

OVER 250 ATTEND ANNUAL DANCE OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Large Attendance at Annual Affair of Volunteers Saturday Evening

Decked in carnival colors, bonnet, balloons and flags, the annual dance of the volunteer fire department was held Saturday evening in the Municipal Building, before a capacity gathering of more than 250 persons. Charles Murphy and his orchestra of Irvington, who played at the firemen's affair for years, provided music for dancing.

Featuring the evening's gaiety, was the award of prizes to those in the audience who either held lucky number prizes, or numbered tickets which were chosen, to decide the winner of the door prize.

A half-ton of coal, donated by the Union County Coal Company, was won by Joseph Schooner of Ticker avenue. Mrs. Philip L. Meisel of Salter street won the lucky number prize, an electric kitchen clock, and a large decorated cake donated by the Springfield Bakery and similar in size to the cake at the recent firemen's twenty-fifth anniversary celebration in February, was won by Mrs. Howard M. Crowell, of Salter street.

The door prize, an electrical mantle clock, was won by Miss Mary Murray of South Springfield avenue, and Miss Cora Chennells of 94 Severna avenue won another lucky number prize, a bread set.

In addition to the business houses which contributed the above-mentioned prizes, the committee in charge of the affair wishes to thank the following, who also were co-operative in donating other articles which were distributed at the dance: Springfield Meat Market, Tupper's Pharmacy, Shaek's, Casternova Shoe Shop, Springfield Department Store, Springfield Battery and Electric Store, Gibson's Diner, Huff Hardware Company, Muller Grocery Company, Springfield Delicatessen, Sunoco Gas Station, Wood's Department Store, Home Delicatessen, Springfield Garage, Watson Dairy, Joe the Barber, Springfield Pharmacy, Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company and Malorino's Confectionery Store.

Exclusive Apartment Being Built in Plainfield by Peter H. Meisel

When construction work on remodeling a large dwelling in Plainfield, owned by County Purchasing Agent Peter H. Meisel, of this township, is completed within a few months, its owner will be able to boast of possessing one of the most exclusive and elaborately-built apartments in Plainfield, if not in all Union County.

The structure, formerly a private residence owned by the Irons Estate, was taken over by Mr. Meisel early this year. It occupies frontage on an entire city block, being located in West Eighth street, between Liberty and Division streets.

When finished, the house will consist of two apartments of five rooms, and two apartments of three rooms. There will be eight bathrooms in the building, and also a large garage in the rear.

An idea of the size of the property may be gleaned from its frontage of 350 feet on West Eighth street. In addition, to the dwelling being situated 100 feet from the street. A large lawn surrounds the building on three sides. Congressman Ackerman's estate is located on the next block to Mr. Meisel's grounds.

The building formerly accommodating one family, is to be able to house, with the new renovation, four families. It will consist of mahogany panels as high as nine feet.

A rarity in the rear of the dwelling, is a white birch tree which has attracted many interested tree experts from all sections. The limbs of the tree are unusual in that they spread outward similar to an apple tree.

Will Enter Sewer Soon, Larsen Reports to Town Committee; Court Trouble to be Settled

COMIC OPERETTA PLANNED MAY 12

Mayor Gabriel Larsen, Springfield representative on the Rahway Valley Joint Meeting, reported to the Township Committee Tuesday night that there was possibility of the joint sewer being in operation in a short time, if not in a month and a half.

Word is being awaited from the State Board of Health, giving the township permission to connect with the trunk line, since both trunk and local systems are already complete. Application was made on April 7, and the local authorities were advised that a decision will be granted between that time and the State Board of Health's next meeting the first week in May.

The Rahway Valley Joint Meeting has already granted Springfield the right to enter the sewer.

Mr. Larsen also stated that court trouble between the municipalities in the Joint Meeting will be settled by a compromise, and that the Joint Meeting will be reorganized.

The clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the construction of a spur sewer in Baltuarol Way.

Arthur E. James was awarded a contract for painting the Municipal Building. His bid of $425, was the lowest of six.

C. J. Tenneck of Westfield inquired whether a permit for a golf course at Baker's Field in Mountain avenue, would be required, since the proposed course would not be a miniature course, but a "modified" regulation course, taking up sixteen acres. He explained that the holes would vary in length from sixty to one hundred yards. Township Counsel Charles W. Weeks suggested that a plan of the course be submitted, and the applicant would be advised, as to the board's decision.

Mr. Tenneck declared he was not trying to add the license fee of $100, but his course would have to be open Sunday mornings, which is not permitted in the miniature course ordinance.

About Pies, Cakes and Cookies

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that many matters which agitate the public mind are not worth a thought in comparison with dietary questions to which a thought is seldom given."

HERE is a cottage cheese pie that everybody will like, because it is different:

Cottage Cheese Pie.
Beat three eggs, add one cupful of cottage cheese, nine tablespoonfuls of sugar, one cupful of freshly grated coconut, one teaspoonful of nutmeg, a cupful of coconut milk and a cupful of rich milk, or use as much of the milk as the nut contains and add enough cow's milk to make two cupfuls of liquid. Add a pinch of salt and more sugar if it is not sweet enough. A grating of lemon peel may be used instead of the nutmeg if that is not liked. Pour into a deep pastry lined pie plate and bake as for custard pie.

one and one-half teaspoonfuls of corn-starch, add two egg yolks well beaten and the juice and grated rind of a lemon. Combine the mixture and make in one crust.

