During the evening, a thirty-pound turkey and a portable radio will be drawn at a raffle, with Patrolman Stiles in charge. There will also be door prizes. Dress is optional.

More Top Honors Captured By Mrs. Griffing's Little Femma

Borough Woman's Dog Was Born Premature, Has Outstanding Record

MOUNTAINSIDE—It was Griffing day at the fifth annual Newark Terrier Club specialty show held Sunday at the Hotel Douglas, Newark, the two most coveted awards going to Mrs. Anna M. Griffing of the borough. Her grand little champion, Griffing's Little Femma, was the choice of Judge F. J. Shannon of Chicago for best-in-show honors and a keen little puppy, which turned 6 months old yesterday, captured the puppy futurity class, an event in which the dogs are entered before they are born.

The puppy, Griffing's Little Femma, came by his name through the almost miraculous recovery he made at birth. He and two other puppies were premature Caesarian births. Two of the puppies died immediately, but Little Femma survived through the diligent efforts of Mrs. Griffing. Born without a hair on its body, the dog was placed in a homemade incubator and for two weeks it was fed every two hours with an eye dropper. Today it not only is a normal specimen, but possesses all the qualities necessary to gain championship honors.

Eighth Victory
The best-in-show triumph of Little Femma marked the eighth best-of-breed award she has won in her sensational 16-month career. As a 7-month-old puppy she made her debut at the all-breed Baltimore show and gained best-of-breed honors and placed second in the non-sporting group. After that she was winners' bitch at the Westminster show last February in Madison Square Garden, winners' bitch at the Westchester specialty show and winners' bitch at the world famous Morris and Essex show last May, completing her championship at the latter show at the tender age of 1 year.

Since then she has been best-of-breed at Westport, Conn.; Rumson, Staten Island, Sandy Cove, Md.; Queensboro and the specialty show of the Boston Terrier Club of America at Boston. She also gained a best of opposite sex award at the Connecticut specialty event.

Classy Field
In taking the best-in-show verdict Sunday Little Femma stored over six dogs in the final judging. All seven dogs were in tip-top condition, but the soundness and body conformation of Little Femma caught the eye of the judge. Her smooth, rhythmic gait also made a big impression.

The show attracted 117 entries, making it the second only to the New York club show as the largest Boston terrier specialty event in the country.

Rondeau Held In Stolen Wire Case

Elizabeth police Wednesday returned to the Jersey Central Power and Light Company, Chatham road, Summit, 336 pounds of copper wire which had disappeared from the Summit plant during a fire Wednesday of last week.

The wire was recovered Tuesday night from the scrap metal yard of Philip Feldman, at 211 South Front street. Detective Sgt. Hugh F. Martin and Capt. Joseph T. Caulin at the same time arrested Polydos J. Rondeau, 45 years old, of Meekes street, this township, a junk dealer, who had taken the metal to the yard earlier in the day. Rondeau was held awaiting the filing of a formal charge by Summit police.

Plainclothesman Lovely, of the Summit police, had asked the Elizabeth Detective Bureau to be on the lookout for the stolen property, Tuesday morning. Rondeau, police said, appeared at Feldman's yard with the wire, which Feldman weighed and for which he agreed to pay $93.50. Rondeau was instructed to call back later in the day for his cash.

When he did so, shortly after 5 P. M., he was arrested. Police quoted him as saying that he had bought the wire for $80 from two young men who had called at his home in Springfield Monday evening.

Summit police said their records show that Rondeau and his brother Henry were arrested in that city in 1928 for attempted theft of wire. In resisting arrest, the brother was wounded by a shot from his own revolver, according to police.

Gridders To Visit Roselle

Record of Rice Eleven Not Impressive, But Team Has Improved

BELIEVE MILLBURN WILL DROP LOCALS

Regional High School's football team will meet a formidable opponent tomorrow afternoon when the Orange and Blue face Coach Orion Rice's Roselle eleven again. Boasting a record of only one win, the Roselle squad has improved considerably in their last few games against Rahway and Hillside, yielding only three points in the two contests.

On paper, the outcome appears to be a close battle, for the reputation of Regional as a hard-hitting squad has undoubtedly been heard around Roselle and the home team is primed for the contest. Their chances against Roselle Park, traditional rivals, would rise considerably, should they give Regional a trimming, for both schools face the other later in the season. The locals shaded Roselle Park 6-0, earlier in the campaign.

Roselle's play is like that of Union, although they throw plenty of passes, most of them long ones with laterals. These passes are to either sideline, very few down the center. Their line is exceptionally strong, having held a powerful Hillside team to only a field goal and the squad played without a substitution, except for a replacement when Miseyko, their quarterback, was ordered out of the game for fighting with a Hillside player.

Regional hasn't forgotten that 3-7 drubbing of last year, in which Roselle ran wild. It was the highest score ever rolled up against the Orange and Blue.

Glowacki's Kicks Win
Only by the margin of Bill Glowacki's steady toe was Regional able to trim their keen rivals, Millburn, 12-7, before the season's largest crowd at home last Saturday. It will probably be the last game for several years between the teams, for Millburn officials have indicated they will not play Regional again following conflicting reports on game officials' decisions, bickering between players and protests over the final outcome.

Regional scored early in the first quarter when a 20-yard lateral pass from Babe Pushman to Charley Adams resulted in a touchdown. Glowacki converted for the extra point.

In the same period, a 25-yard gait on an end-around-end play by "Cholly" Johnson, best-aid to face Regional this year, placed Millburn on the locals' 5-yard line, from which point the Flynn bucked for a score, but failed on the extra point. Later, in the second period, speedy Johnson dashed 35 yards along the right sidelines for another score, as Sally Sammartino converted, and placed Millburn ahead, 15-7.

The third period score came for Regional when Pushman nearly tossed a lateral to Bill Glowacki on the 15-yard stripe and the big blond backfield man crossed the line, standing up. With the count tied at 13-13, Glowacki squarely placed-kicked the deciding point.

MEETS MONDAY
Battle Hill Bulletin and Loan Association will meet Monday night in headquarters, at 4 Flower avenue.

STEEL MILLS BLOSSOM AT GARY, IND. Some industries expand; neutrality stifles others.

TRADE & INDUSTRY

Repeal of the U. S. arms embargo, which keeps American ships out of combat zones and allows belligerents "cash and carry" rights, not only set off a partial business boom at home but also brought major repercussions in world diplomatic, trade and maritime circles.

There was cautious expansion in U. S. industry, where building awards for October totaled $49,910,000 against $12,814,000 a year ago.

Many firms announced stock dividends payable in December. Railroads, which coupled their expansion with a plea that they might be permitted to operate without government interference in times of emergency, were offered a new recovery program by Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator.

