1940 Red Cross Roll Call Drive Starts Monday

Rally Tonight Officially Opens Drive to Raise Funds This Month

The 1940 Roll Call campaign of Springfield Chapter, Red Cross, will be launched officially tonight at a rally in the Raymond Chisholm School at 8 o'clock, as workers and the public at large are invited to hear a featured talk on "Red Cross Preparedness For Defense" by Charles McFarland, National Red Cross representative in charge of New Jersey territory.

Mrs. Lewis F. Macartney, former chapter president, is chairman of the rally committee, which consists of Mrs. Wilbur M. Selander, Mrs. Gregg L. Frost, Mrs. Paul Voelker, Mrs. Charles Zoeller and Mrs. Donald Van Dyke.

Five captains, representing various township districts aided by a group of local women, will conduct a house-to-house canvass from Armistice Day to the end of November, to raise funds to carry on the numerous Red Cross activities in the township during next year. Mrs. Henry C. McMullen is Roll Call Chairman.

The captains and members of their teams, are as follows:

PROCLAMATION

The week, beginning November 11th, has been designated as the week for the Annual Red Cross Roll Call.

This is no ordinary charity appeal for local purposes. It is part of a consolidated effort of the states, of a great nation to help the needy at home and abroad.

The need for Red Cross funds is greater today than it has been in many years. There is distress on this side of the water and all of the horrors of war across the sea. The sick, hungry, homeless and those existing in misery need YOUR help.

Combat the favorable conditions under which you live with those existing in other nations. Be grateful to Almighty God that we are still free from the disasters of war. Dedicate some of your time and money to help the efforts of Red Cross.

WILBUR M. SELANDER, Chairman Township Committee.

The Hon. Albert E. Vreeland of East Orange, Congressman of the 11th District, will be the speaker of the evening. Rev. Dr. George A. Liggett, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will pronounce the invocation.

The Legion Post's ritual team will conduct special services, led by William White, commander. Special music will be presented by the Methodist Choir, under the direction of Allen Capman, church organist and choirmaster.

Congressman Vreeland holds a Captain's commission in the U. S. Army Reserve, and is a member of the Orange Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution. He is a former judge of the East Orange Recorder's Court. The public is invited to attend the services.

Stars Traveling To Connecticut

The Springfield Stars will travel to Hartford, Conn., Sunday to engage the Hartford Blues of that city. Players and several fans will leave town by automobile at 8 A. M.

Captain Bill Brown announces that a return non-tongue contest has been arranged with the Irvington Camptown Pros for Sunday, December 1 at the Irvington High School field. In their last encounter, both teams boasted of an unscuffed record and both possessed winning streak. The Camptown won by a 12-12 score before a crowd of almost 5,000.

Assistant Presbyterian Pastor Experienced Thrills On Ships

At the next meeting of the Senior Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian Church, ask your assistant pastor, William Felmeth, to tell you about his experiences aboard freighters and passenger ships which he served for three Summers as cadet officer.

Mr. Felmeth, who lives at 539 Riverside drive, Elizabeth, is in his second year at the Princeton Theological Seminary. He will receive his bachelor of theology degree in 1942. He was assigned by the faculty to assist the Rev. Dr. George A. Liggett, pastor. Dr. Liggett gave him the task of organizing the senior group. Mr. Felmeth received his bachelor of arts degree from Harvard College in 1939.

In the Summer of 1934 at the age of 16, he was appointed a cadet officer on the S. S. Helen. The freighter sailed around the Gulf of Mexico, stopping at the various gulf ports. It was here that he received his training in navigation from older officers. After many weeks of concentrated instructions, he was allowed to pilot the ship, giving orders in the same manner as the captain.

The following year, Cadet Officer Felmeth saw service on the S. S. Arlyn, which sailed to Porto Rico, off Cape Hatteras, better known by sailors as the graveyard of ships,

Bailey B. Scott Seriously Hurt

Bailey B. Scott of Canoe Brook road, Short Hills, assistant sports editor of the Newark News, and former Springfield reporter of that newspaper is in Overlook Hospital, Summit, recovering from injuries which he received in an automobile accident Tuesday afternoon on Highland avenue, Short Hills. His car was demolished when it crashed into a tree as he was driving north of Hobart avenue.

Scott was returning from the Short Hills Racquets Club to his home when a squirrel crossed the road in front of his car. Trying to avoid hitting the squirrel, he swerved the car and lost control. He was taken to the hospital in a Millburn police car. He was unconscious for more than two hours. Doctors at first feared that he might have had a fractured skull and internal injuries as a result of being thrown against the windshield and steering wheel. After an X-ray, it was disclosed that he escaped with severe bruises and a broken nose.

More Than 2-1 Majority For G.O.P. Ticket

Walter Parsil Realizes Bowling Score of 300

Walter Parsil, bowling with the Studio Bar, realized the ambition of every bowler Tuesday night in Municipal League competition at Woodruff's Alleys against Colonial Rest, when he made twelve successive strikes for a perfect score of 300, the first in the league's 10-year history.

With one exception, the strikes were in the 1-2 right pocket except for three cross hits, and the twelfth try of the hook-bowler—Parsil, witnessed by a large crowd of bowlers who stopped activities on other alleys, saw the ball smash into a perfect hit. Parsil's previous best score was 289.

It was the second game for Parsil, his first an even 200. The last game found him somewhat untried, as he rolled 165, for a total of 662. Unusual as it may seem, his team lost three games to Colonial Rest!

Willkie Slightly Behind Others On Slate As 2043 Cast Votes

Springfield maintained its traditional Republican majority in Tuesday's general election, as the highest number of voters in the township's history gave a 2-1 plurality to the entire ticket, with few exceptions.

