Tin Coffee Cans Start New Fad for Making Gay Flowers

Product of housewife's ingenuity spreads through many states.

Beautiful flowers of many colors, growing on glistening stems to form table and occasional decorations, are being made from coffee cans in homes and schools all over the United States. A few months after the idea first attracted attention in the Middle West, it has become a national fad. Crepe paper has been in such demand for flower petals in some restaurants that they are now furnishing instructions with materials and have established classes for their customers. Samples of these ingenious and attractive novelties are shown in the accompanying photograph. In making the decorations, the seamed rib of the can is used for the stalk of the plant, left attached to the bottom of the can for a base. The can is cut vertically at the opposite side, and the sides cut horizontally into strips which are then of equal length and left attached to the stalk. As may be seen in the photograph, the strips may vary in width according to the type of plant the maker wishes to imitate. The strips are then twisted to represent stems, and flowers made of crepe paper are attached to their ends. The makers of these novelties say that the can of a popular national brand coffee is especially suitable, because it is light enough to be portable. Letters received from Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, and New York indicate the rapid spread of the vogue. One writer writes that she has made and sold 53 of the ornaments; another, owner of a small hardware store, writes of the Christmas gift demand that sent her to the market for more. The town sides cut horizontally into strips which are then of equal length

FAVORITE SPRING VEGETABLE

WHILE the subject is before us, let us discuss a few ways of using the well liked but odorous onion.

When cooking a few carrots add a stalk or two of celery cut fine and an onion for flavor. Cook in a little water as possible and dress with plenty of butter. The three flavors are especially good.

Scalloped Onion With Cheese.
Cook small, even-sized onions, using as many as will be needed, drain and place a layer in a baking dish, cover with a rich white sauce and a spoonful or more of creamy cheese; repeat and cover with a thick layer of buttered bread crumbs. Bake until well heated through and serve hot. Nice for tea with a simple lettuce salad.

Onions With Early Apples.
Slice one or two onions, add a bit of sweet fat or butter and cook for ten minutes, adding a little water; now add thinly sliced tart apples without peeling; cook until all are tender. Season well with salt and a little sugar and serve as a vegetable with any meat. Very good with roast pork or tenderloin.

Mild Onion Salad.
Slice the southern onions very thin, add an equal measure of mild apple, a few dates cut fine and serve on lettuce with any desired dressing.

Sliced onions in french dressing served well drained as filling for sandwiches of buttered rye bread make most tasty eating. Nice for Sunday lunch after church.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

DELICIOUS as is canned pineapple, most of us welcome the fresh pineapple when it arrives for its brief spring season. For best flavor it should be very ripe. The other spring fruits, rhubarb and strawberries, combine flavors with it and with each other most satisfactorily. Bananas, too, are good mixers.

The spring picnic season has arrived and it calls for shelves well-stocked with canned and packaged foods and a refrigerator never empty of butter, eggs, salad materials and dressings.

The selection of available vegetables at low or medium cost in large quantities, beans and carrots through the cabbage family to string beans, peas, asparagus and artichokes. Varies in the things—so enjoy them all.

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALBERT G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Mental Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Spring Fever

Say "spring fever" to most adults—and they think of sulphur and molasses. Although such so-called tonics and blood purifiers are gradually, and deservedly, passing out of general use, the fact remains there is a condition which we come to know as "spring fever."

In reality, spring has nothing to do with it. Winter is the season at fault. We are shut in more and subjected to colds, sore throats, and the like during the winter. We take less exercise and receive less sunshine. We lack quantities of green vegetables and fruits in our diets. By the time spring rolls around, the reserves of strength and energy are approaching low tide.

We speak of being "run-down" or "lired-out." And that is what it is—a mental and physical "let down" for children as well as adults. But the answer is not medicine. Send the child out of doors; let him get sunshine; bring on the fresh vegetables and fruits. If there isn't a pick-up, by all means consult your physician, for the "let down" may have brought on something more serious.

