"As You See It"

This feature, in which residents are asked to give their views on varied subjects, will appear in the SUN from time to time. Suggested questions are welcomed.

QUESTION: If you could take a week's vacation right now to any place you wanted with all expenses paid, and could get there just by snapping your fingers, where would you go?

PLACES OF INTERVIEW: Corner, Center street and Morris avenue, Springfield; Route 29 near Mountain avenue, Mountainside.

FRED BOHL, 365 Morris avenue, J. E. Mergel, Co., Newark, employee.

"I'd rent a cabin up near a little maple sugar grove I know in northern New York State. This is the time of year when all the trees are being tapped-for the sap to make the maple syrup. I've seen all the equipment in the summer time, but I've never seen it in operation. They have to boil down 40 gallons of sap to make one of syrup. I've always been interested in seeing them do this. Besides this there's ice skating. I don't want to go to Europe, not right now, at least."

MRS. CHARLES HEARD, Alvin terrace, housewife.

"I'd go to Nassau, a city on one of the Bahama Islands off the coast of Florida. I'd like the boat trip down, the weather and the sunshine. Most of all, I'd be able to get a little Spring."

MRS. ERNEST CONRAD, Route 29, Mountainside, florist.

"I would like to go to Germany and see my family. Of course we'd have to go by way of Japan now, but that would be interesting. I wouldn't want to see the war, and I don't want to stay there, but I would like to see my mother and the rest of my family who are in Germany."

ALEX. E. PEARSON, 248-Short Hills avenue, builder.

"We drove down to St. Petersburg, Florida, two years ago. I think it would be nice to go down there again, and get away from this tail end of the winter. I liked St. Petersburg best of all the cities in Florida. It's an easy place for people of mature years to live. Of course, I like the sunshine, too."

MRS. EDMUND FREY, Summit road, housewife.

"Where's the best fishing? We like to go where we can just take it easy. Seaside Park right here in New Jersey has been our favorite spot-for-fish. Crabbing, fishing and eating there are weaknesses of ours, and there's always boating and bathing."

CHARLES W. ENGLISH, 397-Morris avenue, hardware clerk.

"I had my choice. I'd go down to the west coast of Florida, hire a boat and go deep sea fishing, especially for tarpon, and sail fish. Fishing's my favorite occupation, anyway. I could stand a little of the warm weather, and would enjoy the sports too, swimming, golf, and also baseball at this time. Then, too, there are always the bathing beauties!"

FLORENCE MCCARTHY, 90 Tooker avenue, student, Regional High School.

"I'd like to travel through the West. I've always had a desire to go out there, to Wyoming, in particular. I've read books about it, and I'd love to see the mountains, the cattle ranches, and the scenery. I especially would like to see a round up and a rodeo. It would give me a good chance to learn how to 'fix' too."

MAY KASTENMEIR, Seven Bridge road and Maple avenue, lumber yard worker.

"I'd go to Alcantara City, where I could get a good rest. I like the ocean, enjoy watching the breakers, and am very fond of the sea food. I also like the boardwalk, and the amusements."

Kehe-Dal Lago Troth Announced This Week

The engagement of Miss Margaret Marie Kehe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kehe of 35 Proffit avenue to Dr. Matthew Dal Lago, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Dal Lago of Nantux, N. Y., has been announced.

Miss Kehe is at present on the staff of the All Souls' Hospital in Morristown. She is a graduate of St. Mary's School in Elizabeth, the Mary Immaculate Hospital School of Anesthesia, and the All Souls' Hospital Training School.

Dr. Dal Lago attended Rutgers Preparatory School and is a graduate of Rutgers University and Marquette University Medical School. He served a term as interne at North Hudson Hospital in Hoboken, and All Souls' Hospital in Morristown. He practices in New York City, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Legion's Minstrel Tonight

The results of three months' rehearsal by members of Continental Post, American Legion, will be crowded into over two hours of entertainment tonight in Regional High School, where the first annual production, "Stuff And Nonsense" will be unfurled. How much stuff and nonsense can be developed in three months no one seems to know, but advance predictions say there'll be plenty of it.

Final program for the Legion's Show reveals Henry C. McMullen as interlocutor for the minstrel portion, and "End Men" Alexander E. Ferguson, M. Chase Runyon, William J. White, Herbert E. Quinton, Richard C. Horner, and Gregg L. Frost. What they'll do, and some of the remarks about prominent Springfielders reputed to be there, unfortunately have not been revealed.

Special features of the first part of the program will be "Lindy Lou" by Ferguson, "The Old Apple Tree" by Runyon, and a tap dance number by Joseph Torsello. Three specialties will follow, one by George Voelker, a second by Joseph O'Toole, and a third to be announced.

"Sweet Georgia Brown" will follow by William J. White, and "Down in the Alley" by Frost. "Four in Hand" will be rendered by a quartet of George A. Dines, John Potts, Alfred G. Trundle, and Tad Cochick. Part One will close with a chorus by the entire company.

After the intermission, the varieties will include "Footloose and Fancy Free" from the Regional High School, which will be rendered by Florence Cremlincke, Mary Kundrat, Andy Wanaak, and Frank Koloski. "Tom Hawbecker, Just Doing His Stuff" will follow, and then "Name It and You Can Have It." "Music in the Air" will then be given by the Lantz Trio and Lantz-Josephine, Barney, Mickey and Michael. The Grand Finale and final curtain will then end the show.

Music will be furnished by Fred Harnett and his orchestra. Director of the show is Gregg L. Frost, and William J. White is in charge of production. Music has been supervised by George A. Dines and Alexander E. Ferguson. William H. Young and Herbert E. Quinton have charge of publicity, and Charles A. Zoeller and Edgar Jacobs are in charge of the ticket sales.

Finances have been supervised by Ralph H. Tiley. Other committees have been: Properties, Richard C. Horner and Herbert R. Day; door and seating, Lewis F. Macartney, and souvenir, Henry J. Doyle and Richard T. Bunnell.

Curtain tonight will be at 8:15 P. M.

Scout Campaign To Get Underway

Plans for the annual Boy Scout appeal throughout Springfield and Union have about been completed by the Boy Scout officials of this section. C. Henry Raab of Union is finance chairman of the district and Mr. Raab will be assisted by some two hundred men during the days of the actual appeal. The Springfield-Union appeal will be conducted at the same time as the appeal in the Cranford-Kenilworth and Rahway-Clark Districts.

In recent years the program of the Boy Scouts of America has been increasing considerably in the Springfield and Union Townships and already this year three new units have been established and several more are under way.

It has been estimated in the Springfield-Union District that there are three times as many boys that would like to be Scouts and Cubs as are now members of the movement and the annual appeal is to not only maintain but to give an extension of Scouting to more boys.

MOTION PICTURES SHOWN TO LIONS

Motion pictures of Mexico and Canada shown by Collector Charles Huff featured the dinner-meeting last Friday of the Springfield Lions Club in the Half-Way House. The pictures, taken by Mr. Huff on trips to the regions were supplemented by a reel taken by Fire Chief Charles Pinkava of the "Eaton" Club annual fishing party held last August at Forked River.

Community Troupers To Show "Night Must Fall" On Friday

An innocent looking, hair-witted "Dan" who carries the head from the corpse of his latest murder victim around with him in a hat box, will be the center of interest in "Night Must Fall," first presentation of Springfield's Community Troupers in the Regional High School next Friday night. With a plot centering around "Dan" as played by Herman Mendez, Jr., the play is one of mystery and suspense, which has proved its dramatic qualities as a stage success in on Broadway, and as a movie.