A total of 2,043 voters came to the polls out of a registry of 2631, of which about 100 had been removed from the eligibility list prior to Election Day, after a check revealed ineligibility due to residence, change of address or citizenship.

Wendell L. Willkie received 1330 votes against 673 for President Roosevelt, who ran slightly ahead of the Democratic slate. U. S. Senator W. Warren Barbour topped the entire ticket, with 1396 votes against 525 for James H. R. Cromwell, who was lower than other Democratic candidates.

In the Governorship race, Senator Hendrickson received fewer Republican votes, 1222 to 746 for Charles Edison, who was highest on his ticket.

Committeemen Alfred G. Trundle and Lewis F. Macartney, Republican candidates for re-election, received 1294 and 1391 votes, respectively. Richard L. Markinka, Democratic nominee, had withdrawn from the campaign two weeks ago, too late for the removal of his name from the voting machine strips, although he was credited with 506 votes, below the average Democratic Assembly vote of about 550.

Complete election results, by district, are found elsewhere on this page.

Hidden Ways

By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

SYNOPSIS

David Malloy, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as switch-board operator in a swank apartment house, managed by officious Timothy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paret, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra. One day, talking with Higgins in the lobby, David is alarmed by a piercing scream. David finds the scream came from the Ferriter apartment, not far from the Paret's. The Ferriters include Lyon and Everett, and their sister, Irene. Everett, a sensationalist, is helping Agatha Paret write a book about her blue-blooded ancestor. Inside the apartment they find a blackbearded man—dead. No weapon can be found. The police arrive, Higgins, who actively dislikes David, informs him that he is fired. David is called to the Paret apartment. Agatha Paret offers him a job helping write her family history—which will scratch a few family skeletons. He accepts the offer. Meanwhile, police suspect Lyon Ferriter of the murder. For Cochrane of the Press-office David—a job helping solve the murder. David accepts. Later David meets Grosvenor Paret, Allegra's brother. Then, that night, Grosvenor comes through the Ferriter apartment. David confronts Grosvenor with the story. He is told to mind his own business.

I know you now. Your face has bothered me for days. I saw you in Chicago. "If you did," I told him, "you saw me get trimmed." "By D'Amhallaic," he said as if that excused anything. "You know," he told the others, "this lad really is good." "Was good," I corrected. "That was two years ago." I was glad he covered Grosvenor. Lyon ran on like a boy: "I use the sword a little myself. Sometime, I'd like to show you my collection of blades. Some of them are rather good." I almost told him I had seen them. Then I remembered the dead man who had lain before them, and didn't. I gave Miss Agatha my new address and left them talking—essentially as though the last thirty-odd hours never had happened.

The events of the final sixty minutes had scrambled my mind. They had kicked over what I had built and now memory of Allegra, loyal and valiant and fearful, fought against the erection of new. I was half-way to the corner before I remembered my suitcase still in Higgins' basement flat. Here was something definite to do, an anodyne to

Grosvenor watched me as I took my tankard. I thought he expected me to reach a foot for a brass rail or blow froth on the floor. Perhaps it was another doubt that bothered him. I forgot to wonder about it in admiration of Miss Agatha.

She plunged her patrician nose into the foam and, after a brief instant, set down the vessel—empty with a contented sigh. She caught my eye.

"Boor," she said with authority, "is a mass beverage. David, its virtues lie in volume. People who sip their beer also like afternoon tea or Wagner on a fiddle. No boor, Allegra?"

The girl sat close beside her brother. He peered into his tankard. One of her hands lay on his bowed shoulder.

"No," she said and smiled, "I'm too sleepy." "Always," Miss Agatha told me, nodding toward her niece, "the soul of courtesy. How much of that material did you get through?" "All of it," I said.

It pleased her. "Excellent," she exclaimed, with a tiny click of her teeth. "Then tomorrow we can get-to-work. Bumping the scandal as both ends."

"Right," she said. "I thought you would be forced," she said after the family skeletons. Mr. Malloy will drink with you, Agatha?"

"Bah!" said Miss Agatha and reached for the untouched tankard, "David is—"

"Just," I said as she paused, "an elevator man coming up in the world."

The wrinkles came about her eyes. She chuckled. "That isn't what I was going to say. Since you are in New York and your people are in Nebraska, you may have more use for families as institutions than I have. Distance makes relations more endurable to one another. Of course the republic is founded on the American home."

"There she goes," Allegra said in a loud aside to her brother. "The family is the foundation of the nation," the old lady went on, "and I wonder if that isn't the trouble with things. I believe—"

The peal of the doorbell cut her short. Grosvenor rose to answer it. "Damn," said Miss Agatha, "if it's that man Shannon again—"

It was Lyon Ferriter. I admired Miss Paret's balance.

"Well," she said warmly, as though a wish had been answered. "Come in and revel. Grover, another tankard."

Lyon checked the lid and smiled. His eyes, moving easily from face to face, rested on mine an instant and once more seemed puzzled.

"Thanks," he said and bowed to Miss Agatha. I shouldn't have intruded, but he said downstairs that you had just returned.

"I could see nothing but that glare. I hit my eye pretty hard. I don't think my knees and my trampled hand ached. I squinted, half up, half down, for a long instant. The dazling haze thinned and Higgins' red face came through.

"What," he asked and I thought he gloated, "is all this, hey?" "I fell, I was tripped," I said stupidly.

Higgins chuckled. "So ye was tripped," he jeered. "Now ain't that too bad? The someone that tripped ye lays beside ye, me lad."

I looked down. The obstacle over which I had tumbled was my own suitcase. Higgins, in a last flare of spite, had left it in the hall. I got up slowly and brushed dust from my sore knees.

"Who else," I asked, "was in here?" The superintendant chuckled and anger helped me get hold of myself.