"Desserts," an important matter where children are concerned, will be discussed by Dr. Ireland next week.

"Fresh" Eggs Must Be Fresh Under Proposed Legislation

Senator Prall's Bill Protects Consumer From Inferior Eggs Now Sometimes Mislabelled

By FRED W. JACKSON
Director, Division of Consumer Information
Department of Agriculture, Trenton, N. J.

ONE of the big question marks in the minds of consumers purchasing eggs of unknown grade has been their degree of freshness. Because eggs are rarely labeled other than "fresh" and because of unfortunate experiences with many purchases, truly fresh eggs have actually lost prestige. Such abuses in labeling have destroyed consumer confidence. Reputable dealers have had to face such unfair competition.

Abuses Noted

The seriousness of the situation has been recognized by both consumers and dealers. Corrective measures are necessary and one step in this direction has been the increasing use of the official New Jersey grades. These are used for eggs which are sold four days each week at the several New Jersey poultry auctions. At these markets, dealers can buy eggs of known quality and known standards as either New Jersey Fancy or as New Jersey Grade A. Consequently, they are able to furnish them to consumers on the same basis. However, these eggs are largely those which bring the better prices and consequently, find their way into the kitchens of those who are best able to afford them.

The bulk of the eggs sold in New Jersey are usually not of the same standards of quality as those which start their way to the markets through these poultry and egg auctions. Miscellaneous lots of eggs of unknown origin and uncertain quality have been freely displayed with signs carrying the implication that they are fresh. Recognizing that consumers are entitled to more complete information and protection as to the quality of food products which they purchase, Senator Prall of Hunterdon County has introduced a bill which will be of interest to all consumers.

This bill according to Senator Prall defines exactly the use of the term "fresh." In case this law is enacted, then they will be illegal in New Jersey to use the word "fresh" in connection with eggs, unless the eggs meet requirements identical with those now being sold from the poultry markets as New Jersey Fancy or New Jersey Grade A. This bill protects the quality standards but does not prohibit the sale of eggs of equal quality in the smaller sizes, such as medium, pull, and peewees. These are sought after largely by those families of limited income, especially during the high price period for the larger sizes.

SENATOR H. G. PRALL
Sponsor of Fresh Egg Bill

Use of Eggs Increases

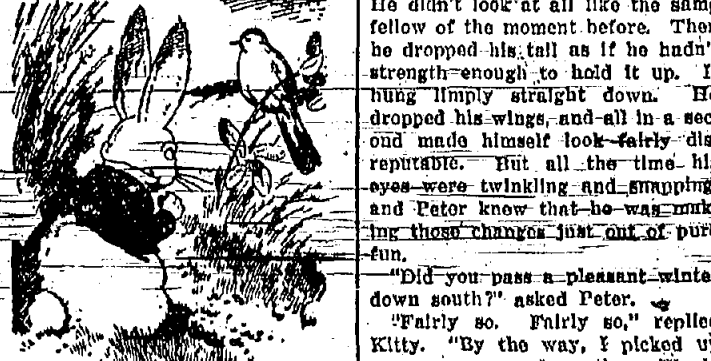

The use of eggs is on the increase and this law will be of great importance to all consumers in New Jersey. Nutrition authorities agree as to the nutritive properties of eggs, especially when they are truly fresh and of high quality. They rank with milk as one of the productive foods.

An actual example of the value of definite grades occurred in the purchase of 360,000 dozens of eggs for the New Jersey BIRA recently. Only by specifying definite grades was the BIRA assured of full value for the money expended. Further, only in this way were New Jersey roller families assured of full quality edible eggs. It is only fair to assume that consumers are entitled to the same protection under which government agencies make their purchases.