Crisp Molasses Cookies.
Take two and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour, one-fourth cupful of bread flour, one teaspoonful each of baking powder and salt, two teaspoonfuls of ginger, then sift all again. Heat one cupful of molasses, add one-half cupful of butter and two teaspoonfuls of soda. Add the flour gradually and when well mixed, chill. Roll very thin and cut with a cookie cutter. Bake ten minutes.

Orange Sponge Cake.
Beat two egg yolks with four tablespoonfuls of orange juice and one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice until thick; mix three-fourths of a cupful of sugar with one-half teaspoonful of grated orange rind and add gradually to the egg yolks; add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and cut and fold in one cupful of flour, sifted four times with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. Pour into a buttered cake pan and bake in a moderate oven.

Lemon Pie.
Take one and one-half cupfuls of bread crumbs, cover with one cupful of boiling water and let stand until soft. Mix one cupful of sugar and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of corn-starch, add two egg yolks well beaten and the juice and grated rind of a lemon. Combine the mixture and make in one crust.

Some Neighborly Suggestions

A SOFT varnish brush with a string of wire through the handle to hang it by is a desirable utensil in every pantry to be used for brushing bread, rolls and pastry with melted butter.

Instead of squeezing lemons whenever a drink of lemonade is wanted, squeeze several lemons at a time, strain the juice and keep it in a bottle for future use.

Save all lamb fat. It makes excellent shortening for gingerbread and cookies.

Grease stains on leather may be removed by applying benzine or pure turpentine. Wash the spots afterward with the well-beaten white of an egg or a good leather reviver.

THE TIME TO SAY YES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I KNOW no words that you can say before an altar that will hold your hearts together; know no way. Not even this bright band of gold. To keep you one in that far day When you grow old.

To marry you must more than wed, To marry means some stranger's bond.

To marry you must look ahead Up life's long hillside, and beyond. Oh, can you, youth and beauty fled, Still be as fond?

Your yes must be the yes of years, Of years you cannot know or guess, Remember all the sighs, the tears, Misfortune and unhappiness. And, if the thought but more endears, Ah, then say yes.

ETON-JACKET SUITS OF SILK OR CLOTH SMART FOR SPRING

JACKET suits, so widely heralded this season, are at their smartest when they are either eton or bolero types. It will be seen from the youthful atom suit pictured, that even when adhering to lines of strictest simplicity, this type of tailleur registers a complete departure from the regulation mannish silhouettes of yore.

This subtle femininity of "lines" may be said to be characteristic of the majority of the new suit fashions. Chic through and through is expressed in the suit pictured. Beige cloth of the popular spongy weave is its material. Its sleeve is the "last word," flaring as it does in a bell shape. Then, too, the skirt declares the latest, in that it buttons halfway down the front, featuring a snug-fitting hip-line at the same time that it achieves a full hemline.

The scarf contributes a vivid splash of green which with the beige makes a striking color combination. Scarfs, by the way, are playing a most spectacular role this season, in accordance with fashion's demand. In fact, accessories in general are called upon to highlight spot color to the nth degree. There's no such thing as exceeding the limit according to the color campaign which is being waged in the style realm for shoes, gloves, pocketbooks, handkerchiefs, scarfs and all the other details which complete a perfect costume.

If the gay color note is not sounded through a touch of flamboyant plaid here and there about the costume, it is perhaps because vivid stripes are flying the colors, and last but not by any means least on the program of fashion for this spring and summer, are the voguish tri-color effects worked through fabric manipulation or by combining three shades of ribbon, especially velvet ribbon which is so outstanding in the mode this season.

Turning again to the original theme under discussion—aton and bolero suits—there is this to say concerning white jersey frock, per example, the young woman who posed for this picture wore a bright red jacket. Every other detail of her costume is white even to her kid shoes and her felt hat.

No less chic are the ensembles where the black, brown, or navy dress is contrasted with a jacket in a color so vivid as to be startling, such as for instance an orange flannel coat with a brown frock or a gray with navy for the skirt, or red with black.

The very newest note is the light jacket with the dark skirt or gown. For some time fashionists have been calling attention to the ensemble which has a light top, the dress with yoke and sleeves in white, or a delicate line sharing honors with the dark skirt via the semicorded bodice top of lace or a light fabric. In the light jacket with the dark skirt the vogue takes an entirely new angle.

We have in mind in this connection the white jacket worn over a black or navy skirt, white blouse comprising this ultra-modish trio. These jackets are made either of white satin or them, the fact that they are classified under the caption "eton and bolero" in no way restricts the wide diversity of their styling. This is especially true in regard to the versatile bolero costume which is apt to be any type from a strictly tailor made to the softly styled ensemble which indulges in a silhouette which involves all sorts of whimsical details such as scallops and pleatings and novel sleeves and unusual necklines, not to forget fancy buttons which are made an outstanding trimming feature this season.

Gay Color Season.
In the world of fashion the very atmosphere is charged with gay color this season. Even the woman who has hitherto been wary of hectic hues must needs join the ranks of the color enthusiasts, if she would dress smartly.