"Who else?" he echoed. "Nobody, ye fool, but yourself and your clumsy feet." Higgins locked the door behind me. I stumbled up the steps. The wind stung my face. Its blast seemed to scatter my mind. Someone had been in that basement hallway when I had entered—someone who seemed to be found there, who had fought off my clumsy effort at capture. I had touched, I had heard the intruder. He had left his heelbewilderment. I faced about and went back to the Morello. The light was out before the basement door and the hallway beyond was dark. I thought that Higgins might be asleep. That stopped me for a moment. Asleep or awake, I decided, there would be a squabble and I might as well face it now. I closed the door, felt for a match and, finding none, went along the black hall.

My fingers touched the white-washed stone, once, twice. They reached out a third time and recoiled. They had brushed rough cloth and underneath that was a body, pressed tight and still against the wall.

For a second, neither of us moved, or breathed. Then I lurched forward, arms spread wide. My hands grazed the hemp fabric but found no hold. Something tripped me. I went down. A foot stamped on my knuckles. I grabbed for it and missed, but its owner fell too, with a thud and a gasp and a flat chime of metal on stone. I leaped up to stumble once more over the thing that first and tripped me. I fell again, this time upon it. An ankle smote me in the midriff, driving out my breath. I heard the quick sound of retreating feet. I saw, as I got to my knees, the outer door open and a dim figure that fled. Then I squatted, blinking in a blaze of light.

Kathleen Norris Says: When Someone Loves You— Watch Your Step!

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

She plays about with Walter like a happy kid, and he is beginning to feel that she is the most important person in the group. If he cleans the car, Nancy is out at the garage laughing and helping. If he must run uptown she dances along.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I didn't love him," the bride, "I wouldn't care when he's so mean to me!" "If I didn't love him," mourns the mother in her stricken heart, "it wouldn't be so hard for me when he's away at night, when he marries the wrong woman, when he's shabby and tired and discouraged!"

Love is the greatest joy and the greatest sorrow in life; the deepest satisfaction, the most acute fear. The power held by those who love and who are loved is a limitless power. That's why we have to be so careful of it; why it is such a crime against love itself to misuse it.

Every mother has the power to completely destroy her children's lives, if she will, because they love her. Every child has potentialities of hurting his parents with coldness and cruelty, because they love him. Whenever love is there is also the possibility of agony and cruelty and fear. This is true especially between husbands and wives, because of the necessary closeness of their relationship, and their dependence upon each other.

Bless—Misery Not Far Apart. These things are so obvious as to be truisms. And yet it is a matter of great surprise to some young wives—and even some older ones, that close to utter bliss there can be complete misery. When a woman gives her heart to a man's keeping she doesn't always realize that he may break it as well as cherish it.

When a love-tonc in a man's voice thrills you to utter ecstasy, remember that a little chill in that tone, a shade of indifference or criticism, can lower you to corresponding depths of despair. A wife may ruin her husband's life. A mother may ruin her son's. A son can break his mother's heart. Easily, easily, easily.

Fortunately for most of us, love begets love. The young husband forgets his anger, and in the flood-tide of a blissful reconciliation scene the bride seems to regain a surer position than ever. The son has only to say, with a sleepy kiss, "why are we only over at Harry's playing bottle-pool, Mom. You're my girl!" to send his mother's spirits soaring to heaven again.

As for mothers and small children, thank God most mothers know their power, and use it wisely. Even disciplined children know that Mother loves them only too well.

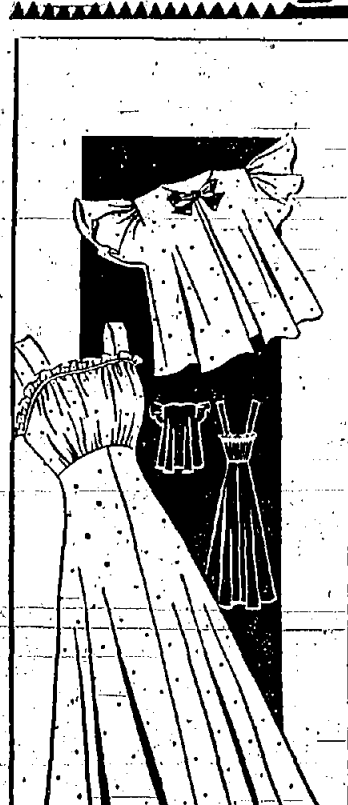

Domestic Triangle. But used or misused, the awful force for hurting those we love remains. Here is the case of "Deedee," who lives in Pittsburgh, and whose letter has this to say: "We've been married 14 years. I'm 36 and Walter 38. We have a boy of 12, and for the past 10 months my sister and her small girl of five have been with us. Junior adores his cousin Jo-Anne, and as I love children and housekeeping, and gardening it is nice for me to have a girl as well as a boy.

"The trouble is my sister, Nancy. She is eight years younger than I, not pretty, but with a great deal of charm. She and my husband have struck up a friendship that excludes me.

"Walter defended her in her divorce suit, which was an unpleasant one. He finally secured her a good alimony and the custody of Jo-Anne. Jo-Anne admires and loves her mother, and Nancy is nice enough with her, but more like a sister than a mother. I am like the mother of the whole crowd."

Friendship Causes Rearranches. "If Nancy were ever inclined to be indiscreet, it wouldn't be with

Texas Under 6 Flags

Texas has lived under six different flags—French, Spanish, Mexican, Texas Republic, Confederate and United States. First flag to fly over the area that is now Texas and parts of New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming was the French tricolor, from 1694 to 1763. In 1687 the Spanish began to gain control and from 1763 to 1821 it was under the Spanish flag. Mexico gained her independence from Spain in 1821 and from then until 1836 Texas was under the Mexican flag. Then Texas revolted and from 1836 to 1845 it was under the flag of the Texas Republic. The Texas Republic was admitted to the Union as a state in 1845. During the Civil War Texas flew the Confederate flag.—Pathfinder.

