appearance before Springfield's Zoning Board of Adjustment to appeal a 1994 ruling that would require the food chain to obtain two zoning variances on he Millburn Avenue property that formerly housed Saks Fifth Avenue. When Saks vacated the store in November 1994, the two variances held by the department store lapsed. The front portion of the property is zoned for commercial use, while the rear portion, beginning at the property line at the rear of he old store, is in the middle of a residentially zoned area. Should the appeal be granted, the next step for Stop & Shop will be to file for site plan. According to Michael Blazoski, the chain's New Jersey real estate namager, the site plan process is an evolving one that will continue to change with the input that Stop & Shop receives from the community. In addition to zoning problems, the supermarket chain faces opposition from many members of the communities it intends to serve; individuals and groups have expressed concern over increases in car and truck traffic, noise pollutio and exhaust odor.

The possibility of emergency vehicles becoming stuck in store-related con gestion is also of concern to the public, who have aired their opinions in several

To this end, Shop & Stop representatives have been hitting the streets in an effort to reassure residents that their supermarket will not be the blight on the area that its opponents have labeled it In newsletters, paid advertisements in local publications and face-to-face neetings, the food chain has begun addressing the public's concerns about the stroduction of this supermarket to an ordinarily residential area. "Basically, we're trying to get out to the community and talk about the facts of the project," said Stephen Reid, public affairs director for the chain. According to Blazoski, Stop & Shop has revised some of its plans for the Millburn Avenue property in response to concerns raised by members of the

 The current building, which occupied 83,330 square feet, will be replaced y a 73,210 square-foot store adorned with brick and limestone and screened from direct lines of sight by decorative landscaping and treek. These plans and more will blend in with the neighborhood's residential atmosphere.

• Instead of operating on a 24-hour basis, the store will be open from a.m.-11 p.m. daily. · Unlike regional wholesale clubs, this store will not attract customers from miles away. Its purpose it to serve the communities of Millburn, Summit and Springfield, a two to three mile area. "It's a neighborhood type of husiness, not destination type of business," Blazoski said. "You're not going here because it's the only one around; you're going because you can get what you want for a · Based on studies of similar establishing of Transportation, the store estimates it will receive a total of 1,780 customers' tion, I was preparing not only to win each day, not the 40,000 that have been claimed by the store's apponents. This is also a lower number than a discount department store or a multi-tenant facility would receive in one day in the same location. . Many residents have voiced concerns over the traffic that Stop & Shop would attract. The store has designed new plans that include constructing of left-turn traffic lanes, making design improvements, and studying the timing of traffic lights. All improvements made will be funded and arranged by Stop & Shop, "We don't have to just convince the town; we have to convince ourselves that the traffic's going to work out," Blazoski explained. "Even if the town agrees that what we've planned is going to work, if it doesn't work in reality, people aren't going to want to come to our store. If we create a traffic problem, people are going to avoid the area and the store, which is not in our best

* All deliveries made to the store will take place in an enclosed receiving dock during business hours. All unloading will take place once the trucks are inside the dock and the doors are shut. To avoid disturbing the surrounding neighborhoods, the store plans to route its delivery tracks to Morris Avenue directly from Route 24. The dock will also include sealed containers that will receive compressed garbage that can only be accessed from inside the building, removing the need for butside dumpsters.

Stop & Shop invites community participation and input throughout their planning process to help address any questions residents, groups and organizations may have about this project and to stimulate vital feedback. For more information or to voice a concern over this matter, contact Michiel Blazoski at 455-0990 or Stephen Reid at 507-9500,

Keep Stop & Shop out of Springfield

According to its own officials, Springfield residents do not need a Stop & Shop. Keeping that in mind, the Board of Adjustment should deny the zoning change the supermarket company seeks when that board meets Monday to discuss the matter.

