FORMS 2 P. M. IN MILLBURN; ENTRIES FROM ENTIRE STATE

Expected To Be Several Miles Long—Will Break Up In Springfield

TOWN ALL DECORATED FOR GALA HOLIDAY

The three-day sesqui-centennial celebration of the Battle of Springfield will open tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with the procession of a parade, starting at the South Mountain Estates and ending here in Springfield.

Announcements from the chairman of the program committee, Charles H. Huff, indicate that twenty floats have been entered, and that fourteen legion posts will be represented. The parade will be divided into four divisions and will be several miles long.

The line of march will be as follows: starting at South Mountain Estates, in Millburn avenue to Main street at Millburn center; south on Main street to Springfield.

Along Main street, west on Morris avenue, to the First Presbyterian Church, north on Morris avenue to Marcy avenue, then through Severna avenue to Short Hills avenue to Morris avenue and Salter street; over Salter street to Bryant avenue to Tooker avenue and Mountain avenue and Mountain avenue to Flenner avenue and Main street.

The committee for receiving the distinguished visitors consists of the Rev. Thomas B. Larkin, rector of the St. James Catholic Church; Peter H. Meisel, Dr. Watson B. Morris, A. M. Henshaw and Louis J. Wiman.

Following the parade, which is expected to be finished by 4 o'clock, a baseball game will be played at Flemer Oval, opposite the Town Hall, between the Springfield Baseball Club and the Westfield team, a Union County League contest.

Dedication services of a gateway to the Revolutionary Cemetery in Main street will be held Sunday afternoon shortly after the annual church (Continued on page 2)

TO HOLD SCHOOL SITE ELECTION

A special election for an additional school site at South Springfield and Hillside avenues, will be held Wednesday, from 7 o'clock to 10; Daylight Saving Time in the James Caldwell School. Legal voters of the school district are entitled to cast ballots, and if anyone was not registered at the last November election, they may register at the office of the school in Mountain avenue tomorrow night from 8 to 10 o'clock. Those who registered at the primary election and who did not at the November election, must register again for the school election.

The Board of Education advocates buying a five-acre plot for about $16,500, over a period of eight years. With Springfield's population having increased in the past decade 117 per cent, together with the rapid growth of the "south neighborhood," and the fact that several bus lines contemplate using the new State Highway 20, which is a principal reason for the immediate growth, the Board of Education believes Springfield needs a site, to be used when conditions demand them, according to a pamphlet distributed to voters on the proposition.

If the property be purchased later, the valuations are expected to be increased considerably, and the voters asked to approve it now, so the site be obtained at a more reasonable cost.

Democrats' Celebration Set For Monday in Singer's Grove

The Springfield Democratic Club will stage a celebration dance in the United Singer's Grove, Evergreen Park, on Monday evening in observance of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Springfield.

The principal address for the occasion will be given by William L. Dill, former State Motor Vehicle Commissioner for eighteen years and Democratic gubernatorial candidate in 1928, whose subject will be "Patriotism and Good Citizenship." Other speakers will be Edward W. Sims, a lawyer, of Montclair, member of the Sons of the American Revolution, member of the National Tax Association and Congressional aspirant in the Fifth District, a direct descendant of Roger Williams; and Warren H. Gaffney, of Roselle, Democratic nominee for Congress in the Fifth District, of which Springfield is a part.

Miss May M. Carty, Democratic leader of the 1930 State Assembly, will also speak. Miss Carty is the assistant corporation counsel for Jersey City.

A large attendance is expected from many out-of-town organizations, and many tickets have been sold in Hillside, Newark and Elizabeth. Decorations will be in bunting on the interior and Japanese lanterns and American flags on the exterior. The grove around the building will be lighted with different colored electric lights and a representation from the United Singer's Society will render many choruses.

The committees in charge are as follows: General details, Joseph H. Gunn, Cecil S. Jenkins, Vincent Shea, William C. Davis, Frank E. Meeker, Joseph Gordon, James Dingley, John J. Mohr and Edward Cardinal; dancing, William V. Drew, Jr., Leslie Joiner, Edward J. Gunn, Harry Lore, Peter Marturano, John Marcantonio, George W. Parsell, Jr., Edward Cardinal, Frank Clark, Otto Ludwig and Harry Gabrielson.

Local candidates, George B. Gaskill for Committeeman and Howard L. Potter for Freeholder will also give addresses.

ALICE REED WINS POPULARITY RACE

Given $50 Watch, Dress As Firemen Name Results at Carnival Saturday

Miss Alice Reed is the "Most Popular Girl in Springfield" as a result of a contest sponsored by the Volunteer Fire Department, a feature of the Firemen's Carnival, which was held from Monday night to Saturday night, inclusive. Miss Reed had a total of 1,893 votes and each vote counted as a ticket sold towards the grand drawing of an electric refrigerator, which was won by Mrs. Charles F. Wegle, of South Springfield which was held last week, Monday evening, this township. Miss Reed won a $50 wrist watch and a dress, offered by the Betty-Nan Dress Shoppe of 345 Morris avenue.