Rigby Voices Thanks

To the Editor of the SUN: I wish to thank the citizens who so loyally supported the entire Republican ticket at the general election. Their record vote of confidence reflects the appreciation of the electorate of the services rendered by the local office holders, as well as the county, State and National aspirants. My thanks to the party workers, who helped to maintain even better majorities than in the last presidential election, as compared to the returns in other municipalities. LEE S. RIGBY, Chairman, Republican County Committee.

WARREN ATTACKED FOR EDISON STAND

MOUNTAINSIDE—After George C. Warren of Summit, Republican State Committeeman from Union County, came out in personal support before election for Charles Edison, Democratic candidate for Governor, many leading Republican figures condemned the Hill City man for his action. Recorder Albert J. Benninger of Mountainside, who lost by several thousand votes last Spring in a primary campaign against Warren for State Committee, issued the following statement: "The 14,000 Republicans in this county who voted for me against George C. Warren for the position of State committeeman last May will not be greatly surprised at this fence-jumping act by the Summit man. And now, the 16,000 people who voted for him must wish they hadn't done so. His only decent course, now, is to resign from his committee job, and I hope, for the sake of himself as well as the party's welfare, that he has already done so."

William Felmeth

(Continued from Page 1) I don't know? Death was on every turn. The trained horses knew where to stop. Going up the mountain we took our time for safety's sake and coming down we had to speed to get aid. We told the doctor what had happened and he went to her rescue. Today, when I think of that race down the mountain, I get a nightmare. While a freshman at the seminary, Mr. Felmeth with another student, now the Rev. James L. E. Wall, made a survey of the Sunnyfield section of Linden to determine whether the residents would support a church. The two young men went from door to door. The response was so great that they made plans to build a church. Some people were so much in favor of it that they gave donations. The building was estimated to cost $7,000. Inside of a few weeks the new church will be ready to hold its first church service. While the new building was under construction, the two young men made sure that the residents in the Sunnyfield area received proper religious guidance. He and his classmates sought the local community house as a substitute church. The Linden town officials agreed to grant them the facilities of the community house. There are about 70 faithful members and there is every indication that as soon as the new church is complete, the membership will increase rapidly. Mr. Felmeth, under the direction of Dr. Liggett, hopes to arouse additional boys and girls of high school age to join the Senior Christian Endeavor Society. There are about 35 members. To assure interesting meetings, Mr. Felmeth has promised to engage professors from Princeton as guest speakers for the benefit of the young people.

Thanks to Citizens

To the Editor of the SUN: If it were possible I would like to thank each and everyone personally for the confidence shown by the citizens of Springfield in me by giving me their vote in the election, but being this letter is my only means I take it now to "Thank you most sincerely." It gave me great pleasure and satisfaction to know the voters were in my fight against the high tax rate. This issue is one that is affecting every property owner and deserves at all times, the greatest consideration of both the voters and their servants, the present committeemen. I sincerely trust that Springfield, which has a great future, will follow the example of our neighbor, the town of Union, which has reduced its taxes to the point where it has induced a great many home owners to settle and become contented citizens. I deeply regret that during the campaign, my personal business would not allow me to give the people of Springfield, more of my time and services. RICHARD MARTINCA.

Pleased With Vote

To the Editor of the SUN: I am very pleased with the vote given the Democratic ticket, in Springfield. I wish to thank everyone who so willingly donated their time and energy on and before Election Day, in behalf of the candidates. Special commendation is due Police Chief Romyon and his staff for the way they checked the registration lists—and prevented any confusion around the polls. New books for the pay shelf include MR. LITTLEJOHN by Martin Flavin. "If life isn't fun, what is life?" That is what Mr. Littlejohn wanted to know. He was 55 years old, almost bald and suffered from indigestion and high blood pressure. He inherited from his father Rosy-dent, Inc. but Mr. Littlejohn became tired of paying income tax, settling strikes, having his wife decorate his room every time he went away and having his advertising manager hound him to wear a toupee.

In a Drive-Or-Self Chevrolet, with a street walker, Mabel, as chauffeur, he started west across the continent. Disguised by a black mustache, he rode to California, while the police of forty-eight states searched for him. In the end he discovered among many things that if life isn't fun it is something less than nothing.

Thomas Wolfe's last novel, YOU CAN'T GO HOME AGAIN was completed two years before his death two years ago at the age of 37. He had worked hard for several years on his two new novels and in May, 1938, turned them over to his publishers. He left New York for a vacation in the West. Early in July he became ill with pneumonia of which he died in Baltimore in September.

The title of his book is taken from the last line of THE WEBB AND THE ROCK, the first of the posthumous novels published. It means that we must go forward in life, that there is no return to the things that were, however dear to us they may have been.

The central figure is that of George Webber, a gifted young man. He writes a book about his

AFTER THE FOOTBALL GAME

See Recipes Below.

If you are entertaining the crowd after the game, you'll find substantial refreshments in favor of the same crisp air that puts football players on their toes breeds keen appetites.

It's good social strategy to arrange everything buffet style and let the guests help themselves. You'll want a table that is festive yet casual. You may even want to set up card tables in the living room to make your guests comfortable after they have helped themselves from the buffet.

Natural colored linen, or rough homespun cloth will make a smart background for your serving table. Candles are often used very effectively, when serving buffet style, for they add both atmosphere and light.

If you double as hostess and chef cook, you'll enjoy the game twice as much if you plan a menu that can be prepared beforehand. Sandwich makings and a hot-steaming beverage are a wise choice. Then wind up the feast with ice cream and chocolate cake.