EUROPE: Cause Celebre?

"This," said Prime Minister Chamberlain, "is not a state of war but a state of siege." He was not far wrong. The French claimed nine of their U. S.-made planes had downed one-third of a 27-plane German force over the western front.

WILHELMINA AND LEOPOLD Their peace exploded.

Ask Royal reportedly limped home with a captured vessel. But, as usual, the biggest war news was made far from the front.

Some 20 Nazi divisions stationed on their frontiers worried Belgium's King Leopold and The Netherlands' Queen Wilhelmina. Moreover, they heard rumors that Adolf Hitler would invade on November 15, claiming as an excuse that the allies would do likewise if Germany didn't invade first.

AGRICULTURE: Cotton and Wheat

Three items made news for cotton and wheat farmers as November got underway: (1) With 10,100,000 bales of surplus cotton stored under government loan, and with an 11,845,000-bale crop (slightly less than 1938) forecast for this year, the agricultural department announced loans based at 8.3 cents a pound on sever-

(2) The bureau of agricultural economics forecast the same wheat acreage for 1940 as for 1939, i. e., 64,600,000 acres, which would produce about 760,000,000 bushels of spring and winter wheat. But next year's yield will be under par unless unusually favorable weather comes along.

(3) Closing its first year, the federal crop insurance corporation was sad. Having taken 6,709,120 bushels of wheat as premiums from 105,551 farmers, the corporation had claims from one-fourth its customers. Indemnities paid, totaling 9,461,730 bushels, brought a loss of about $1,885,000.

POLITICS: No Ham, No Eggs

The tumultuous 1930s have brought an unprecedented thirst for security taking form in unorthodox pension schemes. Most schemes were born in California, like Townsendism and "Rock" in November's elections two more nanigans went down to defeat, but there were signs many a politician might follow them.

November 22 finds John Nance ("Cactus Jack") Garner, most un-throttled bottomish vice president in U. S. history, celebrating his 70th birthday. The event is significant, because it calls attention to the age of a man who is yet spry enough to be presidential timber next year.

Bruckart's Washington Digest Home Folks Fed Up on War Talk; Want to Know About Tax Problem

Considerable Transition From Interest in European Affairs to Domestic Concerns on Part of Public Noted; Treasury to Borrow More Money.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Observers, here in Washington, have a little way of their own by which they are able to forecast the trend of public thought and interest. It is a method that was developed solely from experience. Most of us who attempt to serve you, outside of Washington, as eyes and ears have learned to watch the demand for speakers and subjects upon which public men are asked to talk.

It is to be noted here, by way of review, that three months ago the bulk of the speeches by men from Washington had to do with war, our chances of getting involved, neutrality, etc. There were interspersed with these, of course, the usual truckloads of guff from Secretary Wallace and the other self-appointed spokesmen for agriculture, rinds and cracklings from Secretary Ickes, and about the usual quantity of mousetraps from the "superior minds" whose owners are presently concerned in development of culture, liberal thinking. But it was about the war and related subjects that most people wanted to know.

The scene is changing now; indeed, a considerable transition already has taken place. Home folks are getting fed up, at last, and are desirous of knowing more about home problems and what the government intends to do about them. It is a trend most pleasant to contemplate. There simply can be no doubt about the fact that if the people of the United States forget about that war in Europe and pay attention to their own business, we will be able to stay out rather easily.

Comes an Awakening to The Problem of Taxation

With this background, then, let me call attention to the number of persons who appear at long last to have awakened to the problem of taxation—federal, state, county and city. Obviously, when there is an interest in taxation there is a parallel interest in what government does with the money taken from its citizens. This interest surely exists now to a greater extent than at any time within recent months.

In this period of changing interest, Secretary Morgenthau announced that the United States treasury is prepared to borrow more money. In the next two months, according to the Secretary, the treasury will borrow an additional half a billion dollars. It will refund something like a billion and a quarter, also; but that process is simply trading new bonds or notes for old ones that fall due. The borrowing is "new" money, in the sense that new bonds will be sold and the proceeds used by the treasury to meet expenses, and naturally the national debt will be increased by that amount.

The statistics disclose that the American people paid $14,911,000,000 in taxes in 1938. This money was collected by the federal, state, county and city governments and some odds and ends of special taxing districts which levied taxes for special purposes. Of this amount, the federal government collected $6,034,000,000; state governments collected $3,857,000,000, and local governments took a toll of $4,020,000,000.

One of the new taxes—the tax on payrolls to maintain pensions and unemployment—yielded in excess of $1,500,000,000, or almost one-tenth of all of the money taken by the tax collector. Its total seems to give substance to the complaint that this tax is a tremendous burden on any one who hires workers. The payroll tax, according to the administrators' analysis, was the third largest of single items of taxation—only the property tax and the income tax brought in more money for the spenders of federal, state or local governments.

Income taxes ranked second in the sums produced for governmental use. The income taxes laid by federal, state and city governments supplied $3,242,000,000, and that is 22 per cent of the revenue. Another Group Includes The Concealed Levies But there is another group of taxes—a long list of items that include most of the sneak-thief taxes, unseen and concealed levies—that really is bearing down. These general and special sales taxes, federal stamp levies, excise and license taxes were responsible for slightly more than one-fourth of all money paid into treasuries of government. This money came from tobacco, liquor, gasoline, sales taxes of various kinds which you saw only by close examination or could not discover at all, licenses, etc. The gasoline tax was the largest revenue producer. Federal, state and local governments obtained $981,000,000 because most of us burned up gasoline through use of the motor cars. Liquor revenue amounted to $838,000,000. It is said by some authorities that this type of tax has about reached its peak. To increase it more will mean that bootleggers can begin to operate once more, because added taxes will send the price of liquor to a point where bootlegging becomes profitable. Such is not the case with the other taxes in the group; you pay them and like it.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The Taft brothers—Senator Bob seems to need new glasses... The lagging electric industry is beginning to show new life... Electric power shortage is hampering Japan's war activities.

WASHINGTON—Robert A. Taft, U. S. senator from Ohio, should read that old nursery rhyme that starts: "For want of a nail a shoe was lost, for want of a shoe a horse was lost," etc., winding up with the kingdom being lost because a certain nail could not get through to turn the tide of battle.

In the case of Mr. Taft it may be proper glasses. To get the answer one has only to go to his native town of Cincinnati and ask the first 10 people one encounters about the Taft brothers. The answers, or at least eight of them, will be that Brother Charley is a swell guy, who is a genial person with a smile, who will cross the street to say "Hello" to a friend, or slip an acquaintance on the back. The same eight, or more, will report that Brother Robert is a more self-centered person, and seldom if ever known to slap a back.