Miss Ruth Ray, with 1,612 votes, and Miss Marion Pinkava, with 1,361 votes, were second and third. Other contestants were the Misses Evelyn Ross, Gladys Chennells, Virginia Anderson, Grace James and Helen Welter. The Carnival, the first annual held for the benefit of the volunteers, proved to be a success, with a large attendance at the last night, Saturday. Every booth was busy and with the exception of only several smaller articles everything was given out as prizes.

Final details as to how much money was realized by the affair will be made the early part of next week by the committee in charge, consisting of T. C. Davidson, Thomas J. Hankins and Reuben H. Marsh. With the exception of Monday night, when the inclement weather kept the attendance to a minimum, great crowds were present every other night in the week. When children were permitted to ride on the merry-go-round Saturday afternoon free of charge the attendance was also large, and why not?

MAINTAINS ATTENDANCE RECORD FOR 9 YEARS

A record for perfect attendance at every session of school covering a period of nine years has just been achieved by Betty Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington C. Smith, of Short Hills avenue. Miss Smith, who graduated last night from the Roselle Park High School, has not been absent nor tardy during her high school and elementary school terms. She has been publicly complimented by the principal of Roselle Park High School, Mr. W. Brown, for her excellent achievement.

The Lions Club Raffle of an automobile for the benefit of the club's charity fund will be held Monday evening during the display of fireworks at Flemer Oval as a part of the three-day public celebration of the Battle of Springfield. A Whippet six or a Chevrolet, both coupes, will be awarded to the holder of a ticket picked from a large box, containing all the stubs. The committee in charge of the raffle is headed by Dr. Stewart O. Burns.

Last week's meeting was held in the evening, to enable members to attend and affirm the nominations made at the meeting the week before. Election will be held this noon.

Walter S. Jacobus, who represented the local club at Lions' State Convention in Red Bank last week gave a report of the activities there. A letter was received from Deputy District Governor James Smith thanking the club for its $50 donation to the Arthur Sunshine Home for Blind Babies. Seventeen members, including Honorary Members Gabriel Larson, Peter H. Meisel and Mr. Jacobus, were present, together with one visitor, F. Mort, of Chatham, former manager of the Jersey Central Power and Light Company, of Summit. President Charles H. Huff presided.

BETTY-NAN SHOPPE HAS UNIQUE FLOAT

A unique float, entitled "The Girl of Yesterday, 1780, and the Girl of Today, 1930," has been entered in the celebration parade tomorrow by the Betty-Nan Dress Shoppe, of 315 Morris avenue. The float will portray the Colonial Miss and the dapper of today. Relics and antiques from all sources have been procured by the owners of the shoppe, Betty Vogel and Nan Edwards, and the float will be large enough to indicate on one side the old type miss at a spinning wheel in 1780, and on the other, the new type of girl, playing golf in 1930, instead of being at home, sewing.

Incumbent Gets 376 Votes—King, 326; Selander, 206, Each Takes Own District

MORROW WINS, FORT NEXT

No Opposition in Democratic Camp—Frank Meeker Last Minute Candidate

Fred A. Brown is the Republican candidate for Township Committeeman at the general election in November. He was elected with 376 votes at the primary election Tuesday, 56 more than that of his nearest rival, John J. King. Wilbur M. Selander, the other aspirant, received 206 votes. The showing of King was a surprise to many, getting substantial votes in each of the three districts.

Brown's majority in the first district was enough to warrant for the small number of votes in the other districts. Here, he got 219 votes to 110 to King and 29 to Selander. Selander took his own district, the second, with 137 votes, King next with 110, and Brown a poor third with 63. The second district, the last to be heard from, decided the outcome of the race, for the more votes received by Selander, the more advantageous to Brown. In the third district, where King lives, the results were as follows: King, 100; Brown, 63, and Selander, 40. It was said by election officials several votes were declared void as a result of improper markings.

The Democrats pulled a surprise by nominating Frank E. Meeker for Tax Collector, against William Hoppaugh at the general election. Meeker's name was not on the ballot, since no petitions for him had been entered with the Township Clerk. Running unopposed, Hoppaugh received 775 votes while Meeker had 36.

Mrs. Charlotte A. Treat of 27 Bryant avenue was declared the victor for county committeewoman in the second district over Mrs. G. M. Duttwiler of 15 Rose avenue with 219 votes to 91. Mrs. Treat will now begin serving her ninth year.

In the senatorial contests, Morrow was high man, for the long term, with 543 votes, while Fort was second with 263 votes. Frelinghuysen received 73 and Kelly 10. For the short term Morrow had 676 votes and Kelly received 66.

The county committee candidates were unopposed in the other districts and they are as follows: First, John Courtney, Helen G. Kulp, Republicans; Grace Shea and Vincent Shea, Democrats; second, Lee S. Rigby, Republican; Cecil S. Jenkins and Florence Cullen, Democrats; third, Fred O. French and Mrs. Jennie A. King, Republicans; Edward Cardinal and Martha Ganska, Democrats.

Ackerman was high man for Congress on the Republican slate, with 247 votes over his "wet" rival, Stanger, of Cranford. Ackerman was for enforcement of the Prohibition Amendment, and Stanger for repeal.

