Nazis Gain Ground in Norway As Allied Fleet Watches Italy; Balkan States Are Still Uneasy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

THE WAR: Shifting Scenes

Major stagehands in the theater of World War II are busy changing scenes for the next act in the current military drama. While the allies were admittedly doing a "fade-out" in southern Norway, attention was centered on the Mediterranean area where the French-English fleet was concentrating.

Two important reasons for this shift in allied tactics seemed evident: (1) Britain and France figure on a swift German thrust into the Balkan countries and (2) to the allies the Italian question mark is looming larger than ever.

While Prime Minister Chamberlain was telling the house of commons that British forces were being removed from their central Norwegian base at Andalsnes, Germany was claiming that the allies were "head-on night" in that area.

German gains in central and southern Norway have been strengthened by the British sea blockade of Germany's coal shipments to Italy.

Germany's coal shipments to Italy, supplies of this important commodity by railroad, through historic Brenner pass. (See cut.)

But while this activity was taking place two counter moves were made which pointed toward continued Italian neutrality.

In Canada the Department of National Defense issued posters which warned citizens to refrain from aimless or idle talk about military matters.

POLITICS: Came the Spring

Month of blossoms and green grass, May, this year is watching leaders of both major political parties scamp for the grass roots to pluck choice blossoms in the form of convention delegates.

Republicans will choose 477 of their 1,000 delegates this month, almost completing their total.

While many of the lesser "buds" continued to hide their shy little heads at least one more Democrat blossomed out with the statement that he would make the race if the President didn't.

Republicans meanwhile gathered in Washington to do a little spending and cultivating with their convention and campaign problems.

How the wind is blowing...

Car Design—From Detroit, world-center of the auto industry, comes word that 1941 models will present "changes . . . of a magnitude rarely before equaled in the automobile industry."

Transportation—Railroad companies have put into effect a plan whereby travelers in at least 30 states can rent automobiles for use in a community after having made their long trip by rail.

Construction—At Miami, 600 architects saw a display showing how structural glass, large windows and plate glass mirrors may make tomorrow's home a "house of glass."

STASSEN GETS LIBERAL ADVICE

WASHINGTON.—Governor Harold Stassen took away with him three pieces of advice from G. O. P. congressional leaders on his keynote speech:

1. Make it liberal in tone. 2. Bear down strong on the New Deal's failure to solve the unemployment problem.

On the war issue, Stassen was urged to stress two points: (1) that a Democratic regime got the U. S. into the first World War; (2) that while this administration professes devotion to the principles of neutrality, its conduct is characterized by a strong undercurrent of jingoism.

As illustrations of this G. O. P. leaders cited the warlike pro-remarks of James Cromwell, U. S. minister to Canada, and the sensational statement of Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig that "war with Japan is inevitable."

Stassen was told to picture the G. O. P. as the great "peace party" of the country, pledged to oppose any step that might lead to involvement in a foreign conflict.

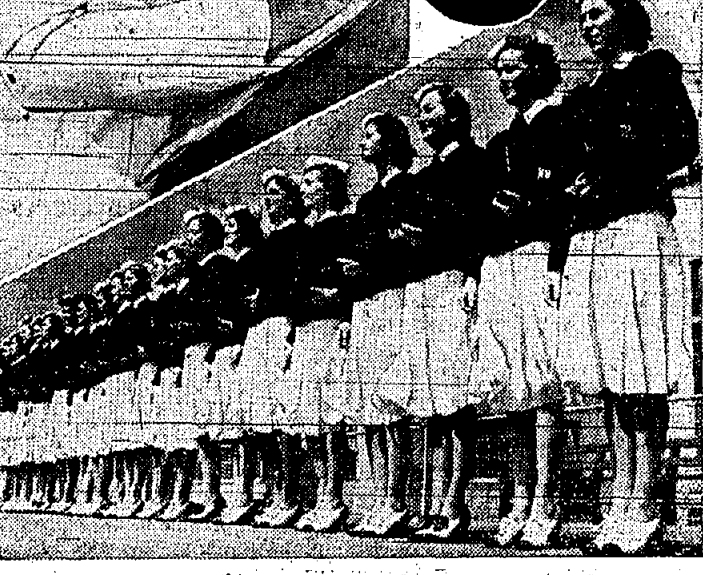

These have been able to hold off British troop transports. Meanwhile the railroad to Sweden has been kept open, and the Swedes have been sending in food labeled "Medical Supplies."