A FELLOW FULL OF FUNNY ANTICS

PROBABLY Peter Rabbit would have spent the whole morning listening to Glory the Cardinal but he had not caught sight of an old friend of whom he is very fond, Kitty the Catbird. He was a little smaller than Welcome Robin, and was dressed almost wholly in gray, a rather dark, slaty gray. The top of his head and tail were black, and right at the base of his tail was a patch of chestnut color. Peter forgot all about Glory and hurried over to welcome Kitty, who had disappeared among the bushes along the old stone wall. Peter had no trouble in finding him by the quor cries he was uttering. They were very like the meow of Black Pussy the Cat. They were harsh and unpleasant and Peter understood perfectly why their mother is called the catbird. He did not hurry in among the bushes at once, but waited expectantly. In a few minutes the harsh cries ceased and then from the very same place came a song which seemed to be made up of parts of the songs of all the other birds in the Old Orchard. It

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

REPEATING THE WEDDING MARCH

WE HAVE just learned a new kind of wedding ceremony. A "reaffirmation of marriage." It is called, by the well known opera singer, Ronald Werrenrath, and his wife, who took part in it.

The Werrenraths were married six years ago in the city hall of Washawton, N. J. That was with modern efficiency, but without color or romance. It was merely tying the knot to make them man and wife.

For the past six years they have been happy; entirely romantically happy, it seems.

And on their sixth wedding anniversary they wanted another ceremony—a "reaffirmation of marriage." Whether this was a belated realization of the bride's dream of what a wedding should be, a making up to her for something left unsatisfied, or a romantic gesture on the part of a grateful husband, we do not know. Perhaps it was something of both. The marriage vows were repeated with a robed minister, the wedding march, orange blossoms, and a celebration. And congratulations, in the regular way, were received from friends all over the country. To all appearances the husband and wife enjoyed this reaffirming of their marriage, this repeating of their vows. Perhaps they will wish, six years hence, to repeat that reaffirmation. If so, more power to them. It is good to see people happy.

The great majority of us, however, do not need to so dramatize our happiness. Most people are so glad to get done with necessary ceremony that nothing would induce them to submit to it, if they had managed to escape, or to repeat one they had survived! When two people are happy together, they are likely to be selfish about that happiness to the point of regarding the mere presence of others as an intrusion. Rarely do they enjoy a public display of it.

But that is what makes the world so colorful and interesting—that we are not all alike. And, as the French say, "each to his taste."

Food Market Advice

WARMER spring weather brings such a rush of new arrivals into market that the shopper is left in somewhat of a quandary. So many good things are available that it is difficult to decide which ones are most attractive and offer the best values. Western asparagus is about to be supplemented by early cuttings from Carolina beds. While it is not as cheap to serve as spinach, it is very reasonable for asparagus. Green beans are again truly economical and the quality is excellent. Beans and peas seem to be on the opposite side of a seesaw. Green peas go up a little as beans come down.

The tender young carrots that are available now make a crisp relish when cut into match-like sticks. When shredded, they also make delicious salads—alone or in combination with other raw vegetables, including cabbage, celery and green peppers. Good broccoli and cauliflower are still plentiful and moderately priced.

Fish Supply Increases

Better weather brings an increase from fish supplies. Since the winter season closes officially on May first and sometimes even earlier in practice, it is time to have that last stew if you wish to have it before next September.

Fruits Are Plentiful
Oranges of both varieties are still plentiful and attractively priced. Grapefruit are sweet, as they always are at the end of their season. Apples are plentiful. The outstanding spring fruits are bananas, strawberries and rhubarb, together with fresh pineapples. This fruit can be cut up and sugared and kept for several days in the refrigerator. To be at its best it should be very ripe. Cantaloupes are arriving, but they are still rather expensive.

Consumers Buy at Lower Prices, Farmers Gain, Through Auctions

Successful Egg Auctions in New Jersey Point Way to Aid Both Consumer and Producer

By FRED W. JACKSON
Director, Division of Consumer Information
Department of Agriculture, Trenton, N. J.

NEW DEAL economies have May and June. Eggs are now extremely plentiful. This is the period when housewives should plan the greatest use of large eggs since this will probably be the lowest price period of the year. This is also the period when persons desiring to store eggs in water glass for fall use, baking and other general cooking purposes, should obtain their supply.