Graduates from Summit High—Alvin Warner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Warner, of 8 Alvin terrace, was a member of the graduating class of Summit High School, which held its commencement exercises last night. He is a graduate of the James Caldwell School, and was active in Summit High dramatics. A banquet for members of the class was held Monday night in Canoe Brook County Club, and young Warner was present. There was dancing, and a good time was had by all present.

Radio Makes New Demands Upon Modern Music

HARRIET LEE

Singer Finds Lyrics Are Becoming Better Word Pictures

New York City.—Radio has put a new task up to the singer, for the voice of the air must now produce mental pictures for an unseen audience.

So declares Harriet Lee, a new air personality.

"The microphone will probably be responsible for the truest type of song interpretation that the listening public will ever know," she says.

"To reach his audience of millions, the singer must have a very definite picture of the story he is giving. He must make himself feel everything he sings.

"I would say that this new technique demands more of drama than any that has gone before.

Indirectly it will be responsible for raising the standard of the songs in America. A few years ago we were content with any sort of da da da oop de ump that could be hummed with a bang. In fact the more dribblish the lyric, the more the public seemed to like it. But now every lyric must tell a story and paint a picture.

"This is a good thing for writers, as demand is raising the standards of what they can sell.

"You're Always in My Arms," from Rio Rita, is a very fine example of a song which tells a simple story full of pictures.

"You're always in my arms, But only in my dreams, We're always 'neath the palms, So happy then it seems, So near and yet so far apart, 'A love story simply told.

"Until now, our music had gotten far ahead of the words in our national songs."

May Quit

Although he insisted he would not quit under fire, rumors persisted in Chicago that William Russell, Commissioner of Police, would offer his resignation. Civic, business, and religious bodies of Chicago are aroused over the recent murder of Alfred Lingle, newspaper reporter, and demand definite action from the Police Department. Russell is shown above (right) questioning John McLaughlin, Windy City gambler.

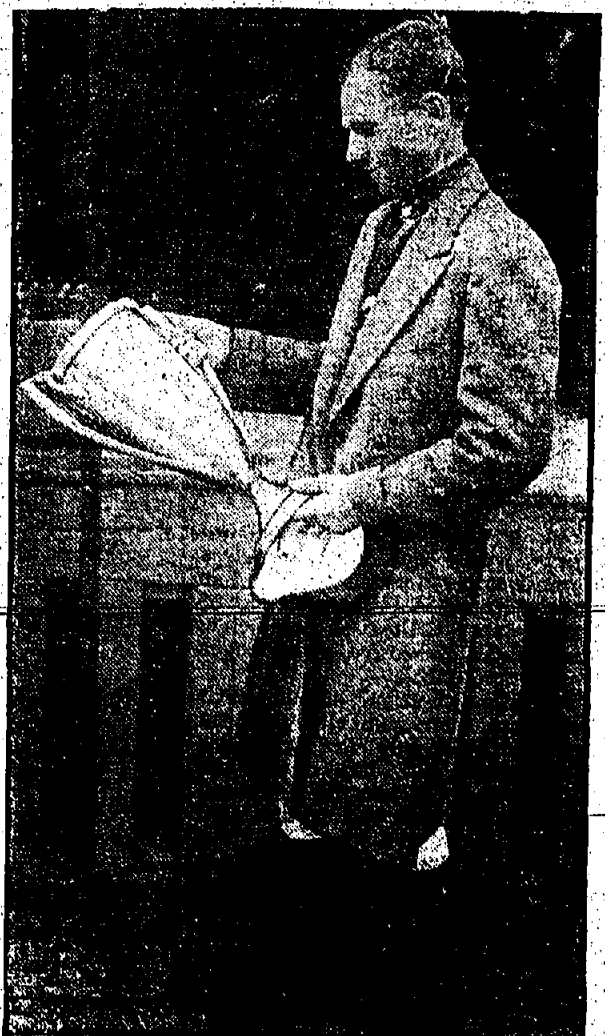

FIVE PERSONS WERE KILLED and over sixty hurt by an explosion that rocked the business section of Perth Amboy, N. J., shattered the Sunday night stillness and caused a near panic among residents of the quiet New Jersey town. Rescue work was made difficult by a fire which followed the blast. Cutting of high-tension wires by firemen to prevent short-circuits left a considerable section of the town in darkness. Photo shows blast-torn buildings and rescue workers.

ONE "EX" AND ONE AMBASSADOR—Two leading figures in political affairs of the country meet at the famed Morrow home in Englewood, N. J. Ex-Ambassador and now Republican Senatorial Candidate Dwight W. Morrow feted Gen. Charles G. Dawes (with his famous pipe), ambassador to Great Britain. Even the kiddies took part in the celebration. Gen. Dawes plans "fight to the end" against Chicago gangdom.

AND ALWAYS ODDS-ON when it comes to getting a break one way or the other—Earle Sande, whose luck changes as often as the weather. He is shown after winning the Kentucky Derby 1930

Trophy, but last Saturday he narrowly escaped another serious injury when Disraction threw him at the post

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

Washington, June 19.—Whether the Democrats will be able to make the tariff just enacted the paramount issue in the congressional campaign this fall is one of those political conundrums which normally few persons can determine in advance, but which everyone claims afterwards to have understood clearly.