All of this illustrates the odds against which the British are operating in Norway. In the first place, the floods are narrow, easy for the Germans to defend, and difficult for large vessels to maneuver.

Don't Become an Air Hostess If You're Afraid of Hard Work

Being an airline stewardess is romantic, but it isn't peaches and cream. Katherine Wilson, below, TWA hostess, was chosen "Miss American Aviation" last year.

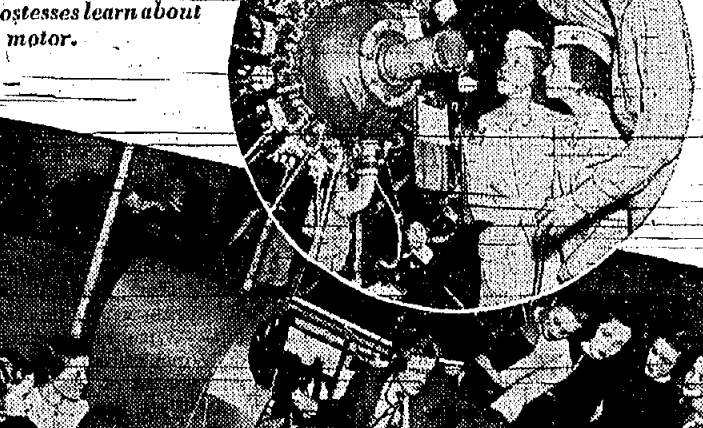

She must know how to handle tickets; how to serve hot meals; make berths; to control heating and ventilating; to answer passengers' questions (foolish and otherwise) about airplanes and engines.

Hostesses cannot work more than 110 hours a month, work days being interspersed with days off. From time of takeoff to arrival at the plane's destinations she is busy preparing delicious meals, answering questions and making conversation.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

ICKES 'BEARS GIFTS' WASHINGTON.—Vox-Popper calls the running row between Secretary Ickes and myself a racket, saying "There's fees in them that 'feuds'."

"Carpetbagger" in Texas. The original Texas Garnerite, Amon Carter, called him a "carpetbagger."

When you are hungry for news, I have come to Texas bearing gifts—rich gifts—not a few of them, and you never thought of calling me a carpet-bagger.

By permitting the federal government to do it for them, state officials escape their own responsibilities but they surrender their own authorities.

TIN AND RUBBER SUPPLIES Several years ago Mr. B. M. Baruch, on the basis of his World War experience in economic warfare, began to urge on this government the need for accumulating reserve supplies of tin and rubber—materials absolutely necessary for our defense.

Now the British and French are becoming increasingly dependent on us as a base of supplies. Our laws prohibit our selling to them except for cash.

Wiser Than Burying Gold. As to the wisdom from our standpoint of doing this, it is certainly far better for us to pile up such a strategic war material as tin or rubber, neither of which deteriorates in storage.

Practical Scottie and Overall Boy Cutouts

HERE are pictured two more new practical and decorative cutouts which we offer to you. These designs are to be traced on wallboard, plywood or thin lumber.

Use "Walk" and "Keep Off Grass" signs are both given. The overall boy is about 23 inches tall, and may be had by ordering Z9089, 15 cents.

Florian shot Autumn a quick look from beneath lowered brows.

"It's Bruce Landor, of course," he said, with a sharp inflection bitten with hopelessness.

Autumn avoided his eyes, her gaze upon the window where, the curtains drawn back, the redolent, piny air of the mountains drifted gently inward.

"I knew it," he said disconsolately. "I've known it for weeks. That's why you're going away. You're running away from him."

Autumn got up and stood by the window, looking out across the hills where evening was already settling down.

"Let's eat!" he said suddenly. "You're probably starved."

She looked at him and smiled dimly. "I could do with a little something," she agreed.

"You'll do nothing of the sort," he retorted. "You'll sit down and have another drink while I fry the bacon and eggs."

Fifteen minutes later, they were seated amicably across from each other at the little table before the fireplace, feasting on bacon and eggs, bread and butter and marmalade, and the really excellent coffee Florian had made.

"What's wrong, Clancy?" he demanded.

The boy flung out an arm toward the master. "Over yonder!" he gasped. "The master—in the gully! Go quick!"

