REQUEST IS MADE TO LAY SIDEWALKS IN MORRIS AVENUE

Dr. Henry P. Dengler Asks Town to Act in Placing Proper Walk

DECLARES OWNERS WILL PAY FOR THE EXPENSE

(Exclusive SUN Story.)

A movement is on foot to erect proper concrete sidewalks, where needed in the northerly side of Morris avenue, from the corner of Main street to the location just beyond the old Hotel, opposite Mountain avenue. A communication was received by the Township Committee Wednesday night, from Dr. Henry P. Dengler asking the board to erect sidewalks in the aforementioned place, and assess it against the respective abutting property-owners. The Committee decided to hold the matter over for further consideration.

While the usual procedure has always been to present a petition signed by fifty-one per cent or more of the property-owners, asking that the work be performed, the Township Committee enjoys the privilege of going ahead with the work and assessing the owners later. Dr. Dengler stated in an interview with the SUN yesterday afternoon. The doctor, who maintains an office at 260 Morris avenue is one of the property-owners affected by suggested recommendation, and he assured the SUN that many owners in Morris avenue would gladly sign a petition if one be circulated. Anyone in the township may circulate the petition, the doctor said, and the township is allowed to lay the sidewalks, since it is a vital necessity to the betterment of the community.

A similar incident occurred in Springfield in 1920, when the Raymond Chisholm School in South Springfield avenue was erected. Some of the property-owners in the vicinity refused to co-operate with the others to have sidewalks placed there. After much discussion, the Township Committee acted and placed sidewalks in front of the school and close to it, and each of the property-owners did pay the assessment charges later, when the bills were presented, since it was a necessity to the school that the sidewalks be placed there.

B. & L. Meets Monday

Water Is Pumped For First Time At Fire In "Springfield Square"

Water was pumped from a hydrant in Springfield Square for the first time in the history of the township last Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock when a haystack, adjoining the home of Aaron Garner, of Diven street caught fire. The haystack was resting up against a barn, which was part of the dwelling and for a time, it appeared as if the house would be covered with the flames. After battling the blaze for about one hour, the volunteers extinguished the fire.

Water was recently installed in the southern section of the township, with the exception of only a few streets, and the hydrants had been placed there several weeks ago. Hitherto, the firemen had to depend upon their chemical tanks, and it is probable that the damage would have been worse had water not been available. The pressure of the hydrant, was high enough to permit an ample supply of water to be used.

Three other calls kept the local volunteers busy over the week-end, and included a brush in Hillside avenue, on Weber's Farm, Friday, 1:45 p. m.; an automobile, Short Hills and Morris avenues, Sunday noon, no damage; and a shed, in Mountain avenue, near South Springfield avenue, Monday night, 9 o'clock, little damage.

SET HEARING DATE ON WIEGAND NAME

A pending ordinance to change the name of Wiegand street to Prospect place will be given a final hearing on Wednesday evening, September 10, at 8 o'clock, the Township Committee decided Wednesday night. The original second and final hearing was set for July 25, but George W. Wiegand, appeared at the meeting of the Committee with Assistant County Prosecutor John B. Walsh as his attorney, and objected to the change. Since there was no one present of the faction which signed a petition, requesting the change of name to Prospect place, the board decided to hold another hearing at which both groups would be present.

About ten property-owners of the discussed street appeared at the Township Committee meeting, Wednesday night, regarding action on the ordinance to change the title. A petition was presented by John J. Kulp of 119 South Maple avenue, bearing signatures of persons living in and nearby the vicinity of Wiegand street, approving that the name be retained. It was brought out that two signatures of persons living in Wiegand street, out of a total of four were invalid, since they had recently moved out of the township.

Mr. Kulp spoke, and asked that the

TOWN COMMITTEE GRANTS PERMIT FOR BABY LINKS IN SPITE OF COMPLAINT

BOARD DECIDES LETTER RECEIVED TOO LATE

Driving Grounds Permit in Mt. Avenue Given to William H. Corby

A permit was granted to Arthur D. Warner of 8 Alvin terrace by the Township Committee Wednesday night, to operate a miniature golf course at the corner of Alvin terrace and Morris avenue, despite a communication received from County Purchasing Agent Peter H. Meisel, who lives opposite the site, asking that the application be denied. It was the opinion of the board that since the request had been made before the ordinance was adopted July 25, and that since Mr. Meisel's complaint was made too late for consideration, the granting of the permit could not be refused. Another permit was given to William H. Corby, of 28 Short Hills avenue, to operate a driving course, in Mountain avenue at the air field.

The two permits marked a total of four having been granted since the ordinance was passed, and the others who have been allowed to operate courses are James C. Stiles, Jr., in Meisel avenue, and Harry E. Spelcher, at the corner of South Springfield and Evergreen avenues.