One of the methods of stressing contrast is that of toping the light skirt or frock with a darker jacket. With a crepe, jersey, serge or flannel, according to the formality or informality of the occasion. Their styling varies greatly from hip-length tailored versions to boleros and etons.

Very good looking and clever or town and travel wear are two-piece tailleurs which partner a jacket of checked woolen with a skirt in a solid tone, a brown and beige check, for instance, with a brown skirt or checked navy and tan, with navy skirt, not forgetting black with white.

Doing Something to Help the Bashful

By JEAN NEWTON

All the world wants to help the bashful. They seem so helpless, they fill us with a sort of protective feeling; and particularly bashful swains—those who are backward about coming forward to get a wife—many of us have long since felt that something ought to be done about them.

And now we learn that a little old village in Germany, St. Gear, has gotten ahead of us by a few hundred years!

For it is an old custom in St. Gear that every spring the maidens of the place are "auctioned-off" so that bashful swains may get at least an option on a sweetheart.

According to the terms of the "Auction for the Bashful," each girl taking part must agree to keep company with the man who chooses her for the following year. During that year she may not dance or associate with any man other than her "purchase."

Many of us will rejoice that there is one place in the world where bashful men may be encouraged and aided in this way. But it is my personal opinion that the terms at the St. Gear auction are a bit extreme. To forbid a girl to even dance with any other man for a whole year may be said to be stacking the cards in favor of the bashful; and then, too, it may not be as good for them or for the romance of the town as they think. There is such a thing as too much of a good thing. The young man who is forced upon a girl for every single dance for a whole year may find that it might have been better for his cause had the reins been a bit looser!

But anyway we must take our hats off to St. Gear, which, by the way, nestles on the River Rhine not far from the rocks of the Lorelei maidens, for taking the initiative a long time ago and doing something to help the bashful. On less rigorous terms, the girls of some of our modern communities might not be averse to adopting the idea.

THE TEUTONIC SCHWEINHUND

By Hugh Hutton

(Author of Nutty Natural History.)

HERE is a creature that has been shamefully neglected by most natural history experts, although there was probably no animal mentioned in the press so often during the war. The term was applied by the Germans to the British soldier, although he in no way resembles the true Schweinhund.

It was not until this year that a genuine Schweinhund was captured in East Prussia by an expedition from The American Museum of Nutty Natural History, and mounted in the museum as shown above. Little, however, is known of its habits.

A coconut forms the body of the Schweinhund, to which is fastened a paper-shell peach head with split navy bean eyes and clove horns. The tail and legs are toothpicks and the feet are split almond kernels. The museum has an expedition out now to collect more Schweinhunds and if possible a Teufelhund.

Things to Make

1. A Bulletin Board.

Find a board or piece of heavy cardboard about fifteen inches by six and plane it until it is smooth. Stain or paint it brown or green. Hang the bulletin board in the kitchen or in your playroom. On the hooks put your best school papers, any pictures you draw or paint and anything interesting you find in a newspaper or magazine.

Change the news on your board every week.

2. Soap Carving.

From a bar of hard white soap you can make heads, boats, houses and many other things. Even a small piece of soap may be carved into a tiny dog, a bird or a fish. You may do some of the carving with a knife and use sharp pointed pieces of wood to outline the designs and rub away the soap.

3. Popcorn People.

When you pop corn next time save some of the kernels and do not butter them, for these are to be used to make some people. Probably you can find some short pieces of wire in the attic or cellar, or in the tool box. Twist three pieces of wire together to form a figure with wire arms and legs. Then cover the wires with popcorn, bending the ends a little so the last kernels will not slip off. You can twist the heads and arms and legs to different positions and your popcorn people may be standing or sitting, dancing or running. Perhaps with a pencil you can make eyes, nose and mouth on the top kernel. Make some tiny popcorn people for sister's doll house and a tall father and mother with small children for your games. These polite white people will ride on your animals, march with your soldiers and help you keep store.

Alphabet Puzzle

No Delusions of Grandeur

It happened late in September, 1918, when the Seventy-seventh division was given the job of driving the Germans out of the Argonne forest...

But there was one soldier in that outfit who had no delusions of grandeur about the part he was going to play in the historic encounter...

First Negro Soldier—Well, guess we've gwine show 'em tomorrow. Hear dey got fifty thousand white troops heidin' us an' when we bust de line for 'em, dey goin' right through.

Second Negro Soldier—Yeah? First Negro Soldier—What you so gloomy about? We's gwine be in all de newspapers tomorrow. What you reckon dey'll say?

Second Negro Soldier—What dey'll say? Why, dey'll say "Fifty Thousand White Troops Tromped to Death." Dat's what dey'll say!

The Litany of the Polu

The Germans had their "Hymn of Hate" but the French had their "Litany of the Polu." And that may have had something to do with the final outcome of the war.

Of two things, one is certain: Either you are mobilized, or you are not mobilized. If you are not mobilized, there is no need to worry; if you are mobilized, of two things one is certain: Either you're behind the lines, or you're on the front.

REGULAR PAINS

The modern Miss needs no "limo out" for the time of month.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure you complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colic, but a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day.