With only a swift glance of horror into the blood-stained face of the youth, Bruce sped away.

The sight that met his eyes in the arroyo froze his veins. There was a scattering of sheep, running and bleating idiotically still, with the dog valiantly struggling to bring them together.

But across the gap in the earth there had risen a solid barrier of dead, dying bodies.

Florian tried to break up the jam and they got into a ditch on top of him. Jarvis jumped in and saved the boy—but he never got out of it himself.

Florian ran his hand across his brow, speechless from shock. Bruce saw him glance abstractly toward the house.

"Life must go on? Why?" She opened her eyes and gazed at him, as though in genuine wonderment.

Hector shifted uneasily. He looked worn and shaken, she thought with idle compassion.

But Florian was regarding him in blank consternation; Bruce, puzzled, began to feel an impatience at his singular attitude.

"There's no sense in delaying it, Florian," he said harshly. "She has to be told. And Lin is the one to talk to her."

As he spoke he glanced toward the house. It came to him that there was something strange about the place. It seemed deserted, somehow, and although the windows were open no voices came out to them from within.

"Lin isn't here," Florian said heavily. "Autumn and I are alone."

Bruce stared at Florian through the gloom with eyes that seemed to go dim and lifeless with the dull flush that had suffused his whole being after that first, sharp stab of incredulity.

"Oh!" he said then, in a voice that had died before the sound issued. "Oh—I see!"

Florian's face was turned toward him in the darkness. For a moment he did not reply. "You don't see at all, you damn fool!" he broke forth at last.

"You don't see at all, you damn fool!" he broke forth at last. "You don't see at all, you damn fool!"

With his fists doubled up so that his nails were like blades in his palms, Bruce tore himself away. He had experienced for the first time in his life the exhilarating and horrible impulse to kill.

Blindly he staggered to his car, swung it through the gate, so that it lurched crazily toward the back of the trail before he righted it—then paused to await the sounds that told him that Florian and Autumn had started from the lodge.

All the way back down into the valley, with the shameless and heart-breaking sound of that other car following behind him, it seemed to Bruce that the stars rocketed through a delirious sky, and that the night with its burden of madness would descend and annihilate him.

CHAPTER XIII

Strange, Autumn thought with the objective detachment that emotional exhaustion brings, how this gold and white drawing room that had been Millicent's preserved its aloof and reticent singularity, impervious to any unwelcome experience of the other quarters of the house.

A gleam of light through the dark welt of the pines, and Bruce was driving in at the open gateway with writhing, kicking, screaming bodies. A few had escaped and were struggling up the steep bank, baying dementedly—their oblique, crazy eyes aglare.

In the thick of the struggle, flailing out with both arms and sobbing frantically, Clancy Shane bobbed about, with hideous ludicrousness, like a cork. Jarvis yelled to him, and plunged down the embankment, hurling one of his wayward, half-stunned animals that rushed up, at him. With all the strength of his powerful frame he fought his way to the boy, lifted him bodily above the descending stream of gray forms, and flung him free.

As he did so, a dozen grizzled shapes came down upon him and Jarvis fell back among them.

Bruce Landor was driving home from town. On a sharp decline in the road where it approached the Dean place, his gaze was arrested by a wild figure that rushed frenziedly toward him, apparently from nowhere.

The boy collapsed against the running board, his breath a raucous wheeze. Bruce leaped from his car and lifted him to a sitting position.

"What's wrong, Clancy?" he demanded.

The boy flung out an arm toward the master. "Over yonder!" he gasped. "The master—in the gully! Go quick!"

With only a swift glance of horror into the blood-stained face of the youth, Bruce sped away.

FOR A SHOWER PARTY FOR SPRING BRIDE. (See Recipes Below)

Household News By Eleanor Howe

Here Comes the Bride!

And so they are married—and after the ceremony there is to be a wedding reception at the home of the bride's mother.

It takes a bit of planning to carry through a lovely wedding so that every detail is correct. And the reception which follows must be as nearly perfect as it is possible to make it.

A party for the bride calls for something very special in the way of food. Here's a menu for a wedding reception, with tested recipes to enable you to use it as it is given.

Assorted Hors d'Oeuvres Grapefruit Lobster or Crabmeat Salad

Buttermilk Rolls Butter Celery Olives Radishes Pistachio Ice Cream

Bride's Cake Groom's Cake Punch Coffee

For a shower party for a spring bride, serve simple—but very good—refreshments like this:

Bride's Pie Coffee Assorted Salted Nuts

You'll find other recipes for special party cakes and desserts in my cook book "Better Baking." There's a recipe for wedding cakes, as well.