A delegation of residents appeared from Evergreen avenue, appealing for aid. They complained that the amount of dust in their street was responsible for causing many inconveniences. One resident stated he could not eat his meals without having to swallow dust and dirt. Another told the board that he had an offer to sell a house in the street, and that when the prospective customer saw the dust, he refused to complete the transactions. One member of the delegation went as far as to say that he considered the thoroughfare "one of the dirtiest streets in the entire United States." The committee assured the complainants they were doing all in their power to correct the trouble and that they were having difficulty in having the sewer contractor renovate the street immediately. Since the dusty condition was so great, the board decided to allow the sewer contractor until Monday morning to start work in fixing the street, and if he failed to do so, the township will repair the street and charge the contractor for the work.

A petition was presented, signed by more than fifty-one per cent of property-owners in Baltusrol Way, requesting the township to erect a six-inch penetration macadam in their street, with concrete curbs and gutters. The petition stated that the width of the street was twenty-seven feet, and it extended about 540 feet west from Morris avenue. The Township Attorney was authorized to prepare an ordinance providing for the paving of the street, to be acted upon at the next regular session of the board. The property-owners also asked that Baltusrol Way, when completed, should be made a "light-traffic" street, to prevent heavy trucks from injuring the pavement.

An ordinance was passed on first reading, that Wiegand street and Remer avenue be termed "light-traffic" streets. The ordinance provides that no vehicles weighing more than 10,000 pounds, use either thoroughfares; and that proper signs explain the nature of the streets. It will be given its second and final reading September 10.

An ordinance, authorizing the Springfield Township Water Company, to handle the water supply here for fifty years, was passed on second and final hearing.

A resolution was adopted, asking the Board of Freeholders to erect a bridge in Baltusrol Way, over a creek about 700 feet west of Morris ave.

Permission was granted the Springfield Baseball Club, to have free use of the auditorium, some Saturday evening in September, to stage a dance, to meet expenses for the baseball team for the year.

Roads Commissioner Fred A. Brown reported that his men had started to build a wet-bound macadam pavement in Meekes street.

Resident Engineer C. S. McNulty stated that the construction of repairing leaks in the sewer system, was progressing in excellent shape.

The clerk was authorized to communicate with the Jersey Central Power and Light Company, of Summit, to complain of the improper street light service and to ask that the matter be corrected.

Find Strange Taste of Aqua Comes From "Dead" End Of Water Supply

(Exclusive SUN Story.)

The solution to the complaint of residents in the neighborhood of Short Hills, Severna, Marey and Molter avenues, that the taste of water seemed to be "stale" and unfit to drink, has been discovered. Committee man MacCartney, who lives at 33 Severna avenue, told the Township Committee Wednesday night that the residents of the mentioned streets were still getting the same supply of water as other districts of the township, but that their particular section was at the "dead" end of the water system and that the water settles and accumulates in the pipes.

Older residents often state that before the Short Hills Water Company was sold to the Commonwealth Water Company, Stewart Harshorne, the owner, upon receiving a communication that the water had a queer taste, would order the fire hydrants to be opened, and the stagnant water which had gathered in the pipes, was released, Mr. MacCartney said.

The Township Clerk was authorized to communicate with the water company in Summit, and ask that the hydrants be opened in the section where the water is unfit to drink. It was also added that a recommendation be made to the water officials that some sort of circulating system be used, to save the expense of wasting water. Another argument was discussed at the board session that the possibility arose in the winter, that the hydrants, upon being opened, would freeze. Thus, it was surmised that a circulating system would be the most economical method for the company to keep the water in a safe and healthful condition.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S CONQUEST

In a pleasant mansion overlooking the beautiful Potomac river young George Washington was visiting his brother, Lawrence, nearly two hundred years ago. George had nearly always had his heart's wishes, especially when they concerned the possession of ponies and other treasures, for both his father and his mother were devoted to him. But now something new was stirring in young George's mind. He had watched the ships sailing up the river; he had seen and felt the glory of sailing into far lands and on dangerous seas, and because he was a courageous youth, he too, longed to brave those dangers, longed to see the world.

"Brother," he said one day, "I must go to sea."

"That is all well enough, George," said his brother, "but your mother will never consent."

"But I must go," persisted George. "You talk to her. Tell her how much I wish to."

"All right, I will. We will go at once to see her."

So the two brothers started for their mother's home. Lawrence was very careful about not mentioning the subject until he felt sure his mother was in a happy frame of mind. Then he said, "Mother, George is growing up. He will soon be choosing a profession."

"Oh, don't think of it!" said Mrs. Washington. "He is only a lad, only fourteen. There is plenty of time."

"But, he already has chosen," continued Lawrence. "He wishes to go to sea."

Poor Mrs. Washington! Such a piece of news was indeed startling. She thought at first to put it away from her by saying, "Why of course he cannot go. He is too young, and besides he must not choose that kind of a rough life."