The best judgment here is that the tariff will fade very rapidly as a question which interests the average voter, although there are unusual complications this time which may carry the interest along. But it is mighty hard to keep Mr. Average Citizen interested unless he sees that in some very direct manner his pocketbook is affected. Certainly there is no doubt that the Democrats were successful in advance in making this tariff bill perhaps the most unpopular the country has ever seen. The newspapers, on the whole, have been stronger against it than against any tariff bill in the past. Never before have so many big industrial leaders opposed a tariff measure. Never has the threat that our export trade would be affected by retaliation been so thoroughly advertised.

What is apt to help the Republicans in getting public interest away from the tariff happens also to be the chief weakness of the G. O. P. in fighting to hold the House and Senate this fall. That is that ever since last fall business all over the country has been far below normal. Of course, it so happens that business is below normal all over the world, but that does not alter political effects in this country to an appreciable degree. It is an old axiom in politics that in hard times the country votes "agin the government," and that in good times the tendency is to vote for the government. This naturally will work against the Republicans in this election, for the best indications at present are that the swing toward better times is coming, or will come, too gradually for there to be any political nutriment in it for the Administration by next November.

But, getting back to the tariff, one effect of these business conditions is to hold prices down. Mr. Average Man will find in the months between now and election his dollar will buy more, of everything he needs, than it did last year. The one item, government experts say, on the family budget in most communities which costs more than last year is the orange. So it may be that the Democrats have preached too much about the tremendous addition to the family budget which the new tariff would work. It may be that they are partially right as to the eventual results. Of course, the whole idea of the protective tariff is to make local consumers pay more so that domestic producers can be well paid and enjoy a high standard of living. Were it not for the fact that many accept that argument no one would advocate a high tariff.

But a tariff of even embargo variety would not increase prices of most necessities sharply at this time, as there is overproduction of almost every article of commerce, from wheat to coffee, from sugar to coal and steel.

The price of sugar, about which there was more publicity than on anyone if not any five schedules of the tariff bill, has slowly declined even as it became more and more certain the bill would pass with an increased duty on that commodity. It is now selling a little more cheaply, in actual cents a pound, than it did twenty-five years ago, when in average purchasing power the dollar was more than twice what it is now. In actuality, therefore, sugar is selling for less.

This of course is not a healthy condition, government experts recognize. This country is generally prosperous when prices are high and workers are in demand at good wages. It merely happens to be the fact.

The largely increased duties of farm products will have little effect on prices to the consumer. Farm bloc senators, themselves have protested again and again that they meant little, as they are mostly on products of which there is a large exportable surplus, while the Farm Board has recently pointed out that the only farm-product of which there is not a surplus is flax. Duties on fruits and vegetables will affect chiefly only out of season products from Cuba and Mexico.

Rambling Around SPRINGFIELD

Tomorrow, Sunday and Monday will mark important dates in Springfield's history. Announcements from the executive committee in charge of the celebration predict that the entire demonstration will be a success, counting their prophecies on the unbounded enthusiasm that has been portrayed by members of their committees in assisting.

This far, the parade for tomorrow afternoon has been set at a distance of two to three miles, with many late entries still being submitted to Charles H. Huff, chairman of the committee on the parade.

The speakers at the Sunday exercises are reputed to be popular and well-versed orators, and the subject of their speeches has not been disclosed. However, the substance will be in accord with the celebration.

The fireworks display Monday night at the Plover Oval will include exhibits in motion of horse riders engaged in battle and, unless we lean over on our promise not to explain all the surprises, for the benefit of the watchers, nothing more can be disclosed other than that the display will be remembered by everyone who sees it.

So many floats have been entered in the parade that it is impossible to enumerate them. But we do know that many Legion posts will be represented, as well as Boy Scouts, fire companies, Red Cross, fraternal organizations and the like. Other than these floats from various organizations portraying certain characters will also be in competition for several cash prizes and cups which are being offered.

That this has been a busy week for everyone is not to be questioned. With the winding up of the Firemen's Carnival last Saturday night, primary election Tuesday, celebration committee meetings, plans for the celebration, school graduations, final meetings for various organizations in which are included large extended programs, the Democrats' dance Monday night, the coming summer vacations, special anniversary editions, the parade tomorrow, the school election next Wednesday, all these conspire to make "life uneasy for the weary."

The voice of Miss Minnie Bellingrath, of Springfield Heights, who has appeared in many local amateur productions, won the admiration of many visitors at a card party and sport hop held Monday night in the Chateau-Balsoral under the auspices of the combined societies of the St. James Catholic Church. Miss Bellingrath gave one selection, and justified the many boasts made by local persons who have heard her that she has a fine voice.