Frankfurter Sandwich.

Boil or steam large frankfurters—until tender and juicy. Slice thin on white or rye bread and serve with mustard sauce and hot potato salad. Garnish with pickle.

Hot Potato Salad.

(Serves 6)

- 6 medium-sized potatoes
- 4 slices bacon (minced)
- 1 medium-sized onion (sliced)
- 2 tablespoons bacon drippings
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Cook potatoes in jackets. Cool, skin, and slice. Pan broil minced bacon, then saute onion in bacon drippings until brown. Combine and heat water, vinegar, sugar, salt, and pepper. Add to mixture in frying pan, and mix with potatoes. Place in baking-dish and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) before serving.

Egg Meringue Surprise Sandwich.

(Serves 6)

- 6 slices bread
- 1/4 cup butter (melted)
- 1/4 pound Swiss cheese
- 6 eggs
- Salt and pepper
- 6 slices bacon

Trim slices of bread and brush one side with melted butter. Place buttered side down on a cookie sheet. Cut cheese into strips about 1/4 inch in thickness. Arrange them, side by side, or fence-like on the bread. Separate eggs and drop one egg yolk in the center of each slice of bread. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Whip egg whites until stiff and dry, and pile on top, completely covering the egg and cheese. Cut the slices of bread into halves and place two halves on each sandwich right across the egg white. Place in moderate oven (350 degrees) and bake for 10 to 15 minutes, or until the egg white is brown and the bacon is crisp.

Silver Cake.

(Makes 1 loaf cake)

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 2 1/2 cups cake flour (sifted)
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 4 egg whites (stiffly beaten)

Cream butter, add sugar and beat well. Sift the flour, baking powder, and salt together, and add to sugar and butter mixture. Mix well, and place in refrigerator. When desired for use, remove mixture from refrigerator. Break up lumps with fork. Add milk and vanilla, and beat until mixture is smooth and creamy. Then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased loaf cake tin, and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for about 50 minutes.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

Washington, D. C. LABOR AND MR. LEWIS

The attacks on John Lewis from some elements of labor, because he endorsed Mr. Willie Lee in the campaign now closed, have no sweet taste.

Mr. Roosevelt's claquers maintained that he is the only friend of labor. John Lewis said not so, and to them, that makes him an "enemy of labor."

A worker who could swallow that must have been so far gone in emotion that he could be persuaded that black is white. The New Deal has depended upon Mr. Lewis more than on any other single laborite—until now.

Then Fiorella LaGuardia ranked him with the forces of evil.

Maybe as politics, that is understandable, but the back stabbing by leading lights of the workers can't be excused—especially in the C.I.O.

Never before John Lewis has there any full and effective labor organization and collective bargaining in our greatest industries—steel, automobiles, rubber, oil, electrical, lumber and shipping. Never, except for John Lewis, would they ever have come.

Other labor leaders so opposed it that John could only do it by secession and the creation of the C.I.O. He believed in protection and organization for all of labor, the lowliest as well as the aristocracy of labor. They didn't. He parted company. The result was an addition to the ranks of organized labor of 4,000,000 workers and a tremendous improvement in wages and working conditions for all workers.

Exactly that was what I was trying to do in N.R.A. There is not a single advance in the condition of organized labor that didn't have its birth in the nest of the Blue Eagle—the acceptance by industry of the rights of labor to organize and bargain collectively free from the influence of a labor leader—the creation of a Labor Relations board for the settlement of disputes.

Mr. Roosevelt says that the men who opposed that oppose him now. Well, John Lewis and this writer oppose him now, and we helped do that when to do it was such pioneering and battle against both reactionary employers and reactionary labor leaders that—sometimes I felt I hadn't a friend on earth.

I had at least two. One was John Lewis. The other was William Green. It is sad to me to see these two men split today. In those days I never asked either for a sacrifice of his position for the common aim that was not made. I never asked either for help that was not given. Neither ever gave me a promise that wasn't kept.

I can't say that those early efforts for labor had equal help from people who support Mr. Roosevelt now. His secretary of labor sniped at it constantly. Mr. Wallace's organization poisoned the farmers against it—said agriculture should get theirs before labor, and that higher wages under NRA raised the price of overalls and cotton gloves. Mr. Roosevelt himself countenanced a disloyalty in the organization itself which led to its downfall.

But here, as elsewhere throughout his whole life, John Lewis fought night and day with all he had to give for the common man in the ranks of labor—tough to victories that advanced that cause more in a few years than in all the years of the labor movement since its beginning. He never led labor astray in his life.

EMPLOYMENT CENSUS

The United States employment service of the social security board is taking a census of skilled workers to provide information on the availability of laborers for defense industries.

The board announced that the enumeration and location of the workers is being carried on through 13 especially established regional offices—in Washington, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, Birmingham, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Austin, Texas, San Francisco, Seattle and Denver.

For the last few months the bureau has been obtaining from the state employment services comprehensive and detailed labor market reports, showing the number and type of workers who are registered with state employment services as available for employment in defense industries.

Other information, being obtained by direct canvass of about 20,000 employers in defense industries.

This material indicates the type and number of workers needed and the period of time for which they are expected to be employed. In addition, the United States employment service expects to have advance information on potential labor shortages in any area or occupation through reports on the kind of jobs which state agencies have had difficulty in filling locally.

The national labor clearance machinery is designed to minimize unneeded and unnecessary movement of workers from one area to another following rumors of jobs.

Winter Fashions Turn Spotlight On Handsome Jewelry Accents

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WEAR dramatic jewelry in a dramatic way and your costume will soar to dizzy heights of chic and charm this winter.