Buy Eggs Twice Weekly
Eggs produced during this period are of the finest quality obtainable during the year. Since there is a considerable volume produced in New Jersey, housewives are in a position to insist on obtaining a graded product of excellent quality at a reasonable price. We suggest that eggs be purchased regularly at least twice a week instead of on a weekly basis and from dealers buying at the New Jersey auctions.

Long esteemed as a food and as an important ingredient of cookery, eggs were designed by Nature as the sole food supply of the baby chick, for it is logical that they should contain the essential food nutrients in the proper proportion for maintaining life. The Lenten fare of St. Cold, famous cleric of London, is not such a marvel to the modern chemist as it was to the Europe of years ago. Although his daily food consisted only of an evening meal made up of an egg, an inch of bread and a cup of milk, it contained most of the essentials for good nutrition, although in restricted amounts.

Successful Auctions
The outstanding example is in the case of eggs which are sold four days a week over auctions operating at Flemington, Paterson, Vineland, Hightstown, and Mount Holly. The majority of the eggs are sold under official state grades and are marketed on the basis of quality only. Buyers purchase on that same basis and so can furnish consumers eggs of known quality. Similarly, other New Jersey crops are marketed by their season. Bookending in late April, normal spring production of eggs is excep-

Your Teeth and Your Health

By DR. J. M. WISAN
Chairman, Council on Mouth Hygiene, New Jersey State Dental Society

Prenatal Care

THE prevention of dental disease begins with the expectant mother. Proper diet and attention to health during the prenatal period will help the child in the formation of sound teeth.

The Teeth Form Early
Since the buds of the temporary "baby teeth" and the buds of the first permanent molar (six year molar) are formed before birth, it seems that the mother's diet and health practices before birth determine the condition of the first set of teeth as well as the first permanent molar.

The wise woman will consult her physician and obtain competent advice as to diet. As a rule expectant mothers are advised to partake of the body-building foods such as milk, fruits and vegetables and decrease the amounts of sweets, pastries and other starchy foods.

Authoritative dentists are unanimous in advising expectant mothers to obtain dental treatment and thus assure themselves of healthy mouths.

Undoubtedly the most important consideration for the future mother is the question: "What an I supposed to eat?"

Quebec Enshrines Her Colorful History In Magnificent New Museum in Capital

One of the unique institutions of North America is the recently opened Quebec provincial museum in Quebec City, situated in the National Battlefields Park, near the site of the famous decisive battle on the Plains of Abraham where the English general Wolfe and the French general Montcalm fell in the struggle that decided the future rule of Canada. One of the most comprehensive museums on the continent, the collections show graphically the history, art and cultural picture of Quebec, as well as the flora and fauna of the region. Right picture shows the main entrance with sculptures on early life in Canada. Left picture, reliefs on main floor showing the varied wild life of Canadian forests and waters.

QUEBEC.—Less than 100 yards from the spot on which the English general Wolfe died after wresting Canada from Montcalm and the French, the Province of Quebec has opened a new provincial memorial museum, bringing together under one roof the art, cultural and historical treasures of French Canada.

Began more than four years ago, the magnificent structure was completed recently, and has attracted thousands of visitors from all over Canada and the United States. Of classical architecture and constructed of Canadian silver-gray granite, the museum occupies a dominant position in the National Battlefields Park, bordering the St. Lawrence River, and only a short distance from where the armies of Montcalm and Wolfe joined battle on the Plains of Abraham September 13-17, 1759, for the supremacy of Canada. It is one of the most comprehensive museums in the world, showing under one roof beautiful sculptures and paintings, famous historical documents, coins, art and handicrafts, and objects of natural history, and is easily accessible by Quebec's network of modern highways.