Your Motor Valves

They are the heart of your motor! When they are all right your whole motor is sick! There was a time when valves were treated by "grinding them in" with grinding compound. But no more—not in first class shops like ours. Why use grinding compound, a violent abrasive, on the valves when motors are equipped with air cleaners, oil purifiers and gasoline filters to keep dust, dirt and grit (abrasives) out. We don't! We use the KWIK-WAY System—a scientific system of valve correction in which grinding compound is entirely eliminated. Drive in—let us show you! We cure sick motors—make 'em run like new.

Songs the Cowboy Boys Sang

"On the Western Trail"—A cowboy group, the work of the famous woman sculptor, Sally James Farnham, recently exhibited in New York.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ONE of the current Broadway stage successes is a play which bears the title of "Green Grow the Lilacs," and sophisticated Gotham, which doesn't usually think a song is worth singing unless it came out of Tin Pan Alley, is delighted with the songs in that play.

And the majority of them had their origin in New York but in the Southwest—they are songs which the cowboys used to sing. This incident is another example of the increasing interest of Americans in the folklore of their country. That interest has manifested itself in various forms—in the popularity of the negro spirituals of the South; in the revival of singing of ballads of past generations (ballads which prove conclusively that, although many of them trace back directly to the old English ballads, America had a native balladry) and in the wider dissemination of the legends of Paul Bunyan, Pecos Bill and John Henry, myth heroes created in the fertile imaginations of the lumberjacks, the cowboys and the negro railroad workers, respectively.

The play referred to above takes its name from a song, "Green Grow the Lilacs," which has been sung in the Southwest for generations. Its origin is veiled in obscurity. One critic has ventured the opinion that it traces its ancestry back to Burns' poem, "Green Grow the Lilacs." If so, perhaps somewhere in the line of descent may be found a song popular with the American soldiers during the Mexican war, "Green Grow the Lilacs, O!" and there is a legend that the Mexican name for Americans, "gringos," is a corruption of the words "green-grow."

Another of the songs of this play which is said to have been an old favorite in the Southwest, hence was well known in Oklahoma, the native state of Lynn Riggs, author of the play, is "My Name is Sam Hall." There is no doubt about the origin of this song for it comes from London, where it was a popular ditty. In 1848 W. G. Ross, a Scotch low comedian, was singing in their cellars in Maiden Lane, Covent Garden. (The original, incidentally, of Back Kitchen in "Benvenuto" and "My Name is Sam Hall" was one of his "bits.")

Different authorities on cowboy songs and other native American ballads credit the authorship of this song to various persons and the usual statement is that "it appeared on the ranges in the early eighties." Although it is difficult to determine the authorship of a ballad, since such a song usually represents the contribution of a succession of numerous bards rather than the work of a single poet, it is my belief that, as nearly as the authorship of "The Cowboy's Lament" can be determined, credit for it belongs to the late P. H. Maynard of Colorado Springs, Colo., an old-time cowboy. Here is his story as he told it to me several years ago:

"During the winter of 1876 I was working for a Grimes outfit which had started north with a trail herd from Mustang Bay, Texas. We were wintering the herd on the Salt Fork of the Arkansas river on the border of Kansas and Indian territory, waiting for the spring market to open at Wichita. "One of the favorite songs of the cowboys in those days was called 'The Dying Girl's Lament,' the story of a girl who had been betrayed by her lover and who lay dying in a hospital. I don't remember all of the song but it began something like this:

As I walked down by St. James hospital, St. James hospital, so early one day, etc., etc.

"I had often amused myself by trying to write verse and one dull winter day in camp, to while away the time, I began writing a poem which could be sung to the tune of 'The Dying Girl's Lament.' I made it a dying ranger or cowboy instead of a dying girl and had the scene in Tom Sherman's barroom instead of a hospital. "Tom Sherman was a noted character in the old cattle trail days, a big strapping fellow six feet six or six feet seven tall, who first ran a dance hall and saloon in Great Bend in 1873 and then moved to Dodge City where he ran the same sort of place until some time in the '80s. All of the cowboy boys who came up from Texas knew Tom Sherman."

"After I had finished the new words I sang it to the boys in our outfit. They liked it and began singing it. It became popular with the boys in other outfits who heard it after we had taken our herd to market in Wichita the next spring and from that time on I heard it sung everywhere on the range and trail. "So 'The Cowboy's Lament' is another example of a favorite cowboy song, which was an adaptation of an earlier ballad. Mr. Maynard's version, written in 1876 and thus antedating other versions by five, and possibly ten years, had for its first verse the following:

As I rode down by Tom Sherman's barroom, Tom Sherman's barroom so early one day, I caught a handsome young ranger wrapped in white linen, as cold as the clay. "I see by your outfit that you're a ranger," the words that he said as I went riding by. "Come, sit down beside me, and hear my sad story, I'm shot through the breast and know I must die."

