for Economical Transportation

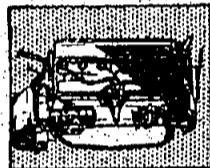

It's wise to choose a SIX!

After all, it is a perfectly simple matter to decide which automobile to buy in today's market. Only two questions must be answered to your satisfaction—

First: Which car gives the most for my money?

Second: Which car represents the soundest investment in satisfaction and pride of ownership?

Six-Cylinder Motor

In buying a low-priced car consider the following facts:

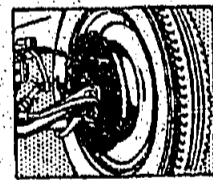

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—for six cylinders are necessary to take out vibration and roughness. Six-cylinder smoothness will save the motor, the chassis, the body, the passengers and the driver. The Chevrolet is a six. And yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay.

This very low-priced car lasts longer, not only because of fine materials and oversize parts, but also because it is a six. Its big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder engine is always "taking it easy." There is no feeling of strain.

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six uses no extra gasoline or oil. Efficient design makes this possible—overhead valves—high compression power from any fuel—very latest carburetor—close-fitting, long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—air cleaner. You can really have extreme economy and still satisfy your ideal of truly modern transportation.

Chevrolet economy is also the mark of Chevrolet sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are readily accessible and adjustable. This saves replacing valves, and also makes it possible to preserve the efficiency of the engine.

Fully Enclosed Brakes

A similar example is found in Chevrolet's molded brake lining—reducing the necessity of frequent replacement, and consequent expense.

Furthermore, there is a rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet.

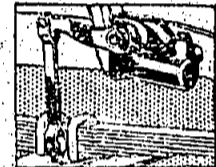

ROADSTER OR PHAETON

f. o. b. factory, Flint, Michigan

This makes it unnecessary to take the axle apart to examine or clean it.

The new Chevrolet Six is full of such evidence that true motor car economy comes from modern advancement and refinement.

Like the finest cars, the Chevrolet Six provides the comfort and protection of four springs controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, and self-adjusting spring shackles maintain quiet.

Delco-Lovejoy Shock Absorbers

With low suspension and extra wheelbase, the Chevrolet Six has excellent proportions.

Its impressive front view is distinguished by the genuine honeycomb radiator, another mark of modern cars.

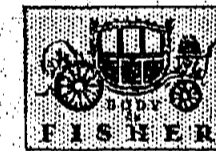

Safety Gasoline Tank

The gasoline tank is in the rear, for safety and finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher"—costly car style, with the permanent quiet of Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction.

Body by Fisher also gives you a genuine non-glare windshield, adjustable driver's seat, more space, deeper and wider cushions, clearer vision, finer fabrics and fittings.

There is just as much extra value everywhere in the car. BY ANY STANDARD the Chevrolet Six is the greatest value in the low-price field.

It is wise to choose the Chevrolet Six with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor... with full scientific equipment... with its Body by Fisher... with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear-mounted gas tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

See your nearest Chevrolet dealer today and drive a Chevrolet Six. Ten minutes at the wheel will show you what a difference six cylinders make.

Springfield is situated only 55 minutes on the Lackawanna R. R. from New York (20 miles) and has good bus connections to Newark, Elizabeth, Summit and Plainfield. The Lackawanna railroad stations at Millburn and Short Hills are only one mile from Springfield Center. The Rahway Valley R. R. has a freight station in Springfield, giving service for factories, commercial and industrial purposes.

With the completion of the new State Highway 29, this year in the southern section of Springfield, it will be possible to get to the downtown section of Newark by automobile in eleven minutes within speed limits. The Holland Tunnel in Jersey City will be reached in twenty-five minutes.

Two building and loan associations, one bank, and two schools, as well as excellent fire and police protection are afforded.

Four churches: First Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal, St. James Catholic, First Colored Baptist.

A PARTIAL CURE

Some of the restlessness in the business world will be allayed by the prospect of definite tariff action by Congress. The Senate has passed a tariff bill after months of contentious debate, full of recrimination and charges of trading. The bill will probably consume another month in the House. When it finally issues for action by President Hoover it is hardly likely that it will satisfy him in every particular, but he will have no alternative except to sign it as presented, or veto it. The President is probably as anxious as the business world to write finis to the subject.