She soon found, however, that George was determined and that Lawrence was also persuaded that it was the right thing for him to do. So at last, after much urging, she gave her consent, provided only that she should receive favorable advice from their Uncle Joseph who lived in London.

George was happy. He felt sure that everything must be all right. Lawrence hastened to make the necessary preparations, even buying a midshipman's uniform which George thought the finest thing in the world. Several months later the uncle's letter at last arrived. His mother read it aloud to the two boys. Alas! In it he advised that young George should not go to sea.

"But mother," said George, "we have made all plans and I am determined to go."

His mother refused, pleaded, told him he would break her heart if he went against her wishes, begged him to stay with her. George stood by as manfully as he could, trying to win his own desire and yet wishing to make his mother happy too. When she began to cry he saw how much his plans hurt her, and summoning all his courage he clenched his fists and held his head high, saying, "All right, mother, I will obey your wishes."

As soon as he said it he rushed from the room, brokenhearted, and no one saw him again that day. But he had conquered himself.

North End Wants Cop

The residents of the North End of Springfield, that section in the vicinity of the Farmer's Hotel, are peeved. They maintain that their needs are being forgotten while the other districts in the township are receiving something which they do not, and they refer to suitable police protection. Two thoroughfares, Morris avenue and Morris turnpike, run through the center of the North End, bearing more automobiles on an average than any two other streets in the township, and a policeman is never present at the maximum limits of both highways, on busy days to regulate and maintain safe traffic.

The fact that the streets form a boundary line between Millburn and Springfield causes an unusual situation to arise. One municipality cannot provide for a policeman without having the other doing likewise, and to be selfish, will never solve the problem. It is understood that the local authorities have made a move to co-operate with the nearby police on the subject of having a patrolman from each place present at certain times of the day. No answer has been made by the Millburn Chief of Police, and it seems the next thing to do, is not to merely wait, but to act with some project in mind.

A sensible plan would be to have police from both places operate in shifts, one during the day and the other at night, and if traffic be very heavy on Sundays, which it always is, an officer should be stationed at the corner of Morris avenue and the Turnpike, and the other at the corner of Morris and Millburn avenues, and thus keep traffic moving at a fast clip, as well as provide safety for pedestrians at both places.

The local police are to paint pedestrian lanes at the walk between Kless's Diner and Millburn avenue, the only possible means of crossing Morris avenue at this section, when the lines in the entire township are painted the latter part of this month. This should assist those who use the walk, as well as inform motorists, if that be possible, to permit persons to cross at this point.

A Springfield policeman patrols the North End each night, but not enough time is allowed to make a thorough investigation of the neighborhood. The local police have enough territory to patrol with eight men, and cannot afford to station an officer at the North End without causing a strain in the department's schedule. The only satisfactory plan is to add another member to the force, to be stationed at the North End.

No one can discredit the truth that the amount of dwellings, stores and traffic in this section, is not deserving of sufficient police protection.

Playing in the Street

It seems to us to be a great tribute to local police and of motorists in general that more children of this town are not injured or killed. Child residents of several avenues and their tributaries seem to consider them a public playground. Yet these avenues being paved and straight, are inviting speedways. There are many of them and yet it seems to be the custom for children in town to roller skate, play marbles, ball tag, hop-scotch or just run in the street. The motorist who happens to strike one may have to pay a few hundred dollars and the parent may grieve, but it is the child who will have to go through life with a disfigured face or a wooden leg. No amount of "you're to blame" and "it was his fault" will change the result. The child could not help it. He is a child and it is not to be expected that he will always think right. And perhaps the motorist is not to blame; he is human and his machine may have failed him. But the accident has happened, the child will suffer and the accident might have been avoided.

A resident of Springfield has told us that when he was young several rules designed to avoid such accidents were laid down by his parents and they were enforced and frequently emphasized:

Never play ball on or in the street. The backyard is the place for a ball.

Never cross a street without first looking both ways.

When riding a bicycle, give cars and horses plenty of room and do not ride at night without a light.

When walking in the road keep to the extreme left and look out for yourself. Don't expect the other fellow to save your life.

If possible cross the street where there is a cop. If in doubt, wait and if confused, stand still.

Remember that a dead man, right, is just as dead as if he were in the wrong. And his parents always used to add; "Remember that you might live to be crippled all your life."

That is the tragedy of it all. No matter who is to blame or in what measure he is to blame and no matter what anyone pays in money or sorrow, the one who is hit has to pay more than money and for more than a week.

It seems fairly obvious that one of the best ways for parents to avoid accidents to their children is not to depend upon the good, or much less the bad or drunken driver, to save or avoid taking their children's lives but instead to give those children a good set of traffic habits. And the principal among these should be, "Keep out of the street" and "Use the cop."

Billboards vs. Beauty

New Jersey's legislative enactment at the end of this year, on governing billboards, will affect all ordinances put into effect by the various municipalities.