From close friends of the senator one learns that Brother Bob would be very glad to be a back slapper—not just to advance his own presidential aspirations, but because he feels that way. But the trouble, they confess, is that he has very poor sight. The reason he doesn't wave to people he knows across the street is that he could not possibly realize he knows them. He just can't see them.

Which seems to those of us who have been listening to his defense to be a sharp criticism of Mr. Taft's glasses. Certainly there is nothing the matter with them for reading. The most casual perusal of any speech or statement Mr. Taft makes will show that he has put a lot of study into it, that he must have read volumes in his research on the subject before giving vent to any public utterance.

Maybe the Senator Needs New Pair of Glasses. It savors just a little of a fiction story in one of the magazines a few years back, about a beautiful girl, with particularly beautiful eyes and a soulful expression, who for some reason was not popular. A smart doctor was attracted, and finally found out the trouble. The eyes were soulful because they were not looking at anything. They couldn't. She didn't mean to be high-aching young men she had met a few days or nights before. She simply didn't recognize them! So the doctor forced her to wear glasses. They were married, and lived happily ever after!

Well, it might be that if Senator Taft had some amazingly good glasses, which would make him as able to recognize people as his brother, he would get a lot further along the steep and difficult path that leads to the White House. Certainly if he had been using such glasses for the last two or three years he would even now be a bit further up that road.

And it's still not too late. It is generally agreed in Washington that, of the two men concededly ahead of him in the race for the G. O. P. nomination last spring, one Thomas E. Dewey, has lost ground tremendously, and the other, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, has gambled his all on this European war issue.

Obviously there is not as much talk about Mr. Dewey as there was. Whether this is due to the "over-shadowing" operations by Attorney General Frank Murphy, or whether the war situation has made his youth seem more of a handicap, it is difficult to say. Whereas Mr. Vandenberg has not helped himself for the 1940 nomination by opposing the arms embargo repeal, whatever may be the situation with regard to public sentiment in 1944.

Lagging Electric Industry At Last Is Showing New Life. That big electric power plant to be built at Philadelphia, and the big play the utilities are trying to get for it, involve some very interesting angles. In a statement issued by the utility executives in Washington, stress is laid on the details—that it will have an ultimate capacity of half a million kilowatts—that it will cost $48,000,000—that it comes on the heels of new generating capacity at Philadelphia in 1938 which cost $7,000,000. Also that the new plant will take care of 2,000,000 homes of average usage. And that it would run 7,000,000 radio receiving sets or light 5,000,000 100-watt lamp bulbs.

The Philadelphia story is the direct result of a finding by the recently sabotaged war resources board that the weak spot of the war preparations situation, so far as power for war industries is concerned, was Philadelphia. This has not been given any publicity, but all the utility men know that the resources experts thought, feared resulting publicity, and scrambled to meet it.

The utilities are also putting considerable emphasis on the fact that this big new plant is to be run by steam! There is a reason for that, also. The plant would have been designed to burn coal even if no other reason than efficiency were being considered, because the present expert opinion of the industry is that power can be produced more cheaply from coal than from water power.

Public Sold on Natural Force Water as a Natural Force

But the utilities realize the public is not convinced of that. The average citizen has been thoroughly sold on the notion that falling water is a natural force, the utilization of which certainly must cost less than to dig coal from deep down in the earth, then haul it to a plant, and then burn it to produce steam. It doesn't seem natural that current could be produced more economically that way than by just putting a turbine under falling water. But when all the costs of a friend, or slip an acquaintance on the back. The same eight, or more, will report that Brother Robert is a more self-centered person, and seldom if ever known to slap a back.

But this comes at a peculiarly apt time for propaganda purposes. The famous Loup and Platte river projects in George Norris' state of Nebraska are making a sorry showing, made worse at present by the fact that there has been such a drought that they are obliged to buy steam-produced power.

Power Shortage Hampers Japan's War Activities. The Tennessee Valley authority is not the only hydroelectric power development in the world which is having trouble. There has been a bad drought in Japan, according to reports to the department of commerce.

Japan never has had an adequate coal supply and like Italy, has been spending millions trying to develop enough water power to cut down coal importations, and thus protect its foreign buying power, or rather permit the use of its foreign buying power for more vital things—for instance scrap iron.

The present drought is said to be the worst in Japan's history, but whether this is an exaggeration or not, it is certainly the worst drought since Japan's hydroelectric developments reached their present magnitude. Not only has the power supply to non-urgent industries been drastically reduced, but the country's heavy industries and even its munitions plants have had to curtail production schedules. The power shortage has become so acute that steel-mill operations in the important Osaka-Kobe districts were suspended temporarily during the early part of September due to the sudden cessation of current.

The Japan Electric Power Generation and Transmission company, which was recently organized to control the Japanese electric power industry, has already received warnings from the military authorities of the grave situation prevailing in the heavy industries as a result of the power shortage.

According to the Japanese press, a feeling of developing industrial circles, that bureaucratic management is to blame for the present predicament, but this view does not appear to be warranted.

Couple of Stories Dragged In by Way of Illustration. Just what the bureaucrats are supposed to have failed to do is not made clear, in the absence of any satisfactory fact-finding machinery. It reminds some of the servers of the time Will Rogers was defending the then prince of Wales, now the duke of Windsor.

"I keep hearing that the prince of Wales just can't stay on a horse," Will once cracked when annoyed at criticisms of the prince. "I've been looking at pictures of his falling off, and I notice that every time the horse is down too, I wish some of these fellows would explain to me how a rider is going to stay up when his horse is down."

Well, it's all true, but a more interesting statement would also be true but is not included. Which is that this plant would have been built in the normal course of events; that similar proportionate additions to plant would be added to most of the privately owned electric systems in the United States, and that actually the electric industry has been lagging behind in additions and betterments.

Grid Coaches Attest Dislike Of Slaughters

By ROBERT McSHANE

WHEN Michigan's gridiron warriors raced over, through and around the University of Chicago's Maroons for an 85 to 0 victory on Stagg field this midseason, the on-sided score brought very little joy to the victor and none to the vanquished. It wasn't a glorious defeat for the Maroons—it was a rout. It wasn't a great victory for the Wolverines—it was a stampede.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan coach, reversed the usual gridiron order in the Chicago game. He ordered his team NOT to score touchdowns. The score was 54 to 0 at the half, and Crisler wanted it to stay at that point. He conferred with Clark Shaugnessy during the first half, and the two coaches agreed upon 23 minute quarters during the second half.