Sculptured figures by the French Canadian artist, Emile Brunet, high-reliefs of an aluminum-platinum alloy to harmonize with the color of the stone, friezes and other works of art, regaling the history of New France, adorn the exterior of the building. Inside, are rooms devoted to religious and historic subjects, natural history, paintings, bronzes and sculpture, collections of old coins, manuscripts, engravings, examples of the peasant-art in wood carving, and other relics and works of art. The museum, established to preserve and enrich the traditions of the French Canadians as a race, is under the direction of Dr. Pierre Georges Roy, provincial architect.

Housing what is said to be one of the most valuable art and historic collections in North America, the Quebec museum includes the 26 chronicle produced by Surot Cote to illustrate the first edition of the famous French Canadian novel, Maria Chapdelaine; an excellent painting of Samuel de Champlain by Cole; a bust of Madame Albani, the celebrated French Canadian singer, done in pure Carrara marble by the Prince of Hohenzollern; medallions of famous Indian chiefs; the original document on the capitulation of Quebec to the English; old maps and charts of the New World by Ballin, Leorange and Mitchell; the prototype of the famous bell "Gothic," presented to the Province by the city of Dieppe, France; a set of engravings by Surot in 1700-01, showing the damage done to Quebec during Wolfe's siege; and five statues of Christ, done in wood by the Lyveseur brothers two centuries ago. Reliefs of the unique Wolfe-Montcalm monument erected jointly to victor and vanquished, the flags of Montcalm's regiments, and figure-heads from the old sailing vessels, Napoleon and Josephine, also feature the collections.

A series of 215 statuettes in bronze, works of the celebrated Canadian sculptor Alfred Laliberté, are an interpretation of the manners and customs of bygone days, rustic arts and crafts, and a host of quaint beliefs, legends and popular-anecdotes. Altogether they form a representation of the rural life of other days in all its many phases.

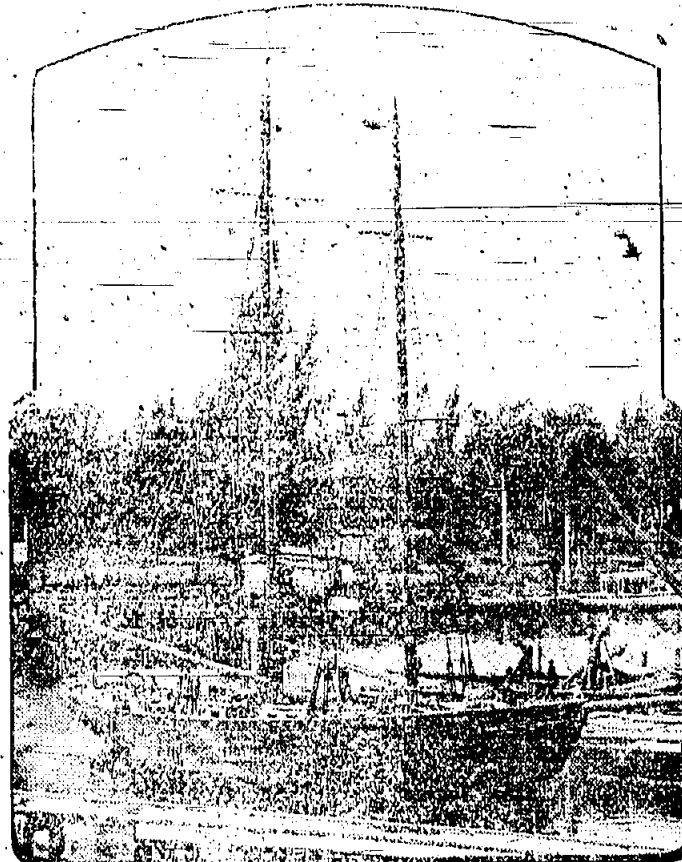

The natural history rooms, containing complete collections of the flora and fauna of Quebec, exhibit some of the world's finest specimens of polar bears, grizzlies, moose, elk, deer, and small fur-bearing animals. Many rare wild birds, including a perfect specimen of the American eagle, are also displayed. A particularly unusual group contains three passenger pigeons, once the scourge of the farmer, but now extinct in America.

