

Christmas Carols

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
Drawing by Ray Walters.

ONE of the interesting developments of the celebration of Christmas in America is the revival of the ancient custom of singing Christmas carols on Christmas eve and the increasing observance of that custom in all parts of the country. Of course, we have always had some Christmas carol singing, varying in prevalence in different parts of the country and confined mainly to the Christmas exercises in church and school by the children just before the holiday. But in the hurry and haste of this modern high-speed age and our departure in many respects from the old forms of observing the day, the singing of carols is one custom which has been allowed to lapse to a great extent.

It is interesting to note, however, that the Christmas carol is "staging a come-back" and that in places where its appearance seems all the more surprising because it is in the very center of our modern commercialism. In many of the big department stores in the large cities, in hotels and in restaurants groups of musicians, dressed in the costumes of Old England, are playing and singing Christmas carols during the week before Christmas. In some of the railroad stations in the big cities hurrying commuters and other railway travelers are surprised to hear the sound of voices, singing old-fashioned Christmas carols, peeling out through the cathedral-like spaces of those great structures and upon pausing for a moment they see that the singing comes from a balcony overlooking the concourse and that it is a trained choir of many voices which is thus adding to the Christmas spirit in evidence everywhere.

The first Christmas carol is said to be that sung by the heavenly host when the birth of Christ was announced to the shepherds. Here is a description of that singing as told by St. Luke:

"There were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and singing, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Probably the practice of singing at Christmas rose in imitation of this, as the majority of the carols declare the good tidings of great joy. The word "carol" itself comes from two Latin words meaning "to sing joyfully." Or as it was defined long ago in a curious old stanza:

"Know you what is a carol?
It's singing, with praise of God.
If you praise God and sing not,
You utter no carol.
If you sing and praise not God,
You utter no carol.
If you praise anything which does not appear in the carol,
To the praise of God,
Though, in singing, you praise,
You utter no carol."

It is a curious fact that the singing of carols, like many of our other Christmas customs, owes something to a pagan as well as a Christian origin. The early church found that all pagan religions celebrated the birth of a new year. The Druids gathered mistletoe on what is our day of Christmas; the Romans held their saturnalia, the Persians held agricultural ceremonies, as did the Chinese.

Theophilus, bishop of Caesarea, toward the middle of the second century, recommended "the observance of the birthday of our Lord on what day soever the 25th of December shall happen." There follows a definite statement that the first official carol was "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" and the year in which it was sung on the new date was 120 A. D. Thus the church was able to profit from the mood of merriment created by the pagans. The spirit of joy from many religions was merged into that of one.

Many high churches in the ancient times opposed the introduction of song into the solemn moments.

No power, however, could stem the tide of innocent song which had invaded religious observance. The first crusade preached by Urban in 1095 gave impetus to the troubadour movement and the holidays for five centuries were to resound with the songs of their inspiration. By 1500 carol singing was widespread in Europe and was being introduced into England.

In the England of today wandering bands of minstrels or "wails" preserve the old custom by going from house to house piping Christmas tunes on reed instruments and singing carols. It may be this that they sing: "Wassail, wassail! to our town! The bowl is white, and the ale is brown! The bowl is made of the rosemary tree, And so is the ale, of the good barley. Little maid, little maid, rise to the point, Open the door, and let us come in!" Or they may lift up their voices in this equally old carol:

land was the occasion of a joyous ceremony and the singing of merry songs, such as the "Boar's Head" carol, still sung at Oxford at Christmas which goes as follows:

"The boar's head in hand bear I,
Deflect with 'bays' and rosemary;
And I pray you, my masters, be merry
Quot estis in convivio.
Caput apud defero.
Regulans laudes Domino!"

"Our steward hath provided this in honor of the King of Kings, which on this day to be served is, In Regium Afric.
Caput apud defero.
Regulans laudes Domino!"

Almost every land has its own Christmas carols. They are called Wassailers in England, Noots in Germany, Noels in Russia the ancient Kolycha songs, once sung to pagan gods, now dedicated to the Christian saints, are sung about the streets.