Another story about the game is told by an official—that Crisler requested officials to penalize Michigan at every opportunity. Michigan would welcome the loss of yardage. "If we look like we're going to score, blow the whistle and penalize us."

Despite Michigan's humanitarian efforts, the score kept piling up. The Maroons fumbled repeatedly in their own territory, leaving Michigan with little to do but make touchdowns. Shaugnessy—registered no complaints.

Mercy's Gates. It wasn't so long ago that Francis Schmidt earned his sobriquet, "Bar the Gates of Mercy" Schmidt. It all happened during his first year of coaching at Ohio State. The Buckeyes went wild against a small college team, completely overwhelming their opponents by an avalanche of touchdowns. Schmidt wasn't overly happy about the victory.

Chicago's present situation is somewhat ironic. Chicago players of past years were occasionally accused of shutting and locking the gates of mercy. Before simple amateurism weakened its teams Chicago rang up some colossal one-sided triumphs.

In 1916, Georgia Tech whipped Cumberland 22 to 0. No one could call the encounter a football game. It wasn't even a good track meet. But that victory aroused the engineers, for two years later they were responsible for the following statistics on successive Saturdays:

Georgia Tech 118, Furman 0. Georgia Tech 119, Elevenway Cayalry 0. Georgia Tech 128, N. C. State 0.

The tables were turned the following Saturday when Georgia Tech met the University of Pittsburgh and lost 32 to 0. From then on it was a policy of live and let live.

Yale, by 113 Points. One of the worst defeats a major team ever suffered was in 1884 when Yale beat Dartmouth 113 to 0. At that time, however, Yale was much the brighter star in the football firmament.

Sometimes a coach is almost powerless to stop a landslide barrage. When it husky young man step out on a gridiron they're fired with enthusiasm. They're there for one purpose, and that's to play football. They pull no punches, and give the game everything they can. They expect their opponents to follow a similar course.

APPROXIMATELY $10,000 annually is spent by Western conference schools on X-ray examinations for injured players during the football season. Two thousand miles of adhesive tape is used for bandages. Honolulu has a barefoot football league. Charley Keller, serieshero, canceled a number of profitable engagements to go to Washington for the Variety club's charity show. He refused to accept an expense money for the latter. Football at the University of California showed a net profit of $93,344.95 in 1938. About 100,000 dogs are benched each year at shows licensed and sanctioned by the American Kennel club. There were 336 all-breed, limited breed and specialty shows held during 1938. Only four new breeds called in a recent Pennsylvania-Harvard football game and two of those were declined. Bill Shaul, Syracuse, N. Y., claims a 203 bowling average for 16 years. Ray Roberts, Michigan trainer, is a pioneer in the development of protective devices for athletes. Fewer than 30 per cent of English-boxers earn as much as $25 a week. Dr. Emanuel Lasker was world's chess champion from 1894 to 1921. Sid Luckman would like to coach football next year.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK—Somebody was always turning in a riot call when Igor Stravinsky's "Fire Bird" and "Sacre du Printemps" were first played. He was the Earl Browder of the saloons and servatories, but now he's as respectable as Nicholas Murray Butler, as he takes his post as professor of poetry at Harvard. As he writes his fourth symphony, he enjoys full and complete academic sanction for what were once considered the wild vagaries of his compositions.

Dr. Emanuel Lasker was world's chess champion from 1894 to 1921. Sid Luckman would like to coach football next year.

DOLLAR MAKERS

Showmanship Is Essential To Success

By GEORGE T. EAGER

THE selling end of any business consists of a number of basic operations that are repeated over and over again. Customers are attracted and held when such routine operations are occasionally done in a different way by an added touch of showmanship.

A fruit packer in Kentucky sent his food broker in Buffalo a crate of carrier pigeons. As each order was secured by the broker it was enclosed in a metal band fastened to a pigeon's leg and the bird released from the customer's office. Just a different way of placing a routine order but it made both the fruit packer and the food broker better known among customers.

For years dogs displayed in the windows of pet shops have attracted more passersby than any other type of window display. But until recently not a single manufacturer of dog food has made use of this natural interest in live dogs of his product. A recently constructed billboard in Chicago contains an air conditioned kennel containing live dogs with an advertisement of a canned dog food. The crowds that are continually in front of it leave no doubt as to the commercial value of this combination of advertising and showmanship.

The acknowledgment of orders received by a manufacturing organization might seem to be a routine matter with little possibility of being made more interesting. Instead of the usual cold, formal method of acknowledging orders, one company attaches a sheet notifying the customer that the order is of direct benefit to 800 people on the company's payroll and that the raw materials used in making the goods are bought from 412 different firms employing 50,000 people.

EXPLANATIONS WON'T SELL. A SALESMAN should know every detail about the product he is selling so as to be prepared to answer all questions. But if this knowledge leads him to think that merely explaining a product will sell it he should be prepared for serious disappointments. Successful salesmen never forget that human beings are reservoirs of emotions and desires which when touched by skillful appeals bring more immediate response than endless explanations.

Years ago Carnegie wanted to sell his steel mills. The most likely buyer was J. Pierpont Morgan. Did Carnegie call on Morgan with blue prints of his steel mills and countless figures about operating costs and profits? He did not because this was too good a salesman. He knew that details were useless until he had first aroused an overpowering desire to buy on the part of Morgan.

So he arranged to have Charles M. Schwab speak at a dinner in Morgan's presence and paint a picture of the great steel corporation of the future. When Morgan's constructive imagination saw the vision he was then ready to buy.

Thousands of successful salesmen are carrying out the same principle in countless small transactions that total each year more than Morgan paid for Carnegie's steel mills. The washing machine salesman talks to a woman about keeping young by saving energy before he explains the details about the motor; the fun family will have in the new game room.

Industry, Agriculture Harmful to Wildlife. That nature never planned to supply game for 6,000,000 licensed hunters and approximately 7,000,000 licensed fishermen, nor to provide against the great inroads that modern industrial and agricultural developments have made upon wildlife, is the opinion of Professor Ralph T. King, head of the Roosevelt Wildlife Experiment station at the New York State College of Forestry. Professor King asserts that according to figures of the United States bureau of biological survey there are more than 134 million persons hunting and fishing annually and that the numbers are rapidly increasing, says the Hartford Courant.

What IS this FHA PLAN

BUILDING HOMES?

It's really very simple. We lend you money to build. Just how much depends on your circumstances, but frequently the building lot is sufficient to cover the down payment, which may be as low as 10 percent.

You repay this loan out of your income. The payments are fixed monthly sums, similar to rent. They are based on what you can afford to pay. With the new 4 1/2 percent interest rate, they average as low as $5.81 per thousand, which includes principal, interest, and FHA insurance. ($26.15 a month can pay off a $4,500 insured mortgage on a $5,000 home!)