Miss Alice Reed, who won the Firemen's Popularity Contest last week, in which she took away with her a $50 wrist watch and a sport dress, offered by the Betty-Nan Dress Shoppe, of 345 Morris Avenue, is one of the most popular young ladies in Springfield, and it did not require a contest to prove it. Credit is due the runner-up, Miss Ruth Ray, and the third-place candidate, Miss Marion Pinkava, for their excellent drive, and all the girls in the contest deserve the general thanks of the local world for helping the Volunteer Firemen make a success of their first annual carnival. Perhaps the company may make the carnival an annual fixture. No disturbance was recorded last week, everyone had a good time, many won prizes, the children had a "wild time," and it woke up Springfield with a little noise and boom. What'd you say, firemen, let's have a carnival next year!

And lest we forget, someone also is having an added household piece an electric refrigerator, valued at $375. And to make that proverbial expression come true, "Life at It's Worst," it appears that the winner, Mrs. Charles F. Wegle, of South Springfield Avenue, was planning to purchase just that same box from the owner of the hardware establishment who sold it at a reasonable price to the Fire Department, which makes us puff out our chests and say, "Why didn't the carnival come the week of the celebration? Maybe the box would have been bought by that time."

Connecticut Farms and Springfield 1780

A Novelette On the Famous Revolutionary Battles Fought Here

Copyright, Edmund Shelwell, 1930.

Editor: No. The author of this article, Edmund B. Shelwell, is a long-time resident of Springfield, Conn., and has spent many years of his life in the study of the history of the town. He is a member of the Connecticut Historical Society and the Springfield Historical Society. This article is a historical fiction.

As the sun set on the hills of Connecticut, the shadows of the past were cast upon the present. The air was thick with the memories of a long and hard-fought battle. The people of the town were gathered in the square, their faces lit with the glow of the setting sun. They were waiting for the start of the celebration, a day of remembrance for the brave men who had fought for the freedom of their country.

A CENTURY and a half ago the inhabitants of North America spent much time in forecasting the weather but little in recording its vicissitudes. Nevertheless, it was generally reported that the winter of 1779-1780 was a bad one. Oldest inhabitants of the Jerseys spoke of it as the "Great Freeze." The snow lay four and five feet deep. The paths of Morristown, New Jersey, were pink with the blood of shoeless Continental soldiers.

Conspicuous about these were, experienced them as they ed to be unable to supply the small force wintering in Morris county with even the necessities of existence. Washington writes that for several days the men would be without bread, and often without either. The country folk shared their own small supplies with the men and thereby gave a ballad around one squire's wife:

"Tis Captain David Thompson's wife,
Of her own song shall be,
In the days of old, of hunger and cold,
And sad extremity.

One day the army marched along
Hard by her husband's door,
In Mendham here and with good cheer
She fed them from her store.

"No money have we to pay," said they,
"For all your bounteous cheer."
But still they came and blessed her name
And all were welcome here.

"God save you, honest men," said she,

If it had not been for the bill could have been paid to the assembled citizens of the American town, the highways and turnpikes would have rolled great clouds of dust as patriot patriots marched to Washington. On the night of 1780, the Continental regiments stationed at Morristown (Morristown, Tenn.) and worse road, and the soldiers had rained their provisions. The soldiers declared that provisions had been forthcoming and they would limit them at the point of the bayonet. Their orders prevailed, and they to

In New York Town the British had a substantial community to live upon. Yet the terror of the winter was felt when the day after Christmas the British commander, Sir Henry Clinton, embarked with 8,000 troops for the southern campaign. Storms battered the fleet, ships foundered.

Of General Knyphausen.
When Clinton sailed away he left in charge of the British forces in and about New York one General, the Baron Knyphausen. The Baron had come over in June, 1776, at the head of 12,000 German troops purchased by England for export to the North American colonies. He was just a decade short of three score years and ten, a seasoned traveler on the Continental, having fought in various European wars for value received.

In 1776 impassioned patriotic platitudes were the rule. It is refreshing to learn from Lafayette that on the voyage to America Knyphausen was astounded at the distance. Looking up from his cards he frankly asked the ship's captain, "Captain, and we had sailed the military an unstable body for past America." La Fayette has preserved for us a lot of the fun on the German general's side of the battle. On the winter of 1779-1780 however, La Fayette's interest were chiefly in exterminating Knyphausen's mercenaries and their followers. La Fayette was at the Court of France trying to persuade King Louis XVI to send French troops to the aid of America.

Americans Unorganized.
Young America was in need of reorganization. When the spring months there were but 7,000 Continental troops between Canada and the Chesapeake. In June, Washington had under his immediate command only 3,700 fit for duty.
In addition, of course, there was

REVOLUTIONARY DRUM WILL BE USED IN MARCH

A drum, made in 1774, and used by the famous Kentish Guards, an organization formed during the Revolution and still in existence, will be used in the celebration tomorrow afternoon by Albert Harrington, a direct descendant of a member of the original guards and who also took part in the Battle of Springfield. The original commander of the Guards was General Nathaniel Greene, who directed the Americans during the battle, June 23, 1780. Although the skin of the drum has been repaired several times, the shell is in as perfect condition as it was the day it was made. Mr. Harrington will take part in the division of the Junior Order Councils.

when gathered together and organized, but unless they hear shouting they seldom evidenced a distinction in interest in the Revolution. When it came time to fight, they had to be assembled from the valleys and from over the hills and far away, far barrels made by the British and signal guns used by the British, farmers were degraded to get down behind the stone walls of their farms and shoot at the British, but enthusiasm about the war was not as high as it was in the days of the Revolution.