It is to Austria, however, that we are indebted for one of our best known of all Christmas songs. For "Silent Night" had its origin in a simple pre-Christmas party to which a young priest, Joseph Mohr, was invited in Oberndorf, near Salzburg, Austria, in 1818. At Oberndorf it was the custom shortly before Christmas for wandering comedians from the nearby village of Laufen to give crude representations of the Christmas story as recounted in the Bible. A shipowner named Moler, invited Joseph Mohr, young assistant priest who had recently come to the village from Salzburg, to be his guest at a little party. As a special surprise for the comedians from Laufen to stage their festival play at his home.

The thoughtful hospitality of the Moler couple and the touching simplicity of the festival play so stirred the young priest that instead of going straightway home he climbed the so-called "Totenberg" (mountain of the dead), overlooking Oberndorf, and stood there in silent meditation.

The silence of the night, the blinking of the stars, the murmur of the Salzach river all inspired him. Quickly he descended to his parish house, and late that night the words to "Silent Night" were written.

Proof of Tuberculosis

Revealed by the Nails

The condition of the finger nails of tubercular patients is an index to the progress of the disease, according to a well-known physician. Pitted nails were found in every one of fifty cases of the disease, while the same number of expectants and normal persons had smooth nails and only three cases of pitted nails were found among those having inactive tuberculosis. Downward curving of the nails and extreme thinness are also symptoms of the malady, the doctor asserts.

This correspondence between the appearance of the nails and the condition of the lungs is said to have been recognized first by the ancient Greek physician Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine."

Here's to Beauty! by Doris Hale Beauty Consultant

Look To Your Throat If You Want To Look Young WHY is it that so many women do not seem to realize that the neck needs just as much attention as the face? One's neck, however beautiful, will not keep its smooth contour long if it is not given regular daily care.

After the regular daily cleansing, the following treatment will do much to keep your neck cool, turgid, and the skin fresh and smooth: Spread a generous amount of tissue cream (substitute a rich, nourishing skin food if your skin is inclined to be dry) on your neck, working it up from your chest to your chin. Circle your neck with both hands, smoothing and pressing gently upward.

After the cream has been worked in, oil the inner surface of your hands with muscle oil and repeat the gentle upward movement with alternate hands. You will notice a pleasant tingling as the tissues are stimulated, and your skin is coaxed back to its normal functioning. Then dampen a small pad of cotton with a mild astringent, and whisk it up over your neck.

WHITE ASH Fraxinus Americana. A COMMON large tree, 60 to 80 feet high, with gray, furrowed bark, smooth grayish-green branchlets, and rusty-colored buds. The leaves of ash appear late in the spring and fall early in the autumn. There are 7 to 9 leaflets (usually 7), smooth and dark green on the surface and silvery-white underneath. The White Ash has many insect enemies but is exceptionally free from destructive diseases. There are two traditions which follow the ash tree. One is that a snake will never glide beneath its branches.

Women aren't satisfied with every thing money can buy them nowadays, says Knowing Nora, "They want every thing credit can buy." Artistic Manuscripts Illuminated manuscripts are those whose texts are brightened and heightened by vignettes and otherwise decorated in colors or in gold and silver. Fifteen centuries before Christ the papyrus rolls of the Book of the Dead were illuminated with brilliant colored scenes. Later, as writing became alphabetic, the important letters were illuminated.

VELVET ADDS TO ITS LAURELS; CLOAKED AND HATTED IN VELVET

YET another leaf is velvet adding to its wreath of laurels. This latest conquest which velvet is recording is that of the fur-trimmed tailored suit. The return of velvet for the daytime tailleur is stressed in this illustration of a fetching model which has wide sleeves of black astrakhan. There is nothing smarter for semiformal daytime wear this season than velvet trimmed with astrakhan, or in fact, any of the fur such as galyak, persian lamb, broadtail or seal. The unusual sleeve which styles the velvet jacket pictured is but one of

ASTRAKHAN-TRIMMED VELVET SUIT

As to the models in the picture below they are exquisite to the slightest detail, are high-class, yet are so conservatively styled as to tone in to most any hour of the day. The social rounds of the day seem not so arduous to the woman cuddled in luxurious fur and who feels the soft caress of rich velvet. And so if you are pondering as to whether the new winter coat shall be of cloth or of fur, why not let the models in the picture solve the problem in their suggestion that you choose velvet. While the most natural thing to do is to decide upon black for the daytime velvet coat, the vogue for deep rich colors is also declared. The youthful model illustrated in the right is fashioned of velvet in empire blue, well as its general styling as to when and where it may be correctly worn.