Linda Guerriero will play the part of "Mrs. Branson" elderly matron into whose household "Danny" walks with his strange hat box. Her bungalow is the scene in which the story develops as it changes from a scene of peace and quiet to one of mystery and cold blooded murder. Stan Roll will play the part of the Lord Chief Justice, Betty Palzer will be "Olivia Grayne," and Paul Shea will play the part of "Hubert Larrie." Other players will be Kay Richardson as "Miriam Libby," Patricia O'Brien as "Mrs. Terrence" and Freeman Huntington as "Inspector Balzeta."

The three-act play has been directed by Stan Roll, and is being produced by Herman Mendez, Jr. Cooperation of the Junior Class of the High School has been important in the sale of tickets, and from the class will come the receptionists at the performance. They are Mildred Nittolo, Elizabeth Kaschn, Janice Kamsky and Alwine Mendez.

The play was written by Emylin Williams, and is produced through arrangement with Samuel French. Curtain will be at 8:15.

Board Frowns On WPA Assistance

MOUNTAINSIDE—The WPA is no Santa Claus in Mountainside as he is in many communities. Not to the local Board of Education, at least for they flatly turned him down last week with the comment that he costs too much. The occasion was the consideration of plans to reconstruct the chimney in the old building of the Mountainside School.

Suggestions had come to the board that WPA labor be used, as it would be cheaper. Board member Malcolm P. Chatham declared however, that the suggestion was turned down because such projects are not cheaper in the long run because of the mounting Federal debt they foster. "Abolition of the WPA has to begin somewhere," he commented, "why not here?"

Although WPA work would allow the job to be done by the borough at less cost, it was decided to turn the work over to private local contractors. That part of the job which can not be covered by the funds designated for the purpose will be left for a future date. It was cited that several other projects were sustained only by WPA funds in the school, and that if this policy were carried through it might mean the discontinuance of these activities. It was also brought out that the librarian of the Public Library was employed through WPA funds.

Principal Charles J. Wadwas stated that a tap dancing class which was sponsored last year through Federal funds was being continued this year through private subscription. A playground activities director was also maintained last year by WPA funds. "This year the job has been discontinued."

George D. Force and Paul K. Davis, board members, were instructed to investigate costs of materials and labor for the project, and to report at the next meeting. John Edwards Sr., assistant custodian of the school buildings and grounds, was granted a month's leave of absence with pay because of illness. Horace Longshore of Woodland avenue was employed temporarily to take his place.

Use of the auditorium was granted to two bodies, the P.-T. A. for its "April Fooleries" on April 12 and 13, and the Mountainside Garden Club for its Spring flower show sometime in May.

Prizes Awarded For Girl Scout Posters

Sale of cookies for the benefit of the local Girl Scout fund began actively this week in a house-to-house canvass by the members of all four troops. In a contest to determine the best poster made by any of the troop members advertising the sale, Joan Gosgrove of Troop 3 won first prize. Honorable mention went to Dorothy Bushman of Troop 4, Audrey Grampp, Marilyn Crouse and Janet Dumlevy of Troop 2.

All the posters made by these girls are now on display in the various stores around town. Cookies ordered from the girls this week will be delivered next Friday.

Thanks For Music

To the Editor of the SUN:

It has been demonstrated time and again that in this best of all possible towns the right person always seems to appear, to carry through some desirable project or improvement. When I mentioned to Mr. Vergil Williams the old and ineffective group hearing aid which was in the First Presbyterian Church, my comment was made in the course of a conversation which had to do with other church matters. Mr. Williams was not aware of the presence of the hearing aid in the church edifice, and I was not aware of Mr. Williams' technological knowledge of electrical sound amplification. The happy result, so interestingly described in last week's SUN is just one more thing added to the many good things which make Springfield such a fine place to live—and go to church—in. It also proves once more that "all things work together for good."

In expressing my heartfelt thanks and appreciation to Mr. Williams and to those individuals and groups who helped to make this achievement possible, I am sure that I speak also for many other members of this community.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB PLANS CARD PARTY

A card party sponsored by the Springfield Democratic Club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel O. Holms of 3 Remer avenue next Friday night. Plans for the party which will be open to all, and at which prizes will be offered were completed at a meeting of the club Tuesday night at the same home. George T. Agar, president at the meeting.

Dual Highway, Clover Leaf In Route 29 Plans

Scheduled Affairs Unaffected At Singers' Park Despite Fire

Square Dance Tomorrow To Go On As Planned

Evergreen Lodge, dance hall at Singers Park, which sustained damage of $1,200 by fire Sunday evening, will be sufficiently repaired by tomorrow night to be used for a regularly scheduled party, according to Alfred F. Froesch, manager. The fire, which started in the partition which separates the dance floor from the bar room burned for some time in the room above the bar room before it was discovered. The large fireplace situated in the partition was said to have had a crack in its chimney, and the fire apparently started when heat from a blazing log fire ignited some of the timbers near this crack.

When the blaze broke out, it rapidly spread to the numerous paper decorations which hung in the high ceiling of main ballroom. About 300 people were here waiting to be served dinner. They had assembled to celebrate the Spring opening of the park which occurs traditionally on Easter Sunday.

Volunteer firemen arriving within a few minutes after the alarm had been sounded, made short work of the blaze. Approximately 25 of them, headed by Chief Charles Pinkava, responded to the call, including the three paid members of the force. Hoses were connected to a hydrant near the entrance to the park, almost 300 feet away from

Although decorations and wood work in the inside of the building were burned or scorched, little damage was done to the furniture and fixtures. No signs of the fire were visible on the exterior of the building.

Opened Next Day

The hall was open for business Monday, but extensive plans have been made for its redecoration. In the meantime, all the organizations which have booked the hall for affairs in the near future will be able to carry out their plans.

A group of students from the Newark College of Engineering will use the hall tomorrow night for an evening which will feature square dancing. The Millburn Police Department has reserved use of the hall for their annual dance April 5. The Vaux Hall station of the Union Township Fire Department, and the Union Policemen have also planned to use the hall in the near future.

South Springfield Avenue Underpass Included In Program

PARALLEL ROADS 200 FEET APART

Plans for construction of a dual highway on Route 29 and clover leaf at the South Springfield avenue intersection were shown Township Committee members Wednesday night by State Highway Department officials, as part of the comprehensive program intended to relieve congestion on the three-lane road between Hillside and Mountainside.

Plans indicated that the dual highway will extend from Caldwell avenue, Union, in a westerly direction until it converges in a single thoroughfare in Route 29 beyond Hillside avenue. Local board members were particularly concerned over the effect of west bound traffic attempting to cross left into South Springfield avenue and underpass the highway, as planned, to reach Westfield.

The dual highway will be built 200 feet away from the present Route 29, and traffic will be one-way toward Newark on the existing lanes, with the opposite direction allowed on the proposed new road. To enable motorists to reverse directions, several circles are provided, one at Hillside avenue and another just west of the Railway River bridge on the Union side of the boundary line.

State Highway officials claim that construction of the new road will not affect existing buildings in town, except for the removal of a single house at the Hillside avenue intersection and in Union, also a single instance of such a change. Originally, it was expected that Route 29 would be widened into four lanes between Mountainside and Hillside, with a safety island in the center, but this arrangement has been partially abandoned in favor of the dual-highway plan, as outlined, for reasons of economy.