Then muffle the drums and play the dead march, Play the dead march as I'm carried along; Take me to the churchyard and lay me out for me, I'm a young ranger and know I've done wrong. The version of this song, as given in Loman's collection and as it is often reprinted, starts out:

As I walked out in the streets of Laredo, As I walked out in Laredo one day, I spotted a poor cowboy wrapped up in white linen, Wrapped up in white linen as cold as the clay. "O, beat the drum slowly and play the dead march, Play the dead march as you carry me along; Take me to the green valley, there lay the sad one, I'm a young cowboy and I know I've done wrong. I see by your outfit that you are a cowboy," These words he did say as I boldly stepped by. "Come sit down beside me and hear my sad story; I was shot in the breast and I know I must die."

Learns Law in Cell; Wins Out

Son of Famous Woman Is Branded as Most Dangerous Prisoner.

New York.—"I think it did me good. When a man has seen the worst, life doesn't hold any terror for him."

Thus spoke Roy Sloane, boy prodigy, after being released from a year prison sentence last December.

Now, three months later, police are wondering if the sentence did the good Sloane said it did. They have hopes that another and longer term in Sing Sing will do what the first failed to do, although keepers there doubt it.

Detectives say they caught Sloane at the Miller building at 562 Fifth avenue, a few minutes after a $25,000 jewelry holdup had been staged. They are sure the twenty-six-year-old boy wonder was the brains behind the holdup, although Sloane, with devastating calmness that has caused police no end of despair, denies any connection with the "job."

Mother World-Famous.

His mother, Mrs. Anna Bogenholt Sloane, world-famous oboenist and founder of the Arts and Crafts Institute in Washington, is sticking by her boy, just as she has stuck by him through the years since he crossed the path of the law.

"Roy couldn't do that. They're trying to get him, I'm sure. They're jealous because he bested them. They're trying to put him back in prison," she insists.

There's no doubt that the millions of the law are jealous of Sloane.

He's hated them all—prosecutors, judges, detectives and policemen.

And what's more, Sloane, is convinced that he's going to come out on top once again in spite of evidence that at the very moment three men were binding three employees in the office of Karos & Stein, and taking the jewelry, Sloane was in the same building. Furthermore, police say, victims have identified him. Later the look was found scattered over the building. An identified accomplice, Jack Giller, was caught within a few minutes after the stealup.

Sloane, with a brilliance that astounded veterans of the bar has talked himself out of jail before, but the cops say he's in a tougher spot this time.

young Sloane suddenly astonished his professors and friends by getting mixed up in activities involving stolen goods. For these activities he served a sentence at the Pennsylvania Training school.

Mrs. Sloane, who before Roy's birth, concentrated her thoughts in hopes that the child would be brilliant, after his release helped him along. While selling automobiles he took extension courses at Columbia university.

Then Mrs. Sloane suffered a severe shock. Her boy had been picked up in a stolen automobile and found with, according to the police, the most complete set of automobile keys he has ever been the dismay of the New York police to see."

For this he got five years, but was resentful to serve ten, when the term at the Pennsylvania Institution was revealed. That was in 1927.

Sloane seemed a model prisoner at Sing Sing for a while. Then, an alert guard found that parts of Sloane's cell bars had been cut and filed with putty which blended almost perfectly with the coloring of the real bars.

A key, made with a file and radiator valve handle, an imitation revolver fashioned out of another piece of metal, a keeper's hat, sixteen one-foot lengths of pipe, and other paraphernalia contrived to aid his and other's escape from the prison, were turned up by the authorities in quick succession.

Then Sloane got himself "in dutch" sure enough. Guards found a pair of brass knuckles on his person. Ordinarily, one found with such a weapon is guilty of a misdemeanor. It becomes a felony when found on one serving a prison sentence.

Brought back to White Plains to face trial for this possession of unlawful weapons, Sloane, just as the proceedings were about to commence, waived his astonished lawyer, Stewart Baker, aside. Although he had at the time never studied law, he asked permission to conduct his own defense.

Fought Own Battle.

Before an astonished judge, and jury, dressed in prison garb with a stripe on his arm signifying his "isolation" as a prisoner, Sloane questioned and objected, called this and that irrelevant and fought over admission of certain evidence.

A letter from his mother, at that time in India, gathering material for a book, Sloane said, dissuaded him from attempting a jail break and at the time he was caught, he said, he was removing the implements so that steel pigeons wouldn't see him.

"If I had intended to escape," he cried, "I could have got a real pistol at the prison. It is easy to get a pistol at Sing Sing. Instead of making a 'heisenaw, I could have got a real good one there."

And to prove that he could, Sloane produced from his garments a complete set of tools, two chisels and a screwdriver.

The jurors went out. It was reported that they had stood six for acquittal and six for conviction. They

HERO CONSTABLE IS "CAT BURGLAR," HE CONFESSES

Admits Crimes After Being Trapped With Money on Night Raid.

Peterboro, Ont.—For ten years a trusted constable of the Peterboro police force, hero of numerous cases, including one in which he shot and killed the slayer of a fellow officer, Leonard Matthews faces a term of from nine to twenty-one months in the Ontario reformatory.

Matthews has confessed that for years he led a Jekyll and Hyde existence, and that he is the "cat burglar" who looted more than a dozen Peterboro stores and offices, while he was supposedly patrolling the city's downtown streets at night, as an agent of law and order.

Standing in the felon's dock, to which he had led scores of criminals in the past, Matthews, a married man with three children, pleaded guilty to fourteen charges of burglary, his only defense being that he could not support his family on the salary which he received as a constable.