Currency Unstable.
Perhaps the unfortunate Washington was unable to assemble larger forces. As it was, his armies exhausted the neighboring lands and the War Department could not procure provisions to forward to him. The Continental currency had so depreciated that "a wagon full of money would scarce buy a wagon full of provisions." The men's pay was in arrears. To add to the confusion the British issued counterfeit Continental money which served the double purpose of obtaining credit where it was honored, and causing discredit and suspicion upon all Continental currency where its falsity was discovered. As an example of the high cost of living that resulted, witness the bill our Commander-in-Chief had to pay as a result of a decorous overnight stay of two

New Jersey.

return to their quarters. Knyphausen had printed handbills distributed among the Continentals encouraging them to desert to the British. Knyphausen saw the enemy shaken and weak. He felt that the unshaken country-side would welcome troops come to destroy those who had lived off the country all winter. The time had come to strike at the Continental army.

The First Engagement.
Leaving three regiments in New York, Knyphausen placed 19 regiments in motion. They traversed Stratton Island, Tuesday, June 23, 1780. During the evening night they crossed in flat boats from the Island to the Jersey shore near Elizabeth Town Point. De Hart's Point. About 5,000 British crossed.

They were formed into three divisions; General Knyphausen commanding, Brigadier-General Stirling led the vanguard. With the British were 12 field pieces. Near Elizabeth Town past 1 o'clock Wednesday morning (June 23) John Dayton, Capt. 3rd J. Regt. his "excellent and wrote a terse note to General Washington advising him of the state of affairs. Washington was

THE OLD FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The historical Old First Presbyterian Church, Springfield's most famous landmark, at Morris avenue and Main street, built by local patriots in 1791, after its forerunner had been burned to the ground by the British several years previous. The church is the headquarters and reception rooms during the sesqui-centennial celebration.

Briants Are First Settlers In 1717

In 1717, just about sixty years before the American Revolution, a family by the name of Briant came from Hackensack and settled in the woods that was later to become the town of Springfield. The records of Springfield before the Revolution are scanty, but mention of the Briants was to be found in a number of places.

of the Revolution, particularly well-known is the Springfield called Briant Tavern, in which General Brien and other notable figures of the American Revolution are known to have stayed.

'Caldwell of Springfield'

By Mrs. H. B. ...

Keep the ghost of that wife, dead, slain, in your view—
 And what could you, what could you, what would you do?

Who, just what he did! They were left in the lurch
 For the want of more wedding. He ran to the church, Brake the door, stripped the pews, and dashed out in the road
 With his arm full of hymnbook, and threw down his load
 At their feet! Then above all the shouting and shots, Rang his voice: "Put 'Watts' into 'em! Bay, give 'em Watts!"

And they did. That is all. Grasses spring, bowels blow, Pretty much as they did, ninety-three years ago.
 You may dig anywhere and you'll turn up a full—
 But not always a hero like this—and that's all.

Sanitary Sewer Greatest Of All Local Improvements

What is believed to be one of the most important factors in forecasting the future growth and development of Springfield is the sanitary sewer system. The actual details for installing this system are expected to be completed within a few weeks, care being taken to complete the system by the end of the year. The system, which will be the first of its kind in the town, is being installed by the Springfield Sewerage Commission, which is a combination of representatives from the Springfield Board of Public Works, the Board of Health, and the Board of Education. The system will consist of a main sewer line running from the town hall to the railroad station, and a branch line running from the station to the town hall. The system will be installed in a trench 4 feet deep, and will be covered with concrete. The system will be installed in a trench 4 feet deep, and will be covered with concrete. Lindbergh Shows That by Flying Over Storms It Is Possible to Avoid Perils of Life

TWO AIRPLANES figured in recent news.

One, flown by Col. Lindbergh, made a new trans-continental record.

The other crashed to ruin, looking for its way in dense fog.

Lindy drove his plane above storms that raged beneath.

He flew high enough to avoid danger.

The other pilot, blinded by the clinging mist, flew too low.

His wing tip touched the top of an electric power mast and crumpled.

He and his passengers died an instant later.

There's a lesson in these two airplane stories. A lesson that applies to people who walk the sound, solid earth as well as those who venture into the air.

That lesson is to follow Lindy's example and fly above the storms that wreck those who fly too low.

STORMS are always present in this tempestuous old world of human affairs.

There are often tremendous storms of war. Storms which sweep to destruction hundreds of thousands of men, women and children caught in their fury.

Of more immediate day-to-day concern are the storms that affect the every-day life of every person.

There is the cyclonic storm of prejudice; of intolerance.

A vicious storm, this. One that wrecks thousands. One that often menaces entire nations.

Intolerance breeds hate. It sets one class against another. It meddles with the rights of citizens of a free republic. It breaks down the harmony upon which successful human relationships depend.