Special Awards To Be Presented

The Regional Booster Club will sponsor a "Special Awards Night" for members of the Regional county basketball championship team Monday April 8, at 8 P. M. in the High School auditorium. Anyone interested in sports, and in the activities of the High School is invited to attend. A program has been arranged which will be of interest to all.

Harry Coates, Selon Hall athletic director and famed track coach will speak to the group, and will bring with him as guests of the organization, members of his relay team, National prep champion "Bob" Downing, special awards will be given the eight letter men of Regional's basketball team by one of the leading State basketball authorities, to be announced. Awards will go to Captain Tony English; Bill Glowack, Art Bley, Les Pughman, Johnny Wanca, George Garner, Art DeBattista, and Tom Casale.

A short business meeting of the Booster Club will precede the program, and refreshments will be served later in the cafeteria.

Hospital Cases Show Increases

An increase of 19.6 per cent in the number of babies born last year at Overlook Hospital, Summit, over the preceding year was reported at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the hospital last Thursday evening. This increase is indicative of the trend in all departments of the institutions for the past year. Number of patients increased 10 per cent. The clinic treated 2,261 patients in 1939 as compared to 1,737 in 1938.

Paralleling these increases, gains in the costs of the hospital due to enlargement of the staff, purchase of new equipment and more expensive remedies were reported. During the past 30 years, it was cited, cost per day of hospital treatment has increased three and a third times.

At the same time, income of the organization has shrunk due to smaller returns from endowments caused by lower interest rates. With a total of cash expenditures reaching $222,633 for the year, a deficit of $33,432 was reported. "The difference between cost and income," according to the report of the Board, "is made up by appropriations from municipalities and gifts and subscriptions from friends of the hospital."

FIREMEN BUSY ON 3 CALLS TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon was a busy one for the local fire department. At 3:10 the siren called the volunteers to a brush fire on Ross avenue near Tooker avenue. A brisk breeze was blowing, but with the aid of the two hose trucks, the fire was soon under control. While the department was still on the scene, the siren sounded a second time to announce another fire at the corner of Tooker avenue and Lyons place. Chief Charles Pinkava dispatched the smaller of the two trucks to the second fire, and proceeded there himself when the first was out. Both fires were put out by the use of hand extinguishers and brooms. Back in the station, the men hadly had time to hang up their coats when a third alarm sounded for another brush fire on Tooker avenue at Tooker place. Short work was made of this one too. The fire department has not had a call since.

Holdup Suspects Held in Borough

MOUNTAINSIDE—Apprehended as members of a hold up gang working in four northern New Jersey counties, two men picked up in Plainfield yesterday are being held in the local jail in connection with the robbery of Ben's Esso Service Station on Route 29 Saturday. Information leading to their arrest in a Plainfield pool hall by Sergeant Gray of that city, and Chief Christian Fritze of the Mountainside police force, was supplied by other members of the gang rounded up yesterday in Perth Amboy. Three men had been caught red-handed there in an attempt to rob a service station.

The methods used in this case were the same used in the hold up in Mountainside earlier in the week. Two men entered the station and asked the night attendant to change a tire on their car which was allegedly down the road a bit. Walter Mauls, 19, of 672 Westfield avenue, Westfield, employee of the Mountainside station refused to accede to the request, saying he was not allowed to leave the station on such a call. At this point, one of the men stuck a gun in his ribs, and demanded all the money he had. About $80 was taken.

SUN SPOTS...

WOOPEE, the owl from the old water tower beside Mountainside's "Tower Inn," Route 29, sort of stole the show down in Union this week as mascot of the Know Union Better exhibit. But he can't steal the show on the other three members of his household in the tower, for they've been screaming for him every night since he was kidnapped, and what he'll get when he returns to the fold after his fling in the big city, we hate to guess.

ANTIQUE CLOCK, hand made in France over 125 years ago with a highly decorated bronze case and hand painted Melmer porcelain dial, is now biding its time under its sleek glass dome on the counter of Mr. Geljack's jewelry store. Its joints are creaking and it's in for rejuvenation.

BILL BROWN'S idea of a vacation is: Last Friday, 18 holes of golf; Saturday, nine, because it was too cold for more; Wednesday, 27 holes; and yesterday, 18. His only kink is that he hasn't been able to get enough of it.

TWO DAYS after this column first appeared last week, headlines all over the country flashed: "SUN SPOTS - DISTURB EARTH!" Sorry, we didn't know they'd be quite that bad.

D. OF A. PLANNING TALK AND MOVIE

An illustrated lecture by a representative of Hollywood Memorial Park, of Union, will feature a meeting of Pride of Baldu Hill Council No. 17, D. of A., on Friday evening, April 5, at Quince Hall. Visitors are welcomed to attend the lecture, which will begin at 8:30 P. M. A business meeting will precede at 7:30 P. M., a half hour earlier than usual, and members are requested to assemble as soon as possible. A social will follow the evening gathering.

Lille Solander, captain of the drill team, is making plans to have her guards attend State Councilor Jennie Elmore's rally on Monday evening, April 29, in School 8, West Blanco street, Linden.

Rambling Around Town

THE DUAL HIGHWAY AND clover leaf intersection on Route 29 which may yet be started this Summer, if State Highway Department officials don't run into unexpected handicaps, such as objections of property owners, diversion of funds and other factors, will undoubtedly clear up the congestion of traffic at the South Springfield avenue intersection in Springfield, and speed the flow of cars on the present narrow three-lane thoroughfare.

at Wednesday night's informal discussion of Township Committee members and highway representatives. It was asked by one of the road builders—whether property owners would be given an opportunity at a hearing to also see the plans, to which the answer came back in the negative, and a side remark of "We've had too many sad experiences" attempting to try that... which leads us to believe that no such hearing will be set... another question by the same committee member asked, "How can you explain the widening of Route 29 into four lanes from Somerville toward Mountainside, where traffic is not as congested, and then when it comes to handling the bad situation from Newark westerly, a dual road is provided for?" The State Highway man couldn't give the answer.

Millburn officials, according to reports we read this week, were stunned to learn that two bagatelle machine operators were willing to apply for licenses on such machines, despite a $250 license fee which they thought would prohibit them... the Millburn legislation... provides that $75 of the fee is retained, if the application is denied, but that didn't stop 'em... here in Springfield, there is no such license fee, the only multiplicity within a radius of at least 5 miles that has no restriction, no permits, just a free hand... the opportunity seems, at hand for our community to follow suit.

Happy Birthday!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Cabinet Shifts, Bombing Raids Presage Big Spring Offensives; Russia Draws Closer to Italy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union

EUROPE:

From Axis to Triangle

If foreign observers hoped the Finnish peace would place a quietus on western warfare, their mistake was clearly evident by late March. Not by secret-maneuvers but by leaps and bounds the Rome-Berlin axis was merging into a Russian-German-Italian coalition designed to force a dictatorial peace—down the Anglo-French throat. At London and Paris the populace protested, demanding more aggressive pursuit of the war. Their parliaments fumed, and one government fell completely. The other, sorely afraid, jumped into the conflict head first.

Mr. Welles Goes Home

Nobody knew what was in his briefcase but U. S. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles boarded the Conte di Savoia at Genoa, homeward bound to tell Franklin Roosevelt about the chances for a European peace. Sidetracked by France and Britain, he had more luck with Germany and Italy whose dictators, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, met at the Brenner pass and presumably framed a set of abortive terms.