Caught With Goods.

Suspicion first fell upon Matthews when it was noted that all the burglaries occurred in periods when he was on night duty. When he was on duty the city was free from nocturnal crime of such a nature.

Reluctant at first to admit even a suspicion against so trusted an officer, Police Chief Samuel Newhall finally undertook to shadow Matthews on his nightly patrols. For five nights all went well, and Newhall was practically convinced that his suspicions were groundless, but he decided to continue his vigil at least one night longer, and that one night proved fatal to Matthews.

In the early morning hours, he was found emerging from a real estate office with $120 in his pocket. W. H. Bradburn, the realtor, swore that the money had been stolen from his premises.

Admits Many Thefts.

Arraigned before County Judge L. V. O'Connor, the constable admitted thefts totaling more than $1,500, and extending over a period of years.

Three years ago, Matthews distinguished himself by killing David Montgomery after the latter, crazed with liquor, had slain Provincial Constable Norman Makar. Montgomery took refuge in a vacant store, and Matthews braved instant death when he entered the building in pursuit of the slayer. Montgomery had his rifle leveled to fire, but the officer shot first.

Several months ago Matthews also won the commendation of the board of police commissioners by capturing a burglar in hand-to-hand tussle, after he surprised him in the act of breaking into a downtown store.

Admitted Theft.

LOVE BRIDGED 3,000 MILES AND 16 YEARS' SEPARATION

Poet Is Now Happily Married to Girl He Met in Lodging House Kitchen.

New York.—Three thousand miles and 16 years separated Benjamin DeCasseres, poet and exile, from the woman he loved—but they overcame the obstacles of space and time and now are happily married.

The facts of this strange love affair have just been revealed by DeCasseres himself. As to his present happiness:

"If every couple on the planet were going to get a divorce tomorrow, the gods themselves would gamble that Benjamin would not," he writes in the Cosmopolitan.

The marriage of the poet and Mrs. Mary Adelle Terrill Jones (she is one-quarter Indian, and his is her Indian name) has lasted 11 years. "In our 11-year marriage, the first 16 years were the hardest," DeCasseres declares.

The poet met Mrs. Jones in 1902, when he was working on the old New York Sun. He worked nights, and one November morning, when he returned to his East Thirty-fourth street lodging house, he saw her for the first time. She was in the kitchen, sipping a cup of coffee. She wore a fiery-red jacket.

"From that November morning until she left in March, 1913, I saw her only four times, each time briefly," he says. "In that time I never touched her hand. I reported to be a brilliant and dynamic talker—was a perfect idiot in her presence."

Mrs. Jones was the wife of Henry C. Jones. With her husband, she moved West, living on the Tonopah quarter Indian, and his is her Indian name) has lasted 11 years. "In our

Belled Buzzard-Rings Way Into Old Haunts

Hagerstown, Md.—The belled buzzard was back in its old haunts recently, according to Lester Kreps, Williamsport, who saw the famous old bird near Woodpoint. The men were driving along the road when they saw the bird, flying low, and distinctly heard the bell.

The buzzard is believed to be the same one captured along the Potomac river last year and kept in captivity for a while and then released.

The bird has a large bell around its neck, secured with a wire. It has been seen in many parts of the country for the past 25 years, but always comes back to this valley early each spring.

Form "Human Bridge" to Save Lives of 3 at Fire

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Policeman Joseph Fitzpatrick and Frank Cantor saved a family in a three-story burning structure by forming a "human bridge" from one building to another, over which three persons walked to safety.

Leon Schwartz, his wife and a stepson lived in the third story of a building at 515 Sutter avenue. Fire broke out downstairs and worked up rapidly. With his legs wrapped around a fire escape on the building next door, Cantor grasped Fitzpatrick's ankles and swung him so that he grasped a window ledge of the burning building. Then Schwartz' family walked to safety.

President Hoover Urges Economy in National Expenditures—Earthquake Practically Destroys City of Managua—Knut Rockne Dead.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

President Hoover

PRESIDENT HOOVER returned to Washington after an eleven-day cruise to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, with a countenance that approximated the shade of an almost ripe tomato. West Indian sun and wind had burned his face badly, and there was a strong suspicion the skin would peel. There was no question, however, that he was rested, and greatly so, as a result of his solitary trip.

One of his first announcements was that a tax increase could be avoided if his budget and other recommendations for expenditures were not increased by congress next winter. To that end he appealed to the nation to bring pressure on congress against the demands of sectional or group interests.

The statement was made in the face of lagging income tax receipts indicating a treasury deficit of perhaps $800,000,000 at the close of the current fiscal year, June 30. It was regarded as part of the President's effort to mobilize public sentiment against further soldier jobs legislation, farm-roller appropriations or similar proposals in the new congress to convene in December.

Senator William E. Borah, Republican insurgent of Idaho, retorted through the press, that "the record is that congress has appropriated less than the budget amount has recommended each session for the last few years." He declared his willingness to cut off the $90,000,000 provided for the administration's naval building program.

A BLIZZARD in Rocky mountain and plains states took a toll of eleven lives, including five children, two men and a woman in Colorado. Scores were in a serious condition from frostbite and exposure.