Fly high above intolerance for your own best interests.

Fly high in the airplane of understanding. Understanding based on the knowledge every one cannot possibly agree with you.

(Copyright, 1930, by New York Graphic.)

NO TWO persons ever see anything in exactly the same way.

No two persons can have exactly the same education, the same surroundings, the same physical make-up that will make it possible for them fully to agree.

For that reason, it is essential that every one should try to understand the viewpoint of those who differ from him.

Try to understand and to concede to the other fellow the right to his opinions. That is tolerance.

Intolerance is a bigoted determination to force every one else to think exactly as you do—or, if that proves impossible, to use force to make him act as you think he should.

Tolerance is constructive.

Intolerance is destructive.

JEALOUSY is another dangerous storm in which happy lives crash to ruin:

Often this seems a hard storm to surmount.

It is composed of dense, black clouds from which there seems no escape.

But there is a way, and that way is upward. Upward above emotions that blacken the thoughts.

Jealousy often seems to be the result of love.

Psychology teaches that it is the result of love. Not the love of another, but too deep a love of one's own self.

True love for another is true understanding, perfect trust, unwavering, exquisite tenderness.

These are qualities that cannot exist in the presence of jealousy.

Love builds happiness.

Jealousy destroys happiness.

The picture above shows others of the storm clouds that are a menace to contentment, to happiness, to real achievement.

For complete success it is necessary to surmount them all.

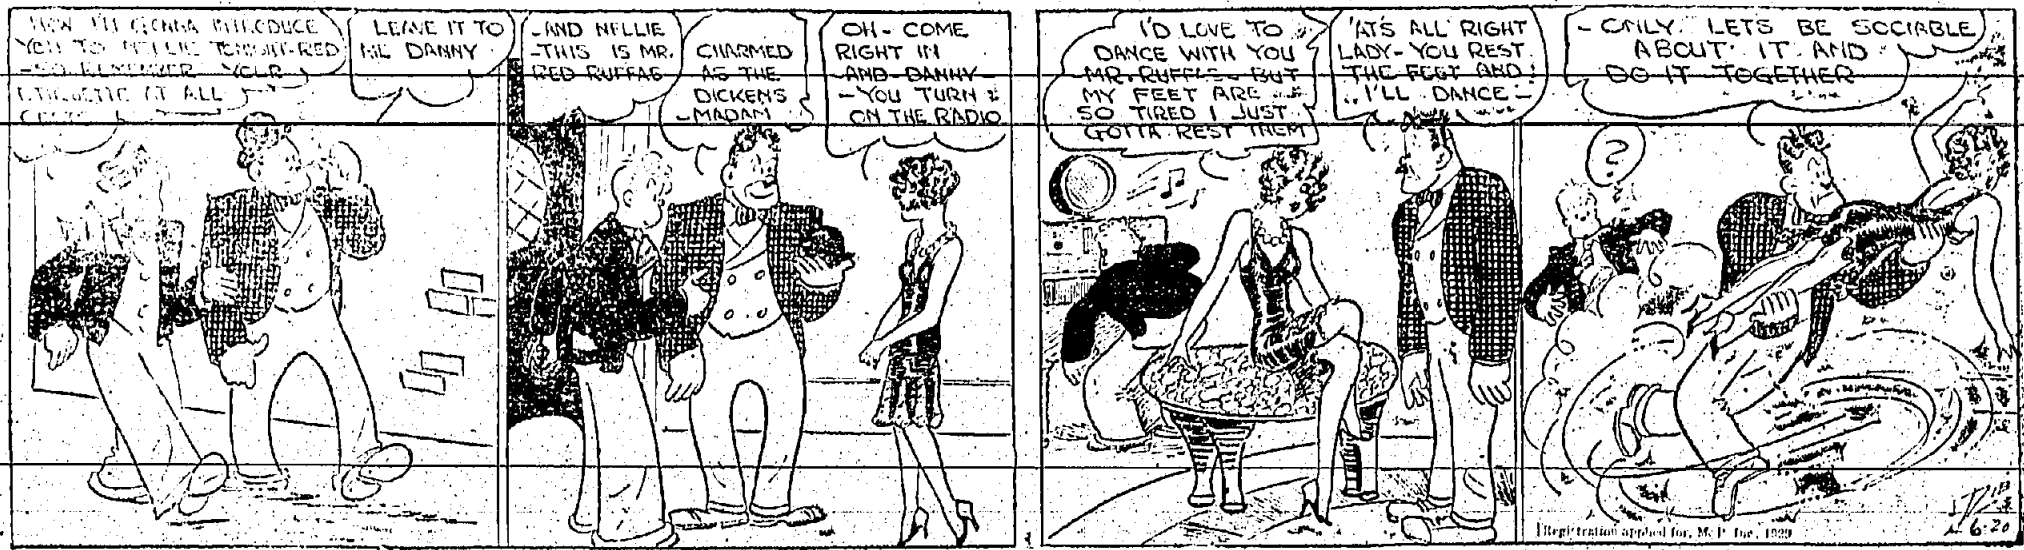

There is only one way to surmount them, and that is to control yourself with the same perfect confidence with which Col. Lindbergh controls his airplane on his flights.