Also discussed at Brenner was an Italo-Russ compromise calling for sphere-of-influence division in the Balkans. A few days later, when Soviet Ambassador Alexander Schervazev flew from Berlin to Moscow on a secret mission, it was clearly evident that Germany was drawing Rome and Moscow closer together. As if gloating over this diplomatic victory, Hitler sent his raiders to bomb the British naval base at Scapa Flow.

Reaction

In England. When press and public began yelling for action, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain got mad. He gave parliament the fightingest speech of his career and promised to strike back.

For the time being, however, the unrepentant time in three years he averted a government collapse, this time by sending planes on a retaliatory raid against the Nazi base at Sylt (see map). Wave after wave of bombers poured tons of explosives on the island fortress; next day reconnaissance planes brought back pictures to prove the damage. Hastily the Germans took precautions at their other vulnerable base, Heligoland. Then they

CONGRESS:

Farm Fund

Passed by the senate (and certain to pass the house) was a $923,000,000 agriculture appropriation bill carrying $212,000,000 for parity payments and another $85,000,000 for the surplus commodities program. It was more than $200,000,000 above either the house bill or the President's budget, and wiped out most of the $300,000,000 earlier savings through which the house planned to avoid new taxes or a boost in the national debt limit.

Though congress hoped to offset the farm boost by slashing defense and relief appropriations, even this possibility was fading fast. Europe's war was forcing U. S. attention to her armed strength and metropolitan congressmen were demanding at least a $500,000,000 boost in WPA's appropriation. Some observers predicted the deficit for next fiscal year would be at least $2,500,000,000 compared with the $1,716,000,000 estimate by President Roosevelt. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, hearing that congress was looking covetously at this $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, hastened to protect it.

Also in congress: Indicating a lessening of administration opposition to Wagner act amendments, the pro-New Deal house labor committee voted to expand the labor board from three men to five. Earlier the committee rejected a 9 to 8 motion for establishment of a new board, but there was a stalling maneuver in this. Rep. Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.) learned his proxy vote had been cast against the proposal by error. Asked if he would have voted as his proxy was cast, Hoffman replied: "Hell's bells, no! Everybody knows what I think of this board!"

After passing the farm bill, the senate took up the house-approved resolution to extend for three years the reciprocal trade act. Its support diminished, the bill stood only a 59-50 chance of passing—the administration wanted it, minus a clause requiring senate ratification of each pact.

The senate banking and currency committee approved 14 to 4 the bill of Sen. John G. Townsend (R., Del.) to repeal the silver purchase act of 1934. Reasons: (1) Too costly; (2) It has subsidized Chinese, Mexican and Canadian silver; (3) heavy gold purchases have made it impossible to attain the goal of 25 per cent silver in the U. S. monetary stock.

An amendment to the Hatch "clean politics" act, designed to bar political activity on the part of state employees paid with U. S. funds, passed the senate and headed for a pigeonhole in the house.

The house military committee began investigating foreign purchases of U. S. airplanes, fearing vital defense mechanism was being sold abroad. Meanwhile the allied purchasing committee begged the U. S. to sell $1,000,000,000 worth of its newest, secret planes. Reason: Present models would be obsolete by the 1941 delivery date.

WHO GETS THE PLANES?

WASHINGTON.—Backstage, all the stew over whether the allies are getting planes ahead of the U. S. army and navy boils down to a personal vendetta between the secretary of war and the secretary of the treasury, plus some needling by younger army air corps officers.

It happens that Treasury Boss Henry Morgenthau asked for and got the job of co-ordinating airplane purchases, and his bouncing little cabinet colleague, Henry Woodring, didn't like it. If you note the congressmen who are stirring up the investigation on Capitol Hill, they are chiefly friends of Secretary Woodring.

Real fact is that although Morgenthau has made some minor mistakes, his chief error has been in offending people. Army and navy plane purchases have not suffered. Both Secretary of the Navy Edison and Assistant War Secretary Johnson, who has charge of purchases, testify to this.

U. S. planes have been delivered on time, and no secret planes are getting to the allies. Morgenthau's chief bone was in asking the quartermaster general of the army, Maj. Gen. Henry Gibbins, and the paymaster general of the navy, Rear Adm. Ray Spear, to sit in on his allied purchase committee, and the ordnance committee. Neither one knows anything about airplanes. Younger officers in the air corps resent this, and have been squawking, though the able chief of air corps, General Arnold, hasn't.

Worried Morgenthau. Morgenthau got into the airplane picture because this is the one big commodity the allies are purchasing and he told the President he didn't want their financing operations to upset the U. S. money market. To pay for the planes, the allies are dumping American securities, plus U. S. government bonds and Morgenthau didn't want them to depress his own government of ferings. (He has to issue new ones constantly.)

Siding with Morgenthau are several big shot army-navy men, including Johnson and Edison, who say that the more planes the allies buy here, the more it helps the U. S. army and navy to develop better planes.

For instance, the Glenn Martin company is building a brand new bomber for the French. But as a partial result of experimenting for the French, Martin also has developed a new bomber for the U. S. which will almost fly circles around the French planes.

Also Lockheed is selling several hundred tip-top planes to the British and French. This has helped it develop a new pursuit plane, which will make about 400 miles per hour. It is the first twin-engine pursuit plane, has a liquid-cooled engine and is expected to astound the world's fighting forces.

Kathleen Norris Says: Was the Old Idea of Permanent Marriage Better?

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

A woman friend of mine, living in lonely exile from her own land, had to endure the presence of a beautiful dancer in her own home.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS.

THE great disadvantage of a civilization that permits quick and easy divorces is that no woman can be sure of her husband any more, no man sure of his wife, and no home feel itself safe.

That is the fact, from a purely practical point of view. The moral considerations, affecting the women and women take, "for better or for worse." I leave to the theologians. I am merely thinking here that divorce does unsettle the mind of husband and wife. If there were no divorce things would go differently in the family circle. But as it is today no matter how determined the woman is to make her marriage a success; no matter how anxious the man is to have his home one of the happy homes of the world, there is always this in the back of the thoughts of each: "And if it simply won't work, there's divorce."

In the old days there was much abuse of a situation that offered no doorway of escape. No question of that. Some men were bullies at home, bad fathers, bad providers, unfaithful. Wives had no redress. They bore the children and they bore with the children's father in uncomplaining martyrdom, year after year. A friend of mine who married a foreigner 30 years ago, lived in far and lonely exile from her own land, and had to endure the presence of a beautiful dancer, a chorus girl, in her own home, as her husband's mistress. When he went on a pleasant trip, on his yacht or behind his span of dashing horses, the dancer went, too. When the mistress objected to the noise the children made, the two smallest ones were sent away to a country nurse.