Bride's Pie (Serves 10 to 12)

6 egg whites 1/4 teaspoon salt 1 cup sugar 1 teaspoon vanilla 1 1/2 quarts strawberry ice cream 2 baked pie shells

Beat egg whites until foamy, add salt and continue beating until the egg whites are stiff and glossy. Add vanilla. Pack 1/4 quart of ice cream into each pie shell. Cover with meringue and bake in a very hot oven (350 to 375 degrees) until meringue is lightly browned. Serve immediately.

Assorted Canapés

Place chilled shrimp on a bed of shaved ice; serve cocktail sauce with it as an accompaniment. Stuff celery stalks with cream cheese which has been mixed with chopped stuffed olives. Cut crusts from slices of very fresh bread and cut loaf in long lengthwise slices. Spread with cream cheese. Roll as for jelly roll and slice in very thin slices. Brush with melted butter, place on broiler and toast lightly. Serve hot.

Grapefruit Lobster or Crabmeat Salad

Cut grapefruit in half, remove center with grapefruit corer. With grapefruit knife cut around each section and remove membrane. Cover edges of grapefruit with finely chopped parsley. Fill chilled center of grapefruit with lobster or crabmeat. Top with mayonnaise and serve.

Buttermilk Rolls (Makes 2 1/2 dozen)

1 envelope yeast 2 tablespoons lukewarm water 2 cups buttermilk (at room temperature)

6 1/2 cups of flour (approximately) 1/2 cup shortening 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon baking powder

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Combine with buttermilk and mix well. Add about 2 cups of flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place until the batter is light and bubbly. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

adds much charm to its simplicity. You'll find it one of the best little-girl fashions you ever discovered, and the source of many different daytime outfits for your small daughter.

A linen or gingham pinafore, with mull or dimity blouse, will be pretty for general wear. Plaid or striped coversack will be practical for the pinafore when she wears it as a sunback frock—can be tubbed so easily, and needn't be ironed. The step-by-step chart gives complete, detailed directions.

Pattern No. 8674 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35-inch material for pinafore and panties; 7/8 yard for blouse, 2 1/2 yards ribbon. Send order to:

Speed housecleaning! Save hours of time. Polish as you clean!

Lady, you needn't tire yourself, waste hours of time cleaning and then polishing woodwork, furniture and floors. Instead, O-Cedar film; polish as you clean; do both at once so easily. For O-Cedar clean the ugly dirty film of dirt and leaves instead a lovely glow, a soft and silken luster. Ask for genuine!

MOPS, WAX, DUSTERS, CLEANERS AND O-CEDAR FLY AND MOTH SPRAY

Within Our Reach. What is remote and difficult of success we are apt to overrate; what is really best for us lies always within our reach, though often overlooked.—Longfellow.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Your stockings will not ladder if you add a few drops of vinegar to the water when you wash them for the first time. It strengthens the weave.

When you boil potatoes and want them to be floury, put a heaped teaspoonful of sugar in the boiling water. They will taste delicious.

A generous-sized shoe bag hung on the inside of the downstairs hall closet door can serve for storing many articles—caps, mittens, rubbers, small brooms, hat brushes, etc.

If you like scented linens and use scented soaps store the soap, unwrapped, in the linen drawers or closet. Sachets, too, lend pleasing odors.

Mildew can be avoided if damp articles are never placed in clothes hampers. Dry all clothing and household linen thoroughly. Don't let it collect in damp basements, dark closets or other spots that are likely to be damp.

Slide fasteners are very convenient for furniture coverings. They make it easy to remove and replace the covers for cleaning. Such fasteners are available in washable, nonrust materials.

But inasmuch as parents insist upon it, these young fellows appreciate having HOT water ready when they are. In fact, everybody concerned appreciates hot-water-convenience as provided by a modern automatic gas water heater. It keeps hot water on tap, day and night, at very little cost for gas—only a few cents a day! Ask Public Service or your plumber for an estimate based on your hot water usage. Modern automatic gas water heaters are sold for as low as $49.50 cash, installed. You may purchase on monthly terms equivalent to about a nickel-a-day. Small down payment.