During a series of three meetings with local community groups held in July, Stop & Shop Senior Real Estate Manager Michael Blazoski admitted the absence of a need for the supermarket where Springfield, Millburn-Short Hills and Summit meet. Instead, he said, Stop & Shop wants to cut into the market that now exists in the area.

Market forces, pardon the pun, will determine the success of the area supermarkets. There now is a ShopRite nearby to the west of the proposed Stop & Shop site; a Foodtown nearby to the east and an Acme a few miles to the south. In addition, there are several convenience stores in Springfield to supply consumers with the sort of items needed on a 24-hour basis.

There's another problem: The meetings Stop & Shop convened in July were intended to present the company's "conceptual plans" for the proposed store and to solicit residents' comments. That was a sham.

Dozens of people from Springfield and Millburn-Short Hills came to those meetings, and their reaction to the company's plans was not favorable. Stop & Shop representatives said the residents' concerns would be considered if the company changed its conceptual plans. Not only has Stop & Shop not changed its plans significantly to suit the residential neighborhood it wants to join, but by going before the Springfield Board of Adjustment, rather than the Planning Board, the company, if its request is approved, may end any discussion of changing its blueprint to benefit area residents.

The land in question is suitable for other commercial uses; it used to be the site of Saks Fifth Avenue, and would be ideal for a similar department store.

We think it also should be considered for development of housing to be included in the townhship's everevolving Fair Share Plan — regardless of whatever Township Attorney Bruce Bergen tells Judge Pisansky.

Thanks to the board

On behalf of the residents of Springfield, we thank the Board of Health for coming to its collective senses and finally pulling the township out of the Summit Regional Department of Health.

For far too many years, that department had been taking Springfield tax dollars and not delivering the services it had been contractually obligated to provide — and in the process violating state laws. In addition, the regional department never has been able to offer Springfield an accounting of those dollars.

According to its own reports and records, the Summit Regional Department of Health is a grossly inefficient and corrupt bureaucracy. Its longtime director, Summit Health Official Henry Birne, retired earlier this year, ending a 20-year tenure. A new health officer has been hired, and but he'll be able to do that without Springfield's money. There's a long list of Springfield public servants who deserve recognition: Board of Health members Rosahe Berger, Patricia Lynn, Patricia Murphy, Stanley Newman, Bernard Schwartz, Lois Weber and Township Committee iaison Roy Hirschfeld.

The Board of Health would not have been able to make this decision without the advice contained within a report submitted by the ad hoc Committee to Investigate the Advisability of Establishing a Local Department of Health. Its members were: Arthur Buehrer, Richard Coan, Township Committeewoman JoAnn Holmes, Charles Jacques, Helen Keyworth, Anthony Matarazzo, Alan-

Talarsky and Township Sanitarian Cynthia Weaver: This committee performed nine months of research in three months, and although it was required only to report the feasibility of establishing a local department of health. its members went above and beyond their duty and found alternative arrangements the Board of Health could

That ad hoc committee would not have existed without the wisdom of three Township Committee members. In December, Holmes, Jeff Karz and Harry Pappas wrote and passed an ordinance that created the ad hoc committee and outlined its duties. Unfortunately, Mayor Marcia Forman and Deputy Mayor Herb Slote never realized the need for the committee, let alone the Board of Health's obligation to withdraw. from the doomed regional. In their typical fashion of govern erning against the will of their constituents, they fought against common sense, smart spending and basic decency in order to rob their political foes of a worthy accomplishment.

It seems the voters set them straight Nov. 7.

Voting: a right that can't be denied To the Editor:

On Nov. 7 I was cheated out of my right to vote. On my way home from Kean College, I stopped at Chisholm School to vote. I

String quartet set to play Levin Theater

The Tokyo String Quartet will mark its 20th appearance in the Maur ice Levin Theater Sunday at 7:30 p.m. with a program that includes selec-tions by Mozart, Bartok, and

The Maurice Levin Theater is located in the JCC of Metropolitan New Jersey at 760 Northfield Ave. in West Orange. The performance is part of the ICC's Chamber Music Series, the longest running chamber series in New Jersey. The announcement was made by David Kristol of Summit, JCC Chamber Music Series chair, The Washington Post-defined the Tokyo's status in the chamber music world by saying "if the Tokyo String Quartet isn't the world's greatest chamber music ensemble, it's hard to imagine which group is."