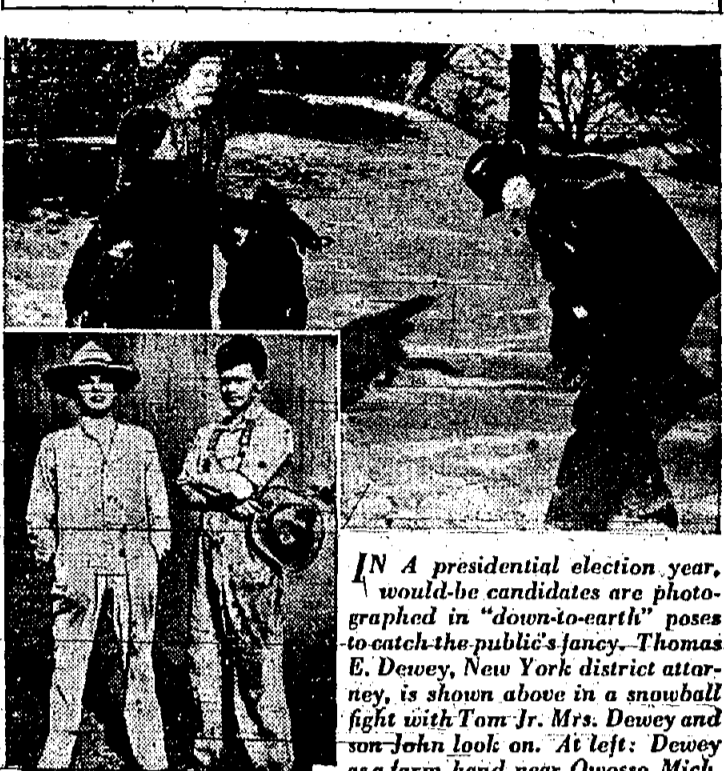

Injustices like this made the life of many a faithful wife and devoted mother insufferable. Only two generations ago a father could order grown daughters' supperless to their rooms, could forbid their marrying this man or that, could keep them and in most cases did keep them, idle at home, penniless, dependent, all their days. It came to the 11 Barretts—children by slow degrees, some 60 years ago, that their father didn't intend any one of them to have any love affairs whatsoever. Girl after girl and boy after boy meekly surrendered all hope of love and marriage because papa so ordained it.

The Natural Reaction.

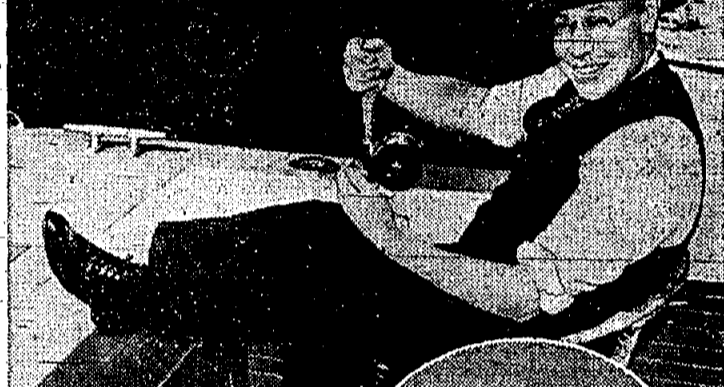

Modern marriage, with its quick divorces, its resulting independence and alimony, is the natural reaction to this unnatural situation. Girls patiently have fought their way to independence and freedom, and if that freedom is being abused in its turn perhaps that is only the swing of a pendulum that will presently right itself. Certainly a husband to die is infinitely more reasonable, considerate and faithful than a husband had to be of a few generations ago, when anything he did was performed pardoned by that helpless companion, who was always and forever, to the end of the chapter, until death actually did him part from her—his wife.

But today's way means that every attractive woman, perhaps with two or three unsuccessful marital experiences behind her, can pick upon any desirable mate, and even though he be at the time happily married and with two or three small children, can do her best to win him away from his wife and family and home. And society, not to be too flagrantly inconsistent, must stand by and approve. Unless high moral conviction, the influence of religion,

Photographers Have Field Day With White House Candidates

Ohio's Sen. Robert Taft, another G. O. P. hopeful, revived the Coolidge tradition when he posed for this fishing picture in Florida, dressed in business clothes. At right: He "looks ahead."

Prologue to Love

By MARTHA OSTENSO

MARTHA OSTENSO—WNU SERVICE

Why had she and Bruce come together again? And why had some mischievous alchemy transmuted them from their own independent selves into two beings, each incomplete without the other? That was what she felt now, she thought wistfully— incompleteness. That was what she would always feel whenever she thought of Bruce Lander. But that would never do! She must put that one brief, unforgettable hour behind her forever, that hour she had spent alone with Bruce in the cabin.

Florian had been talking idly and she made a gallant effort now to listen to him. She owed him that, at least, since he was to serve a peculiar purpose now in her struggle to forget her love for Bruce.

"You've made a great hit with the family, Autumn," he told her. "Which is all the merriness, what?" "What?" she bantered. "Are you never-going-to-be-serious-with-me?" he asked gruffly.

With an earnestness that surprised even herself, she laid her hand on his arm. "Do you want me to pretend that I'm serious?" she asked him.

"I'd rather have that than nothing," he replied. "You are more easily satisfied than I am, darling," she said lightly. He stopped and tossed a stone into the middle of the pool. The water rippled outward like a sunburst.

"Is there someone else?" he asked after a long silence. She looked directly at him. "Let's not be so solemn, Florian," she pleaded. "Didn't I hear you say something once about contempt for life?"

"You did," he said laconically, "and I meant—just that!" He seized her suddenly and kissed her, then held her close while he smiled down into her eyes.

She looked at him with cool reflectiveness for a moment, then drew away from him and turned toward the house. "I think we had better go back," she said quietly.

He followed her, and in a moment she began humming a little tune. "Some day," he said, taking her arm as he came beside her, "you'll not treat a kiss from me so light, you cold little devil."

"You're right," she said with a short laugh. "But in the meantime, darling, let's play together, if you have nothing else to do. It's so much more fun."

CHAPTER VII

Bruce Lander drew his car up beside a score of others that were parked on the gravelled roadway at the rear of the Parr house and stood for a moment listening to the sounds of revelry that issued from that great lighted mansion on the bluff.

He smiled to himself, wondering how Autumn would be getting along with Florian's delightful pack of hoodlums. Florian would undoubtedly be in fine fettle himself, Bruce thought, after his team's victory in Kelowna that afternoon. Bruce was sorry he had missed the game, but he had heard about it on his way through town.

It was of Autumn herself, however, as someone entirely apart from the others, that he was thinking with a quickened heart-beat as he mounted the steps of the Parr portico, hand in hand, the cool night wind blowing gently across his hair. A half dozen dim figures were hidden among the shadows on the porch as he stepped to the door.

He stepped to the door and listened to the babble of voices from within. "Oh—Bessie!" a voice called from a corner of the porch. Linda came gliding swiftly toward him out of the shadows and slipped a hand within his arm.

"Hello, Lini!" he greeted her. "Are you passing me up on purpose?" she reproached him. He looked down at her and smiled enigmatically. "Not likely, I didn't see you. How's the little girl friend?" he asked, patting the hand that lay on his arm. "You're looking lovely as ever."

She shrugged her shoulders. "I'm topping! Bored to death, though—until this minute." Linda came gliding swiftly toward him out of the shadows and slipped a hand within his arm. "Hello, Lini!" he greeted her. "Are you passing me up on purpose?" she reproached him.

He smiled at Linda in assent, and together they went to the butler's pantry which was used by the family as a bar. Bruce paused on the threshold and looked over the small group of young people who were in the pantry.

"Hello, Lander!" called one of Florian's friends, and three or four others set up a chorus of greetings. "Well, if it isn't the big wool and mutton man all the way from Cherry Creek!"

"Hello, everybody!" Bruce grinned. "Step up, Lander, and get close to the source of supply," another invited, and Linda drew him beside her and waited while two glasses were filled.

