Humanitarian helps needy residents

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

At the age of 70, Herbert Ross of Mountside, chairman of B'nai B'rith Housing in Springfield, has been active in his community, has written articles for the Newhouse papers, writes poetry and has written a book, gave his son and daughter the family business — Memorial Chapel in Millburn, Union, and currently is fighting for a senior citizens' housing project in Springfield. The benevolent humanitarian has diabetes and kidney disorders, and disregards his ailments in his zeal for "keeping people alive and to be able to live in an environment that will give them an opportunity for life and continued life."

Ross explained over lunch that his resolution to initiate B'nai B'rith Senior Citizen Housing was passed by the executive board of the Springfield B'nai B'rith, a wonderful lodge. The resolution calls for B'nai B'rith National Senior Citizens Housing Committee to develop a program for senior citizens in Springfield.

"The property, he said, "must be located near shopping and transportation, especially buses, and it must be adequate to accommodate a large complex." The government sponsored program provides initial monies to start construction. B'nai B'rith will run the project.

"B'nai B'rith Citizen Housing," declared Ross, "has been developed successfully throughout the country and the needs in Springfield more than qualify for this program." Owners of property that could qualify are asked to contact Ross at (908) 232-2926, or Ross' partner, Joseph Tenenbaum at (201) 379-9306. Ross announced that "if anyone has undeveloped land that he thinks will qualify and is interested in selling or participating in this worthwhile program, he can contact me or Tenenbaum."

Ross himself has been looking for the perfect site — Highland Square in Springfield. It is on top of the hill near Route 78. In fact, 78 splits it.

Politics will top the bill at seminar

By Christine Eng
Correspondent

Florence Farone of Springfield will have a busy and exciting two weeks as she travels to San Diego for an academic seminar at the Republican National Convention.

Called "Campaign '96 Onsite at the Republican National Convention," the program is run by the Washington Center. The seminar, which runs through Aug. 16, is a first for the part-time Kean College professor.

Chosen with four others, Farone, a dean's list scholar, is looking forward to what she considers to be a unique learning experience. "It's interesting and there's a lot to learn from seeing the actual convention close up and to actually see what brings it to a heat," she said.

Regional board regulates Internet

By Christopher Toohy
Staff Writer

With the Regional High School District on the verge of expanding its technological capabilities, the school board has begun to take steps to ensure students will be responsible in their cyber surfing.

During its meeting Tuesday at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, the regional board approved a proposal given by Tom Baker on an "Acceptable Use Policy." The policy was intended to be introduced for first reading, but was given to the Technology Committee for further review.

Baker said the policy, based on similar school districts' policies, would provide the district with guidelines which determine proper computer use — in particular, Internet use.

In addition, the policy is intended to release the school district of responsibility if a student violates a guideline, such as violating copyright laws.

"It provides a backbone for reporting and disciplining students if they violate the policy," Baker said. "The acceptable use policy consists of five parts. The first part is where the student is required to promise that he will abide by these rules and regulations that we've set out here," he added.

The policy states, "Recognizing that the Internet is neither a regulated nor policed entity, the board requests that students agree to use the resource of information as an aid in the learning process according to the regulations below."

Nine regulations are included in the policy that the student must agree to, including an agreement not to look, transmit, obtain or print text or sexually explicit materials, not to create, display or publish offensive, defamatory or threatening materials and an agreement to "abide to copyright rules."

"And the second part gives an opportunity for the parent to agree that while the district will certainly make every effort to police the use of the Internet, nevertheless, it's entirely possible for students to be careless and abuse it. So, we see just taking the parent not to hold us responsible if that occurs," Baker said.

Board member Bob Feans addressed the issue of censorship and questioned the subject's language "and" within the policy, "offensive materials." "What if someone else is not abusive to me and vice versa. How do you define it?"

Stop & Shop site still needs buyer

By Kathryn Fitzgerald
Managing Editor

The Millburn Avenue building that formerly housed Saks Fifth Avenue remains vacant as its owner, Stop & Shop, continues its search for someone to purchase it.

According to Stephen Reid, public relations representative for the supermarket chain, they are "in the process right now with several potential buyers." There is no estimate for when any decision will be made.

The decision to offer the property for sale was made after the Board of Adjustment denied the chain's appeal of a 1994 zoning officer's decision, claiming that Stop & Shop had not shown the property's use would conform to the two zoning ordinances previously given to Saks.

Reid said the company "always believed that the Springfield site was a perfect site for us to build a Stop & Shop."