The technique for the costume ideal as prescribed by current fashion demands that "clothes" be styled with utmost simplicity of elegant choice fabric to serve as a perfect setting for jewelry that is superbly adorned. After you follow this formula of dress-to-a-nicety you can complete the ensemble with a devastating charm.

In selecting your jewelry collection—keep uppermost in mind that fashion emphasizes this winter is on handsome important individualistic pieces, rather than flashy glittery baubles. The smartest of the smart are finding definite appeal in the idea of a gorgeous clip or brooch strategically placed below the shoulder, preferably on one side, to "show off" on the bodice.

To this they may add intriguing earrings, which above to the right, the ensemble consists of two flower pins, uniquely positioned one below the other on the bodice together with bracelet and ring of unusual workmanship which are well accented against the black of the simple dress.

Soft tweeds, as noted below to the left in the group, make a stunning background for jewels. Here a gold clip with sprays of rubies accents a heather and ruby tweed dress. The bracelet of flexible gold links and gold balls encircled by square-cut rubies is matched by the earrings.

Few bridges or informal dinners a black chiffon dress as shown below to the right achieves a sophisticated and perfect background for diamond and platinum jewelry. Earrings? Of course! For earrings are a fashion "must." They are tiny hoops together with flexible platinum bracelet with diamond buckle and infinite style prestige. The only note of color is a resplendent cocktail ring of diamonds and rubies.

New Shape Handbag

Handbag designers continue to present new ideas. Here is the long bag, low and wide at the base. It interprets a very new silhouette. Inside is a smart detail in the jewelry-like wire zipper which protects the safety pocket. A bag with this "new" look like this will impart an intimate chic to your winter costume.

Braiding, Quilted Designs Popular

Winter fashions display extreme enrichment in decorative detail worked out in lavish braiding, colorful embroidery and very interesting quilted designs.

Many dressmaker suits have jackets that are allover braided in southeaste. Braided sleeves and pockets add charm to many of this season's sheer wool dresses.

Evening sweaters and the new long-torso jackets are all aglitter with all-over sequin embroidery. Very new and chic too are draped turbans of fabric that has been colorfully embroidered.

Late Fall Scarfs Are Voluminous

Voluminous evening scarfs made of tulle or chiffon in vivid color are very charming. There is one the full width of the tissue-thin fabric and more than two yards long. Their effectiveness, thrown over bare shoulders when the dress is black or rich dark tones, and extremely decorative is very lovely. It is a grand way to give your black velvet evening dress a dramatic touch and to add the dash of color that fatters.

Tricolor costumes for evening and daytime continue to have the approval of such famous designers as Malinbocher.

Spotlight ON GRANTLAND RICE

OUT from the tumult and the turmoil of the football season the time seems to be about ripe to turn to the even greater tumult and turmoil of another game—golf. Here is the capital of tumult and turmoil.

During the recent World series, including football tours, we traveled rather extensively with a pair of young men by the names of Billy Burke and Horton Smith. While others were full of oratory concerning Newsom, Derringer, Walters and blocking backs, Messrs. Burke, Smith and your correspondent interjected our share of golf, from both the inside and outside angles.

The Sway in Golf

Billy Burke was talking about the sway in golf.

"This is one of the misunderstood terms in golf," the former champion and one of the best instructors said. "I sway. Most of us sway. You have to sway a little. But my first sway is really a lateral hip shift. I sway from my left hip to my right, before I start to turn. But the upper part of my body doesn't sway. My head doesn't sway—or even move."

"The trouble with too many golfers," Burke continued, "is that they sway the wrong way. They sway with the upper part of the body. They let their heads drift with the swing. When this happens the backswing is all gone, and so is the downswing. There is neither power nor control left. When the upper part of the body—above the waist, including the head—starts to sway or shift, the swing is then completely wrecked. For all balance is destroyed."

Complete Agreement

"Billy is just 100 per cent correct," Horton Smith cut in. "For the good golfer I wouldn't exactly call it a sway. But there is a swaying hip motion from the left to the right, before you turn. But only the hips are involved in this first motion. The second motion, the shoulders and head sway with this motion you are all through. You might call it a left to right bend in the middle of the body, but not in the top of the body."

"Certainly the head must be fixed in one spot—the anchor to the swing. But don't let that head move an inch until the ball is on its way."

"What follows after the hip sway or shift?" I asked Horton Smith.

"That starts the backswing," he said. "Then the next move is a natural body turn. It is really quite simple. After the first lateral hip motion, where the major part of the weight is now on the right foot and leg, the next move is to let the left side turn. Just as if you were throwing a ball. The left knee, the left hip, the left shoulder all come around together. In this way at the top of the backswing you have a feeling both of control and power.

"You are now in a position to use your hands—and wrists, in place of trying to call on your shoulders and your body for most of the punch."

"What do you few golfers understand," Horton Smith continued, "is that bad feet and bad body action can lock the hands and wrists."

"Of course, the feet and body belong to the swing. But they must be used so the hands and wrists are free to swing the clubhead. Don't let them get in the way. Don't let them lock the swing.

"In the average swing you see so many golfers first dig their feet into the ground, then lock both legs, then sway the upper part of the body. They can't move anything else. But if they first take the lateral hip shift or sway—left to right—keep the head in place and then take a natural body turn, they will be all set to get much better results."

Along the northern belt the trill of the outdoor campaign will soon be leading to the indoor schools or to the sun. But there is still time enough left to try out one of the soundest ideas in the game—which includes largely a head that always keeps its place.

I asked Billy Burke about the correct use of the two hands.

"We all have to touch and advocate the use of the left hand more," he said.