Last year, the quartot marked its 25th anniverary with a performance of the complete string quartets o Beethoven in an unprecedented join series between New York's Carnegie and Avery Fisher halls. The Tokyo Quartet has performed at the leading music series and universities in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and others; the Tokyo continues as artistsin-residence at Yale University and at the Cincinnati Conservatory o

STOP & SHOP IS TRYING TO GET APPROVAL TO BUILD A MEGA-STORE IN SPRINGFIELD BY FEEDING US PURE BALONEY

Stop & Shop would like you to believe that they will attract only 1,780 during an average weekday to the Saks site. That's pure baloney. The Food Marketing Institute a national organization of supermarkets and food manufacturer's that Stop & Shop belongs to has published figures that tell a far different story. Those figures tell us that a store like Stop & Shop with approximately 60,000 square feet of selling area will draw between 30,000 and as much as 35,000 customer's each week. And in suburban New Jersey, almost all of those customers will travel to this site by car.

The 8 Minute Drive Time Rule -And What it Means To Our Town

In fact, experts say that a huge supermarket like Stop & Shop will have customers driving to it from other areas up to 8 minutes away. Now 8 minutes may not sound like a lot, but given this site's access to Routes 24 and 78, that 8 minute travel time, especially with light traffic, will draw in customers from a wide area to the east and west. On a Saturday, the biggest day of the week in the supermarket business, that draw translates to major congestion - far more than what we have our on Morris, Millburn and Short Hills Avenues, And with main roads clogged, neighborhood streets will soon feel the pressure. Is that the quality of life we want

Stop & Shop, The Lesser Of 2 Evils? Please!

To make themselves seem more like the lesser of 2 evils. Stop & Shop tells us that a discount department store would attract even more traffic... 2,400 customers per day. Or that a sub-divided discount retail center would attract 2,500 customers per day. More baloney, First, The Food Marketing Institute's figures show Stop & Shop's former sister company, Bradlees, require at least 125,000 square feet... a store size that this site could never support. And, more important there are no plans for a discount retailer to take this site, not even Bradlees, We would much prefer that the site he used for a low volume retailer like a furniture store, or for a residential condominium

The Lessons Of The Fresh Fields Fiasco In Millburn - Just A Few Weeks Ago

Stop & Shop promises that they'll only receive deliveries during the day - and only tir an enclosed loading dock. That sounds great, but let's not forget the flasco of broken promises made by Fresh Fields another supermarket chain, with our meighbors in Millburn just a few weeks ago. The fact is, all supermarkets in the area receive deliveries at night, when roads are less busy and store parking lots are nearly empty. Why at night? It's simply easier to maneuver huge 18 wheeltractor trailers into place and it gives them more space to "stage" them, waiting for their turn to unload. And that translates to idling diesel engines, refrigeration trailer motors and plenty of other work-related noises at night.

A transparent ploy to win acceptance... for now.

To gain acceptance Stop & Shop has changed its application from a 24 hour operation to 7 am through 11 P.M. Frankly, we think that's a transparent ploy. In 12 to 24 months, we believe Stop & Shop will simply apply for a Zoning Variance, a perfectly legal maneuver if they can show "changed circumstances". But nonetheless, a sham. Who will pay to defend against this maneuver? We, the neighbors of this site, will. We, the neighbors, will bear this cost against Boston

We Don't Want Stop & Shop's Promises We Want The Right To Our Current Quality Of Life

Shop & Shop says they'll enter into an agreement to guarantee their compliance with the conditions to any approval and will pay penalties if they violate the conditions. That sounds great. But we don't want to police and constantly monitor their operation. We don't want litigation. We don't want penalties. We want the appropriate use of this property. We want our neighborhood, our town to remain as it is... not transformed overnight into a retail traffic jam of 30,000 + cars and 160 delivery trucks a week,

> Help us protect our homes, our environment. our quality of life. Help us stop. Stop & Shop's baloney!