The State will undertake jurisdiction, operating through the Motor Vehicle Department.

Thus far all such regulations in the use of private property have been limited by the ancient legal conception that a person might do with his own property what he wished, within legal limitations centering around the health and safety of the community.

Considerations of beauty, estheticism and building up of a city around a central architectural plan had no sanction in the law.

That was the weakness of the zoning ordinance which called for a constitutional amendment to make such zoning laws completely effective.

The old conception that visual beauty and esthetics did not constitute property rights has long since lost ground from practical viewpoints. It is encouraging to note also that the law itself is beginning to submit to evolution in the conception that there can be property rights in visual aspects.

The Supreme Court of Indiana recently aligned itself with the new ideas. The City of Indianapolis adopted an ordinance prohibiting outdoor advertising within 500 feet of parks and boulevards. Although the court decided that forcible removal of such signs could not be done without compensation for the property taken, it

Why Boys Leave Home

BY JOE ARCHIBALD

nevertheless upheld the validity of the ordinance, and thus gave legal recognition to artistic and esthetic objects as factors in authorized municipal planning.

England is considerably ahead of this country in its treatment of the billboard problem.

The billboard proponents have, up to now, taken refuge behind the argument that agitation against unsightly billboards is a newspaper and magazine attempt to corral the advertising for themselves.

There may be some small field for the visual fixing of attention on products or business through signs. Repeated analysis, however, has shown that the encouragement to buying from this source is negligible as compared to the suggestive power of the printed word and the vastly more flexible and fertile field offered by the printing press for advertising purposes.

The objection to unsightly billboards is not grounded upon newspaper opposition, since the two fields of advertising are totally diverse in character, and there could be no substitution of service.

The opposition to disfiguring billboards which mar the view comes not from special groups, but from the people as a whole who are endeavoring to restore symmetry and esthetic beauty to the landscape.

THE OLD CLUB MEETS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I HAVE my club, as most men do, with leather rockers scattered through. And shiling glass upon the table. And yet how strange we're never able. However much of wealth we boast. To buy the things we want the most. For I'd trade all the glass and leather. For that old gang just once together—

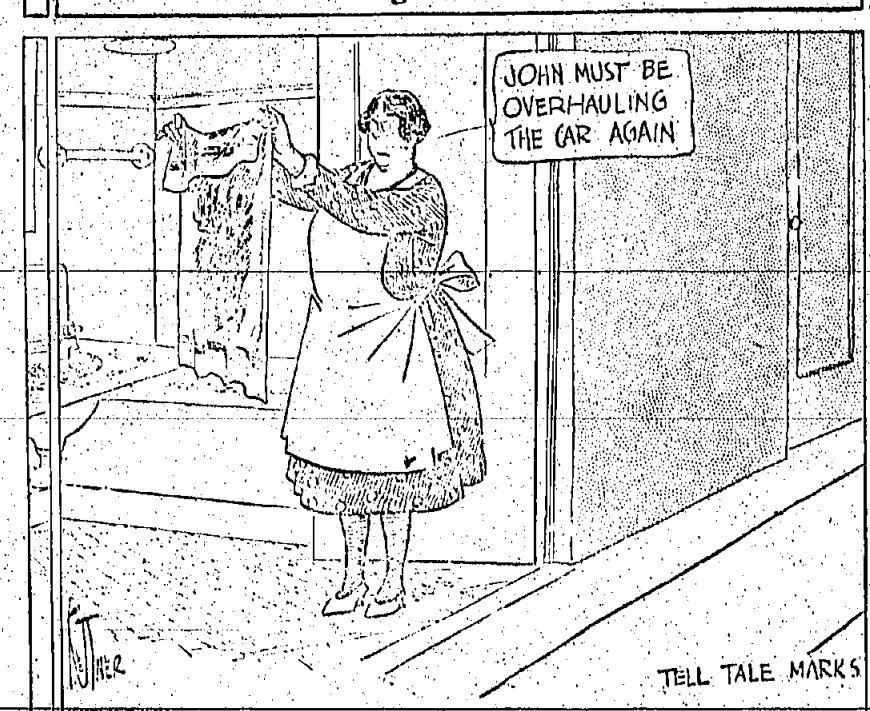

Just once to have the old club meet. That met up alley, not up street. In that old clubhouse that we builded. Although it was not great nor gilded. We picked a board up here and there. A tattered rug, a broken chair. And only when your purse is slender. You really know a tin can's splendor.

I wonder where they are tonight? Perhaps, like me, without a light. They sit before the fading embers. And every man of them remembers. Yes, fellows, as I think of you. Perhaps you're sitting thinking, too. I hear no voice, I catch no greeting. And yet perhaps the club is meeting. (© 1930, Douglas Malloch.)

Of Mixed Blood

Portuguese are a mixed race, originally Iberian, with later Celtic admixture. Gallician blood predominates in the north, Jewish and Arabic in the center, and African in the south. The presence of negro blood in part of the population is due largely to the settlement of African and Brazilian slaves in the country.