"Why let you why. Golf is really a two-handed game. But with the average golfer it is only a one-handed game—I mean the right hand. Here you have the stronger hand hitting forward. It is a natural action. But if the left hand quits in golf there is neither control nor power left.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western-News Service Union)

MARTHA SCOTT, playing the role of a school teacher in "Cheers for Miss Bishop," amazed Director Tay Garnett by her understanding of the role. Miss Scott didn't think it surprising at all—she used to be a school teacher, you see.

She hails from Jamesport, Mo. The family moved to Kansas City, where one of her high school teachers, Miss Ida Lilly, was so convinced that Martha had exceptional ability that she lent her the money to go through the University of Michigan. Martha took to college theatricals like a duck to water.

She taught for six months after graduation, then went back to the university to become head of the property department in the college reformatory company. The company's head, Thomas Wood Stevens, took an interest in her, and when he became head of the Bonstelle theater in Detroit she went along.

"If I am a qualified actress today, the credit must be given to Mr. Stevens," she says.

Afterward she went to New York, where she played in dramatized ghost stories opposite Orson Welles. More stock—the engagement for the stage play, "Our Town"—then to Hollywood for the screen version of the play. After that came "The Howards of Virginia."

Do you like stampedes? Then don't miss "Arizona" if you want to see the largest and most realistic cattle stampede ever attempted in motion pictures. The 700 white-faced Hereford cattle were purchased for it and rehearsed for it.

"I've watched thousands after thousands try to hit a golf ball in this way, but it can't be done. It isn't even possible, even if a Hagen or a Jones tried it."

Remember Ingrid Berman, who won so many hearts when she made her one appearance on the American screen? You'll see her again in "Legacy," planned as one of Columbia's most important pictures of the year. It's being produced by Robert Sherwood.

Metro has a new series under way for you; it's called "Frank Company," with Frank Morgan and Irene Rich in the father and mother roles, and John Shelton and Ann Rutherford as the young couple who keep company. The cast includes Virginia Weidler and Gloria DeHaven.

Carol Bruce used to sell music sheets in the 5 and 10 "Now do you—on the air—in the Bonstelle show, and in the Broadway musicals, "Louisiana Purchase," and sings every night after the theater at the Waldorf Serf room. As if that weren't enough to keep her busy, she's studying dramatic art.

"Back in the old days, I couldn't afford dramatic lessons, so I studied by myself," she remarked the other day. "I stood in front of a mirror and made faces to go with the dialogue." She's getting ready to go to Hollywood after Christmas, to make a picture on the Universal lot.

Horace Heidt fully recognizes the necessity for encouraging talent within his band—you know that if you listen to his "Pot o' Gold" program. He eagerly introduces the songs composed by Frankie Carle, the pianist, and he's delighted that the recordings made by Fred Lowery, the band's blind whistler, are so successful; the record of "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" has passed the 20,000 sale mark.

ODDS AND ENDS—Rosemary Lane is breaking away from the team she's been part of with her sisters, and will freelance; she wants to have more time for radio. But you'll see her with the others in "Foir Mothers."

Lana Turner, Judy Garland and Hedy Lamarr have starring roles in "The Zig-zag Girl"; "Gone With the Wind" will be available for general release at approximately half its road show prices early in January.

Melvin Douglas has signed a new long-term contract with Metro; he's just finished "Third Finger, Left Hand" with Myrna Loy and Jack Oakie has signed to make three pictures in a year with Fox.

THE DICTATOR AT HOME

Dictator (returning home after a lustrous day)—Hall!

Wife—Hall my eye! Remember you're not at the chancellery now. Dictator—Do you realize to whom you are speaking?

Wife—I'm the only person who does!

Dictator (still unable to shake off the dictator mood)—My smoking jacket, please!

Wife—You know where it is, don't you?

Dictator—Get it for me at once, Ella.

Wife—Get it yourself. You're no cripple.

Dictator—I warn you, you are exhausting my patience.

Wife—Aw, cut out that line, Toots!

Dictator (winning)—Toots!

Wife—You never used to object to me calling you that.

Dictator—That was away back before I—before, I er—

Wife—Before you got all those uniforms, emblems and ideas for salutes. You were a nice boy in those days. Little did I ever dream you'd turn out like this.

Dictator—There you go belittling me again!

Wife—I'm not belittling you.

Dictator—Yes you are. (He lights a cigar.)

Wife (sternly)—Put out that nickel stogie! You know better than to smoke in the living room.

Dictator—I'll smoke where I wish. This is my house.

Wife—Listen, you either put that rotten candle out or you go out on the back porch and smoke it. And no back talk!

Dictator (who knows when he is licked)—Oh, all right, but I want it understood that my action is not to be misinterpreted as a sign of weakness. I am not establishing a precedent. I know my rights and—

Wife—Aw, Joe, pipe down! You sound so silly.

Dictator—I resent your studied attempts to undermine my self-confidence. It's not very nice of you.

Wife—You've got me wrong, Joe. All I want you to understand is that you can't get away with all that boast of the universe stuff with me. I know you when.

Dictator—You ought to be proud of me.

Wife—Why?

Dictator—Look, what I've done! Look where I've risen! And all on my own ability.

Wife—Gee, but you've got a swelled head. Don't I get any credit? Who designed that emblem? I did. Who thought up that color scheme for the shirts? Me. Who sat up with you night after night studying history and trying to point out Napoleon's mistakes?

Dictator—Have we got to go over all that again? You helped me, I admit. But I had to have brains.

Wife—Baloney. All you had to have was a radio and your nerve.

Dictator—Let's not argue. Is my steak ready?

Wife—What makes you think you're getting steak?

Dictator—I told you I wanted steak tonight.

Wife—So what? You're getting cold roast beef.

Dictator—I will not have my orders ignored with impunity. I will not be treated so contemptuously. I will not permit my authority to be disrespected.