One of the biggest critic among lay citizens against those who work in the public sector is that if you're a government employee, you receive more perks than any employee in the private

Annual raises — sometimes high as, if not higher than, 5 percent - are given despite poor economi onditions that in all probabil would force the private busine owner in the same economic cl mate to withhold raises. Benefit packages are some of the best in the nation in the public sector, and days off are expected on any holiday Where does the money con from for these kinds of financia packages? Taxpayers' pockets, course. It's been government belief that taxpayers have an eve flowing river of funds to kee Town Hall thriving. But what few elected leaders consider is that the taxpayers' reservoir is low and they simply cannot afford to be Tow Hall's Welfare Department,

While the "contractual" raise are doled out, though, the sam olected officials will complain about shortfalls in state aid to mak ends meet. They'll complain an complain instead of truly governing with the taxpayers' best interests in mind. That is, having the courage to tell their employees that government this year, or next year, for the next three years, cannot afford t give the kinds of raises they'v been accustomed to giving. But that would take real leadership, and if the number of voters who went to the polls last week is any indication, Joe Voter does not have that much faith in his elected leader

Another perk is "the convention for public sector employees. Lang becomes one of the "dreamgirls" in the second act when she replaces Effic, played by Sharon Wilkins. In addition to being featured in the show, she also is the understudy of lead singer Angela Robinson, who plays Deenallones. In fact, Lang was in rehearsal one Friday afternoon, and took time out to chat with this reporter.

"As understudy, I'm rehearsing Deena," she said with enthusiasm. "I know it means learning another role. But actually, it's not hard for me because I did this Lang performed in a regional production of "Dreamgirls." "I know the music already, and I appeared in the show in a regional company Long Beach, Calif., about three years ago. I was in the ensemble. This is what ou call movin' up," Lang laughed, "I love the show," she exclaimed. "Everybody is great to work with. Dreampirls is a great piece of work. I just fell in love with it." Lang, has appeared in national tours of "Tommy," "Cats," "Bubblin' Brown Sugar," "Satchmo" and "Harlem Suite, and in the regional production of "Ain't Misbehavin." "She also portrayed one of the original flygirls in the felovision omedy "In Living Color." "I auditioned in New York City for the role of Michelle in the Paper Mill's Dreamgirls," she recalled. "And I went to about three rehearsal calls and then found out I had the part maybe a month later. I live in East Orange and I live in ns Angeles, too. You know, kind of bi-coastal. My parents, Juanita and Walace Lang, and my family live in East Orange. But I grew up in Plainfield." Singing came easy for Lang, and she does a lot of it in the this musical. II never took a singing lesson in my life," she admitted, "but actually,! started dancing when I was about eight years old. I started taking dance lessons back then I used to watch all the old Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly movies, and that "Right out of high school I went to the Alvin Ailey School in New York City and took musical theater courses," she said, "I wanted to work right away, and my first job was a European tour of Bubblin' Brown Sugar. And Ilve been working ever since. In between, I was in some shows. Right after high school, II did a show called 'Harlem Suite' with Maurice Hines, Jerome Hines' brother, The show toured and we went to Los Angeles and it closed there. I decided to stay there, and I got an agent out there and a month later, I auditioned for a show, a pilot, for 'In Living Color," for television. And a year later, the show

Lang also appeared in her Broadway debut in The Who's "Tommy." "That was in February of this year, but it closed in June. I love it here at the Paper : Mill," she added. "Everybody's so nice, and each performer treats the other as a person. It's a good place to be working in," Lang said, "And it's good to be working at home. My friends and family come to see what I do in person. It's like I can give back to my community where I come from,