The New Tax Rate

CONSIDERING that the Township must temporarily bear the burden of many unpaid taxes and delinquent sewer assessments...

Retrenchments have been made all down the line and taxpayers can well rejoice that the rate does not rise any higher than it does.

Springfield governments, including township, school and fire departments, operate on budgets just showing actual current expenses...

Local taxpayers owe their thanks to the township school and fire officials who have cooperated to keep the tax rate at a minimum.

Questions "Nuisance" of Automobile Track

Favors Licensing Project As Incentive to Town

By the Editor of the SUN.

While attending the race track hearing on April 9, I was impressed with what seems to me the key to Springfield's averted progress. It is the word "nuisance". How afraid we are of a nuisance! What unmeasured growth we miss when we look at suggestions through the pale fearful light of a nuisance!

Evergreen Park was mentioned again as a nuisance. To me this is a short-sighted, selfish perspective. For I know that out of four acres of stinking, stagnant swamp the United Singers at a cost of $60,000 made a park, a healthful place where people in numbers may gather for play and recreation.

Through a brass band in the park may be a nuisance to jittery nerves, let us healthy ones look at the benefits of the park. First, there is improvement of land values surrounding the park. Talk of its lowering values makes me and plenty more laugh!

Now let us go to the races. But let's not enter through the filthy glasses of fear of a nuisance to prospective residents. (People seeking residence in a strictly residential district will find homes among neighbors of the same social interests.)

With healthy normal vision we see the race track as it is. First, racing is a sport older than our country. It is a game of bridge built on children's feet trained to see the sportsmanship shown at races.

Let us ask the property owners near the proposed site what fear they have of this ongoing nuisance. On one side, Billy Weiss (he has a child) would welcome the race track to revive declining land values.

Now let us take up that fearful question of crowds and extra costs. At least the crowds would be coming to Springfield, not just passing through it.

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA—radio man, from sun-kissed Berkeley, Calif., is tinkering with the electric generators as I can get those stories out to you people in the club better. Kenneth Rawson, our young Chicago navigator, is repainting and adjusting his instruments. The archaeologist, Walter Lewisohn, of New York, one of our 13 scientists, is snapping everything in sight with a camera. Linwood Miller, of Highland Park, Ill., official sail maker, is repairing our wind proofs.

Lelloy Clark, from Cambridge, Mass., and his pal, Stephenson Corey, from Winchester, Mass., are digging boxes of food and clothing out of the snow and parking them properly. One of the boys from New Zealand, Bernard Fleming, is constructing a big new snow cellar for our drinking and cooking water.

Francis Dane, of Lexington, Mass., has the sweet job of getting up early for dog food, while big-birdy, Alfonso—Barbone, of Cambridge, Mass., our cook, works until midnight, every night, baking our bread, and the rest of the time cooking our other food. Bill McCormack, of Lansdowne, Pa., pilot of our Kellett Autogyro, is trying to keep that trusty and valuable machine from being buried completely in the snow. I am as busy as a bee preparing orange colored tanks of Tydol gasoline and Vedol motor oil for the automotive campaign beginning next October against the mysteries of this strange land and; in between, our regular jobs. Comdr. Neville, Capt. James Taylor and I are constantly working to dig our sweet new hut out of the snow.

No monotony, no heavy time on our hands. Lots of exercise, lots of health. Not a sickness germ within 2300 miles of us. It's a great life, no fooling!

Just got a radio from the club secretary that he has received a new supply of the beautiful big working maps which the club is sending, free, with membership cards, to everybody who joins the club, for which there is no charge whatever. To join one of the world's most interesting organizations, without obligation of any kind, simply send stamped, self-addressed envelope to C. A. Ables, Jr., president, Little America Aviation and Exploration Club, Hotel Lexington, New York, N. Y., and your membership card and map will be sent you promptly. Be sure you write your name and address plainly as I understand a number of our letters sent out to prospective members have been returned to us marked "not found".