TELL TALE MARKS

Rambling AROUND SPRINGFIELD

The coming of the A. F. Wheeler circus to Springfield Tuesday in the grounds near the railroad in Mountain avenue, provided much amusement for all the local children, as well as adults.... a fine feature of the performances shown was that each of the presentations were clean, and afforded laughter as well as admiration from everyone present.... while dwelling on circuses, an old common trick played by circus-owners not so long ago is brought to mind.... the barker would call out to the prospective customers that police had reported pickpockets were in the vicinity, and the barker was passing the information to the local residents so that they would not be robbed.... immediately, everyone in the audience would look to his pockets to be absolutely certain that no had "lifted" his valuables yet.... then the pickpockets employed by the circus and spotted in the crowd, would know exactly where the pocketbooks and valued watches were kept.... the rest was easy.... the barker at the Wheeler Circus Tuesday explained to his audience that no gambling devices nor questionable games were used on the grounds.... it is a creditable statement for the management to make.... most everyone in the audiences of both side shows and the main tent, were satisfied with the various attractions.... the Selander family in town is carrying vast smiles these days.... the fourth generation into the family was born Sunday morning in Overlook Hospital to Patrolman Wilbur C. Selander and Mrs. Selander, of 112 Tooker avenue.... an example was set this week by a Newarker this week which we believe is worthy for anyone local resident to follow; this certain individual, whose name is not being disclosed, was in need of a certain standardized article.... he is to be a resident here in the near future, and he also could have made his purchase in Newark, where he resides now.... no, he splined this particular need in the window of a local business house.... it's expense will run into more than several hundred dollars.... Springfield needs more buy-at-home persons like that any community wants that kind, as well....

Five Years Ago

August 15, 1925.
Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Flemer, and family, returned recently from a trip to Nova Scotia.

John B. Brasser and W. F. Stokley, real estate operators, of Morris avenue, announced the sale of a 2-family house, on a plot 100 by 226 feet, to Ralph Branti, local confectionery man. The house is located in Mountain avenue, and was owned by Michael Molmar, of Morristown.

M. E. Jacobus, of East Orange, has sold a large tract of land at the northeast corner of Mountain and Tooker avenues to Mrs. Estelle Merritt. The property was once known as the Anderson Estate.

Garbage Complaint
W. C. Jensen, of Morris avenue, owner of the Kree-Mea Fudge Company, complains that Springfield needs better garbage disposal. He says, "Right around my neighborhood, nearly everyone would be willing to pay $1.50 or so, each month, to have the garbage disposed of. I believe a man would find it a paying proposition." At the present time, garbage is frequently left to be burned or buried, thus accounting for the mysterious and strange odors sometimes, penetrating the nostrils of the township's residents.

The Kosloff stores at the Center are hearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy about September 15.

SUMMIT LEGION PLANS CARNIVAL

Arrangements are being made by Summit Post 138 American Legion, to hold a carnival from August 25 to 30, Shunpike road, just above the Springfield boundary line, at the St. Teresa's baseball diamond. Proceeds will be used to purchase uniforms for the post's newly-organized bugle and drum corps.

Anthony Schaefer, of Springfield, is a member of the committee in charge, and the other members are Otto Oswald, chairman, J. E. Neville, Nelson Smith, and Howard Denman. There will be booths for furniture, toys, watches, sugar, hampers, candy, groceries, ice-cream, soda and frankfurters. An attraction for the children will be a merry-go-round.

Envelopes are being distributed in containing keys for a Captain Kidd treasure chest, and prizes are to be awarded to those whose keys fit the chest. The keys will be left at several local stores. Free tickets are given to everyone each night, and at 11 o'clock, prizes are handed out.

A night has been designated for other Legion posts, and is to be known as "American Legion Night." Posts having the largest representation, will receive special awards. The women's auxiliary post will co-operate with the members of the Summit Legion, in conducting the carnival.

D. Of A. Stages Watermelon Party

About 50 persons attended a watermelon party held last Friday evening by Pride of Battle Hill Council No. 17, Daughters of America, in the Municipal Building. Each member was given a piece of watermelon, and those having the most or least seeds in each were given prizes. Miss Evelyn Ross of 21 Walnut court had the greatest number of seeds, and Mrs. Bowman, of Vaux Hall, had the least. Mrs. Ida Martyn was chairman of a committee in charge.

State Councillor Elizabeth Huen of Newark, was present, as well as a delegation from Good Intent Council No. 19, also of Newark. Plans are being made to stage a peach and ice-cream festival at the next meeting on the local council on Friday evening, August 22. Mrs. Martyn, chairman of the entertainment committee, will be in charge.