Thousands of cattle perished in a wide area including Wyoming, Colorado, South Dakota, Nebraska and the western parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. In the southern part of the storm area, peach, apricot and other stone-fruit crops were ruined.

The child victims of the storm were pupils at Pleasant Hill school, Tower, Colo. The morning of the blizzard Maude Mosser, the teacher, ended classes because of the storm. Capt Miller arrived to take the pupils to their homes in the school bus. Miss Mosser started to walk to her home. There were twenty-two children in the bus when Miller started, all between the ages of eight and thirteen.

Three miles from Pleasant Hill the bus plowed into a snow drift ten feet deep and stalled. Outside the mass of falling snow was a curtain, obscuring the road, tracks and covering fences. Miller tried to back toward the school but could not get the wheels of the bus free from the drift.

After remaining with the children for many hours, Miller realized he must get out or all would perish. In the driving storm he started out, thinking he could reach a farmhouse. Struggling on for more than three miles he fell exhausted in a cornfield and perished.

Five of the children were dead when a rescuing party found them, but the rest were saved.

There were other tragedies in the storm that swept the mountain states and other sections; but this tragedy was one to arouse the utmost pity. It beguiled the children met their fate. They sang and boxed and played to keep warm, as they were told by the driver before he left him to seek aid, as urged by the young leader not in charge, until the merciless wind and chill numbed them into helpless drowsiness.

KNUTE ROCKNE, football coach of the University of Notre Dame, with a name that became a colloquialism by word, plunged to his death with five fellow passengers and two pilots on a Transcontinental and Western Air line, air liner in the mid-Kansas grazing country.

Knute K. Rockne

Witnesses said the craft, flying through clouds and fog, lost a wing in the air and hurtled to the ground like a crippled bird.

Rockne had only recently recovered from an illness which a year ago had threatened to terminate his brilliant coaching career. Last year, however, he developed one of the very best of his many excellent teams, and made a schedule for 1931 which indicated that he looked forward to an equally great team this year.

American football sustains a great loss. Americans lose one who typified the best in useful, wide-awake citizenship.

President Hoover in an official statement described the death of Rockne as "a national loss."

THE development of Fascism in Italy is to be marked further on July 1 of this year by the banishment of the penal courts of Mussolini. Juries are abolished with the reform of the courts of assizes, or those which try criminal cases, which Premier Mussolini put in effect three months hence, and for them will be substituted a juridical committee, or what's called a "collegio" consisting of two professional judges and five nontechnical citizens who are called "assessors."

But every one cannot be an assessor. Only special categories of citizens who have high moral and intellectual, if not political attainments, will run the risk of having their names in the wheel to be drawn as assessors.

The reform of the courts of assizes and the abolition of the jury is a result of the reformed penal code in Italy, a work on which Minister of Justice Rocca and his collaborators have labored for five years. The reform was brought about by what were considered scandalous decisions often returned by juries made up of men of insufficient intellectual attainments to distinguish between the facts and the emotional bunk of the lawyers.

Discontent with these abuses had accumulated in less than a century for the jury system was only introduced in Italy in 1849.

Chancellor Brüning

DURING the formal adjournment of the German Reichstag, the Brüning cabinet is armed with parliamentary certainties to run the country until next autumn, when the re-electing conveniences. The government also prepared measures to curb attacks on President Hindenburg.

The emergency decree, enormously curtails the vital civic rights anchored to the German constitution. Basing the action on article 48 of the constitution, enabling the President to take dictatorial measures when "security and order are threatened," the decree curtails the personal rights of citizens such as the freedom of speech, the inviolability of homes, freedom of the press, secrecy in the mails, the right to meet when unarmed, the right to form associations, or own property.

Public announcements of political gatherings must be confined to the barest facts. Newspapers infringing upon the terms of the decree may be suspended for eight weeks, and other publications may be suspended for six months.

The public speaking "muzzle decree," the old timers eloquently claim, is more severe than a "kaiser" in the days of the former emperor.

During adjournment committees will continue working on a mass of internal reform projects, and the Reichstag can be called together at any time on the demand of one-third of the members, or the council of elders can authorize such a special call by majority vote.

RUSSIA bade open defiance to the International grain conference at Rome when Abraham Kisin, Soviet delegate, declared that, far from reducing her wheat production, his country would increase it this year and that instead of giving up her policy of so-called "dumping," she intended to increase her wheat exports in order to pay for her imports, which exceed $500,000,000 a year.

"Any proposal to exclude from economic intercourse a nation occupying one-sixth of the world's surface is foredoomed to failure," Kisin said. "Russia's population is increasing at the rate of 4,000,000 a year, which is proportionately twice as great as the increase of Europe's population, therefore we must increase our wheat production."

The United States Agricultural department has estimated that spring wheat plantings would be reduced 14.7 per cent. This exceeded the hope of the farm board for a 10 per cent cut.

THE Cuban Supreme court has given a decision against President Machado's suspension of newspaper publication, holding that he acted in violation of the constitutional provision for free speech when he shut down presses which had published information and criticism detrimental to the government.

President Machado

Mr. Machado set forth the necessity of public security and order as reason for the prohibition of publication but without any showing that there was an emergency or that the newspaper comment was contrary to the public good.