These convenient payments make you a Home Owner.

Every afternoon, 2:30 to 5.
Mon. and Fri. Evenings from 7:30 to 9.

It was with sincere regret that we read in the newspapers several weeks ago of the passing of a Western story writer, a writer of American History familiar, we know, to young and old. Zane Grey wrote novels that were illuminated with color, romance and fast action. These stories were read and cherished by many of the "teen age" and we know they will be anxious to read the last novel he wrote, WESTERN UNION. This is now being placed on the pay shelf.

When we hear of Zane Grey, somehow one often thinks of Rex Beach. He, too, has written novels of this type and VALLEY OF THUNDER takes us back to Alaska, the scene of his greatest best sellers.

If you read "City of Bells," you could not forget Hamietta who appeared again in THE SISTER OF THE ANGELS. Elizabeth Goudge writes of England, a perfect story of idealism and the true meaning of Christmas, kindness and love and good will for the holiday season, as well as all year around.

LIVE AND KICKING NED by John Masfield, author of "Dead Ned." The characters of the latter story live again in the new one and this is truly an adventure story of Africa and Ned.

NOT JUST FOR AN HOUR by Fanny Heaslip-Lea is a tale, as the author sees it, as young as today, as old as yesterday, and as intimate as your own eyes in the mirror. A story of artists, just a little different, yet life itself as some see it.

If you like a novel of Boston and Vermont, read PAUL REVERE SQUARE by Louise Andrews Kent. This is a witty, friendly and human story of a New England family and a belief in the kindness of human beings. It is truly Boston.

Now for the Mirror And Old Piano Stool

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS THE illustration shows what became of the mirror and piano stool which the bride had left over last week. To the mirror and stool were added two wooden boxes from the grocery. These were placed on end about 18 inches apart and a shelf of 1/2-inch pine screwed to the top. A frame was then screwed to the back of the boxes as shown here. A curtain rod was placed across the top and the mirror hung lengthwise under it. An arm was then hung to the front of each box. White paint was used next. The flowered chintz in tones of rose and blue-green with narrow frills of the plain blue-green tone matched the window curtains. The dressing-table skirt was made with a one-inch heading at the top and tacked along the ends of the table and the hinged arms with thumbtacks through a double strip of the plain material.

Use All but Whale Spout

The Japanese use all parts of the whale, instead of the blubber only, selling the best meat to those who cannot afford beef, making the scraps into cattle and chicken food and the blood into fertilizer. Consequently, large blue whales, which once sold for approximately $40, now bring around $4,000.—Collier's.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you naturally to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! More of Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

New Elegance in Current Mode Calls for Quality-Kind Silks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT was good enough for our great-grandmothers should be equally as good for us. Some such thought must have motivated the minds of our modern fabricists when they announced for fall and winter 1938-1940 a revival of the quality-kind old-fashioned silks such as were the pride and the joy of our ancestresses. Call them heirloom silks if you will, for some of the silk weaves are so fine and so fabric-fine that are considered high-style today but tell the story over again of sterling-worth bengalines, failles; likewise traditional ottoman silks and grosgrains, also stand-alone moires and tafetas that make music with their rustle of real honest-to-goodness silk.

When you come to analyze the present situation, the re-incarnation in current fashion of the elegant "lovely lady" fashions so characteristic of the early Victorian and Edwardian periods, we of this generation just naturally have to think in terms of fabric elegance. The idea that prevails this season is fabric elegance for dresses styled with utmost simplicity, depending on accessories for dash and allure. High value is put on skillful fabric treatment in drapes, shirtings, pleating and self-fabric details. It is a very silk-conscious group we present in the illustration herewith. A great favorite with French designers is pure silk jersey which they say, and they prove it, in the lovely creations they turn out, has no peer when it comes to sculptural draping and intriguing shirring. The attractive dress to the left in the picture is of smooth, dark silk jersey. Although it has been elaborately draped and shirred, the slender silhouette has been in no respect sacrificed. If you haven't a silk jersey (preferably black) daytime dress in your collection you are losing out on a lot of pleasure and comfort. Choose dark or black jersey for practical afternoon wear and for your loveliest formal let it be of white silk jersey sculpturally draped, adding gold accents to make it supremely beautiful.

A draped and shirred green silk crepe luncheon dress, designed for the new "corseted" lady, is shown to the right. It speaks eloquently in favor of fabric treatment. Note the soft fabric pleated ruffle on the bodice, the wide corset belt and other fetching styling details. Centered in the trio is a striking evening ensemble developed of handsome silk white faille, for faille, such as our grandmothers treasured, is again a favorite silk. Note the brief pleatum that flares from the new lowered waistline of the basque jacket. The novel square buttons are of outstanding style importance. It's fortunate you'll be if you have stowed away among heirlooms some of the gorgeous jeweled buttons that once were fashionable and are so again. Glorify your evening coat with these buttons or your blouse or your "bestest" afternoon dress. In conclusion just a word about the stunning jacket tailored suits that are made of black bengaline silk or faille. These silk classics register among the toprichest fashions of the day. Air-Travel Suit Whimsical Velvet Turbans in Colors

Milliners are designing adorable little velvet turbans, bright with color, to wear with fur coats this winter or to crown smart dinner rows with glory. These little fantasies of velvet are often allowed shirred or ruffled, or formed of myriads of little corded loops. Some houses are showing them in that old-time favorite, old gold. Others exploit them in teal blue to ensemble with silver jewelry in blue stones, and as eye-dazzling red, there's nothing smarter than a red hat with a black dress. In fact these cunning velvet turbans have gone on a gay and festive color spree. The fireman-red velvet types make you "stop, look and listen" but you'll love these startling reds just the same. With dark furs they are simply perfect. Most of these fluttering little hats have a snood to cover the collar at the back, and it's "mighty like a rose" that some of them look being often a huge pool of velvet in flower color, posed jauntily low over the brow.

Suits Are Favored In Newest Modes Suits are important in the new mode and include both dress and jacket and skirt and jacket combinations. Short, fitted, poplin jackets and long-fitted jackets are both in the picture. Many are furred and worn with fur muffs, hats and umbrellas whose handles are covered with the same pelts.