Halos and Rain

Since halos occur in high thin clouds of small ice crystals, and since such clouds occur on the forward side of a widespread storm of cyclone, it follows that rain or snow usually occurs within a day or two after a halo is seen.

AT THE STRAND

Radio Pictures' officials obtained two of the screen's "toughest mugs" for the colorful roles of Denver Red and Marty the Mug, in "Alias French Gertie," Bebe Daniels' picture at the Strand tomorrow.

Arthur Housman, veteran of a score of crook pictures, including "Broadway," "Partners in Crime," "Roughhouse Rosie" and "Officer O'Brien," plays the part of Denver Red. Harry Tenbrook, whose vigorous character work in films goes back to 1911, is seen and heard as Marty the Mug.

Lila Lee, who plays the heroine in Lou Chaney's first talking picture, "The Unholy Three," coming next Monday and Tuesday to Roth Strand Summit is famous for "hard-boiled" talkie roles. Chaney plays a ventriloquist in the new picture, which Jack Conway directed, using five different voices and two disguises in his role.

"Kitty," which will be at the Roth Strand next Wednesday is a heart-rending love drama which brings the tears to the eyes and finally smiles of happiness. It is poignant in its grief, in the separation of two lovers, but ends with joy and sunshine in their reunion.

King Ho-Chang, who plays the part of the disappointed sweetheart in "Piccadilly," which is coming to the Strand Summit as the second picture on that theatre double feature program next Wednesday sprang to stardom over night, although he makes no pretensions to be a motion picture actor.

"Music should help build rather than dominate the story of a talking picture. The plot should not be forgotten in order to 'plug' a theme song."

Gloria Swanson, whose first all-talking and singing picture, "The Trespasser," comes to the Roth Strand next Thursday and Friday.

name be kept. Committeeman MacCartney asked him why he, living in a different district, should be interested in the case, and the answer was that he had purchased a home from Mr. Wiegand in South Maple avenue and had been satisfied with his actions and would not sit by to watch what he termed a "grudge" action change a street's title. Both Committeemen MacCartney and Leslie stated that when the ordinance is to be brought up at the September 10 meeting, they would vote in favor of it. None of the other members of the board discussed the matter.

Mr. MacCartney told Mr. Kulp that the action should be called a "grudge" on the part of Mr. Wiegand, because of his actions during the past week to allow a "certain class of people" to inspect the premises in Wiegand street, with the purpose of renting them the homes. Mr. Kulp said that if that were proven true, he would cease all efforts in Mr. Wiegand's defense.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY
BY HUGH HUTTON
THE SUDANESE WUMP

THE wump is a creature well known to antiquity, having been brought up into Egypt from the Sudan over 6,000 years ago. Its resemblance to the Sphinx has led archeologists to believe that it posed as the original model for that monument. Although of a very rotting nature, its favorite food is lion tails, and its persistent depredations among the lion herds have left the Sudan with hardly a fully-talied lion. An acorn head with top-eared peanut-kornels is the most striking characteristic of this animal. Along with this go a double peanut body, to which are attached toothpick legs and split peanut feet. The eyes are spots of white paint with ink spots and the fierce expression must be handled very carefully.

Perfection in Acoustics

An even more delicate test than the dropping of a pin has been made on acoustic properties. When engineers were trying out the audibility of the sound reflector on the stage of the Hollywood bowl they dropped one No. 10 bird shot (weighing slightly more than one-thousandth of an ounce) 8 inches on a kettledrum. The sound was heard throughout the bowl. When dropped only one-quarter inch listeners in three-quarters of the bowl heard the shot fall. The reflector is the half-shell of a huge cone, 45 feet at the front of the stage and 18 feet high at the rear. It is made of 36 tons of structural steel, padded inside and out with asbestos sheets. No electrical amplifiers are necessary.

MRS. BERTHA STILES
Funeral services were conducted Tuesday evening for Mrs. Bertha Louise Stiles, thirty-seven, wife of James C. Stiles, Jr., of 69 Linden avenue, who died Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Homeopathic Hospital in East Orange, following an operation. Interment was held Wednesday morning in the Fairmount Cemetery, in Newark. The deceased was a member of Althea Chapter No. 122, Order of Eastern Star, and Good Intent Council No. 19, Daughters of America. Both orders held services Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the home of the deceased's mother, Mrs. E. Klauing, of 124 Shephard avenue, Newark.

Besides her husband and mother, she was survived by two sisters and four brothers, Amella, Minnie, Adolph, Augustus, Robert and Theodore, all of Newark. Mr. and Mrs. Stiles had no children.

MISS MARTHA KELLY

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Miss Martha Kelly, ninety-four years, who died Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of her nephew, F. A. Doyle, of 238 Morris avenue. The deceased had enjoyed good health until several months ago, when she suffered a fall, and had been confined since. This, together with her advanced age, was believed to have been responsible for her death.