A VAST financial organization with millions of capital to relieve the cotton producers of the South from the distress caused by low prices of their commodity, is declared to be in process of formation by Chicago capitalists, headed by William Wrigley, Jr.

Details of the scheme have not been revealed, but the main idea is understood to be to accumulate large quantities of haled cotton and hold it for higher prices. Cotton is now selling at prices ruinous to the planters and is a drug on the world market.

The plan is also said to embrace a system of trading credits by which the vast surplus of cotton will be exchanged for commodities, of which the cotton growers stand in dire need. These include farm equipment of all kinds, groceries and clothing.

PARQUAKERS and fire in Managua, Nicaragua, took an estimated toll of 1,000 dead and many thousands injured, many of them American citizens. The to Managua American legation, the British legation, and Nicaraguan government buildings were all destroyed. Fire following the earthquake razed twenty blocks of the business district, causing an estimated property damage of $30,000,000.

American agencies were quick to respond to the need for help. The Red Cross rushed supplies, Marines, sent to the little republic on a political mission several years ago, were used to maintain order and relieve distress.

It is too early to know definitely the extent of the disaster. Managua's population was in the neighborhood of 40,000. The region of this city is dotted with evidences of its valiant character, and history records at least two major volcanic disasters. Nicaragua has been less afflicted with earthquakes than its Central American neighbors.

So far as is known there is not a habitable building left in the once beautiful Central American city, the second in size in the republic. President Moncado himself abandoned the national palace for a tent.

BASEBALL loses two of its major luminaries in the passing of Ernest S. Barnard and Byron B. Johnson, the president and the ex-president of the American league dying within sixteen hours of each other. Both devoted their lives to the American-nation game. Their terms of service in the presidency spanned the life of the league itself.

When Johnson quit the sports desk of a Cincinnati newspaper to seek his fortune in the business administration of baseball, James J. Hill had arrived as the empire builder of the Northwest, and John D. Rockefeller had established the dynasty of Standard Oil. As each of those in his separate sphere wore the Napoleonic mantle, so Johnson did in baseball. Under his leadership a rather rowdy sport became, on its artistic side, a profession, and, economically, entered the company of large affairs. It was Johnson's genius that wrought the miracle.

Mr. Barnard would have been fifty-seven years old on July 17. He had been re-elected president of the American league for a five year term. His activity in connection with the draft controversy and in the adoption of the schedule is believed to have hastened his death.

Arnold Bennett

IN THE death of Arnold Bennett, English literature has lost one of its masters, and an unshakably long list of novels, dramas and essays comes to an end. Absorbed in the workaday world about him, never a propagandist or a preacher, shunning the many introspections of the novel, Bennett with mingled realism and romanticism portrayed the human comedy. With gentle irony and exacting attention to detail, he laid bare the dull materialisms and the shams of civilization, filling the most insipid with exciting interest, but never receding from his detachment to turn crusader. Sufficient of his works will survive to assure Arnold Bennett a permanent place on the world's bookshelves.

THE $1,000,000 libel suit Gus O. Nations, former prohibition agent, filed against Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, in 1929, in connection with a series of articles she wrote about prohibition enforcement was stricken from the docket in Federal court at St. Louis for failure to prosecute.

Mr. Nations said he could not proceed any further with the suit because he had been unable to obtain service on Mrs. Willebrandt, but he asserted that suits for $20,000 damages each were pending against her in New York and Washington for alleged injury done to him by the articles.

The only observation of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt to the news that the $1,000,000 libel suit filed against her by Gus O. Nations had been stricken from the record was: "The action speaks for itself."

How Avalanche Swallowed French Town

Silently, but remorselessly, a mountain of mud swept down the mountainside in the Bauges district of France recently, and destroyed two villages with its tremendous, irresistible force. The house in the foreground was carried away, with only the roof of the structure remaining. The onslaught of mud traveled at a rate of 200 feet an hour and caused terrified villagers to flee from their homes.

To help soldiers at Fort Wayne, Mich., become accustomed to wearing gas masks, officers have inaugurated a novel training policy. The men are required to wear the masks while playing various games so that they may be familiar with the limitations caused by the wartime safeguards. ## A DOCTOR'S ADVICE for Stubborn Bowels

"Drink at least six glasses of water daily—preferably before meals. Eat bulkier foods, such as vegetables, fruits and coarse breads. Use a mild laxative as needed."

That is Dr. Caldwell's advice to people with stubborn bowels. He specialized on the bowels; treated thousands for constipation and its ills. The prescription he used over and over in his practice has become the world's most popular laxative! "Syrup Pepsin," as it is now called, was tested by more than 47 years of practice.

Today you can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore in America. It is always the same; made exactly according to the original prescription, from laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients. Nothing in it to harm even a baby. It does not gripe, sicken or enfeeble any of your fort. But it moves the bowels; it gets rid of all the souring waste which clogs the system; makes you bilious, headachy, gassy, bloated, weak, half-sick. A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Syrup Pepsin is a famous doctor's choice of a safe, pleasant, effective laxative for men, women, older folks, babies and children.

"Why, so it is," said the bride. "I keep thinking today's Tuesday."