A red-faced youth and a corn-colored blonde girl were perched side by side on the bar, swaying to and fro and singing a hilarious and not quite proper song that was a legacy from the war to all such gatherings.

"Let's get out of here," Linda said as soon as they had received their glasses. She drew him away and started for the porch.

"Don't you think we'd better join the crowd in the billiard room?" he ventured. "And lose you for the rest of the evening?" she retorted. "Not much! I'm going to hang on till I'm helpless. Are you going to put up with us for the night?"

"Impossible, I'm afraid," he replied. "Mother is much better, and I have a good nurse for her, anyway, but I've got to be on the job."

Linda shrugged impatiently as they stepped out upon the shadowy porch. "The gods are a stingy crew," she said. They sat together on the porch swing and sipped their drinks. Bruce did his utmost to contain his impatience and contribute a civil share of conversation, but in spite of himself he found his eyes roving anxiously toward the lighted hallway.

He paid no heed to the two or three couples who were near them on the porch, or to their confused talk and laughter. Linda moved close to him and pressed her shoulder under his arm. Her naive boldness was familiar to him now, and he was scarcely aware of her nearness in his own preoccupation.

"Anyhow, it was sweet of you to come all the way down so that I could have an hour with you," she murmured. "I'm sorry I didn't get down for the game," Bruce returned in a matter-of-fact tone. "I hear Florian gave a good account of himself."

"He played the game of his life," Linda said. "I think it was because Autumn laid a bet on him against Timothy. Poor Florian has taken an awful tumble for Autumn."

Bruce smiled to himself. "Serious?" he asked. "The most serious thing in his young life. He's potty!" "Florian has been potty before," Bruce observed. "I believe it's the real thing this time, though. When the Parrs fall, they fall hard, darling." She paused, but Bruce did not offer a reply. "I think she likes him, too. They hit it off together beautifully. I can't ever believe Florian is in love—until I see it with my own eyes," he said. He harbored a warm feeling almost of pity for Florian as he thought of him.

the ball as it struck the fins. A thin blue cloud of smoke filled the room. Autumn, in a diaphanous silver dress, was perched on the edge of the table, with Florian standing beside her. In a moment she lifted her eyes and looked at Bruce. He waved her, but her response was a fleeting smile that was bland and expressionless. Then she withdrew her eyes and turned to watch the game as Timothy set the ball spinning once more.

Bruce was suddenly possessed of an impulse to lay hold of her and carry her bodily out of the room. But at that moment Linda placed herself directly before him and began to tug at his lapels.

"Snap out of it, Bruce Lander!" she said. "What's wrong with you?" He looked distractedly down at the subtle smile of Linda's crimson lips.

"Nothing's wrong, Lini," he replied. "Let's go into the other room and dance," she invited. "How about taking a crack at the wheel now that we're here?" he said equably. "Dance later."

With a little more of disappointment which he chose to ignore, Linda pressed forward to the side of the table and looked on while Bruce bought a pile of chips and waited for the next flip of the ivory ball.

When Timothy reached for the spindle again, Bruce placed three chips on squares and offered a handful to Linda.

"I'm not lucky," she demurred. He turned again to the table and waited for the ball to drop into the slot. While he waited he noticed a short, plump man who had had too much to drink pushing his way to the edge of the table beside Autumn.

He could not help seeing that Autumn's hands were clenched on the table edge. Florian stopped between her and the boisterous guest and the game went on.

Autumn stood on a gilt chair beside the crowded table and tossed chips on thirteen and black. She knew that she swayed occasionally; Florian, standing below her, supported her with an arm about her slender hips. Now and then she ran her fingers through his hair and Florian turned his face up to hers with an intense and meaningful look.

She lost again on thirteen and black, and as her laughter poured out she looked up to see Bruce Lander standing beside the table, his arms folded, his eyes toward the crowd French windows that stood open on the other side of the room.

Within her a dull voice repeated over and over again, "I must not see him—I must not see him!" He turned his head slowly toward her, his mouth drawn up in a quizzical smile so that the deep furrow appeared in his cheek. That furrow in his lean brown cheek, which must have been a dimple when he was a child—she had kissed his cheek just there, in an infinite tenderness, only two nights ago—she felt a terrible vertigo all through her being, a sudden collapse of all her defenses. The feeling lasted for only a moment, however. When he looked at her again she was able to smile with a hard, vivid carelessness.

And then the short plump man lurched toward her, lost his balance, and fell heavily against the chair on which she was standing, clutching Florian in a desperate attempt to right himself. It seemed that before she had reached the floor, Bruce was there, had caught her up and was carrying her out of the confusion through the open French doors and into the sunken garden.

seemed to quiver in the starlight. But she stood erect before him, her head flung back, her eyes blazing into his. "I'm playing—no game," she panted. "Let me go back." He eyed her coldly. "Either you are playing a game tonight—or you were playing one night before last," he told her.

Her lips quivered over her clenched teeth. "You can judge for yourself," she replied. He stepped toward her and seized her wrist. "Do you—mean that?" he asked.

She released her wrist with a violent jerk. "Don't touch me—don't touch me!" she cried and shrank from him. "Her voice was a shrill whimper, not loud, not the voice of one utterly beyond control. An incomprehensible pang smote Bruce, a pang of pity, of complete bewilderment."

"Autumn," he said, "what's behind all this? I have a right to know." "Right?" Her laughter was almost a sob. She crossed her arms over the shimmering bodice of her gown, and her hands clutched spasmodically at her smooth, quivering shoulders. Beneath her arms he could see the vehement rise and fall of her breast. Her russet hair fell back from her forehead, and her eyes were so dilated as they flared into his face that she had the look of a person blind. He drew back from her.

"You are not yourself, Autumn," he said calmly. "I was not myself the other night, if that's what you mean," she replied. "You see me tonight as I really am—as I intend to be from now on. Ask your mother what I am—she knows what's in the blood."

She made to pass him and he stepped slowly aside. "As you will," he said quietly. He stood in the darkness and watched her as she walked toward the house. When she had gone in, he made his way around to the front of the house and entered by way of the portico.

In the hall he met Linda. "Let's dance, Lini," he said, before she could speak to him. "Or do we hunt up that other drink?" She looked up at him and smiled slowly.

"I believe you're coming out of your trance," she said, and drew him with her toward the butler's pantry.

MIAMI BEACH.—Base hits, pieced together, make a ball player's meal ticket. As a result, when the average player isn't hitting, his head goes down and he frets and worries so much he can't field, either.

Frank Crossett is an exception. The Yankee shortstop, in the company of a bombing crew, doesn't hit much more than his weight, yet every day he is out there hustling and playing a great game of ball. No player in either major league gives a smoother performance from one end of a season to the other.

Every day is just like every other they're all good. Crossett, of course, has spurs in which he will average .300 or over and when he hits a ball solidly, he can drive it a long way, having a fine wrist action that makes up for the size and weight that most power hitters have.

It was a home run by Crossett with Myril Hoag off base in the eighth inning that broke the resistance offered by Dizzy Dean to the Yankees in the second game of the 1938 world series—a smash that wrecked a classic stand by Diz when the odds loomed high against him.

The Best Combination Frankie's main value to the Yankees lies, naturally, in his superb defensive play. He and Joe Gordon provide the Yankees with the best second-base combination in the game today and one of the best ever.