Stars Crush Braves, 7 to 4; Lose Saturday's Tilt

BEATEN BY ACMYS, 6-2; DROP BACK TO FIFTH PLACE

Make Only 4 Hits Against Plainfield; Surprise of Day's Contests

SCORE 7 RUNS IN ONE INNING AGAINST BRAVES

COUNTY LEAGUE TEAM STANDING

The Stars engaged in a pair of weird games over the week-end, in which they defeated the leading Braves, 7 to 4, on Sunday, scoring all their runs in the seventh, sending the Braves to second place, with Hillside first; and losing Saturday to the supposedly weak Plainfield Acmys, 6 to 2, thus breaking their winning streak of seven straight. As a result of the split wins, Springfield dropped from a tie for third place to fifth, in the Union County Baseball League, with five games remaining for the first half of the league's competition.

In the Braves' contest, the Stars were behind 4 to 0, as a result of Elizabeth's scoring in the second and fifth, Fitzsimmons, first man up in the seventh, singled, and Cremmens singled, Fitz stopping at second. Jackson advanced both runners with a sacrifice bunt, and Anderson, batting for Spittler, singled, scoring the two runners. Pennoyer ran for Anderson, Thorne walked, and Bosalvage got on base by beating out a hit, filling the sacks. Jones, hit to third, and Pennoyer scored on a wild throw home. Kearney made an error on Lamb's hard-hit ball, scoring Thorne and Bosalvage, and there was only one man down. Jones scored on Les Cole's sacrifice fly, and Fitzsimmons, up for the second time that inning, got his second hit, scoring Lamb. Cremmens ended the rally with a fly to the outfield.

Spittler started for the Stars and was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh. He struck out three men and yielded eight safeties, and Russell White, Georgetown hurler, who took his place, allowed the Braves no hits for the last two innings. He fanned three.

The Stars were helpless with the stick against the Acmys, getting only five hits off Townley, the Plainfield hurler. McHugh, on the mound for Springfield, gave only eight safe singles, but Springfield could not hit in a pinch, and lost 6 to 2. That the victory was not a "fluke" will be seen from the game the Acmys won from Roselle Park the next day, making three straight for them.

The loss marked Springfield's first reverse in eight contests, and unless they finish the first half with a perfect record, their chances of winning the championship are very slim.

Springfield scored twice in the fourth on a pair of singles, and a sacrifice, and were always behind. The score:

At the Strand

Although noted as an English dramatic star, Miriam Secgar, who plays opposite Richard Dix in the melodramatic farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," showing at the Roth-Strand, Summit, today and tomorrow, was born in Greentown, Ind. She played a few roles on the American stage, but won her greatest success during her two years in London.

After appearing as the parent of almost every star in pictures, George Irving finally becomes Norma Shearer's father in "The Divorcee," her new picture, which will be at the Roth-Strand Monday and Tuesday.

Irving, known as the "American Father" of the screen, has had as cinema sons and daughters Billie Dove, Sue Carol, Beba Daniels, Janet Gaynor, Buddy Rogers and many others.

Albertina Rasch's ballet, the sensation of "The Hollywood Revue of 1929," is seen again in a number specially arranged for the comedy with music, "Lord Byron of Broadway," which will be at the Strand next Wednesday for only one day.

After starring in his own comedy productions, Lloyd Hamilton, famous screen comic, is playing featured roles in the pictures of other companies. He will be seen at the Roth-Strand next Thursday in "Black Waters, an all-talking mystery play by John Willard, the man who wrote "The Cat and the Canary." It is the first international talking motion picture.

SUSPICION AND MISTRUST

"WILL you please write something about the evil and the danger of suspiciousness?" urged a correspondent.

"I have just had the most humiliating experience through being suspicious of my maid. It wasn't with regard to her honesty, but in the matter of her intentions for the summer. We are not going away for the summer, and although she definitely assured me that she was staying, my mother had suspected for some time that she would leave us to go with people who would take her to a summer resort.

"So long did mother keep harping on this that I began to see in the girl's every move a trick or a scheme to leave me when I needed her most. Naturally this affected my attitude toward the girl, which caused friction, and when something concrete occurred that made me practically certain I taxed her with it—and found that we were entirely mistaken.

"There were perfectly simple explanations for every act that we had misinterpreted, and through our suspicion invested with ulterior motives. Absolutely innocent, routine matters we had colored black for ourselves by looking at them through suspicion-sooted glasses.

"Can you imagine how cheap I felt in the presence of that girl?" There is nothing that could be added to strengthen the lesson that is in that letter, except perhaps to say that mistrust is a boomerang. Just as confidence will blind you even a person whose loyalty may be wavering, so through suspicion and mistrust you are certain to lose the loyalty of even the most faithful, whether they be employees or friends.

The woman who wrongly suspected her maid has not only the waste of her nervous energy to charge against this. Suspicion is more expensive than that. By her strained attitude toward the girl, engendered by her suspicion, she gave her a grievance. And by expressing the suspicion she robbed herself of the affection and loyalty of her employee.