Lightweight Helium Has Little Commercial Value Practical commercial utility of the "lightweight" helium discovered in the air by University of California scientists remains extremely doubtful, the scientists have reported. Dr. Luis W. Alvarez, assistant professor of physics, who, with Robert Cornog, graduate student from Denver, detected submicroscopic quantities of the lightweight helium in ordinary air, reported the discovery is considered important to the science of physics, but its possible use in commercial form, such as in lighter than air craft, is very much in doubt. Reason why the commercial utility of lightweight helium is extremely doubtful is that no method has yet been devised to extract any type of helium from the air in usable commercial quantities. The scientists made their discovery with the aid of the university's 225-ton atom smashing cyclotron. The United States has a monopoly on heavy helium which has a lifting power 92.3 per cent that of hydrogen, the lightest known gas.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Death Trap at El Chivo"

HELLO EVERYBODY: "You asked for a real life adventure," says Morris E. Lowder of Chicago, "so here goes." That's the way I like to hear you boys and girls talk. I ask for it, and you dish it up. And just between you and me, the boys and girls in Chicago and its neighboring towns—and for that matter, all over northern Illinois—are dishing them up faster than any bunch of folks I've struck yet. The Adventurers' club has installed chapters in a number of cities. I've been swamped with mail in every doggone one of them. But never have I been swamped the way Chicago has swamped me. I'm mighty grateful to you for your hearty response. I've had a flock of good yarns from you, but it's going to take a little time. And speaking of being swamped—well—Morrie Lowder knows something about that, too. As if we didn't have enough floods right here in this country—what with floods of letters and flooding rivers—Morrie had to go to Cuba and get himself into a first-class flood down there. Morrie was assistant manager for an American drug concern and in the latter part of May, 1924, he started out from Havana on a business trip into the Oriente province.

Trains Filled With Inauguration Throngs. It was the day after the inauguration of Gerardo Machado as president and the trains were filled to overflowing with people who had come to view the proceedings. The train Morrie was on was one of 18 cars, every one of them packed with people. It had been raining for three days before his inauguration, and it was still raining. The streets were full of water when Morrie left Havana—but he was to see a lot more water before his journey was over. By the time they reached the town of Colon in Matanzas province, the water in the streets was a foot deep. Beds and chairs were floating about and people were making for the upper floors of the few tall buildings in town. Morrie thought the train would stop there and make no attempt to go until the water had gone down, but to his surprise it moved on toward Macagua.

Morrie knew that the country up ahead was low and flat. What was more, they had to cross a river called El Chivo—a stream that became a howling torrent when it was swollen by the rains.

The train puffed along, part of the time through water that came to the hubs of its wheels. At last it came to the trestle spanning the El Chivo.

It was about seven o'clock, and pitch dark, when they started across that viaduct. "Sharp flashes of lightning," says Morrie, "were the only things we could see by. The two engines up ahead were puffing and roaring, and we could feel the trestle shiver under the weight of the train and the pressure of some 12 feet of water that went tearing under it, carrying trees and animals to destruction. All of a sudden the train came to a stop with a terrible jolt.

Morrie Offers Help to Injured. As a medical man, Morrie stepped forward and offered to help if any one was injured. Several of them—Morrie among them—went forward to the express to see what had happened. They found out, all right. The viaduct, weakened by the flood, was breaking up. Even while they stood in the express car, a whole section of the road bed was swept from beneath it, leaving the car hanging in mid air with only its couplings holding it up.

The train couldn't move now. The two engines were on the other side of the break—the cars—the passengers, helpless on a bridge that might be washed away at any moment. They were sure that, by this time, there must be other byways in that bridge—breaks behind them that would leave them marooned in the middle of the swollen river.

"We uncoupled the pin of the baggage car," says Morrie, "and with a rush such as I never want to fear again, it was swept away. We began sending up fares in the hope of bringing aid, but they were answered by only a few poor gajiras, themselves marooned on the thickened roofs of their homes. The conductor in charge muttered about lots of us—for any duty, and to be truthful about it, we all thought that this would be the last duty any of us would perform."

Passenger Cars Thought to Be Sinking. Morrie had a small medical kit, and the doctors abroad made good use of his supplies. Suddenly came the news that the first of the passenger cars was sinking into the river. The men uncoupled that car, herding its passengers into others that were already overcrowded.

"We had some thirty prostrated people on our hands," Morrie says, "and while we were working over them we could feel the cars jerk and sway as slowly they settled toward the water. Gee, but you feel helpless in a spot like that. No one could help these people. Most of them were praying, and till my dying day I'll never forget the looks on their faces."

But already help was on the way. One telegraph line was still up, and, when the train didn't come through, Macagua wired Colon to send an engine. A switching engine came down from Colon and found that, contrary to Morrie's belief, there were no breaks in the western end of the trestle. The crew loaded all the passengers into six cars, and Morrie says they put them in three deep in the aisles.

"We went back the next morning," says Morrie, "just to see what had happened to the engine and the fireman we had left behind. The engines were sunk in the river until only the roofs showed, but there were the engineers and firemen waving to us from the tops of the cabs."

MEMORIES OF THANKSGIVING PRICELESS HEIRLOOMS (Recipes Below)

Cooking the Thanksgiving Dinner

Incredible as it may seem the calendar is bringing Thanksgiving time again and with it comes to every homemaker thoughts for the Thanksgiving menu—plans for its preparation and anticipation of the family's return. Today, however, I want to reverse this whole situation. I want to suggest to you that enjoyment of your family on Thanksgiving day should be the keynote of every one of the plans that you make for the day. Now that does not mean for one minute that I am suggesting that the Thanksgiving dinner be slighted. I couldn't do that, for who of us for one minute would sacrifice those precious memories of Thanksgiving dinners at grandmothers that are really priceless heirlooms. No, I say—we won't sacrifice the dinner—but we will plan it so that you will be as free as possible on Thanksgiving day so that you too can enjoy the family and let the family enjoy you. A miracle you say? No—not really—just wise planning—plenty of work the day before perhaps—but time—no worry—and an easy dinner on Thanksgiving—and that's worth-while isn't it?

How to do it? Well here are my suggestions. First, it is entirely possible to clean, prepare and even stuff the turkey the day before Thanksgiving rather than on Thanksgiving morning. Then put it on a rack in an open roasting pan and store it in your refrigerator overnight. If you have a mechanical refrigerator it will be running of course. If you have an ice refrigerator, be sure to get an ample supply of ice so that your refrigerator can really work for you over this holiday.

Vegetables—salads—relishes, including celery, radish roses, etc., even desserts, one of which all can be gotten ready on Wednesday and as I say—then all that remains for Thanksgiving day is just the cooking, the table setting and later the serving of the viands.

Below I am including a number of Thanksgiving recipes which are all planned for just such Thanksgiving cases. And—a happy Thanksgiving to each one of you.