Suggests Traffic By-Pass to Clear Main Highway Congestion

Top photo: Note that trucks have pulled off main highway to traffic by-pass, with fast moving passenger traffic, passing them. Lower photo: Fast moving traffic clear, trucks again pull back on highway, thus eliminating congestion.

EVERY few miles a short spur roadway were built along two-lane highways. It would enable slow-moving vehicles to travel to the right of the highway a sufficient distance to permit fast traffic behind them to pass. The operation of such a spur, or additional short roadway, is demonstrated in the photographs which were made of a model highway built in miniature. The suggestion for a slow traffic by-pass had been made by A. W. Robertson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., as an arrangement that would greatly facilitate travel on two-lane highways, in addition to providing additional employment and moving a considerable amount of road building material.

The by-pass would, it is stated, add a tremendous factor of safety by eliminating the necessity for fast traffic to pass slow vehicles on the opposite right-of-way. These additional spurs on two-lane highways would produce traffic facilities almost equal to those of a four-lane highway.

Bears Will Greet Rochester Sunday

With the champion Buffalo Stadium after Saturday's game, followers of the Newark Bears will have an opportunity to see two more International League teams during the coming week. The Rochester Red Wings, managed by George "Specs" Torpeter, come in for a three-day series, starting with a game Sunday at Toronto. Toronto Maple Leafs, piloted by the home, an old Newark favorite, make their initial bow Wednesday and continue up to and including next Saturday.

Manager Bob Shawkey, of the Bruins, is confident his charges will finish a series against the Red Wings. Experts regard the Red Wings and Maple Leafs as dangerous contenders for the ring, as both teams have been greatly strengthened for the 1934 campaign. Rochester finished second last year under Torpeter and was particularly troublesome to the Bruins.

FROM FILMLAND

Hollywood, Calif. Dear Syd:—

Things are certainly up and doing here in Hollywood and the other film cities. "New and better" pictures are being made; and, believe you me, there's a pile of new films waiting to be produced. Stars from radio and stage are pouring in, and it seems that California will soon be too small to accommodate all of them.

I made the rounds of the studios the other day and everybody I turned over was staring me right in the face. It was rather hard to get up all the "Hollywood news," but I did find out quite a lot of what's going on at the studios. I jotted them down in my little notebook—you know, the one you gave me—and I'm sending you their right in this letter.

Don't remember reading in history the "Romantic and Carole" the romantic story of the great adventure anchored by the Archduke Maximilian, of Austria, backed by his brother, Emperor Franz Joseph, and Napoleon III, to establish the Empire on Mexican soil. Well, the Fox studios will film it soon. And at the Rex Studios I also found out that Lew Ayres will appear in "Lottery Lover." Jean Parker, has been borrowed from MGM for an important role in "By Royal Command." "She Learned About Sailors" is the final title for the comedy featuring Mitchell and Leary.

They're terribly busy at the Universal Studios. Picture production is going full force and there's plenty of variety. Paul Lukas will appear in "I Give My Love." Nils Asther and Gloria Stuart are featured in "The Devil's Day-Afternoon." Joel McCrea and Sally Benge are working on a new picture called "Half a Sinner." Other pictures, which will appear in the theatres soon, include "Little Men—What Now?" with Margaret Sullivan and Douglas Montgomery; "The Black Cat," with Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi; and "Embarrasing Moments," featuring Chester Morris, Marion Nixon and Henry Armetta.

MGM is starring Jean Harlow in "One Hundred Percent Pure." And Metro-Goldwyn also lists the following new pictures to go into production very soon. These are "Sadie McKee," with Joan Crawford and "Treasure Island," with Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper.

Robert Armstrong and Ann Sothern will be paired in Columbia's "The Hell Cat." Lyle Talbot will appear in the role of "Bill Huston" in "Grass." Columbia's "The Most Precious Thing in Life," a screen adaptation of the short story entitled "Biddy," which appeared in McCull's Magazine.