"We believe we have a legal right to do so," he added, "but it looked like it was going to come to a long legal battle and that's not what we planned."

The two townships have been cooperative, Reid said. A Millburn ordinance that would have placed See SUPERMARKET, Page 2

Workers may face layoffs due to fines

By Elaine Dillport
Staff Writer

The Springfield Truck Center, on the corner of Morris Avenue and Koeler Street, is still receiving fines on a daily basis from the township as a result of operating its truck rental center on the property.

As a result, the center may be forced to close the rental portion of the business, which will result in layoffs of some workers who have been with the company for years.

One of the workers who stands to lose if the township's fine continues is James Morgan, the manager of the truck rental center. Morgan, who has been with the company for 16 years, is upset that what he sees as harassment from the township and a few local residents may result in the loss of his job.

"If the rental part of the business is cut out, that will leave me in a bad position," Morgan said. "Right now, I am the rental manager and it is quite nice to have that source of income. We have been doing the rental office for two and a half years and now, all of a sudden, we're being attacked because of the complaints of a few residents."

Technology prevents sun-fade in home

Yearly expenditures for home decorating continue to soar. In fact, 35 to 44 year olds spend the most for housing and home furnishing, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. That trend is expected to continue. By the year 2000, that same age group is expected to increase their spending in the decorating market by 100 percent.

But once the dollars are spent, many homeowners believe they have to turn their home into caves to keep natural sunlight from fading their new furnishings. New technological advances indicate otherwise.

"Furniture and wall colors can stay true longer if homeowners get to the core of the problem," says Paul Aaron of Pella Windows & Doors in Springfield, the local representative of Pella Windows and Doors. "The most basic place to start is the windows. New window technology can bring natural light in while blocking most of the harmful rays that cause fading."

Aaron says today's high performance windows offer advanced glazing technologies such as low-emissivity, or low-E, coating. This coating acts much like a mirror, reflecting heat and other fading rays. Because the coating is clear, it allows nearly all visible light into the home. Some windows with multiple layers of low-E, for example, block up to 74 percent of ultraviolet and other rays which cause fading, Aaron adds.

"Homeowners should make sure the windows they are considering don't have coatings that tint the glass gray or brown. Tints can detract from the bright and open feeling windows add to the home," added Aaron. "Another option to consider is mini-blinds or pleated shades that can be pulled during the sun's most intense part of the day. Today, these options can be placed between the panes of glass, out of the way of dust and damage."

As an added benefit, today's windows offer energy-efficient options. Aaron recommends homeowners evaluate a window's U-value, which measures the amount of heat loss through both the glass and window frame. The lower the U-value, the more energy-efficient the window. U-value of approximately .40 indicates good energy efficiency.

For free information about making window decisions, call 1-800-847-3552, or visit Pella Corporation on the World Wide Web at <http://www.pella.com>.

Hot city, cool jazz

Jazz trio brings cool sound to Rahway

By Jacquie McCarthy
Associate Editor
Into the midst of this hot, humid summer, Rahway welcomes the cool jazz sound of the Jesse Morrison Trio...

Jesse Morrison

"This is my second year of the jazz series in Rahway," he told me. "I've lived in Rahway for four years. I love it here. It's a small town, and the people are kind of close. Not too hectic as a big city."

Morrison's musical career began in his youth, playing rock and roll and rhythm and blues. He really got serious when he first started listening to jazz, realizing that this was the music he wanted to play. "I had to buckle down and start studying," he said. "I began preparing myself as a classical musician," Morrison told me that he felt jazz presented more of a challenge musically, and he pursued it in earnest.

In addition to the alto and tenor saxophone sound, Jesse Morrison is well known for his playing on violin, which he studied at the tender age of seven. "A little piano for writing," and then, all of which he will play in tonight's concert. Morrison had the opportunity to study the flute with Rolland Kirk, one of his favorite musicians. "I studied with him while I was in the school when I was younger," Morrison remembered. "He 'lived' in East Orange. I lived in Orange' too. I'm originally from Newark."

Since then, the Jesse Morrison sound has gone international, through appearances at jazz festivals in Europe, Japan, Germany, England, France, Canada, and Newfoundland. He has never forgotten where he comes from, however, and is a regular at the Newark Jazz Festival, as well as at many regional and national clubs and "concerts," such as Chamber's in Hillsdale, the Blue Note in Manhattan, and the New Orleans Jazz Festival.