She had lived with the Doyles for some time, having moved to Springfield from Summit one year ago. She leaves a brother, Bernard, ninety-six, of Duquesne, Pa. The body was removed to Loretto, Pa., Wednesday morning for services and burial.

Algerian Native Today

Mixture of Many Races

The first impression of Algerian natives comes to the tourist when sailors and boatmen swarm up to his steamer at the time of landing. They are certainly a practical and cutthroat-looking gang, decidedly picturesque, and anything but clean. Although they are descendants of pirates, they are considered awkward and stupid at managing a boat. In the streets of the towns are many oriental types—the Moors of mixed Spanish and Arabian blood have degenerated physically and mentally from the builders of the Alhambra, being now mostly beggars and petty laborers. The Arabs or "Bedouins," "stolid and squalid," also look like a conquered race. Most of the shops are kept by Jews, but the Kabeles form the largest part of the population. These men are of a pure mountain race showing traces of Greek and Roman ancestry in their complexion and even in their laws.

DO they harass you by day and keep you awake at night?

Tuscan Farmers' Winning Streak Becomes Habit

Roselle And Garwood Victims As Stars Win Pair Over Week-End

SPRINGFIELD, WESTFIELD AND BRAVES SETTING LEAGUE PACE; 2 TEAMS DROP FROM FIRST PLACE

Springfield's representatives in the Union County League are setting the pace with the Westfield Hawks and Elizabeth Braves, after a hectic week-end, in which the locals defeated the St. Joseph's Club of Roselle and the Garwood outfit, by the scores of 8 to 3, and 4 to 2. Both Elizabeth and Westfield maintained their same position in the league by winning twice, while the St. Joseph's and Elizabeth A. A. were removed from first place by defeats.

Cecil Spittler hurled for the locals against the St. Joseph's Club, and although he was nipped for ten solid hits, the Roselle players were able to gather only three runs, while the Stars punched their ten hits for a total of eight runs. Manager "Ed" Ruby hit for a home run, a double, and a single, while Jackson, Lawson and Bennett collected two hits apiece. Letteri of the losers made a circuit hit.

Strassburger started for the St. Joseph's team, and struck out six, and issued two free passes to first. He was followed by J. Dooley and Kapsch. Spittler went the entire route, struck out five, and yielded one base on balls.

Idea of Metric System Originated in France

The theory of the metric system is that a meter is one ten-millionth part of the distance from the pole to the equator, which is a quadrant, or one quarter of the earth's circumference. The idea of a scientific standard of measures had been suggested as early as the Seventeenth century, particularly by the French astronomer, Jean Picard, who lived from 1620 to 1682. The suggestion took practical shape in 1790, when the national assembly of France appointed a committee to consider the question. The committee reported in favor of the standard being the one ten-millionth part of a quadrant of the earth's circumference. A commission was then appointed to measure the quadrant. In 1793 a report on the length of the meter was made. In the same year the assembly passed a law bringing in the new system of measures, the use of which became compulsory throughout France in 1801. Subsequent measurements of the quadrant proved that the meter had been made too small, so that it is now defined as the length of a certain bar of iridio-platinum which is preserved in the bureau des archives in Paris.

Our Debt to the Indian

People fail to realize how great an influence the red men have had on our present thought, religion, and language. Every town, county, and state is filled with Indian names. Our school books are full of Indian proverbs and our very characters are modified and often molded by our contact with the red men of the wilderness. There is scarcely a doubt that the dignity, reserve, and stately mien for which George Washington was famous were derived from his experience and training in the councils of the Indians. Every cigarette smoker of today is but making a white man's vice of a religious ceremony of the red men. Snowshoes, birch-bark canoes from which our canoes are modeled, the game of lacrosse, and the sign language, are examples of the inventions of our Indians.—Dan Beard in 'Boys' Life'.

Cowboys' Gorgeous Attire

The Hungarian cowboy presents an appearance entirely unlike the typical cowboy of the American continent. He wears laces and embroidery and a skirt rich with decorations. In his hat he has a bright feather. His coat or jacket is filled with gay embroidery and has large flowing sleeves of lace. The skirt reaches to his ankles and is likewise richly worked in fanciful design. Below it, however, he wears trousers and shoes of sturdy manufacture. This garb is a traditional one which has been worn for centuries and the men are very proud of their appearance. This is their holiday dress and is modified to a considerable extent for everyday purposes.

GOOD PITCHING IS FEATURE OF GAMES

The thirty-second and thirty-third victories of the season were registered Sunday by the Tuscan Farmers, representing the Tuscan Dairy of Union in games at Olympic Park.

In the morning they downed the West-Orange A. C., 3 to 2, in a game in which Eddie Grot on the mound for the Farmers limited the invaders to two safe bingles.

A pitching duel between Engle of the Tuscan and Lefty Hoban of the Bears featured the afternoon games in which the Dairy men scored a 1 to 0 win over the Providence Bears.