Roast Turkey. Allow 3/4 to 1 pound of turkey per person served. Dress, clean, stuff and truss turkey. Brush well with unsalted fat and place on rack in large open roasting pan. (Store overnight in refrigerator if desired.)

Roast in moderate oven (325 degrees) allowing approximately 20 minutes per pound roasting time for a 12-pound turkey, 17 minutes per pound for an 18-pound turkey and 15 minutes per pound for a 22-pound turkey.

Brush with melted butter just before serving. Dressing for Turkey. 10 cups soft bread crumbs. 1 cup butter (melted). 1 tablespoon salt. 1 cup chopped parsley. 2 tablespoons poultry seasoning. Mix all ingredients thoroughly and use for stuffing the turkey. Note: This amount of dressing is sufficient for a 10-pound turkey. If a larger turkey is to be stuffed the recipe should be increased proportionately.

Giblet Gravy. Pour off liquid in pan in which turkey has been roasted. From liquid skim off 8 tablespoons fat; return fat to roasting pan and brown with 6 tablespoons flour. Add 3 cups stock in which giblets, neck, and tip of wings have been cooked; or if preferred, 3 cups milk may be substituted instead of the stock. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick; then season to taste with salt and pepper. Add giblets (cut in small pieces), heat well, and serve hot. Oranged Sweet Potatoes. (Serves 6-8) Parboil 6 medium sweet potatoes, peel and slice lengthwise. (Prepare to this point on Wednesday and store overnight in refrigerator.) Arrange slices in baking dish and sprinkle with 1/2 cup brown sugar, dot with 2 tablespoons butter and add 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Pour over this 1/2 cup orange juice and scatter 2 tablespoons brown sugar and a little paprika over top. Bake covered for 30 minutes in moderately hot oven (375 degrees). Uncover and bake approximately 15 minutes longer.

Creamed Onions With Cream Cheese. (Serves 6) 2 pounds small white onions. 3 tablespoons butter. 3 tablespoons flour. 2 cups milk. 1/2 teaspoon salt. 1 block cream cheese. Boil onions until tender in salted water. (This can be done on the day before Thanksgiving and in this way the onions will be all ready for their final baking on Thursday.) Melt butter, add flour and stir thoroughly. Add milk and salt and stir until thick. Then add 1 block of cream cheese broken in small pieces. When blended, pour over onions in a baking casserole. Sprinkle with buttered cracker crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until crackers are browned. Serve at once.

Cabbage-Pineapple Gelatin Salad. 1 tablespoon unflavored Gelatin. 1/2 cup pineapple juice (canned). 1 cup water (boiling). 1 1/2 teaspoon salt. 1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar. 2 cups cabbage (shredded). 1 cup pineapple (diced). Soak gelatin in the cold pineapple juice. Add to hot water and stir until dissolved. Add salt and vinegar. Chill. Add remaining ingredients and pour into mold. Chill until set.

Pumpkin Pie. (Makes 2 pies) 3 cups pumpkin. 4 eggs. 1 1/2 cups brown sugar. 1/2 teaspoon salt. 3/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg. 3/4 teaspoon ginger. 1/2 teaspoon cloves. 1/2 teaspoon allspice. 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. 4 1/2 cups milk (scalded). To-soft-cooked or cooked pumpkin add the eggs (lightly beaten). Blend salt and spices with the brown sugar. Mix pumpkin mixture with the brown sugar mixture and to this add the scalded milk. Pour into pie plate lined with pastry dough. Bake 10 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees), or until crust is set. Then reduce heat to a moderate oven (350 degrees), and bake until filling is firm—about 45 minutes. (These too can be baked on the day preceding Thanksgiving.)

Rotten Apples

WERE you ever a youngster back East, where they bought apples by the barrel and stored them in the cellar over against the long winter evenings? When winter came, did you spend most of your Saturdays sorting over the barrels of apples, picking out the rotten ones so they would not make the whole barrel that way? And didn't you and—the family eat nothing but rotten apples the next week? Isn't life like that? And didn't you live in the kitchen, because the parlor should not be mused up? And isn't it the truth that you lived in the kitchen all your life? And didn't you always wear your old clothes, because you had to keep the good ones to go to meeting on Sunday? And as a result, weren't you run down at the heel and patched on the seat most of the time? And did you ever get over it? Haven't you gone through life with an inferiority complex, holding rusty ideas and most of the time the same old worn-out notions until they were ready for the grab-bag? Do you still wait for somebody else to step ahead and do the pioneering? You do—if you're still eating rotten apples.—W. L. Y. Davis, in Los Angeles Tribune.

Star Dust

★ Trick of the Peacock ★ It's Micky and Judy ★ First Up Gets It! By Virginia Vale

WHEN an actress who is famous for wearing beautiful clothes beautifully wants to get a bit of extra publicity, it's usually a good trick for her to announce that she'd just love to have a role in which she wore rags.

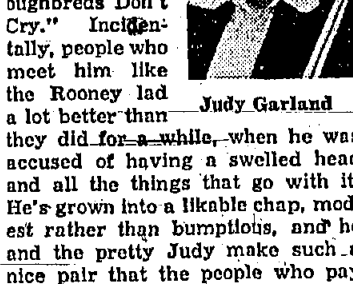

Joan Crawford

Joan Crawford is proving that she really wants to be something more than a modiste's mannequin. In "Not Too Narrow, Not Too Deep," her new picture in which Clark Gable plays opposite her, she has just one dress. There may have to be replacements, it's true, for she has to do quite a bit of dashing about in a South American jungle, but technically it will be the same trick. That is, according to the present announcements it will be.

As for Gable, he's to be a really tough egg; escapes from a prison colony and all that sort of thing. With some of these ladies of the screen it's a calamity if the public doesn't see through that ostrich-with-its-head-in-the-sand disguise of dark glasses. Not long ago your correspondent lunched with one, in New York. We just went in, sat down and ordered luncheon. Dismissed, the lady glanced around. "Isn't anybody looking at me?" she asked, in anguished tones.

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are going to get with on—and on—and on—as a team, because the public likes them. "Babes in Arms" has decided that; it pairs them musically as well as romantically, finishing the work begun in "Love Finds Andy Hardy" and "Thornbreds Don't Cry." Incidentally, people who meet him like the Rooney lad a lot better than they did for a while, when he was accused of having a swelled head and all the things that go with it.

Judy Garland

There's a tradition in radio that the first actor to try out for a part is sure not to get it. Dorothy Knox has proved that it isn't so. She competed with 27 other actresses for the role of "Frieda" in "The Life and Loves of Dr. Susan" and was the first to enter the audition room and the last to leave it—and she got the part.