Be Prepared With Quick Lunch for Children

By NELLIE MAXWELL. In a little precious stink what splendor meets the eyes! In a little lump of sugar how much of sweetness lies. So in a little woman you grow and multiply; You recollect the proverb says: "A word unto the wise." — Juan Ruiz De Hita. FOR the mother or housewife who has a horde of youngsters apt to drop in at any moment for a quick sandwich or lunch, it is necessary that she be insured against a flat taster. She is looking for something new in taste, in shape or style, that will appeal to the fancy. Something that may be quickly prepared without the necessity of elaborate table setting and serving as well as something taking a minimum of time and expense in getting ready. A meal is not needed or expected, just a good mouthful of something tasty with a drink to go with it all that is desired, summer or winter. The tiny cream puffs filled with any good concoction like fish, chicken or any crowned, meat small enough to make two bites; tiny turnovers, croissants, or small bits of pastry holding tasty bits of good things are all attractive and satisfying. Twain Much Like Other After-Dinner Speakers

Chicago can claim credit for a famous Mark Twain story that has been going the rounds for years and is still good. Twain was one of the more or less distinguished persons present in Hawley's theater here on the evening of November 12, 1879, when General Grant, fresh from his trip around the world, sat through several hours of speeches in his honor. This person and that was called for by the chairman and by the audience, and finally a shout went up for Mark Twain. The general indicated that he would like to hear the writer, and Clemens was persuaded to get up. After a few bantering remarks, he excused himself with the remark that: "I never could make a good impromptu speech without several hours to prepare it." — Chicago Evening Post.

Why Boys Leave Home

Why Fussing and Fuming Is Slow Suicide

By JEAN NEWTON. A NEWS dispatch from Vienna tells how a man's impatience with a collar button drove him to attempt suicide. Fritz Mimmeler, for that is his name, tried to jump, we learn, from the window of his third-floor flat. A policeman who frustrated his attempt was told by the chauffeur, for that was his occupation, that he had tried five times to fasten his collar. Finally, the stud fell out and rolled out of sight, whereupon he decided to end it all by committing suicide! It would seem that this chauffeur in Vienna lacked a proper sense of values! The phrase "your money or your life" is regarded as an obvious joke—because the two commodities cannot appropriately be mentioned in the same breath. How absurd then to say "my life for a collar button!" And yet, while we do not do it so directly as jumping out of the window at the very moment of difficulty, we all do commit suicide over matters of no more real significance in our lives than a collar button! For when we fuss and fume and work ourselves into a rage we are most certainly committing suicide—though slow suicide. We are in fact damaging ourselves in a way that is likely to involve more suffering than merely committing suicide in one leap. Such passing difficulties as the naughtiness of a child, or the trying ways of the aged, or the impositions of tradesmen, or the ingratitude of friends, or the perverseness of servants, or changes in the weather—none of these are more significant or fundamental or important than a recalcitrant collar button. Yet we commit suicide—slow sui-

Red Indian Pronunciation

A great many American Indian languages do not use the sound of B. The famous Aztec language of Mexico does not have it and the majority of North American Indians are unable to pronounce the sound. However, some Indian languages have the B, for example the Jamez tongue of New Mexico has a perfect B, and in California the Pomo Indians, the most expert basket makers in the world, have it. A good example of a proper name beginning with B is Bual, a woman heroine in a famous mythology about whom stories are told. Her name is pronounced Buhcool.—Washington Star.

Add a muff of the fur and a hat of the velvet trimmed with a bit of the fur, and there is nothing on the style calendar which outshines this costume in way of smart style. It is trimmed with handsome blue fox. The hat is of matching velvet—which brings us to an interesting theme, that of topping the velvet costume with velvet millinery. It is significant that each of the coats pictured are belted in, the one to the right with a tie-girdle of self-velvet, while the model in the foreground features a trim little buckle. Although the coat to the left indulges in a lavish amount of fur in the way of a generous collar, deep cuffs and a unique border, the stenderizing lines which are so essential to good styling are preserved to a flattering degree.