Before embarking on a musical career that would take him around the world and back, Morrison worked many odd jobs, one of which was for the Board of Education in Newark. He taught at the Newark Center for the Performing Arts for seven years, and started their first youth jazz band. Morrison's love of jazz has inspired his own children. Daughter Monique Morrison has been a singer with the group for three years. "She's getting her professional career started," Morrison said proudly. "Eight-year-old son, Nathaniel-Morrison is 'a chip off the old block,'" on the saxophone. "He's pretty good," said the proud papa. "He's a stealer."

Morrison's favorite musicians include Charlie Parker, Sonny Rollins, John Coltrane, and Junior Walker. A Jesse Morrison original tune is included on one of Jimmy McGinty's albums. Other original compositions include "Hound Dog" and "Monique." His first album, entitled "The Essential of Jesse Morrison," is a recording of mostly original songs. He is working on his second album, too!

An enchanted evening under the stars

By Ben Smith
Staff Writer
From the moment the Israel Festival of Union took off from the Frisberg Park grounds Thursday evening before a crowd of about 1,000 people...

The annual "Jewish Music Under the Stars" now in its 12th year, is sponsored by the Israel Festival in conjunction with the Department of Recreation in Union. With rain threatening off and on all day on Aug. 1, an hour before the show, the sun came out according to Max Feldman, chairman...

Before the invocation given by Rabbi Korban, there was a moment of silence in memory of Cantor Hillel Solovitz, who died several weeks ago. Cantor Solovitz, who had always led the audience in both the American and Hebrew national anthems, was greatly missed. Cantor Larry Tiger of Edison took over.

The audience was really in the mood when Feldman announced that tickets were already sold for the 12th annual Hallelujah Concert, scheduled for Dec. 8 at 2 p.m. in Burnet Middle School in Union. He announced that Hal Jeffrey, who won rave reviews last year, will be back again to offer his very special talent, accompanied by Paul Peluso.

In any atmosphere of gaiety, dancing, singing and hand-clapping, a summer night under the stars had the quality of a very happy event, with many of the folks still humming their favorites as they folded their chairs and trotted toward their cars.

Beware of taking a lethal dose of warm summer sun

After a brutal winter, the warmth of the summer sun is a welcome relief, however, basking under the sun may lead to skin cancer.

This year, physicians will diagnose 1,200 New Jerseyans with skin melanoma and 230 will die of the condition, according to estimates from the American Cancer Society.

Protecting young skin from ultraviolet rays is particularly important. Hair loss, freckles, and sunburn are early signs of skin cancer.

Patients may experience extended periods without a relapse and prolong their overall survival through this treatment, Gormino said.

Questions about nutrition and foods can be answered by the American Institute for Cancer Research, which has established a toll-free hotline.

Call the AICR Nutrition Hotline for returned within 48 hours by a registered dietitian who can provide personalized answers to questions related to diet and health.

Its not a dream any longer—massage away your cellulite

A new and innovative cosmetic procedure that massages away the problematic skin condition called cellulite is being offered at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in Newark.

This skin-surface technique provides a painless massage that disrupts connective tissues that cause cellulite development, and permanently smooths the tissue, said Dr. Dobko.

Dr. Dobko, who also is associate professor of surgery at the medical school, noted that the procedure is not a replacement for liposuction, a surgical method to remove fat. It is an adjunct procedure to use independently or to enhance the results of liposuction.

Cleaver's slogan is "We Bring Neighbors to the Movies."

Viewers get "Carried Away" by small town love story

"Carried Away." In 1955 a film came out called "Legends of the Fall" starring Eric Roberts. The author of the novel from which the film is based is Jim Harrison.

The story begins with a 10-year-old boy, Joseph Svenden, helping his father in the wheat fields. A tragic accident leaves the youngster with a severely damaged foot.

They seem like the perfect couple, content with their positions in this uncomplicated, happy life. The only problem between them is Joseph's reluctance to marry, more out of fear of change than lack of love.

She's the pretty daughter of a military father who is a lieutenant colonel. She has a rebellious streak that spells trouble for Joseph, especially when she develops a crush on him.

This turn of the story could have spiraled the film into a clichéd mess, with Roseanne becoming the psychotic, vengeful spoiled lover and Major Wheeler relying on his military training to give Joseph a torrid seduction.

The Video Detective

By Jim Riffel
could have been heavily handed over, instead, delicately edited and, therefore much more effective.

In one scene Joseph is worrying about whether or not any of the townspeople know about the affair, particularly Catherine's father. His fear is heightened when Major Wheeler arrives at Joseph's house at 5 a.m. to invite him hunting.