Of these latter day hook-ups preceding that of Crossett and Gordon, the balance was lacking. Lazzeri, one of the great second basemen through his first seven years with the Yankees didn't have, in Koening, a shortstop to match him. Koening was a good ball player but an erratic one, a much better hitter than Crossett, but nowhere near Crossett in the matter of fielding skill, so that Lazzeri had to carry him much of the time.

Lazzeri also had to carry Crossett when Frankie joined the Yankees, schooling him to the majors and working out, between them, some semblance of smoothness. And then, just as Crossett had learned his way around and learned how to work with Lazzeri, Tony slowed up.

At last Joe McCarthy, striving desperately for a combination that could make double plays, put Crossett and Gordon together. They are perfectly matched and play together with confidence, speed, and rhythm. The plays they made in the World Series last fall—the plays they made during the championship season—satisfied even McCarthy, a hard man to satisfy—a man whose fetish is the double play.

The Threat by Werber Winning a berth with the Yankees wasn't easy on for Crossett—or, rather, holding it after he had won it wasn't easy. Because of his light hitting, his job was in danger in the spring of 1933, after he had been the regular shortstop through 1932, his first year.

Also at the Yankee camp in the spring of 1933 at St. Petersburg was Bill Werber, now third baseman of the Reds. Werber was faster—Crossett never has been exactly a speed merchant, for all the agility with which he bounces around the short field, spearing line drives, scooping up grounders, starting or pivoting on double plays—and another of McCarthy's demands is for speed—and more speed. Werber was fiery, colorful and aggressive—and Crossett then, as now, was so quiet as to be almost backward, even on the field.

The Threat Answered Werber, just up from Buffalo, started with a rush that spring. Before the stay at St. Petersburg ended, it looked as though the job was his, and other managers, believing McCarthy had made his choice, made offers for Crossett. Then McCarthy gave Crossett a fling at the job again and the fine play he turned in as the team swung North, decided, the tussle. He held on—and Werber went to the Red Sox.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Keep brass articles from tarnishing by covering them with a thin coat of clear varnish. The varnish will form a lacquer which will not wear off unless the brass is handled frequently.

Serve waffles as soon as they are baked. If they are allowed to stand they are apt to become tough. Never stack them, since stacking makes them soggy.

To clean gas stove burners boil them in a strong solution of washing soda and water for about half an hour. This will remove all the grease. Rinse thoroughly, dry and put back into the stove.

Holbeds are coldframes with heat added. This may be from animal manure, hot water or electricity. The difference between the two is the presence of the heating unit.

Before washing a dark dress, baste around the edges of the stains with white cotton. In this way one is sure of removing all the soiled parts which otherwise are difficult to detect when the garment is wet.

THERE are two styles that you know right now you'll need, even if your Spring wardrobe is not entirely settled in your own mind! During the months to come, you'll want several free-and-easy sleeveless tennis frocks; and even before that, you'll want at least one "little suit" for street and run-about. Well, here they both are, in this truly money-saving pattern (8597). The tennis frock has a swing skirt, wide insect belt and strap back. Add the pinch-waisted little jacket-blouse (the fitting is all by means of easy darts) and there's your suit-frock.

Her Ticket The special constable had been told by his inspector to stop a car which was traveling fast in his direction. Ten minutes later he rang up to report. "The car was being driven by an actress," he said. "I stops her, pulls out my notebook, she snatches it, writes her autograph, and then away she went."

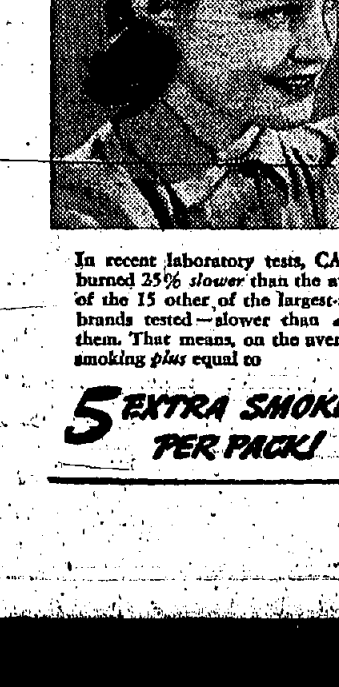

Advice to the young: Take care of the pennies—and hide your money-box from daddy.

First of Spring "I hear your coat has rather an amorous disposition." "Yes, if she can't get up a flirtation with the milkman, she starts nuzzling the potatoes."

Mountainside Activities

Republican Club Favors Benninger

MOUNTAINSIDE—Recorder Albert J. Benninger was endorsed for State Committee Monday night by the Mountainside Republican Club in the Borough Hall, at one of the largest meetings the club has ever held. Benninger's candidacy was cited as the second time in the history of the borough; since it was founded in 1891, that any local man has run for a county wide position. The other occasion was Frederick Benninger's candidacy for freholder at the time when the small Board of Freholders went into effect. "Election-Fighters," a film-released by the Esso Marketers will be shown at the next meeting of the club April 29, at 8 P. M. Members of the club are invited to bring guests and there will be no charge for entertainment. Endorsement of Recorder Benninger was deferred at the annual meeting of the Union County Young Republican Club, Tuesday night in the Mountainside Inn, upon motion by H. Russell Morse, Jr., of Rahway, chairman of a committee backing Benninger. Benninger sponsored the motion. It is reported that pressure had been brought to bear upon members of the group in favor of George C. Warren whom Benninger opposes for the position by senior members of the party. Benninger was elected treasurer of the club at the meeting, and indicated that he felt the group was strongly behind him. Mayor Alan Thompson was elected an associate chairman of the club, and Councilman Nelson L. Carr, of Elizabeth was named its chairman.

GIRL SCOUTS FORMED

MOUNTAINSIDE—A Girl Scout Troop for all the girls in the sixth and seventh grades was organized this afternoon at a meeting in the Mountainside school. A campaign for the troop has been going on for the past two weeks, and 18 girls have signed up for membership in the organization. It has the backing of the local P. T. A., and will meet every Friday afternoon. Miss Ruth Rinker, teacher at the school will act as captain.

DISCUSSED "MINERALS"

MOUNTAINSIDE—Edmund Seidmore of Central avenue spoke at a special assembly in the Mountainside school, yesterday afternoon on the topic of "Minerals." Collecting minerals has been his hobby for a number of years, and to illustrate his talk, he exhibited samples of rocks and gems he had picked up in New Jersey, through the Rock-Mountain states in the West, and in other spots. He spoke of the minerals to be found in New Jersey, and pointed to their variety and interest. Students in all grades from the fourth to the eighth heard the talk.

PERSONAL MENTION

The Silhouette Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Henry Weber, of Central avenue. James Humberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Humberger of Mountain avenue, local Life Scout, was a week-end guest of Charles Hooker, an executive officer at National Boy Scout headquarters, New York City. Mrs. S. A. Coles of Mountain avenue has announced the marriage of her niece, Miss Evelyn Coles, to Henry Lemmermann, of Linden. The ceremony was performed March 19 at Elkton, Md.

BEGIN SPELLING BEE

MOUNTAINSIDE—A school-wide spelling bee commenced yesterday in the Mountainside school, under the direction of Miss Carol Ashworth, English teacher for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Fifty students have been chosen from each class to compete in the contest, and eliminations are contemplated for the next two weeks.