Major Bowes is rapidly becoming a public benefactor. Not long ago he presented St. Patrick's cathedral in New York with 11 Schwedler maples and four English elms—a gift which cannot be appreciated by anyone who does not know how barren New York is of trees, or how some of its inhabitants long to see one. The trees are magnificent, a living tribute to the Major's thoughtfulness.

Now he has given his estate, Laurel Hill, at Ovesting, N. Y., to the Lutheran church for a retreat for the clergy and holy of New York and nearby states. The 10-acre estate is a show place, filled with memories for Major Bowes; he and the late Mrs. Bowes, who was Margaret Illington, the famous actress, bought it in 1927, and through the years they landscaped it, installed a swimming pool, and did everything they could to make it beautiful.

Major Bowes not only gave the estate to the church, but added a substantial gift to help equip it. ODDS AND ENDS—Charles Boyer is to come to this country on a propaganda mission for the French government. ... Greta Garbo is not only going to be a comedienne in her new picture, "Ninotchka"—she's going to do a scene in which she drinks just a bit too much champagne. ... Andrea Leeds was married recently in Dal Monte, Calif., to Robert S. Howard, whose father owns government stock. ... The British government wouldn't grant Edward Small permission to film some of the scenes of "My Son, My Son" against the actual backgrounds in Manchester, London, and other cities, so the entire film will be made in Hollywood. HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

New Hot-Water Bottle.—Add a teaspoonful of glycerine to the hot water when filling a new rubber hot-water bottle for the first time. This keeps the rubber soft and in good condition. When Glass Breaks.—A handful of moistened absorbent cotton will pick up bits of broken glass without endangering the fingers. Care of Electric Cord.—Don't twist, bend or tie the so-called cord attached to your electric iron. It is not a cord, but two bundles of wires. Removing Odors.—Odors can be removed from bottles by rinsing with cold-water to which a little dry mustard is added. Using Celery Tops.—Celery tops dried in the oven and then rubbed through the fingers to a powder, make an excellent flavoring for soups and stews. They will keep for months if stored in an air-tight jar or tin. Topping for Pork Roast.—For a tasty topping for that pork loin roast: when the roast is nearly cooked, spread generously with applesauce mixed with brown sugar and a little cinnamon and clove, then brown until a slight crust is formed. Restoring Leather Bindings.—Equal parts of milk and white of egg beaten together will freshen leather bindings. Rub on gently with old flannel. Polish with an old silk handkerchief. House Plant.—The philodendron or devil's ivy is a fast grower and is a most satisfactory plant to grow in vases on a mantel. It may be grown in earth or water.

Nutley to Test Blues On Sunday

The Union Blues used two complete squads to dump the Holt A. A. of Irvington by the tune of 28-0 at Springfield Park Sunday. The victory via the white-wash method, gave the Blues their sixth consecutive win of the season to keep their slate clean.

The Vohden brothers, Cedric and Dick combined their efforts to produce two of Union's touchdowns, while Henrie Fluche and Ben Daily each garnered a touchdown to complete the quartet of scores. Fluche and Jimmie Allen added a point after touchdown to compile the 28-point total.

This week's battle with the Nutley Mustangs promises to be one of the best games of the Fall campaign. Nutley, to date, has played ten games, winning eight and losing two, the latest victim of the Mustangs being the Newark Football Club. This club has been playing together for the past seven seasons and possess a dangerous aerial attack.

New Stars Sparkle In 'Scandals'

George White, who has in the past brought such luminaries to the stage as Bert Lahr, Rudy Vallee, Alice Faye and Eleanor Powell, is once again being applauded by critics and playgoers alike for discovering two such scintillating stars as Ella Logan and Ann Miller who currently grace his latest edition of the "Scandals" at the Hollywood Theatre, Broadway at Fifty-first street.

Stars of "SCANDALS" Ella Logan (top) and Ann Miller, two of the brightest luminaries in George White's newest "Scandals" at the Hollywood Theatre, Broadway at 51st street.

White's new extravaganza, incidentally, features in addition to the Misses Logan and Miller, Willie and Eugene Howard, Ben Blue, Collette Lyons, Billy Hayes, and to advantage, in "Life of the Party," "Stage Door," "Having A Wonderful Time," "Room Service" and "You Can't Take It With You." Producer White, while in California, saw the dancer in the last named movie, sent for her, gave her an audition and signed her on the spot. She scored an instantaneous hit on Broadway and her photograph, as a result, has appeared in virtually every important magazine in the nation.

Seeding Planned In Cage Tourney

The Union County scholastic basketball championship tournament this Winter will introduce a new departure, the seeding of the three or four teams ranking highest according to season's records. This step was decided upon at a recent meeting of the Union County Scholastic Conference in the Westfield High field house, and at the same time it was tentatively decided to hold the tourney February 16, 17, 18, 20 and 21, in the Elizabeth Armory.

Robert L. Dimcan of Westfield will head the basketball committee assisted by Herm Shaw of Roselle Park, Fred Wiebesiek of Jefferson, Ted Cooper of Linden, and Earl Walter of Rahway. Harry Lake of Union was named chairman of a committee to arrange for a wrestling tournament, while George Peters of Pingry heads the swimming committee and Herb Stine will appoint their own committees.

An advisory committee was named, including G. Hobart Brown of Roselle Park, Paul R. Brown of Linden, Wilbur Cox of Hillside, C. D. Wardlaw of Kardlaw School and Rev. Thomas B. Larkin of St. Mary's Schools represented at the meeting were Jefferson, Pingry, St. Patrick's, Hillside, Union, Roselle Park, Cranford, Rahway, Westfield, Plainfield, Regional, Wardlaw and Linden.

LAUGHTON AT REGENT

If the only thing that "Jamaica Inn," the picture at the Elizabeth Regent Theatre might be said to have one magnificent alive, fascinating and unforgettable portrayal by the Great Laughton—you would have reason enough to rank it as a must picture. But when it comes to Laughton with the tang of the Daphne duMaurier novel, the shrewd subtlety of Alfred Hitchcock's direction and Erich Pommer's production, it climbs to the front rank of shows.

"On Your Toes," the Warner Bros. dance-comedy, on the same bill, marks the highly auspicious return to the screen of the lovely and graceful Zorina and of the charmingly humorous Eddie Albert.

BIG PROCTOR PROGRAM

I DON'T LIKE TO COOK
"My family like to eat, however, and so do I. It is all so much easier since we purchased a CP gas range."
The most enthusiastic users of CP ranges are the women who do not like to cook. They find the work so simple and successful baking and cooking results so easy with a CP range.
CP means certified performance. These ranges help you to save money and to save time. Prices begin at $99.50 cash. Terms are as little as a dime a day.