Wife—If you knew how funny you looked talking that way, you'd cut it out.

Dictator—Don't call me Toots. Do you know what millions of people are calling me? They are calling me their hero, their idol, their peerless leader!

Wife—Yeah. And do you remember what the boys used to call you back in your boyhood days?

Dictator—What?

Wife—Peewee!

Dictator—This is too much. I'll go down to the palace where the boys respect me for what I am.

Wife—Okay, as long as you don't bring 'em up here.

'Eight types of Near Beer Being Tried in Germany.'—Headline. So that is victory!

Johnson, Farley and Glass in unusual campaign rolls... Preparations for "Hemisphere defense" under way.

WASHINGTON.—One of the curious angles of the recent presidential campaign was the desperate effort of both parties to get certain men to come out in the open and speak, and of getting other men to keep quiet.

Of course, in each instance one party tried to get the man to speak, and the other party tried to persuade him to keep quiet.

The latest development was the decision of Hiram W. Johnson to make a radio speech against the third term. It may be recalled that in 1932 the California senator actually advocated the election of Roosevelt. Johnson's caustic disapproval of Herbert Hoover had a good deal to do with that.

In 1936 Johnson said nothing, either for or against. He had soured quite a bit on Roosevelt after his first blush of enthusiasm. But he was not particularly keen about Alf M. Landon. So he just kept quiet.

DISREGARDS PARTIES

Johnson has been almost as unimpressed by the notion of party regularity as the late William E. Borah, probably due to his battles with the old Republican machine in the days of W. H. Crocker in California. In 1912, showing his disregard of party regularity, he was the nominee for vice president of the Progressive ticket with Theodore Roosevelt, at which time, by the way, Franklin Roosevelt voted for him.

In 1916, Johnson became an abomination to all regular Republicans because so many of them blamed him for the defeat of Charles E. Hughes for the presidency. This had lots of interesting repercussions. There is scarcely a doubt that if Johnson had made a few speeches for Hughes in 1916 he would have been nominated at some later time for the presidency by the Republican party.

In 1920, it was bitter recollection of what had happened in 1916 that kept Johnson from having a chance for the nomination, though he had made a much better showing than any other Republican in the presidential primaries. It was at that same convention, by the way, that he twice refused a chance which would have made him president by succession. He declined to run for vice president with Philander C. Knox, and then again with Warren G. Harding. Both men died well within the four years.

GLASS CAUSED ANXIETY

But Johnson was only one of many men who have been subject to much pulling and hauling to get them on the stump or to keep them quiet this year. Outstanding in the group was James A. Farley, the man who organized the campaign which nominated Roosevelt in 1932, and who ran the successful Roosevelt campaigns of 1932 and 1936. Farley was violently against the third term. But he is tremendously regular.

Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia was another whose silence caused a great deal of anxiety. Right after the Chicago convention, where the great Virginian opposed the third term in placing Farley in nomination, Senator Glass announced that he would vote for Roosevelt. But he explained that he felt an obligation to vote for the nominee because he had been a delegate to the convention which nominated him.

PREPARE FOR DEFENSE

With an eye to an impressive hemisphere defense, Washington officials are seeking to establish a network of New world army, navy and air force bases strengthened by diplomatic and military agreements.

Such a co-ordinated system of air, sea and land defenses is being discussed by diplomats representing nations on both continents. The United States is seeking to convince its neighbors that any agreement would be entirely voluntary. Use of the bases would not affect original sovereignty, and the whole affair would be co-operative, rather than one-sided.

In line with this plan, the United States invited Latin-American collaboration in the use of the eight Atlantic bases offered this country by Great Britain.

According to present plans, the United States would provide the money and, in the beginning, the land, sea and air equipment.

Diplomats deny that any specific bases have been mentioned in the discussions or that negotiations have reached any definite stage. But then, diplomats are generally reticent to discuss the progress of negotiations until agreements have been concluded.

Regional-Union Game Tied, 7-7

Visitors Surprised When Bulldogs Score Early In Slight Upset

In union there is strength but it was through a determination of the Regional High School eleven that proved to almost upset the Maroon and White of Union High Tuesday at the local field before 2,000 fans when Coach Bill Brown's team ended the contest in a 7-7 deadlock.

Slightly favored to win, the visitors were held in check for three quarters of the game until the closing period, when with Regional leading, 7-0, Harry Lake's shining star, Frank Hodum, threw a 30-yard pass to Captain Harry Murnane, who was stopped by a shoe string tackle by safety man Babe Pushman on Regional's 1-yard line. From there, Bucky Walker drove through for the tying touchdown and the crucial extra point resulted from a placement by Jake Swanson.

The "Bulldogs" scored in the second period, as Babe Pushman passed from his 20-yard stripe into the arms of Art DeBattista, standing on the Union end zone, with two backs vainly attempting to bat it down. Alex Naggy's conversion by placement sent the home stands into pandemonium, for the underdog Regional squad was hardly expected to score first against Union.

For the remaining minutes of the second quarter and going into the third period, Regional kept the visitors from dangerous ground, principally through the fine blocking of veteran Charley Adams, whose punts were averaging about 45 yards.

Traveling to Lakewood

The local eleven will travel to Lakewood tomorrow afternoon on the longest trip ever attempted by a Regional squad, in any sport. The Central Jersey team has shown signs of power, having trimmed Freshford Friday night by 31-0 and running up high scores against neighboring shore teams. It will be the first meeting between the two schools.

Union's Bill Parrington. At Dahl of Regional missed second place by one step when Captain Art Dilly of Union uncorked a sprint in the last ten yards to slip by Dahl. Other Regional runners placed: Fourth, Allen Hambacher; seventh, George Reiss; ninth, Bob Gordon, and tenth, Merritt Huntington.