TO PLAY TONIGHT

MOUNTAINSIDE—Arrangements have been completed for an old fashioned card party sponsored by the recently formed Band Mothers Association to be held tonight in the Mountainside school. Mrs. Edmund Frey who is heading the committee in charge of arrangements has announced that almost 100 tickets have already been sold, and that more are expected. Pinochle, bridge, cooty and other games will be played. Proceeds will go to a fund to buy caps and caps for band members.

Suspects Held

and Connelly boulevard, when they saw two suspicious looking men enter the premises and button-hole the attendant. They were frisked, and told to lead the way to the car they claimed had the flat tire. Arriving at the car, it was noticed that all the tires were fully inflated. A third man seated at the steering wheel was held with the first two. Upon questioning, the men admitted an attempt to rob the station, and gave information that led to the arrest of John Alexander, 122 George street, and Anthony Teresco, 220 LeLand avenue, both of Plainfield who are now being held in Mountainside on the local charge. These men will be arraigned tonight before Recorder Albert J. Benninger. The men also admitted to hold ups of a similar nature in various parts of Union, Essex, Somerset, and Middlesex counties. One of the men is a probationer from San Quintin Federal Prison in California. Efforts were being made last night to link the gang with the shooting of Charles Feller, manager of a liquor store in North Plainfield who was shot through the abdomen in a stick up in his store two weeks ago. Feller has just been released from Muhlenberg Hospital.

Against Bagatelle

To the Editor of the SUN: I am writing in answer to the question of licensing gambling machines. To my mind, some of the answers given in last week's SUN on the question of Bagatelle machines were given by those who have no children, or else all they see is money. Is money our greatest need, or would it be better to enlarge the brain capacity of some of our modern leaders? True, it is a good thing to have opinions of our own, but we must be careful how we give them away. I find it is easier to prevent bad habits than it is to break them. Our modern educators are rather embarrassed to tell us just what brains are, or who has them. All about us are pure, young lives.

New novels on the Pay Shelf are: THE LOON FEATHERS by Iola Fuller, the winner of the Hopwood Award given by the University of Michigan for creative writing. When THE LOON FEATHERS was submitted by young Iola Fuller, hitherto unknown, it so far outdistanced all other writers it was given three different prizes. The story takes place during the fur trading days on Mackinac Island where the "seas of sweet water meet" and the French traders, red men, and fishermen lived during the Summer. Oneta, the daughter of Tegumseh, and grand-daughter of the chief of the Loon tribe, brought up by her French foster family, is bound by her life and love to the white man's world. It is a rich, dramatic story.

COYOTE SPRINGS by Ben Ames Williams is a novel about the man and woman who conquered the Maine wilderness in the Fall of 1776. It's the love story of Mima Robbins, a pioneer girl in a wild new land—Mima has seen her heart on Joel Adams, who has been fighting Burgoyne. Joel is not a marrying man, but when he and two others set up bachelor quarters, Mima persuades them to take her on as a housekeeper. Read and see what happens next.

Here are the new novels on the free shelf: THE MULBERRY BUSH, by Helen Topping Miller. Newspaper men and women of New York and Washington furnish the background for this picture of tangled love. Virginia Warfield of Tennessee meets Mike Paul, a newspaper columnist. She was so unsophisticated, he nicknamed her "Elsie Dismore," and he was so dashing she couldn't resist his wooing, so love was a "round and round the Mulberry Bush" thing until Mike discovered he didn't like mulberries.

CLEAR-BEFORE-LEVEN by Edith Holton is started with a heavy fog in the morning, but the old salts on Cape Cod say that means it will clear before eleven. The problem was getting Hosanna Snow married at the age of 28. Folks like Jonathan Polks, Uncle Isham, and Jacob Spindler who are past the age of 50, were active in promoting it.

Many thanks are due to Miss Alice Rieg for the attractive decorations in the Children's Corner during the week.

MONOTONOUS

They were married, but not on the best of terms, though as it was her birthday, the next day she was being sweetness itself.

"What are you going to give me for my birthday?" she cooed.

"Nothing," said he, scowling.

"But, darling, can't you think of something original? You gave me that last year."

Bad Luck

Jack - A burglar got into my house at three o'clock this morning while I was on my way home from the club.

Bob - Did he get anything?

Jack - He certainly did! The poor beggar is in the hospital. My wife thought it was me.

At His Word

Father - Do you love my daughter?

Suitor - For her sake I would face anything.

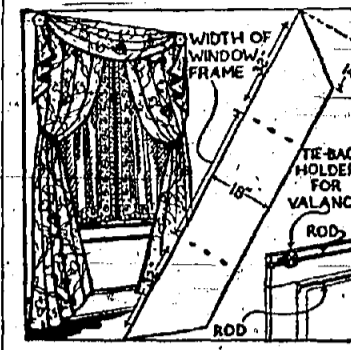

Father - Come and meet her mother, my boy.

THAT lace curtains are in fashion again is news! This easy-to-make and easy-to-hang valance is something that many of you have been wanting. All the dimensions for cutting it are given here. The glass curtains are hung on the lower rod; the side drapes on the upper rod; and the valance is draped over knob holders screwed into the extreme upper corners of the window frames.

The color plan for this window began with the glazed chintz drapery material in tones of green, beige and golden yellow. The darkest green—a soft olive tone, was used in sateen to line the valance and make the tie-backs. The brass holders for the valance repeated the golden yellow. The

Broad Humanity

A broad humanity is the belief that man is more important than his works and that his value is independent of the trappings of circumstance.

SPORTSMEN PLAN FETE THURSDAY

The annual dinner of the Union County Trout Protective Association will be served Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Elizabeth-Carter Hotel, Elizabeth. Members of the State Fish and Game Commission have been invited to attend, and technical films will be shown of fishing in Newfoundland. Several prizes will be awarded. William J. Thompson, Jr. of town, is secretary of the association. Reorganization of the group is also planned.

SPORT HIGHLIGHTS

By BILL PRICE

BILL PRICE out of it will mean Regional's in for some stiff competition. Irvington is the added opponent scheduled for the tennis team.

Ray Schmidt's Springfield College basketball team which went to Indianapolis as New England champs, was eliminated in the first round of the National tournament last week, by the University of Colorado which ended up in third place in the final counting.

Harry Coates, dean of New Jersey track coaches, (if coaches have any) should be attracted enough to draw anybody to the Regional Booster Club meeting Monday, April 2. He is a grand old man down at Seton Hall where he has made a habit of turning out track teams that think of records only as things to break. With him will be his latest exhibit, the National prep school relay champs. We understand he's going to let them demonstrate. The lessons to be gained from anything he has to say should be well worth the evening. Rumor has it that the Booster Club has some mighty fine special awards to give the lettermen of the team who will be feasted at the meeting. We'd be the last to say they didn't deserve them.

WHERE TO BUY THE SUN

The SUN is on sale every Friday afternoon at the following newsstands in Springfield: McDonough's, 224 Morris avenue; Buckalew's, 249 Morris avenue; Shack's, 270 Morris avenue; Phillips', 161 Morris avenue; Fritz Gessner's, 19 Morris avenue, near Morris avenue and Ludwig's, South Springfield and Evergreen avenues. In Mountaineer, at 1117 Morris, 1 Springfield road, and Siskin's, 889 Mountain avenue.

Bill Tiley, graduate of Regional last year, is reported fighting for the reserve catching post on the Montclair State Teacher's College team. Here's hoping you catch the berth as well as those curves, Bill.