The rates fixed by the Senate are alternately branded as too high or too low. Agriculture wants them low on manufactured goods, and high on its own products. Industry fought strenuously for high rates of fabricated articles. When a presidential candidate said the tariff was a local issue, the remark was greeted as a commentary on his ignorance. Fifty years of tariff tinkering stamps it as distinctly a local issue. Each group approaches it from its own considerations. The outlook on the subject is sectional and special.

It has been suggested that tariffs should be left solely to a commission. That would simply change the sphere of contest. Sectional and industrial pressure would be shifted from Congress to the Commission. We will get a national treatment of the tariff when we learn to think nationally.

There should be no complaint on the score of the tariff being higher. The people showed their desire for that in the last election. A protective tariff is no longer a party issue.

Business within the country will know where it stands and foreign contacts will be freed from uncertainty when the question is set at rest.

THE LONG TRAIL

By Ruth Lang

Which Trail to Choose

There is nothing static about the trail. We are not an army camped, but an onward, moving host. The human race is on its way eastward. True, there are many who do not know where they are going, many more who do not care. If this is an onward moving host, then it must have rules and regulations that take care of the traffic. We cannot travel at random in ways of danger, or shall we seek the paths of peace, which lie along the way of plain living and high thinking? The path of safety is the road in which human factors are weighed and man becomes more important than a thing. It is a path where spiritual values are appraised as higher than material ones.

Every once in a while a generation undertakes to get along without God. The result is always disastrous.

Sometimes we think we have started on the right trail, but later find that we are off on a bypath. When this happens, get a transfer back to the starting point again.

"If you are on the gloomy line, Get a transfer. If you are inclined to fret and pine, Get a transfer. The cheerful cars are passing through And there's always lots of room, Get a transfer."

Our Tickets

The tickets used on this trip are the little, nameless things we do for each other. We remember that "God so loved the world He gave . . ." Lincoln so loved humanity that he gave . . . The unknown soldier so loved his country's freedom that he gave . . . Mother so loves that she gives . . . And so forth.

If we would have a through ticket that would assure a pleasant trip, we, too, must give of ourselves and our time.

Baggage

The baggage on the trip is what we carry on our troubles. But from the story of the camel we get a beautiful lesson that is

Traveling Companions On the Trail

We cannot always be sure at the outset (Pullman story). We must know the other side of those with whom we associate before we can think of even forming an opinion.

As we journey along we can, if we will, help to make the lumber in other people's lives, as well as our own, into temples instead of taverns.

We can be just ourselves, and offer all that is being the best kind of a friend—genuine and unselfish in our dealing with others.

We find after all that the great heart of humanity is sound. It may be that ours at times get a little out of tune, as we swing the pendulum of time too rapidly.

However, hard the trail you go, One blessed certainty you know; Four men shall follow from below. . . . That man shall follow who might fall.

Where pathless woods and rocks assail, Had you not cruised and made a trail."

What Do We See?

Are we like the little boy who one time found a quarter? So he went through life, never lifting his eyes when walking. In the course of time he accumulated 20,516 buttons, 54,172 pins, 12 cents, a bent back and a miserly disposition. He lost the glory of the sunset, and sheen of the stars, the smile of friends, the blue of the skies and the joy of living.

Being rich really means very little unless one can do something with his riches to make others happy. The thing that always interests me about service to others is the tremendous stimulation one can get out of it. It really has all forms of dissipation rubbed out completely. Just over the hills is the peaceful valley, but we must climb that hill to see the valley.

"Why wander in the valley's mist with eyes upon the sod, When right ahead a path leads up the hill of God?"

On little steps we take . . .

These God parts on the trail lead us upward, lead us on. So many of us here content to merely follow, to let others lay out our route through life. We miss the thrill of making our own trail, of climbing life's mountains in our own way.

We are reminded of that old poem the call that pushed its way through the underbrush one day in walking through the woods. The next day a dog followed the crooked trail of the call, who wobbled when he walked. The following day a flock of sheep followed its leader along the same path. And then many came and continued along the same crooked path.

"But still they followed, do not laugh— The first migrations of that call, And through the winding roadways stalked. Because he wobbled when he walked. So men prefer to go it blind Along the call-path of the mind, And work away from sun to sun To do what other men have done." (The last installment of "The Long Trail" will appear next week)