Last Wednesday the Tuscan Farmers defeated the Hillside A. A. 6 to 4. More than 1,000 enthusiastic followers of the Tuscan saw the game.

Eddie Grot, on the mound for the winners, pitched masterful ball and had the situation well in hand until the final frame when, aided by darkness and two Tuscan errors, the visitors pushed across two tallies.

The Unionites experimented with a new infield combination of Lipkin second and Meyer Denton at the hot corner.

Why We Do What We Do

by M. K. THOMSON, Ph. D.

WHY WE HAVE GALL

WE SPEAK of an impudent person with brazen assurance and insufferable effrontery as "fresh," as having a lot of gall or nerve. The Englishman calls it cheek.

Ignorance and bad manners account for a great deal of cheek and gall, especially in the cruder and more pronounced forms. Inherent selfishness is at the bottom of it, unbridled selfishness that has not been tempered by culture.

However, there are subtle manifestations of this attitude that are more accurately described by egotism than by selfishness. The egotist is not necessarily selfish in the worst sense. He is more likely to be self-centered. And all of us are self-centered to some extent.

In so far as the average person exhibits cheek or gall he is prompted by his self-assertive impulses; to see what he can get away with, to dominate a person or situation, to show off, to get something for himself.

The desire to secure recognition from our fellows accounts for a great many of our acts as it does for a certain type of cheekiness. Some people can get themselves conspicuous.

It is not easy to draw the line between legitimate self-assertiveness and the thing we call gall or nerve. Frequently it is merely a difference in the point of view. What to the outsider looks cheeky is interpreted by the person in question as simply standing for his rights.

Of course the gall that most of us exhibit is merely the misinterpreted intention of looking out for our own interests. We have no desire to offend or defraud another as the vulgar person is said to do when he is cheeky.

Concerning Trade Mark

A trade mark registered in the United States patent office gives protection to the registrant over the whole United States, and it is not necessary to register the trade mark in any individual state. The registration of a trade mark is simply notice to the public that it is the owner's property.

Beautiful Danish Girls

Every one is interested in the various types of girlhood found in the different countries of Europe from the light-hearted Parisian to the shy Swedish maiden. The girl you meet on her bicycle in the streets of Copenhagen and the lass you see in the country dressed in her colorful Hedebo costume, differ widely in temperament and looks. It is the latter girl, however, whom the tourist will remember longest because they combine in their faces and equipment that rare combination of simple beauty and good training for housewifery. If beauty contests were held in Denmark there would not be enough prizes to go around, yet every beauty knows how to cook, mend and run a farm.—Exchange.

Ingenious Robins

Surprising stories are told of the methods used by robins to secure mud for their nests. One is said to have gone into water and then shaken the water off her feathers into the dust of the road. Another filled her mouth with dry earth and then dipped her bill into a bird bath.

Expert Advice on Home Decoration

Charming Bedroom Furnished in Colonial Pieces in Red Mahogany.

Dear Beth:

Yes, indeed, early American furniture is popular both yet and again. It is like a perennial, it blooms the year around every year. You know it is really an illustration of one of my favorite points. George says there are at least half a dozen subjects on which I can be counted to deliver a curfwin lecture just any time, and early American furniture designs is one of them.

The popularity of furniture made after those designs is another illustration of my contention that the suitable is the beautiful and that the really beautiful is in style forever.

Think of the Pilgrim fathers using that furniture years ago and of how beautiful the same styles are in our homes right now. There is nothing faddish about it, you know. It is perfectly simple, sturdy and charming and it certainly gives character and dignity and comfort and home-likeness to any room.

But don't let your enthusiasm for it go too far. There were a great many pieces of furniture made by our worthy ancestors for particular uses which we no longer have. Often they were forced to make crude and homely pieces because they did not have the time nor the tools to make any other kind. That's my pet cry against antiques; you have to take them as they are and so many of them are no longer useful to us.

The beauty of reproductions is that they can be adapted to our present demands and yet have all the beauty of the originals incorporated in them. The pieces being reproduced today are graceful and delightful.

Another big advantage the reproductions have over originals is that they are more sturdily built. A piece of furniture which has been in use for a few hundred years just can't help showing it and being in rather frail condition.

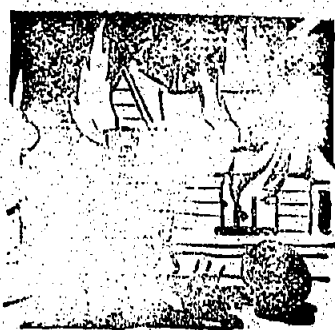

You may have early American pieces in any room in your house. There are even adorable dinette suites now consisting of drop-leaf tables, chairs, Welsh dresser, or a buffet. Hooked rugs are especially attractive in the room which is going early American.

I had no intention of raving on at such length when I started this, but you really are to blame asking me about one of my favorite subjects.

Fondly, Fern Etare
